26 For the Lorde sawe howe that the affliction of Israel was exceeding bytter, insomuch that the prisoned and the forsaken were at an ende, and there was none to helpe Israel.

1 Ahaz king of Juda consecrateth his sonne in fire. 5 Hierusalem is besieged. 9 Damascon is taken, and Rezin slaine. 11 Idolatrie. 19 The death of Ahaz. 20 Hezechia succeedeth him.

A 1 In the seuenteenth yere of Pecah the sonne of Remaliahu [king of Israel] (a) Ahaz the sonne of Jotham king of Juda began to raigne.
2 Twentie yeres olde was he when he was made king, and raigned sixteene yeres in Hierusalem, & did not that which was right in the eies of the Lorde his God, lyke Dauid his father:
3 But walked in the way of the kinges of Israel, yea and made * his sonnes to go through the fire after the abhominations of the heathen whom the Lorde cast out before the children of Israel.
4 And he offred and burnt incense in the high places, and on the hilles, and vnder euery thicke tree.
5 * Then Rezin king of Syria, and Pecah sonne of Remaliahu king of Israel, came vp to Hierusalem to fight: And they fought against Ahaz, but could not ouercome him.
6 At the same tyme Rezin king of Syria brought Elath againe to Syria, and ryd the Jewes thence: And the Syrians* came to Elath, and dwelt therein vnto this day.
B 7 So Ahaz sent messengers to Thiglath Peleser king of Assyria, saying: I am thy seruaunt and thy sonne, come vp and deliuer me out of the hande of the king of Syria, and out of the hande of the king of Israel, which rise vp against me.
8 (b) And Ahaz toke the siluer and golde that was founde in the house of the Lord, and in the treasures of the kinges house, and sent a rewarde to the king of Assyria.
9 * And the king of Assyria consented vnto him: For the king of Assyria went vp against Damascō, and when he had taken it, he carryed the people away to Kir, and slue Rezin.
10 And king Ahaz went to Damascon, to meete Thiglath Peleser king of Assyria: And when king Ahaz sawe an aulter that was at Damascon, he sent to Uria the priest, the paterne of the aulter and the fashion of it, and all the workemanship thereof.
11 And Uria the priest made an aulter, in (c) all poyntes lyke to the paterne which king Ahaz had sent from Damascon, euen so did Uria ỹ priest make it against king Ahaz came from Damascon.
12 And so when the king was come from Damascon, he sawe the aulter: and the king went to it, and offred thereon:
13 And he burnt his burnt offring, and his meate offring, & powred his drincke offring, and sprinckled the blood of his peace offringes beside the aulter,
14 And by the brasen aulter which was before the Lorde, and set it without the temple betweene the aulter and the temple of the Lorde, and put it on the northsyde of the aulter.
15 And king Ahaz commaunded Uria the priest, & saide: Upon the great aulter, set on fire in the morning the burnt offring, and in the euen the meate offering, and the kinges burnt sacrifice, and his meate offring, with the burnt offering of all the people of the lande, and their meate offring, and their drinke offringes, and powre thereby al the blood of the burnt offring, and all the blood of the sacrifice: and the brasen aulter wyll I come, and see.
16 And Uria the priest did according to al thinges as king Ahaz commaunded him.

(c) There is no prince so wicked, but he shall finde flatterers and false ministers to serue his turne.

iii. Re. vii. d.

17 * And king Ahaz brake the sydes of the botomes, and toke the lauer from of them, & toke downe the lauatorie from of the brasen oxen that were vnder it, and put it vpon a pauement of stones.

18 And the vayle for the Sabbath that they had made in the house, and the kinges entrie without, turned he to the house of the Lorde, for feare of the king of Assyria.

19 The rest of the wordes that concerne Ahaz what he did, are they not written in the booke of the cronicles of the kinges of Juda?

20 And Ahaz slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the citie of Dauid, & Hezekia his sonne raigned in his steade.

¶ The .xvii. Chapter.

5 Hosea king of Israel is taken. 4 And he and al his realme brought to the Assyrians 18 for their idolatrie. 24 Lions destroy the Assyrians that dwelt in Samaria. 29 Euery one worshipped the god of his nation, 35 contrary to the commaundement of God.

1 IN the twelfth yere of Ahaz king of Juda, began Hosea the sonne of Elah to raigne in Samaria vpon Israel nine yeres:

2 And did that which was euill in the sight of the Lorde, but not as the kinges of Israel that were before him.

3 And Salmanasar king of Assyria came vp against him, and Hosea became his seruaunt, and gaue him * presentes.

* Or, tribute.

4 And the king of Assyria founde treason in Hosea: for he had sent messengers to So king of Egypt, and brought no present vnto the king of Assyria from yere to yere: and therefore the king of Assyria shut him vp, and bounde him in the prison house.

5 * And then the king of Assyria came vp throughout all the lande, and gat vp against Samaria, and besieged it three yeres. iii. Regum. c.

6 In the ninth yere of Hosea, the * king of Assyria toke Samaria, and carryed Israel away vnto Assyria, & put them in Hala & in Habor by the ryuer of Gosa and in the cities of the (a) Medes. iii. Esd. 5. c.

(a) At that time the Medes & Persians were subiect to the Assyrians.

7 For it came to passe, that the children of Israel sinned against the Lord their God which had brought them out of the land of Egypt, from vnder the hand of Pharao king of Egypt, and feared other gods. 25

8 And they walked in the ceremonies of the heathen whom the Lorde cast out before the children of Israel, and [in the ceremonies]

(ceremonies) Which the kinges of Israel had made:

9 And the children of Israel went about to hide those thinges that were not wel from the Lorde their God: And they buylt them hygh places in all their cities, both in the townes where they kept watch, and also in the strong townes:

10 And they made thē images & groues in euery hye hill, & vnder euery thicke tree.

11 And there they burnt incense in all the hygh places, as did the heathen whom the Lord caryed away before them, and wrought wicked thinges to anger the Lorde withall:

12 For they serued most vile idols, whereof the Lorde had sayd vnto them: *Ye shall do no such thing.

13 And the Lorde testified in Israel and in Juda by all the prophetes and by all the seers, saying: *Turne from your wicked wayes, and kepe my commaundementes and my statutes, according to all the law which I commaunded your fathers, and which I sent to you by my seruauntes the prophetes.

14 Notwithstanding they woulde not heare, * but rather hardened their neckes, lyke to the stubburnesse of their (b) fathers, that dyd not beleue in the Lorde their God.

15 For they refused his statutes, and his appoyntment that he made with their fathers, and the witnesses wherwith he witnessed vnto them, and they followed vanitie, and became vayne, and went after the heathen that were round about them, concerning whom the Lorde had charged them that they shoulde not do lyke them.

16 But they left al the commaundemētes of the Lord their God, and made them images of metal, * euen two calues, and [made] idol groues, & worshipped all the (c) hoast of heauen, and serued Baal.

17 *And they sacrificed their sonnes and their daughters in fire, and vsed witchcraftes, & enchauntmentes, euen selling themselues to worke wickednesse in the sight of the Lorde, and to anger him.

18 And the Lorde was exceeding wroth with Israel, & put them out of his sight, *that there was left but the tribe of Juda onely.

19 Neuertheles, Juda also kept not the commaundementes of the Lorde their God, but walked in the ceremonies of Israel whiche they made.

20 And the Lord cast of all the seede of Israel, and vexed them, & deliuered them into the handes of spoylers, vntil he had cast them out of his sight.

21 For (d) he cut of Israel from the house of Dauid, and made them a king, euen Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat: And Jeroboam drewe Israel away that they shoulde not folowe the Lorde, and made them sinne a great sinne.

(d) That is, the ten tribes.

22 For the children of Israel walked in all the sinnes of Jeroboam whiche he dyd, and departed not therfrom, 23 Untill the Lord put Israel away out of his sight, as he had sayd by all his seruauntes the prophetes: And so was Israel caried away out of their owne land to Assyria euen vnto this day.

24 And the king of Assyria brought men from Babylon, from (e) Cutha, frō Aua, from Hamath, and from Sepharuaim, and put them in the cities of Samaria in steede of the children of Israel: and they possessed Samaria, and dwelt in the cities therof.

(e) Of these people came the Samaritanes, of whom mencion is made in the gospel.

25 And it fortuned, that at the beginning of their dwelling there, they feared not the Lorde, and the Lorde sent lions among them, which slue them.

26 Wherfore they spake to the king of Assyria, saying: The nations which thou hast translated & put in the cities of Samaria knowe not the lawe of the God of the lande: therefore he hath sent lions vpon them, and behold they slay them, because they knowe not the maner of worshipping the God of the lande.

27 Then the king of Assyria commaunded, saying: Cary thyther one of the priestes whom ye brought thence, and let hym go and dwell there, and teache them the fashion how to serue the God of the countrey.

28 And then one of the priestes whom they had caried from Samaria, came and dwelt in Bethel, and taught them howe they shoulde feare the Lorde.

29 Howbeit euery nation made them gods of their owne, and put them in the houses of the hygh places whiche the Samaritans had made, euery nation in their cities wherin they dwelt.

30 The men of Babylon made Socoth Benoth, & the men of Cuth made Nergal, & the men of Hamath made Asima, 31 The Auites made Nibbaz and Tharthak: And the Sepharuites burnt their children in fire for Adramelech and Anamelech, the gods of Sepharuaim.

32 And so they feared the Lorde, & made them priestes of the basist of them, which sacrifised for them in the houses of the hygh places.
(f) We can not worship God and idols
33 And so(f) they feared the Lord, and serued their owne gods, after the maner of the people whom they caryed thence.
34 And vnto this day they do after the olde maner: and neither feare God, neither do after their ordinaunces and customes, and after the lawe & commaundement which the Lorde commaunded the children of Jacob, *whom he called Israel.
Gen 32 e.
Iud. vi. b. Iere. x. a.
35 And the Lorde made an appoyntment with them, and charged them, saying: *Feare none other gods, nor bowe your selues to them, nor serue them, nor sacrifice to them:
36 But feare the Lorde whiche brought you out of the land of Egypt with great power & a stretched out arme, him feare, and to him bow, and to him do sacrifice.
37 The statutes, ordinaunces, lawe and commaundement whiche he wrote for you, see that ye be diligent to do for euermore, and feare not any other gods.
38 And the appoyntment that I haue made with you see ye forget not, and feare none other gods:
39 But the Lord your God ye shal feare, & he shall deliuer you out of the handes of all your enemies.
40 Howbeit, they dyd not hearken, but did after their olde custome.
41 And so these nations feared the Lord, and serued their images also, like as did their children and their childrens children: Euen as dyd their fathers, so do they vnto this day.

The. xviii. Chapter.

4 Hezekia king of Juda putteth downe the brasen serpent; and destroyeth the idols. 7 and prospereth. 11 Israel is caried away captiue. 30 The blasphemie of Sennacherib.

A 1 IN the thirde yere of Hosea sonne of Ela king of Israel, it came to passe that Hezekia ỳ sonne of Ahaz king of Juda did raigne.
2.Pa.xxix.f 2 *Twentie and fyue yeres olde was he when he began to raigne, and raigned twentie and nine yeres in Hierusalem: his mothers name also was Abi, ỳ daughter of Zacharia.
3 And he dyd that whiche is right in the sight of the Lord, according to al as did Dauid his father.
(a) It perteyneth to a good prince to purge the churche of God. Num. xxi. c.
4 He(a) put away the high places, & brake the images, and cut downe the groues, and all to brake the *brasen serpent that Moyses had made: For vnto those dayes the children of Israel dyd burne sacrifice to it: and he called it Nehustan.
5 He trusted in the Lorde God of Israel, so that after him was none lyke him among all the kinges of Juda, neither were there any such before him.
6 For he claue to the Lorde, and departed not from him: but kept his commaundementes, which the Lorde commaunded Moyses.
B 7 And the Lorde was with him, so that he prospered in all thinges whiche he toke in hande: And he rebelled against the king of Assyria, and serued him not.
8 He smote the Philistines euen vnto Azza & the coastes therof, both castels where they kept watches, and strong cities.
9 *And in the fourth yere of king Hezekia, (whiche was the seuenth yere of Hosea sonne of Ela king of Israel) it fortuned that Salmanazar king of Assyria came vp against Samaria, and besieged it.
10 And after three yeres they toke it: euen in the sixth yere of Hezekia (that is to say the nynth yere of Hosea king of Israel) Samaria was wonne.
11 And the king of Assyria dyd cary away Israel vnto Assyria, & put them in Halah and in Habor by the riuer of Gozan, and in the cities of the Medes:
12 Because they would not hearken vnto the voyce of the Lord their God, but transgressed his appoyntment, and all that Moyses the seruaunt of the Lorde commaunded: and would neither heare them, nor do them.
2.Para xxx. Esa xxxvi. a. Eccle. xlviii. d
13 *Therfore in the fourteenth yere of king Hezekia, did Sennacherib king of Assyria come vp against all the strong cities of Juda, and toke them.
14 And Hezekia king of Juda sent to the king of Assyria to Lachis, saying: I haue offended: depart from me, and all C that that thou puttest on me, that will I beare. And the king of Assyria appoynted vnto Hezekia king of Juda three hundred talentes of siluer, and thirtie talentes of golde.

15 *And Hezekia gaue him all the siluer that was founde in the house of the Lorde, & in the treasures of the kinges house.

16 At the same season dyd Hezekia rent of the doores of the temple of the Lorde and the pillers (whiche the sayde Hezekia king of Juda had couered ouer) and gaue them to the king of Assyria.

17 And the king of Assyria sent (b) Tharthan, and Rabsaris, & Rabsakeh from Lachis, to king Hezekia with a great hoast against Hierusalem: And they went vp, and came to Hierusalem, and gat them vp and stoode by the conduite of the vpper poole, whiche is in the way of the fullers fielde.

18 And when they had called to the king, there came out to them * Eliakim the sonne of Elkia, which was stewarde of the houshold, and Sobna the scribe, and Joah the sonne of Asaph, the recorder.

19 And Rabsakeh sayd vnto them: Tell ye Hezekia I pray you, thus sayth the great king, euen the king of Assyria: What confidence is this that thou hast?

20 Thou thinkest surely I haue eloquẽce, but counsell and strength are for the warre: On whom then doest thou trust, that thou rebellest against me?

21 *Doest thou trust to the staffe of this broken reede Egypt, on which if a man leane, it will go into his hande, & pearse it: Euen so is Pharao king of Egypt vnto all that trust on hym.

22 *If ye say vnto me, we trust in the Lorde our God: Is not that he whose hygh places and whose aulters Hezekia hath (c) put downe: and hath sayd to Juda and Hierusalem, ye shall worship before this aulter here in Hierusalem.

23 Nowe therfore I pray thee geue hostages to my lorde the king of Assyria, and I will deliuer thee two thousande horses, if thou be able to set ryders vpon them:

24 Why thinkest thou scorne at the presence of one of the least Dukes of my maisters seruauntes, and trustest to Egypt for charets and horsmen?

25 Moreouer, am I come nowe without the bidding of the Lorde to this place, to destroy it? The Lord said to me: Go vp to this lande, and destroy it.

26 And Eliakim the sonne of Helkia, and Sobna, & Joah, sayde vnto Rabsakeh: Speake I pray thee to thy seruauntes in the Syrians language (for we vnderstande it) and talke not with vs in the Jewes tongue in the eares of this people that are on the wall.

27 And Rabsakeh sayde vnto them: Hath my maister sent me to thy maister and thee, to speake these wordes? Hath he not sent me because of the men which sit on the wall, that they may eate their owne dongue, & drinke their owne pisse with you?

28 And so Rabsakeh stoode, & cryed with a lowde voyce in the Jewes language, and spake, saying: Heare the wordes of the great king, euen of the king of Assyria. E

29 Thus sayth the king: Let not Hezekia beguile you, for he shal not be able to deliuer you out of myne hande:

30 Neither let Hezekia make you to trust in the Lorde, saying, The Lorde shall surely deliuer vs, & this citie shall not be geuen ouer into the hande of the king of Assyria.

31 Hearken not vnto Hezekia: For thus sayth the king of Assyria, Deale kindely with me, and come out to me, and then eate euery man of his owne vine, and of his owne figge tree, and drincke euery man of the water of his owne well, 32 Till I come, and fet you to as good a lande as yours is, a lande of corne and wine, a lande of bread and vineyardes, a lande of oyle, of olyue trees, and of hony, that ye may liue, and not dye: And hearken not vnto Hezekia, for he beguileth you, saying: The Lorde shall deliuer vs.

33 *hath euery one of the gods of the nations deliuered his land out of the hand of the king of Assyria? Esa.xxx.d.

34 Where is the god of Hamath, & of Arphad? and where is the god of Sepharuaim, Hena, and Jua? Dyd they deliuer Samaria out of myne hande?

35 And what god is among al the gods of the nations, that hath deliuered his land out of myne hande? (d) Shall the Lorde deliuer Hierusalem out of myne hande? F

36 But the people held their peace, and aunswered not him a word: for the king had commaunded, saying: Aunswere hym not.

(d) An execrable blasphemie, to compare dead idols, with the liuing God.

37 Then Eliakim the sonne of Helkia, which was the steward of the houshold, and Sobna the scribe, & Joah the sonne of Asaph the recorder, came to Hezekia with their clothes rent, and tolde him the wordes of Rabsakeh.

The .xix. Chapter.

6 God promiseth Isai victorie to Hezekia. 35 The angel of the Lord killeth an hundreth and fourescore and fiue thousand men of the Assyrians. 37 Sennacherib is killed of his owne sonnes.

A 1  And it came to passe, that when king Hezekia heard it, he rent his clothes, & put on sacke, & came into the *house of the Lorde,

Esa. 38.a.

2 And sent Eliakim which was the steward of the houshold, and Sobna the scribe, and the elders of the priestes clothed in sacke, to Isai the prophete, the sonne of Amoz.

3 And they sayd vnto him, thus sayth Hezekia: This day is a day of tribulation, & of rebuke and blasphemie: For the children are come to the byrth, and there is no strength to be deliuered.

4 Peraduenture the Lorde thy God will heare al the wordes of Rabsakeh, whō the king of Assyria his maister hath sent to rayle on the lyuing God, & to rebuke him with wordes which the Lorde thy God hath heard: And lift thou vp thy prayer for the remnaunt that are left.

5 So the seruauntes of king Hezekia came to Isai.

6 And Isai sayde vnto them, So shall ye say to your maister: Thus sayth the Lorde, Be not afrayde of the wordes which thou hast heard, with which the young men of the king of Assyria haue rayled on me.

B 7 Beholde, I will put hym in another mynde, and he shall heare tydinges, and so returne to his owne land, and I will bring to passe, that he shall fall vpon the sworde euen in his owne land.

8 And Rabsakeh went backe againe, and founde the king of Assyria fighting against Libna: for he had heard howe that he was departed from Lachis.

9 And when he heard men say of Thirhaka king of the blacke Moores, Behold he is come out to fight against thee: he departed, and sent messengers vnto Hezekia, saying.

10 Thus speake to Hezekia king of Juda, saying: Let not thy God deceaue thee in whom thou trustest, saying: Hierusalem shall not be deliuered into the hand of the king of Assyria.

11 Beholde, thou hast heard what the kinges of Assyria haue done to all landes, how they haue vtterly destroyed them: And shalt thou escape?

12 Haue the gods of the heathen deliuered them, whiche myne auncestours haue destroyed: As Gozan, and Haran, and Rezeph, and the children of Eden which were in Thelassar?

13 Where is the king of Hamath, and the king of Arphad, the king of the citie of Sepharuaim, and of Hena and Jua?

C 14 And Hezekia receaued the letter of the hand of the messengers, and read it: And Hezekia went vp into the house of the Lorde, and layde it abrode before the Lorde.

(a) It is the true refuge & succour in all daungers, to flee vnto the Lorde by earnest prayer.

15 And Hezekia (a) prayed before the Lord, and sayd: O Lord God of Israel which dwellest betweene ỹ Cherubs, thou art God alone ouer al the kingdomes of the earth, thou hast made heauen & earth.

16 Lorde bowe downe thyne eare, and heare: Open Lorde thyne eyes, [I beseech thee,] and see: and heare the wordes of Sennacherib whiche hath sent [this man] to rayle on the lyuing God.

17 Of a trueth Lorde, the kinges of Assyria haue destroyed nations and their landes, 18 And haue set fire on their gods: For they were no gods, but the worke of the handes of man, euen of wood and stone: and they destroyed them.

19 Nowe therfore O Lord our God I beseech thee, saue thou vs out of his hande, that all the kingdomes of the earth may knowe that thou onely art the Lorde God.

20 And Isai the sonne of Amoz sent to Hezekia, saying, Thus sayth the Lorde God of Israel: That whiche thou hast prayed me concerning Sennacherib king of Assyria, I haue heard it.

21 This

21 This is therefore the worde that the Lorde hath said of him: (b) The virgin, euen the daughter of Sion hath despised thee, and laughed thee to scorne [O thou king of Assyria,] the daughter of Hierusalem hath shaken her head at thee.

22 *Whom hast thou rayled on: & Whom hast thou blasphemed: Against whom hast thou exalted thy voyce, and lyfted vp thyne eyes so hye: Euen against the holy of Israel.

23 By the hande of thy messengers thou hast rayled on the Lord, and said: With the multitude of my charets I am come vp to the toppes of the mountaynes, euen along by the sides of Libanon, and I wyll cut downe the hye Cedar trees and the lustie firre trees therof: and I wyll go into the lodging of his borders, and into the wood of his Carmel.

24 I haue digged and druncke straunge waters: & with the steppe of my goyng wil I drye al the water pooles that are beleaguered.

25 Hast thou not heard howe I haue ordeyned such a thing a great whyle ago, and haue prepared it from the beginning: And shall I not nowe bring it foorth, that it may destroy and bring strong cities into wast heapes of stones:

26 And the inhabiters of them shalbe of litle power, and faint hearted, and confounded, and *shalbe lyke the grasse of the field, or greene hearbe, or as the hay on the toppes of the houses, or as the corne that is vnripe & smitten with blasting.

27 I knowe thy dwelling thy comming out and thy goyng in, and thy furie against me.

26 And because thou rageste against me, & thy tumult is come vp to myne eares, I wyll put my hooke in thy nostrels, and my byt in thy lippes, and will bring thee backe againe the same way thou camest.

29 And this shalbe a signe vnto thee, O Hezekia: Ye shall eate this yere of such thinges as grow of them selues, and the next yere such as come vp of those that did growe of their owne accorde, and the thirde yere sowe ye and reape, plant vineyardes, and eate the fruites therof. F

30 And it that is escaped and left of the daughter of Juda, shall yet againe take rooting downe warde, and beare fruite vpwarde.

31 For out of Hierusalem shall go a remnaunt, and a number that shall escape out of mount Sion: The zeale of the lord of hoastes shal bring this thing to passe.

32 Wherefore thus saith the Lord concerning the king of Assyria: he shall not come to this citie, nor shoote an arrowe into it, nor come before it with shielde, nor cast a banke against it.

33 But shall go backe againe the way he came, and shall not come into this citie, saith the Lorde.

34 For I wyll defend this citie, to saue it, for myne owne sake, and for Dauid my seruauntes sake. G

35 And it came to passe, that the selfe same night the angel of the Lorde went out, and smote in the hoast of the Assyrians an hundred fourescore & fiue thousand: And when the remnaunt were vp early in the morning, beholde they were all dead coarses.

36 *And so Sennacherib king of Assyria auoyded and departed, & went againe and dwelt at Ninive. Tobi.i.d.

37 And it fortuned, that as he was in a temple worshipping Nisroch his God, Adramelech & Sarasar his owne sonnes (c) smote him with the sworde: And they escaped into the lande of Armenia, and Asarhaddon his sonne raigned in his steade. (c) This was the iust iudgement of God, for his blasphemie.

The .xx. Chapter.

1 Hezekia is sicke, and receaueth the signe of his healthy. 12 He receaueth rewardes of Berodach, 13 sheweth his treasures, and is reprehended of Isai. 22 He dieth, and Manasse his sonne raigneth in his steade.

A 1 About that time *was Hezekia sicke vnto the death: And the prophete Isai the sonne of Amoz came to him, and sayde vnto him, Thus saith the Lord: Put thyne houshold in order, for thou shalt dye, and not lyue.

2 And Hezekia turned his face to the wal, and prayed vnto the Lorde, saying:

3 I beseche thee, O Lorde, remember now how I haue walked before thee in trueth and with a perfect heart, & haue done that whiche is good in thy sight. And Hezekia wept sore.

4 And it fortuned that afore Esai was gone out into ỹ middle of the court, the word of the Lorde came to him, saying:

5 Turne againe, and tell Hezekia the captayne of my people, thus saith the Lorde God of Dauid thy father: (a) I haue heard thy prayer, and seene thy teares, and beholde I wyll heale thee, so that on the thirde day thou shalt go vp into the house of the Lorde.

(a) God is moued with true prayer and vnfained repentaunce.

6 And I will adde vnto thy dayes yet fiftene yeres, & I wyll deliuer thee & this citie out of the hand of ỹ king of Assyria, & will defend this citie, for myne owne sake, & for Dauid my seruauntes sake.

℣ 7 And Esai said: Take a lumpe of dryed figges. And they toke and layed it on the sore, and he recouered.

8 And Hezekia saide vnto Esai: what shalbe the signe that the Lorde wyll heale me, and that I shal go vp into the house of the Lorde the third day?

9 Esai answered: This signe shalt thou haue of the Lord, that the Lord will do that he hath spoken: *Shall the shadowe go forwarde ten degrees? or go backe againe ten degrees?

Ecc.xlviii.c.

10 Hezekia answered: it is a light thing for the shadowe to go downe ten degrees, I desire not [that:] but let the shadowe go backwarde ten degrees.

11 And Esai the prophete called vnto the Lord, *and he brought the shadow ten degrees backwarde, by whiche it had gone downe in the dyall of Ahaz.

Ecc.xlviiic.

12 *The same season Berodach Baladan the sonne of Baladan king of Babylon, sent letters and a present vnto Hezekia: for he had heard howe that Hezekia was sicke.

Esa.39.a.

13 And Hezekia was glad of them, and shewed them all his treasure house, siluer, golde, odours, precious oyntment, all the house of his armory, and all that was found in his treasures: There was nothing in his house & in all his realme that Hezekia shewed them not.

14 And Esai the prophete came vnto king Hezekia, and saide vnto him: what saide these men? and from whence came they to thee? And Hezekia saide: They be come from a farre countrey, euen from Babylon. D

15 And he saide againe: What haue they seene in thy house? Hezekia answered: All ỹ thinges that are in my house haue they seene: there is nothing among my treasures, that I haue not shewed thē.

16 And Esai saide vnto Hezekia: Heare the worde of the Lorde, 17 Beholde the dayes come, that all that is in thy house, and whatsoeuer thy fathers haue layde vp in store vnto this day, *shalbe caryed into Babylon: and nothing shalbe left saith the Lorde.

4.Re.24.1. and.xxv.b. Ier.xx.b.

18 And of thy sonnes that shall proceede out of thee, and which thou shalt beget, shall they take away, and they shalbe chamberlaynes in the palace of the king of Babylon.

19 And Hezekia saide vnto Esai: (b) Welcome be the worde of the Lorde which thou hast spoken. And he saide: Shall there not be peace & trueth in my dayes.

(b) He submitteth himselfe vnto the worde of the prophete.

20 The remnaunt of the wordes that concerne Hezekia, and all his power, and howe he made a poole and a conduite, & brought water into the citie, are they not written in the booke of the cronicles of the kinges of Juda?

21 *And Hezekia slept with his fathers, & Manasse his sonne raigned in his steade.

The .xxj. Chapter.

3 King Manasse restoreth idolatrie. 16 And vseth great crueltie. 18 He dieth, and Amon his sonne succeedeth, 23 who is killed of his owne seruauntes. 26 After him raigneth Iosia.

MAnasse *was twelue yeres old when he began to raigne, and raigned fyftie and fiue yeres in Hierusalē: his mothers name also was Hephziba.

2.Par.33.a. D.xviii.d.

2 And he did euil in the sight of the Lord, euen after the abhominations of the heathen whom the *Lorde cast out before the children of Israel.

3 For he went and built vp the hygh places *whiche Hezekia his father had destroyed, and he reared vp aulters for Baal, and made idoll groues as dyd Ahab king of Israel, and worshipped all the hoast of heauen, and serued them.

4 And

4 And he buylt aulters in the house of the Lord, of which the Lord sayd: *In Hierusalem wyll I put my name.
5 And he buylt aulters for all the hoast of heauen [euen] in two courtes of the house of the Lorde.
6 *And he offred his owne sonne in fire, and gaue heede vnto witchcraft and sorcerie, and mayntayned workers with spirites, and tellers of fortunes, and wrought much wickednesse in the sight of the Lorde to anger hym.
7 And he put an image of a groue that he had made [euen] in the temple, of whiche the Lorde had sayde to Dauid & Solomon his sonne: *In this house and in Hierusalem whiche I haue chosen out of all tribes of Israel, wyll I put my name for euer.
8 Neither wyll I make the feete of Israel moue any more out of the lande whiche I gaue their fathers: so that they will obserue and do al that I haue commaunded them, and according to al the law that my seruaunt Moyses commaunded them.
9 But they hearkened not: and Manasse led them out of the waye, to do more wickedly then dyd the heathen people whom the Lorde destroyed before the chyldren of Israel.
10 And the Lord spake by his seruaunts
the prophetes, saying:
11 Because Manasse king of Juda hath done suche abhominations, and hath wrought more wickedly then all the A-morites whiche were before hym dyd, and hath made Juda sinne also with his idols:
12 Therfore thus saith the Lord God of Israel: *Beholde, I wyll bryng suche euyll vpon Hierusalem and Juda, that whoso heareth of it, both his eares shal tingle.
13 And I wyll stretche ouer Hierusalem the squaring line of (a) Samaria, and the plummet of the house of Ahab: And I wyll wype out Hierusalem, as a man wypeth a dishe, and when he hath wyped it, turneth it vpside downe.
14 And I wyll leaue the (b) remnaunt of mine inheritaunce, and deliuer them into the hande of their enemies, and they shalbe robbed and spoyled of all their aduersaries:
15 Euen because they haue done euyll in ℭ my sight, and haue angred me, since the tyme their fathers came out of Egypt, vnto day.
16 And Manasse shed innocent blood exceeding much, till he replenished Hieru-salem from corner to corner, besyde his sinne wherwith he made Juda to sinne and to do euyll in the sight of the Lord.
17 The rest of the wordes that concerne Manasse, and all that he dyd, and his sinne that he sinned, are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Juda?
18 And Manasse slept with his fathers, and was buryed in the garden of his owne house, euen in the garden of Uz-za, and Amon his sonne raigned in his steade.
19 *Amon was twentie and two yeres 2.Para. 33 d.
olde when he began to raigne, and he raigned two yeres in Hierusalem: his mothers name also was Mesullemeth the daughter of Harus of Jotba.
20 And he dyd euyll in the sight of the Lorde, as his father Manasse dyd:
21 And walked in all the way that his ℬ father walked in, and serued the idols that his father serued, and worshipped them:
22 And he forsoke the Lorde God of his fathers, and walked not in the way of the Lorde.
23 And the seruauntes of Amon conspi-red against hym, and slue the kyng in his owne house.
24 And the people of the lande slue all them that had conspired against kyng Amon, and the people made Josia his sonne kyng in his steade.
25 The rest of the wordes that concerne
Amon what thinges he dyd, are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the kinges of Juda?
26 And they buryed him in the sepulchre in the garden of Uzza, and Josia his sonne raigned in his steade.

The .xxij. Chapter.

4 Josia repayreth the temple. 8 Helkia findeth the booke of the lawe, and causeth it to be presented to Josia. 14 Who sendeth to Hulda the prophetisse to enquire the Lordes wyll.

A 1 IOsia was *eight yeres olde when he began to raigne, and he raigned thirtie & one yeres in Hierusalem: His mothers name also was Jedida the daughter of Adaia of Bozcath.

2 He did that which is right in the sight of the Lorde, & walked in all the wayes of Dauid his father, and bowed neither to the right hande or to the left.

3 *And it came to passe, that in the eyghteenth yere of the raigne of king Josia, the king sent Saphan the sonne of Azalia the sonne of Mesulam the scribe to the house of the Lorde, saying:

4 *Go vp to Helkia the hye priest, that he may summe the siluer whiche is brought into the house of the Lorde, which the kepers of the porche haue gathered of the people:

5 And let them deliuer it into the hande of them that do the worke, and that haue the ouersight of the house of the Lord: and let them geue it to them that worke in the house of the Lorde, to repaire the decayed places of the temple,

6 Euen vnto Carpenters and Masons, and Workers vpon the walles, and for to bye tymber and free stone, to repaire the temple.

B 7 Howbeit, let no reckenyng be made with them of the money that is deliuered into their hande, for their vse is to deale faythfully.

8 *And Helkia the hye priest sayde vnto Saphan the scribe: (a) I haue founde the booke of the law in the house of the Lorde. And Helkia gaue the booke to Saphan, and he read in it.

9 And Saphan the scribe came to the king, and brought hym worde agayne, and sayd: Thy seruauntes haue gathered the money that was founde in the temple, and haue deliuered it vnto them that do the worke, and that haue the ouersight of the house of the Lorde.

10 And Saphan the scribe shewed the king, saying, Helkia the priest hath deliuered me a booke: And Saphan read in it before the kyng.

11 And it fortuned, that when the kyng had heard the wordes of the booke of the lawe, he rent his clothes.

12 And the kyng commaunded Helkia the priest, and Ahikam the sonne of Saphan, and Achbor the sonne of Michaia, and Saphan the scribe, and Asahia a seruaunt of the kynges, saying:

13 *Go ye and enquire of the Lorde for me, and for the people, and for all Juda, concerning the wordes of this booke that is founde: For great is the wrath of the Lorde that is kindled against vs, because our fathers haue not hearkened vnto the wordes of this booke, to do according vnto all that whiche is written therin for vs.

14 So Helkia the hye priest and Ahikam, Achbor, and Saphan, and Asahia, went vnto Hulda the prophetisse the wyfe of Sallum the sonne of Thikua the sonne of Harhas keper of the wardrope: (which prophetisse dwelt in Hierusalem in the house of doctrine:) and they communed with her.

15 And she answered them: thus saith the Lord God of Israel, Tell the man that sent you to me,

16 Thus saith the Lord: Behold, I wyl bryng euill vpon this place, and on the inhabiters thereof, euen all the wordes of the booke whiche the kyng of Juda hath read:

17 Because they haue forsaken me, and haue burnt incense vnto other gods, to anger me with all the workes of their handes: my wrath also shalbe kindled against this place, and shall not be quenched.

18 But to the kyng of Juda whiche sent you to aske counsell of the Lord, so shall ye say: Thus saith the Lorde God of Israel, as touching the wordes whiche ye haue harde:

19 Because thyne heart dyd (b) melt, and because thou hast humbled thy selfe before me the Lorde, when thou heardest what I spake against this place, and against the inhabiters of the same, howe that they shoulde be destroyed and accursed, and hast rent thy clothes and wept before me, of that also haue I heard saith the Lorde:

(b) Meaning that he dyd repent.

20 Beholde therfore I wyll receaue thee vnto thy fathers, and thou shalt be put into thy graue in peace, and thine eyes shall not see all the euyll which I wyll bring vpon this place. And they brought the kyng worde agayne.

The.xxiij. Chapter.

2 Iosia readeth the lawe before the people. 3 He maketh a couenaunt with the Lorde. 4 He put downe the idols, after he had kylled the priestes. 22 He kepeth Passouer. 24 He destroyeth the cunnurers. 29 He was kylled in Megiddo. 30 And his sonne Iehoahaz raigneth in his steade. 33 After he was taken, his sonne Iehoachim was made kyng.

1 AND then* the kyng sent, and there gathered vnto him all the elders of Juda and of Hierusalem.

2 And the kyng went vp into the house of the Lorde, with all the men of Juda, and all the inhabitours of Hierusalem, with the priestes, and prophetes, and all the prople both small and great: And he read in the eares of them* all the wordes of the couenaunt which was founde in the house of the Lorde.

3 And the kyng stoode by a piller,* & made a couenaunt before the Lorde, that they should walke after the Lorde, and kepe his commaundementes, his witnesses, and his statutes, with all their heart and all their soule, and make good the wordes of the sayde appoyntment, that were written in the foresayde booke: And all the people consented to the appoyntment.

4 (a) And the kyng commaunded Helchia the hye priest, and the inferiour priestes, and the kepers of the " ornamentes, to bryng out of the temple of the Lorde all the vessels that were made for Baal, for the idoll groues, and for all the hoast of heauen: And he burnt them without Hierusalem in the fieldes of Cedron, and caryed the asshes of them into Bethel.

5 And he put downe the ministers [of Baal] whom the kynges of Juda had founded to burne incense in the* hygh places and cities of Juda that were rounde about Hierusalem, & also them that burnt incense vnto Baal, to the sunne, to the moone, to the planets, and to all the hoast of heauen.

6 And he brought out the groue from the temple of the Lorde without Hierusalem vnto the brooke Cedron, and burnt it there at the brooke Cedron, and stampe it to powder, and cast the dust therof vpon the graues of the children of the people.

(a) Kyng Iosia zelously purgeth the temple of God, and destroyeth al the monumentes of idolatrye and superstition.

" Or, doore kepers.

7 And he brake downe the celles of the male stewes that were by the house of the Lorde, where the women woue hangynges for the idoll groue.

B 8 And he brought all the priestes out of the cities of Juda, and defiled the high places where the priestes had burnt incense, euen from Geba to Beersebа, and destroyed the hygh places of the gates that were in the entryng in of the gate of Josua ꝑ gouernour of the citie, which were [as a man goeth in] on the left hande of the gate of the citie.

(a) Josia thought not meete that those priestes whiche had serued idols, should be ministers in the temple of God. Iere. viii.d.

9 (b) Neuertheleſſe, the priestes of the high places came not vp to the aulter of the Lorde in Hierusalem, saue onely they did eate of the sweete bread among their brethren.

10 And he defiled *Thopheth, which is in the valley of the children of Hinnom, because no man shoulde offer his sonne or his daughter in fire to Moloch.

11 He put downe the horses that the kynges of Juda had geuen to the sunne, at the entryng in of the house of the Lorde, by the chaumber of Nathanmelech the chaumberlayne, which was ruler of the suburbes, and burnt the charets of the sunne with fire.

12 And the aulters that were on the top of the parlour of Ahaz which the kinges of Juda had made, and the aulters which Manasse had made in the two courtes of the house of the Lorde, dyd the kyng breake downe, and ranne thence, and cast the dust of them into the brooke Cedron.

13 And the high places that were before Hierusalem, on the ryght hande of the mount (c) Oliuet, * which Solomon the king of Israel had builded for Astaroth the idol of the Zidons, and for Chamos the idol of the Moabites, and for Milchon the abhominable idol of the children of Ammon, those the king defiled:

3. Reg. xi.d. (c) A mount that was full of idols.

3. Reg. 13.a. 15 Moreouer, * the aulter that was at Bethel, the high places made by Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat which made Israel sinne, both the aulter and also the high places he brake downe, and burnt the high places, and stampt it to powder, and burnt the idol groue.

16 And as Josia turned him selfe, he spyed the graues that were in the mount, and sent and fet the bones out of the graues, and burnt them vpon the aulter, to pollute it, accordyng to the worde of the Lorde that the man of God proclaymed * which tolde the same wordes.

17 Then he sayde: what title is that that I see? And the men of the citie tolde him: It is the sepulchre of the man of God, which came from Juda, and tolde the selfe same thynges that thou hast done to the aulter of Bethel. 3. Reg. 13.a.

18 And he sayde, let him be: see that no man moue his bones. And so his bones were saued with the bones of a prophet that came out of Samaria.

19 And all the houses of the hygh places in the cities of Samaria, which the king of Israel had made to anger [the Lorde withall] those Josia put out of the way, and dyd to them accordyng to all the actes that he had done in Bethel.

20 And he sacrificed all the priestes of the hygh places that were there, euen vpon the aulters, and burnt mens bones vpon them, and returned to Hierusalem.

21 And the kyng commaunded all the B people, saying: Kepe the feast of Passouer vnto the Lorde your God, * as it is written in the booke of this couenaunt. 2. Par. 35.a.

22 * There was no Passouer holden lyke that from the dayes of the iudges that indged Israel, and in all the dayes of the kynges of Israel and of the kynges of Juda. Deut. xvi.a

23 In the eyghteenth yere of king Josia, was this Passouer holden to the Lorde in Hierusalem.

24 And therto workers with spirites, and soothsayers, images, idols, and all the abhominations that were spyed in the lande of Juda and in Hierusalem, those did Josia put out of the way, to perfourme the wordes of the lawe, which were written in the booke * that Helchia the priest founde in the house of the Lorde. Leuit. xx. Deut. xviii.

25 Lyke vnto him was there no king before him that turned to the Lorde with all his heart, with all his soule, and all his might, accordyng to all the lawe of Moyses, neither after him arose there any such as he. C

26 Notwithstandyng, the Lorde turned not from the fiercenesse of his great wrath wherewith he was angry a-gaynst Juda, because of all the prouoca-

tions that Manasse had prouoked him withall.

27 And the Lorde saide: * I wyll put Juda also out of my sight, as I haue done away Israel, and wyll cast of this citie Hierusalem which I haue chosen, and the house of whiche I saide, My name shall be there.

F 28 The rest of the wordes that conterne Josia, and all that he did, are they not written in the booke of the cronicles of the kinges of Juda?

29 *In his dayes Pharao Necho king of Egypt went vp against the king of Assyria to the riuer of Euphrates: And king Josia went against him, and was slaine of him at Megiddo when he had seene him.

30 And his seruauntes carryed him dead from Megiddo, and brought him to Hierusalem, & buried him in his owne sepulchre: And the people of the lande toke Iehoahaz the sonne of Josia, and annoynted him, and made him king in his fathers steade.

31 Iehoahaz was twentie & three yeres olde when he began to raigne, and raigned three monethes in Hierusalem: His mothers name also was Hamiel, the daughter of Jeremia of Libna.

32 And he did euil in the sight of the Lord, according to al thinges as his (b) fathers had done.

33 And Pharao Necho put him in bondes at Ribla in the lande of Hamath while he raigned in Hierusalem, and put the lande to a tribute of an hundred talents of siluer, and a talent of golde.

34 And Pharao Necho made Eliakim G the sonne of Josia king in the roome of Josia his father, and turned his name to Iehoakim and toke Iehoahaz away: whiche when he came to Egypt, dyed there.

35 And Iehoakim gaue the siluer and the golde to Pharao, & taxed the lande, to geue the money according to the commaundement of Pharao: requiring of euery man according to their habilitie siluer and golde, euen of the people of the lande, to geue vnto Pharao Necho.

36 Iehoakim was twentie & fiue yeres olde when he began to raigne, and he raigned a leuen yeres in Hierusalem: His mothers name also was Zebuda, the daughter of Pedaia of Ruma.

2 And the citie was besieged vnto the eleuenth yere of king Zedekia.

Exo.iii.d. 3 * And the ninth day of the moneth, there was so great hunger in the citie, that there was no bread for the people of the lande.

4 And the citie was broken vp, and all the men of armes [fled] by night by a way through a gate [which is] betweene two walles by the kinges garden (the Chaldees lying about the citie:) and the king went the way toward the playne.

5 And the souldiers of the Chaldees followed after the king, and toke him in the playne of Jericho: and all his army were scattered away from him.

6 So they toke the king, and brought him to [Nabuchodonozor] the king of Babylon to Ribla, where they gaue iudgement vpon him.

7 And they slue the sonnes of Zedekia before his eyes, and he put out the eyes of Zedekia, and fettered him with chaynes, and caryed him to Babylon. ℣

9 And burnt the house of the Lord, and the kinges house, and all the houses of Hierusalem, and all great houses burnt he with fire.

10 And all the souldiers of the Chaldees that were with the chiefe captayne of the men of warre, brake downe the walles of Hierusalem rounde about.

11 But the rest of the people that were left in the citie, and them that were fled to the king of Babylon, with the remnaunt of the common people, did Nabusaradan the chiefe captayne of the men of warre carry away.

12 But the captaine of the souldiers left of the poore of the land, to dresse the vines and to tyll the grounde.

13 *And the pillers of brasse that were in the house of the Lorde, and the sockets, and the brasen lauatorie that was in the house of the Lorde, did the Chaldees breake, & carryed all the brasse of them to Babylon. *3.Re.vii.b. C

18 And the chiefe captayne of the men of warre toke Saraia the chiefe priest, and Zephoniah the highest priest saue one, and the three kepers of the holy things: D

19 And out of the citie he toke a chamberlayne that had the oversight of the men of warre, & fiue men of them that were euer in the kinges presence which were founde in the citie, and him that was scribe to the captaine of the hoast which brought out the people of the lande to warre, and threescore men of the people of the lande that were founde in the citie.

20 And Nebusaradan the chiefe captaine of the men of warre, toke these, and brought them to the king of Babylon to Ribla.

21 And the king of Babylon smote them, and slue them at Ribla in the lande of Hamath: And so Juda was carryed away out of their lande.

22 Howbeit, there remayned people in the lande of Juda, whom Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon left, & made Gedalia the sonne of Ahikam the sonne of Saphan ruler ouer them.

23 And all the captaynes of the souldiers, & other men, heard that the king of Babylon had made Gedalia gouernour, and there came to Gedalia to Mizpah Ismael ỹ sonne of Nathania, Johanan the sonne of Karea, Sarata the sonne of Thanhumeth the Netophatite, and Jaazania the sonne of Maachati, they and their men.

24 And Gedalia sware to them and to the men whom they had with them, and saide vnto them: Feare not ye because ye are the seruauntes of the Chaldees: dwell in the lande, and serue the king of Babylon, and ye shall be well. "Or, be ye not afrayde of the seruautes of the Chaldees. E

25 But it chaunced in the seuenth moneth, that Ismael the sonne of Nathania the sonne of Elisama of the kinges blood, came, and ten men with him, and smote Gedalia that he dyed: and so did he the Jewes and the Chaldees that were with him at Mizpah.

26 And all the people both small & great, and the captaynes of warre, arose and came to Egypt: for they were afrayde of the Chaldees.

27 Notwithstãding, yet in the seuen & thirtith yere after Jehoachin king of Juda was carryed away, the seuen and twentith day of the twelfth moneth Euilmerodach king of Babylon the same yere that he began to raigne, did lyft vp the head of Jehoachin king of Juda out of prison.

28 And spake kindely to him, and set his seate aboue the seate of the kinges that were with him in Babylon, 30 His portion was a continuall portion that was assigned him of the king, euery day a certaine as long as he lyued.

B 7 Elisama, Beeliada, and Eliphalet.
8 And when the Philistines heard that Dauid was annoynted king vpon all Israel, all the Philistines went vp to seeke Dauid: And Dauid heard of it, & went out against them.

11 And the Lorde saide vnto him: go vp, for I wil deliuer them into thyne hand. And so they came vp to Baal Perazim, and Dauid smote them there, and Dauid saide: God hath deuided myne enemies with myne hand, as a man would deuide water, and therefore they called the name of that place Baal Perazim.
12 And when they had left their gods there, Dauid gaue a commaundement, and they were burnt with fire.
13 And the Philistines came together againe, and rushed into the valley. ℭ

The .xv. Chapter.

1 Dauid prepareth an hoall for the arke. 4 The number and order of the Leuites. 16 The singers are chosen out among them. 25 They bring againe the arke with ioy. 29 Dauid dauncing before it, is despised of his wyfe Michol.

A 1 AND Dauid made him houses in the citie of Dauid, and prepared a place for the arke of God, and pitched for it a tent.

2 Then Dauid sayde: The arke of God ought not to be carryed but of the Leuites: For them hath the Lord chosen to beare the arke of the Lorde, and to minister vnto him for euer.

3 And Dauid gathered all Israel together to Hierusalem, to fetche the arke of the Lorde vnto his place which he had ordayned for it.

4 And Dauid brought together the children of Aaron and the Leuites.

12 And saide vnto them: Ye that are the principall fathers of the Leuites, see that ye be holy with your brethren, that ye may bring in the arke of the Lorde God of Israel vnto the place that I haue prepared for it.

C 13 For, because ye were not there at the first, the Lorde our God made a rent among vs, for that we sought him not as the fashion ought to be.

14 So the priestes and the Leuites sanctified them selues, to fet the arke of the Lorde God of Israel.

15 And the children of the Leuites bare the arke of God vpon their shoulders with staues thereon, as Moyses commaunded according to the worde of the Lorde.

16 And Dauid spake to the chiefe heades of the Leuites, that they shoulde appoynt certaine of their brethren to sing with instrumentes of musicke, psalteries, harpes, and cymbales, that they might make a sounde, and to sing on hie with ioyfulnesse.

27 And Dauid had on him a linnen garment, lyke as had also all the Leuites that bare the arke, & so had the singers and Chenania the ruler of the songe, with the singers: and Dauid had vpon him an Ephod of linnen.

1 The arke being placed they offer sacrifices. 4 Dauid ordaineth Asaph and his brethren to minister before the Lorde. 8 He appoynteth a notable psalme to be song in prayse of the Lorde.

A 1 SO they brought in the arke of God, and set it in the middest of the tent that Dauid pitched for it: And they offred burnt sacrifices and peace offeringes before God.

2 And when Dauid had made an ende of offring the burnt offringes and peace offringes, he blessed the people in the name of the Lorde.

3 And he dealt to all Israel both man and woman, a cracknell of bread, and a good peece of flesh, and a flacket of wine.

4 And he appoynted certaine of the Leuites to minister before the arke of the Lorde, and to repeate, & to thanke and prayse the Lorde God of Israel.

5 And Asaph was the chefe, and nexte to him Zacharia, Jeiel, Semiramoth, Jehiel, Mathathia, Eliab, Benaia, * Obed Edom, & Jeiel, with instruments, psalteries, & harpes: But Asaph made a sounde with cymbales.

6 Banaia and Jahaziel priestes blewe with trumpettes continually before the arke of the couenaunt of God.

B 7 And that same time Dauid dyd appoynt chiefely to thanke the Lorde by Asaph and his brethren.

Psalme.cv. 8 * Confesse you [it] vnto God, call vpon his name: cause the people to vnderstande his deuises.

12 Remember the marueylous workes that he hath done: his wonders, and the iudgementes of his mouth, 13 O ye seede of Abraham his seruaunt, ye his chosen children of Jacob: he is God our Lorde, his iudgements are in all the earth.

14 He hath ben mindfull alwayes of his couenaunt (for he promysed a worde to a thousand generations:) euen of his couenaunt that he made with Abraham, and of his othe vnto "Isahac.

20 * Sing vnto the Lorde all the earth: and shewe from day to day his saluation.

21 Tell his glory among the heathen: his wonderfull deedes among all nations.

22 For

25 For great is the Lorde, and worthy to be prayſed exceedingly: he is to be feared aboue all gods.
26 For all the gods of the people are "but idols: but the Lorde made heauen.
27 Prayſe and honour are in his preſence: ſtrength and gladneſſe are in his place.
E 28 Aſcribe vnto the Lord ye kinredes of people, Aſcribe to the Lorde glory and dominion.
29 Aſcribe vnto the Lorde the glory due vnto his name, bryng ſacrifices, and come before him, and worſhip the Lord in his glorious ſanctuarie.
30 Let all the earth feare him: ſurely the worlde ſhalbe ſtable and not moue.
31 Let the heauens reioyce, and let the earth be glad, and let men tell among the nations that the Lorde is kyng.
32 Let the ſea rore & the fulneſſe therof: let the fieldes reioyce, & al that is therin.
33 Then ſhall the trees of the wood reioyce at the preſence of the Lord, becauſe he commeth to iudge the earth.
34 O geue thankes vnto the Lord, for he is good, for his mercy endureth euer:
35 And ſay ye, ſaue vs O God our ſaluation, gather vs together, and deliuer vs from among the heathen, that we may geue thankes to thy holy name, and triumph in the prayſe of thee.
36 Bleſſed be the Lord God of Iſrael for euer and euer: & let al people ſay Amen, and prayſe the Lorde.
37 And ſo he left there before the arke of the Lordes couenaunt Aſaph & his brethren, to miniſter before the arke continually, [in ſuche thinges as were to be done] day by day.
38 And Obed Edom and his brethren, F threeſcore and eyght, and Obed Edom the ſonne of Jeduthun, and Hoſa, were appoynted to be porters.
39 And Zadoc the prieſt and his brethren the prieſtes were before the tabernacle of the Lorde, in the hye place that was at Gibeon, 40 To offer burnt offeringes vnto the Lorde vpon the burnt offering aulter perpetually, in the morning and euening, according to all that which is written in the lawe of the Lorde whiche he commaunded Iſrael.
41 And with them were Heman and Jeduthun, and other that were choſen, whoſe names were expreſſed to geue thankes to the Lorde, That his mercy laſteth euer.
42 And with them did Heman and Jeduthun ſing with the trumpets and cymbales, making a ſweete melodie with inſtrumentes of muſicke and godlye ſongues: And the ſonnes of Jeduthun were porters.
43 And all the people departed euery man to his houſe, and Dauid returned to bleſſe his houſe.

The. xvij. Chapter.

3 Dauid is forbidden to buylde an houſe vnto the Lorde. 12 Chriſte is promiſed vnder the figure of Solomon. 18 Dauid geueth thankes. 23 and prayeth vnto God.

A 1 AND it fortuned, that when Dauid dwelt in his houſe, he ſayde to Nathan the prophete: Lo, I dwel in *an houſe of Cedar tree, but the arke of the Lordes couenaunt remayneth vnder (a) curtaines.
2 And Nathan ſayde vnto Dauid: Do all that is in thyne heart, for God is with thee.
3 And the ſame night, it fortuned that the worde of God came to Nathan, ſaying:
4 Go and tell Dauid my ſeruaunt, thus ſaith the Lorde, Thou ſhalt not buylde me an houſe to dwell in:
5 For I haue dwelt in no houſe ſince the day that I brought out the chyldren of Iſrael, vnto this day: but haue gone from tent to tent, and from one habitation to another.
6 And whereſoeuer I haue walked with all Iſrael, ſpake I euer one word to any of the iudges of Iſrael, whom I commaunded to feede my people, ſaying: why haue ye not buylt me an houſe of Cedar tree?
7 Nowe therefore thus ſhalt thou ſay vnto my ſeruaunt Dauid, thus ſaith the Lorde of hoaſtes: I toke thee from the ſheepe coate, and from folowing the ſheepe, that thou ſhouldeſt be captayne ouer my people Iſrael:

1 Reg. vii. a.

* Intentes couered with curtaines.

17 8 And I haue ben with thee whyther soeuer thou hast walked, and haue weeded out all thine enemies out of thy sight, and haue made thee a name lyke the name of the greatest men that are in the earth.

9 And I haue ordayned a place for my people Israel, and made it fast, so that nowe they may dwel in their place, and moue no more: neither shall the chyldren of wickednesse vexe them any more as at the beginning.

10 And since the tyme that I commaunded iudges to be ouer my people Israel, I haue subdued all thine enemies: and I tolde thee that the Lord woulde buylde thee an house.

11 This also shal come to passe: When thy dayes be expired that thou must go vnto thy fathers, I wyl rayse vp thy seede after thee, whiche shalbe of thy sonnes, and I wyll stablishe his kyngdome.

12 He shall buylde me an house, and I wyll stablishe his seate for euer.

13 I wylbe his father, and he shalbe my sonne, and I wyll not take my mercy away from hym, as I toke it from hym that was before thee.

14 But I wyll stablishe hym in myne house and my kingdome for euer, and his seate shalbe sure for euermore.

15 According to all these wordes, and according to al this vision, did Nathan tell king Dauid.

16 And Dauid the king came and sate before the Lord, and sayd: What am I O Lord God, and what is mine household, that thou hast promoted me thus farre?

17 And yet this seemed litle in thine eyes, O God: but thou hast also spoken of thy seruauntes house for a great whyle to come, and hast looked vpon me as vpon a man of hye degree, O Lord God.

18 What shall Dauid desire more of thee for the honour of thy seruaunt? For thou hast knowen thy seruaunt.

19 O Lord, for thy seruauntes sake, euen according to thyne owne heart, hast thou done al this magnificence, to shew all great thinges.

20 Lord there is none like thee, neither is there any God saue thou, according to all that we haue heard with our eares.

21 Moreouer, What nation on the earth is like thy people Israel, to whom God hath vouchsafed to come and redeeme them to be his owne people, and to make thee a name of excellencie and terriblenes, with casting out nations from before the people, whom thou hast deliuered out of Egypt?

22 Thy people of Israel dyddest thou make thyne owne people for euer, and thou becamest their God.

23 Therefore nowe Lorde, let the thing that thou hast spoken concerning thy seruaunt and his house, be true for euer, that thou Lord do as thou hast sayde:

24 Let it come to passe, that thy name may be magnified for euer, that it may be sayde, The Lorde of hoastes is the God of Israel, euen the God of Israel, and the house of Dauid thy seruaunt endureth stable before thee.

25 For thou O my God, hast tolde thy seruaunt that thou wylt buylde him an house, and therefore thy seruaunt hath founde in his heart to pray before thee.

26 And nowe Lorde, thou art God, and hast promised this goodnesse vnto thy seruaunt.

27 Nowe therfore let it be thy pleasure to blesse the house of thy seruaunt, that it may continue before thee for euer: For whom thou blessest O Lorde, the same is blessed for euer.

The. xviij. Chapter.

1 The battell of Dauid against the Philistines. 2 And against Moab, 3 Zoba, 5 Aram. 12 And Edom.

18 1 AND after this, it fortuned that Dauid smote the Philistines, & subdued them, and toke Geth and the townes that * longed thereto out of the handes of the Philistines.

2 And he smote Moab, and the Moabites became Dauids seruauntes, and payde hym tribute.

3 And Dauid smote Hadarezer king of Zoba vnto Hanath, as he went to stablishe his dominion by the riuer Euphrates.

4 And Dauid toke from hym a thousand charets, and seuen thousand horsemen, and twentie thousande footemen, and lamed all the charet horses, and reserued of them an hundred charets.

5 And when the Syrians of Damascon came to helpe Hadarezer king of Zoba,

Dauid

Dauid slue of the Syrians twentie and two thousande.

6 And Dauid put souldiers in Syria Damascon, and the Syrians became Dauids seruauntes, and brought him tribute: And the Lord preserued Dauid in all that he went to.

B. 7 And Dauid toke the shieldes of golde that were on the seruauntes of Hadarezer, and brought them to Hierusalem.

8 And from Tebhath, and from Chun, cities of Hadarezar, brought Dauid exceeding much brasse, wherwith Solomon made the brasen lauatorie, *the pillers, and the vessels of brasse.

9 And When Thou king of Hemath heard how Dauid had beaten al the "strength of Hadarezer king of Zoba, 10 He sent "Hadoram his sõne to king Dauid, to make peace with him, & to bielle him, because he had fought against Hadarezer, and beaten him (for Thou had warre with Hadarezer) and [Hadoram brought] all maner of te wels of golde, siluer, and brasse, with him.

11 And king Dauid dedicated them vnto the Lord, with the siluer and golde that he brought frõ all nations, from Edom, frõ Moab, from ỹ children of Ammon, from the Philistines, and from Amelec.

12 And Abisai the sonne of Zaruia slue of the Edomites in the salt valley eyghteene thousande, 13 And put souldiers in Edom, and all the Edomites became Dauid seruauntes: Thus the Lorde kept Dauid in all that he toke in hande.

14 And Dauid raigned ouer all Israel, and executed iudgement and righteousnesse among all his people. C

15 And Joab the sonne of Zaruia was ouer the hoast, & Jehosaphat the sonne of Ahilud recorder:

16 And Zadoc the sonne of Ahitob and Abimelech the sonne of Abiathar were the priestes, and Sausa was scribe, 17 And Banaiahu the sonne of Jehoiada was ouer the Crethites and the Phelethites: and the sonnes of Dauid were next vnto the king.

The .xix. Chapter.

4 Hanon king of the children of Ammon doeth great iniuries to the seruauntes of Dauid. 6 He prepareth an armie against Dauid, 15 and is ouercome.

A 1 Reg.11.a. AFter this, it chaunced that* Nahas the king of the children of Ammon dyed, & his sonne raigned in his steade.

2 And Dauid sayde: I will shewe kindnesse vnto Hanon the sonne of Nahas, because his (a)father dealt kindly with me. And Dauid sent messengers to comfort him ouer the death of his father: And the seruauntes of Dauid came into the lande of the children of Ammon to Hanon, to comfort him.

(a) Because Nahas receiued Dauid and his company when they persecuted him, he would shewe good pleasure to his sonne for the same.

3 But the lordes of the children of Ammon sayd to Hanon: Thinkest thou that Dauid doeth honour thy father in thy sight, that he hath sent comforters vnto thee? Are not his seruauntes come to (b)search, to loke, and espie out the land?

(b) The meaning can euer interpret the purpose of the spirit in the best sense.

4 Wherefore Hanon toke Dauids seruauntes, and (c)shaued them, and cut of their coates harde by their buttockes, & sent them away.

(c) They cut of halfe their beardes.

5 And there went certayne and told Dauid how the men were serued: And the king sent to meete them (for the men were exceedingly ashamed) and the king sayde: Tary at Jericho vntill your beardes be growen, and then returne.

6 And When the children of Ammon saw that they stanke in the sight of Dauid, Hanon and the children of Ammon sent a thousande talentes of siluer to hyre them charets and horsmen out of Mesopotamia, and out of Syria Maacha, and out of Zoba.

7 And they hyred thirtie and two thou- B sande charets, and the king of Maacha and his people: which came and pitched before Medeba: And the children of Ammon gathered them selues together frõ their cities, and came to battayle.

8 And When Dauid hearde of it, he sent Joab and all the hoast of strong men.

9 And the children of Ammon came out, and put them selues in aray to battayle before the gate of the citie: And ỹ kinges that were come, kept them by them selues backe in the fielde.

10 When Joab also saw that the frunt of the battayle was against him before and behind, he chose out of al the chosen men of Israel, and put them in aray against the Syrians.

11 And the rest of ỹ people he deliuered vnto the hand of Abisai his brother, & they put them selues in aray against the children of Ammon.

D 12 And he sayde: If the Syrians be to strong for me, thou shalt succour me, and if the children of Ammon preuayle against thee, I will helpe thee.

13 Plucke vp thyne heart, and let vs play the men for our peoples sake, and for the cities of our God: and the Lord shall do that which is good in his owne sight.

14 So Joab and the people that were with him, drue nye before the Syrians vnto the battayle: and they fled before him.

15 And when the children of Ammon saw that the Syrians were fled, they ran away likewise before Abisai his brother, and gat them into the citie: and Joab came to Hierusalem.

16 And when the Syrians saw that they were put to the worse before Israel, they sent messengers and fet out the Syrians that were beyond the "riuer: and "Euphrates Sophach the captayne of the hoast of Hadarezer went before them.

17 And it was told David: and he gathered all Israel, and went together ouer
Jordane, and came and set vpon them:
And when David had put hym selfe in aray against the Syrians, they fought with him.

18 But the Syrians fled before Israel, and David destroyed of the Syrians seuen thousand charets, and fourtie thousand footemen, and killed Sophach the captayne of the hoast.

19 And when the seruauntes of Hadarezer sawe that they were put to ỹ worse before them of Israel, they made peace with David, & became his seruauntes:
Neither would the Syrians helpe the children of Ammon any more.

The. xx. Chapter.

2 *And David toke the crowne of their

it had the wayght of a talent of golde, it was set vpon Dauids head: And he brought also exceeding much spoyle out of the citie.

3 And he brought out the people that were in it, and tormented them with sawes

The

The.xxi. Chapter.

1 Dauid causeth the people to be numbred. 14 And there dye seuentie thousande men of the pestilence.

A 1 AND Satan stoode vp against Israel, and prouoked Dauid to number Israel.

2 And Dauid sayde to Joab and to the rulers of the people: Go ye and number Israel from Beersheba to Dan: & bring it to me, that I may knowe the number of them.

3 And Joab answered: The Lorde make his people an hundred times so many mo as they be: But my lorde, O king, are they not all my lordes seruauntes: why then doth my lord require this thing: Why will my lorde be a cause of (a) trespasse to Israel:

4 Neuertheless the kinges word preuayled against Joab: And Joab departed, and walked throughout all them of Israel, and came to Hierusalem againe,

5 And gaue the summe of the number of the people vnto Dauid: And all they of Israel were a thousande thousand and an hundred thousande men that drue swoorde: and Juda was foure hundred threescore and ten thousande men that drue swoorde.

6 But the Leuites and Beniamin counted he not among them: For the kinges word was abhominable to Joab.

B 7 And the Lorde was displeased with this thing, and smote Israel.

8 And Dauid sayde vnto God: I haue sinned exceedingly in doyng this thing: And nowe I beseech thee, do away the wickednesse of thy seruaunt, for I haue done very foolyshly.

9 And the Lord spake vnto Gad Dauids seer, saying:

10 Go, and tell Dauid, saying, thus sayth the Lord, I geue thee the choyse of three thinges: choose the one of them, that I may do vnto thee.

11 And Gad came to Dauid, and sayd vnto him, thus sayth the Lorde: Choose thee

12 Either three yeres famishment, or three monethes to be destroyed before thyne aduersaries, & that the swoorde of thyne enemies may ouertake thee: or els the swoorde of the Lord and pestilence in the lande three dayes, and the angell of the Lorde destroying throughout all the coastes of Israel: And nowe aduise thy selfe, what woorde I shal bring againe to him that sent me.

13 And Dauid sayde vnto Gad, I am in an exceeding strayte: Let me fall nowe into the hande of the Lorde (for passing great are his mercies) but let me not fal into the hand of men.

14 So the Lorde sent pestilence vpon Israel: and there were ouerthrowen of Israel threescore and ten thousande men. C

15 And God sent the angell into Hierusalem to destroy it: And as he was about to destroy, the Lorde behelde, and had compassion on the euyll, & sayde to the angel that destroyed: It is enough, let nowe thyne hand ceasse. And the angel of the Lorde stoode by the threshing floore of Ornan the Jebusite.

16 And Dauid lift vp his eyes, and sawe the angell of the Lorde stand betweene the earth and heauen, hauing a drawen swoord in his hand, stretched out toward Hierusalem: Then Dauid and the elders of Israel whiche were clothed in sacke, fell vpon their faces.

17 And Dauid sayde vnto God: Is it not I that commaunded the people to be numbred? It is I that haue sinned and done euyll in deede: and what haue these sheepe done? Let thyne hande O Lorde my God be on me, and on my fathers house: but not on thy people, that they shoulde be punished.

18 And the angell of the Lord commaunded Gad to say to Dauid, that Dauid shoulde go vp and set vp an aulter vnto the Lorde in the threshing floore of Ornan the Jebusite.

19 And Dauid went vp according to the saying of Gad whiche he spake in the name of the Lorde.

20 And Ornan turned about, and saw the angell, and his foure sonnes were with him, and hyd them selues: But Ornan was threshing wheate.

21 And as Dauid came to Ornan, Ornan loked and sawe Dauid, and went out of the threshing floore, and bowed hym selfe to Dauid with his face to the grounde. D

22 And Dauid sayde to Ornan: Geue me the place of the threshing flooze, that I may buylde an aulter therin vnto the lozd: Thou shalt geue it me foz as much money as it is wozth, that the plague may ceasse from the people.

23 And Ornan sayd vnto Dauid: Take it to thee, and let my lozde the king do that which seemeth good in his eyes: Lo, I geue thee oxen also foz burnt sacrifices, and threshing instrumentes foz wood, & wheate foz meate offring, I geue it all.

24 And king Dauid sayde to Ornan: Not so, but I will bye it foz as much money as it is wozth: Foz I will not take that whiche is thyne foz the Lozde, noz offer burnt offringes without coast.

25 And so Dauid gaue to Ornan foz that place sicles of golde sixe hundzed by wayght.

26 And Dauid buylt there an aulter vnto the Lozde, and offred burnt offringes and peace offringes, and called vpon the Lozde, and he hearde him from heauen in fire vpon the aulter of burnt offring.

27 And when the Lozde had spoken to the angel, he put vp his swozd againe into the sheathe of it.

28 At that time when Dauid sawe that the Lozde had hearde him in the threshing flooze of Ornan the Jebusite, he vsed to offer there: €

29 Foz the tabernacle of the Lozde which Moyses made in the wildernesse, & the aulter of burnt offring, were at that season in the hill of Gibeon:

30 And Dauid coulde not go befoze it, to aske counsell at God, foz he was afrayde of the swozd of the angel of the Lozde.

The. xxii. Chapter.

2 Dauid prepareth things necessarie foz the buylding of the temple. 6 He commaundeth his sonne Solomon to buylde the temple of the Lozde, which thing he him selfe was fozbidden to do. 9 Under the figure of Solomon, Christ is promised.

A 1 AND Dauid said: This is the house of the lozd God, & this is the aulter foz the burnt offring of Jsrael.

2 And Dauid commaunded to gather together the straungers that were in the lande of Jsrael, and he set masons to hew and pollishe stones foz the building of the house of God.

3 And Dauid prepared plentie of iron foz nayles, & doores of the gates, & to ioyne withal, and aboundaunce of brasse without wayght,

4 And Cedar trees without number: Foz the Zidons and they of Tyze brought much Cedar wood to Dauid.

5 And Dauid sayde: Solomon my sonne is young and tender, and the house that is to be buylded foz the Lozde must be magnificall, excellent, and of great fame and dignitie throughout all countreys: I wil therfoze make ordinaunces foz it. And so Dauid prepared many thinges befoze his death.

6 And he called Solomon his sonne, and charged him to buylde an house foz the Lozde God of Jsrael.

B 7 And Dauid sayde to Solomon: *My sonne, I thought [as it was] in myne heart to buylde an house vnto the name of the Lozde my God:

*ii. Reg. vii. b. iii. Reg. v. a.

8 But the wozd of the Lozd came to me, saying: Thou hast shed much blood, and hast made great battayles: thou shalt therefoze not buylde an house vnto my name, foz thou hast shed much blood vpon the earth in my sight.

9 Behold, a sonne is bozne to thee, and he shalbe a man of rest, foz I wil geue him rest from all his enemies rounde about: Foz his name is Solomon, & I wil send rest and peace vpon Jsrael in his dayes.

10 He shall buylde an house foz my name, and he shalbe my sonne, and I wilbe his father, and I wil establishe the seate of his kingdome vpon Jsrael foz euer.

11 Nowe therfoze my sonne, the Lozde be with thee, and prosper thee, and thou shalt buylde an house to the Lozde thy God, as he hath sayde of thee.

12 And the Lozd shall geue thee wysdom and vnderstanding, and shall geue thee commaundementes foz Jsrael, that thou mayst kepe the lawe of the Lozde thy God.

13 Foz then thou shalt prosper, euen when thou takest heede and fulfillest the statutes and lawes which the Lozde charged Moyses with foz Jsrael: Plucke vp thyne hearte therfoze, & be strong, dzead not, noz be discouraged. €

14 Behold, accozding to my pouertie haue

I also

I also prepared for the house of the Lorde, an hundred thousande talentes of golde, and a thousande thousande talentes of siluer: and as for brasse & iron, it can not be nūbred, (for it is very much) And I haue prepared timber and stone, and thou mayst prouide more thereto.

15 Moreouer, thou hast workemen with thee inow, and masons, and carpenters, [to worke in stone and timber] & many men that be actiue for euery worke.

16 And of golde, siluer, brasse, & iron, there is no number: Up therefore, and be doing, and the Lorde shalbe with thee.

17 And Dauid commaunded al the lordes of Israel to helpe Solomon his sonne, saying:

18 Is not the Lord your God with you: and hath he not geuen you rest on euery side: for he hath geuen the inhabitours of the lande into my hand, and the land is subdued before the Lorde, and before his people.

19 Nowe therefore set your heartes and your soules to seke the Lord your God: Up, and builde ye the temple of the Lord God, to bring the arke of the couenaunt of the Lorde and the holy vessels of God into the house so built for the name of the Lorde.

22 And did eate & drinke before the Lord the same day with great gladnesse: And they made Solomon the sonne of Dauid king the second tyme, and annointed him prince before the Lorde, and Zadoc to be the hye priest.

3.Reg.ii.c. 23 *And Solomon sate on the seate of the Lord, and was kyng in steade of Dauid his father, and prospered: and all they of Israel obeyed him.

" Or, greatly.

2 And Solomon spake vnto all Israel, to the captaynes ouer thousandes, to the captaynes ouer hundredes, to the iudges, and to euery officer in all Israel, and to the auncient fathers.

3 And so Solomon and all the congregation with him *went to the hye place that was at Gibeon: *for there was the tabernacle of the congregation of God, *Whiche Moyses the seruaunt of the Lorde made in the wildernesse.

3.Reg.3.a. 1.Par.21.d. Exod.36. 2.Reg 6.a.

8 And Solomon saide vnto God: Thou hast shewed great mercie vnto Dauid my father, and *hast made me to raigne in his steade.

Sapi.ix.a.

3.Reg 3.a. 9 *Nowe therefore, O Lorde God, let thy promise whiche thou madest vnto

3.Reg.3.a. Dauid my father, be true: *For thou hast made me king ouer a people which is lyke the dust of the earth in multitude:

10 Wherfore geue me nowe wisedome and knowledge, that I may be able to (a) go in and out before this people: for who els can iudge this people that is so great?

(a) That I may gouerne this people.

11 *And God sayde to Solomon: Because this was in thyne heart, and because thou hast not asked treasure and riches, and honour, & the (b) liues of thine enemies, neither yet long lyfe, but hast asked Wisedome and knowledge for thy selfe, to iudge my people ouer which I haue made thee kyng:

3.Reg.3.b.

(b) That is, to be reuenged of thyne enemies.

12 Wisdome and knowledge is graunted vnto thee, and I wil geue thee treasure, and riches, and glorie: so that among the kynges that haue ben before thee, or after thee, none was or shalbe lyke thee.

13 And so Solomon came from the high place that was at Gibeon to Hierusalem from the tabernacle of the congregation, and raigned ouer Israel. ℂ

14 *And Solomon gathered charets and horsemen: and he had a thousande and foure hundred charets, & twelue thousande horsemen, whom he bestowed in the charet cities, and with the kyng at Hierusalem.

2 And Solomon tolde out threescore and ten thousande men to beare burthens, and fourescore thousand men to hewe stones in the mountayne, and (a) three thousand and sixe hundred to oversee them.

(a) It is to be understand diuers sortes of officers and ouerseers.

3 *And Solomon sent to Hiram the king of Tyre, saying: As thou diddest deale with Dauid my father, & * diddest sende him Cedar wood to build him an house to dwell in [euen so deale with me:]

* 2. Reg. v. a.

* Reg. v. b.

4 Behold I builde an house for the name of the Lorde my God, to offer vnto him holy thinges, & to burne sweete incense, and to set shewe bread before him continually, to offer burnt sacrifices of the morning and euening on the Sabbath dayes, in the feaste day of euery newe moone, and in the solempne feastes of the Lorde our God: for it is an ordinaunce to be continually kept of Israel.

5 And the house which I builde shalbe great: for great is our God aboue all gods.

6 But who is able to builde him an house: when that heauen and heauen aboue all heauens is not able to receaue him, what am I then that should build him an house: nay, but euen to burne sacrifice before him [shall this buildyng be.]

B 7 Sende me nowe therfore a cunnyng man, that can worke in golde and siluer, in brasse and iron, in purple, crymosin, (b) yelowe silke, & that can skyll to graue with the cunning men that are with me in Iuda and Hierusalem, whom Dauid my father dyd prepare.

(b) Others reade silke of a violet colour.

8 Sende me also Cedar trees, pine trees, and (c) algume trees, out of Libanon: for I wot that thy seruauntes can skill to hewe timber in Libanon: and behold my men shalbe with thine,

(c) Some take it for brasell.

9 That they may prepare me timber enough: for the house which I am determined to builde, shalbe wonderfull great.

10 And behold, for the vse of thy seruauntes the cutters and hewers of timber, I haue geuen twentie thousand quarters of beaten wheate, and twentie thousand quarters of barlye, and twentie thousande battes of wine, and twentie thousande battes of oyle.

11 And Hiram ỹ king of Tyre aunswered in writyng, which he sent to Solomon: Because the Lorde hath loued his people, therefore hath he made thee kyng ouer them.

12 And Hiram sayd moreouer: Blessed be the Lorde God of Israel which made heauen & earth, & that hath geuen Dauid the king a wise sonne, and one that hath discretion, prudence, and vnderstanding to build an house for the Lord, and a pallace for his kingdome.

13 And nowe I haue sent a wise man, and a man of vnderstandyng, whom my father Hiram dyd vse:

C

14 *The sonne of a woman of the daughters of Dan, and his father was a man of Tyre, & he can skyll to worke in golde and siluer, in brasse and iron, in stone and timber, in purple and " yelowe silke, in fine white and crymosin, and can graue sundry maner of grauinges, and to finde out diuers maner of subtyll worke that shalbe set before him, with thy cunnyng men, and with the cunnyng men of my lorde Dauid thy father.

* 3. Reg. 7. b.

" Or, Violet colour.

15 Nowe therfore, the wheate and barlye, oyle and wine, which my lorde hath spoken of, let him sende vnto his seruauntes:

16 And we wyll cut wood in Libanon as much as thou shalt neede, and wil bring it to thee in flotes by sea to Japho, from whence thou mayest cary them to Hierusalem.

17 And Solomon numbred all the straungers that were in the lande of Israel, after the number of them whom his father Dauid had numbred: And they were founde an hundred fiftie and three thousande, and sixe hundred.

18 And he set threescore and ten thousand to beare burthens, and fourescore thousande to hewe stones in the mountayne, and three thousande & sixe hundred officers to set the people a worke.

The. iij. Chapter.

The temple of the Lorde, and the porche are builded, with other thinges therto belongyng.

1 AND Solomon began to builde the house of the Lorde at Hierusalem in mount (a) Moria *where the Lorde appeared vnto Dauid his father, euen in the place that Dauid prepared in the threshyng flooze of Ornan the Jebusite.

(a) Which is the mountaine where Abraham thought to haue sacrificed his sonne. Gen.xxii. i.Par.xxi.a.

2 And he *began to buylde in the seconde day of the seconde moneth, * the fourth yere of his raigne. Actes.vii.f. iii.Reg.vi.a.

3 And these are the patternes whereby Solomon was instruct to builde the house of God: The length was threescore cubites after the olde measure, and the breadth twentie cubites.

4 And the porche that was before the length in the front, accordyng to the breadth of the house, was twentie cubites, and the heyght was an hundred and twentie cubites: and he ouerlayed it on the inner side with pure golde.

5 And the greater house he seeled with firre tree, which he ouerlayed with the best golde, and graued therto paulme trees and chaynes.

6 And he ouerlayed the house with precious stone beautifully: And the golde was golde of Paruaim.

B 7 The house [I say] the beames, postes, walles, and doores therof, ouerlayed he with golde, and graued Cherubs on the walles.

8 And he made the house most holy: whose length was twentie cubites, like to the breadth of the house, & the breath therof was also twentie cubites: and he ouerlayed it with good golde, euen with fiue hundred talentes.

9 And the wayght of the nayles of golde was fiftie sicles: and he ouerlayed the vpper chaumbers with golde.

10 *And in the house most holy he made two Cherubims of image worke, lyke children, and ouerlayed them with gold. Exod.25.h

11 And the wynges of the Cherubs were twentie cubites long: The one wyng was fiue cubites, reachyng to the wall of the house: and the other wyng was likewise fiue cubites, reachyng to the wyng of the other Cherub.

12 And euen so the one wyng of the other Cherub was fiue cubites, reaching to the wall of the house: and the other wyng was fiue cubites also, and reached to the wyng of the other Cherub.

13 So that the wynges of the said Cherubs were stretched out twentie cubites: and they stoode on their feete, and loked inwardes.

C 14 And he made a forehangyng of *yelow silke, purple, crymosin, and fine white, & caused the pictures of Cherubs to be brodred theron. *Or, Amber colour.

15 And he made before the house two pillers of thirtie and fiue cubites high, and the head that was aboue on the top of euery one of them was fiue cubites.

16 And he made chaynes of wreathen worke for the quier, and put them on the heades of the pillers: and made an hundred pomegranates, and put them on the chaynes.

17 And he reared vp the pillers before the temple, one on the right hande, and the other on the left: and called the ryght Jachin, and the left Boaz.

1 The aulter of brasse. 2 The lauatorie. 6 The caldrons. 7 The candlestickes. &c.

A 1 AND he made an aulter of brasse, twentie cubites long, and twentie cubites broade, and ten cubites hye.

2 *And he cast a brasen lauatorie of ten cubites from brym to brym, rounde in compasse, and fiue cubites hye: and a line of thirtie cubites dyd compasse it rounde about. iii.Reg.vii.d

3 And vnder it was the fashion of oxen, which dyd compasse it rounde about: with ten cubites dyd they compasse the lauatorie rounde about, and there were two rowes of oxen which were cast lyke molten worke.

4 And

4 And it stoode also vpon twelue oxen: three loked towarde the nozth, three towarde the west, three toward the south, and three toward the east: and the lauatozie was set vpon them, and all their backes were towarde the lauatozie.

5 And the thyckest of it was an hande breadth, and the brym like the brym of a cuppe, with floures of lilies: and it receaued and helde three thousande battes.

6 *And he made ten lauers, and put fiue on the right hand, and fiue on the left, to washe and clense in them such thinges as they offered foz a burnt offring: But the great lauatozie was foz the pzestes to washe in.

*1 Reg. vii. a

7 And he made ten candelstickes of gold, according to the patterne that was geuē of them, and put them in the temple, fiue on the right hande, and fiue on the left.

8 And he made also ten tables, and put them in the temple, fiue on the right side, and fiue on the left: And he made an hundzed basens of golde.

9 And he made the court of the pzestes, and the great court, and doozes to it, and ouerlayde the doozes of them with brasse.

10 And he set the great lauatozie on the right side of the east ende, ouer against the south.

11 And Hiram made pottes, shouels, and basens, & finished the wozke that he was appoynted to make foz king Solomon in the house of God.

12 The two pillers, and the bowles, and the pommels on the toppe of the two pillers, and the two wreathes to couer the two bowles of the pommels whiche were on the toppe of the pillers, 13 And foure hundzed pomegranates on the two wreathes: two rowes of pomegranates on one wreath to couer the two bowles of the pomels.

14 And he made two bottomes, and lauers made he vpon the bottomes. ℭ

15 The great lauatozie, and twelue oxen vnder it.

16 Pottes also, shouels, and fleshhokes: and all these vessels dyd (a) Hiram his father make to king Solomon foz the house of the Lozd, of bright brasse.

(a) Hiram is called Solomons father, because Solomon reuerenced him, and fauoured him as his father.

17 In the playne of Jozdane did the king cast them, euen in the clay grounde that is betweene Socoth and Zaredatha.

18 And Solomon made al these vessels in great aboundaunce: foz the weyght of brasse couide not be reckened.

19 And Solomon made al the vessels that were foz the house of God, the golden aulter also, & the tables to set the shewe bread vpon.

20 Mozeouer, the candelsticks with their lampes, to burne after the maner befoze the quier, and that of pzecious golde.

21 And the floures, and the lampes, and the snoffers made he of golde, and that perfect golde. D

22 And the "dzessing knyues, basens, spoones, and censers of pure golde: And the dooze of the temple, and the inner doozes within the place most holy, and the inner doozes of the temple were gilted.

" Some read hookes, and others instrumentes of musicke.

The. v. Chapter.

1 The things dedicated by Dauid, are put in the temple. 2 The arke is brought into the temple. 10 What was within it. 12 They sing prayse to the Lozde.

A 1 AND so all the wozke that Solomon made in the house of the lozd was finished: And *Solomon brought in all the thinges that Dauid his father had dedicated, with the siluer and golde, and al the iewels, and put them among the treasures of the house of God.

*1 Reg. vii. g

2 Then Solomon* gathered the elders of Jsrael together, and all the heades of the tribes and auncient fathers of the children of Jsrael, vnto Hierusalem, to bring the arke of the couenaunt of the Lozde out of the citie of Dauid, whiche is [in] Sion.

*1 Reg. viii. a

3 Wherefoze all the men of Jsrael resozted vnto the king in the feast, euen in the (a) seuenth moneth.

(a) September.

4 And all the elders of Jsrael came, and the Leuites toke vp the arke.

5 And the priestes & the Leuites brought away the arke of the tabernacle of ỹ congregatiõ, & al the holy vessels that were in the tabernacle, and they bare them.
6 And king Solomon & all the congregation of Israel that were assembled vnto him before the arke, offered sheepe and oxen, so many that they coulde not be tolde nor numbred for multitude.
7 And the priestes brought the arke of the appoyntment of the Lorde vnto his place, euen into the quier of the temple within the place most holy, and set it vnder the wynges of the Cherubs,
8 So that the Cherubs stretched out their wynges ouer the place of the arke, and the Cherubs couered both the arke and her barres aboue on hye.
9 And the barres of the arke were so long, that the heades of the barres were seene without the arke within the quier, but not without: and there the arke remayned vnto this day.
iii.Re.viii.f. 10 But there was nothing in the arke *saue the two tables which Moyses put therin at Horeb, when the Lord made a couenaunt with the children of Israel after they were come out of Egypt.
11 And it fortuned, that when the priestes were come out of the holy place (for all the priestes that were present, were sanctified, and did not then wayte by course)
12 That both the Leuites and the singers, vnder Asaph, Heman, and Jeduthun, were appoynted to sundry offices with their children and brethren, and were arayed in fyne whyte, hauing cymbales, psalteries, and harpes, and stoode at the east ende of the aulter, and by them an hundred and twentie priestes blowing with trumpets:
13 And the trumpet blowers and the singers so agreed, that it seemed but one voyce in praysing & thanking the Lorde: And when they lift vp their voyce with the trumpets, cymbales, and other instrumentes of musicke, and when they praysed the Lord, how that he is good, and that his mercie lasteth euer: the house of God was filled with a cloude, 14 So that the priestes coulde not endure to minister by the reason of the cloude: For the maiestie of the Lorde had filled the house of God. ℂ

The.vi. Chapter.

3 Solomon blesseth the people. 4 He prayseth the Lorde. 14 He prayeth vnto God for those that shall pray in the temple.

A iii.Re.viii.b.

1 Then Solomon sayde: *The Lord hath spoken, howe that he wil dwell in the darcke cloude.
2 And I haue buylt thee an house of habitation for thee, and a place for thy dwelling for euer.
3 And the king turned his face and blessed the whole congregation of Israel, & all the congregation of Israel stoode.
4 And he sayde: Blessed be the Lord God of Israel, which hath with his handes fulfilled it that he spake with his mouth to my father Dauid, saying:
ii.Reg.vii.a. iii.Re.xiii.b. 5 *Since the day that I brought my people out of the lande of Egypt, I chose no cittie among all the tribes of Israel to buylde an "house in, that my name might be there, neither chose I any man to be a ruler ouer my people Israel:
" Or, temple.
ii.Par.vii.d. and xii.d. 6 Sauing that *I haue chosen Hierusalem, that my name might be there, and haue chosen Dauid to be ouer my people Israel.
B ii.reg.vii.i. iii.reg. viii.b i.Pa. xxii.b. 7 *And when it was in the heart of Dauid my father to buylde an house for the name of the Lorde God of Israel,
8 The Lorde sayde to Dauid my father: Forasmuch as it was in thyne heart to buylde an house for my name, thou diddest well that thou thoughtest in thyne heart.
9 Notwithstanding, thou shalt not buyld the house: but thy sonne which is proceded out of thy loynes, he shall buylde an house for my name.
10 The Lorde therefore hath made good his saying that he hath spoken: and I am rysen vp in the roome of Dauid my father, and am set on the seate of Israel, as the Lorde promised, and haue buylt an house for the name of the Lord God of Israel.
11 And in it haue I put the arke wherein is the (b) couenaunt of the Lorde that he made with the children of Israel.
(b) Meaning the two tables.

12 And the king stoode before the aulter of the Lorde in the presence of all the congregation of Israel, and stretched out his handes:

13 (For now Solomon had made a brasen scaffold of fyue cubites long, and fyue cubites brode, and three of heyght, and had set it in the middes of the great courte, and vpon it he stoode and kneeled downe vpon his knees before al the congregation of Israel, and stretched out his handes towarde heauen,)

14 And sayde: *O Lorde God of Israel, there is no god like thee in heauen and earth, which kepest couenaunt & shewest mercie vnto thy seruauntes that walke before thee with al their heartes.

15 Thou whiche hast kept with thy seruaunt Dauid my father the thinges that thou promisedst him, thou saydest it with thy mouth, & hast fulfilled it with thyne handes, as it is to see this day.

16 And nowe Lorde God of Israel, kepe with thy seruaunt Dauid my father the thinges that thou promisedst him, saying, *Thou shalt in my sight not be without a man that shall sit vpon the seate of Israel, so that thy children take heede to their wayes to walke in my lawe, as thou hast walked before me.

17 And nowe Lord God of Israel, let thy saying be true whiche thou spakest vnto thy seruaunt Dauid.

18 (And wil God in verie deede dwel with men on earth? Beholde, *heauen and heauen aboue all heauens do not contayne thee, howe much lesse the house which I haue buylded?)

19 Let it be thy pleasure therfore to turne to the prayer of thy seruaunt and to his supplication O Lorde my God, to hearken vnto the voyce and prayer whiche thy seruaunt prayeth before thee,

20 And let thyne eyes be open towarde this house day & night, ouer this place wherof thou hast sayde that thou wouldest put thy name there, to hearken vnto the prayer whiche thy seruaunt prayeth in this place.

21 Hearken vnto the prayers of thy seruaunt and of thy people Israel, which they pray in this place: heare thou I say, out of thy dwelling place, euen out of heauen, heare, and be mercifull.

22 *If a man sinne against his neyghbour, and take an oth agaynst hym and make him to sweare, and they both come before thyne aulter in this house:

23 Then heare thou from heauen, and do and iudge thy seruauntes, that thou rewarde the vngodly & recompence hym his way vpon his head, and iustifie the righteous, and geue him according to his righteousnes.

24 And if thy people Israel be put to the worse before the enemie, because they haue sinned against thee: yet if they turne & geue thankes vnto thy name, and make intercession, and pray before thee in this house:

25 Then heare thou from heauen, and be merciful vnto the sinne of thy people Israel, and bryng them againe vnto the lande which thou gauest to them and to their fathers.

26 *When heauen is shut vp, and there be no rayne, because they haue sinned against thee: yet if they pray in this place, and confesse thy name, and repent from their sinne for the which thou chastenest them:

27 Then heare thou in heauen, and be merciful vnto the sinne of thy seruauntes & of thy people Israel, and guyde thou them into the good way to walke in, and send rayne vpon thy lande Whiche thou hast geuen vnto thy people for an inheritaunce.

The. vii. Chapter.

1 The fire consumeth the sacrifice. 2 The glorie of the Lorde filleth the temple. 12 He heareth his prayer. 17 and promiseth to exalt him and his throne.

A 1 AND * when Solomon had made an ende of praying, * there came downe fire from heauen, and consumed the burnt offring and the sacrifices: & the house was filled with the glorie of the Lorde, 3 Reg.8.f. Leui.ix.d. in.Re.viii.g.

2 And the priestes coulde not go into the house of the Lorde, because the glorie of the Lord had filled the lordes house.

3 And when al the children of Israel saw howe the fire and the glorie of the Lord came downe vpon the house, they fell downe flat vpon their faces to the earth vpon the pauement, and worshipped and confessed vnto the lord, That he is gracious, and that his mercie lasteth euer.

4 And the king and all the people offered sacrifices before the Lorde.

5 And king Solomon offered a sacrifice of twentie and two thousande oxen, and an hundred and twentie thousande sheepe: and so the king and all the people dedicated the house of God.

6 And the priestes wayted on their offices, & the Leuites had the instrumentes of musicke of the Lord, which king Dauid had made to confesse vnto the Lord, that his mercie lasteth euer, Dauid praysing God by thē: And the priestes blew with trumpettes before them, and all they of Israel stoode.

7 Moreouer, Solomon halowed the middle of the court that was before the house of the Lorde, for there he offred burnt offringes: & the fat of the peace offringes, because the brasen aulter which Solomon had made, was not able to receaue the burnt offringes, and the meate offringes, and the fat. B

8 So at the same time Solomon kept * a (a) feast of seuen dayes, and al they of Israel with him, an exceeding great congregation, euen from the entring in of Hamath vnto the riuer of Egypt.

1 Mach.iii.g. (a) That was the feast of tabernacles.

9 And in the eyght day they made an assemblie: For they kept the dedication of the aulter seuen dayes, & the feast seuen dayes.

10 And the three and twentie day of the seuenth month he let the people depart into their tentes glad and mery in heart, for the goodnesse that the Lorde had shewed to Dauid and to Solomon, and to Israel his people.

i.Reg.ix.a. 11 *And so Solomon finished the house of the Lorde, and the kinges house: and all that came in his heart to make in the house of the Lorde, & in his owne house, went prosperously forwarde.

12 And the Lorde appeared to Solomon by night, and sayd to him: I haue heard thy petition, and *haue chosen this place for my selfe to be an house of sacrifice.

ii.Para.vi.a.

15 And from henceforth myne eyes shalbe open, and myne eares attent vnto the prayer that is made in this place.

ii.Para.vii.a. 16 And therfore nowe *I haue chosen and sanctified this house, that my name may be there for euer: and myne eyes and myne heart shalbe there perpetually.

17 And if thou wilt walke before me, as Dauid thy father walked, to do all that I haue commaunded thee, and shalt obserue my statutes and my lawes:

21 And this house whiche is most high, shalbe an astonishement to euery one that passeth by, and shal say: *why hath the Lorde dealt on this fashion with this lande, and with this house?

The.viii. Chapter.

2 The cities that Solomon buylt. 7 People that were made tributarie vnto him.
12 His sacrifices. 17 He sendeth to Ophir.

A i.Re.ix b. (a) Signifieng that he was twentie yeres in buildyng them.

1 AND *it fortuned, that after(a) twentie yeres, when Solomon had buylt the house of the Lorde and his owne house:

2 He buylt the cities that Hiram gaue hym, and put of the children of Israel in them.

3 And Solomon went to Hamath Zoba, (b) and strengthed it.

(b) Other reade he went against it.

4 And he buylt Thadmor in the wildernesse, & repaired all the store cities which were in Hamath.

5 And he buylt Bethhoron the vpper, and Bethhoron the neather, strong cities, hauing walles, gates, and barres:

6 And Baalah, and al the store cities that Solomon had, and all the charet cities, and the cities of the horsmen, and euery pleasaunt place that Solomon had lust to buyld in Hierusalem & Libanon, and throughout all the land of his dominion.

B 7 And all the people that were left of the Hethites, Amorites, Pherezites, Heuites and Iebusites, whiche were not of the children of Israel, 8 But were the children of them whiche were left after them in the lande, and were not consumed of the children of Israel, them dyd Solomon make to pay tribute, vntill this day.

9 But of the children of Israel dyd Solomon make no bondemen for his worke: but they were men of warre, and rulers, and great lordes with him, and captaynes ouer his charets and horsemen.

10 And kyng Solomons officers that ouer-sawe and ruled the people, were two hundred and fiftie.
11 And Solomon brought the daughter of Pharao out of the citie of Dauid, into the house that he had buylded for her:
For he sayde, My wyfe shall not dwel in the house of Dauid king of Israel, for it is holy, because that the arke of the Lorde is come vnto it.
12 Then Solomon offred burnt offringes vnto the Lorde on the aulter of the Lorde, whiche he had buylt before the porche:
13 Doyng euery thing in his due time, and offering according to the commaundemẽt of Moyses, in the Sabbathes, new moones, and solempne feastes, *three times in the yere, [that is to say] in the feast of sweete bread, in the feast of weekes, and in the feast of tabernacles.
14 And Solomon set the sortes of priestes to their offices as Dauid his father had ordered them, and the Leuites in their watches, for to prayse and minister before the priestes day by day, and the porters by course at euery gate: *for so had Dauid the man of God commaunded.
15 And they omitted not the commaunde-ment of the king vnto the priestes and Leuites, concerning any maner of thing, and concerning the treasures.
16 For Solomon made prouision for the charges, from the first day that the foundation of the house of the Lorde was layed, till it was finished, that the house of the Lorde was perfect.
17 Then went king Solomon to Ezion Gaber, and to Eloth at the sea side in the lande of Edom.
18 And Hiram sent hym by the handes of his seruauntes, shippes, and seruauntes that had knowledge of the sea: and they went with the seruauntes of Solomon to Ophir, and caryed thence foure hundred and fyftie talentes of golde, and brought it to king Solomon.

The. ix. Chapter.

1.9. The queene of Saba commeth to see Solomon, and bringeth giftes. 12 His yerely reuenues. 30 The time of his raigne. 31 His death.

1 AND *when the queene of Saba heard of the fame of Solomon, she came to proue him in hard questions at Hierusalem, with a verie great companie, with camels that bare spices, and plentie of golde, and precious stones: And when she was come to Solomon, she communed with him of all that she had in her heart.

iii.Reg.x.a. Mat xiii.d. Luk.x b.

2 And Solomon soyled her all her questions: and there was not one word hyd from Solomon, which he tolde her not.
3 And when the queene of Saba had seene the wisdome of Solomon, and the house that he had buylt,
4 And the meate of his table, the sitting of his seruauntes, and the standing of his wayters, their apparell, his butlars, their apparell, *his goyng vp by the whiche he went into the house of Lord: there was no more spirite in her.

* Or, His sacrifices which he offred in the house of the Lorde.

5 And she sayde to the king: The saying which I heard in myne owne lande of thyne actes and of thy wisdome, is true.
6 I beleued not the wordes of them, vntill I came and myne eyes had seene it: And beholde, the one halfe of thy wysdome was not tolde me: for thou exceedest the fame that I heard.
7 Happy are thy men, and happy are these thy seruauntes which stand before thee alway, and heare thy wysdome. B
8 Blessed be the Lorde thy God, whiche had lust to thee, to set thee [king] on his seate, that thou mightest be king for the Lord thy God: because thy God loueth Israel [and hath delyte] to make them continue euer, therefore made he thee king ouer them, to do right and equitie.
9 And she gaue the king an hundred and twentie talentes of golde, and of spices exceeding great aboundaunce, and precious stones: neither was ther any more such spyce as the queene of Saba gaue king Solomon.
10 And the seruauntes of Hiram and the seruauntes of Solomon which brought gold from Ophir, brought also Algume wood and precious stones.
11 And

11 And the king made of the Algume wood stayres in the house of the Lorde and in the kinges palace, & harpes, and psalteries for singers: And there was none such wood seene before in the land of Juda.

12 And king Solomon gaue to the queene of Saba euery pleasant thing that she asked, (a) besides that which she had brought vnto the king: And so she turned and went away to her owne lande with her seruauntes.

(a) Besides that, that is to say, the recompence of that which she had brought vnto the king.

13 The waight of golde that came to Solomon in one yere, was sixe hundred threescore and sixe talentes of golde:

14 Besides that which chapmen & marchauntes brought: and all the kinges of Arabia and rulers of that countrey brought golde and siluer to Solomon.

15 And king Solomon made two hundred tarkets of beaten golde: and sixe hundred sicles of beaten golde were spēt vpon one target.

16 And three hundred shieldes made he of beaten golde, & one shielde cost three hundred peeces of golde: and the king put them in the house that was in the forest of Libanon.

17 And the king made a great seate of yuory, & ouerlayde it with pure golde.

18 And there were sixe steps to the seate, with a footestoole of golde fastened to the seate: and pommels on eche syde of the sitting place, and two lions standing by the pommels.

19 And twelue lions stoode on the one side and on the other vpon the sixe steppes: so that there was no such worke made in any kingdome.

20 And all the drinking vessels of king Solomon were of golde, and al the vessels of the house that was in the forest of Libanon were of precious golde: for siluer was counted nothing worth in the dayes of Solomon.

21 For the kinges shippes went to Tharsis with the seruauntes of Hiram, euery three yeres once came the shippes to Tharsis, and brought golde, siluer, yuorie, and apes, and pecockes.

22 * And king Solomon passed all the kinges of the earth, in richesse & wysedome. iii.Reg.x.d.

23 And all the kinges of the earth sought the presence of Solomon, to heare his wysedome that God had put in his heart.

24 And they brought euery man his present, vessels of siluer, & vessels of golde, rayment, harnesse, spises, horses, and mules, and whatsoeuer might be gotten yere by yere.

25 * And Solomon had foure thousand stalles for horses, and charrettes, and twelue thousand horsemen: whom he bestowed in the charet cities, and [some were] with the king at Hierusalem. iii.Re.iiii.d. ℭ

26 And he raigned ouer all the kinges that were from Euphrates, vnto the lande of the Philistines, and to the border of Egypt.

27 * And the king made siluer in Hierusalem as plenteous as stones, and Cedar trees as plenteous as ẏ Mulberie trees that growe in the valleys: iii.Reg.x.d.

28 And they brought vnto Solomon horses, out of Egypt, and out of all landes.

29 * The rest of the actes of king Solomon first and last, are they not written in the sayings of Nathan the prophete, and in the prophecie of Ahiah the Silonite, and in the visions of Jddo the sear of visions against Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat: iii.Reg.xi.g

5 And he saide to them: Come againe vnto me after three dayes. And the people departed.

6 And king Rehoboam counsailed with the elders that had stande before Solomon his father while he yet lyued, and he saide: What counsaile geue ye me, to aunswere this people againe?

B 7 And they tolde him, saying: If thou be kinde to this people, and shewe thy selfe lowlie to them, and speake louyng wordes to them, they wyll be thy seruauntes for euer.

8 But he left the counsaile which the elders gaue him, and toke counsaile with the young men that were growen vp with him, and (a) that stoode in his presence.

(a) Which were of his counsell and secrete.

9 And he saide vnto them: What aduise geue ye, that we may aunswere this people, which haue communed with me, saying, Abate somewhat of the yoke which thy father did put vpon vs?

10 And the young men that were growen vp with him, spake vnto him, saying, Thus shalt thou aunswere the people that speake to thee, saying: Thy father made our yoke heauy, but make thou it somewhat lighter for vs: Thus shalt thou say vnto thē, My litle finger, shalbe heauier then my fathers loynes.

iii. Reg. xii. e

11 * For where my father put a heauy yoke vpon you, I will put more to your yoke: My father chastised you with whyppes, but I wyll chastise you with scourges.

12 And so Jeroboam and all the people came to Rehoboam the third day, as the king bade, saying, Come againe to me the third day.

14 And aunswered them after the aduise of the young men, saying: My father made your yoke greeuous, and I wyll adde thereto: my father chastised you with whyppes, but I wyll chastise you with scourges.

15 And so the king hearkened not vnto the people: but the occasion came of God, that the Lorde might make good his saying * which he spake by the hand of Ahia the Silonite to Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat. iii. Reg. xi. f.

16 And when all they of Israel saw that the king woulde not agree vnto them, the people aunswered the king, saying: What portion haue we in Dauid: For we haue no inheritaunce in the sonne of Jsai: Euery man to his tent oh Israel, iii. 18 Then king Rehoboam also sent Haduram that was ruler ouer the tribute, and the children of Israel stoned him with stones, that he dyed: But king Rehoboam made speede to get him vp to his charet, to flee to Hierusalem.

19 And they of Israel rebelled against the house of Dauid vnto this day.

4 Rehoboam is forbidden to fight against Jeroboam. 5 Cities which he built.
21 He hath eyghteene wyues, and threescore concubines, and by them eyght and twentie sonnes, and threescore daughters.

A 1 AND when Rehoboam was come to Hierusalem, * he gathered of the house of Juda and Beniamin, nine score thousand chosen men of warre, to fight against Jsrael, & to bring the kingdome againe to Rehoboam.

4 Thus saith the Lord, Ye shall not go vp nor fight against your brethren: returne euery man to his house, for this thing is done of me. And they obeyed the wordes of the Lorde, and returned from going against Jeroboam.

5 And Rehoboam dwelt in Hierusalem, and built strong cities in Juda.

11 And he repaired the ſtrong holdes, and put captaynes in them, and ſtore of vittaile, and wine, and oyle:
12 And in all cities he put ſhieldes and ſpeares, & made them exceeding ſtrong, hauing Juda and Beniamin on his ſyde.
13 And the prieſtes and the Leuites that were in all Iſrael, reſorted to him out of all their coaſtes.
14 For the Leuites left their ſuburbes, and their poſſeſſion, and came to Juda and Hieruſalem: * For Jeroboam and his ſonnes had caſt them out from miniſtring vnto the Lorde.
15 * And he ordayned him prieſtes for the high places, for the (a) deuils, and for the calues which he had made.
16 And after the Leuites, there went out all the tribes of Iſrael, ſuch as ſubmitted their heartes to ſeeke the Lord God of Iſrael, and came to Hieruſalem to offer vnto the Lorde God of their fathers.
17 And ſo they ſtrengthed the kingdome of Juda, & made Rehoboam the ſonne of Solomon mightie three yeres long: for three (b) yeres they walked in the way of Dauid and Solomon.
18 And Rehoboam toke him Mahalath the daughter of Jerimoth the ſonne of Dauid to wyfe, and Abihail the daughter of Eliab the ſonne of Iſai.
19 Which bare him children, Jeus, Samaria, and Zaham.
20 And after her he toke * Maacha the daughter of Abſolon, which bare him Abia, Atthai, Ziza, and Selomith.
21 And Rehoboam loued Maacha the daughter of Abſolō aboue al his wyues and concubines: for he toke eyghteene wyues and threeſcore concubines, and begat twentie and eyght ſonnes & threeſcore daughters.
22 And Rehoboam made Abia the ſonne of Maacha, the chiefe ruler among his brethren: for he thought to make him king.
23 (c) And he played wyſelie, and ſcattered all his children throughout al the countryes of Juda and Beniamin vnto euery ſtrong citie, and he gaue them aboundaunce of vittaile, and obtayned many wyues.

1 AND it came to paſſe, that when Rehoboam had ſtabliſhed the kingdome & became mightie, he forſooke the law of the Lorde, and (a) all Iſrael with him.
2 * And it fortuned, that in the fifth yere of king Rehoboam, Seſac the king of Egypt came vp againſt Hieruſalem, becauſe they had tranſgreſſed againſt the Lorde,

4 And he toke the ſtrong cities in Juda, and came to Hieruſalem.
5 Then came Semeia the prophete to Rehoboam and to the Lordes of Juda that were gathered togither within Hieruſalem for Seſac, and ſaide vnto them: Thus ſaith the Lorde, Ye haue left me, and therefore haue I alſo (c) left you in the handes of Seſac.
6 Whereupon the lordes of Iſrael and the king humbled themſelues, and ſaid: The Lorde is righteous.
7 And when the Lorde ſaw that they ſubmitted them ſelues, the worde of the Lorde came to Semeia, ſaying: They ſubmit them ſelues, therefore I wyl not deſtroye them, but I wyll deliuer them ſomewhat, and my wrath ſhall not be powred out vpon Hieruſalem by the hand of Seſac.
8 Neuertheleſſe, they ſhalbe his ſeruaūtes: to knowe what difference is betweene (d) my ſeruice and the ſeruice of the kingdomes of the worlde.

i.Reg.x.a. 10 In steade of which, king Rehoboam made shieldes of brasse, and committed them to the handes of the chiefe of the garde, & that kept the entraunce of the kinges house.

11 And it came to passe, that when the king entred into the house of the Lorde, the garde came and fet them, & brought them againe vnto the gard chamber.

12 And when he humbled himselfe, the wrath of the Lorde turned from him, that he woulde not destroy altogether: and in Juda all was well.

C 13 And so king Rehoboam wared mightie, & raigned in Hierusalem: And Rehoboam was one and fourtie yeres olde when he began to raigne, and he raigned seuenteene yeres in Hierusalem, the citie which the Lorde had chosen out of all the tribes of Israel to put his name there: And his mothers name was Naama, an Ammonitesse.

2 And he raigned three yeres in Hierusalem: (His mothers name also was Michaiahu, the daughter (a) of Uriel of Gibea:) And ther was warre betweene Abia and Jeroboam. (a) Called otherwyse Absalon.

3 And Abia set the battaile in aray with the armie of valiaunt men of warre, euē foure hundred thousand chosen men: And Jeroboam set him selfe in aray to fight agaynst hym with eyght hundred thousand pickt men, which were strong, and men of armes.

4 And Abia stoode vp vpon Zemaraim, an hill which is in mount Ephraim, and saide: Heare me thou Jeroboam and al Israel.

5 Do not you knowe how that the Lord God of Israel gaue the kingdome ouer them of Israel to Dauid for euer, euen to him and to his sonnes, with a (b) salted couenaunt? (b) with a firme & perpetuall.

6 And Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat the seruaunt of Solomon the sonne of Dauid is risen vp, and hath rebelled against his lorde.

B 7 And there gathered to him lewde men, the children of Belial, and preuailed against Rehoboam the sonne of Solomon, when Rehoboam was (c) young and tender hearted, and could not stand before them. (c) In hart and courage.

8 And now ye say, that ye be able to preuaile against the kingdome of the Lord, which is in the hande of the sonnes of Dauid, and ye be a great multitude, and haue the golden calues * which Jeroboam made you for gods. iii.Reg.xii.

9 * And haue ye not cast out the priestes of the Lorde the sonnes of Aaron and the Leuites, and haue made you priestes after the maner of the nations of other landes? so that whosoeuer commeth & consecrateth his hande with a young ore and seuen rammes, the same may be a priest of them that are no gods. ii.Par.xi.

10 But we belong vnto the Lorde our God whom we haue not forsaken, and the priestes are the sonnes of Aaron which minister vnto the Lorde, and the Leuites wayte vpon their office.

11 They burne vnto the Lorde euery morning and euening burnt sacrifices, and sweete incense: the shewe bread set they in order vpon a pure table, and prepare the candelsticke of golde with the lampes of the same to burne euer at euē: And truly we kept the watch of the lord our God, but ye haue forsaken him. C

12 And beholde, God him selfe is our captayne, tayne, and his prieſtes blowe with the *trumpettes and crie alarum againſt you. O ye children of Iſrael, fight not againſt the Lorde God of your fathers: for it wyll not proſper with you.

13 But for all that, Ieroboam conuayed men priuyly about, to come behinde thē: and ſo they were before Juda, and the layers in wayte were behinde them.

14 And when they of Juda loked about, beholde the battaile was before and behinde, and they cryed vnto the Lorde, and the prieſtes blewe with the trumpettes, 15 And the men of Juda gaue a ſhowte: And as the men of Juda ſhowted, it came to paſſe that God ſmote Ieroboam and all Iſrael before Abia and Juda.

16 And the children of Iſrael fled before Juda, and God delyuered them into their hande.

17 And Abia and his people ſlue a great ſlaughter of them: There fell downe wounded of Iſrael fiue hundred thouſand choſen men.

18 And ſo the children of Iſrael were brought vnder at that time, & the children of Juda preuayled, (b) becauſe they leaned vnto the Lorde God of their fathers. (b) The cauſe of victorie.

19 And Abia followed after Ieroboam, and toke cities from him, Bethel with the townes belonging thereto, Ieſana with the townes that belonged thereto, and Ephron with her townes.

20 And Ieroboam recouered no ſtrength againe in the dayes of Abia: And the Lorde plagued him, and he dyed.

21 But Abia waxed mightie, and maryed foureteene wiues, and begat twentie and two ſonnes, and ſixteene daughters.

22 The reſt of the actes of Abia, his maners and his ſayinges, are written in the ſtory of the prophete Iddo.

The .xiiij. Chapter.

3 Aſa deſtroyeth idolatrie, and commaundeth his people to ſerue the true God. 11 He prayeth vnto God when he ſhoulde go to fight. 12 He obtayneth the victorie.

1 SO Abia ſlept with his fathers, and they buryed him in the citie of Dauid, and * Aſa his ſonne raigned in his ſteade, in whoſe dayes the lande was in quietneſſe ten yeres. *Math.i.b.

2 And * Aſa did that was good & right in the eyes of the Lorde his God. *ii.Reg.xv.a

3 For he toke away ſtraunge aulters and the high places, and brake downe the images, and cut downe the groues:

4 And commaunded Juda to ſeeke the Lorde God of their fathers, and to do according to the lawe and commaundement.

5 And he put away out of all the cities of Juda the high places & the images: & the kingdome was quiet before him.

6 And he built ſtrong cities in Juda, becauſe the lande was in reſt, and he had no warre in thoſe yeres: for the Lorde had geuen him reſt.

7 Therefore he ſaide vnto Juda: let vs build theſe cities, & make about them walles, towres, gates, and barres, for the lande is yet in reſt before vs: becauſe we haue ſought the Lorde our God, we haue ſought him, and he hath geuen vs reſt on euery ſide. And ſo they built, and it proſpered with them.

8 And Aſa had an armie of men that bare ſhieldes and ſpeares out of Juda three hundred thouſand, & out of Beniamin that bare ſhieldes & drewe bowes two hundred and foureſcore thouſand: all theſe were valiaunt men.

9 And there came out againſt them Zarah the blacke Mozian * with an hoaſt of ten hundred thouſand, & three hundred charettes, & came as farre as Mareſa. *ii.Pa.xvi.c.

10 And Aſa went out before him, and they ioyned the battaile in the valley of Zephata, beſide Mareſa.

11 And Aſa cryed vnto the Lorde his God, and ſaide: Lorde, * it is no harde thing with thee to helpe with many or them that haue no power: Helpe vs therfore O Lorde our God, for we truſt to thee, and in thy name we go againſt this multitude: Thou art the Lord our God, and no man ſhall preuaile againſt thee. *i.Re.xiiii.d.

12 So the Lord ſmote the blacke Moores before Aſa and Juda, and the blacke

Moores

Moores fled.

1 And Asa & the people that was with him, folowed after them vnto Gerar: And the blacke Moores hoast was ouerthrowen, that there was none of them left, but were destroyed before the Lord and before his hoast: And they caryed away a mightie great pray.

14 And they smote all the cities rounde about Gerar, for the feare of the Lorde came vpon them: And they spoyled all the cities, & there was exceeding much spoyle in them.

15 They smote also the tentes of cattaile, and caryed away plentie of sheepe and camels, and returned to Hierusalem.

¶ The. xv. Chapter.

1 The exhortation of Izaria. 8 Asa purgeth his countrey of idolatrie. 11 He sacrifiseth with the people. 14 They sweare together to serue the Lorde. 16 He deposeth his mother for her idolatrie.

A 1 AND the spirite of God came on Azaria the sonne of Obed,

2 And he went out to meete Asa, and said vnto him: Heare me Asa, and al Juda and Benjamin, the Lorde is with you, while ye be with him: and when ye seeke him, he wyll be founde of you: and againe when ye forsake him, he also wyll forsake you.

3 Nowe for a long season Israel hath ben without the true God, and without priestes to teache, and without law.

4 And when any man in his trouble did turne vnto the Lorde God of Israel and sought him, he was found of them.

5 And in that time there was no peace to him that did go out and in, but great sedition was there among all the inhabiters of the earth.

6 And nation was destroyed of nation, and citie of citie: for God did moue all aduersitie among them.

B 7 Play ye therefore the men, and let not your handes slacke: for your worke shal be rewarded.

8 And when Asa heard those wordes, and the prophecie (a) of Azaria the sonne of Obed the prophete, he toke courage, and put away the abhominable idols out of all the lande of Juda and Beniamin, and out of the cities which he wan in mount Ephraim, and renued the aulter of the Lorde that was before the porche of the Lorde.

(a) He had two names, both Azaria, and Obed.

9 And he gathered al Juda and Beniamin, and the straungers with them, out of Ephraim, Manasse, & Simeon: For there fell many to him out of Israel, when they sawe that the Lord his God was with him.

10 So they assembled together at Hierusalē the (b) third moneth, the fifteenth yere of the raigne of Asa.

(b) May.

11 And they offered vnto the Lorde the same time of the spoyle which they had brought, seuen hundred oxen, and seuen thousand sheepe.

12 And they made a couenaunt to seeke the Lorde God of their fathers, with all their heart, and all their soule.

13 And whosoeuer would not seeke the Lorde God of Israel, (c) shoulde dye for it, whether he were small or great, man or woman.

C (c) A lawe of death for all idolaters. Deut.

14 And they sware vnto the Lorde with a loude voyce, shouting and blowing with trumpettes and shawmes.

15 And all they in Juda reioyced at the oth: for they had sworne vnto the Lord with all their heart, & sought him with all their lust, and he was found of them: And the Lorde gaue them rest rounde about on euery syde.

16 And king Asa put (d) Maacha his mother out of authoritie, because she had made an abhominable idol in a groue: And Asa broke downe her idol, & stamped it, & burnt it at the brooke Cedron.

(d) His grandmother.

17 But al the high places were not taken away out of Israel, though the heart of Asa was perfect all his dayes.

18 And he brought into the house of God the thinges that his father had dedicate, and that he him selfe had dedicate: euen siluer, and golde, and iewels.

19 And there was no more warre vnto the * thirtie and fiue yere of the raigne of Asa.

The. xvj. Chapter.

1 Asa for feare of Baasa king of Israel, maketh a couenaunt with Benhadad king of Syria. 7 He is reproued by the prophete. 10 whom he putteth in prison. 12 He putteth his trust in the phisitions. 13 His death.

A 1 IN the thirtie and sixth yere of the raigne of Asa, came * Baasa king of Israel against Juda, and buylt Rama, to thintent that he woulde let none passe out or in to Asa king of Juda.

*3.Reg.xv.c

2 And Asa fet out golde and siluer out of the treasures of the house of the Lorde, and [out] of the kinges house, and sent to Benhadad king of Syria that dwelt at Darmesec, and sayde:

3 There is a confederation betweene me and thee, betweene my father and thyne: beholde I haue sent thee siluer and golde, that thou wilt come & breake thyne appointment with Baasa king of Israel, that he may depart from me.

4 And Benhadad graunted vnto king Asa, and sent the captaines of his armies to the cities of Israel: and they smote Jion, Dan, and Abelmaim, and all the strong cities of Nephthali.

5 And when Baasa heard this, he left building of Rama, and let his worke ceasse.

B 6 And then Asa the king toke all Juda, and caried away the stones and timber of Rama wherewith Baasa was a building, and he built therwith Geba and Mispah.

7 At that tyme Hanani the sear came to Asa king of Juda, and sayde vnto him: (a) Because thou hast trusted in the king of Syria, and not rather put thy trust in the Lord thy God, therfore is the hoast of the king of Syria escaped out of thine hande.

(a) God reproueth suche kinges as are made suche rulers.

8 *Had not the blacke Moores and Lubim an exceeding great hoast, with manye charettes and horsemen? And yet because thou trustedst in the Lorde, he deliuered them into thyne hande. *ii.Par.xiiii.c

9 For the eyes of the Lorde beholde all the earth, to strengthen thē that are of perfect heart toward him: *Herein thou hast done foolishly, and therefore from hencefoorth thou shalt haue warre. *Gen.xxxi.d

10 And so Asa was wroth with the sear, and put him into a (b) prison house, for he was displeased with hym because of this thing: And Asa destroyed [certaine] of the people the same season.

(b) The prophete of God punished, for speaking his message.

11 And beholde, these deedes of Asa first and last, are written in the booke of the kinges of Juda and Israel. C

12 And Asa in the thirtie and ninth yere of his raigne fell licke in his feete, and that his disease continued very long: And *in his sickenesse he sought not the Lorde, but phisitions. *Eccle.38.a.

13 And Asa slept with his fathers, and dyed in the fourtie and one yere of his raigne.

14 And they buryed hym in his owne sepulchre which he had made for himselfe in the citie of Dauid, and layde hym in the bed which he had filled with diuers kindes of spices, & sweete odours made by the craft of the appothecaries: and burnt very much spice about him.

The. xvij. Chapter.

1 Jehosaphat trusting in the Lorde, prospereth in richesse and honour. 6 He aboliseth idolatrie, 7 and causeth the people to be taught. 11 He receaueth tribute of straungers. 13 His munitions and men of warre.

A 1 AND *Jehosaphat his sonne raigned in his steade, and preuayled against Israel. *Bath.i.b.

2 And he put souldiers in all the strong cities of Juda, and set rulers in the lande of Juda, and in the cities of Ephraim whiche Asa his father had wonne.

3 And the Lorde was with Jehosaphat, because he walked in the olde wayes of his father Dauid, and sought not Baalim,

4 But sought the Lorde God of his father, and walked in his commaundementes mentes, and not after the doynges of Iſrael.

5 And the Lorde ſtablished the kyngdome in his hande, & all they that were in Juda brought him presentes, so that he had aboundaunce of richesse and honour.

6 And he lyft vp his heart vnto the wayes of the Lorde, and he put downe yet more of the high places and groues out of Juda.

7 In the third yere of his raigne he sent to his lordes, euen to Benhail, Obadia, Zacharia, Nathanel, and to Michaiahu, that they shoulde (a) teache in the cities of Juda:

(a) Jehoſaphat sent visitours abrode into the countreys to see religion reformed, and the people truly instructed.

8 And with them he sent Leuites, euen Semeiahu, Nethaniahu, Zebadiahu, Asael, Semiramoth, Jehonathan, Adoniahu, Tobiahu, and Tob adoniahu, and with them Elisama, and Jehoram priestes.

9 And they taught in Juda, and had the booke of the lawe of God with them, and went about throughout all the cities of Juda, and taught the people.

10 And the feare of the Lorde fell vpon all the kingdomes of the landes that were rounde about Juda, and they fought not against Jehoſaphat.

11 And some of the Philistines brought Jehoſaphat gyftes, and tribute siluer, and therto the Arabians brought hym cattayle, euen seuen thousand and seuen hundred rammes, and seuen thousande and seuen hundred hee goates.

12 And so Jehoſaphat prospered, and grew vp an hie: and he buylt in Juda castels and cities of store.

13 And he had great "substaunce in the cities of Juda: but the men of armes and strongest souldiers were in Hierusalem.

" Or, great substance.

14 And these are the "offices of them in the house of their fathers: the captaines ouer thousandes in Juda, Adna the captaine, and with him of fighting men three hundred thousande.

" Or, numbers.

15 And next to his hande was Jehohanan a captaine, and with him two hundred and foureſcore thousande.

16 And next him was Amazia the sonne of Zichri, which of his owne good will offered hym selfe vnto the Lorde, and with him two hundred thousand mightie men of warre.

17 And of the chyldren of Beniamin, Eliada a man of might, and with hym armed men with bowe and shielde two hundred thousande.

18 And next hym was Jehoſabad, and with hym an hundred and foureſcore thousande, that were prepared for the warre.

19 These wayted on the kyng, besides those whiche the king put in the strong cities throughout all Juda.

¶ The. xviii. Chapter.

1 Jehoſaphat maketh affinitie with Ahab. 10 Foure hundreth prophetes counsell Ahab to go to warre. 14 Michea is against them. 23 Zedekia smiteth him. 25 The king putteth him in prison. 29 The effect of his prophecie.

A 1 AND Jehoſaphat had aboundaunce of richesse and honour, and ioyned affinitie with Ahab.

iii. Reg. 22. a. 2 And *after certaine yeres he went downe to Ahab to Samaria: And Ahab slue many sheepe and oxen for hym and for the people that he had with hym, and entreated hym to go vp with hym vnto Ramoth [in] Gilead.

3 And Ahab king of Iſrael sayde vnto Jehoſaphat king of Juda: Wylt thou go with me to Ramoth [in] Gilead? And he haunswered him: I will be as thou, and my people shall be as thyne [and we wyll go] with thee to the warre.

4 And Jehoſaphat sayde vnto the king of Iſrael: Seeke counsell I pray thee at the word of the Lord this same day.

5 Therfore the king of Iſrael gathered together of prophetes foure hundred men, & sayd vnto them: Shall we go to Ramoth [in] Gilead to fight, or should I ceasse? And they sayd: Go vp, & God shall deliuer it into the kinges hande.

6 But Jehoſaphat sayde: Is there yet here neuer a prophete more of the Lordes, that we might aske of hym?

7 And the king of Iſrael said vnto Jehoſaphat: There is yet one man by whō we may aske the Lorde: but I hate him, for he neuer prophecieth me good, but alway euyll, and the same is Michea the sonne of Jemla. And Jehoſaphat phat sayde, Let not the king say so.

8 And the king of Israel called one of his chamberlaynes, and sayd: Fetch hyther quickly Michea the sonne of Iemla.
9 And the king of Israel and Iehosaphat king of Iuda, sate eyther of them on his seate in their apparell, in a threshing floore beside the gate of Samaria, & al the prophetes prophecied before thē.
10 And one Zedekia the sonne of Chanaana had made hym *hornes of iron, and sayde, thus sayth the Lorde: With these thou shalt pushe Syria, vntill they be brought to naught. *3. Re. xxii.
11 And all the prophetes prophecied euen so, saying, Go vp to Ramoth [in] Gilead, & it shall prosper with thee: for the Lord shall deliuer it into the hand of the king.
12 And the messenger that went to call Michea, spake to hym, saying: Beholde, the wordes of the prophetes speake good to the king with one assent: let thy wordes therfore I pray thee be like one of theirs, that thou speake that whiche is pleasaunt.
13 And Michea sayde: As the Lorde liueth, euen what my God sayth, that wil I speake.
¶ 14 And when he was come to the king, the king sayd vnto him: Michea, should we go to Ramoth [in] Gilead to fight, or leaue of? And he sayd: Go vp, & al shalbe wel, and they shalbe deliuered into your hande.
15 And the king sayde to hym: So and so many times do I charge thee that thou say nothing but the trueth to me in the name of the Lorde.
16 Then he sayd: I did see all them of Israel scattered in the mountaynes, as sheepe that haue no sheephard: And the Lorde sayde, (b) These haue no maister, let them returne euery man therefore to his house in peace. (b) By the prophecieth howe the people should be discomfited, as Micha sayne.
17 And the king of Israel said vnto Iehosaphat: Did I not tel thee, that he would not prophecie good vnto me, but euyll?
18 But he sayd againe, Therfore heare ye the word of the Lord: *I saw the Lord sit vpon his seate, and all the companie of heauen stoode on his right hande and on his left. *3. Reg. 22. b. Esa. vi. a.
19 And the Lord sayd: Who shall deceaue Ahab king of Israel, that he may go vp and be ouerthrowne at Ramoth [in] Gilead? And one sayde this, a nother that.
20 And there came out a spirite, & stoode before the Lorde, and sayde: I will deceaue hym. And the Lorde sayde vnto hym, Wherin?
21 And he sayde: I will go out and be a (c) lying spirite in the mouth of all his prophetes. And the Lord sayd, Thou shalt deceaue him, and shalt preuayle: go out, and do euen so. (c) They that will not beleue ỹ trueth, God sendeth strong delusions that thei should beleue lies. 2. Thes. 2. ii Re. xxii. d Iob xii. d. Eze. xiii. c.
22 And nowe therfore behold * the Lorde hath put a lying spirite in the mouthes of [all] these thy prophetes, & the Lorde hath spoken euyll against thee.
23 And Zedekia the sonne of Chanaana went to, and smote Michea vpon the cheeke, and sayde: By what way went the spirite of the Lorde from me, to speake with thee? D
24 And Michea sayd: Behold, thou shalt see the day when thou shalt go from chamber to chāber, for to hide thy selfe.
25 And the king of Israel sayd: Take ye Michea, and bring him to Amon the gouerner of the citie, & to Ioas the kinges sonne.
26 And ye shall say, thus sayth the king: Put this felowe in the prison house, and feede hym with bread of affliction and water of trouble, vntill I come againe in peace.
27 And Michea said: If thou come againe in peace, then hath not the Lord spoken by me. And he sayde: Hearken to ye people euery one of you.
28 And so the king of Israel and Iehosaphat the king of Iuda, went vp to Ramoth [in] Gilead.
29 And the king of Israel sayde vnto Iehosaphat, I must chaunge me when I go to the battell: but see that thou haue thyne owne apparel vpon thee. And the king of Israel chaunged him selfe, and they came to the battell.
30 But the king of Syria had commaunded the captaynes of the charets that were with him, saying: See that ye fight not against small or great, saue against the king of Israel only.
31 And when the captaynes of the charets sawe Iehosaphat, they sayde, It is the king of Israel: And therfore they compassed about him to fight. But Iehosaphat cried out, & the Lord helped hym, and God " chased them away from him. " Or, moued them to departe frō hym.
32 For it came to passe, that when the captaynes of the charets perceaued that it was not the king of Israel, they turned backe againe from him.

S i 33 And

33 And a certayne man drew a bow [a] with all his might, and ſmote the king of Iſrael betweene the ioyntes of his habergin, & he ſayde to his charetman: Turne thyne hande, that thou mayeſt carie me out of the hoaſt, for I am wounded.

34 And the battell increaſed that day: howbeit the king of Iſrael cauſed his charet [c] to ſtand ſtill againſt the Syrians vntill euen: and about the time of the ſunne goyng downe, he dyed.

[a] Or, ignorantly.

[c] He diſſembled his feare, that his ſouldiers might fight the more courageouſly.

¶ The .xix. Chapter.

1 After Iehoſaphat was rebuked by the prophete, he calleth againe the people to the honoring of the Lorde. 5 He appoynteth iudges and miniſters, 9 and exhorteth them to feare God.

1 AND Iehoſaphat the king of Iuda came home againe in peace to Hieruſalem.

2 And Iehu the ſonne of Hanani the ſear wēt out to meete him, and ſayd to king Iehoſaphat: Wouldeſt thou helpe the vngodly, and loue them that hate the Lord? Therfore is wrath come downe vpon thee from before the Lorde:

3 Neuertheleſſe, there are ſome good actes founde in thee, in that thou haſt hewen downe the groues out of the lande, and haſt prepared thyne heart to ſeke God.

4 And Iehoſaphat dwelt at Hieruſalem, and turned [a] and went out to the people from Beerſeba to mount Ephraim, and brought them againe vnto the Lorde God of their fathers.

5 And he ſet iudges in the lande throughout all the ſtrong cities of Iuda, citie by citie:

6 And ſayde to the iudges, Take heede what ye do: for ye execute not the iudgementes of man, but of God, whiche is [b] with you in the iudgement.

7 Wherfore now let the feare of the Lord be vpon you, and take heede, & be doyng [the thing that pleaſeth hym] for there is no vnrighteouſnes with the Lorde our God, *that he ſhoulde haue any reſpect of perſons, or take rewardes.

8 Moreouer, in Hieruſalem dyd Iehoſaphat ſet of the Leuites, & of the prieſtes, and of the auncient fathers, ouer Iſrael in the iudgement and cauſe of the Lord: And they returned againe to Hieruſalē.

9 And he charged them, ſaying, Thus ſhal ye do in the feare of the Lord faythfully, and with a pure heart:

10 What cauſe ſoeuer come to you of your brethren that dwell in their cities, betweene blood and blood, betweene law & commaundement, betweene ſtatutes and ordinaunces: ye ſhall warne them that they treſpaſſe not againſt the Lord, and ſo wrath come vpon you and your brethren: Thus do, & ye ſhall not offend.

11 And behold, Amaria the hye prieſt is among you in all matters of the Lorde, and Zebadia the ſonne of Iſmael, a ruler of the houſe of Iuda for all the kinges matters: There be officers of the Leuites alſo before you, Take courage to you therfore, and be doyng [manfully] and the Lorde ſhalbe with ſuch as be good.

[a] He viſited all his countrey, and brought his people from idolatrie to the knowledge of the true God.

3 Iehoſaphat and the people pray vnto the Lorde. 22 The marueylous victorie that the Lorde gaue hym againſt his enemies. 30 His raigne and actes.

1 AFter this alſo, it fortuned that the children of Moab and the children Ammon, & with them other of the Ammonites came againſt Iehoſaphat to battell.

2 And there came ſome that told Iehoſaphat, ſaying: There commeth a great multitude againſt thee from the other ſide of the ſea, and out of Syria, and behold they be in Haſaſon Thamar, which is Engadi.

3 And Iehoſaphat feared, and ſet hym ſelfe to ſeke the Lorde, and proclaymed faſting throughout all Iuda.

4 And they that were in Iuda gathered thē ſelues together to aſke counſel of the Lord: And they came out of al the cities of Iuda, *to make interceſſion to ỹ lord.

5 And

* Or, to the quire of the Lorde.

5 And Iehoſaphat ſtoode betweene the congregation of Juda & Hieruſalem in the houſe of ỹ Lord before the newe court,
6 And ſayd: O Lord God of our fathers, art not thou God in heauen, and raigneſt not thou on all the kingdomes of the heathen, and in thyne hande is power and might, and there is no man that is able to withſtande thee?
7 Art not thou our God, whiche diddeſt caſt out the inhabiters of this lande before thy people Iſrael, & gaueſt it to the ſeede of Abraham thy louer for euer?
8 And they dwelt therin, and haue buylt thee a tẽple therin for thy name, ſaying:
9 *If euyll come vpon vs, as the ſworde of iudgement, peſtilence or hunger: then, if we ſtande before this houſe in thy preſence (for thy name is in this houſe) and crye vnto thee in our tribulation, heare thou, and helpe.
10 And nowe beholde the children of Ammon and Moab, and mount Seir, by whom thou wouldeſt not let them of Iſrael go When they came out of the lande of Egypt, but they departed from them, and deſtroyed them not:
11 See howe they rewarde vs, to come for to caſt vs out of thy poſſeſſion Whiche thou haſt geuen vs to inherite.
12 O our God, wilt thou not iudge them? for we haue no might againſt this great companie that commeth againſt vs: neither wote we What to do, but our eyes (a) be vnto thee.
13 And all Juda ſtoode before the Lorde, with their young ones, their wiues, and their children.
14 And there was Jahaziel the ſonne of Zacharia, the ſonne of Banaia, the ſonne of Jehiel, the ſonne of Matthania, a Leuite, of the ſonnes of Aſaph, & vpon hym came the ſpirite of the Lorde euen in the middes of the congregation:
15 And he ſayd, Hearken all Juda, and ye inhabiters of Hieruſalem, and thou king Iehoſaphat, thus ſayth the Lorde vnto you: Be not afrayd nor faynt hearted by reaſon of this great multitude: for the battell is not yours, but Gods.
16 To morow go ye downe againſt them: behold they come vp by the clift of Ziz, and ye ſhall finde them at the ende of the brooke before the wilderneſſe of Jeruel
17 Ye ſhall not neede to fight in this battell: but ſteppe forth and ſtand, and beholde the helpe of the Lorde Whiche is with you: feare not, nor let your heartes fayle you O ye of Juda and of Hieruſalem: To morow we go out againſt them for, the Lord wilbe with you.
18 And Iehoſaphat (b) bowed his face to the earth, and all Juda and the inhabiters of Hieruſalem fel before the Lord, worſhipping the Lorde.
19 And the Leuites of the children of the Caathites, & of the children of the Corahites, ſtoode vp to prayſe the Lorde God of Iſrael with a loud voyce on hie.
20 And when they aroſe early in the morning, they gat them out vnto the wilderneſſe of Thekoa, and as they went out, Iehoſaphat ſtoode and ſayd, Heare me O Juda, and ye inhabiters of Hieruſalem: Put your truſt in the Lorde your God, that ye may be founde faythfull: Geue credence to his prophetes, and ſo ſhall ye proſper.
21 When he had conſulted with the people, and ſet ſome to ſing vnto the Lorde, and to prayſe him in the beautie of holineſſe, and to go out before the armie, and to ſay, Prayſe the Lorde, for his mercie laſteth euer.
22 And When they began to ſhout and to prayſe, the Lord layde ambuſhementes againſt the children of Ammon, Moab, and mount Seir, Whiche were come againſt Juda: And they were ouerthrowen with ſtrokes among thẽſelues.
23 For the children of Ammon and Moab, roſe againſt the inhabiters of mount Seir, and they ſlue and deſtroyed them: And When they had made an end of the inhabiters of Seir, euery one helped to deſtroy another among them ſelues.
24 And When Juda came towarde Miſpah in the wilderneſſe, they loked vnto the multitude: and behold, they were dead carcaſſes fallen to the earth, and none eſcaped.
25 And When Iehoſaphat and his people came to take away the ſpoyle of them, they founde among them aboundaunce of goods, rayment, & pleaſaunt iewels, Which they toke for them ſelues, more then they could cary away: ſo that they were three dayes in gathering of the ſpoyle, it was ſo much.
26 And the fourth day they aſſembled in the valley of bleſſing, for there they (c) bleſſed the Lord: And therfore they called the name of the ſame place the valley of bleſſing, vnto this day.

(b) Declaring his fayth and obedience, to the worde of the Lorde.

27 And ſo all the men of Juda and Hieruſalē returned with Iehoſaphat their head, for to go againe to Hieruſalem with gladneſſe: for the Lord had made them to reioyce ouer their enemies.

E 28 And they came to Hieruſalem with pſalters and harpes, & ſhawmes, euen vnto the houſe of the Lorde.

29 And the feare of God fell on the kingdomes of all landes, when they had heard that the Lorde fought againſt the enemies of Iſrael.

30 And ſo the realme of Iehoſaphat was in tranquillitie, and his God gaue him reſt on euery ſide.

iii.Re.xxii.f 31 And* Iehoſaphat raigned vpon Juda, and was thirtie & fiue yeres olde when he began to raigne, & he raigned twentie and fiue yeres in Hieruſalem: And his mothers name was Azuba the daughter of Silhi.

32 And he walked in the way of Aſa his father, and bowed not therfrom, doyng that which was right in the ſight of the Lorde.

33 Howbeit the high places were not taken away: for the people had not yet prepared their heartes vnto the God of their fathers.

34 The reſt of the actes of Iehoſaphat firſt and laſt, behold they are written among the ſayinges of Jehu the ſonne of Hanani, which noted them in the booke of the kinges of Iſrael.

35 After this did Iehoſaphat king of Juda ioyne himſelfe with Ahaziahu king of Iſrael, whoſe mind was to do wickedly. F

36 He coupled him ſelfe with him, to make ſhippes to go to Tharſis: And they made the ſhippes in Ezion Gaber.

37 And Eliezer the ſonne of Dodauah of Mareſa prophecied againſt Iehoſaphat, ſaying: Becauſe thou haſt (b) ioyned thy ſelfe with Ahaziahu, ỹ lord hath broken thy workes. And the ſhippes were brokē that they were not able to go to Tharſis.

11 Moreouer, he made high places in the mountaynes of Juda, & cauſed the inhabiters of Hieruſalem to commit fornication, and prouoked Juda [to idolatrie.]

12 And there came a writing to him from Elia the prophete, ſaying, Thus ſayth the Lord God of Dauid thy father: Becauſe thou haſt not walked in the wayes of Iehoſaphat thy father, and in the wayes of Aſa king of Juda:

7 And it came of God that Ahaziahu shoulde be dispised for his comming to Jehoram: for when he was come, he went out with Jehoram against Jehu the sonne of Nimsi, * whom ẏ Lord had annointed to destroy the house of Ahab. B iiii.Re ix.b.

8 And the Leuites and all Juda did according to al thinges that Jehoiada the priest had commaunded, and toke euery man his men that came in on the Sabbath, with them that went out on the Sabbath day: neither did Jehoiada the priest let the companies depart.

9 And Jehoiada the priest deliuered to the captaynes of hundredes, speares, shieldes, and bucklers, that had parteyned to king Dauid, and were in the house of God.

1 Joas repaireth the house of the Lorde. 17 After the death of Jehoiada he falleth to idolatrie. 21 He stoneth to death Zacharia the prophete. 25 Joas is killed of his owne seruauntes. 27 After him raigneth Amaziahu.

A 1 JOas was seuen yeres olde when he began to raigne, & *he raigned fourtie yeres in Hierusalem: His mothers name also was Zibia of Beersheba.

2 And Joas dyd that which was right in the sight of the Lorde all the dayes of (a) Jehoiada the priest.

3 And Jehoiada toke him two wyues, and he begat sonnes and daughters.

4 And it chaunced after this, that Joas was minded to renue the house of the Lorde.

5 And he gathered together the priestes and the Leuites, and saide to them: Go out vnto the cities of Juda, and gather of all Israel money to repaire the house of your God from yere to yere, and see that ye haste the thing: Howbeit the Leuites were slacke.

6 And the king called Jehoiada that was the (b) chiefest, & saide vnto him: Why requirest thou not of the Leuites to bring in out of Juda and Hierusalem *the collection of money, according to the commaundement of Moyses the seruaunt of the Lorde, and of the congregation of Israel for the tabernacle of Witnesse?

B 7 For Wicked Athaliahu & her children brake vp the house of God, and all the thinges that were dedicate for the house of the lord, did they bestow for Baalim.

8 And at the kinges commaundement *they made a chest, and set it without at the gate of the house of the Lorde:

9 And made a proclamation through Juda & Hierusalem, to bring in to the Lord *the taxation of money that Moyses the seruaunt of God set vpon Israel in the wildernesse.

10 And the lordes and al the people reioyced, and brought in, & cast into the chest "vntill it was full.

" Or, Until they had made an ende.

11 And it fortuned, that at the same time they brought in the chest vnto them whiche were in the kinges businesse by the hand of the Leuites, and when they sawe that there was much money, the kinges scribe, and one appoynted by the hye priest, came, and emptied the chest, and toke it, and caried it to his place agayne. Thus they dyd day by day, and gathered much money.

12 And the king and Jehoiada gaue it to such as dyd the labour and worke in the house of the Lorde, and hyred masons and carpenters to repaire the house of the Lorde, and so dyd the artificers in iron and brasse to mende the house of the Lorde.

13 And so the workmen wrought, and the worke mended through their handes: and they made the house of God as it ought to be, and strengthed it. C

14 And when they had finished it, they brought the rest of the money before the king and Jehoiada, and therwith were made vessels for the house of the Lorde, euen vessels to minister withall, [and to serue for burnt offringes] " chargers and spoones, vessels of golde and siluer: And they offred burnt offringes in the house of the Lord continually all the dayes of Jehoiada.

17 And after the death of Iehoiada, came the (c) lordes of Juda and made obeysaunce to the king: And the king hearkened vnto them.

(c) which were flatterers and idolaters.

18 And so they left the house of the Lord God of their fathers, and serued groues and idoles, and then came the wrath of God vpon Juda and Hierusalem for this their trespaces sake.

ℸ 19 And he sent prophetes to them, to bring thē againe vnto the lord, & they testified vnto them: but they would not heare.

20 And the spirite of God came vpon Zacharia the sonne of Iehoiada the priest, which stoode by the people, and said vnto them, thus sayth God: Why transgresse ye the commaundementes of the Lorde, that ye cannot prosper: For because ye haue forsaken the Lorde, he also hath forsaken you.

22 And so Joas the king remembred not ỹ kindnesse which Iehoiada his father had done to him, but slue his sonne: And when he died, he saide, The Lorde loke vpon it, and require it.

23 And when the yere was out, it fortuned that the hoast of Syria came vp against him, & they came against Juda and Hierusalem, and destroyed all the lordes of the people from among the people, and sent all the spoyle of them vnto the king to Damascon.

24 For the Syrians came with a small company of men, and the Lorde deliuered a very great hoast into their hande, because they had forsaken the lorde God of their fathers: And they gaue sentence against Joas.

25 And when they were departed from him, they left him in great diseases: and * his owne seruauntes conspired against him for the blood of the (e) children of Iehoiada the priest, and slue him on his bed, and he died: and they buried him in the citie of Dauid, but not in the sepulchres of the kinges.

4 But he slue not their children, because it is written thus in the lawe and booke of Moyses, where the Lorde commaunded, saying: * The fathers shall not dye for the children, neither shall the children dye for the fathers, but euery man shall dye for his owne sinne.

Deu.24.c. 4.Reg 14.b Iere.31.e. Eze.xviii.c.

6 He hired also an hundred thousande strong fighting men out of Israel for an hundred talentes of siluer.

B

7 And there came a man of God to him, and saide, O king, let not the armie of Israel come with thee: for the Lorde is not with Israel, [to wit] with al the children of Ephraim.

8 But if thou wilt needes [be faithlesse] come on, and take the battaile in hande, and God shall make thee fall before the enemie: For God hath power to helpe, and to cast downe.

9 And

9 And Amaziahu saide to the man of God: What shal we do then for the hundred talentes which I haue geuen for the hoast of Israel? The man of God answered: The Lorde is able to geue thee much more then they be.

10 And Amaziahu separated them, [to wit] the armie that was come to him out of Ephraim, to go home againe: wherefore they were exceeding wroth with Juda, & returned home in great anger.

11 And Amaziahu toke heart, and caried out his people, and went to the salt valley, and * smote of the children of Seir ten thousand.

4.Reg.14.b.

12 And other ten thousand did the children of Juda take alyue, & caried them vnto the top of a rocke, and cast them downe from the top of the rocke, that they all to burst.

14 And it chaunced after that Amaziahu was come from the slaughter of the Edomites, he brought the gods of the children of Seir, and set them vp to be his gods, and bowed him selfe before them, and burned incense vnto them.

15 Wherfore the Lorde was wroth with Amaziahu, & sent vnto him a prophete, which saide vnto him: Why hast thou sought the gods of the people which were not able to (c) deliuer their owne people out of thyne hande?

(c) That which can not deliuer others from fear it self, is no god, but an idol.

16 And it chaunced, that as ỹ prophete talked with him, the king saide vnto him: Haue men made thee of the kinges counsel? Ceasse, Why wilt thou be beaten? And the prophete ceassed, and said: I am sure that God is minded to destroy thee, because thou hast done this, and agreest not vnto my counsell.

4.Reg.14.b.

17 * Then Amaziahu king of Juda toke aduise, and sent to Joas the sonne of Jehoahaz the sonne of Jehu king of Israel, and said: Come, that we may see eyther other.

18 And Joas king of Israel sent to Amaziahu king of Juda, saying: A thistle that is in Libanon, sent to a Cedar tree of Libanon, saying, * Geue thy daughter to my sonne to wife: And there came a wylde beast of Libanon, and trode downe the thistle.

4.Reg.14.c.

20 But Amaziahu woulde not hearken to him: for it came of God, euen to deliuer them into the hande of their enemies, because they sought counsel at the gods of Edom.

21 And so Joas the king of Israel came vp, and they saw either other, both he and Amaziahu king of Juda, at Bethsames which is in Juda.

22 And Juda was put to the worse before Israel, and they fled euery man to his tent.

23 And Joas the king of Israel toke Amaziahu king of Juda the sonne of Joas the sonne of Jehoahaz at Bethsames, and brought him to Hierusalem, and tare the wall of Hierusalem (from the gate of Ephraim, vnto the gate that was ouer against it) foure hundred cubites.

14 Uzzia obeying the Lorde, prospereth in his enterprises. 16 He wareth proude and vsurpeth the priestes office. 19 The Lorde plagueth him. 20 The priestes driue him out of the temple, and exclude him out of the Lordes house. 23 His burial, and his successour.

A iiii.Re.xv.a.

1 Then all the people of Juda toke Uzzia, which was * sixteene yeres olde, & made him king in the roome of his father Amaziahu.

2 And he built Eloth, and brought it againe to Juda, after that the king was layde to sleepe with his fathers.

3 Sixteene yeres olde was Uzzia when he began to raigne, and he raigned fiftie and two yeres in Hierusalem: His mothers name also was Jecholia, of Hierusalem.

4 And he did that which was right in the sight of the Lorde, according to all as did his father Amaziahu.

iiii.Re xii.b 5 And [it came to passe that] he sought God *in the dayes of Zachariahu, who had vnderstanding in the visions of god: And as long as he sought the Lorde, God made him to prosper.

6 And he went to battaile against the Philistines, and brake downe the wall of Geth, and the wall of Jabne, and the wall of Asdod, & built cities about Asdod and among the Philistines.

B 7 And God holpe him against the Philistines and against the Arabians that dwelt in Gur baal and Hamehunim.

8 And the Ammonites gaue tribute to Uzzia, & his name spread abrode euen to the entring in of Egypt: for he played the man exceedingly.

9 Moreouer, Uzzia built towres in Hierusalem by the corner gate, and by the valley gate, and at the turning of the wall, and made them strong.

10 And he built towres in the wildernesse, and digged many welles: For he had much cattaile in the valleyes & playnes, plowmen and vinedressers in the mountaines and in Charmel: for he loued husbandry.

11 And Uzzia had an hoast of fighting men, that went out to warre in the armie, according to the number of their office, vnder the hande of Jeiel the scribe, and Maasiahu the ruler, and vnder the hande of Hananiahu, which was one of the kinges lordes.

12 And the whole number of the auncient fathers and of the men of might, were two thousand and sixe hundred.

13 And vnder the hande of them was the armie of the men of warre, euen three hundred and seuen thousand, and fiue hundred that made warre with the power of an armie, helping the king against the enemies. C

14 And Uzzia prouided them throughout all the hoast, shieldes, speares, helmets, habergmnes, bowes, and slinges for to cast stones.

15 And he made subtill engins in Hierusalem, which he inuented and layed on the towres and corners, to shoote arrowes and great stones withall: And his name spread farre abrode, because he had prepared to him selfe marueylous strength.

16 But in his strength (a) his heart arose to his destruction: For he transgressed against the Lorde his God, and went into the temple of the Lorde to burne incense vpon the aulter of incense.

(a) Prosperitie puffeth vp the heart of man, and maketh him often to forget God.

17 And Azariahu the priest went in after him, and with him fourescore priestes of the Lorde, that were valiaunt men:

18 And they stoode by Uzzia the king, and saide vnto him: It parteyneth not to thee Uzzia to burne incense vnto the Lorde, but to the priestes the children of Aaron, that are consecrated for to offer incense: (b) Come therfore out of the sanctuarie, for thou hast trespassed, and it is no worship to thee before the Lorde God.

(b) Though his zeale and intention seemed good, yet because they were not ruled by gods worde, his fact was wicked, and ruthly punished. D iii.Re.xv.a

19 And Uzzia was wroth, & had incense in his hande to burne it: and so while he had indignation against the priestes, * the leprosie sprang in his forehead before the priestes in the house of the Lorde, euen beside the incense aulter.

20 And Azariahu the chiefe priest, with al the other priestes, loked vpon him, and beholde he was become a leper in his forehead, and they vexed him thence: and and he was faine to go out, because the Lorde had smytten him.

21 And Uzzia the king continued a leper vnto the day of his death, & dwelt seuerall in an house being a leper and shut out of the house of the Lorde: and Jotham his sonne had the gouernaūce of the kinges house, and iudged the people of the lande.

22 The rest of the actes of Uzzia first and last, did Isai the prophete the sonne of Amos write.

23 And so Uzzia slept with his fathers, and they buryed him with his fathers in the fielde of the buriall whiche was beside the sepulchres of the kinges: for they saide, he is a leper: And Jotham his sonne raigned in his steade.

The .xxvij. Chapter.

1 Jotham raigneth, and ouercommeth the Ammonites. 8 His raigne and death.
9 Ahaz his sonne raigneth in his steade.

1 JOtham was fiue and twentie yeres olde when * he began to raigne, and he raigned sixteene yeres in Hierusalem: his mothers name also was Jerusa, the daughter of Zadoc.

2 And he did that whiche was right in the sight of the Lorde, in all poyntes as did his father Uzzia, saue that he came not into the (a) temple of the Lorde: and the people did yet wickedly.

3 He built the hie gate of the temple of the Lorde, and on the wall (where the house of ordinaūce was) he built much.

4 Moreouer, he built cities in the mountaines of Juda, and in the wood countrey he built castels and towres.

5 He fought with the king of the children of Ammon, and preuailed against them: And the children of Ammon gaue him the same yere an hundred talentes of siluer, & ten thousand quarters of wheate, and ten thousand of barlye: So much did the children of Ammon geue him the second yere, and the third also.

6 So Jotham became mightie, (b) because he directed his way before the Lorde his God.

7 The rest of the actes of Jotham, and all his warres, and his conuersation, loe they are written in the booke of the kinges of Israel and Juda.

8 He was twentie and fiue yeres olde when he began to raigne, and raigned sixteene yeres in Hierusalem.

9 And Jotham slept with his fathers, and they buryed him in the citie of David: and Ahaz his sonne raigned in his steade.

The .xxviij. Chapter.

1 Ahaz an idolater is geuen into the handes of the Syrians and the king of Israel.
9 The prophet reproueth the Israelites crueltie. 18 Juda is molested with enemies.
23 Ahaz increaseth his idolatrie. 26 His death, and successour.

1 AHaz was * twentie yere olde when he began to raigne, and raigned sixteene yeres in Hierusalem, and he did not that whiche is right in the sight of the Lorde, as did his father Dauid:

2 For he walked in the wayes of the kinges of Israel, and made moulten images for Baalim.

3 He offered incense in the valley of the sonne of Hinnon, and * burnt his children in fire, after the abhominations of the heathen whom the Lorde cast out before the children of Israel.

4 He offred also and burnt incense in the high places, and on mountaynes, and vnder euery greene tree.

5 * Wherefore the Lorde his God deliuered him into the hande of the kyng of the Syrians, whiche beat hym, and caried away a great multitude of his captiue, and brought them to Damascon: And he was deliuered into the hande of the kyng of Israel, whiche smote hym with a great slaughter.

6 For Pekah the sonne of Remaliahu slue in Juda an hundred and twentie thousand in one day, which were all fighting men: and that because they had forsaken the Lord God of their fathers.

7 And

B 7 And Zichri a mightie man of Ephraim, slue Maasiahu the kinges sonne, and Azrica the gouernour of the house, and Elcana that was next to the king.

8 And the children of Israel toke prisoners of their brethren two hundred thousand women, sonnes, and daughters, and caryed away much spoyle of them, and brought the spoyle to Samaria.

9 But there was a prophet of the Lorde whose name was Obed: and he went out before the hoast that came to Samaria, and said vnto them: Behold, because the Lorde God of your fathers is wroth with Juda, (a) he hath deliuered them into your hande, and ye haue slaine them with cruelnesse, that reacheth vp to heauen.

(a) All victorie commeth of God.

10 And nowe ye purpose to keepe vnder the children of Juda and Hierusalem, and to make them bondmen and bondwomen: And do ye not lade your selues with sinne in the sight of the Lord your God:

11 Now heare me therfore, and delyuer the captiues againe whiche ye haue taken of your brethren: for els shall the great wrath of God be vpon you.

12 Wherfore certaine of the heads of the children of Ephraim, as Azariahu the sonne of Jehohanan, Berechiahu the sonne of Meshillemoth, and Jehezkiahu ỹ sonne of Shalluni, & Amasa the sonne of Hadlai, stoode vp against them that came from the warre,

C 13 And saide vnto them, Bring not in the captiues hither: for where as we haue offended toward God alredy, ye entende to adde more to our sinnes and trespasse: For our trespasse is great alredie, and there is a fierce wrath against Israel.

14 And vpon that, the men of armes left the captiues and the spoyle before the lordes and all the congregation:

15 And the men that were nowe rehearsed by name, rose vp, and toke the prisoners, and with the spoyle clothed all that were naked among them, & arayed them, & shooed them, and gaue them to eate and to drinke, and annoynted them, and carryed al that were feeble of them vpon asses, & brought them to Jericho the citie of Paulme trees, to their brethren: and then they returned to Samaria againe.

16 * At that same time did king Ahaz send vnto the kinges of the Assyrians, to haue helpe of them. 4. Reg. xvi. b.

17 And the Edomites came againe, and slue some of Juda, and caryed away captiues.

18 And the Philistines inuaded the cities in the lowe countrey, and towarde the south of Juda: And toke Bethshames, and Ataion, and Gederoth, and Socho with the townes longing thereto, and Thimna with the townes of the same, Gimso and the townes thereof, and dwelt there.

19 For the Lorde brought Juda lowe, D because of Ahaz king of Juda, whiche made Juda naked, & transgressed sore against the Lorde.

20 And Thilgath Pilneser king of the Assyrians came vpon him, and troubled him rather then strengthed him.

21 For Ahaz toke away a portion out of the house of the Lorde, and out of the kinges house, and out of the lordes houses, and gaue vnto the king of the Assyrians: and yet it helped him not.

22 And in the very time of his tribulation, did king Ahaz trespasse yet more against the Lorde.

23 For he offered vnto the gods of them of Damascon, which (b) beat him: and he said, Because the gods of the kinges of Syria helpe them, therefore wyll I offer to them, that they may helpe me also: But they were his destruction, and the destruction of all Israel.

(b) As he falsly supposed.

24 And Ahaz gathered together the vessels of the house of God, & brake them, and * shut vp the doores of the house of the Lorde, and made him * aulters in euery corner of Hierusalem. ii. Par. 29. a. ii. Par. 30. a.

25 And in all the cities of Juda he made high places to burne incense vnto other gods, and angred the Lorde God of his fathers.

26 The rest of his actes, and his workes first and last, beholde they are written in the booke of the kinges of Juda and Israel.

27 And Ahaz slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the citie of Hierusalem: but brought him not vnto the sepulchres of the kinges of Israel: and Hezekia his sonne raigned in his steade.

¶ The. xxix. Chapter.

3 Hezekia repaireth the temple, and aduertiseth the Leuites of the corruption of religion. 12 The Leuites prepare the temple. 20 The kinges and his princes sacrifice in the temple. 25 The Leuites sing prayses. 31 The oblation of the people.

A 1 HEzekia began to raigne when he was fiue and twentie yeres olde, and he raigned nine & twentie yeres in Hierusalem: And his mothers name was Abia, the daughter of Zachariahu.

2 And he did that which was right in the sight of the Lorde, in all poyntes as did Dauid his father.

3 He *opened the (a) doores of the house of the Lorde in the first yere and (b) first moneth of his raigne, and repaired them.

4 And he brought in the priestes and the Leuites, and gathered them together into the east streate,

5 And saide vnto them: Heare me ye Leuites, and now be sanctified and halow the house of the Lorde God of your fathers, bring filthynesse out of the holy place.

6 For our fathers haue trespassed, and done euill in the eyes of the Lorde our God, and haue forsaken him, and turned away their faces from the habitation of the Lord, and turned their backes on it.

B 7 And beside that, they haue shut vp the doores of the porche, and quenched the lampes, and haue neither burnt incense, nor offered burnt offringes in the holy place vnto the God of Israel.

(c) 8 (c) Wherefore the wrath of the Lorde fell on Juda & Hierusalem, and he hath brought them to trouble to be wondred on, & to be hissed at, euen as ye see with your eyes.

9 For loe, our fathers were ouerthrowen with the sword, and our sonnes, our daughters, and our wyues were caried away captiue for the same cause.

10 And now it is in myne heart to make a couenaunt with the Lord God of Israel, that he may turne away his heauy indignation from vs.

11 Now therefore my sonnes, be not negligent: for the Lorde *hath chosen you to stande before him, and for to minister and serue him, and to burne incense.

12 Then the Leuites arose, Mahath the sonne of Amasai, and Joel the sonne of Azariahu of the children of the Caathites: And of the sonnes of Merari, Cis the sonne of Abdi, and Azariahu the sonne of Jahalelel: And of ỹ sonnes of the Gersonites, Joah the sonne of Simma, and Eden the sonne of Joah:

13 And of the sonnes of Elizaphan, Simri and Jehiel: And of the sonnes of A- C saph, Zechariahu and Matthaniahu:

14 And of the sonnes of Heman, Jehiel, and Simei: And of the sonnes of Jeduthun, Semaia and Uzziel.

15 And they gathered their brethren, and purified them selues, and came according to the commaundement of the king and the wordes of the Lord for to clense the house of the Lorde:

16 And the priestes went into the inner partes of the house of the Lord to clense it, and brought out all the vnclenneſſe that they founde in the temple of the Lorde, into the court of the house of the Lorde: And the Leuites toke it, to cary it out into the brooke Cedron.

17 They began the first day of the first moneth to purifie, and the eyght day of the moneth came they to the porche of the Lorde: So they sanctified the house of the Lorde in eyght dayes, and in the sixteenth day of the first moneth they made an end.

18 And they went in to Hezekia the king, and saide: We haue clensed all the house of the Lorde, the aulter of burnt offring D with all his vessels, and the shew bread table with "all his apparell: "Or, vessels.

19 And all the vessels which king Ahaz did cast aside, when he raigned, & transgressed, them we haue prepared and sanctified, and beholde they are before the aulter of the Lorde.

20 And Hezekia the king rose earlye, and gathered the lordes of the citie, and went vp to the house of the Lorde.

21 And they brought seuen oxen, seuen rammes, seuen sheepe, and seuen hee goates, to be a sinne offring for the kingdome, for the sanctuary, and for Juda: And he commaunded the priestes the sonnes sonnes of Aaron, to offer them on the aulter of the Lorde.

(b) For without sprinkling of blood, nothing could be sanctified. Heb.ix. Exod.xxiiii.

22 And they slue the oxen, and the priestes receaued the blood and (b) sprinckled it on the aulter: likewyse when they had slaine the rammes, they sprinckled the blood vpon the aulter: They slue also the sheepe, and they sprinckled the blood vpon the aulter.

23 And then they brought foorth the hee goates for the sinne offering before the king and the congregation, & put their handes vpon them.

24 And the priestes slue them, and with the blood of them they clensed the aulter, to make satisfaction for all Israel: for the king cõmaunded that the burnt offering and the sinne offering shoulde be made for all Israel.

25 And set the Leuites in the house of the Lorde with cymbales, psalteries, and harpes,* according to the commaundement of Dauid and of Gad the kinges seer, and Nathan the prophete: For so was the commaundement of the Lord through the hande of his prophetes.

1.Par.xxv.a

26 And the Leuites stoode, hauing the instrumentes of Dauid: and the priestes helde the trumpettes.

27 And Hezekia commaunded to offer the burnt offring vpon the aulter: And when the burnt offring began, the song of the Lorde began also, and the trumpettes, with the instrumentes that were ordayned by the hand of Dauid king of Israel.

28 And all the congregation worshipped, singing a song, and blowyng with the trumpettes, and all this [continued] vntill the burnt offring was finished.

29 And when they had made an end of offering, the king and all that were present with him, bowed them selues, and worshipped. 4.Reg.xvii.

30 And Hezekia the king and the lordes, spake to the Leuites to prayse the Lord with the wordes of Dauid & of Asaph the seer: And they sang prayses with gladnesse, and the other bowed them selues, and worshipped.

31 And Hezekia answered, and saide: Now ye haue consecrated your handes to the Lorde: go to therefore, and bryng the sacrifices and thanke offerynges into the house of the Lorde. And the congregation brought in the sacrifices & thank offerynges, and burnt offrynges, as many as were of a free liberall heart.

32 And the number of the burnt offrynges which the congregation brought, was threescore and ten oxen, an hundred rammes, & two hundred sheepe: which were all for the burnt offering of the Lorde. F

33 And there were dedicated sixe hundred oxen, and three thousand sheepe.

34 And the priestes were to fewe to flay al the burnt offrynges: but their brethren the Leuites did helpe them, till they had ended the worke, & vntil the priestes were sanctified: For the Leuites were purer hearted to be sanctified, then the priestes.

35 And therto ỹ burnt offrynges were many, with the fat of the peaceoffrynges, & the drinke offrynges, that belong to the burnt offring: And so the seruice partey-nyng to the house of the Lorde, was finished.

36 And Hezekia reioyced, and all the people, that God had made the folke so readie, & that the thyng was so soone done.

proclaymed throughout al Israel from Beerseba to Dan, that they shoulde come & holde the feast of Passouer vnto the Lord God of Israel at Hierusalem: For they had not done it of a great season, as it was written.

6 So the postes went with letters of the king and of his lordes throughout all Israel and Juda, and at the commaundement of the king they sayde: Ye children of Israel, turne againe vnto the Lorde God of Abraham, Isahac, and Israel, and he will returne to the remnaunt that are escaped of you out of the hande of the kinges of the Assyrians.

B 7 And be not ye like your fathers and your brethren, which trespassed against the Lorde God of their fathers, which gaue them vp to be destroyed, as ye see.

8 And nowe be not ye stiffe necked like as were your fathers: but yeelde your selues vnto the Lord, and enter into his holy place whiche he hath sanctified for euer, and serue the Lord your God, and the fiercenesse of his wrath shal turne away from you.

9 For if ye turne againe vnto the Lorde, then shall your brethren and your children finde compassion in the presence of them that toke them captiue, and they shall come againe vnto this lande: *For the Lorde your God is gratious and mercifull, and will not turne away his face from you, if ye conuert vnto hym.

10 And so the postes went from citie to citie in the lande of Ephraim and Manasse, euen vnto Zabulon: but they laughed them to scorne, and mocked them.

11 Neuertheless, yet diuers of Aser, Manasse, and of Zabulon, submitted them selues, and came to Hierusalem.

12 And the hande of God was in Juda, and he gaue them one heart to do the commaundement of the king and of the rulers, according to the worde of the Lorde.

13 And there assembled to Hierusalem much people, and there was present a mightie great congregation, to holde the feast of sweete bread in the seconde moneth.

2 Par. 28.d. 14 And they arose, and remoued the *aulters that were in Hierusalem: And all the aulters for incense dyd they away, and cast them into the brooke Cedron.

16 And they stoode in their office after their maner and according to the lawe of Moyses the man of God: And the priestes sprinckled the blood, [whiche they receaued] of the hande of the Leuites, 17 For there were many in the congregation that were not sanctified, and therefore the Leuites had the charge of the killing of the Passouer for euery one that was not cleane, to sanctifie him vnto the Lorde.

18 For many of the people, and very many out of Ephraim, Manasse, Isachar, and Zabulon, were not clensed, and yet dyd eate Passouer against the lawe appoynted: But Hezekia prayed for them, saying, The good Lord be mercifull towarde euery one 19 That prepareth his heart to seeke the Lorde God, the God of his fathers: though he be not [clensed] according to the purification of the sanctuarie.

20 And the Lorde hearde Hezekia, and healed the people.

21 And the children of Israel that were present at Hierusalem, held the feast of D sweete bread seuen dayes, with great gladnes: and the Leuites & the priestes praysed the Lorde day by day, singyng with loude instrumentes vnto the lord.

22 And Hezekia spake comfortably vnto all the Leuites that had good knowledge [to sing] vnto the Lorde; and they dyd eate throughout that feast seuen dayes long, and offered peace offringes, and thanked the Lorde God of their fathers.

23 And the whole assembly toke counsell to do so other seuen dayes: & they helde those seuen dayes with gladnesse:

24 For Hezekia king of Juda, dyd geue to the congregation (c) a thousand young oxen, and seuen thousande sheepe: And the lordes gaue out to the congregation a thousand oxen, & ten thousande sheepe, and a great number of the priestes were sanctified.

(c) Hezekia destroyed his goods liberally, for the setting forth of gods glorie.

25 And al the congregation of Juda, with the priestes & Leuites, and all the congregation that came out of Israel, & the straungers that came out of the land of Israel, & that dwelt in Juda, reioyced.

26 And there was great gladnesse in Hierusa-

Hierusalem: For since the time of Solomon the sonne of Dauid king of Israel, there was no such [ioy] in Hierusalem.

27 And the priestes and the Leuites arose, and blessed the people: and their voyce was heard [of the Lorde,] and their prayer came vp vnto heauen his holy dwelling place.

6 And the children of Israel and Juda that dwelt in the cities of Juda, they also brought in the tythes of oxen and sheepe, & other holy tythes which were consecrate vnto the Lorde their God they dyd offer and brought them all by heapes.

19 And to the children of Aaron the priestes which were in the fieldes and suburbes of their cities, citie by citie, the men whose names were expressed afore, shoulde geue portions, euen to all the males among the priestes, and to all the Leuites, according to their number.

20 And of this maner did Hezekia throughout all Juda: & wrought it that is good, and right and true before the Lorde his God.

21 And in al the workes that he began, for seruice of the house of God, for the lawe, & for the commaundementes, he sought his God: and that did he with all his heart, and prospered. D

The. xxxii. Chapter.

1 Sennacherib inuadeth Juda. 3 Hezekia prepareth for the warre. 7 He exhorteth the people to put their trust in the Lorde. 9 Sennacherib blasphemeth God. 20 Hezekia prayeth. 21 The angell destroyeth the Assyrians, and the king is slayne. 25 Hezekia is not thankefull toward the Lorde. 33 His death.

A 1 AFter that these deedes were faythfully done, *Sennacherib king of the Assyrians came, and entred into Juda, & compassed the strong cities, and thought to winne them for him selfe.

*4. Reg. 18. c. Esa. xxxvi. a. 2. Esd. 32. c.

2 And so when Hezekia sawe that Sennacherib was come, and that he was purposed to fight against Hierusalem,

3 He toke counsell with his lordes and men of might, to stop the water of the fountaynes without the citie: And they dyd helpe him.

4 For there gathered many of the people together, and stopt all the welles, and the broke that ran through the middes of the land, saying: Why shall the kinges of the Assyrians come and finde much water?

5 And Hezekia went to lustyly, and buylt vp the wall where it was broken, and made ordinaunce vpon the towres, and to the other wall without, and repaired Millo in the citie of Dauid, and made many dartes and shieldes.

6 And he set captaynes of warre ouer the people, and gathered them together to him in the large streete of the gate of the citie, and spake gentylly to them, saying:

B 7 Plucke vp your heartes and be strong: be not afrayde nor discouraged for the king of the Assyrians, & for all the multitude that he hath with hym: *for 4. Reg. 16. c.
there be mo with vs then with hym.

8 With him is an *arme of flesh: but with Ier. xvii. a.
vs is the Lord our God for to helpe vs, and to fight our battayles. And the people toke a courage through the wordes of Hezekia king of Juda.

9 *After this did Sennacherib king of the Assyrians send of his seruauntes to Hierusalem (but he hym selfe remayned beside Lachis, hauing all his power with him) vnto Hezekia king of Juda, and vnto all Juda that were at Hierusalem, saying, 4. Reg. 18. c.

10 Thus saith Sennacherib king of the Assyrians: *Wherin do ye trust O ye that 4. Reg. 18. c.

11 Doth not Hezekia entice you to geue ouer your selues vnto death, hunger, and thirst, saying: The Lord our God shall ryd vs out of the hand of the king of the Assyrians?

12 Hath not the same Hezekia put downe his hye places and his (a) aulters, & commaunded Juda and Hierusalem, saying, Ye shall worship before one aulter, and burne incense vpon the same?

(a) The wicked make no difference betweene true religion, and false.

13 Knowe ye not what I and my fathers haue done vnto the people of all landes? were the gods of the people of other landes, able or mightie to saue their landes out of my hande?

14 Which of all the gods of those nations ℄ that my fathers destroyed, could deliuer his people out of my hande: And shall your God be able to deliuer you out of my hande?
15 Wherfore nowe let not Hezekia deceaue you, nor persuade you of this fassion, nor yet beleue him: For as no god among all nations and kingdomes, was able to rid his people out of my hand and out of the hand of my fathers: Howe much lesse shall your gods be able to kepe you out of my hande?
16 And yet mo thinges did his seruauntes speake against the Lorde God, and against his seruaunt Hezekia.
17 And Sennacherib also wrote a letter to rayle on the Lord God of Israel, and spake against him, saying: As the gods of the nations of [other] landes haue not ben able to deliuer their people out of my hande: euen so shal not the God of Hezekia deliuer his people out of my hande.
18 And they cried with a loude voyce in the Iewes speach vnto the people of Hierusalem that were on the wall, to feare them, and to make them faynt hearted, and that they might so take the citie.
19 And they spake against the God of Hie-

21 Amon was two and twentie yeres old when he began to raigne, and raigned two yeres in Hierusalem.
22 But he did euill in the sight of the Lord, like as dyd Manasse his father: for Amon sacrifised to all the carued images whiche Manasse his father had made, and serued them.
23 And submitted not him selfe before the Lorde, as Manasse his father had meekened him selfe: but Amon trespassed greatly.
24 And his owne seruauntes conspired against him, and slue him in his owne house.
25 But the people of the lande slue al them that had conspired against king Amon: and the same people of the lande made Josia his sonne king in his roome.

3 In the eyght yere of his raigne, when he was yet a childe, he began to seke after the God of Dauid his father: And in the twelfth yere he began to purge Juda & Hierusalem from the high places, groues, carued images, and images of metall.
4 And they brake downe the aulters of Baalim euen in his (a) presence: and other images that were in greater honour then they, he caused to be destroyed: And the groues, carued images, and images of metall he brake and made dust of them, and strowed it vpon the graues of them that had offered vnto them.

5 And he burnt the bones of the priestes vpon the aulters of them, and clensed Juda and Hierusalem:

B 7 He plucked asunder the (b) aulters & the groues, & did beate the images & stampe them to powder, and cut downe all the idoles throughout all the lande of Israel, and returned to Hierusalem againe.
(b) The godly zeale of this good prince is worthy example for al princes to folowe.
8 In the eyghteenth yere of his raigne, when he had purged the lande and the temple, *he sent Saphan the sonne of Azaliahu, and Maasiah the gouernour of the citie, and Joah the sonne of Joahaz the recorder, to repaire the house of the Lorde his God.

9 And when they came to Helkiah the hie priest, they deliuered the money that was brought into the house of God, whiche the Leuites that kept the entryes had gathered of the hand of Manasse and Ephraim, and of all that yet remayned in Israel, and of all Juda and Beniamin, and they returned to Hierusalem.
10 And they put it in the handes of the workmen that had the ouersight of the house of the Lorde, & they gaue it to the labourers that wrought in the house of the Lorde, to repaire and mende the house.

13 And ouer the bearers of burthens, and ouer all that wrought in whatsoeuer worckmanship it were, were there scribes, officers, & porters of the Leuites.
14 And when they brought out the money that was brought into the house of the Lorde, Helkia the priest * founde the booke of the law of the Lorde [geuen] by Moyses.

15 And

15 And Helkia aunſwered and ſayd to Saphan the ſcribe: I haue found the booke of the law in the houſe of the Lord. And Helkia gaue the booke to Saphan.

16 And Saphan caried the booke to the king, and brought the king word againe, ſaying: All that was committed to thy ſeruauntes, that do they.

17 And they haue gathered together the money that was founde in the houſe of the Lord, and haue deliuered it into the handes of the ouerſears of the worke, and to the handes of the workmen.

18 And then Saphan the ſcribe ſhewed the king, ſaying, Helkia the prieſt hath geuen me a booke: and Saphan read in it before the king.

19 And it fortuned, that when the king had heard the wordes of the lawe, he (d) tare his clothes:

20 And the king commaunded Helkia and Ahikam the ſonne of Saphan and Abdon the ſonne of Micah, and Saphan the ſcribe, and Aſaa a ſeruaunt of the kinges, ſaying:

21 Go and enquire of the Lord for me and for them that are left in Iſrael and Juda, concerning the wordes of the booke that is founde: For great is the wrath of the Lord that is fallen vpon vs, becauſe our fathers haue not kept the worde of the Lorde, to do after all that is written in this booke.

22 And Helkia and they that the king had [appoynted] went to Hulda a prophetiſſe, the wyfe of Sallum, the ſonne of Thecuath, the ſonne of Haſra, keper of the wardrope (for ſhe dwelt in Hieruſalem within the ſeconde wall:) & ſo they commuined with her.

23 She aunſwered them, Thus ſayth the Lorde God of Iſrael: Tell ye the man that ſent you to me,

24 Euen thus ſayth the Lorde: Beholde, I will bring euyll vpon this place, and vpon the inhabiters thereof, euen al the curſes that are written in the booke whiche they haue read before the king of Juda:

25 Becauſe they haue forſaken me, and haue offred vnto other gods, to anger me with all maner workes of their handes: therfore is my wrath ſet on fire againſt this place, and ſhall not be quenched.

26 And as for the king of Juda which ſent you to enquire of the Lord, ſo ſhal ye ſay vnto him: thus ſayth the Lorde God of Iſrael, concerning the wordes whiche thou haſt heard.

27 Becauſe thyne heart did (e) melt, and thou diddeſt meeke thy ſelfe before God when thou heardeſt his wordes againſt this place, and againſt the inhabiters thereof, and humbledſt thy ſelfe before me, and tareſt thy clothes, and weepedſt before me: that haue I heard alſo, ſayth the Lorde. (e) The ende of gods threatninges is for our repentaunce.

28 Behold, I wil take thee to thy fathers, and thou ſhalt be put in thy graue in peace, and thyne eyes ſhall not ſee all the miſchiefe that I will bring vpon this place, and vpon the inhabiters of the ſame. And they brought the king worde againe.

29 *Then the king ſent and gathered together all the elders of Juda and Hieruſalem: 4. Reg 22.a

30 And the king went vp into the houſe of the Lorde, and all the men of Juda, and the inhabiters of Hieruſalem, and the prieſtes and Leuites, and all the people great and ſmal, and [the king] did reade in their eares all the wordes of the booke of the couenaunt that was founde in the houſe of the Lorde.

31 And the king ſtoode at his ſtanding, and made a couenaunt before the Lorde, to folowe the Lorde, and to kepe his commaundementes, his witneſſe, and his ſtatutes, with all his heart, and with al his ſoule, and to fulfill the wordes of the appoyntment written in the ſayd booke.

32 And he ſet in their roome all them that were founde in Hieruſalem and Benamin: and the inhabiters of Hieruſalem did according to the couenaunt of the Lorde God of their fathers.

33 And Joſia put away all maner of abhominations out of all landes that parteyned to the children of Iſrael, and brought in all that were founde in Iſrael, to worſhip and to ſerue the Lorde their God: And they turned not aſide from after the Lorde God of their fathers, as long as he liued.

The. xxxv. Chapter.

1 Josia kepeth the passouer. 2 He setteth foorth gods seruice. 20 He fighteth against the king of Egypt, and dieth. 24 The people bewayle him.

A 1 AND Josia held* the [feast of] passouer vnto the Lorde in Hierusalem, & they slue passouer in the fourteenth day of the first moneth.

4. Reg. 23. a. m. Esd. 1. a.

2 And he set the priestes in their offices, and ayded them in the seruice of the house of the Lorde,

3 And sayd vnto the Leuites that taught all Israel, and were sanctified vnto the Lorde: Put the holy arke in the house whiche Solomon the sonne of Dauid king of Israel dyd buylde, it shalbe no more a burden vpon your shoulders: But now serue the Lord your God, and his people Israel:

4 And prepare your selues by your auncient housholdes, and companies, according to the Writing of Dauid king of Israel, and the Writing of Solomon his sonne:

5 And stand in the holy place, according to the deuision of the auncient housholdes of your brethren the children of the people, and after the deuision of the auncient housholdes of the Leuites:

6 Kill passouer, and sanctifie your selues, & prepare your brethren, that they may do according to the word of the Lord by the hande of Moyses.

B 7 And Josia gaue to the people flockes of sheepe and kiddes all for passouer, and for al that were present, thirtie thousande by tale, and three thousande oxen: and these were euen of the kinges substaunce.

8 And his lordes gaue willingly both vnto the people and to the priestes, and vnto the Leuites: Helkia also, Zacharia, and Jehiel, rulers of the house of God, gaue vnto the priestes for passouer offeringes two thousande and fiue hundred sheepe, and three hundred oxen.

(a) Liberall prouision for the ministerie.

9 (a) Conania, and Semeiahu, & Nathanael his brethren, & Hasabiah, and Jehiel, and Josabad, rulers of the Leuites, gaue vnto the Leuites passouer offeringes [euen] fiue thousande sheepe and fiue hundred oxen.

10 And so the seruice was prepared, and the priestes stoode in their places, & the Leuites in their distinct companies, at the kinges commaundement:

11 And they slue passouer, and the priestes sprinckled the blood with their hande, and the Leuites pulled of the skinnes of the beastes.

12 And they set away the burnt offeringes, to geue them vnto the people that were deuided be auncient houses, and that they shoulde offer vnto the Lorde, like *as is written in the booke of Moyses: And so dyd they with the oxen also.

Leuit. 1. a.

13 And *they dressed the passouer with fire, as the maner was: And the other dedicate beastes sodde they in pottes, caldrons, and pannes, and deuided them among all the people.

Exod. xiii.

14 And afterward they made redy for them selues and for the priestes: for the priestes the children of Aaron were busied in offring of burnt offringes and the fat vntill night: therfore the Leuites prepared for them selues and for the priestes the sonnes of Aaron.

15 And the singers the children of Asaph stoode in their standing, *according to the commaundement of Dauid, and Asaph, Heman, and Jeduthun the kinges (b) seer: and the porters wayted at euery gate, and might not depart from their seruice: for their brethren the Leuites prepared for them.

(b) Meaning the prophete.

16 And so all the seruice of the Lord was prepared the same day, to offer passouer, and to offer burnt offeringes vpon the aulter of the Lord, according to the commaundement of king Josia, 17 And the children of Israel that were present, kept the passouer the same time, and the feast of sweet bread seuen dayes.

18 And there was no passouer like to that kept in Israel from the dayes of Samuel the prophete, neither did al the kinges of Israel holde such a passeouer feast as dyd Josia, and the priestes and Leuites, and all Juda and Israel that were present, and the inhabiters of Hierusalem.

19 This passouer was holden in the eyghteenth yere of the raigne of Josia.

20 After

20 *After all this when Iosia had prepared the temple, Necho king of Egypt came vp to fight against Charcamis beside Euphrates: and Iosia went out against him.

21 Whiche sent messengers to hym, and said: what haue I to do with thee thou king of Iuda? Be not thou against thy selfe this day, for my warre is against another house, and God bad me make hast: Leaue of therfore & meddle not with God which is with me, lest he destroy thee.

22 Neuertheless Iosia would not turne his face from him, but rather toke aduise to fight with hym, and hearkened not vnto the wordes of Necho out of the mouth of God, and came to fight in the valley of Mageddo.

23 And the shooters shot dartes at king Iosia: And the king sayde to his seruauntes, Carie me away, for I am sore wounded.

24 His seruauntes therefore had hym out of that charet, and put him in another charet that they had: And when they had brought him to Hierusalem, he died, and was buried in the sepulchre of his fathers: *And all Iuda and Hierusalem mourned for Iosia. Zacha. xii. a.

25 And Jeremia lamented Iosia, and all singing men and singing women mourned for Iosias in their lamentations to this day, and made the same lamentations an ordinaunce in Israel: and beholde they are written in the lamentations.

12 And he dyd euyl in the sight of the Lord his God, and humbled not him selfe before Jeremia the prophete, at the mouth of the Lorde.

13 And he rebelled against king Nabuchodonosor, which had receaued an oth of him by God: but he was stifnecked, and to hard hearted to turne vnto the Lord God of Israel.

℄ 14 Moreouer, all the chiefe of the priestes and the people trespassed wonderfully after all maner of abominations of the heathen, and polluted the house of the Lorde which he had halowed in Hierusalem.

Ier.xxv.a. 15 *And the Lorde God of their fathers sent to them by his messengers, rising vp betimes, and sending: for he had compassion on his people, and on his dwelling place.

16 But they mocked the messengers of God, and despised his wordes, and misused his prophetes, vntill the wrath of the Lorde arose against his people, and till there was no remedie.

4.Reg.25.a. 17 And so *he brought vpon them the king of Chaldee, which slue their young men with the sword in their holy temple, and spared neither young man, mayden, old man, nor him that stowped for age: he gaue them all into his hande.

18 And all the vessels of the house of God, both great and small, and the treasures of the house of the Lorde, and the treasures of the king, and of his lordes: all these caryed he to Babylon.

19 And they burnt the house of God, and brake downe the wal of Hierusalem, and burnt all the pallaices thereof with fire, and destroyed all the goodly iewels therof.

20 And the rest that had escaped the sword, caried he to Babylon: where they were bondmen to him & his children, vntill the time that Persia had the Empire:

23 Thus sayth Cyrus king of Persia, All the kingdomes of the earth hath the Lorde God of heauen geuen me, & hath charged me to buylde hym an house in Hierusalem, that is in Juda: wherfore whosoeuer is among you of all his people, the Lorde his God be with him, and let hym go vp.

1 They builde the aulter of God. 6 They offer to the Lorde. 7 They prepare for the temple, 11 and sing vnto the Lorde.

A 1 AND when* the seuenth moneth came, and the childrē of Israel were now in their cities, the people came together euen as one man to Hierusalem.
2 And there stoode vp Jesua the sonne of Josedec, and his brethren the priestes, and Zorobabel the sonne of Salathiel and his brethren, and builded the aulter of the God of Israel, to offer burnt offeringes thereon, as it is written in the law of Moyses the man of God.
3 And the aulter set they vpon his* sockets: for there was a fearefulnesse among them, because of the people of those countries, therefore they offered burnt offeringes theron vnto the lorde, euen burnt offeringes * in the morning and at euening.
4 And they helde the feast of tabernacles * as it is written, and offered burnt sacrifices dayly, according to the number and custome, day by day.
5 Afterwarde they offered dayly burnt offringes also, and in the new moones, and in al the feast dayes that were consecrated vnto the Lord, and for all them which did of their owne free wyll offer vnto the Lorde.
6 From the first day of the seuenth moneth, began they to offer burnt sacrifices vnto the Lord: euen when the foundation of the temple of the Lorde was not yet layde.
7 They gaue money also vnto the masons and * carpenters, and meate and drincke, and oyle vnto them of Sidon and of Tyre, to bring the Cedar timber from Libanus by sea vnto Joppa, according to the graunt that they had of Cyrus the king of Persia.
8 In the second yere of their comming vnto the house of God at Hierusalem in the second moneth, began Zorobabel the sonne of Salathiel, and Jesua the sonne of Josedec, and the remnaunt of their brethren, the priestes and Leuites, and all they that were come out of the captiuitie vnto Hierusalem: and appointed the Leuites from twentie yeres olde and aboue, to see that the worke of the house of the Lorde went forwarde.
9 And Jesua stoode with his sonnes and brethren, and Cadmiel with his sonnes & the children of Juda together, to set forwarde the workmen of the house of God,

10 And when the builders layed the foundation of the temple of the Lorde, they appoynted the priestes in their "araye with trumpettes, and the Leuites the children of Asaph with cymbales, to prayse the Lorde * after the maner of Dauid king of Israel.

11 And they sang together when they gaue prayse and thankes vnto the lorde, Because he is gracious, and because his mercie endureth for euer vpon Israel:

And all the people showted loude in praysing the Lorde, because the foundation of the house of the Lord was layd.

12 Many also of the priestes & Leuites and chiefe fathers, and auncient men which had seene the first house, when the foundation was layde before their eyes, wept with a loude voyce, and many showted aloude with ioy:

13 So that the people coulde not discerne the ioyfull sounde & gladnesse, from the noyse of the weeping among the people: for the people showted with a loude crye, and the noyse was heard farre of.

2 The building of the temple is hindred, and how. 11 Letters to Artaxerxes, and the aunswere.

1 BUt * the aduersaries of Juda and Beniamin, heard that the children of the captiuitie builded the temple vnto the Lorde God of Israel:

iii.Esd.v.g.

2 And they came to Zorobabel and to the principall fathers, and saide vnto them: We will builde with you, for we seeke the Lorde your God, as ye do, and We haue done sacrifice vnto him since the time of Asor Haddon the king of Assur* which brought vs vp hither.

iii.Reg.12.d

3 And Zorobabel, and Jesua, and the other auncient fathers of Israel, sayde vnto them: "It can not be, that you and We together shoulde builde the house vnto our God: for We our selues will builde alone vnto the Lorde our God of Israel, * as Cyrus the king of Persia hath commaunded vs.

" Or, it is not for you, but for vs to.

i.Esd.i.a.

4 And it came to passe, that the folke of the lande discouraged the people of Juda, & troubled them as they were building:

5 And hyred counsellers against them, to hinder their deuice as long as Cyrus the king of Persia liued, vntil the raigne of Darius king of Persia.

6 And in the raigne of Ahasuerus, euen at the beginning of his raigne, wrote they vnto him a complaynt against the inhabiters of Juda and Hierusalem.

7 And in the dayes of Artaxerxes, wrote Mithridath, Tabel, and the other of his counsell, vnto Artaxerxes the king of Persia with faire wordes: And the writing of the letter was in the Syrians speache, and interpreted in the language of the Syrians:

8 Rehum the recorder, and Samsai the scribe wrote a letter " from Hierusalem to Artaxerxes the king, as it followeth.

" Or, against.

10 And other of the people* whom the great & noble Asnappar brought ouer, and set in the cities of Samaria, and other that are nowe beyond the water, and Cheeneth.

iiii.Reg.18.a

11 This is the copie of the letter that they sent vnto king Artaxerxes: Thy seruauntes, and the men that are nowe beyond the water, and Cheeneth.

12 Be it knowen vnto the king that the Jewes which came vp from thee to vs, are come vnto Hierusalem, a citie seditious and froward, and builde the same, and set vp the walles thereof, and lay the foundations.

13 Be it knowen now vnto the king, that if this citie be builded, and the walles made vp againe, then shal not they geue toule, tribute, and custome, & the kinges profite shall mcurre damage.

14 And now " in the meane season We haue destroyed the temple, and woulde no longer see the kinges dishonour, therefore sent We out also and certified the king,

" Or, We remembring that we were brought vp in the kinges pallace, and would &c.

15 That it may be sought in the booke of the cronicles of thy progenitours, and so so shalt thou finde in the booke of the cronicles, and perceaue that this citie is seditious and noysome vnto the kinges and " landes, and that they cause other also among them to rebell of olde: and for the same cause was this citie destroyed.

16 Therfore do we certifie the king, that if this citie be builded againe, and the walles thereof made vp, thou shalt hereafter haue no portion beyond the water.

17 Then sent the king an aunswere vnto Rehum the recorder and Samsai the scribe, and to the other of their companions that dwell in Samaria, and vnto the other that were beyond the water in Selam and " Cheeth.

18 The letter which ye sent vnto vs, hath ben openly read before me.

19 And I haue commaunded to make searche, and it is found that this citie of olde hath made insurrection against kinges, and that rebellion and sedition hath ben committed therein.

20 There haue ben mightie kinges also at Hierusalem, which haue raigned ouer all countreys beyond the water: and toule, tribute, and custome was geuen vnto them, 21 Geue ye nowe therefore commaundement, that the same men be forbidden, and that the citie be not builded againe, till I haue geuen another commaundement.

22 Take heede now that ye be not negligent to do this: for why should the king haue harme there through?

23 Nowe when the copie of king Artarerxes letter was read before Rehum & Simsai the scribe, and their companyons, they went vp in all the haste to Hierusalem vnto the Iewes, and forbad them with violence and power.

24 Then ceassed the worke of the house of God at Hierusalem, and continued so vnto the second yere of Darius king of Persia.

¶ The. v. Chapter.

1 Aggeus and Zachari do prophecie. 3 The worke of the temple goeth forward, contrary to the minde of Thathanai. 6 His letters to Darius.

1 THe prophetes Aggeus, and Zachari the sonne of Iddo, prophecied vnto the Iewes that were in Iuda and Hierusalem in the name of the God of Israel, euē vnto them.

2 *Then gat vp Zorobabel the sonne of Salathiel, and Iesua the sonne of Iosedec, and began to builde the house of God at Hierusalem: and with them were the prophetes of God, which helped them.

3 At the same time came to them Thathanai which was captaine beyond the water, and Stharbuzanai, and their companions, and saide thus vnto them: Who hath commaunded you to builde this house, & to make vp these walles?

4 Then saide we vnto them after this maner: what are the names of the men that make this building?

5 But the eye of their God was vpon the elders of the Iewes, that they could not cause them to ceasse, till the matter was brought to Darius: and then they aunswered by letters thereunto.

6 This is the copie of the letter that Thathanai which was captayne beyond the water, & Stharbuzanai, & the counsailours of Apharsath which were beyond the water, sent vnto king Darius.

7 And the matter that they sent vnto him, was written thus within the letter: Vnto Darius the king, all peace.

8 Be it knowen vnto the king that we went into the prouince of Iurie to the house of the great God, which is builded with mightie great stones, and beames are layde in the walles, and the worke goeth fast forth, and prospereth in their handes.

9 Then asked we the elders, and saide vnto them as it followeth: who commaunded you to builde this house, and to make vp the walles thereof?

10 We asked their names also, that we might certifie thee, and write the names of the men that were their rulers.

11 But they aunswered vs with these wordes, and saide: We are the seruauntes of him that is God of heauen and earth, and builde the house that was builded of olde and many yeres ago, iii.Reg.vi.a. ago, * which the great king of Israel builded, and set vp.

12 But after our fathers had prouoked iiii.Re.24 b. the God of heauen vnto wrath, * he gaue them ouer into the hande of Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon ✠ of the Chaldees, which brake downe this house, and caried the people away captiue vnto Babylon.

i.Esd.i a. 13 * But in the first yere of Cyrus the king ¶ of Babylon, the same king Cyrus gaue commaundement concerning this house of God, that it shoulde be built againe.

14 And the vessels of golde and siluer of the house of God which Nabuchodonosor toke out of the temple that was at Hierusalem, and brought them into the temple at Babylon: those did Cyrus the king take out of the temple at Babylon, i.Esdra.i.d. *and they were deliuered vnto one Sasbazar by name, whom he made captaine, 15 And saide vnto him: Take these vessels, and go thy way, and set them in the temple that is at Hierusalem, and let the house of God be builded in his place.

16 Then came the same Sasbazar, and layed the foundation of the house of God which is at Hierusalem: Since that time also vntill nowe hath it ben in building, and yet is it not finished.

17 Now therefore if it please the king, let there be searche made in the kinges librarie which is there at Babylon, whether it haue ben king Cyrus commaundement that this temple of God at Hierusalem shoulde be builded: and let the king send his minde concerning the same matter.

¶ The .vi. Chapter.

At the commaundement of Darius king of Persia after the temple was builded and dedicate, the children of Israel kepe the feaste of vnleuened bread.

1 Then cõmaunded king Darius: ✠ they made searche in the librarie, cuẽ in the place where they layed vp the treasure at Babylon:

2 And there was found in a coffer in the palace that is in the prouince of the Medes, a volume: and therein was it thus written as a memoriall.

3 In the first yere of king Cyrus, gaue the same king Cyrus commaundement concerning the house of God at Hierusalem, that the same house should be builded in the place where they offer the sacrifices, ✠ to ioyne the walles together of threescore cubites heyght, and threescore cubites breadth.

4 Three rowes of rough stones, and one rowe of newe timber: and the expences shalbe geuen of the kinges house.

5 And let the golde and siluer vessels of the house of God, which Nabuchodonosor toke out of the temple at Hierusalem and brought vnto Babylon, be restored, and brought againe vnto the temple at Hierusalem to their place in the house of God.

6 Now therefore thou Thathanai captaine beyond the water, ✠ Stharbuzanai, and your counsailers, and Apherschei which are beyond the water, get ye away from them.

7 Let the worke of the house of this God alone, that the captaine of the Iewes and their elders may builde the house of God in his place.

8 I haue commaunded what ye shall do to the elders of Iuda for the building of the house of God, that of the kinges goodes, euen of the tribute beyond the water, foorthwith expences be geuen vnto the men, that they be not hindred.

9 And if they haue neede of calues, rammes, and lambes for the burnt offering of the God of heauen, wheate, salte, wine, and oyle, after the custome of the priestes at Hierusalem, let the same be geuen them dayly without any delay:

10 That they may haue to offer sweete sauours vnto the God of heauen, ✠ pray for the kinges lyfe, and for his children.

11 And such a commaundement haue I geuen, that what man soeuer he be that altereth this word, there shall a beame be taken from his house, and set vp, and he shalbe hanged thereon, ✠ his house shalbe made a dounghill for the same thing.

12 And the God that set his name there, destroy all kinges and people that put to their hande to aulter and to breake downe downe the house of God which is at Hierusalem. I Darius haue made a decree, that this be done with speede.

C 13 Then Thathanai the captaine [of the countrey] beyond the water, & Sthar-buzanai, with their counsailours, according to that which king Darius had sent, so they did speedyly their diligence.

14 And the elders of the Iewes builded, and they prospered through the prophecying of Aggeus the prophete and Zachari the sonne of Iddo, and they builded, and they finished it according to the commaundement of the God of Israel, and after the commaundement of Cyrus and Darius & Artaxerxes, kinges of Persia.

15 And this house was finished the third day of the moneth Adar, euen in the sixt yere of the raigne of king Darius.

Par.vii.d. 16 *And the childrē of Israel, the priestes, the Leuites, and the other children of the captiuitie, helde the dedication of this house of God with ioy:

17 And offered at the dedication of this house of God an hundred oxen, two hūdred rammes, foure hūdred lambes: and for the reconciling of all Israel twelue hee goates, according to the number of the tribes of Israel:

18 And set the priestes in their sundry courses, and the Leuites in their diuers offices, to minister vnto God at Hierusalem, as it is written in the booke of Moyses.

19 And the children of the captiuitie held Passouer vpon the foureteenth day of the first moneth.

20 For the priestes and Leuites were pu- D rified all together, & killed Passouer for all the children of the captiuitie, and for their brethren the priestes, and for themselues.

21 And the children of Israel which were come againe out of captiuitie, and all such as had seperated themselues vnto them from the filthinesse of the heathen of the lande, to seeke the Lorde God of Israel, did eate, 22 And helde the feast of vnleauened bread seuen dayes with ioy: For the Lorde had made them glad, and turned the heart of the king of Assur vnto them, to strengthen their handes in the worke of the house of God, euen the God of Israel.

The .vij. Chapter.

1 By the commaundement of the king, Esdras and his companions come to Hierusalem. 27 He geueth thankes to God.

A 1  fter these thinges, ther was in the raigne of Artaxerxes king of Persia, one Esdras the sonne of Saraia, the sonne of Asaria, the sonne of Helkia, 9 For vpon the first day of the first moneth, began he to go vp from Babylon: and on the first day of the fifth moneth came he to Hierusalem, according to the good hand of his God that was vpon him.

10 For Esdras prepared his heart to seeke the law of the Lorde, and to do it, and to teache the preceptes and iudgementes in Israel.

11 And this is the copie of the letter that king Artaxerxes gaue vnto Esdras the priest, and scribe, which was a writer of the wordes and commaundementes of the Lorde, and of his statutes ouer Israel.

12 Artaxerxes a king of kinges, vnto Esdras

Esdras the priest and scribe of the law of the God of heauen, peace and salutation.

13 ℭ I haue commaunded that all they of the people of Israel, and of the priestes and Leuites in my realme, which are minded of their owne good wyll to go vp to Hierusalem, go with thee:

14 And therfore art thou sent of the king and of his seuen counsailers, to visite Juda and Hierusalem, according to the law of thy God, which is in thy hande:

15 And that thou shouldest take with thee siluer and golde which the king and his counsailers offer of their owne good wyll vnto the God of Israel, whose habitation is at Hierusalem:

16 And all the siluer and golde that thou canst finde in al the " countrey of Babylon, with it that the people offer of their owne good wyll, and the priestes geue wyllingly for the house of their God which is at Hierusalem:

" Or, prouince.

17 That thou mayst bye diligently with the same money, oxen, rammes, and lambes, with their meate offringes and drinke offringes, & thou shalt offer them vpon the aulter of the house of your God which is at Hierusalem.

18 And looke what lyketh thee and thy brethren to do with the remnaunt of the siluer and golde, that do after the wyll of your God.

D 19 And the vessels that are geuen thee for the ministration in the house of thy God, those deliuer thou before God at Hierusalem.

20 And whatsoeuer thing more shalbe nedefull for the house of thy God which is necessary for to spend, thou shalt receaue the charges out of the kinges treasure house.

21 I king Artaxerxes haue commaunded all the treasures beyond the water, that loke what soeuer Esdras the priest and scribe in the law of the God of heauen requireth of you, that ye fulfill the same speedylie, 22 Untill an hundred talentes of siluer, and till an hundred quarters of wheate, and till an hundred battes of wine, and till an hundred * battes of oyle, & salt without measure.

iii.Reg.vii.d

23 Whatsoeuer also is by the commaundement of the God of heauen, let the same be done without any delay for the house of the God of heauen, that he be not wroth against the realme, & against the king and his children.

24 And we certifie you, that ye haue no authoritie to require taxing and custome and yerely rentes, vpon any of the priestes, leuites, singers, porters, Nethinims, and ministers in the house of his God.

25 And thou Esdras, after the wysdome of thy God that is in thyne hande, set iudges and arbitrers [by my authoritie] to iudge all the people that is beyond the water, euen all such as know the law of thy God: and them that knowe it not, those see that ye teache.

26 And Whosoeuer wyll not fulfill the ℭ lawe of thy God, and the kinges lawe, let him haue his iudgement without delay, whether it be vnto death, or to be rooted out, or to be condempned in goodes, or to be put in prison.

27 *Blessed be the Lorde God of our fa- iii.Esd.i.a thers, which so had inspired the kinges heart, to garnische the house of the Lord that is at Hierusalem:

28 And hath enclined mercie vnto me in the presence of the king and his counsailers, and before all the kinges high estates: And I was comforted euen as the hande of the Lord my God was vpon me, and so gathered I the heades of Israel together, that they might go vp with me.

6 Of the children of Adin, Abed the sonne of Jonathan, and with hym fiftie men.

9 Of the children of Joab, Obadia the sonne of Jehiel, and with him two hundred and eyghteene men.

10 Of the children of Selomith, the sonne of Josephia, and with hym an hundred and threescore men.

12 Of the children of Asgad, Johanan the sonne of Hakatan, and with hym an hundred and ten men.

13 Of the children of Adonicam that were the last, whose names are these: Eliphelet, Jehiel, and Samaiah, & with them threescore men.

14 Of the children of Biguai, Uthai, and Zabud, & with them seuentie men.

15 And I gathered them together by the water that runneth towarde Ahaua, and there abode we three dayes: And I loked among the people and the priestes, and founde there none of the children of Leui.

16 Then sent I to Eliezer, to Ariel, Semeia, Elnachan, Jarib, Elnathan, Nathan, Zacharia, and to Mesullam, the rulers, and to Joiarib and Elnathan, which were men of vnderstanding.

17 And to those gaue I commaundement vnto Iddo the chiefest at Casphia, and I told them what they should say vnto Iddo & to his brethren the Nethinims at Casphia, that they shoulde cause the ministers of the house of our God to come vnto vs.

18 And through the good hande of our God vpon vs, they brought vs a very wyse man from among the children of Moholi the sonne of Leui the sonne of Jsrael, and Sarabia with his sonnes and his brethren, euen eyghteene.

19 And Hasabia and with him Jsai of the children of Merari, with his brethren, and their sonnes, twentie.

20 And of the Nethinims whom Dauid and the princes gaue to minister vnto the Leuites, two hundred and twentie of Nethinims: which al were named by name.

21 And euen there at the water beside Ahaua I proclaymed a fast, that we might humble our selues before our God, and seke of hym a right way for vs, and for our children, and for all our substaunce. D

22 For I was ashamed to require of the king souldiers and horsemen, to helpe vs against the enemie in the way: for we had spoken vnto the king, saying: The hande of our God is vpon all them that seke him in goodnesse, & his power and wrath is against all them that forsake hym.

23 So we fasted, and besought our God for this, and he was entreated of vs.

24 And I toke out twelue of the chiefe priestes, Sarabia, and Hasabia, and ten of their brethren with them,

25 And wayed them the siluer and golde, and vessels that were appoynted for the house of our God, whiche the king and his counsaylers, and his lordes, and al Jsrael that were there at hand, had geuen together.

26 And I wayed vnto their hande fyre hundred and fiftie talentes of siluer, and in siluer vessels an hundred talentes, and in golde an hundred talentes:

27 Twentie basons of gold of a thousand drammes, and two costly vessels of good brasse, as cleare as golde.

28 And I sayde vnto them: Ye are consecrate vnto the Lord, like as the vessels are holy also: and the gold and siluer are geuen of a good wil vnto the Lord God of your fathers. E

29 Watch ye, and kepe them: for ye shall way them downe before the chiefe priestes, and Leuites, and auncient fathers of Jsrael at Hierusalem, in the treasuries of the house of the Lorde.

30 Then toke the priestes and Leuites the wayed siluer and golde, and vessels, to bring it to Hierusalem vnto the house of our God.

31 And we brake vp from the water of Ahaua on the twelfth day of the first moneth, to go vnto Hierusalem: and the hande of our God was vpon vs, and deliuered vs from the hande of the enemies, and of such as layed wayte for vs by the way.

32 And we came to Hierusalem, and abode there three dayes.
33 But on the fourth day was the siluer and gold and vessels wayed in the house of our God by the hande of Meremoth the sonne of Uria the priest, and with hym was Eleazar the sonne of Phinehes, and with them was Josabad the sonne of Jesua, and Noadia the sonne of Bennoi the Leuites.
34 According to the number and weyght of euery one, was the wayght all written vp at the same time.
35 And the children of the captiuitie, which were come out of captiuitie, offred burnt offringes vnto the God of Israel, twelue bullockes for all Israel, ninetie and sixe rammes, seuentie and seuen lambes, twelue hee goates for sinne[offering] all to the burnt offering of the Lorde.
36 And they deliuered the kinges commission vnto the kinges officers, and to the captaynes that were beyonde the water: And they promoted the people, and the house of God.

The. ix. Chapter.

1 Esdras complayneth on the people that had turned them selues from God, and maried with the gentiles. 5 He prayeth vnto God.

A 1 When these thinges were done, the rulers came to me, and sayde: The people of Israel, and the priestes & Leuites are not separated from the people of the landes, as touching their abhominations: namely of the Chanaanites, Hethites, Pherezites, Jebusites, Ammonites, Moabites, Egyptians, and Amorites.
Deut. viii. a. Iosu. 23. c. Iud. iii a. 2 *For they haue taken the daughters of the same to them selues and to their sonnes, and the holy seede is mixed with the nations of the landes, & the hand of the princes and rulers hath ben principall in the trespasse.
3. Esd 8 c. 3 *And when I heard this saying, I rent my clothes and my garment, & pluckt of the heere of my head & of my beard, and "sate mourning.
"Or, sat dismaied astonied. 4 And there resorted vnto me all such as feared the wordes of the God of Israel, because of the transgression of the [people] of the captiuitie: And I sat "mourning vntill the euening sacrifice.
"Or, astonied. 5 And about the euening sacrifice I arose vp from my heauinesse, and rent my clothes and my rayment, and fell vpon my knees, and spread out my handes vnto the Lorde my God, 6 And sayde: My God, I am ashamed, and dare not lift vp myne eyes vnto thee my God: for our wickednesses are growen ouer our head, and our trespasse is wared great vnto the heauen.
7 Since the time of our fathers haue
B we ben in great trespasse vnto this day, *and because of our wickednesses haue we and our kinges and our priestes ben deliuered into the hande of the kinges of the nations, vnto the sworde, into captiuitie, into a spoyle, and into confusion of face, as it is to see this day. Deu. xviii. d 2. Para 32. b. 3. Reg. 14. d.
8 And nowe for a litle space grace hath ben shewed from the Lorde our God, in causing a remnaunt to escape, and in geuing vs a nayle in his holy place, that our God may light our eyes, and geue vs a litle lyfe to take breath in our bondage:
9 For we were bondmen, and yet our God hath not forsaken vs in our bondage, but hath enclined mercie vnto vs in the sight of the king of Persia, to geue vs lyfe to set vp the house of our God, and to redresse the desolation therof, and to geue vs a wall in Juda and Hierusalem.
10 And nowe O our God, what shall we say after this: for we haue forsaken thy commaundementes, 11 Whiche thou hast commaunded by thy seruauntes the prophetes, saying: The lande vnto which ye go to possesse, it is an vncleane lande, because of the filthinesse of the people of the landes, whiche with their abhominations haue made it full of vncleannesse on euery syde.
12 *Therfore shal ye not geue your daughters vnto their sonnes, and their daughters shall ye not take vnto your sonnes, nor seke their peace and wealth for euer: that ye may be strong and "enioy the goodnesse of the lande, and that ye and your children may haue the inheritaunce of it for euermore. Deut. viii. "Or, eate.

13 And after that all these thinges are come vpon vs because of our euyll deedes and great trespasses, seyng that thou our God hast stayed vs from beyng beneath for our iniquities, and hast geuen vs such deliuerance:

14 Shoulde we returne to breake thy commaundementes, and ioyne in affinitie with the people of these abhominations: Wouldest not thou be angry towardes vs till thou hadst consumed vs, so that there should be no remnaunt, nor any escaping:

15 O Lorde God of Israel, thou art righteous, for we remayne yet escaped, as it is to see this day: Beholde also, in thy presence are we in our trespasses, & because of it may we not stand before thee.

The .x. Chapter.

1 The people repent and turne, and put away their straunge wyues.

A 1 AND when * Esdras prayed after this maner, and knowledged, wept, and lay before the house of God, there resorted vnto hym out of Israel a very great congregation, of men, and women, and children: and the people wept very sore.

* 1.Esdr.8.g.

2 And Sechania the sonne of Jehiel, one of the children of Elam, aunswered, and sayde vnto Esdras: We haue trespassed against our God, & haue taken straunge wyues of the people of the lande: Yet nowe there is hope in Israel concerning this thing.

3 For nowe we will make a couenaunt with our God, and put away all the wiues and such as are borne of them, according to the counsel of the Lorde: and we wil be in the "feare of the commaundementes of our God, that we may do according to the lawe.

" Or, mo of the feare.

4 Get thee vp, for this matter belongeth vnto thee, we also will be with thee: be of good comfort therfore, and do it.

5 * Then rose Esdras, and toke an oth of the chiefe priestes and Leuites, and of all Israel, that they should do according to this worde: And they sware.

* 1.Esdr.ix.a

5 And Esdras rose vp from before the house of God, and went into the chamber of Johanan the sonne of Eliasib: and when he came thyther, he dyd eate no bread, nor dronke water: for he mourned, because of the transgression of the people that had ben in captiuitie.

B 7 And they caused a proclamation to go throughout Juda & Hierusalem vnto al them of the captiuitie, that they shoulde gather them selues together vnto Hierusalem:

8 And that whosoeuer came not within three dayes, according to the deuice of the rulers and elders, all his substaunce should be forfayted, and he shoul dbe put out from the congregation of them of the captiuitie.

9 Then all the men of Juda and Beniamin gathered them selues together vnto Hierusalem within three dayes, euen the twentith day of the nynth moneth: & all the people sate in the streete of the house of God, and trembled, because of this matter, and for the rayne.

10 And Esdras the priest stoode vp, and sayd vnto them: * We haue transgressed, & haue taken straunge wyues, to make the trespasse of Israel yet more. Deute.vii.a Iud.iii.a.

11 "Confesse now therfore vnto the Lord God of our fathers, and do his pleasure: and separate your selues from the people of the lande, and from the straunge wyues. " Or, geue prayse.

12 And all the congregation aunswered, and sayde with a loude voyce: It shalbe so, and we will do as thou hast sayde.

13 But the people are many, and it is a rayny weather, & the people are to faynt to tary without in the streete, neither is this a worke of one day or two: for "we haue offended very sore in this thing. " Or, for are many that haue offended in this thing.

14 Let our rulers stande therefore in all the congregation, and let al them which haue taken straunge wyues in our cities come at the time appoynted, and let the elders of euery citie and their iudges be with them, till the fierce wrath of our God for this matter be turned from vs.

15 Then were appoynted Jonathan the sonne of Asahel, and Jahasia the sonne of Thecua ouer this matter: & Mesullam and Sabathai the Leuites helped them.

16 And the childzen of the captiuitie dyd euen so: And Esdras the priest, and the auncient heads throughout the house of their fathers, all men of great fame, separated themselues, & sate them downe in the first day of the tenth moneth to examine the matter.

17 And vntill the first day of the first moneth they were finishing the businesse, with al the men that had taken straunge wyues.

18 And among the childzen of the priestes there were men found that had taken straunge wiues, namely among the childzen of Jesua, the sonne of Josedec, and of his brethzen, Maasia, and Eliezer, Jarib, and Gedalia.

19 And they gaue their handes that they woulde put away their wiues: and they that had trespassed, gaue a ramme foz their trespasse.

20 And among the childzen of Immer: Hanani, and Zebadia.

21 Among the childzen of Harim: Maasia, Elia, Semeia, Jehiel, and Vzziah.

22 Among the childzen of Pashur: Elioenai, Maasia, Ismael, Nethanel, Josabad, and Elasah.

The seconde booke of Esdras, otherwyse called the booke of Nehemia.

The first Chapter.

1 Nehemia bewayleth the calamitie of Hierusalem. 5 He confesseth the sinnes of the people, and prayeth God foz them.

A 1 The wozdes of Nehemia the sonne of Hachalia. In the moneth Chisleu, in the twentie yere, as I was in the castell at Susan,

2 Came Hanani, one of my brethzen, he and the men of Juda: and I asked them howe the Jewes dyd that were deliuered and escaped from the captiuitie, and howe it went at Hierusalem.

3 And they sayde vnto me: The remnaunt that are left of the captiuitie there in the lande, are in great affliction and rebuke: * the wall of Hierusalem also is broken downe, and the gates thereof are burnt with fire. 4. Reg. 25. b

4 And when I heard these wordes, I sat downe and wept, and mourned certayne dayes, and fasted and prayed before the God of heauen,

5 And sayde: O Lorde God of heauen, thou great and terrible God, *thou that kepest couenaunt and mercie for them that loue thee & obserue thy commaundementes:

6 Let thyne eares hearken I beseche thee, and let thyne eyes be open, that thou mayest heare the prayer of thy seruaunt, whiche I pray nowe before thee day and night for the children of Israel thy seruauntes; and knowledge the sinnes of the children of Israel which we haue sinned against thee: I and my fathers house haue sinned,

B 7 We haue greeuously sinned against thee, and haue not kept thy commaundementes, statutes, and iudgementes, whiche thou commaundedst thy seruaunt Moyses.

8 I beseche thee call to remembraunce the worde that thou commaundedst thy seruaunt Moyses, and saydest, Ye will transgresse, and *I will scatter you abrode among the nations: De.xxvii.c

9 But if ye turne vnto me, and kepe my commaundementes, & do them: though ye were cast out vnto the vttermost part of heauen, yet will I gather you from thence, and will bring you vnto the place that I haue chosen, to set my name there.

10 They are thy seruauntes and thy people, whom thou hast deliuered through thy great power, and in thy mightie hande.

11 O Lorde I beseech thee, let thyne eare hearken to the prayer of thy seruaunt, and to the prayer of thy seruauntes, whose desire is to feare thy name: and let thy seruaunt prosper this day, and graunt him mercie in the sight of this man. For I was the kinges butler.

The. ii. Chapter.

1 After Nehemia had obteyned letters of Artaxerxes, 11 he came to Hierusalem, 17 and buylded the walles.

A 1 IT came topasse, that in the moneth * Nisan in the twentith yere of king Artharerxes, the Wine stoode before him: and I toke vp the Wine, and gaue it vnto the king: And I had not ben before heauy in his presence.

2 And the king sayde vnto me: why lokest thou so sadly, seyng thou art not sicke: It is nothing els, but that thou art heauy hearted. And I was sore afrayde,

3 And sayde vnto the king, God saue the king for euer: Howe shoulde I not loke sadly, when the citie and place of my fathers burials lye waste, and the gates therof are consumed with fire:

4 And the king sayde vnto me: what is then thy request? I made my prayer also to the God of heauen,

5 And sayd vnto the king: If it please the king, and if thy seruaunt haue founde fauour in thy sight, sende me vnto Juda vnto the citie of my fathers burialles, that I may buylde it.

6 And the king sayd vnto me (the queene his wyfe sitting by him:) Howe long shal thy iourney continue, and when wilt thou come againe? And it pleased the king to sende me, and I set him a time,

7 And sayde vnto the king: If it please B the king, let hym geue me letters to the captaynes whiche are beyonde the water, that they may conuay me ouer, till I come into Juda:

8 And letters vnto Asaph the lorde of the kinges Wood, that he may geue me timber to make beames for the gates of the palace which is harde by the house, and for the walles of the citie, and for the house that I shall enter into. And the king gaue me according to the hande of my God which was good vpon me.

9 And When I came to the captaynes beyonde the water, I gaue them the kinges letters: And the king had sent captaynes of the armie and horsemen with me.

10 Sanaballat also the Horonite, and Tobia a seruaunt the Ammonite hearde of it, & it greeued them sore, that there was come a man which sought the wealth of the children of Israel.

11 And I came to Hierusalem, and was there three dayes.

12 And I gat me vp in the night season, and a fewe men with me, neither tolde I any man what God had geuen me in my heart to do at Hierusalem: and there was not one beast with me, saue it that I rode vpon.

13 And I departed in the night by the valley port, before the dragon well, and to the doung port, & considered the walles of Hierusalem howe they were broken downe, and the portes therof consumed with the fire.

14 And I went ouer vnto the well port, and to the kinges "conduite, and there was no roome for the beast that was vnder me to passe.

" Or, fishe-pool.

15 Then went I on in the night by the brooke side, and considered the wall, and turned backe, and came home againe by the valley port.

16 And the rulers knewe not whyther I went or what I dyd: neither dyd I as yet tel it vnto the Iewes, to the priestes, to the noble men, to the rulers, and to the other that laboured in the worke.

17 Afterwarde sayde I vnto them: Ye see the miserie that we are in, howe Hierusalem lyeth waste, and howe the gates thereof are burnt with fire: come therefore, and let vs buylde vp the wall of Hierusalem, and that we be no more a rebuke.

18 Then I tolde them of the hand of my God that it was gratious ouer me, and the kinges wordes that he had spoken vnto me: And they sayde, Let vs get vp and buylde. And they strengthed their handes to good.

19 But when Sanaballat the Horonite, and Tobia the seruaunt an Ammonite, and Gesem the Arabian heard it, they laughed vs to scorne, & despised vs, and sayde: what is this that ye do? will ye fall away from the king?

20 Then aunswered I them, and sayde: The God of heauen, he it is that hath graunted vs prosperitie, and we his seruauntes will get vp and buylde: As for you, ye haue no portion, nor right, nor remembraunce in Hierusalem.

15 But the wel gate repaired Sallum the sonne of Cholhosah, the ruler of the fourth part of Mispah: He buylded it, and couered it, and set on the doores, lockes and barres thereof: and the wall vnto the poole Siloah by the kinges garden, and vnto the steppes that go downe from the citie of Dauid.

16 After him buylded Nehemiah the sonne of Asbok, the ruler of the halfe parte of Bethzur, vntill the other side ouer against the sepulchres of Dauid, and to the poole that was repaired, and vnto the house of the mightie.

17 After him buylded the Leuites, Rehum the sonne of Bani: and next vnto him buylded Hasabia the ruler of the halfe part of Keilah in his quarter.

18 After him buylded their brethren Bauai the sonne of Henadad the ruler of the halfe part of Keilah.

19 And after him buylded Ezer the sonne of Jesua the ruler of Mispah the other peece, harde ouer against the goyng vp to the house of ordinaunce [that was] in the corner.

20 Againe, after him brake foorth Baruch the sonne of Zachai of indignation, and repaired the other peece from the turning corner, vnto the doore of the house of Eliasib the hie priest.

21 After him also buylded Merimoth the sonne of Uria, the sonne of Haccos, the other peece, from the doore of the house of Eliasib, euen as long as the house of Eliasib extended.

22 After him buylded the priestes, the men of the playne.

23 After him buylded Beniamin and Hasub ouer against their house: and after him wrought Asaria the sonne of Maasia the sonne of Anania by his house.

24 After hym also buylded Bennui the sonne of Henadad the other peece, from the house of Azaria vnto the turning [of the wall] and vnto the corner.

25 After him buylded Pala the sonne of Usai, ouer against the corner and the high towre whiche lyeth out ouer from the kinges house, that was beside the court of the prison: After him Phadaia the sonne of Pharos.

26 As for the Nethinims they dwelt in the strong hold vnto the Water gate toward the east, and to the towre that lyeth out.

27 After him buylded they of Thekua the other peece ouer against the great towre that lyeth outwarde, vnto the wall of the strong holde.

28 But from aboue the horse gate foorth buylded the priestes, euery one ouer against his house.

29 And after them buylded Zadoc the sonne of Immer ouer against his house: After him buylded also Semeia ꝑ sonne of Sechania the keper of the east gate.

30 After him buylded Hanania the sonne of Selemia, and Hanun the sonne of Zalaph the sixt, the other peece: And after him buylded Mesullam the sonne of Barachia ouer against his store house.

31 After him buylded Melchia the goldsmithes sonne vnto the house of the Nethinims and of the marchauntes, ouer against the gate Mephkad, and to the parlour in the corner.

32 And betweene the parlour of the corner vnto the sheepegate, buylded the goldesmithes, and the marchauntes.

The. iiii. Chapter.

7 The buylding of Hierusalem is hindred, 15 But God breaketh their enterprise. 17 The Iewes buylde with one hande, and holde their weapon in the other.

1 BUt when Sanaballat heard that we buylded the wall, he was wroth in him selfe, and toke great indignation, and mocked the Iewes:

2 And sayde before his brethren and the souldiers of Samaria: what do these impotent Iewes? Will the [heathen] suffer them? shall they offer? shal they perfourme it in one day? shal they make the stones whole againe that are brought to dust and brent?

3 And Tobiah the Ammonite was beside him,and sayde: Though they buyld, yet if a fore go vp , he shall breake downe their stony wall.

" Or, Loth the heathen them selues.

4 Heare O thou our God,for we are despised , turne their shame vpon their owne head, & geue them ouer" into despising in the lande of their captiuitie.

" Or,for a pray.

5 Couer not their wickednesse,and let not their sinne be put out in thy presence: for they haue prouoked the buylders.

6 And so buylded we the wall,and it was ioyned whole together vnto the halfe heyght thereof : And the people were minded to labour.

B 7 But when Sanaballat,and Tobiah, and the Arabians,Ammonites,and Asdodites,heard that the walles of Hierusalem were made vp,& that the breaches began to be stopped , they were very wroth, 8 And conspired all together to come and fight against Hierusalem , and to make an hinderaunce therin.

9 Neuertheless,we made our prayer vnto our God, and set watchmen by them day and night, because of them.

10 And Juda sayde: The strength of the bearers is feeble, and there is yet much more morter , and we are not able to buylde on the wall.

11 And our aduersaries sayde: They shall not knowe, neither see, till we come in the middes among them,and slay them, and cause the worke to ceasse.

12 But when the Jewes which dwelt beside them,came, they told vs as good as ten times,that in all places where ye go vnto,they are appoynted to fal vpon vs.

13 Therefore set I the people after their kinredes , with their swordes, speares, and bowes, beneath in the lowe places behinde the wall vpon the toppes of the stones.

14 And I loked,and gat me vp,and sayde vnto the chiefe men,to the rulers,and to the other people, Be not ye afrayde of them: but* thinke rather vpon the great Lorde whiche ought to be feared, and fight for your brethē, your sonnes, your daughters,your wiues , & your houses.

ii.Esd.i.b. and ix.f.

15 Neuertheless,when our enemies heard that we had gotten worde of it, God brought their counsell to naught: and we turned all againe to the wall, euery one vnto his labour.

16 And from that time forth, the halfe part of the young men dyd the labour, and the other halfe part of them helde the speares, shieldes , bowes , and brestplates:and the rulers stoode behinde all the house of Juda.

17 They which buylded on the wall and they that bare burthens , and those that laded them, with one hande did euery one his worke,and with the other helde his weapon.

18 For euery one that buylded had his sword girded by his thingh , and so buylded they : And he that blewe the trumpet was beside me.

19 And

19 And I ſaide vnto the principall men, to the rulers, and to the other people: The worke is great and large, & We are ſeperated vpon the wall one farre from D another.
20 Loke in what place therefore ye heare the noyſe of the trumpet, reſort ye thither vnto vs, * and our God ſhall fight for vs:
Exo. xiiii. c.
21 And we wil be labouring in the worke. And the halfe part of them helde their ſpeares from the morning ſpring, tyll the ſtarres came forth.
22 And at the ſame time ſaide I vnto the people: Let euery one with his ſeruaũt lodge within Hieruſalem, that in the night ſeaſon we may watch, and labour on the day time.
23 As for me and my brethren, my ſeruauntes, and the men of the watch which folowed me, we put neuer of our clothes, ſaue onely becauſe of the waſhing.

1 The people are oppreſſed and in neceſſitie. 7 Nehemia remedieth it. 15 He tooke not the portion of others that had ruled before, leſt he ſhoulde greeue the people.

A 1 AND there aroſe a great complaynt of the people and their wyues againſt their brethrẽ the 2 Iewes.
For there were ſome that ſaide, Our ſonnes and daughters and we are very many: therefore wyll we take corne for them, that we may eate and liue.
3 Some alſo there were that ſaide: Let vs ſet our landes, vineyardes, and houſes to pledge, and take vp corne in the dearth.
4 But ſome there were that ſaide: we haue borowed money for the kinges tribute, and that vpon our landes & vineyardes.
5 And now our fleſhe is as the fleſhe of our brethren, and our children as their children: and loe we bring into ſubiection our ſonnes and our daughters as ſeruauntes, and ſome of our daughters are ſubdued vnto bondage alredie, and no ſtrength is there in our handes to redeeme them, and other men haue our landes and vineyardes.
6 And when I heard their complaynt and ſuch wordes, it diſpleaſed me ſore.
B 7 And I aduiſed ſo in my minde, that I rebuked the counſellers and the rulers, and ſaide vnto them: Euery one of you layeth great burdens vpon his brother. And I brought a great congregation againſt them,
8 And ſaide vnto them: We after our habilitie haue redeemed our brethren the Iewes, which were ſolde vnto the heathen: And wyll you ſell your brethrẽ againe, and ſhall they be ſolde vnto vs? Then held they their peace, and coulde finde nothing to aunſwere.
9 And [Nehemia] ſaide, It is not good that ye do: Ought ye not to walke in the feare of our God, becauſe of the rebuke of the heathen that are our enemies?
10 I and my brethren, and my ſeruauntes, do lende them money and corne: I pray you let vs leaue of this burden.
11 Therefore this ſame day I pray you ſee that ye reſtore them their landes againe, their vineyardes, olyue gardens, and their houſes, and remit the hundred parte of the money, of the corne, wine, and oyle that ye haue exacted of them.
12 Then ſaide they: We wyll reſtore them againe, & wyll require nothing of them, and wyll do as thou haſt ſpoken. And I called the prieſtes, and tooke an oth of them that they ſhould do ſo.
13 And I ſhooke my lappe and ſaide: God ſhake out euery man after the C ſame maner from his houſe & laboure that maintaineth not this worde, euen thus be he ſhaken out, and voyde. And all the congregation ſaide, Amen, and prayſed the Lorde: And the people did according to this promiſe.
14 And from the time forth that the king committed vnto me to be captayne of them that were in the lande of Iuda, euen from the twentie yere, vnto the thirtie & two yere of king Artaxerres, that is twelue yeres, I with my brethrẽ liued not of ſuch ſuſtinaunce as was geuen to a captayne.
15 For the olde captaynes that were before me, had ben chargeable vnto the people, and had taken of them bread & wine, beside fouretie sicles of siluer, yea and their seruauntes had oppressed the people: But so did not I, and that because of the feare of God.

wine

" Or, but rather I fortified a portion, in the worke of this wall.

16 " But I laboured also in the worke vpon the wall, and we bought no lande: and all my seruauntes came thither together vnto the worke.

17 Moreouer, there were at my table an hundred and fiftie of the Iewes and rulers, which came vnto me from among the heathen that are about vs.

18 And there was prepared for me dayly an oxe and sixe chosen sheepe, and birdes were prepared for me: and euer once in ten dayes wine for all in aboundance: Yet required not I the " liuing of a captayne, for the bondage was greeuous vnto the people.

" Or, bread.

19 * Thinke vpon me my God vnto the best, according to all that I haue done for this people.

ii. Esd. vi.d.

The .vj. Chapter.

Nehemia aunswereth with great wyldome and zeale to his aduersarie. 11 He is not discouraged by the false prophetes.

A 1 AND when Sanaballat, Tobia, and Gesem the Arabian, and the other of our enemies, heard that I had builded the wall, and that there were no mo " gappes therein: (howbeit at the same time had I not hanged the doores vpon the gates,)

" Or, breaches.

2 Sanaballat and Gesem sent vnto me, saying: Come, that we may meete & take counsel together in the villages that are in the playne of the citie Ono. Neuertheless, they thought to do me euill.

3 And I sent messengers vnto them, saying: I haue a great businesse to do, and I can not come downe: why should the worke ceasse, whilest I leaue it and come downe to you?

4 Howbeit, they sent vnto me as good as foure times after the same maner: And I gaue them the same aunswere.

5 Then sent Sanaballat his seruaunt againe vnto me the fift time, with an open letter in his hande,

6 Wherein was written: It is tolde the heathen, and Gesem hath saide it, that thou and the Iewes thinke to rebel: for the which cause thou buildest the wall, that thou mayst be their king, according to these wordes:

B 7 And hast ordayned the prophetes to preache of thee at Hierusalem, and to say, He is king of Iuda. And now shall this come to the kinges eares: come now therefore, and let vs take our counsell together.

8 And I sent vnto him, saying: There is no such thing done as thou sayest, for thou fainest them out of thyne owne heart.

9 For they were all minded to make vs afrayde, saying, They shall withdrawe their handes from their worke, that it shall not be finished: Nowe therefore strengthen thou my hande.

10 And I came vnto the house of Semaia the sonne of Delaia, the sonne of Mehetabeel, & he had shut him selfe within, and saide: Let vs come together in the house of God, euen vnto the middest of the temple, & shut the doores of the temple, for they will come to slay thee, yea euen in the night will they come to put thee to death.

11 And I saide: should any such man as I flee? who is, that being as I am, will go into the temple to saue his life? I wil not go in.

12 And loe, I perceaued that God hath not sent him, but that he pronounced this prophecie against me: For Tobia and Sanaballat had hired him for money.

13 Therfore was he hyred, that through ℭ feare I should so do, & sinne, that they might haue an euill report of me to lay to my charge.

14 My God, thinke thou vpon Tobia and Sanaballat according vnto these their workes, and on the prophetisse Noadia, and the other prophetes that would haue put me in feare.

15 And the wall was finished on the twentie and fifth day of the moneth Elul, in fiftie and two dayes.

16 And when all our enemies hearde thereof, all the heathen that was about vs were afrayd, and their courage fayled them: For they perceaued that this worke came of our God.

17 And

17 And at the same time were there many of the chiefe of Juda whose letters wente vnto Tobia, and againe from Tobia vnto them.
18 For there were many in Juda that were sworne vnto him: for he was the sonne in lawe of Sechania, the sonne of Arah, and his sonne Jehonathan had the daughter of Mesullam the sonne of Barachia, 19 And they spake good of him before me, and tolde him my wordes: and Tobia sent letters to put me in feare.

4 As for the citie, it was large of roome, and great, but the people were fewe therein, and the houses were not builded.

The .viij. Chapter.

2 Esdras gathereth together the people, and readeth to them the law. 12 They reioyce in Israel for the knowledge of the word of God. 15 They keep the feaste of tabernacles or boothes.

A^1 ND all * the people gathered them selues together as one man, in the streete that was before the Water gate, and they saide vnto Esdras the scribe, that he should fetch * the booke of the law of Moyses, which the Lorde commaunded to Israel.
1 Esd iii.a.
Deu.xxxi.f.
2 And Esdras the priest brought the law before the congregation both of men & women, and all that could vnderstand did hearken vnto it vpon the first day of the seuenth moneth.
3 And he read therein in the streete that was before the Water gate, from the morning vntill the noone day, before men and women that did hearken to it: and the eares of all the people were inclined vnto the booke of the law.
4 And Esdras the scribe stoode vpon a pulpet of wood which they had made for the preaching, and beside him stoode Mathathia, Sema, & Anaiah, Uriah, Helkia, & Maaseiah, on his right hande: and on his left hand stoode Pedaia, Misael, & Melchia, & Hasum, Hasabadana, Zachari, and Mesullam.
5 And Esdras opened the booke before all the people, (for he stoode aboue al the people:) and when he opened it, all the people stoode vp.
6 And Esdras praysed the Lorde the great God: And all the people aunswered, Amen, Amē, lifting vp their handes, and bowed them selues and worshipped the Lord falling downe vpon their faces to the grounde.
B 7 And Iesua, Bani, Serebiah, Jamin, Accub, Sebbethai, Hodaia, Maasia, Celita, Azariah, Jozabad, Hanan, Pelaiah, & the Leuites caused the people to geue heede vnto the law: and the people stoode in their place.
8 And they read in the booke of the lawe of God distinctly, and gaue the sense, and caused them to vnderstand the reading.
9 And Nehemia which is Athirsatha, and Esdras the priest and scribe, and the Leuites that caused the people to take heede, said vnto al the people, This day is holy vnto the Lorde your God, be not ye sory, and weepe not: For all the people wept when they heard the wordes of the lawe.
10 And he saide vnto them: * Go your way, and eate the fat, and drinke the sweete, and send part vnto them also that haue not prepared for them selues, for this day is holy vnto our Lorde: be not ye sory therefore, for the ioy of the Lorde is your strength. iii. Esd. ix.g.
11 And the Leuites stilled all the people, and saide: Holde your peace, for the day is holy, be not sad therefore.
12 And all the people went their way to eate, and to drinke, & to sende part vnto other, and to make great mirth, because they had vnderstand the wordes that were declared vnto them.
13 And on the next day were gathered together the chiefe fathers among all the people, and the priestes, and leuites, vnto Esdras the scribe, that they might vnderstand the wordes of the law. C
14 And they founde Written in the lawe * which the Lorde had commaunded by Moyses, that the children of Israel should dwell in boothes in the feast of the seuenth moneth: Leui.xxiij.f.
15 And that they should cause it to be declared and proclaymed in all their cities, and throughout Hierusalem, saying: Go forth vnto the mount and fetch Olyue braūches, Pine braunches, Myrtel braunches, Palme braunches, & braunches of the thicke tree, to make boothes, as it is Written.
16 And so the people went forth, and fet them themand made them boothes, euery one vpon the roofe of his house, and in their courtes, and in the courtes of the house of God, and in the streete by the water gate, and in the streete of the port of Ephraim.

17 And all the congregation of them that were come againe out of the captiuitie, made boothes, & sat vnder the boothes: for since the time of Iosua the sonne of Nun, vnto this day, had not the children of Israel done so: And there was very great gladnesse.

18 And euery day from the first day vnto the last, read Esdras in the booke of the lawe of God: And seuen dayes held they the feaste, and on the eyght day they gathered together, according vnto the maner.

1 The people repent, and forsake their straunge wyues. 5 The Leuites exhort them to prayse God, 6 declaring his wonders, 26 and their ingratitude, 30 and Gods great mercies toward them.

2 And they that were of the seede of Israel, were separated from all the straunge children, and stoode & knowledged their sinnes, & the wickednes of their fathers:

3 And stoode vp in their place, & read in the booke of the law of the Lorde their God foure times on the day, and they knowledged and worshipped the Lord their God foure times on the day.

4 Then stoode vp vpon the stayres of the Leuites, Iesua, Bani, Cadmiel, Sabaniah, Bunni, Serebiah, Bani, and Chanani, and cryed loude vnto the Lorde their God:

5 And the Leuites, Iesua, and Cadmiel, Bani, and Hasabnia, Serebiah, and Hodia, Sebania, and Phathahia, sayde: Stand vp, and prayse the Lorde your God for euer, and let thankes be geuē vnto the name of thy glory, which excelleth all thankes geuing and prayse.

6 Thou art Lorde alone, thou hast made heauen and the heauen of all heauens with all their hoast, the earth and all thinges that are therein, the sea & all that is therin, & thou preseruest them al, & the hoast of heauen worshippeth thee.

B 7 Thou art, O Lorde, the God that hast chosen Abraham, and broughtest him out of Ur in Chaldea, * and called him Abraham:

8 And foundest his heart faithfull before thee, * & madest a couenaunt with him, to geue vnto his seede the lande of the Chanaanites, Hethites, Amorites, Pherezites, Iebusites, and Gergesites, and hast made good thy wordes: for thou art righteous, Exo. iii. d.

10 And shewed tokens and wonders vpon Pharao and all his seruauntes, and on all the people of his lande: For thou knowest that they were presumptuous and cruell against them: and so madest thou thee a name as it is this day.

11 And the [red] sea diddest thou deuide in sunder before them, so that they went through the middest of the sea " drye shod: and their persecuters threwest thou into the deepe, as a stone in the mightie waters:

" Or, on dry lande.

12 And leddest them on the day time in a cloudie piller, and on the night season in a piller of fyre, to shewe them light in the way that they went.

13 * Thou camest downe also vpon mount Sinai, and spakest vnto them from heauen, and gauest them right iudgementes, true lawes, good commaundementes and statutes:

C Exo. xix. a.

14 And declaredst vnto them thy holy Sabbath, and commaundedst them precептes, ordinaunces, and lawes, by the hande of Moyses thy seruaunt:

15 And * gauest them bread from heauen when they were hungry, and * broughtest foorth water for them out of the rocke when they were thirstye, and promysedst them that they should go in and take possession of the lande ouer which thou haddest lyft vp thyne hand for to geue them.

Exo. xvi. h. Exo. xvii. d.

16 But they and our fathers were proud and and hardnecked, so that they followed not thy commaundementes:

17 And wouldе not obey, neither were mindeful of the wonders that thou didest for thē: but hardened their neckes, and had in their heades to returne to their bondage by their rebellion: But thou O God of mercies, gracious, and full of compassion, of long suffering, and of great mercie, yet forsookest them not.

18 Moreouer, when they had made them a moulten calfe, and saide, This is thy God that brought thee out of the lande of Egypt, and did blasphemies:

19 Yet forsookest thou them not in the wildernesse, according to thy great mercies: *And the cloudy piller departed not from them on the day time to leade thē the way, neither the piller of fire in the night season, to shewe them light in the way by which they should go.

Exo.xiii.b.

20 And thou gauest them thy good spirite to enfourme them, *and withheldest not thy Manna from their mouth, * and gauest them water when they were thirstie.

Exo.xvi.d.

Exo.xvii.d.

21 Fourtie yeres long didst thou feede them in the wildernesse, so that they lacked nothing: * their clothes waxed not olde, and their feete swelled not.

Deu. viii b.

22 And thou gauest them kingdomes and nations, and scatteredst them into corners: so they possessed * the lande of Sehon and the lande of the king of Hesebon, and the lande of Og king of Basan.

Num xxi.f.

23 And their children multipliedst thou as the starres of heauen, and broughtest them into the lande whereof thou haddest spoken to their fathers, that they should go into it, and haue it in possession.

24 And the children went in, and possessed the lande, * and thou subduedst before them the inhabiters of the lande, euen the Chanaanites, and gauest them into their handes, with their kinges and the people of the lande, that they might do with them what they would.

Iosue ii.a

25 And they wanne their strong cities, and a fat lande, and toke possession of houses that were full of all maner of goodes, welles digged out, vineyards, oliue gardens", & many fruiteful trees: and they did eate, and were filled, and became fat, and liued in pleasure through thy great goodnesse.

" Or, Orchardes.

26 Neuertheless, they were disobedient, and rebelled against thee, and cast thy lawe behinde their backes, & * slue their prophetes, " which exhorted them earnestly that they might bring them againe vnto thee, and did great blasphemies.

iii.Reg.19 b

" Or, which protested among them to turne them to thee.

27 Therefore thou gauest them ouer into the hand of their enemies that vexed them: And in the time of their trouble whē they cryed vnto thee thou heardest them from heauen, and through thy great mercie thou gauest them sauiours which helped them out of the hande of their enemies.

28 But when they came to rest, they turned backe againe to do euill before thee: therefore leftest thou them in the hande of their enemies, so that they had the dominion ouer them: And when they conuerted, & cryed vnto thee, thou heardest them from heauen, and many times hast thou deliuered them according to thy great mercie,

29 And " testifiedst vnto them, that thou mightest bring them againe vnto thy lawe: Notwithstanding, they were proude, and hearkened not vnto thy commaundementes, but sinned " in thy lawes, * which if a man do, he shall lyue in them: and turned the shoulder away, and were stiffenecked, and would not heare.

" Or, protestedst.

" Or, against thy iudgementes.

Leui.xviii.a

30 Yet many yeres diddest thou forbeare them, and " testifiedst vnto them through thy spirite, euen by the hand of thy prophetes, and yet would they not heare: therefore gauest thou them into the hand of the nations of the landes.

" Or, protestedst.

F

31 And for thy great mercies sake, thou hast not vtterly consumed them, neither forsaken them: for thou art a gratious and mercifull God.

32 * Now therfore our God, thou great God mightie and terrible, thou that kepest couenaunt and mercie, regarde not a litle al the trauaile that hath come vnto vs, and our kinges, our princes, our priestes, our prophetes, and our fathers, and all the people since the time of the kinges of Assur, vnto this day.

ii.Esd.i b.

33 And truely thou art iust in al that thou hast brought vpon vs, for thou hast done right: As for vs, we haue ben vngodly,

34 And our kinges, and our princes, our priestes, and our fathers, haue not done thy thy lawe, nor regarded thy commaundementes, and thy * earnest exhortations, where with thou hast " exhorted them, 35 And they haue not serued thee in their kingdome, and in thy great goodnesse that thou gauest them, and in the large and " plenteous lande which thou gauest before them, and haue not conuerted from their wicked workes.

36 Beholde, We are in bondage this day, and so is the lande that thou gauest vnto our fathers to eate the fruites and goodnesse thereof, beholde there are we bondmen.

37 And great is the increase of it vnto the kinges whom thou hast set ouer vs because of our sinnes, and they haue dominion ouer our bodies and cattaile, euen as they wyll them selues: and We are in great trouble.

38 Now because of all this make We a sure couenaunt and write it, & our princes, leuites, and priestes, seale vnto it.

* Or, protestations.
" Or, protested among them.
" Or, fatte.

23 The children of Leui the principall fathers, were written in the cronicles, vntill the time of Jonathan the sonne of Eliasib.
24 And these were the chiefe among the Leuites: Hasabia, Serebia, and Jesua the sonne of Cadmiel, and their brethren *in their presence, to geue prayse and thankes, according as Dauid the man of God had ordeyned it, one watch ouer against another.
25 Mathania, Bacbukia, Obadia, Mesullam, Talmon, and Accub, were porters *in the watch at the thresholdes of the gates.
26 These were in the dayes of Joiakim the sonne of Jesua, the sonne of Josedec, and in the dayes of Nehemia the captayne, & of the priest Esdras the scribe.
27 And in the dedication of the wall at Hierusalem they sought the Leuites out of all their places, that they might be brought to Hierusalem, to kepe the dedication and gladnesse with thankesgeuinges, & singing, with cymbales, *psalteries, and harpes.
E 28 And the children of the singers gathered them selues together from euery side, out of the playne countrey about Hierusalem, and from the villages of Nethophathi, 29 From the house of Gilgal, and out of the countreys of Geba, and Asmaueth: for the singers had buylded them villages round about Hierusalem.
30 And the priestes and Leuites were purified, & clensed the people, & the gates, and the wall.
31 And I brought the princes of Juda vpon the wall, and appoynted two great quyers of men to geue thankes, whiche went on the right hande of the wall towarde the doung gate.
32 And after them went Hosaia, and halfe of the princes of Juda, 33 And Asaria, Esdras, and Mesullam,
34 Juda, Beniamin, Semeia, & Jeremi,
35 And certayne of the priestes children, with trumpettes: namely Zacharie the sonne of Jonathan, the sonne of Semeia, the sonne of Mathania, the sonne of Michaia, the sonne of Zaccur, the sonne of Asaph, 37 And beside the Wel gate, they went vp ouer against them vpon the steppes of the citie of Dauid at the goyng vp of the wall, beyonde the house of Dauid, vnto the Water gate eastwarde.

38 The other quyer of them that gaue thankes went ouer against them, and I after them, and the halfe part of the people vpon the wall beyond the fornace gate, vntill the brode Wall, 39 And beyonde the port of Ephraim, and beyonde the old gate, beyonde the fishe gate, and the towre of Hananeel, & the towre of Mea, euen vnto the sheepe gate and they stoode still in the *prison gate.
40 And so stoode the two quyers of them that gaue thankes in the house of God, and I, & the halfe of the rulers with me.
41 And the priestes, namely Eliakim, Maasia, Miniamin, Michaia, Elionai, Zachari, & Hanania, with trumpettes:
42 And Maasia, Semeia, Eleaser, Uzzi, Jehohanan, Melchiah, Elam, & Ezer: And the singers sange loude, hauing Jesrahiah for their ouersear.
43 And the same day they offered great G sacrifices, and reioyced: for God had geuen them great gladnesse, so that both the wiues & children were ioyfull, & the mirth of Hierusalē was heard farre of.
44 At the same time were the men appoynted ouer the treasure houses, wherin were the heaue offeringes, the firstlinges, and the tythes, that they shoulde gather them out of the fieldes about the cities, to distribute them vnto the priestes and Leuites according to the lawe: for Juda was glad of the priestes and Leuites that serued.

45 And there stoode and wayted vpon the office of their God, Whiche is a pure office, both the singers and porters, after the commaundement of Dauid, and of Solomon his sonne:

1.Par.23.a. 46 *For in the time of Dauid and Asaph, of olde were the chiefe singers [founded] & the songes of prayse and thankesgeuing vnto God.

47 In the time of Zorobabel and Nehemia, did all they of Israel geue portions vnto the singers and porters euery day his portion: and they gaue tythes vnto the Leuites, & the Leuites gaue tythes againe vnto the children of Aaron.

The. xiii. Chapter.

1 The lawe is read. 3 They separate from them all straungers. 15 Nehemia reproueth them that breake the Sabbath. 30 An ordinaunce to serue God.

A 1 AND that day dyd they read in the booke of Moyses in the audience of the people, and therein was founde written, *that the Ammonites, & Moabites

Deu.34.a. shoulde neuer come into the congregation of God,

2 Because they met not the children of Israel with bread and water, *but hired

Num.23.a. Balaam against them that he should curse them: and our God turned the curse into a blessing.

3 Nowe when they had hearde the lawe, they separated from Israel euery one that had mixt him selfe therin.

4 And before this had the priest Eliasib the ouersight of the treasurie of the house of our God, and he was kynsman vnto Tobia,

5 And had made hym a great chamber, and there had they afore time layed the offringes, frankencence, vessels, and the tythes of corne, wine, and oyle according to the commaundementes geuen to the Leuites, singers and porters, and the heaue offringes of the priestes.

6 But in all this time was not I at Hierusalem: for in the two and thirtie yere of Artaxerxes king of Babylon, came I vnto the king, & after certayne dayes obtayned I licence of the king to come to Hierusalem.

B 7 And I gat knowledge of the euyll that Eliasib dyd for Tobia, in that he had made hym a chamber in the court of the house of God,

8 And it greeued me sore: therefore I cast foorth all the vessels of the house of Tobia out of the chamber:

9 And commaunded them to clense the chambers, and thyther brought I againe the vessels of the house of God, with the meate offring, and the incense.

10 And I perceaued that the portions of the Leuites had not ben geuen them, and that euery one was fled to his land, euen the Leuites and singers that executed the worke.

11 Then reproued I the rulers, and sayd: Why is the house of God forsaken? And I gathered them together, and set them in their place.

12 Then brought all Juda the tythes of corne, and wine, and oyle, vnto the treasure.

13 And I made treasures ouer the treasure, euen Selemiah the priest, and Zadoc the scribe, and of the Leuites, Phadaia: and vnder their hand was Hanan the sonne of Zacur, the sonne of Mathania: for they were counted faythful, and their office was to distribute [the portions] vnto their brethren.

14 Thinke vpon me O my God herein, & wype not out my "mercie that I haue shewed on the house of my God, and on the offices therof. C "Or, kindnesse.

15 And the same time sawe I in Juda some treading wine presses on the Sabbath, and bringing in sheues, and which laded asses also with wine, grapes, and figges, and all burthens, and brought them into Hierusalem vpon the Sabbath day: And I rebuked them earnestly the same day that they solde the vitayles.

16 There dwelt men of Tyre also therein, which brought fish and all maner of ware, and solde on the Sabbath vnto the childrē of Juda, euen in Hierusalem.

17 Then reproued I the rulers in Juda, & sayd vnto them: what euyl thing is this that ye do, & breake the Sabbath day?

18 Dyd not your fathers euen thus, and our God brought all this plague vpon vs, and vpon this citie? And ye make the wrath more yet vpon Israel, in that ye breake the Sabbath?

19 And

19 And when the portes of Hieruſalem began to be darke in the euening before the Sabbath, I commaunded to ſhut the gates, and charged that they ſhould not be opened till after the Sabbath: and ſome of my ſeruauntes ſet I at the gates, that there ſhoulde no burthen be brought in on the Sabbath day.

20 Then remayned the chapmen and marchauntes once or twyſe ouer night without Hieruſalem with all maner of wares.

D 21 Then reproued I them ſore, and ſayde vnto them: Why tary ye all night about the wall? If ye do it once againe, I will lay handes vpon you: From that time foorth came they no more on the Sabbath.

22 And I ſaid vnto the Leuites, that they ſhould cleanſe them ſelues, and that they ſhoulde come and kepe the gates, to hallowe the Sabboth day: Thinke vpon me O my God concerning this alſo, and ſpare me, according to thy great mercie.

23 In thoſe dayes alſo ſawe I Jewes that maried wyues of Aſdod, of Ammon, and of Moab, 24 And their children ſpake halfe in the ſpeach of Aſdod, and could not ſpeake in the Jewes language, but according to the language of the one people and of the other people.

25 Then I reproued them, and curſed them, and ſmote certayne men of them, and made them bare: and toke an oth of them by God, Ye ſhall not geue your daughters vnto their ſonnes, neither ſhall ye take their daughters vnto your ſonnes, or for your ſelues.

26 *Dyd not Solomon the king of Iſrael ſinne by theſe thinges? and yet among many heathen was there no king like him, which was deare vnto his God, & God made hym king ouer all Iſrael: and *yet neuertheleſſe outlandiſhe women cauſed him to ſinne. iii. Reg. iii. b iii. Reg xi. a.

27 Shall we then obey vnto you to do all this great euyll, and to tranſgreſſe againſt our God, and marie ſtraunge wyues?

28 And one of the children of Jehoiada the ſonne of Eliaſib the hye prieſt, was the ſonne in law of Sanaballat the Horonite: but I chaſed him from me.

29 O my God, thinke thou vpon them that defile the prieſthod, and the couenaunt of the prieſthod and of the Leuites.

30 Thus cleanſed I them from all ſuch as were outlandiſhe, and appoynted the courſes of the prieſtes and Leuites, euery one in his office:

31 And to offer the wood at times appoynted, and the firſt fruites: Thinke thou vpon me O my God for the beſt.

3 King Ahasuerus maketh a royall feast. 10 wherevnto the queene Vasthi will not come.
19 For which cause she is diuorced. 20 The kinges decree touching the preeminence of man.

A 1 IT came to passe that in the dayes of Ahasuerus, (this is Ahasuerus whiche raigned from India vnto Ethiopia, ouer an hundred and twentie and seuen prouinces)

2 Euen in those dayes when the king Ahasuerus sate on his seate royall, which was in Susan the chiefe citie:

3 In the third yere of his raigne, he made a feast vnto all his princes & seruauntes: and the mightie men of Persia and Media, the captaynes also and rulers of his countreys were before hym.

4 And he shewed the richesse and glorie of his kingdome, and the glorious worshyp of his greatnesse many dayes long, [euen] an hundred and fourescore dayes.

5 And when these dayes were expired, the king made a feast vnto al the people that were in Susan the chiefe citie, both vnto great & small, seuen dayes long, in the court of the garden by the kinges palace.

6 Where there hanged white, greene, and "yelowe clothes, fastened with cordes of fine silke and purple, in siluer ringes, vpon pillers of marble stones: The "benches also were of golde and siluer made vpon a pauement of "greene, White, yelowe, and blacke marble.

7 And they dranke in vessels of gold, and chaunged vessel after vessel, and royal wine in aboundaunce, according to the power of the king.

8 And the drinking was by an order, none might compell: for so the king had appoynted to all the officers of his house, that they shoulde do according to euery mans pleasure.

9 And the queene Vasthi made a feast also for the women in the palace of Ahasuerus.

10 And on the seuenth day when the king was mery after the wine, he commaunded Mehuma, Bizthа, Harbona, Bigtha, Abagthan, Zethar, and Charchas, the seuen chamberlayns that did service in the presence of king Ahasuerus, 11 To fetch the queene Vasthi with the crowne regall into the kinges presence, that he might shewe the people & princes her fairenesse: for she was beautifull.

12 But the queene Vasthi would not come at the kinges worde by his chamberlaynes: Then was the king very wroth, and his indignation kindled in hym.

13 And the king spake to the wyse men which knewe the times (for so was the kinges maner towardes all that knewe the lawe and the iudgementes:

14 And the next vnto hym were, Carsena, Sethar, Admata, Tharsis, Mares, Marsena, and Memuchan, the seuen princes of Persia and Media, whiche sawe the kinges face, and sate the first in the kingdome.)

15 What, shall we do vnto the queene Vasthi according to the lawe, because she dyd not according to the worde of the king Ahasuerus whiche he commaunded by his chamberlaynes?

16 And Memuchan answered before the king & the princes: The queene Vasthi hath not onely done euyll against the king, but also against all the princes, and against all the people that are in all the prouinces of king Ahasuerus.

17 For this deede of the queene shall come abrode vnto all women, so that they shall despise their husbandes before their eyes, and shall say: The king Ahasuerus commaunded Vasthi the queene to be brought in before hym, but she woulde not come.

18 And

" Or, blewe, or violet coloured clothes

" Or, beddes or tables.

" Or, porphire, marble, alabaster, and blewe colour.

18 And so shal the princesses in Persia and Media say lykewise this day vnto al the kinges princes when they heare of this deede of the queene: thus shal there arise to much despitefulnesse and wrath.

19 If it please the king, let there go a commaundement from hym, and let it be written according to the lawes of the Persians and Medians, and not to be transgressed, that Vasthi come no more before king Ahasuerus, and let the king geue her royal estate vnto an other that is better then she.

20 And when this commaundement of the king which shalbe made, is published throughout all his empire (whiche is great) all women shall holde their husbandes in honour both among great and small.

21 This saying pleased the king and the princes, and the king did according to the worde of Memucan. D

22 For he sent letters forth into all the kinges prouinces, into euery lande according to the writing therof, and to euery people after their language, that euery man shoulde be lorde in his owne house: and this to be published after the language of his people.

The. ii. Chapter.

2 After the queene is put away, certeyne young maydes are brought to the king. 14 Esther pleaseth the king, and is made queene. 22 Mardocheus discloseth vnto the king those that woulde betray hym.

A 1 AFter these actes, when the displeasure of king Ahasuerus was nowe "alayed, he thought vpon Vasthi, & what she had done, & what was decreed against her.

"Or, appeased.

2 Then sayde the kinges seruauntes that ministred vnto hym: Let there be faire young virgins sought for the king,

3 And let the king appoynt officers in all the prouinces of his empire, that they should bring together al the faire young virgins vnto Susan the head citie to the womens buylding, vnder the hande of Hegai the kinges chamberlayne that kept the women, to geue them their "apparell:

"Or, things for purification.

4 And that the mayden which pleased the king, should be queene in Vasthis steede. And this pleased the king, and he did so.

5 In the citie of Susan there was a certayne Iewe, whose name was Mardocheus, the sonne of Iair, the sonne of Semei, the sonne of Cis, a man of Iemini,

6 Which was caryed away from Hierusalem with the captiuitie, *when Iekonia the king of Juda was led away, whom Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon caryed thence:

*2 Reg 24.e. Ier.xxiii.a.

B 7 And he norished Hadassa (that is Esther) his vncles daughter: for he had neither father nor mother, and she was a faire and beautifull mayden, whom Mardocheus (when her father & mother were dead) receaued for his owne daughter.

8 So when the kinges commaundement and commission was published, and many maydens were brought together into the citie of Susan vnder the hand of Hegai, Esther was brought also vnto the kinges house vnder the hande of Hegai the keper of the women.

9 And the mayden pleased hym, and she founde fauour in his sight: and he caused "ornamentes to be geuen her speedyly, and such thinges as belonged to her, and appoynted her seuen comely maydens out of the kinges house, "& fauoured both her and her gentlewomen singularly in the house of the women.

"Or, her thinges for purification.

"Or, and he gaue charge to her, and to her mayden, of the best in the house of the women.

10 But Esther shewed not her people and her kinred: for Mardocheus had charged her that she shoulde not tell it.

11 And Mardocheus walked euery day before the court of the womens house, that he might knowe howe Esther did, and what shoulde become of her.

12 And when the appoynted time of euery mayden came that she shoulde go in to the king Ahasuerus, after that she had ben twelue monethes according to the maner of the women (for so were the dayes of their purification accomplished, sixe monethes with oyle of mirre, and sixe monethes with sweete odoures, and in the purifiyng of the women:

13 And thus went the maydens vnto the king) whatsoeuer she required, that must be geuen her to go with her out of the womens buylding vnto the kinges palace.

14 In the euening she went, and on the C morowe she returned into the seconde house of the women abyding vnder the hande of Saasgaz the kinges chamber-layne, which kept the concubines: And she came in vnto the king no more, except it pleased the king to haue her, and that she were called by name.

15 Nowe when the course came of Esther the daughter of Abihail, the vncle of Mardocheus (which had receaued her as his owne daughter) that she shoulde come in vnto the king, she desired nothing but what Hegai the kinges cham-berlayne the keper of the women saide:
And Esther found fauour in the sight of all them that loked vpon her.

16 And Esther was taken vnto king Ahasuerus into his house royall, in the tenth moneth (which is the moneth Tebeth) in the seuenth yere of his raigne.

17 And the king loued Esther aboue all the women, and she found grace and fa-uour in his sight more then all the vir-gins, so that he set the crowne of the kingdome vpon her head, and made her queene in steede of Vasthi.

18 And the king made a great feast vnto all his princes and seruauntes, whiche feast was because of Esther, and caused the prouinces to be in quietnesse, & gaue giftes, as became the royaltie of a king.

19 And when the virgins were gathered together the seconde time, Mardocheus sate in the kinges gate.

20 And as yet had not Esther shewed her kinred & her people, according as Mar-docheus had bidden her: for Esther dyd after the worde of Mardocheus, like as if she had ben yet vnder his gouernaunce.

21 At the same time (whyle Mardocheus D sate in the kinges gate) two of ꝑ kinges chamberlaynes, Bigthan and Theres, which kept the doore, were wroth, and sought to lay their handes on the king Ahasuerus:

22 Whereof also Mardocheus gat knowledge, *and tolde it vnto queene Esther, and Esther certified the king therof in Mardocheus name.

23 And when inquisition was made, it was founde so, and they were both hanged on tree: and it was written in the Chronicles before the king.

The .iii. Chapter.

1 Haman after he was exalted, obteined of the king, that all the Iewes shoulde be put to death, because Mardocheus had not done him worship as other had.

A 1  fter these actes, dyd king Ahasuerus promote Haman the sonne of Amadatha the A-gagite, and set hym on hie, and set his seate aboue all the princes that he had with hym.

2 And al the kinges seruauntes that were in the kinges gate, bowed their knees, and reuerenced Haman, for the king had so commaunded concerning hym: But Mardocheus bowed not the knee, neither dyd hym reuerence.

3 Then the kinges seruauntes whiche were in the kinges gate, said vnto Mar-docheus: Why transgressest thou the kinges commaundement?

4 And though they spake this dayly vnto hym, yet would he not heare them, therfore they tolde Haman, that they might see howe Mardocheus matters woulde stande, for he had tolde them that he was a Iewe.

5 And when Haman sawe that Mardocheus bowed not the knee vnto him, nor dyd reuerence vnto hym, he was full of indignation,

6 And thought it to litle to lay handes onely on Mardocheus, for they had shewed him the nation of Mardocheus:
Wherefore he sought to destroy all the Iewes that were throughout the whole empire of Ahasuerus, and that were of the nation of Mardocheus.

7 In the first moneth (that is, the moneth B Nisan) in the twelfth yere of king Ahasuerus, they cast Phur, that is a lot, before Haman from day to day, and from moneth to moneth to the twelfth moneth, that is, the moneth Adar.

8 And Haman sayde vnto king Ahasuerus: There is here a people scattred abrode, and dispearsed among all people in all the prouinces of thyne empire, and their lawes are diuers from all people, and do not after the kinges lawes, therefore it is not the kinges profite to suffer them after this maner.

9 If

9 If it please the king, let it be written that they may be destroyed: and so will I waye downe ten thousand talents of siluer by the handes of them that haue the charge of this busines, to bring it into the kinges treasurie.

10 And the king toke his ring from his hand, & gaue it vnto Haman the sonne of Amadatha the Agagite, the Iewes enemie.

11 And the king saide vnto Haman: Let the siluer be thyne, & do with that people as it pleaseth thee.

12 Then were the kinges scribes called on the thirteenth day of the first moneth, & there was written according as Haman commaunded vnto all the kinges officers, and to the captaynes that were ouer euery prouince, and to the rulers of euery people in the countryes on euery side according to the writing therof, and to euery nation after their language, in the name of king Ahasuerus was it written, and sealed with the kinges ring.

13 And the letters were sent by postes into all the kinges prouinces, to roote out, to kill, and to destroy all Iewes both young and olde, children and women in one day [namely] vpon the thirteenth day of the twelfth moneth (which is the moneth Adar) & to spoyle thē as a pray. C

14 This was the summe of the writing, that there should be a commaundement geuen in al prouinces, and published vnto all people, that they should be redy against the same day.

15 And the postes went in all the haste according to the kinges commaundement, and in Susan the chiefe citie was the commaundement deuised: And the king and Haman sate and dranke. When in the meane time the citie of Susan was disquieted.

5 Mardocheus geueth the queene knowledge of the cruell decree of the king against the Iewes. 16 She willeth that they pray for her.

A 1 When Mardocheus perceaued all that was done, he rent his clothes, and put on sackecloth with asshes, and went out into the middest of the citie, and cryed loude and lamentably,

2 And came before the kinges gate: but he might not enter within the kinges gate, because he had sackcloth on.

3 And in all prouinces, countries, and places, as farre as the kinges worde & commaundement extented, there was great lamentatiō among the Iewes, fasting, weeping, and mourning, and many lay in sackeclothes and in asshes.

4 So Esthers maydens and her chamberlaynes, came and told it her: Then was the queene exceedingly astonied, and she sent rayment that Mardocheus shoulde put on, and lay the sackcloth from him: But Mardocheus would not take them.

5 Then called Esther Hathach one of the kinges chamberlaines which stoode before her, and gaue him a commaundement vnto Mardocheus, to know what it was wherefore he did so.

6 So Hathach went foorth to Mardocheus, vnto the streete of the citie which was before the kinges gate:

7 And Mardocheus tolde him of al that had come vnto him, & of ỳ summe of siluer that Haman had promised to waye downe into the kinges treasurie, because of the Iewes if he would destroy them. B

8 And he gaue him the copie of the kinges commaundement that was deuised at Susan to destroy them, that he might shewe it vnto Esther, and to speake to her, and charge her that she should go in vnto the king, & make her prayer and supplication vnto him for her people.

9 And when Hathach came in, he tolde Esther the wordes of Mardocheus.

10 And againe Esther spake vnto Hathach and commaũded him to say vnto Mardocheus:

11 All the kinges seruauntes, & the people in the prouinces of the king knowe, that whosoeuer commeth within the courte vnto the king, whether it be man or woman, which is not called, "the cōmaundement is, that the same shall dye, except the king holde out the golden septer vnto him, for then he shall lyue: As for me, I haue not ben called to come in vnto the king now this thirtie dayes.

" Or, there is a lawe of his.

12 And they certified Mardocheus of Esth. ers

Esthers wordes.

13 And Mardocheus bad say againe vnto Esther: Thinke not with thy selfe that thou shalt escape in the kinges house more then all the Jewes.

14 For if thou holdest thy peace at this time, then shall the Jewes haue " helpe and deliueraunce out of an other place, and thou and thy fathers house shalbe destroyed: And who knoweth whether thou art come to the kingdome " for this causes sake?

15 Esther bad them geue Mardocheus this aunswere:

16 Go thou thy way, and gather together all the Jewes that are founde at Susan, and fast ye for me, that ye eate not and drinke not in three dayes neither day nor night, J and my maydens wyll fast likewyse: and so wyll J go in to the king, which thing yet is contrary to the commaundement: and if J perishe, J perishe.

17 So Mardocheus went his way, and did according to al that Esther had commaunded him.

" Or, breathing.

" Or, for such a tyme.

¶ The .v. Chapter.

1 Esther entreth into the king, and biddeth him and Haman to a feaste.
11 Haman prepareth a gallous for Mardocheus.

AND on the third day it came to passe, that Esther put on her royall apparell, and stoode in the court of the kinges palace within, ouer against ỹ kinges house: and the king sat vpon his royall seate in the kinges palace ouer against the gate of the house.

2 And when the king sawe Esther the queene standing in the court, she founde grace in his sight: And the king held out the golden scepter that was in his hand: So Esther stept forth and touched the top of the scepter.

3 Then saide the king vnto her: what wylt thou queene Esther? and what requirest thou? [aske] euen the halfe of the empire, and it shalbe geuen thee.

4 And Esther aunswered: Jf it please the king, let the king and Haman come this day vnto the banket that J haue prepared for him.

5 And the king saide: Cause Haman to make haste, that he may do as Esther hath saide. So the king and Haman came to the banket that Esther had prepared.

6 And the king saide vnto Esther at the banket of wine: what is thy petition, that it may be geuen thee? And what requirest thou? Jf it be euen the halfe of the empire, it shall be done.

7 Then

7 Then aunswered Esther, and saide: My petition and desire is,
8 If I haue founde grace in the sight of the king, and if it please the king to geue me my petition, and to fulfil my request, then let the king and Haman come to the banket that I shall prepare for thē: and so wyl I do to morowe, as the king hath saide.
9 Then went Haman forth the same day ioyfull and mery in his minde: But when the same Haman sawe Mardocheus in the kinges gate, that he stoode not vp nor moued for him, he was ful of indignation at Mardocheus.
10 Neuertheles, Haman refrained him selfe, and when he came home he sent and called for his friendes and Zares his wyfe.
11 And Haman tolde them of the glory of his riches, and the multitude of his children, and all the thinges wherein the king had promoted him so greatly, and how that he had set him aboue the princes and seruauntes of the king.
12 Haman saide moreouer: Yea, Esther the queene did let no man come in with the king vnto the banket that she had prepared, except me: and to morowe am I bidden vnto her also with the king.
13 But in all this am I not satisfied, as long as I see Mardocheus the Iewe ℭ sitting at the kinges gate.
14 Then saide Zares his wyfe and all his friendes vnto him: Let them make a galous of fiftie cubites hie, and to morowe speake thou vnto the king that Mardocheus may be hanged thereon: then go thou in merily with the king vnto the banket. And Haman was well content withall, and caused the galous to be made.

The .vi. Chapter.

1 The king turneth ouer the chronicles, and findeth the fidelitie of Mardocheus, 10 and commaundeth Haman to cause Mardocheus to be had in honour.

IN the same night coulde not the king sleepe, and he commaunded to bring * the chronicles and stories: and they were read before the king.
2 Then it was founde written how Mardocheus had tolde that Bigthana & Theres the kinges two chamberlaynes which kept the * thresholdes, sought to laye handes on king Ahasuerus.
3 And the king saide: What honour and dignitie hath ben geuen to Mardocheus therfore? Then saide the kinges seruaūtes that ministred vnto him: There is nothing at all done for him.

* Or, the chronicles of the dayes and yeares.

* Or, doores.

4 And

4 And the king saide: who is in the court? (for Haman was come into the court without before the kinges house, that he might speake vnto the king to hang Mardocheus on the tree that he had prepared for him.)

5 And the kinges seruauntes saide vnto him: Beholde, Haman standeth in the court. And the king saide: let him come in.

6 And when Haman came in, the king saide vnto him: What shalbe done vnto the man whom the king would faine bring vnto worship? (Haman thought in his heart: whom desireth the king to bring vnto worship more then me?)

B 7 And Haman answered the king: Let the man whom the king pleaseth to bring vnto worship, be brought hither,

8 That he may be arayed with the royall garmentes which the king vseth to weare, and the horse that the king rydeth vpon, and that the crowne royall may be set vpon his head:

9 And let this rayment and horse be deliuered vnder the hande of one of the kinges most noble princes, that they may aray the man withal whom the king is disposed to bring to honour, and cary him vpon the horse through the streete of the citie, and proclayme before him, Thus shall it be done to the man whom the king pleaseth to bring to honour.

10 And the king saide to Haman: Make haste, and take as thou hast saide the rayment and the horse, and do euen so vnto Mardocheus the Iewe that sitteth before the kinges gate, and let nothing faile of all that thou hast spoken.

11 Then toke Haman the rayment and the horse, and arayed Mardocheus, and brought him on horsebacke through the streete of the citie, and proclaymed before him, Euen this shall it be done vnto the man whom the king is disposed to honour.

12 And Mardocheus came againe to the kinges gate: but Haman gat him home in all the haste mourning, and his head couered,

13 And tolde Zares his wyfe and all his frendes euery thing that had befallen him. Then saide his wise men and Zares his wyfe vnto him: If it be Mardocheus of the seede of the Iewes, before whō thou hast begun to fall, thou shalt not preuaile against him, but shalt surely fall before him. ℭ

14 And whyle they were yet talking with him, came the kinges chamberlaynes, & caused Haman to make haste to come vnto the banket that Esther had prepared.

3 The queene biddeth the king and Haman againe, and prayeth for her selfe and her people. 6 She accuseth Haman, and he is hanged on the galous which he had prepared for Mardocheus.

A 1 AND the king and Haman came to bancket
2 with the queene Esther.

And the king saide againe vnto Esther on the seconde day at the bancket of wine: what is thy petition queene Esther, that it may be geuen thee? And what requirest thou? if it be euen to the halfe of the empire, it shalbe done.

3 And Esther the queene answered, and saide: If I haue found grace in thy sight O king, and if it please the king, then graunt me my lyfe at my desire, and my people for my petitions sake.

4 For we are solde I and my people to be destroyed, to be slaine, and to perishe: And would God that we were solde to be bondmen and bondwomen, then would I holde my tongue: although the enemie coulde not recompence the kinges losse.

5 The king Ahasuerus answered and saide vnto queene Esther: who is he? And where is he, that dare presume in his minde to do after that maner?

6 And Esther saide: the enemie and aduersarie is this wicked Haman. Then Haman was exceedingly afrayde before the king and the queene.

7 And the king arose from the bancket and from the wine in his displeasure, B and went into the palace garden: And Haman stoode vp, and besought queene Esther for his lyfe: for he saw that there was a mischiefe prepared for him of the king king alreadie.

8 And when the king came againe out of the palace garden into the place where they dranke wine: Haman had layde him vpon the bed that Esther sate vpon. Then saide the king: Will he force the queene also before me in the house? As soone as that worde went out of the kinges mouth, they couered Hamans face.

9 And Harbona one of the chamberlaynes that stoode before the king, said: Beholde, there standeth yet a galous in Hamans house, fiftie cubites hye, which he had made for Mardocheus, that spake good for the king. Then the king saide, Hang him thereon.

10 So they hanged Haman on the galous that he had made for Mardocheus: Then was the kinges wrath pacified.

1 After the death of Haman was Mardocheus exalted. 14 Comfortable letters are sent vnto the Iewes.

A 1 The same day did king Ahasuerus geue the house of Haman the Iewes enemie vnto queene Esther, and Mardocheus came before the king: for Esther tolde what he was vnto her.

2 And the king toke of his ring which he had taken from Haman, and gaue it vnto Mardocheus. And Esther sette Mardocheus ouer the house of Haman.

3 And Esther spake yet more before the king, and fel downe at his feete weping, and besought him that he would put away the wickednesse of Haman the Agagite, and his deuice that he had imagined against the Iewes.

4 And the king held out the golden scepter toward Esther. Then rose Esther, and stode before the king,

5 And saide: If it please the king, and if I haue founde grace in his sight, and if it be acceptable before the king, and I please him, then let it be writtē, that the letters of the deuise of Haman the sonne of Hamadatha the Agagite may be called againe, which letters he wrote to destroy the Iewes which are in all the kinges prouinces.

6 For how can I suffer and see the euill that shall come vnto my people? or how can I beare and loke vpon the destruction of my kindred?

B 7 And the king Ahasuerus saide vnto queene Esther, and to Mardocheus the Iewe: Beholde, I haue geuen Esther the house of Haman, whom they haue hanged vpon a tree, because he layde hand vpon the Iewes.

8 Write ye also for the Iewes as it liketh you, in the kinges name, and seale it with the kinges ring: For the writinges that were written in the kinges name, and sealed with the kinges ring, durst no man disanul.

9 Then were the kinges scribes called at the same time, euen in the thirde moneth (that is the moneth Siuan) on the three and twentie day thereof, and it was written according to all as Mardocheus commaūded vnto the Iewes, and to the princes, to the debuties and captaynes in the prouinces which are from India vnto Ethiopia, namely an hundred twentie and seuen prouinces, vnto euery prouince according to the writing thereof, and vnto euery people after their speach, and to the Iewes according to their writing and language.

10 And he wrote in the king Ahasuerus name, & sealed it with the kinges ring, and by postes that rode vpon horses, and swyft young Mules, sent he the writinges,

11 Wherin the king graunted the Iewes in what cities soeuer they were, to gather themselues together, and to stand for their lyfe, and for to roote out, to slay and to destroy all the power of the people and prouince that woulde trouble them, both children and women, and to spoyle their goodes:

12 Upon one day in all the prouinces of king Ahasuerus, namely vpon the thirteenth day of the twelfth moneth, which is the moneth Adar. C

13 The summe of the writing was, how there shoulde be a commaundement geuen in all and euery prouince, and published among all people, and that the Iewes should be redy against that day, to auenge them selues on their enemies.

14 And so the postes that rode vpon the swyft Horses and Mules, made haste with all speede to execute the kinges Word: and the commaundement was deuised in Susan the chiefe citie.
15 And Mardocheus went out from the king in royall apparell, of " yelowe and white, & with a great crowne of golde, being arayed with a garment of " silke and purple: and the citie of Susan reioyced and was glad.
16 And vnto the Jewes there was come light and gladnesse, ioy and worship.
17 In all prouinces and cities into what places soeuer the kinges Word and commaundement reached, there was ioy and mirth, a feaste and good dayes among the Jewes: insomuch, that many of the people in ỹ lande became Jewes, for the feare of the Jewes came vpon them.

" Or, blue.

* Or, fine linnen.

The .ix. Chapter.

1 At the commaundement of the king, the Jewes put their aduersaries to death. 14 The ten sonnes of Haman are hanged. 17 The Jewes kepe a feaste in remembraunce of their deliueraunce.

A 1 IN the twelfth moneth (that is the moneth Adar) vpõ the thirteenth day of the same, when the kinges Worde and commaundement drue neare to be put in execution, in the day that the enemies of the Jewes hoped to haue power ouer thẽ, it turned contrary: for the Jewes had rule ouer them that hated them.
2 For then gathered the Jewes togethet in their cities within all the prouinces of king Ahasuerus, to lay hande on such as Woulde do them euill, and no man could withstand them: for the feare of them was come ouer all people.
3 And all the rulers in the prouinces, and princes, and deputies, and officers of the king, promoted the Jewes: for the feare of Mardocheus came vpon them.
4 For Mardocheus was great in the kinges house, & the reporte of him was noysed in all the prouinces: for this man Mardocheus waxed greater and greater.
5 Thus the Jewes smote all their enemies with the stroke of the sword, and slaughter, and destruction, & did what they would vnto their enemies.
6 And at Susan the chiefe citie slue the Jewes, & destroyed fiue hundred men.
B 7 And slue Pharsandatha, Dalphon, Asphatha,
8 Phoratha, Adalia, Aridatha,
9 Pharmastha, Arisai, Aridai, and Vaizatha,
10 The ten sonnes of Haman the sonne of Hamadata the enemie of the Jewes: but " on his goodes they layed no handes.
11 At the same time was the king certified of the number of those that were slaine in the citie of Susan.
12 And the king saide vnto queene Esther: The Jewes haue slaine and destroyed fiue hundred men in the citie of Susan, and the ten sonnes of Haman: what haue they done [thinkest thou] in other landes of the king? And what is thy petition, that it may be geuen thee? or what requirest thou more to be done?
13 Esther aunswered: If it please the king, let him suffer the Jewes which are in Susan, to morow also to do according vnto this dayes decree, that they may hang Hamans ten sonnes vpon the tree. C
14 And the king charged to do so: and the decree was deuised at Susan, and they hanged Hamans ten sonnes.
15 For the Jewes that were in Susan gathered them selues together, vpon the fourteenth day of the moneth Adar, and slue three hundred men at Susan: but on their goodes they layed no handes.
16 As for the other Jewes that were in the kinges prouinces, they came together and stoode for their liues, & had rest from their enemies, & slue of their enemies seuentie and fiue thousand: howbeit they layed no handes on their goodes.
17 [This they did] on the thirteenth day of the moneth Adar, & on the fourteenth day of the same moneth rested they, which day they held with feasting and gladnesse.
18 But the Jewes that were at Susan came " Or, on the spoile.

came together both on the thirteenth day and on the fourteenth: and on the fifteenth day of the same they rested, and held that day with feasting & gladnesse.

19 And therefore the Jewes that dwelt in the villages and vnwalled townes, held the fourteenth day of the moneth Adar with gladnesse and feasting, and kept holy day, and euery one sent presentes vnto his neighbour.

20 And Mardocheus wrote these wordes, and sent letters vnto all the Jewes that were in all the prouinces of king Ahasuerus, both nie and farre:

21 That they should make a lawe among thē selues, & holde the fourteenth & fifteenth day of the moneth Adar, yerely.

22 As the dayes wherein the Jewes came to rest from their enemies, and as a moneth wherein their paine was turned to ioy, and their sorowe into a ioyful day: and that in those dayes they should make feastes and gladnesse, and one to send giftes vnto another, and to distribute vnto the poore.

23 And the Jewes promised to do as they had begunne, and as Mardocheus had written vnto them:

24 Because Haman the sonne of Hamadatha the Agagite all the Jewes enemie, had deuised against the Jewes how he might destroy them, and caused to cast Phur (that is a lot) for to consume them, & to bring them to naught.

25 But when Esther came before the king, he commaunded by letters that his wicked deuice which he imagined against the Jewes, should be turned vpon his owne head, and that he and his sonnes should be hanged on the tree.

26 For the which cause they called these dayes Phurim, because of the name of the lot, and because of all the wordes of this writing, and what they themselues had seene, & what had come vnto them:

27 And the Jewes ordayned, and toke it vpon them and their seede, and vpon all such as ioyned them selues vnto them, that they would not misse but obserue these two dayes yerely, according as they were written and appoynted in their season,

28 And that these dayes are to be remembred and to be kept of chylders children among al kinredes in all landes and cities: In these dayes of Phurim which are not to be ouerslipt among ỹ Jewes, and the memoriall of them ought not to perishe from their seede.

29 And queene Esther the daughter of Abihail & Mardocheus the Jewe, wrote with all authoritie to confirme this second writing of Phurim.

30 And he sent the letters vnto all the Jewes, to the hundred twentie and seuen prouinces of the empire of Ahasuerus, with wordes of peace and trueth:

31 To confirme these dayes of Phurim in their time appoynted, according as Mardocheus the Jewe and Esther the queene had appoynted them: and they bound their soule and their seede to fasting and prayer.

32 And the decree of Esther confirmed these wordes of Phurim, and was written in the booke.

33 And the king Ahasuerus layed tribute vpon the land, & vpon the iles of the sea.

34 And all the actes of his power and of his might, & the declaration of the dignitie of Mardocheus wherwith the king magnified him, be they not written in the bookes of ỹ chronicles of the kinges of Medes and Persia?

35 For Mardocheus the Jewe, was the second next vnto king Ahasuerus, and great among the Jewes, and accepted among the multitude of his brethren, as one that seeketh the wealth of his people, and speaketh peaceably for all his seede.

The ende of the booke of Esther.

The booke of Iob.

The first Chapter.

1 The holines, riches, and care of Iob for his children. 11 Satan hath permission to tempt him. 13 He tempteth him by taking away his substaunce, and his children. 20 His faith and patience.

(a) Hus is a region neare bordering upon Idumea, so called of Hus the sonne of Aram, for that he built two cities there, Damascus, and Thzaconite.
(b) This Iob was a gentile, declaring hereby that God hath his, euen among the heathen.
(c) His riches are recited, to shewe his great patience in losse of them, and that riches are the blessing of God, & are not euill to him that vseth them well. Let not riches be accompted euill, for they are geuen to good men: Let not them be accompted high or excellent, for they are geuen to euill men. they are taken from good men to trye them, and from euil men to tague thē.
(d) Hebrue Benale, children.
(e) Aswell Idumeans, Chaldeans, Idumeans, as others.
(f) To shewe the concorde & brotherlie amitie of Iobs children, which also was an other parte of the blessing of God, and his felicitie.

1 IN the lande of(a) * Hus there was a man whose name was(b) Iob, & the same was a perfect and iust man, one that feared God and eschued euill.

2 And he had seuen sonnes and three daughters.

3 His (c) substaunce also was seuen thousand sheepe, and three thousand camels, fiue hundred yoke of oxen, and fiue hundred shee asses, and a very great housholde: so that he was one of the most principall " men among all them of the (d) east [countrey.]

4 And his sonnes went and (e) banquetted in their houses euery one his day, and sent for their three sisters to eate and drinke with them.

5 And when the dayes of their banquetting were gone about, Iob sent (f) and sanctified them, and gat vp early and (g) offered for euery one a burnt offring: For Iob saide, It may be that my sonnes haue done some offence, & haue ben (h) vnthankfull to God in their heartes. Thus did Iob euery day.

6 And vpon a day when the (i) children of God came and stoode before the lord, Satan came also among them.

7 And the Lorde saide vnto Satan (k) Whence comest thou? Satan answered the Lorde and saide: (l) From compassing the earth to and fro, & from walking through it.

8 And the Lorde saide vnto Satan: Hast thou not considered my seruaunt Iob, how there is none lyke him in the earth: a perfect and a iust man, one that feareth God, and eschueth euill?

9 Satan answered, and saide vnto the Lorde: Doth Iob feare God for naught?

10 Hast thou not " preserued him and his house, and al that he hath on euery side? Thou hast blessed the worke of his handes, and his possession is encreased in the lande.

11 But laye thyne hand now vpon him, and touche all that he hath, and he shall (m) curse thee to thy face.

(f) That is, he willed thē to be sanctified, in abstaining frō carnal appetites, and shewed how they should behaue themselues holylie and soberlie in their banquettes. (g) Herein is Iobs religion and feare of God knowen, & the fatherly care of his children expressed.

(h) That is, curse God, which is sometimes taken for to curse or blaspheme.
(i) In this place not onelye Angels, but euery godly person, is taken for gods childe, of which God hath a tender care as a louing father.
(k) God asketh the question, not that he was ignoraunt from whence he came, but for the weakenes of man.
(l) This is Sathans onelye endeuour, to range abrode as a roaring lion, seeking whom he may deuoure.
" Or, Hedge made an hedge about him.
(m) The Ebrue is to blesse thee, as it is before taken, the rite verbe, to curse.

12 And

12 And the Lorde saide vnto Satan: Lo, (n) all that he hath be in thy "power, only vpon him selfe see that thou lay not thine hand. And Satan went foorth from the presence of the Lorde.

13 And vpon a certayne day, when his sonnes and daughters were eating and drinking wine in their eldest brothers house,

14 There came a messenger vnto Iob, and sayde: The oxen were plowing and the asses feeding beside them:

15 (o) And the Sabees came violently, and toke them away, yea they haue slayne thy seruauntes with the edge of the swoord: and I only am escaped alone to tell thee.

16 Whyle he was yet speaking, there came another, and sayde: The fire of God is fallen from heauen, and hath brent vp thy sheepe and seruauntes, and consumed them: and I only am escaped alone to tell thee.

17 And whyle he was yet speaking there came another, and sayde: The Caldees made out their bandes, and fel vpon the camels, and haue caried them away, yea and slayne thy seruauntes with the swoorde: and I only am gotten away alone to tell thee.

18 And whyle he was yet speaking there came an other, and sayde: Thy sonnes and thy daughters were eating and drincking wine in their eldest brothers house, 19 And behold there came a mightie great wind from beyond the wildernesse, and smote the foure corners of the house, Whiche fell vpon thy children, and they are dead: and I am gotten away alone to tell thee.

20 Then Iob stoode vp, and (p) rent his clothes, & shaued his head, fell downe vpon the ground, worshipped, 21 And sayde: Naked came I out of my mothers wombe, & naked shall I turne thyther againe: The Lorde gaue & the Lord hath taken away, blessed be the name of the Lorde.

22 In (q) all these thinges dyd Iob not offende, nor charged God foolishly.

(p) Not that he was vnpacient, but he wouldte not haue any thing remaine with him, which was deliuered into the powre of Satan.

(q) Declaring that all that God doth, is well done.

The. ii. Chapter.

6 Satan hath permission to afflict Iob, 9 His wyfe tempteth him to forsake God.
11 His three friendes visite hym.

1 AND on a day the (a) children of God came and stoode before the Lorde, and Satan came also among thē, and stoode before the Lorde.

2 And the Lorde sayde vntó Satan: From whence commest thou? Satan aunswered the Lorde, and sayd: I haue gone about the lande, walked thorow it.

3 And the Lorde sayde vnto Satan: Hast thou not considered my seruaunt Iob: howe there is none like vnto hym in the earth, a perfect and a iust man: one that feareth God, and eschueth euil, & continueth still in his vprightnesse, although thou moouedst me against hym, to (b) destroy him without cause.

4 And Satan aunswered the Lord, and sayd, (c) Skinne for skinne, yea a man wil geue al that euer he hath for his life.

5 But lay thyne hande nowe vpon hym, and touch [once] his bone and his flesh, and he shall curse thee to thy face.

6 And the Lord sayde vnto Satan: Lo, he is in thyne hand, but (d) saue his lyfe.

7 So went Satan foorth from the presence of the Lorde, and smote Iob with sore byles, from the sole of his foote vnto his crowne.

8 And he toke a potsharde to scrape hym: and he sat downe among the asshes.

9 Then sayd his wyfe vnto him: (e) Doest thou continue yet in thy perfectnesse? curse God, and dye.

10 But he sayde vnto her, Thou speakest like a foolish woman: shal we (f) receaue good at the hande of God, and not receaue euyll? In all these thinges did not Iob sinne with his lippes.

11 Nowe (g) when Iobs three friendes heard of all the trouble that came vpon him, they came euery one frō his owne place [namely] Eliphas the Themanite, Bildad the Suhite, and Zophad the Naamathite: for they were agreed together to come to shewe their compassion vpon him, and to comfort hym.

(b) Declaring that in al affliction there are certayne bounders and limiters, beyonde the which Satan can not go.

(c) A cruell temptation of an euyl and vngodly wife.

(f) Teaching that we ought to hope in gods giftes when he sendeth them, & be thankefull, and to be patient when he taketh them againe, & not to dispaire.

(g) That is, true friendship, whiche biddeth alwell in aduersitie as in prosperitie, and as in prosperitie to reioyce with him, so in aduersitie to lament with him.

12 So when they lift vp their eyes a farre of, they knew him not: then they cryed and wept, and euery one of them rent his clothes, and sprinckled dust vpon their heades "in the ayre.

13 They sate them downe by him also vpon the grounde seuen dayes & seuen nightes, and none spake a worde vnto him: for they sawe that his greefe was very great.

"Heb. Towardes the heauen.

The. iii. Chapter.

1 Job complayneth and curseth the day of his byrth. 11 He desireth to dye, as though death were the end of all mans miserie.

1 AFter (a) this opened Job his mouth, and cursed his day,

2 And Job answered, and sayde:

3 Let (b) the day perishe wherin I was borne, (c) and the night in the whiche it was sayd, There is a man childe conceaued.

4 The same day be [turned to] darknesse, and not regarded of God from aboue, neither let the light shyne vpon it:

5 But let it be stayned with darknesse and the shadowe of death, let the [dimme] cloude fall vpon it, whiche may make it terrible as a most bitter day.

6 Let the darke storme ouercome that night, and let it not be ioyned vnto the dayes of the yere, nor counted in the number of the monethes.

7 Desolate be that night, and without gladnesse.

8 Let them that curse the day, and that be redy to rayse vp mourning, geue it also their curse.

9 Let the starres of that "night be dimme thorowe darkenesse of it, let it loke for light, but haue none, (d) neither let it see the dawning of the day:

10 Because it shut not vp the doores of my mothers wombe, nor hyd sorowe from myne eyes.

11 [Alas] Why died I not in the birth? Why dyd not I perishe assoone as I came out of [my mothers] wombe?

12 Why set they me vpon their knees? Why gaue they me sucke with their brestes?

13 Then should I nowe haue lyen stil, I shoulde haue slept, and ben at rest,

14 Lyke as the kinges and "lordes of the earth, which haue buylded them selues "speciall places,

15 Or as the princes that haue had golde, and their houses full of siluer:

16 Or [why] was not I hyd, as a thing borne out of time, [either] as young children which neuer sawe the light?

17 There (e) must the wicked ceasse from their tyrannie, and there such as laboured valiauntly be at rest:

18 There the (f) prisoners rest together, they heare no more the voyce of the oppressour:

19 There are small and great, and the seruaunt [is] free from his maister.

20 Wherefore is the light geuen to hym that is in miserie? & lyfe vnto them that haue heauy heartes?

21 Whiche long for death and finde it not, though they search more for it than for treasures:

22 Which reioyce exceedingly, and be glad when they can finde the graue,

23 From whom their endes are hyd, and concealed by God?

24 For my sighes come before I eate, and my roringes are powred out like the water:

25 For the thing that (g) I feared is come vpon me, and the thing that I was afrayde of is happened vnto me, 26 Was I not happy? Had I not quietnesse? was I not in rest? And nowe commeth such miserie vpon me.

(a) That is, after that seuen dayes were fully fynished.

(b) Job being sore afflicted in the flesshe, semeth after a sort to yeld to it, breaking out into these wordes, because he saw that day was the beginning of al these afflictions.

(c) He cursed not his dayes because he was swery of it as one desperate, but rather wishing to be dissolued, lest by farther troubles he should be forced to offend God.

"He. Twylight.

(d) The Hebrue speach is, the eye lidded of the morning

Heb. counsellers.

"Heb. desolate.

(e) That is, death is the end and helpe from the tyrannie and wickednesse of them.

(f) Here Job declareth the sore plagues he bare, counting him selfe in worse state then the vnfit persons and bound prisoners: of which cares, after opinion of the flesshe, he accompteth death the only end.

(g) That is, aduersitie, whiche beyng in prosperitie he feared.

The

The. iiii. Chapter.

5 Iob is reprehended of impatiencie, 7 and vniustice, 17 and of the presumption of his owne righteousnes.

1 AND Eliphas the Themanite aunswered, & sayde:

2 If we assay to come with thee, wilt thou be discontent? (a) But who can withhold him selfe from speaking?

3 Beholde, thou hast ben an instructer of many, & hast strenghtned the (b) weery handes:

4 Thy wordes haue set vp him that was falling, thou hast refreshed the weake knees.

5 But (c) nowe it is come vpon thee, and thou art greeued: it toucheth thee, and thou art troubled.

6 Was not thy feare according to thy hope? and the perfectnesse of thy wayes according to thy expectation?

7 Consider I pray thee Who euer perished (d) beyng an innocent? or When were the godly destroyed?

8 For as I haue proued by experience, they that plow iniquitie & sow wretchednesse, reape the same.

9 With the blast of God they perishe, With the breath of his nostrels are they consumed away.

10 The roring of the lion, and the voyce of the lion, and the teeth of the lions whelpes are pulled out.

11 The (e) lion perisheth for lake of pray, & the lions whelpes are scattered abrode.

12 But wheras a thing was (f) hyd from me, yet myne eare hath receaued a litle therof.

13 In the thoughtes and visions of the night when sleepe commeth on men, 14 (g) Feare came vpon me & dread, which made all my bones to shake.

15 The winde passed by before my presence, and made the heeres of my flesche to stande vp.

16 He stoode thereon and I (h) knewe not his face, an image there was before myne eyes, and in the stilnesse heard I a voyce.

17 Shall (i) man be more iust then God? or shall a man be purer then his maker?

18 Beholde, he founde not trueth in his seruauntes, and in (k) his angels there was folly:

19 Howe much more in them that dwel in (l) houses of clay, and whose foundation is but dust, which shall be consumed as it were with a moth?

20 They shalbe smitten (m) from the morning vnto the euening: yea they (n) shall perishe for euer, when no man regardeth them.

21 Is not their royaltie gone away with them? they shall dye truely, and not in wysdome.

(a) Here Eliphas sheweth the maner of diuine reuelation by the holy ghost, saying that that which he will nowe declare, is not humayne reason, but as reuealed vnto him from god.

(b) Although feare commeth with such reuelations from God, to shewe the reuerence and auctoritie of them.

(c) This is the description of the winde, not knowing from whence it commeth or whyther it will, as Saul also heard a voyce but saw not any man.

(d) This is Eliphas weake argument to proue Iob an euyll man, because God plagued hym: or els if God afflicted innocentes, carnal reason would iudge the creature more iust then the creator, which is blasphemie, for God ofte puniſheth the righteous to proue them.

(e) Take frō gods children and from the angels that which is gods, and they are altogether vnperfect and foolishe.

(f) Meaning mans body which is nothing but dust and clay.

(g) This expresseth mans short lyfe, and the daungers and miseries in the same.

(h) Mans blindnesse that seeth not his owne misere.

(i) Declaring that it is not of the earth y barrennes, & afflictions do aryse neither is it by any externe things but only such aduersitie falleth for mans offence, whereof he is the author.

(k) wherin is the signe of our corrupt nature, euen from the fall of Adam.

(l) If I were in thy case, I would craue helpe of God (sayth Eliphas.

The. v. Chapter.

1.2 Eliphas sheweth the difference betweene the children of God and the wicked. 3 The fall of the wicked. 9 Gods power who destroyeth the wicked, and deliuereth his.

1 CRye (a) I pray thee, if there be any that will aunswere thee, & loke thou vpon any of the holy.

2 As for the foolish mā, wrathfulnesse killeth him, and enuie slayeth the ignorant.

3 I haue seene my selfe when the (b) foolish was deepe rooted, and (c) sodenly I cursed his habitation.

4 His children were without prosperitie, and they were (d) slayne in the gate, and there was no man to deliuer them.

5 His harueſt was eaten of the hungrie, & taken from among the thornes, and the thurstie drunke vp their labour: It is not the earth that bringeth foorth iniquitie,

6 Neither commeth sorowe out of the ground:

7 But man is borne vnto labour, (e) like as the sparkes fire vp [out of the hot coles.]

8 But (f) I would aske counsell at the Lorde, and talke with God:

9 which doth great thinges and vnsearcheable, [and] maruels without number.

10 He geueth rayne vpon the earth, and powreth water vpon the streetes, 11 To set vp them that be of lowe degree, and that those which are in heauinesse may be exalted to saluation.

(a) I perceiue by this that Eliphas perceiued that God had cursed him and al his, wherby it greeued not me to see his prosperitie. (b) That is, by publike iudgement condemned, which was vsed to be done in the gates of the cities.

12 He destroyeth the deuices of the subtyll, so that their handes are not able to perfourme that which they do enterpryse.

13 He compasseth the wise in their owne craftinesse, & maketh foolishe the counsell of the wicked.

(b) That is, in thinges manifest and playne, they want godly wysdome and grace to see.

14 They runne into(b) darknesse by fayre day, and grope at the noone day as in the night.

15 But he deliuereth the(i) poore from the swoorde, from their threatninges, and from the violence of the mightie.

(i) That is, from the cruelne of the wicked, which is compared to the swoorde.

16 He is the hope of the poore, & the mouth of the wicked shalbe stopped.

17 Behold, blessed is the man whom God correcteth, therefore refuse not thou the chastening of the almightie:

18 For he maketh a wounde and he healeth: he smiteth, and his hande maketh whole againe.

(k) Alluding to the sixe dayes of gods first worke, and the seuenth day he rested, meaning, that of al thy cares and troubles god will deliuer thee, & bring thee to rest as in the seuenth day.

19 He shall deliuer thee in(k) sixe troubles, & in the seuenth there shall no euil come to thee.

20 In hunger he shall saue thee from death, and when it is warre, from the power of the swoorde.

21 Thou shalt be hyd from the scourge of the tongue, & when destruction commeth thou shalt not neede to feare.

22 In destruction and dearth thou shalt be mery, and shalt not be afrayde of the beastes of the earth.

(l) Shewing that when we haue God our friend, all creatures of his will serue to our good,

23 For the(l) stones of the land shalbe confederate with thee, and the beastes of the fielde shalbe at peace with thee.

24 And thou shalt knowe that thy dwelling place shalbe in rest, and thou shalt visite thy habitation, & shalt(m) not sinne.

(m) Shalt not be offended at any thing. & here followeth the exceeding great blessinges of god, towarde him.

25 Thou shalt see also that thy seede shall be great, and thy posteritie as the grasse vpon the earth.

26 Thou shalt come also to thy graue in a full age, like a corne sheafe cut downe in due season.

27 Lo, this we our selues haue proued by experience, and euen thus it is: Hearken thou to it also, that thou mayest take heede to thy selfe.

The.vi. Chapter.

1 Job aunswereth, that his payne is more greeuous then his fault. 8 He wisheth death. 14 He complayneth of his friendes.

(a) Meaning that his troubles are exceadyng, and vnmeasurable, as the sandes of the sea.

(b) Declaring that he was not afflicted onely bodyly, but al vpright in his conscience. (c) As though he had sayde, I crie not for the grasse, seeing neither I should asse nor the oxe do crie when they want not. (d) Can we beare tribulations that are vnmeasurable and vnpleasaunt.

(c) Meaning that he had rather dye, then to denie the wordes of the holy one, that is, then thorough his impatience, to distrust in gods promise. (f) Fearing lest he should not be able to beare his afflictions to thend, if they should long continue. "Heb. If I should prolong my lyfe.

(g) Or, streight wysdome, or lawe. (h) For as the brooke rusheth with vehemencie, and passeth by the places neare it: so they haue ouerwhelmed me, and rushed on me with indignation, and now haue forsaken me.

A 1 BVT Job aunswered, and sayde:

2 O that my complaynt were(a) truely wayed, and my punishment layde in the balaunces together:

3 For nowe it woulde be heauier then the sande of the sea: and this is the cause, that my wordes fayle me.

4 For the arrowes of the almightie are vpon me, the poyson therof hath drunke vp my spirite, and the terrible(b) feares of God are set against me.

5 Doth the(c) wild asse rore when he hath grasse: or loweth the oxe when he hath fodder[inough]

6 That which is vnsauerie, (d) shall it be eaten without salt: or is there any taste in the whyte of an egge:

7 The thinges that sometime I might not away withal, are nowe my meate for very sorowe.

8 O that I might haue my desire, and that God woulde graunt me the thing that I long for:

9 O that God would begin and smite me, that he would let his hand go and take me cleane away:

10 Then shoulde I haue some comfort, yea I woulde desire him in my payne that he would not spare, (e) for I wil not be against the wordes of the holy one.

11 (f) For what powre haue I to endure: And what is myne end, "that my soule might be patient:

12 Is my strength the strength of stones: or is my flesh of brasse:

13 Is it not so that there is in me no helpe: & that my "substaunce is taken from me:

14 He that is in tribulation, ought to be comforted of his neyghbour: but the feare of the almightie is cleane away.

15 Myne owne brethren passe ouer by me (g) as the water brooke, & as the ouerflowing of waters, whiche do hastly go away, 16 Whiche are blackish be reason of the ice, and wherin the snowe is hyd.

17 Which when they haue passed by do banishe, and when the heate commeth they fayle out of their place.

18 They

18 They depart from the course of their wonted chanell to other places, they runne in vayne and perishe.
19 They that went to (i) Theman considered them, and they that went to (k) Saba wayted for them.
20 But they were confounded in their hope, they came thyther and were ashamed.
21 Euen such truely are ye, nowe that ye see my miserie ye are afrayde.
22 Did I desire you to bring vnto me, or to geue me any of your substaunce?
23 To deliuer me from the enemies hand, or to saue me from the hande of the tyrauntes?
24 Teache me, and I will hold my tong: and wherin I haue erred, cause me to vnderstande.
25 How strong are the wordes of trueth? and which of you can rebuke or reproue them?
26 Do ye imagine to reproue (l) wordes, that the talke of the afflicted shoulde be as the winde?
27 Ye fall vpon the fatherlesse, and digge a pit to ouerthrowe your owne frende.
28 And therfore be content, & (m) loke now vpon me, and I will not lye before your face.
29 Turne I pray you, "be indifferent iudges: turne agayne, and ye shall see myne vngiltinesse, whether there be any vnrighteousnes in my tongue, or vayne wordes in my mouth.

(i) That is, Eliphas.
(k) That is, Iobab.
(l) Hope go about by your tauntes to make me deeme that I speake fondly, because I am in this miserable state.
(m) To consider my cause whether I faute or no.
"Heb. Let there be none iniquitie.

The. vii. Chapter.

Iob shewth the shortnesse and miserie of mans lyfe.

1 Is ther not an appoynted time to man vpon earth? Are not his dayes also like the dayes of an (a) hired seruaunt?
2 For like as a bonde seruaunt desireth the shadowe, and as an hyreling woulde fayne haue the rewarde of his worke:
3 Euen so haue I laboured whole monethes long in vayne, and many a carefull night haue I tolde.
4 When I layde me downe to sleepe, I sayde, O When shall I arise? and (b) measuring the euening, I am euen full with tossing to and fro vnto the dawning of the day.
5 My flesshe (c) is clothed with wormes and dust of the earth: my skinne is withered and become horrible.
6 My dayes passe ouer more spedyly then a weauers shuttle, and are spent without hope.
7 (d) O remember that my lyfe is but a winde, and that myne eye shall no more see pleasures:
8 Yea and the eye that hath seene me, shal see me no more: for yet thou (e) fasten thyne eye vpon me, I come to naught.
9 The cloude is consumed and vanished away: so he that goeth downe to the graue (f) shall come no more vp,
10 Nor turne againe into his house, neither shall his place knowe him any more.
11 Therfore (g) I wil not spare my mouth, but I will speake in the trouble of my spirite, and muse in the bitternesse of my mynde.
12 Am (h) I a sea or a whale fish, that thou kepest me [so] in prison?
13 When I say, My bed shal comfort me, I shall haue some refreshing by talking to my selfe vpon my couch:
14 Then fearest thou me (i) with dreames, & makest me so afrayde through visions, 15 That my soule wisheth rather to perishe and die, then my bones to remayne.
16 I can see no remedy, I shall liue no more: (k) O spare me then, for my dayes are but vanitie.
17 What (l) is man that thou doest magnifie him: and that thou settest thy heart vpon him?
18 Thou visitest him early and euery day, euery moment doest thou trie him.
19 Why (m) goest thou not fro me, nor lettest me alone, so long till I may swalowe downe my spyttle?
20 I (n) haue offended, what shall I do vnto the, O thou preseruer of men? Why hast thou set me [as a marke] against thee, so that I am a burden to my selfe?
21 Why doest thou not pardon my trespasses, and take away myne iniquitie? Behold, nowe must I sleepe in the dust, and if thou seekest me to morowe in the morning, (o) I shal not be.

(a) Meaning that his life is more miserable then the hyreling, or bondman.
(b) Declaring his restlesse and grieuous watchyng.
(c) Declaring his vilenesse, and speedy corruption.
(d) Declaring the shortnesse of his life, and that he is not able to liue long, and therfore desireth god to remember him.
(e) That is, if thou take me away by death.
(f) That is, I shall neuer come to liue in this world.
(g) That is, seyng my lyfe vanisheth as the wind, and that there is no returne after death, I will refresshe my selfe by expressing the greefes of my burdened minde.
(h) As though he should say to God, I am no mightie creature, able to trouble or disquiet any, as the whale in the sea: but am a powre wretch. Why then plagest thou me so sore.
(i) That is, I am in extreme affliction continually night and day.
(k) Seyng I haue so litle time to liue, geue me some rest.
(l) As though Iob had said, there is no cause why thou shouldest esteeme man.
(m) Why doest thou not cease to punishe me.
(n) Iob beginneth to drawe to repentance.
(o) For I shalbe dead.

The. viii. Chapter.

1 Bildad sheweth that Job is a sinner, because God punisheth the wicked, and preserueth the good.

2 1 THen aunswered Bildad the Suhite, & said:
2 Howe long wilt thou talke of such thinges: howe long shall the wordes of thy mouth be as a mightie winde:
3 Doth God peruert the thing that is lawfull: or doth the almightie destroy the thing that is right:
(a) And therefore are lastly plagued, but thou rather art more bound to god, because he hath geuē thee space to repent.
4 For seyng that (a) thy sonnes sinned against him, did not he send them into the place of their iniquitie:
5 If thou wouldest nowe resorte vnto God betimes, and make thy prayer to the almightie,
6 If thou wouldest liue a pure and godly life: shoulde he not awake vp vnto thee immediatly, and make the habitation of thy righteousnesse prosperous:
7 In so much that wherin so euer thou haddest litle afore, thou shouldest haue nowe great aboundaunce.
(b) Here Bildad cōfirmeth his sayinges by the autoritie of the fathers.
8 Enquire I pray thee (b) of the former age, and searche diligently among their fathers:
(c) That is, lately borne, and therfore our sayinges haue lesse autoritie, whereby is shewed the shortnesse of mans life, which though it be neuer so long, yet it is but as yesterday, and as a shadowe vanisheth.
9 (For we are but of (c) yesterday, and consider not that our dayes vpon earth are but a shadowe.)
10 Shall not they shewe thee, and tel thee, yea and gladly confesse the same, and vtter the wordes of their heart:
11 May a (d) rushe be greene without moysture: or may the grasse growe without water:
(d) Meaning that as a rush without moisture cannot growe: so can not an vnpenitent man lyue, without repentaunce moysture with gods grace.
12 No, but whilste it is nowe in his greennesse, though it be not cut downe, yet withereth it before any other hearbe:
13 So are the pathes of al that forget God, and the (e) hypocrites hope shall come to naught.
(e) As Bildad argueth, Job shoulde also if he so continue murmuring against God as an hypocrit counting him selfe faultles, and not repenting.
14 His confidence shalbe destroyed, and his trust shalbe a (f) spiders webbe.
(f) which is spun to day, and to morow swept away, wherby is ment the house of the wicked, his riches and his substaunce.
15 He shall leane vpon his house, but it shal not stande: he shall holde him fast by it, yet shall it not endure.
16 It is a greene [tree] (g) before the sunne, & shooteth foorth the braunches ouer his garden.
(g) That is, the wicked florish, till gods diuine iudgement fal on them.
17 The rootes thereof are wrapped about the fountayne, and are folden about the house of stones.
18 If (h) any plucke it from his place, and it denie, saying, I haue not seene thee:
(h) If God shall afflict him.
19 Behold it will reioyce by this meanes, if it may growe in another mould.
(i) Bildad concludeth, that Job is not iust, but is plagued for his offences, perswading hym therfore to repentaunce: for God wouldo not thus cast hym away if he were iust.
20 Beholde, God (i) will not cast away a vertuous man, neither wil he "helpe the vngodly.
21 Thy mouth shall be fill with laughing, and thy lippes with gladnesse.
22 They also that hate thee shalbe clothed with shame, & the dwelling of the vngodly shall come to naught.
" Or, take the vngodly by the hande.

The. ix. Chapter.

1 Job declareth the mightie power of God, and that mans righteousnes is nothing.

1 IOb (a) aunswered, and sayde,
(a) Aunswereth to Eliphas and Bildads oracions, confessing mans iustice, to be nothing, beyng compared to God, as Eliphas sayd in the fourth Chap.
2 I knowe it is so of a trueth: For how may a man [compared] vnto God be iustified:
(b) That is, he shall not be able to aunswere one thing for a thousand, that God can charge hym withall.
3 If he wil argue with hym, he can not aunswere hym (b) one thing of a thousande.
(c) Here followeth the infinite powre of God, whereby doth appeare mās wickednesse the more
4 He is wyse in heart and mightie in strength: (c) who hath ben fearce against hym, and hath prospered:
5 He translateth the mountaynes, or euer they be aware it is he that ouerthroweth them in his wrath.
9 He remoueth the earth out of her place, that the pillers therof shake withall.
7 He commaundeth the sunne, and it ryseth not: he closeth vp the starres as vnder a signet.
8 He hym selfe alone spreadeth out the heauens, and goeth vpon the "waues of the sea.
" Or, brighs
(d) These be the names of certayne starres, declaring that the powres of heauen are at his commaundement.
9 He maketh the waynes of heauen, (d) the Orion, the seuen starres, and the secret places of the south.
10 He doth great thinges & vnsearcheable, yea and wonders without number.

11 Lo

11 Lo, (c) when he goeth by me, I shal not see hym, and when he passeth, I shall not perceaue hym.
12 If he be hastie to take away, Who wil make him (f) restore it? or who will say vnto hym, what doest thou?
13 God will not withdraw his anger, and the most mightie helpes do stoupe vnder hym:
14 Howe much lesse shall I aunswere him? or howe shoulde I finde out my wordes with him?
15 For though I were righteous, yet might I not geue him one word againe, but mekely submit my selfe to hym as my iudge.
16 If I had called vpon hym, and he had aunswered me, (g) yet woulde I not beleue that he hearde my voyce:
17 He troubleth me so with the tempest, and woundeth me out of measure without a cause, 18 He will not suffer me to take my breath, but filleth me with bitternesse.
19 If [men will speake] of strength, lo he is strong: if [men will speake] of iudgement, who shall bring me in to pleade?
20 If I will iustifie my selfe, myne owne mouth shall condempne me: if I will [put forth my selfe for] a perfect man, he shall proue me a wicked doer.
21 For though I be an innocent and my conscience cleare, yet am I weery of my lyfe.
22 This is one poynt, and therefore I sayd, he destroyeth both the perfect and vngodly.
23 And though he slay sodaynly with the scourge, yet will he laugh at the punishment of the innocent.
24 As for the worlde it is geuen ouer into the hande of the wicked, and he shall couer the faces of the iudges therof: if not, Where is he, or who is he [that can shewe the contrarie?]
25 My dayes are more swyft then a runner, they are gone & haue seene no good thing.
26 They are passed away as the shippes that be good vnder sayle, & as the eagle that fleeth to the pray.
27 If I say, I will forget my complayning, I will ceasse from my wrath, and comfort my selfe:
28 Then am I afrayde of all my sorowes, for I knowe that thou wilt not iudge me innocent.
29 If I be wicked, why then (h) labour I in vayne?
30 If I washe my selfe with snowe water, and make myne handes neuer so cleane at the well:
31 Yet shalt thou " dippe me in the myre, and (i) mine owne clothes shal defile me.
32 For he that I must geue aunswere vnto, and with whom I go to the lawe, is not a man as I am:
33 Neither is there any dayesman to lay his hande betweene vs.
34 Let hym take his rodde away from me, yea let hym make me no more afrayde of him, 35 And then shall I aunswere hym without any feare: but because I am not so, I holde me still.

(h) As if he had said, If I be wicked and shalbe iudged as the vngodly, why tariest thou so long to thrust me into the graue, why do I byde al this in vaine?
" Or, plunge me in the pit,
(i) Shewing our righteousnes before God to be nothing, but as a defiled cloth.

The. x. Chapter.

1 Iob is weery of his lyfe, and setteth out his fragilitie before God. 20 He desireth hym to stay his hande. 22 A description of death.

1 MY (a) soule is cut of though I lyue, I wil powre out my cõplaynte against my selfe, and will speake out of the very heauinesse of my soule.
2 I will say vnto God: O (b) do not condempne me, but shewe me wherefore thou contendest so with me:
3 Thinkest thou it welldone to oppresse me? to cast me of beyng the worke of thy handes? and to (c) mayntayne the counsell of the vngodly?
4 Hast thou (d) fleshy eyes? or doest thou loke as a man loketh?
5 Or are thy dayes as the dayes of (e) man? and thy yeres as mans yeres?
6 That thou makest such inquisition for my wickednes, and searchest out my sinne?
7 Whereas thou knowest (f) whether I shall do wickedly or no, and that none can deliuer me out of thyne hande.

(c) Wilt thou helpe the wicked, and leaue me destitute.
(d) That is, art thou ignorant as man? and doest thou not knowe howe it goeth with me
(e) That is, chaungeable, as though he would say art thou not the same God that thou wast wont to be? merciful, and good to Iob?
(f) That is, I can not offende, by reason thou repelst one lawe in affliction.

(g) Here Job describeth gods meruaylous workes in mans creation.

8 (g) Thy handes haue made me, & fashioned me altogether rounde about, wilt thou then destroy me?
9 Remember I beseech thee that thou madest me as the moulde of the earth, and shalt bring me into dust againe.
10 Hast thou not powred me as it were milke, & turned me to cruddes like cheese?
11 Thou hast couered me with skinne and flesh, and ioyned me together with bones and sinnowes.
12 Thou hast graunted me life, and done me good: and thy visitation hath preserued my spirite.
13 Thou hast hyd these thinges in thyne heart [yet] I am sure that thou remembrest this thing.
14 If I syd sinne, thou haddest an eye ℭ vnto me, and shalt not pronounce me innocent from myne offence.
15 If I haue done wickedly, wo is me therefore: If I haue done righteously, yet (h) dare I not lift vp my head, so full am I of confusion, and see myne owne miserie.
16 And let it increase, hunte me as a lion, & returne and shew thy selfe maruaylous vpon me.
17 Thou bringest freshe "witnesse against me, and thy wrath increasest thou vpon me: diuers and many are the plagues that I am in.
18 Wherfore hast thou brought me out of the wombe? O that I had perished, and that no eye had seene me, 19 And that I were as though I had not ben, but brought from the wombe to the graue.
20 Are not my dayes fewe? Let him then leaue of fro me, and let me a lone, that I may comfort my selfe a litle, 21 Afore I go [thyther from whence] I shall not turne againe, euen to the lande of darknesse and shadowe of death: ℬ
22 Yea a lande as darke as darknesse it selfe, and into the shadowe of death where is none order, but the light is there as darknesse.

(h) That is, I will walke in meke humilitie.

" Or, the grane.

The. xi. Chapter.

1 Job is vniustly reprehended of Sophar. 7 God is incomprehensible. 14 He is mercifull to the repentaunt. 18 Their assuraunce that liue godlie.

A 1 Then aunswered Sophar the Naamathite, and sayde:
2 Shoulde not [he that maketh] many wordes (a) be aunswered? Shoulde he that babbleth much be commended therin?
3 Shoulde thy lies make men holde their peace, and when thou mockest [others] shall no man make thee ashamed?
4 For thou hast sayde, (b) my doctrine is pure, and I am cleane in thyne eyes.
5 But (c) O that God woulde speake, and open his lippes against thee:
6 That he might shewe thee the secretes of wysdome, howe thou hast deserued double according to right: Know therfore that God hath forgotten thee for thyne iniquitie.
7 Art thou able to finde out [the secretes of] God? Or wilt thou attayne to the perfectnesse of the almightie?
8 It is (d) hier then heauen, what art thou able to do? deeper then the hel, how wilt B thou then knowe it?
9 The measure of it is longer then the earth, and broder then the sea.
10 Though he turne all thinges vpsyde downe, close them in, gather them together, who will turne hym from his purpose?
11 For it is he that (e) knoweth vayne men, he seeth their wickednesse also, shoulde he not then consider it?
12 Yet vayne man would be wyse, though man [newe] borne is lyke a wilde asses coulte.
13 If thou preparedst thyne heart, and liftedst vp thyne handes towarde hym:
14 If thou wouldest put away the wickednes whiche thou hast in hande, so that no vngodlinesse dwell in thy house:
15 Then mightest thou (f) lift vp thy face without "shame, & then shouldest thou be sure and haue no neede to feare.
16 Then

(a) For not he that speaketh much, but he that speaketh trusty, speaketh well.

(b) Here Sophar laieth to Jobscharge wordes that he spake.

(c) Sophar goeth about to proue Job to be iustly plagued.

(d) Job is reproued in that he should report hym selfe innocent before God, whiche thing he knoweth not, because Gods secret iudgement is vnsearchable

(e) Not only the outwarde appearaunce, but euen the verie thoughtes of the heart. Why shoulde not thens vnne mē beseeard to thinke euyll, much more to doe.

(f) Such are the quiet mindes of thosethat true ly repent.

" Or, spotles

16 Then shouldest thou forget thy miserie, and thinke no more vpon it, then vpon
the waters that runne by.
17 Then should thy "lyfe be as cleare as the noone day, thou shouldest shine forth, and be as the morning.
18 Then mightest thou be bolde because there is hope, and take thy rest quietly, as compassed with a trenche.
19 Then mightest thou lye downe and none to make thee afrayde, yea many one should make suite vnto thee.
20 As for the eyes of the vngodly they shall faile, and they shal not escape: and their hope shalbe sorowe of minde.

The .xij. Chapter.

1 Iob accuseth his friendes of ignorance. 7 He declareth the might and power of God. 17 And how he chaungeth the course of thinges.

1 THen Iob answered, & saide:
2 Then no doubt ye are the men (a) alone, and wysdome shall perishe with you.
3 (b) But I haue vnderstanding aswell as ye, and am not inferior to you: yea who knoweth not these thinges?
4 I am as one mocked of his neighbour, who calleth vpon God, & he heareth him: (c) The iust & the vpright is laughed to scorne.
5 Being as alight (d) despised in the heartes of the riche, and as one redy to fall.
6 The houses of (e) robbers are in wealth and prosperitie, and they that maliciously meddle against God dwell without care, in those thinges that God hath (f) geuen richely with his hande.
7 Aske the cattaile, (g) and they shall enfourme thee: the foules of the ayre, and they shall tell thee.
8 Or the encrease of the earth, and it shall shew thee: or the fishes of the sea, and they shall certifie thee.
9 What is he but he knoweth that the hande of the Lorde made all these?
10 In whose hande is the (h) soule of euery liuing thing, and the breath of all mankinde.
11 Haue not the eares (i) pleasure in hearing? and the mouth in tasting the thing that it eateth?
12 Among (k) olde persons there is wysdome, and in age is vnderstanding.
13 Yea, with [God] is wysdome and strength, it is he that hath counsell and foreknowledge.
14 Beholde (l) if he breake downe a thing, who can set it vp againe? yf he shut a thing, who wyll open it?
15 Beholde, if he withholde the waters, they drye vp: yf he let them go, they destroy the earth.
16 With him is strength and wysdome: both the deceauer and he that is deceaued are his.
17 He carieth away the wyse men as it were a spoyle, and bringeth the iudges out of their wittes.
18 He taketh away the subiection of the people from their kinges, and girdeth their loynes with a bonde.
19 He leadeth away the great men into captiuitie, and turneth the mightie vpside downe.
20 He stoppeth the mouth of them that speake trueth, & disapoynteth the aged of their reason.
21 He powreth contempt vpon princes, and maketh the strength of the mightie weake.
22 Loke what lyeth hid in darkenesse he declareth it openly, and the very shadowe of death bringeth he to light.
23 He [both] increaseth the people and destroyeth them, he maketh them to multiplie, and diminisheth them.
24 He taketh away the hearte of them that be heades of ỹ people of the earth, and causeth them to wander in the wildernesse out of the way.
25 They grope in the darke without light, and he maketh them to stacker like a drunken man.

(1) Iob wyll not be ouercome before God that arrogantly, wherewith the three men before named were infected.
(b) This saith Iob in the spirite of humilitie, or as it had not ben well spoken.
(c) As though he should say, no maruaile though I am scorned, for euen the godly are mocked.
(d) That is, as he that despiseth the light in the night season may soone stumble, so they that resist the afflicted whom God hath before appointed, do get to them selues this wrath to their perill.
(e) The robbers are in prosperitie, & godmen in aduersitie, which Iob proueth by the Arabians that robbed men of their substance, as before is saide.
(f) The Septuagint reade, to whom God hath brought in with his hande.
(g) For euen the cattaile & all creatures do declare Gods power, as is saide, The beasts feare the pray of God.
(h) For God hath not only made his creatures, but also sustaineth, gouerneth, & preserueth them still.
(i) Can not I discerne your wordes, as the meate is tryed by the taste, and holsome counsaile by hearing of it.
(k) The answere to Eliphas obiection. Ca. 8. that though olde men by experience growe wyse, yet it is nothing in respect of gods wysedome.
(l) Here Iob proueth that nothing is comparable to gods power, or can preuaile against it.

1 Job compareth his knowledge with the experience of his friendes. 16 The penitent shalbe saued, and the hypocrite condempned. 20 He prayeth vnto God that he would not handle him rigorously.

(a) Meaning, I know the power of God as wel as you.

LO, (a) all [this] haue I seene with mine eye, heard with mine eare, and vnderstande it.

2 What ye knowe, that same do I know also, neither am I inferior vnto you.

3 Neuertheless, I talke with the almightie, and my desire is to commune with God.

4 As for you, ye are workmaisters of lyes, and (b) vnprofitable phisitians altogether.

5 Woulde God ye kept (c) your tongue, for then might ye be take n for wise men.

6 Now heare my (d) reasoning, and ponder the argument of my lippes.

7 Will you speake wickedlie for gods [defence] and talke deceitfully for his [cause?]

8 Will ye accept the person of him? or will ye contende for God?

9 Shall that helpe you when he calleth you to reckening? For as one man mocketh an other, so do ye mocke him.

10 He shall punishe you, and reproue you, if ye do secretly accept any person.

11 Shall not his excellencie make you afrayde? Shall not his terrible feare fall vpon you?

12 Your (e) remembraunce is lyke vnto a " sparke, and your bodies lyke the claye.

13 Holde your tongues for my sake, that I also may speake, and my sorowe shalbe the lesse.

14 Wherefore do I (f) beare my flesche in my teeth, and (g) put my soule in myne handes?

15 Lo, though he slay me, yet wyl I trust in him: but I wyll reproue myne owne wayes in his sight.

16 He shalbe my saluation: for there may no (h) hypocrite come before him.

17 Heare diligently my wordes, and ponder my sayinges with your eares.

18 Beholde, now haue I prepared my iudgement, and knowe that I shalbe founde (i) righteous.

19 What is he that wyll (k) go to lawe with me? if I now holde my (l) tongue I dye.

20 Neuertheless, (m) graunt me two thinges, and then wyll I not hide my selfe from thee:

21 Withdrawe thyne hande from me, and let not the fearefull dreade of thee make me afrayde.

22 Then call, and I wyll aunswere: or let me speake, and geue me then an aunswere.

23 How many are my misdeedes and sinnes? let me knowe my transgressions and offences.

24 Wherefore hidest thou thy face, and holdest me for thyne enemie?

25 Wylt thou breake a leafe driuen to and fro, and wilt thou pursue the drye stubble?

26 For thou layest sharply to my charge, and punishest me for the sinnes of my youth.

27 Thou puttest my feete also in the stockes, and lokest narowly vnto all my pathes, and makest the (n) print thereof in the heeles of my feete:

28 And I as a rotten thing do consume away, as a garment that is motheaten.

(b) That is, you are vnmeete for my disease, which seeke not the medicine to cure it, but rather to encrease it with your lyes and takes to trouble me.

(c) For the foole holding his peace, is counted wyse, as saith Solomon.

(d) Marke what I shall lye against you, for I blame you not in that ye declare gods power, but because you faigne a carnall and humaine iustice to be in him: and so of true thinges, ye conclude lyes.

(e) Which soone dyeth, & goeth out of it selfe, as the memorie of the vnrighteous shall.

" Or, ashes.

(f) That is, sore vexed and tormented, as though I should rent & teare my flesh with my teeth.

(g) That is, to set my lyfe in great perils & daungers.

(h) Here it appeareth that Jobs trust and hope in God was not all perished, discharging him selfe of hypocrisie wherewith they charged him.

(i) That is, not condempned for my sinnes, as you do reason.

(k) To proue that God plageth me for myne offences

(l) That is, If I kepe silence, all men wyll count me guilty, and so condempne me.

(m) That is, graunt that I may be deliuered from two thinges: the one is, thy wrath, the other the affliction, which two maketh vs afrayde of thy presence.

(n) " Or, the rootes.

1 Job describeth the shortnes and miserie of the lyfe of man. 14 Hope sustaineth the godly. 22 The condition of mans lyfe.

(a) Here Job describeth the miserie of man.

MAn that is (a) borne of woman, hath but a short time to lyue, and is full of miserie.

2 He commeth vp, and is cut downe (b) like a floure: he fleeth as it were a shadowe, and neuer continueth in one state.

(b) This expresseth mans shortnes of lyfe, and the vnstablenes thereof, being compared to a floure, to a shadowe, and to the grasse in the fielde.

3 Doest thou (c) open thyne eyes vpon such one, and bringest me into thy iudgement?

4 Who can make it cleane that commeth of an vncleane thing? no body.

(c) Meaning that seing man is so frayle, he should not handle him so extremely.

5 The

5 *The dayes of man surely are determined, the number of his monethes are knowen onely vnto thee, thou hast appoynted him his bondes which he can not go beyonde.

6 Go from him, that he may rest vntill his day come which he loketh for, lyke as an hireling doth.

7 For if a tree be cut downe, there is (b) some hope yet that it wyll sproute and shoote forth the braunches againe.

8 Though the roote of it be waxen olde, and the stocke thereof be dead in the grounde:

9 Yet when it getteth the sent of water, it wyll budde and bring forth bowes, lyke as a tree that is planted.

10 (c) But as for man, when he is dead, perished, and consumed away, What becommeth of him:

11 As the waters passe from the sea, and as the flood decayeth and dryeth vp:

12 So man after he is asleepe ryseth not, he shall not wake tyll the heauens be no more, nor rise out of his sleepe.

13 O that thou wouldest hide me in the graue, & keepe me secret vntyl thy wrath were past, and to appoynt me a time wherein thou mightest remember me.

14 May a dead man lyue againe: All the dayes of my lyfe wyll I wayte still, till my chaunging shall come.

15 Thou shalt (f) call [me] and I shall aunswere thee, " despise not thou the worke of thyne owne handes.

16 For now thou (g) numbrest all my goinges, and geuest no delay vnto my sinne.

17 Myne iniquitie is sealed vp as it were in a bagge, and thou addest [punishement] vnto my wickednesse.

18 The mountaines fal away at the last, the rockes are remoued out of their place.

19 The waters pearse through the very stones by litle & litle, the floodes washe away the grauell and earth: so shalt thou destroy the hope of man.

20 Thou preuaylest still against him, so that he passeth away: thou chaungest his " estate and puttest him from thee.

21 And whether his children come to worship or no, he can not tell: And if they be men of lowe degree, he knoweth not.

22 But while his flesh is vpon him, it must haue sorowe: and his soule shall mourne within him.

Iob. vii. a

(b) He shroweth mans miserie the more in that he manifesteth it in worse state then the tree cut downe, wherein there is some hope that he wyll spring againe: but man once dead returneth no more.

(c) Iob saith not this as hauing no hope of immortalitie but as one lost tormented,

(f) Thou plagest me now, yet when thou shalt call me vp at domes day, I shall aunswere thee, for thou art mercifull.

" Or, thou shalt loue.

(g) That is, thou hast all my deedes numbred, spare me therfore.

" Or, face.

The .xv. Chapter.

1 Eliphaz reprehendeth Iob, because he ascribeth wysdome and pureness to him selfe. 16 He describeth the curse that falleth on the wicked, reckoning Iob to be one of that number.

A 1 Then aunswered Eliphaz the Themanite, and saide:

2 Shall a wyse mans aunswere be as the winde, and fill a mans belly as it were with the (a) winde of the east:

3 Shall he reproue with a worde that is nothing worth, & speake the thinges which can do no good:

4 Surely thou hast cast of feare, and restrainest prayer before God.

5 For thy mouth setteth forth thyne owne iniquitie, seeing thou hast chosen the tongue of the craftie.

6 (b) Thyne owne mouth condempneth thee, and not I: yea, thyne owne lippes shape an aunswere against thee.

7 (c) Art thou the first man that euer was borne: or wast thou made before the hils:

8 Hast thou heard the secret counsell of God: and doest thou restraine wysdome to thee:

9 What knowest thou, that we knowe not: And what vnderstandest thou, but we can the same:

10 With vs are both olde and aged men, yea such as haue liued longer then thy father.

11 Thinkest thou it a small thing of the consolations of God: With thee is a lying worde.

12 Why doth thyne (d) heart so bewitche thee: And wherefore winckest thou with thyne eyes,

13 That thy minde is so (e) puffe vp against God, and lettest such wordes go out of thy mouth:

14 What is man, that he should be cleane: and he which is borne of a woman, whereby he might be righteous:

15 Beholde he doth not trust his sainctes, yea

(a) Wordes to no effect spoken, are likened to the east winde, which dryeth vp the moysture: & foolish words pearce the ears of men as they be spoken.

(b) Eliphas charged Iob vncharitably.

(c) That is, art thou so ancient, that all wisedome is in thy hande?

(d) As one standing in thyne owne conceite.

(e) So reade, answering him at thy pleasure: the Hebrue is, art fowring him in thy spirite.

yea, the very heauens are not cleane in his sight:

16 How much more then an abhominable and vyle man, which drincketh wickednesse like water.

17 I will tel thee, heare me, and I will (f) shewe thee that I haue seene:

18 Which wyse men haue tolde, and haue not hid that which they receaued from theyr fathers:

19 Unto whom alone the earth was geuē, and no straunger went among them.

20 The (g) vngodly soroweth all the dayes of his lyfe as it were a woman with childe, and the (h) number of a tirauntes yeres is vnknowen.

21 A feareful sounde is [euer] in his eares, and when he is in peace, the destroyer shall come vpon him.

22 He beleueth neuer to be deliuered (i) out of darknesse: for the sworde is allwayes before his eyes.

23 He wandreth abrode for bread where it is, knowing that the (k) day of darknesse is redie at his hande.

24 Trouble and anguishe wil make him afrayde, and compasse him about, as is a king in the middest of an armie.

25 For he hath stretched out his hande against God, and armed him selfe against the almightie.

26 He runneth proudly vpon him, & with a stiffe necke fighteth he against him.

27 Where as he (l) coūcreth his face with fatnesse, and maketh his body well lyking.

28 Therefore shall his dwelling be (m) in desolate cities, and in houses which no man inhabiteth, but are become heapes of stones.

29 He (n) shall not be riche, neither shall his substaunce continue, neither shal the prosperitie thereof be prolonged vpon earth.

30 He shall neuer depart out of darknesse, the flame (o) shal dry vp his branches, with the blast of ỹ mouth [of God] shall he be taken away.

31 He beleeueth not that he erreth in vanitie, and yet vanitie shalbe his recompence.

32 He shal perishe afore his time be worne out, and his (p) braunche shall not be greene.

33 He shalbe plucked of as an vntimely grape from the vine, and shall let his floure fall as the oliue doth.

34 For the congregation of hypocrites shalbe desolate, and the fire shall consume the houses of such as are greedie to receaue giftes.

35 He conceaueth trauaile, and beareth vanitie, and their body bringeth foorth disceyte.

(f) Eliphas endeoureth to proue Job wicked by the auctoritie of the auncient fathers, because he is plagued as wicked men are wont.

(g) Here he repeateth certaine places of the leuiticall lawe for his proofe, which in deede the fathers so spake, but did not vnderstand them as Eliphas did.

(h) He shalbe alwayes in feares day & night, not knowyng any thyng certain.

(i) That is, out of the troubles and feares which fall vpon him.

(k) The day of plagues & feares extreme.

(l) That is, abundance of riches hath made him so proude, that he forgetteth God.

(m) That is, he shall haue no certaine & sure place to dwell in.

(n) Meaning, though God permit him for a time to prosper, yet it shall not continue, but his prosperitie shall soone turne to miserie.

(o) That is, such blessing as God gaue him, shalbe turned into cursing.

(p) That is, his progenie or offspring shall not continue.

The .xvj. Chapter.

1 Job moued by the importunacie of his friendes, 7 counteth in what extremitie he is, 19 and taketh God witnes of his innocencie.

A 1 Job aunswered, & saide:

2 I haue oft times heard such thinges: (a) miserable geuers of comfort are ye all the sort of you.

3 " Shall not vaine wordes come yet to an ende? Or what maketh thee bolde so to aunswere?

4 I coulde speake as ye do also: but would God that your (b) soule were in my soules steade, then could I frame wordes for you, and shake my head at you:

5 I shoulde comfort you with my mouth, & releasse your paine with the talking of my lippes.

6 For all my wordes my sorowe wyll not ceasse: And (c) though I holde my tongue, what am I eased?

7 But now that [God] hath sent me aduersitie, thou hast troubled al (d) my congregation.

8 And that thou (e) hast filled me with wrinckles my flesh is recorde, and my leanenesse ryseth vp against me and beareth witnes thereof in my face.

9 His wrath hath torne [me] he hateth me, & gnasheth vpon me with his teeth: myne enemie loketh fiercely vpon me with his eyes.

10 They haue opened their mouthes wide vpon me, and (f) smitten me vpon the cheeke dispitefully, they gather thē selues together against me.

11 God hath shut me vp with the vngodly, and deliuered me (g) into the handes of the wicked.

12 I

(a) For they more bite him with cruell wordes, then comfort him.

" Or, words of winde.

(b) would ye suffred that which I suffer?

(c) For God wyll haue his pleasure ouer me.

(d) my household, children, and substaūce.

(e) Not by reasō of yeres, but by reason of my greefe, shewing his extremes paines.

(f) That is, dispitefully handeled me, which striking on the cheeke signifieth.

(g) To proue him, & not to destroy him.

12 I was in wealth, but he hath brought me to nought: he hath taken me by the necke, he hath all to shaken me, and set me as a marke for him selfe.
13 His (b) archers compasse me rounde about, he woundeth my raines, and doth not spare, my bowels hath he powred vpon the grounde.
14 He hath geuen me one wounde vpon an other, and is fallen vpon me lyke a giaunt.
15 I haue sowed a sackecloth vpon my skinne, and wallowed my head in the dust.
16 My face is withered with weeping, & in myne eyes is the shadowe of death.
17 Howbeit there is no (i) wickednesse in my handes, but (k) my prayer is cleane.
18 O earth couer not thou my blood, and let (l) my crying finde no roome.
19 For lo, (m) my witnesse is in heauen, and he that knoweth me, is in the height.
20 My friendes geue me many wordes to scorne, and myne eye powreth out teares vnto God.
21 O that a body might pleate with God, as one man doth with an other:
22 Yet the number of my yeres is come, and the way that I must go is at hand, from whence I shall not turne againe.

(b) His plagues and afflictions represent the wrath of God vpon me.

(i) And therfore the cause of my affliction is vnknowen to me.
(k) That is, without hypocrisie.
(l) No place to be hid, but be knowen to all men.
(m) I take God to record that I am innocēt, though man blame me.

¶ The .xvii. Chapter.

1 Iob saith that he consumeth away, and yet doth patiently abyde it. 10 He exhorteth his friendes to repentaunce. 13 Shewing that he loketh but for death.

My breath is corrupt, my dayes are shortened, I am harde at deathes doore.
2 (a) " Froward men are with me, and myne eye must continue in the bitternesse of them.
3 O deliuer me, and (b) loke out one to be my suretie in thy sight: What is he that knoweth who will promise for me:
4 For thou hast withholden their heartes (c) from vnderstanding, therefore shalt thou not set [them] vp on hie.
5 He that speaketh flatterie to his friend, the eyes of his children shall fayle.
6 He hath made me a byworde of the people, where as afore I was their ioy.
7 Myne eye is dimme for very heauinesse, and all my strength is lyke a shadowe.
8 Vertuous men therefore shall well consider this, and the innocent shal take part against the hypocrite.
9 The righteous also will (d) kepe his way, and he that hath cleane handes will euer be stronger and stronger.
10 As for al you, turne you and " get you hence [I pray you] seeing I can not finde one wyse man among you.
11 My dayes are past, and my counsailes and thoughtes of my heart are vanished away, 12 (e) Chaunging the night into day, and the light approching into darkenesse.
13 (f) Though I tary neuer so much, yet the graue is my house, & I haue made my bed in the darke.
14 I saide to corruption, thou art my father, and to the wormes, you are my mother and my sister.
15 (g) Where is then now my hope: or who hath considered the thing that I loke for: These shall go downe with me into the pit, and lye with me in the dust.

(a) In all Iobs extreme afflictions, yet this one made the rich most grieuous, that they that should chiefly comfort him, did cruelly vexe him and mocke him.
" Or, mockers.
(b) That is, make promise with me O God that I may take both thee, for I will not reason with them, for they are fooles.
(c) That they can not vnderstand the cause of my punishment. But iudge me rather not knowing thy wisdome, wherefore thou doest afflict thy children.

(d) Though the godly see themselues afflicted of God as the wicked are, yet they dispaire not, knowing that the iust also are punished for proofe of thē.
" Or, come now.
(e) That is, the thoughtes of my heart haue brought me sorowes in stede of ioy.
(f) Though my former estate returne wherewith you perswade me, yet will it not continue for death soone commeth and dispatcheth me.
(g) Seing I am but corruption.

1 Bildad rehearseth the paines of the vnfaithfull and wicked.

Then aunswered Bildad the Suhite, and saide:
2 When will ye make an ende (a) of your wordes: Marke well, and then we will speake.
3 Wherfore are we counted as beastes, and reputed so vyle in your sight:
4 He destroyeth him selfe with his anger: Shall the earth be forsaken, or any stone remoued out of his place (b) because of thee:
5 Yea, the light of the vngodly shalbe put out, and the sparke of his fire shall not shine.
6 The (c) light shall be darke in his dwelling, and his candle shall be put out with

(a) Wherein I account your talke to erre, and contend.

(b) That is, shall God chaunge the accustomed order of his operation for thee: and not afflict the wicked as his order is:
(c) His prosperous shall perishe, and frō this place vnto the ende of the chapter Bildad goeth about to proue Iob wicked, because God plageth him, as he doth the wicked man.

with him.

7 The steppes of his strength shalbe restrayned, and his owne counsaile shall cast him downe:

8 For his feete are taken [as it were] in the net, & he walketh vpon the snares.

(d) That is, he shall not attaine to that which he desireth, for al his power and might shalbe taken away by hunger.

9 The grinne shall take him by the heele, and it shall catche him that is thirstie of blood.

10 The snare is layde for him in the grounde, and a pitfall in the way.

(e) Meaning, the vngodlie shalbe the destruction of the strength of his own skin, that is, of his children and posteritie.

11 Fearefulnesse shall make him afraide on euery side, and shall driue him to his feete.

12 Hunger shalbe his strength, and destruction shalbe redye at his side.

(f) That is, a cruell disease, some take it for death that commeth before his time and some for the first pagnes of death that come.

13 (e) It shall eate the strength of his owne skinne, euen the (f) first borne of death shall eate his strength.

14 His hope shalbe rooted out of his dwelling, and shall bring him to the (g) king of feare.

15 Other men shall dwell in his house, and it shalbe none of his, and brimstone shall be scattered vpon his habitation.

16 His rootes shalbe dryed vp beneath, and aboue shall his braunche be cut downe.

(g) That is, to a thing most terrible and full of feares

17 His remembraunce (h) shall perishe from the earth, and he shall haue no name in the streete.

(h) The wicked shall not onely be destroyed in bodye & goodes, but their name and fame and posterite shall vtterly perishe for euer.

18 They shall driue him from the (i) light into darkenesse, and chaste him cleane out of the worlde.

(i) From prosperitie to aduersitie.

19 He shall neither haue " children nor kinsfolkes among his people, no nor any posteritie in his dwellinges.

" Or, sonne nor nephew, 20 They that come after him, shalbe astonyed at (k) his day, and " they that go before shalbe afrayde.

(k) That is, at his fall.

" Or, elders, auncientes.

21 Such are now the dwellinges of the wicked, and this is the place of him that knoweth not God.

The .xix. Chapter.

1 Job reproueth his friendes, 5 and reciteth his miseries and grieuous paines. 15 He assureth him selfe of the generall resurrection.

1 IOb aunswered, and saide:

2 How long wyll ye vexe my soule, and trouble me with wordes?

3 Lo, (a) ten times haue ye reproched me, and are not ashamed, but haue laughed me to scorne.

(a) That is, more then neede. For the number of them, is the number of consummation or finishing.

4 Be it that I haue erred in deede, myne errour then remaineth with my selfe.

(b) As though he would say, What haue you to do with that, the fault is myne, and not yours.

5 But if ye wyll aduaunce your selues against me, and rebuke me for the shame that is come vpon me:

6 Know this then, that it is God which hath ouerthrowē me, and hath compassed me with his net.

7 If I complaine of the violence that is done vnto me, I cannot be heard: and if I crye, there is no sentence geuen with me.

(c) That is, I cannot goe from these my afflictions.

8 He hath hedged vp my way that (c) I can not passe, and he hath set darkenesse in my pathes.

(d) That is, of my riches and substaunce.

9 He hath spoyled me (d) of myne honour, and (e) taken the crowne away from my head.

(e) That is, destroyed my children, for the crowne of the aged are children children, as it is in the Proverbes.

10 He hath destroyed me on euery side and I am " gone: my hope hath he taken away as a tree pluckt vp by the roote.

" Or, his bone.

11 His wrath is kindled against me, he taketh me as though I were his enemie.

(f) That is, his great plagues layd on me.

12 (f) His men of warre come together, which made their way ouer me, and besieged my dwelling rounde about.

13 He hath put my brethren farre away from me, and myne acquaintaunce are also become straungers vnto me.

14 Myne owne kinsfolkes haue forsaken me, and my best acquainted haue forgotten me.

" Or, they that dwelt with me.

15 " The seruauntes and maydens of myne owne house toke me for a straunger, and I am become as an alaunt in their sight.

16 I called my seruaunt, and he gaue me no aunswere: [no though] I prayed him with my mouth.

17 Myne owne wyfe might not abyde my breath, though I prayed her for the children sake of myne owne body.

18 Yea, the young men despised me, and when I rose they spake euill vpon me.

19 All my most familiers abhorred me: and they whom I loued best, are turned ned against me.

20 My (g) bone cleaueth to my skinne and to my flesh, onely there is left me the skinne about my teeth.
21 Haue pitie vpon me, haue pitie vpon me, O ye my friendes, for the hande of God hath touched me.
22 Why do ye persecute me as God [doth] and are not satisfied with my flesh?
23 (h) O that my wordes were now written, O that they were put in a booke, 24 And grauen with an iron penne in leade, or in stone, to continue.
25 For I am sure (i) that my redeemer liueth, and he shall rayse vp at the latter day them that lye in the dust.
26 And though after my skinne the [wormes] destroy this body, yet shall I see God in my flesh:
27 Whom I my selfe shall see, and myne eyes shall beholde, and none other for me, though my raines are consumed within me.
28 But ye saide, why is he persecuted? and there was a deepe matter in me.
29 (k) But beware of the sworde: for the sword wylbe auenged of wickednesse, and be sure that there is a iudgement.

(g) Speaking after the vulgar maner, by reason of his sore not medling that I haue in any parte spoken that he is my kinsman.

(h) To testifie that he was not blasphemed God in any repyne, there is an earnest confessing of Iobs faith, with the assured hope of resurrection.

(i) That is, the iudgement of God the reuenger of iniquitie: meaning, though their wicked endeauour take place now, yet God will hereafter consider him, and be reuenged of the cupll.

(k) That is, the iudgement of God the reuenger of iniquitie: meaning, though their wicked endeauour take place now, yet God will hereafter consider him, and be reuenged of the cupll.

The .xx. Chapter.

1 Sophar sheweth that the wicked and the couetous shall haue a short ende, 22 though for a time they florishe.

Then aunswered Sophar the Naamathite, and saide:
2 For the same cause do (a) my thoughtes compell me to aunswere, and therefore, make haste.
3 I haue sufficiently heard the (b) checking of my reproofe, therefore the spirite of myne vnderstanding causeth me to aunswere.
4 Knowest thou not this of olde, and since God plaged man vpon earth,
5 (c) That the gladnesse of the vngodlie hath ben short, and that the ioy of hypocrites continued but the twinckling of an eye?
6 Though he be magnified vp to the heauen, so that his head reacheth vnto the cloudes:
7 Yet at a (d) turne he perisheth for euer, insomuch that they which haue seene him, shall say, where is he?
8 He shall vanishe as a dreame, so that he can no more be founde, and shal passe away as a vision in the night.
9 So that the eye which sawe him before, shal haue no more sight of him, and his place shall "know him no more.
10 His children shalbe faine to agree with the poore, and his handes shall restore their goodes.
11 From his youth his bones are (e) full of pleasures, but now shall it lye downe within him in the "earth.
12 When wickednesse was (f) sweete in his mouth, he hyd it vnder his tongue.
13 That he fauoured, that would he not forsake, but kept it close in his throte.
14 The bread that he did eate, is turned to the (g) poyson of serpentes within his bodye.
15 The riches that he deuoured shall he parbreake againe: for God shall drawe them out of his belly.
16 He shall sucke the (h) gall of serpentes, and the adders tongue shall slay him:
17 So that he shall no more see the (i) ryuers and brookes of hony and butter.
18 The thing he hath laboured for, shall he restore, and (k) shall not eate of it: great trauaile shall he make for riches, but he shall not enioy them.
19 And why? he hath oppressed the poore, and not helped them: houses hath he spoyled, and not builded them.
20 Because he could not perceaue when his belly was well, through his greedie desire he shall not escape.
21 There (l) shall none of his meate be left, therefore shall no man loke for his goodes.
22 When he had plenteousnesse of euery thing, yet was he poore, though he was helped on euery side.
23 And it shall come to passe, that wherewith he purposed to fill his belly, God shall powre the furie of his wrath theron, and shall cause his indignation to raigne vpon him, and vpon his meate.
24 He shall flee from the iron weapon, and the bowe of steele shall strike him through.
25 The [arowe] is taken foorth and gone out of the quiuer, and a glittering sword through

(a) Because Iob by rigged at his vnreasonable (as they thought) Sophar interrupted his talke as though he durst in haste, & that God accepteth not the repentaunt sinner.

(b) For two cause Sophar spake: one because he durst not suffer Iob to speake further against God, and for that he doubted his knowledge sufficient to answere again.

(c) Sophar runneth the rather into this chapter, alledging true sentences, but he erreth in that he thought Iob for hypocrite and hypocrite to be plaged.

(d) That is, sodenly.

"Or, for.

"Meaning, in the grauell of his youth.

(e) Or, dust.

(f) To conclude, the sentence of Sophar is, that the wicked shall be punished and is punished alwaies for their sinnes, and so applieth his speache against Iob, as though he were wicked.

(g) The blessing of the wicked is turned into curses, whereby that which they thought to haue is sweete foode, to them it shalbe poyson.

(h) He shall receaue cursing. And here all gotten goodes are likened to the serpentes gall, for Sophar falsely thought Iobs goodes to be such.

(i) That is, he shall want goods blessing, so that when all men haue abundance, he shall want.

(k) For all perteyn goodes God will take away, and restore to them from whom they were extorted spoyled and rauened.

(l) That is, his heyres and executers shall gape in vaine.

through the gall of him: so feare shall come vpon him.

(m) That is, fire from heauen: and here Sophar toucheth Iob for that his friendes and children were consumed by fire.

26 All darknesse shalbe hid in their secrete places, (m) an vnkindled fire shal consume him: and loke what remaineth in his house, it shalbe destroyed.

27 The heauen shal (n) declare his wickednesse, and the earth shall take part against him.

(n) There is nothing hid, that shall not be opened, and the earth shall either be vnfruteful, or bring forth thinges hurtfull to the wicked.

28 The substaunce that he hath in his house, shalbe taken away and perishe in the day of the Lordes wrath.

29 This is the portion that the wicked man shal haue of God, and the heritage that he may loke for of God, because of his wordes.

1 Iob declareth how the prosperitie of the wicked maketh them proude, 15 insomuch that they blaspheme God. 16 Their destruction is at hande. 23 None ought to be iudged wicked for affliction, neither good for prosperitie.

A

1 IOb aunswered, and saide:

2 O heare diligently my wordes, and that shalbe in steede of your consolations,

3 Suffer me that I may speake, and when I haue spoken mocke on.

(a) As though he should say, my cause is before God, whom I cannot escape, and not before you.

4 Is it for (a) mans sake that I make this disputation? which if it were so, shoulde not my spirite then be in sore trouble?

(b) That is, keepe silence.

5 Marke me [well] and be abashed, and (b) lay your hande vpon your mouth.

(c) Iob proueth against Sophar, that the wicked are in prosperitie, not meaning to condemne the sentences before which are true: but Sophars misconstruing of them is opened.

6 For when I consider [my selfe] I am afrayde, and my flesche is smitten with feare.

7 Wherefore (c) do wicked men liue, come to their olde age, and increase in richesse?

" Or, seede.

8 Their " children lyue in their sight, and their generation before their eyes.

9 Their houses are safe from all feare, and the rod of God is not vpon them.

10 Their bullocke gendreth and that not out of time, their cowe calueth and is not vnfruitfull.

11 They sende foorth their children by flockes, & their sonnes [leade the] daunce.

12 They beare with them tabrets and harpes, and reioyce in the sounde of the organs.

(d) Not being charged with long sickenes.

13 They spend their dayes in wealthines, but (d) sodainely they go downe to the graue.

(e) They say this, not with tongue, but by the wickednesse and impietie of their heart that seemeth so to say.

14 They say also vnto God: (e) Go from vs, We desire not the knowledge of thy wayes.

15 Who is the almightie that we should serue him? And what profite should we haue if we should pray vnto him?

16 Lo, there is vtterly no goodnesse in their hande, therefore wyll I not haue to do with the counsaile of the vngodly.

(f) That is, their greatnesse and wealth.

17 How oft shall the (f) candell of the wicked be put out, and their destruction come vpon them? O what sorowe shall God geue them for their part in his wrath?

18 Yea, they shalbe euen as hay before the Winde, and as chaffe that the storme carieth away.

19 God wyll lay vp the sorowe of the father for his children: & when he rewardeth him, he shall know it.

20 Their owne miserie shal they see with their eyes, and drinke of the fearefull Wrath of the almightie.

(g) For the wicked dye vnwares, and neuer endure the course of their dayes to the ende.

21 For what careth he for his house after his death, when the (g) number of his monethes is cut short?

22 Seeing God hath the highest power of all, who can teache him any knowledge?

(h) Meaning, the wicked: where Iob saith, that it is not for man to reason with God why he both thus plague the iust, and prosperech the vniust: for who can teache God wysdome?

23 (h) One dyeth in his full strength, being in all ease and prosperitie, 24 His breastes are full of milke, and his bones runne full of marowe.

(i) And this he meaneth by the godly.

25 Another dyeth in the (i) bitternes of his soule, and neuer eateth with pleasure.

(k) How ye thinke me wicked, because I am plaged.

26 They shall sleepe both alyke in the earth, and the wormes shall couer them.

27 Beholde, (k) I know what ye thinke, yea and the subtiltie that ye imagine against me.

(l) Thus they cal Iobs house by scorning and mocking at it.

28 For ye say (l) Where is the princes palace? and Where is the dwelling of the vngodly?

29 Haue ye not asked them that go by the way? Doubtlesse ye cannot denie their tokens, 30 That the wicked is kept vnto the day of destruction, and the vngodly shalbe brought foorth to the day of wrath.

31 Who

31 Who (m) dare declare his way to his face?
who wil reward him for that he doth?
32 Yet shall he be brought to his graue,
and dwell among the heape [of the dead.]
33 Then shal the (n) flymie valley be sweet vnto him, all men also must folowe him, as there are innumerable gone before him.
34 Howe vayne then is the comfort that ye geue me, seyng falshood remayneth in all your aunsweres?

(m) For no man can iudge in the wicked wayes of god, that can abide his presence.

(n) That is, he shal be couered with earth, clay, or dust, and be consumed and turned into a simple matter.

The.xxii. Chapter.

2 Eliphas affirmeth that Iob is punished for his sinnes. 6 He accuseth him of vnmercifulnesse, 13 and that he denied gods prouidence. 21 He exhorteth hym to repentaunce.

(a) The whole course of this Chapter is, that man compared to god is vnrest, and therefore ought to repent.

1 THen (a) Eliphas the Themanite gaue aunswere, and sayde:
2 May a man be profitable vnto God, as he that is wise may be profitable vnto him selfe?
3 Is it any aduauntage to the almightie that thou art righteous? or shall it profite him that thou makest thy wayes perfect?
4 Is he afrayde to reproue thee, and to step foorth with thee into iudgement?
5 Is (b) not thy wickednesse great, and thy vngratious deedes innumerable?
6 For thou (c) hast taken the pledge from thy brother for naught, and robbed the naked of their clothing.
7 To such as were weery, hast thou geuen no water to drinke, & hast withdrawen bread from the hungrie.
8 But the mightie man had the earth, and he that was in auctoritie dwelt in it.
9 Thou hast sent widowes away empty, tie, and the armes of the fatherlesse were broken.
10 Therefore art thou (d) compassed about with snares, & sodenly vexed with feare.
11 Shouldest thou then see no (e) darknesse?
shoulde not the water fludde run ouer thee?
12 Is not God on high in the heauen? be-holde the heyght of the starres how hie they are.
13 Wilt thou therfore say, Tushe, howe should God know? can he iudge through the darke cloude?
14 Tushe, the cloudes couer him that he may not see, and he walketh on the top of heauen.
15 Hast thou marked the way of the world, wherin wicked men haue walked?
16 Whiche were cut downe out of time, and whose (f) foundation was as an ouerflowing ryuer.
17 Whiche sayd vnto God, Go from vs:
and asked what the almightie coulde do for them?
18 He filled their houses with good things: but the counsell of the vngodly be farre from me.
19 The righteous sawe it and were glad,
and the innocent laughed them to scorne.
20 Is our substaunce hewen downe? As for the remnaunt of them (g) the fire hath consumed.
21 Therefore (h) reconcile thee vnto God, and be at peace: so shall all thinges pros-pere with thee right well.
22 Receaue I pray thee the lawe at his mouth, and lay vp his wordes in thyne heart.
23 For if thou wilt turne to the almightie, thou shalt be buyld vp, and put all vnrighteousnes from thy dwelling.
24 Thou shalt lay vp golde [as plentyful] as the dust, and the golde of Ophir as the flyntes of the riuers.
25 Yea almightie God his owne selfe shal-be thy defence, and thou shalt haue plen-tie of siluer.
26 Then shalt thou haue thy delite in the almightie, and lift vp thy face vnto God.
27 Then shalt thou make thy prayer vnto him, and he shall heare thee, and thou " shalt " kepe thy promises.
28 Thou shalt also decree a thing, and he shall establishe it vnto thee, and the (i) light shall shine in thy wayes.
29 When [the wicked] be cast downe, thou shalt say, I am lifted vp: and God shall saue the humble person.
30 The innocent shal deliuer the Iland:
(k) it shalbe preserued by the pureness of thyne handes.

(b) They knewe not that God hath so greatly blessed: but they coueted to purged him, which was not his ende so much as to preache him, and therefore their conclusions are false.

(c) Thou hast ben vnchariteable & vnkinde.

(d) That is, vengeaunce art now thus plagued: curry be.

(e) Trouble.

(f) That is, vnsure and vnstable.

(g) Meaning the cupland vngodly persons.

(h) Eliphas exhorteth Iob to repentaunce by the great goodnesse that commeth therof.

" Or, render thy vowes.

(i) That is, the fauour of God.

(k) The place farreth the better, where the righteous are.

The .xxiii. Chapter.

2 Job affirmeth that he both knoweth and feareth the power and sentence of the iudge, 10 and that he is not punished only for his sinnes.

A
1 Iob aunswered, & said:
2 Though my talke be this day in (a) bitternesse, and my plague greater then my groning.
3 O that I (b) might know him, and finde him, and that I might come before his seate:
4 I woulde pleade my cause before hym, and fill my mouth with argumentes:
5 I woulde knowe what aunswere he woulde geue me, and vnderstande what he woulde say vnto me.
6 Will he pleade against me with his great power? No, but he will make me the stronger.
B 7 There the righteous might dispute with him, so shoulde I be deliuered for euer from my iudge.
8 Behold, though I go forwarde I find him not: If I go backwarde, I can get no knowledge of hym:
9 If I go on the left side where he doth his worke, I can not attayne vnto him: Againe, if I go on the right side, he hydeth him selfe that I can not see hym.
10 But as for my way, he knoweth it, and tryeth me, that as the gold I may come foorth.
11 My (c) foote doth kepe his path, his hie way haue I holden, and will not go out of it.
12 I will not forsake the commaundement of his lippes, I haue esteemed the wordes of his mouth more then myne appoynted foode.
31 He is still at one poynt, and (d) who can turne him? he doth as him listeth, and bringeth to passe what he will.
14 He (e) performeth the thing that is appoynted for me, and many such thinges doth he.
15 This is the cause that I shrinke at his presence, so that when I consider him, I am afrayde of hym.
16 For God maketh my heart (f) softe, and the almightie putteth me in feare.
17 Because I am not (g) cut of before the darkenesse, neither hath he couered the (h) cloude fro my face.

(a) In this chapter is expressed howe hard, yea how impossible it is to come to God, without a mediatour. (b) Job being admonished before to returne to God, sayth, If I shoulde come to him, where is he, or where might I finde him, to pleade my cause before him.

(c) That is, gods wayes, proouing therfore him selfe not to deserue such grieuous plagues and afflictions for his faultes.

(d) For God is immutable, and his decrees stande fast.

(e) That is, he hath decreed thus to punishe me appoynted here vnto, although I can not attayne to the secrete iudgement of God therein, and therfore I do feare his presence.

(f) That is, maketh it so weake that it can not but be in feare.

(g) Out of paynes, troubles, and afflictions.

(h) That is, cleared my eyes, that I may see the end of my troubles

The. xxiiii. Chapter.

1 Job describeth the wickednesse of men, and sheweth what curse belongeth to the wicked. 12 How all thinges are gouerned by gods prouidence, 17 and the destruction of the wicked.

A 1 Considering (a) then that there is no time hyd from the almightie, how happeneth it that they which know him do not regarde his dayes?
2 For some men remoue the landemarkes, robbe men of their cattell, and feede of the same:
3 They driue away the asse of the fatherlesse, and take the wydowes oxe for a pledge:
4 They cause the poore to turne out of the way, so that the poore of the earth hyde them selues together.
5 Behold, as wilde (b) asses in the desert go they foorth to their worke, & rise betimes to spoyle: yea the very (c) wildernesse ministreth foode for them & their children.
6 They reape the corne fielde that is not their owne, and let the vineyarde of the vngodly alone.
7 They cause the naked to lodge without garment, and without couering in the colde.
8 They are wet with the showres of the mountaynes, and embrace the rocke for want of a couering.
9 They plucke the fatherlesse from the brest, and take the pledge from the poore.
10 They let hym go naked without clothing, and haue taken away the sheafe of the hungrie.

(a) This speaketh Job in his extreme passions, according to worldly wit in masse feeble nature, which is foolishnes before God. Wherby he woulde proue that God considereth not the times.

(b) The cursed crueltie of tyrannes toward the poore, following.

(c) That is, they liue by robberie and sheefe.

11 The

11 The poore are fayne to labour in their oyle mylles, yea and to treade in their wyne presses, and yet to suffer thirst.
12 Men out of the citie crye vnto the Lord with sighing, the soules of the slayne also crye out, yet God regardeth not their complaynt.
13 Where as they are conuersaunt among them that abhorre the light, they know not his way, nor continue in his pathes.
14 The murtherer ryseth early and killeth the poore and needy, and in the night is as a thiefe:
15 The (a) eye of the adulterer wayteth for the darkenesse, & sayth, There shall no eye see me: and disguiseth his face.
16 In the darke they digge through houses, whiche they marked for them selues in the day time: they knowe not the light.
17 The morning is to them euen as the shadow of death: if one know them, they are in the terrours of the shadowe of death, 18 [The vngodly] is swyft vpon the water: their portion shalbe cursed in the earth, and he shall not beholde the way of the vineyardes.
19 As the drye grounde and heate (c) consume the snowye waters: so shall the graue the sinners.
20 The (f) pitifull man shall forget hym, he shalbe sweete to the wormes, he shalbe no more remembred, & his wickednesse shalbe broken as a tree.
21 He hath oppressed the barren that can not beare, and vnto the wydow hath he done no good.
22 He (g) drue the mightie after hym with his power, and when he was gotten vp no man was sure of lyfe.
23 And though they gaue him to be in safetie, yet his eyes are vpon their wayes.
24 They are exalted for a litle, but [shortly] are gone, brought to pouertie, and taken out of the way, yea and vtterly pluckt of, as the eares of corne.
25 Is (h) it not so: who will then reprone me as a lyer, and say that my wordes are nothing worth:

(a) Not only the tyrant, but also the adulterer escapeth free, and is not corrected.

(c) Although such abhominable sinners liue vncorrected in this worlde, yet at the length hell shall deuour them sodenly.
(f) Because they pitie not others, they shall not be pitied at all.

(g) That is, when they haue plagued and ouerrun the poore and weake, they will oppresse the streng, & mightie also

(h) Then I lye not, & none of you can reprone me.

The.xxv. Chapter.

Bildad proueth that no man is cleane nor without sinne before God.

1 Then aunswered Bildad the Suhite, and sayde:
2 Is there (a) power and feare with him aboue, that maketh (b) peace sitting in his hyghnesse:
3 Is there any number of his (c) armies, and vpon whom shal not his light arise:
4 (d) But how may a man compared vnto God, be iustified: or how can he be cleane that is borne of a woman:
5 Beholde, the moone shyneth nothing in comparison to him, and the starres are vncleane in his sight.
6 Howe much more then man that is but corruption, and the sonne of man which is but a worme:

(a) Bildad would proue here that god plageth the wicked, yet afterward he prospereth: and because God dealt not so with Job, he condemneth that he was wicked.
(b) That is, ouerreth and ruleth all thynges.
(c) For he is called the god of hoastes, that is the god of hoastes

(d) For the starres moone are derke compared to him: and how much more man being borne in sinne and corruption, and being but a worme?

* Or, worme

The.xxvi. Chapter.

Iob sheweth that man can not helpe God, and proueth it by his miracles.

1 Iob aunswered, and sayde:
2 (a) Who hast thou holpen: him that is without strength: sauest thou the arme that hath no strength:
3 Where is the counsayle that thou shouldest geue him which hath no wisdome: Hast thou shewed the way of right lyuing:
4 To whom hast thou spoken these wordes: Who made the breath to come out of thy mouth:
5 (b) Are not dead thinges shapen vnder the waters, and thinges by the waters side:
6 (c) He is naked before him, and the very destruction it selfe can not be hyd out of his sight.
7 He stretcheth out the nooth ouer the emptie place, and (d) hangeth the earth vpon nothing.

(a) Here Iob reprehendeth Bildad, for y he speaketh not enough to gods prayse who needeth not mans prayses, neither receiueth them beyng vayne of comfort.

(b) That is, such thinges are in the waters without lyfe, as metalls and such lyke, wherein is expressed gods great power
(c) That is, it is open and most plaine in his sight, for he seeth all thinges.
(d) The most excellent and mightie power of god,

8 He byndeth the water in his cloudes, & the cloude is not broken vnder them.
9 (c) He holdeth backe the face of his throne, and spreadeth his cloude before it.
10 He hath compassed the waters with certayne boundes, (f) vntill the day and night come to an ende.
11 The (g) very pillers of heauen tremble and quake at his reproofe.
12 He stilleth the sea with his power, and through his wysdome smyteth he the strength therof.
13 His spirite hath (h) garnished the heauens, & his hand hath made (i) the crooked serpent.
14 Lo, this is now a (k) short summe of his wayes: but howe litle a portion heare we of hym? Who can vnderstande the thunder of his power?

(c) His throne: of maiestie, which are the heauens, he covereth from vs.
(f) That is, so long as the worlde endureth.
(g) Not that heauen hath pillers, but by the pillers he vnderstandeth al things vnder heauen.
(h) That is, the winde breaking the cloudes, the heauens are cleare.
(i) That is, a circle in heauē winding round like a serpent, called Jacteus circulus.
(k) For though these fewe thinges of his power be wonderful, yet they are nothing in comparison of the rest of his workes, which mās capacitie can not reach to.

The. xxvii. Chapter.

3 The constancie and perfectnesse of Job. 13 and of the tirauntes. The reward of the wicked

1 AND Job proceeded and went forth in his parable, saying,
2 (a) As God lyueth whiche hath taken away my iudgement, and the almightie that hath (b) vexed my minde:
3 Whyle my breath is in me, (c) and the winde that God hath geuen me is in my nostrels,
4 My lippes shall talke of no vanitie, and my tongue shall speake no deceite.
5 God forbyd that I should graunt your cause to be right: As for me, vntill myne end come will (d) I neuer go fro myne innocentie.
6 My righteous dealing kepe I fast, which I will not forsake: my heart shal not reproue me (e) of my dayes.
7 Therfore (f) myne enemie shalbe founde as the vngodly, and he that taketh part against me, as the vnrighteous.
8 For (g) What hope hath the hypocrite though he haue great good, if God take away his soule?
9 Will (h) God heare his crye, when trouble commeth vpon him?
10 Hath he such pleasure and delite in the almightie, (i) that he dare alway call vpon God?
11 I wil teache you in the "name of God, and the thing of the almightie will I not kepe from you.
12 (k) Behold, all ye your selues haue seene it, why then do ye thus vanishe in vanitie?
13 Saying: (l) This is the portion that the wicked haue of God, and the heritage that tyrauntes shall receaue of the almightie.
14 If he get many children, they shall perishe with the swoorde, and his posteritie shall haue scarcenesse of bread.
15 His remnaunt shalbe buried in death, and his widowes shall not weepe.
16 Though he (m) heape vp siluer as the dust, and prepare rayment as the clay:
17 He may well prepare it, but the godly shall put it on, and the innocent shall deale out the money.
18 He (n) buyldeth his house as the moth, & as a booth that the watchman maketh.
19 When the riche man sleepeth, he shall not be gathered [to his fathers,] they opened their eyes, and he was gone.
20 Terrour taketh holde vpon hym (o) as a water fludde, and the tempest stealeth him away in the night season.
21 A (p) vehement east winde caryeth him hence, and he departeth: a storme hurleth him out of his place.
22 God shal cast vpon him, and not spare, though he woulde fayne flee out of his hande.
23 Then clap men their handes at hym, and hisse at him out of his place.

(a) This was the order of the Hebrues to sweare.
(b) My afflictions are so grieuous that men iudge me only by outwarde shewe to be wicked.
(c) That is, as long as I liue I will not resist the trueth, and offend God contrarie to my promise, though men lay neuer so euil of me.
(d) That is, I will not confesse that God plagueth me for myne offence.
(e) Of my former life past.
(f) That is, because they reproched me bycause, they rather might be accounted wicked, and the plague shal light on them, and be tryd from me.
(g) What auayleth it a man if he gayne all the world, & lose his owne soule?
(h) We haue no greater gift of God, then the spirite of prayer, wherby if we pray, God doth here vs.
(i) The hypocrite neither trusteth nor prayeth to God: yea though he pray, God will not heare him.
" Or, hande.
(k) Gods secret workes is layde before you, and yet your blindnes will not permit you to see it.
(l) That is, not only the wicked shalbe plagued, but also their posteritie rooted out.
(m) As it is sayde in the 39. psal. thou shalt build an house, and not dwell in it thy selfe, which is the plague of the wicked.
(n) Signifying it shalbe weake, of small estimation: and dying lothed, shall soone decay.
(o) That is, most abounding.
(p) That is, he shall sodenly be blowen away by death, and after death shal he be honorable buried: & this is the end of the tyrauntes

¶ The

The.xxviii. Chapter.

1 Iob sheweth that the wysdome of God is vnsearcheable.

THere is (a) a place wher siluer is brought out of,and where golde is tryed,
2 where yron is digged out of the grounde, & (b) stones resolued to metall.
3 (c) The darkenesse shall once come to an ende: he can seke out the grounde of all thinges,the stones, the darke , and the shadowe of death.
4 He causeth the fluddes to breake out against the inhabitant , and the waters forgotten of the foote , beyng hygher then man, are gone away.
5 (d) Out of the same earth commeth bread,and vnder it as it were fire is turned vp.
6 The (e) stones of it are a place of Saphires,and the dust of it is golde.
7 There is a way that the birdes knowe not,that no vultures eye hath seene:
8 wherin the lions whelpes walke not, and where no lion commeth.
9 [There] (f) putteth he his hande vpon the stonie rockes,and ouerthroweth the mountaynes by the rootes.
10 Riuers flowe out of the rockes, & loke what is pleasaunt,his eye seeth it.
11 He bindeth the fluddes that they do not ouerflow:and the thing that is hid bringeth he to light.
12 Where then is wysdome founde: and (g) where is the place of vnderstanding:
13 Verely no man can tell howe (h) worthy a thing she is,neither is she found in the lande of them that lyue.
14 The deepe sayth , She is not in me: the sea sayth, She is not with me.
15 She can not be gotten for golde,neither may the price of her be bought with any siluer.
16 No (i) wedges of gold of Ophir, no precious (k) Onix stones , no Saphires may be valued with her.
17 No, neither golde nor christall shall be equall vnto it,nor her exchaunge shalbe for the plate of fine golde.
18 No mention shalbe made of Coral nor of the Gabis: for wisdome is more precious then pearles.
19 The (l) Topas of Ethiopia shall not be equall vnto it, neither shall it be valued with the wedge of pure golde.
20 Whence then commeth wysdome: and where is the place of vnderstanding:
21 She is hid from the eyes of all men liuing, yea & from the foules of the * ayre.
22 Destruction and death say , We haue hearde the fame therof with our eares.
23 But God seeth her way,and knoweth her place.
24 For he beholdeth the endes of the worlde , and loketh vpon all that is vnder heauen.
25 When he wayed the windes and measured the waters:
26 when he made a decree for the rayne, and a way for the lightninges of the thunder:
27 Then dyd he see her, then declared he her,prepared her,and knewe her.
28 And vnto man he sayd: (m) To feare the Lorde is wysdome,and to forsake euyll is vnderstanding.

(a) Iob signifieth one that wrestleth or striueth against sorowes and aduersitie. Here he speaketh of the secretes of nature, yet they are neuer rede to the searche of Gods iudgementes which is vnsearcheable. (b) For stones lesse growen in the stones, whiche being serued vp as called ore: and by behement fire molte, the metall is separate from the stones. (c) Here he describeth gods fatherly workes, thereby meaning that all thinges shall haue an ende saue the vnsearchable wysdome of God. (d) In the barrein fieldes tylled and plowed beneath fourth come, out of the whiche are is stroken. (e) The Saphires do shine with golden poinctes, so that here by Saphires is ment rockes of gold. All these thinges are founde that gods wisdome hath taught. (f) Here he sheweth gods power: the earth may be digged, hilles ouerthrowen, a mountayne made among stones, riuers turned from their course: but gods wisdome is not to be founde. (g) Gods wisdome is partly seene in these worldly thinges, but his heauenly wysdome and secrete iudgement is hyd and vnknowen to all men.

(h) That is, it passeth mans capacitie to attayne to it.

(i) Ophir is the region by Ganges the riuer of India, so called of Ophir the sonne of Laketan, who possessed the same with his children. (k) This stone is found in Ganges the riuer of India (l) Thus the wysdome of gods maiestie doth farre excel all things

* Or, heauen

(m) Meaning by this, that man hath so much of this excelling wysdome of God, as he doth shew in vertue of liuing, due obedience and feare of him.

The.xxix. Chapter.

1 Iob complayneth of the prosperitie of the time past. 7. His auctoritie, 12 iustice and equite.

1 MOreouer Iob proceeded and went forth in his parable,saying:
2 O that I were as I was in the monethes by past, and in the daies when God preserued me:
3 when his (a) light shined vpon my head, when I went after the same light and shining,euen through the darkenesse:
4 As it stoode with me when I was young, when God prospered my house:
5 when the almightie was yet with me, when my children stoode about me:
6 when my wayes (b) ranne ouer with butter,and when the stone rockes gaue me riuers of oyle:
7 when I went out to the gate, euen to the iudgement seate, and when I prepared my seate in the streete:

(a) That is, when as his fauour preserued me.

(b) That is, when I had all thinges most aboundantly. For milke and oyle signifie all plentifulnes: and here Iob describeth his felicitie in times past, to the increase of his griefe.

8 The (c) yong men saw me and hid them selues, and the (b) aged arose, and stoode vp.

9 The (c) princes left of their talking, and layed their hand to their mouth:

10 The nightie kept still their voyce, and their tongue cleaued to the roofe of their mouth.

11 When the eare heard me, it blessed me: & when the eye sawe me, it gaue witnesse to me:

12 For I (f) deliuered the poore, when he cryed, and the fatherlesse, and hym that had none to helpe hym.

13 The blessing of him that was redy to perishe came vpon me, and I caused the widowes heart to reioyce.

14 And why? I put vpon me righteousnesse, which couered me as a (g) garment, and equitie was my crowne.

15 I was an eye to the blinde, and a foote to the lame.

16 I was a father to the poore: and when I knewe not the cause, I sought it out diligently.

17 I brake the (h) iawes of the vnrighteous man, and pluckt the spoyle out of his teeth.

18 Then I sayde, I shall die in my (i) nest: and I shall multiplie my dayes as the sande.

19 For my (k) roote was spread out by the water side: and the (l) deawe lay vpon my "come.

20 Myne honour encreased more and more, & my bow was" euer the stronger in my hande.

21 Unto me men gaue eare, me they regarded, and with silence they taried for my counsell.

22 After my woordes they replied not, and my talke dropped vpon them.

23 They (m) wayted for me as for the raine: and gaped vpon me, as [the grounde doeth to receaue] the latter shoure.

24 When I laughed, they beleued it not, & the light of my countenaunce would they not put out.

25 When I agreed vnto their way, I was the chiefe, and sate as a king with his armie about him: and when they were in heauinesse, I was their comfortour.

(c) Is abashed at his countenaunce, and ashamed of their youthful lightnesse.
(d) Knowing both my wisedome and estimation
(e) Only to heare him for the great patience that appeared in him, excelling them, caused their tounges to be in silence
(f) Because Bildad and Sophar did so much blame him, he here pleded accope of his ryfe past
(g) Justice is to deliuer the poore, and iudgement is to punishe the wicked, these two are in deede a kingly vesture & garment.
(h) That is, the tyrannie.
(i) That is, in my bed, quietly without there plagues.
(k) That is, I haue all thynges plentifully that appertayne to my necessarie
(l) By the deawe is signified happy & prosperous estate, & by the corne is meant his children, as though he would say, my posteritie and thatbe multiplie.
"Or, harueste.
"Or, remain.
(m) Here is shewed of whatreuerence an vpright and vertuous life is.

The. xxx. Chapter.

1 Job complayneth that he is contemned of the most contemptible, 11,21. because of his aduersitie and affliction. 23 Death is the house of all liuyng.

A 1 But (a) nowe they that are younger then I haue me in derision: yea euen they whose fathers I would haue thought scorne to haue set with the dogges of my cattell.

2 For wherto might the strength of (b) their handes haue serued me? for the time was but lost among them.

3 For very (c) miserie and hunger they fled into the wildernesse, a darke place, horrible and waste,

4 Plucking vp nettles among the bushes, and the iuniper rootes for their meate.

5 And when they were driuen foorth, men cryed after them as it had ben after a theefe.

6 Their (d) dwelling was in the clefftes of brookes, yea in the caues and dennes of the earth.

7 Among the bushes went they about crying, and vnder the thornes they gathered them selues together.

8 They were the children of fooles and villaynes, which are more vile then the earth.

9 Now am I their (e) song, & am become their yesting stocke.

10 They abhorre me and flee farre from me, and stayne my face with spittle.

11 Because God hath loosed my corde and humbled me, they haue loosed the (f) bridle before me.

12 Upon my (g) right hande ryse the young men against me, they haue hurt my feete, treading vpon me as vpon the wayes of their destruction.

13 My

(a) Before is declared how greatly God doth blesse the godly, & here is shewed how breaup a crosse he layeth on them to proue them.
(b) They now despise me, whiche with all their power when I was in prosperitie could nothing helpe me it was so rotake.
(c) Here Job declareth what abiectes they were that now reuyleth him, and sheweth that they are worthy the name their fathers, which died per they came to age.
(d) Shewing hereby their baseness and their povertie, beyng such outcastes: yet now they scorne Job, which is a great griefe, to be mocked of such.
(e) What great griefe is this, that Job beyng once in high authoritie, now to be in misery and mocked of such vile villayns.
(f) That is, beyng me now in misery not able to correct them they rest and reyne at me without measure, as vnbridled in their affections.
(g) The right hande declareth felicitie, and the left hand afflictio and miserie: so that Job meaneth by the young men that rise against him on the right hand, that they take away his felicitie and prosperitie, as the Arabies did, as is before.

13 Wy (b) pathes haue they cleane marred, it was so easye for them to do me harme, that they needed no man to help them.

14 They fell vpon me, as it had ben the breaking in of waters, and came in by heapes to destroy me.

15 Feare is turned vpon me, and they pursue my soule as the wind, and my health passeth away as (i) a cloude.

16 Therfore is my soule now powred out vpon me, and the dayes of my trouble haue taken hold vpon me.

17 My bones are pearsed through in the night season, and my sinewes take no rest.

18 For the vehemencie of sorowe is my garment chaunged, whiche compasseth me about as the (k) coller of my coote.

19 He hath cast me into the myre, and I am become like asshes and dust.

20 When (l) I crie vnto thee, thou doest not heare me: and though I stande before thee, yet thou regardest me not.

21 Thou art become myne enemie, and with thy violent hande thou takest part against me.

22 [In times past] thou diddest (m) set me vp on hye, to be caried as it were aboue the wynde, [but nowe] hast thou geuen mea very sore fall.

23 Sure I am that thou wilt bryng me vnto death, euen to the (n) lodging that is due vnto all men liuing.

24 Notwithstanding, thou wilt not (o) stretch out thyne hand against him that is in the graue: shal men crie out against him that is in destruction?

25 Dyd not I weepe with hym that was in trouble? had not my soule compassion vpon the poore?

26 Yet neuertheiesse, where as I loked for good, euyll came vnto me: & (p) where I wayted for light, there came darkenesse.

27 My bowels seethe in me without rest, for the dayes of my trouble are come vpon me.

28 I went mourning without heate, I stoode vp in the congregation, & (q) communed with them.

29 But nowe I am a brother of dragons, and a felowe of Estriches.

30 My skinne vpon me is [turned] to (r) blacke, and my bones are brent with heate.

31 My harpe is turned to mourning, and my organs into the voyce of them that weepe.

(i) That is, soone sorowe.

(k) It is the maner among the Hebrues to haue their garmentes bored round in euery part, leauing a hole only in the bignesse of it, to put ouer the neck.

(l) Iob sayth not this as blaming God, but greatnes affliction moued him to complayne.

(m) That is, thou didst set me in the auctoritie, and sodenly thou pulledst me downe.

(n) Meaning death, that shoulde bryng him to the graue.

(o) He that is once dead, can no more be hurt.

(p) In steede of comfort they gaue me mockes.

(q) My talke was so lamentable, and my crying so great, that I might well be called a companion of dragons and Estriches.

(r) With the heate of my sore troubles.

The. xxxi. Chapter.

1 Iob reciteth the innocentie of his liuing, and number of his vertues, which declareth what ought to be the lyfe of the faythfull.

A

(a) In this chapter Iob declareth his vpright liuing, not to bost against God, but to refel the false slaunder of his aduersaries.

(b) The eschewing to the spirite, neither was he led with carnal desire.

(c) Iob here theweth that the feare of God, did driue him fro wickednesse.

(d) Meaning that before men he was giltelesse, in observing all the precepts of the seconde table.

1 I Made a (a) couenaunt with myne eyes: why then (b) should I loke vpon a mayden?

2 For how great a portion shall I haue of God: and what inheritaunce from the almightie on hye?

3 Is not destruction to the wicked? and straunge (c) punishement to the workers of iniquitie?

4 Doth not he see my wayes, and tell all my goynges?

5 If I haue walked in (d) vanitie, or if my feete haue runne to disceaue:

6 Let me be wayed in an euen balaunce, that God may see myne innocencie.

7 If my steppe hath turned out of the way, & myne heart walked after myne eyes, and if any blot haue cleaued to my handes:

8 Then shall I sowe, and an other eate: yea my "posteritie shalbe cleane rooted out.

9 If my heart haue ben deceaued by a woman, or if I haue layde wayte at my neyghbours doore:

10 Then let my wife (e) grinde vnto an other man, and let other men "lye with her.

11 For this is a wickednesse, and sinne that is worthy to be punished:

12 Yea a (f) fire that vtterly should consume and roote out all my increase.

13 If I euer thought scorne to do right vnto my seruauntes & maydens, when they had any matter against me:

14 When God (g) will sit in iudgement, what shall I do? & when he will visite me, what aunswere shal I geue him?

15 He that (h) fashioned me in my mothers wombe, made he not him also? were we not both shapen a like in our mothers bodies?

" Or, plants.

(e) Let her be a bonde slaue to an other man.

" Or, bowe downe vpon her.

(f) Though mans punishmet for aduoutrie he omitted, yet gods plague will neuer rest to consume and roote it out.

(g) That is, if I in lawe haue reiected the complaint of my seruaut, what shoulde I do when God calleth me to iudge?

(h) Iob expresseth the cause why he dyd prise his seruaunts, for that they had one creator, & both made of the same substaunce.

16 If I denied the poore of their desire, or haue caused the eyes of the wydow to wayte in vayne:

(i) Meaning, that he hath ben beneficial to the poore, to the fatherlesse and widowes.

17 If I haue eaten my (i) morsell alone, that ỹ fatherlesse hath not eaten therof:

18 (For from my youth it hath growen vp with me as with a father, and from my mothers wombe I haue ben guyde to the [wydowe])

19 If I haue seene any perishe for want of clothing, or any poore for lake of rayment:

20 If his loynes haue not blessed me, because he was warmed with the fleece of my sheepe:

¶ 21 If I haue lift vp mine hand against the fatherlesse, when I sawe that I might helpe him in the gate:

22 Then let myne arme fall fro my shoulder, and myne arme holes be broken from the bone.

23 For I haue euer feared the vengeaunce and punishment of God, and [knewe very well that] I was not able to beare his burthen.

24 Haue I put my trust in golde: or haue I sayde to the wedge of golde, thou art my confidence:

25 Haue I reioyced because my power was great, and because my hande gat so much:

(k) By the rising vp of the sunne, and going downe of ỹ moone, he meaneth the prosperitie and felicitie that he was in.

26 Dyd I euer greatly regarde the (k) rysing of the sunne: or had I the goyng downe of the moone in great reputation:

(l) That is, did I euer commend the workes of myne owne hande?

27 Hath my heart medled priuyly with any discrete: or did I euer (l) kisse myne owne hande:

28 (That were a wickednesse worthy to be punished: for then shoulde I haue denyed the God that is aboue.)

29 Haue I euer reioyced at the hurt of myne enemie: or was I euer glad that any harme happened vnto him: [Oh, no.]

30 I neuer suffred my mouth to sinne, by wishing a curse to his soule.

31 Dyd not the men of myne owne housholde say, who shall let vs to haue our belly full of his flesshe:

32 The straunger dyd not lodge in the streete, but I opened my doores vnto him that went by the way.

33 Haue I kept secrete my sinne, and hyd myne iniquitie, as Adam dyd:

34 Though I coulde haue made afeard a great (m) multitude, yet the most contemptible of the families dyd feare me: so I kept silence, and went not out of the (n) doore.

35 O that I had one which woulde heare me: beholde my signe in the whiche the almightie shal aunswere for me, though he that is my contrarie partie hath written a booke against me.

36 Yet will I take it vpon my (o) shoulder, & as a garlande binde it about my head.

37 I will tell hym the number of my goinges, & go vnto him as to a (p) prince.

38 But if case be that my lande (q) crye against me, or that the (r) forowes thereof make any complaynt:

39 If I haue eaten the fruites therof vnpayed for, yea if I haue greeued the soules of the maisters therof:

40 Then let thystles growe in steede of my wheate, and cockle for my barlye.

(m) That is, I did not feare to do iustice, eyther be geuing eare to ỹ multitude or to get the fauour of my friendes and kinred.

(n) Meaning that he did not holde his peace, or kept at home in the iust suite or cause of any.

(o) That is, I will cause the booke that the aduersarie shal make, vpō my shoulder, and will accept it for a great gift, meaning he would cōfesse his fault if he had offended.

(p) That is, with great reuerence.

(q) That is, if the hyrelyng that hath laboured in the land, haue ben defrauded of his wages by me.

(r) That is, yf I haue by violence compelled my land to be eared, and not geuen foode to the labourers.

Here end the wordes of Iob.

The. xxxii. Chapter.

1 Elihu reproueth them of folly. 8 Age maketh not a man wise, but the spirite of God.

(a) The Hebrues reade, wise in his owne eyes.

(b) This Elihu descended from Hus, who was the sonne of Nachor the brother of Abraham, or as in the Caldees paraphras Abram.

AND (a) these three men ceassed to aunswere Job, because he held him selfe a righteous man.

2 But Elihu the sonne of Barachel the (b) Buzite, of the kinred of Ram, was very sore displeased at Job, because he called hym selfe iust before God.

3 And with Jobs three friendes he was angry also, because they had founde no reasonable aunswere, and yet condemned Job.

4 Nowe taried Elihu, till they had ended their cōmunication with Job: for why? they were elder then he.

5 So when Elihu sawe that these three men were not able to make Job aunswere, he was miscontent.

6 Ther-

6 Therfore Elihu the sonne of Barachel the Buzite aunswered, and sayde: [Considering that] I am young, and ye be men of age, I was afrayde, and durst not shewe forth my mynde.

7 For I thought thus within my selfe: "It becommeth old men to speake, and the aged to teache wysdome.

8 Euery man no doubt hath a mynde, but it is the inspiration of the almightie that geueth vnderstanding.

9 Great men are not alway wyse, neither doth euery aged man vnderstande the thing that is lawfull:

10 Therefore I say, heare me, and I will shewe you also myne vnderstanding.

11 For when I had wayted till ye made an end of your talking, and hearde your wysdome, (c) what argumentes ye made in your communication,

12 Yea when I had diligently pondred what ye sayde, I found not one of you that made any good argument against Iob, that directly could make aunswere vnto his wordes, 13 Lest ye should say: We haue found out wisdome, (b) God shall cast hym downe, and no man.

14 He hath not spoken vnto me, and I will not aunswere hym as ye haue done.

15 For they were so abashed, that they coulde not make aunswere, nor speake one worde.

16 When I had wayted (for they spake not, but stoode still and aunswered no more:)

17 Then aunswered I in my turne, and I shewed myne opinion.

18 For I am full of "matter, and the spirite within me compelleth me.

19 Beholde, my (e) belly is as the wine, whiche hath no vent, lyke the newe bottels that brust.

20 [Therfore] will I speake, that I may haue a vent: I will open my lippes, and make aunswere.

21 I will (f) regarde no maner of person, no man will I spare.

22 For if I woulde go about to (g) please men, I knowe not howe soone my maker would take me away.

(a) The yonge shall speake. (b) The multitude of yeres shall " Or, iudgement.

(c) To proue Iob plagued for his offences.

(b) And as though therefore it had ben my dome for them to holde their peace.

" Or, words

(e) That is, I shoulde breake in the middes, if I shoulde not speake, my mynde is so hot within me.

(f) I will say trueth, all thinges layd apart.

(g) The Hebrue word is, to alter the name, calling a rude man learned, or a wicked man iust.

The. xxxiii. Chapter.

5 Elihu accuseth Iob of ignorance. 14 He sheweth that God hath diuers meanes to instruct man and to drawe hym from sinne. 19 He afflicteth man and sodenly deliuereth hym, 26 Man beyng deliuered, geueth thankes to God.

1 Wherefore heare my wordes O Iob, and hearken vnto all that I will say:

2 Behold, I haue now opened my mouth, my tongue hath spoken in my throte.

3 My heart doth order my wordes aright, and my lippes talke of pure wysedome.

4 The (a) spirite of God hath made me, and the breath of the almightie hath geuen me my lyfe.

5 If thou canst then geue me aunswere, prepare thy selfe and stande before me face to face.

6 Beholde, (b) before God I am euen as thou: for I am fashioned & made euen of the same molde.

7 Beholde, my terrour shall not feare thee, neither shall my hande be heauy vpon thee.

8 (c) Now hast thou spoken in myne eares, & I haue heard the voyce of thy wordes:

9 I am cleane without any fault, I am innocent, & there is no wickednesse in me.

10 But lo, he hath piked a quarell against me, and taketh me for his enemie.

11 He hath put my foote in the stockes, and looketh narowlye vnto all my pathes.

12 Behold, in this hast thou not done right, I will make aunswere vnto thee, that God is greater then man.

13 And why doest thou then striue against him: for he shall not geue the accomptes of all his wordes.

14 For God speaketh (b) once or twise, and yet man vnderstandeth it not.

15 In dreames and visions of the night, when slumbring commeth vpon men that they fall a sleepe in their beddes,

16 He roundeth them in the eares, and sealeth their correction:

17 That he may withdrawe man from euyll enterprises, and deliuer hym from (e) pride, 18 And kepe his soule from the graue, and his life from the sworde.

(a) There is cause why ye shoulde despise me although I be young: for I am as you are, made by gods spirite, created of the earth, and became lyke of hym.

(b) Iob desireth to pleade his cause before god without feare, therfore saith Elihu I am here in gods steede, whom thou needest not to feare, for I am made of the matter that thou art.

(c) I haue hearde the boast of thy righteousnesse, that thou art innocent and iust, therfore I will proue thee to be ouer proude in thy speache, for in these thy wordes.

(b) God speaketh two maner of wayes vnto men, either by sleepe, or by his rod of sickenesse and other plagues.

(e) For to beate downe the pride of man God sendeth his plagues.

19 He chasteneth hym with sickenesse vpon his bedde, he layeth sore punishement vpon his bones:
20 So that his (f) lyfe may abay with no bread, and his soule abhorreth to eate any dayntie meate:
21 (g) In so much that his body is cleane consumed away, and his bones appeare which before were not seene.
22 His soule draweth vnto the graue, and his lyfe to "death.
23 Now (h) yf there be a messenger, one among a thousande, sent for to speake vnto man, and to shew him the right way:
24 Then the Lord is mercifull vnto him, and sayth, He shalbe deliuered, that he fall not downe to the graue: for I am sufficiently reconciled.
25 Then shal his (i) flesshe be as freshe as a childes, and shal returne asin the dayes of his youth.
26 He shall pray vnto God, and he will be fauorable vnto him, and he shall see his face with (k) ioy, for he will render vnto man his righteousnesse.
27 A respect hath he vnto men, let man then say, I haue offended, I did vnrighteously, & (l) it hath done me no good:
28 Yea he hath deliuered my soule from destruction, and (m) my lyfe shall see the light.
29 Lo all these worketh God alway with man:
30 That he bring backe his soule from the graue to the light, yea the light of the lyuing.
31 Marke wel O Job, and heare me: hold thee still, and I will speake.
32 But if thou hast any thing to say, then (n) aunswere me, and speake: for I desire to iustifie thee.
34 If thou hast nothing, then heare me, and hold thy tongue, and I shall teache thee wysdome.

(f) That is, sickenesse that he cannot take no sustenaunce.
(g) Here speaketh he of a seuere way, whereby God speaketh to man by afflictions.
" Or, To the graues.
(h) If there be a messenger sente to declare gods will truely, and shewe his benefites one of a thousand, & man regardeth the same: then will God haue mercie.
(i) The health of the body, is the blessing of God.
(k) He shall feele the comforte of the holy ghost.
(l) But it prouoked gods wrath vpon me.
(m) That is, my soule shall appeare cleare in the land of the liuing.
(n) That is, to shewe thy selfe iust, and not wicked.

The. xxxiiii. Chapter.

5 Elihu chargeth Job that he calleth him selfe righteous. 12 He sheweth that God is iust in iudgementes. 24 God destroyeth the mightie. 30 By him the hypocrite raigneth.

A
1 Elihu proceeding in his aunswere, sayde:
2 Heare my wordes O ye (a) wise men, hearken vnto me ye that haue vnderstanding:
3 For the eare discerneth wordes, and the mouth tasteth the meates.
4 As for (b) iudgement, let vs seke it out among our selues, that we may knowe what is good.
5 [And why:] Job hath sayd, I am righteous, and God hath (c) taken away my iudgement.
6 In my right I shoulde be a lyer: my wounde is incurable without my fault.
7 Where is there such a one as Job, that (d) drinketh vp scornefulnesse like water:
8 Which goeth in the companie of wicked doers, and walketh with vngodly men:
B 9 For he hath sayde, It profiteth a man nothing that he shoulde walke with God.
10 Therfore hearken vnto me ye that haue vnderstanding: farre be it from God that he shoulde meddle with wickednesse, & farre be it from the almightie that he shoulde meddle with vnrighteous dealing.
11 For he shall rewarde man after his workes, and cause euery man to finde according to his wayes.
12 Sure it is that God wil not do wickedly, neither wyll the almightie peruert iudgement.
13 Who ruleth the earth but he: or who hath placed the whole world:
14 If he set his heart vpon [man] and gather vnto hym selfe his spirite and his breath,
C 15 All flesshe shall come to naught at once, and all men shall turne againe vnto dust.
16 If thou nowe haue vnderstanding, heare what I say, and hearken to the voyce of my wordes:
17 May he be a (e) ruler that loueth not right: or may he that is a very innocent man do vngodly:
18 Is it reason that thou shouldest say to the king, Thou art wicked, or thou art vngodly, and that before the princes:
19 God hath no respect vnto the persons of the lordly, and regardeth not the riche more then the poore: for they be al the worke of his handes.
20 In

(a) Here Elihu proueth that God can not be vniust, because he is the iudge of the world, the gouernour and creator of all.
(b) Let vs seeke the cause by reasoning in order of iudice.
(c) That is, he hath not dealt with me according to the equitie of my cause.
(d) That is, for his foolishnes he heareth the scornefull reproches of the mockers.
(e) As though Elihu should say, is it meete that the vniust and wicked shalbe rulers, or innocentes commit wickednesse, or inferre iust to controll princes, or subiectes to resist the king: how much lesse the ought est thou to do so to God, the king of all kinges.

20 In the (f) twinckling of an eye shall they dye, and at midnight when the people and the tirantes rage, then shall they perishe, & be taken away without handes.
21 For his eyes loke vpon the wayes of man, and he seeth all his goinges.
22 There is no darkenesse nor shadowe of death that can hide the wicked doers from him.
23 For God will not lay vpon man more then he hath sinned, that he should enter into (g) iudgement with him.
24 He shall destroy the mightie without seeking, and shall set other in their (h) steede.
25 Therefore shall he declare their workes: he shall (i) turne the night, and they shalbe destroyed.
26 The vngodly doth he punishe (k) openly,
27 Because they tourned backe from him, and would not consider all his wayes:
28 Insomuch that they haue caused the voyce of the (l) poore to come vnto him, and now he heareth the complaint of such as are in trouble.
29 When he geueth quietnesse, Who can make trouble: and When he hydeth his face, Who can beholde him: Whether it be vpon nations, or vpō one man onely:
30 Because the hypocrite doth raigne, because the people are snared.
31 Surely of God onely it can be saide, I haue pardoned, I will not destroy.
32 If I haue gone amisse, enfourme thou me: If I haue done wrong, I will leaue of.
33 Will he perfourme the thing through thee: for thou hast reproued his iudgement, thou also hast thyne owne minde, and not I: But speake on What thou knowest.
34 Let men of vnderstanding tell me, and let a wyse man hearken vnto me.
35 Iob hath not spoken of knowledge, neither were his wordes according to wysdome.
36 O (m) father, let Iob be " well tryed, because he hath aunswered for wicked men:
37 Yea aboue his sinne he doth wickedly, triumpheth among vs, and multiplieth his wordes against God.

(f) That is, vnlooked for: they are ware of it. & For many seeke nature cannot reache vnto. Gods inscrutable secrets, and therefore must learne thē with humilitie.
(g) God reasoneth one and humbleth an other as the diuers Monarches of the worlde for example, that is, of the Assyrians of the Persians, of the Grecians, and of the Romanes: as God doth mightyly so doth he iustly.
(h) That is, he shall bring to nought that subuert, as in darkenesse.
(i) That is, in the light of all men
(k) Though their cruell and vnmercifull handling of them.
(l) Through their cruell and vnmercifull handling of them.
(m) Elihu doth not wishe to Iob any euill, but desireth God that he may acknowledge his offence, which can not be brought to passe, but by affliction.
" Or, vnto the ende.

The .xxxv. Chapter.

6 Neither doth godlines profite, or vngodlines hurt God, but man. 18 The wicked crye vnto God, and are not heard.

A (a) Iob holding his peace, Elihu went on in his talke.

1 Elihu (a) spake moreouer and saide:
2 Thinkest thou it right that thou sayest, I am more righteous then God:
3 For thou sayest: What aduauntage will it be vnto thee, and What profite shall I haue of my sinne:
4 Therefore will I geue aunswere vnto thee, and to thy (b) companions with thee.
5 Loke vnto the (c) heauen and beholde it, consider the cloudes which are hyer then thou.
6 If thou hast (d) sinned, What hast thou done against him: If thyne offences be many, What hast thou done vnto him:
7 If thou be (e) righteous, What geuest thou him: or What will he receaue of thyne hande:
8 Thy wickednesse [may hurt] a man as thou art, and thy righteousnesse [may profite] the sonne of man.
9 They which are oppressed crye out vpon the multitude, yea they crye out for the power of the mightie:
10 But (f) none sayth, Where is God that made me: and that geueth " vs occasion to praise him in the night:
11 Which teacheth vs more thē the beastes of the earth, and geueth vs more wysdome then the foules of heauen.
12 If any (g) such complaine, no man geueth aunswere, and that because of the wickednesse of proude tirauntes.
13 For God will not heare vanitie, neither will the almightie regarde it.
14 Although thou sayest [to God] thou wilt not regarde it: yet iudgement is before him, trust thou in him.
15 But now because his anger hath not (h) visited, neither called men to accompt with great extremitie:
16 Therefore doth Iob open his mouth but in vaine, & he maketh many wordes without knowledge.

(a) To such as are lyke to ther in obstinacie, not leauing thy great errour.
(b) If the clouds are higher then thou, how much more is God excelling them all.
(c) It doth nothing aduauntage God whether we be good or euill, for he needeth not our helpe, he is most mighty, his nature is euill. Perfect.
(d) As though he would say, if we do good, it is our owne: if we do euill, it is ours also.
(e) That is, God heareth them not, because they pray not hartely to him in faith.
(f) Iob saide before, that God seemed not to haue care of mortall thinges: by proofe, because that the wicked are in prosperitie, and the godly are afflicted. But Elihu refelleth that, saying the cause of their plague is, for that they call not to God, nor pray not trust in him.
" Or, songes.
(g) That is, God heareth them not, because they pray not hartely to him in faith.
(h) For if God should plague Iob according to his desert, he were not able to speake: but because God is so fauourable, Iob speaketh so vnwysely.

The

The .xxxvi. Chapter.

1 Elihu sheweth the power of God. 6 and his iustice, 9 and wherefore he punisheth. 13 The propertie of the wicked.

1 Elihu also proceeded, and saide:

2 Holde thee still a litle, & I shall shew thee what I haue yet to speake on gods behalfe.

A 3 I wyll open vnto thee yet farre higher knowledge, and wil ascribe righteousnesse vnto my maker.

4 And truely my wordes shall not be vaine, seeing he is with thee that is (a) perfect in knowledge.

(a) And therefore credit my sayinges, for I come to pleade for gods cause.

5 Beholde, the great God casteth away no man, for he him selfe is (b) mightie in power and wysdome.

(b) And therefore he wyll not destroy the iust, the wicke, and the godly, seeing they are there in lyke vnto him.

6 As for the vngodly he shall not preserue him, but shall helpe the poore to their right.

7 He shal not turne his eyes away from the righteous, but as (c) kinges shal they be in their throne, he shal stablish them for euer, and they shalbe exalted.

(c) So God doth exalt the godly, & they that loue him.

8 But if they be layde in chaynes, or bounde with the bondes of trouble, 9 Then wyll he (d) shew them their worke, & their sinnes which haue ouercome them.

(d) If he shal plague the righteous, he wyll declare the cause of the same.

10 He with punishing and nurturing of them, roundeth them in the eares, warneth them to leaue of from their wickednesse, and to amende.

11 If they now wyll take heede & serue him, they shal weare out their dayes in prosperitie, and their yeres in pleasure.

12 But if they wil not hearken, they shal go through the sworde, and perishe or euer they be aware.

(e) Hypocrites that confesse God in their mouthes and not in their hearte, wyll not acknowledge their offence, and so runne into desperation, and confusion.

13 As for (e) hypocrites in heart, they shall heape vp wrath [for them selues] for they call not vpon him, though they be his prisoners.

14 Thus shal their soule perishe in "foolishnes, and their lyfe among the fornicatours.

"Or, youthfulnes.

15 The poore shall he deliuer out of his affliction, and "rounde them in the eare when they be in trouble.

"Or, open their eare.

16 Euen so would he take thee out of the straite place, into a brode place in the which there is no straitnes: yea, & make thy table quiet replenished with fatnesse.

17 Neuertheles, (f) thou hast commended the iudgement of the vngodly, and euen such a iudgement & sentence shalt thou suffer.

(f) Thou hast allowed the counsaile of the wicked, and layd aside the counsaile of God as vnmeet.

18 And seeing there is (g) wrath with God, beware lest he take thee away in thy wealth, & all that thou hast to redeeme thee can not deliuer thee.

(g) Meaning, thou shalt be in perill, which can not be releassed by any price.

19 Thinkest thou that he wyll regarde thy riches? he shall not care for golde, nor for all them that excell in strength.

20 (h) Spend not the night in carefull thoughtes, how he destroyeth some, and bringeth other in their place.

(h) That is, do not wickedly, wayting a time to do euill as the robbers in the night. so must not thou art tarrie in the night why some people do perishe and some do not, for therein thou offendest because it belongeth to the secretes of gods iustice.

21 But beware that thou turne not aside to wickednesse and sinne, which hitherto thou hast chosen more then affliction.

22 Beholde, (i) God is of a mightie hie power: where is there such a guide and lawe geuer as he?

(i) What lawmaker then is more iust then he, for he gaue the holy and immaculate law, who durst then to call him vniuste

23 Who wyll reproue him of his way? who wil say vnto him, Thou hast done wrong?

24 Remember that thou do magnifie his worke which men do praise, 25 All men see it, yea men do beholde it a farre of.

26 Beholde, so great is God that he passeth our knowledge, (k) neither can the number of his yeres be searched out.

(k) For he is God from euerlasting, without beginning & ending.

27 Sometime he restrayneth the rayne, and againe he sendeth rayne by his cloudes:

28 which rayne the cloudes do droppe, and let fall aboundantly vpon men.

(l) God of his iustice is sometime iustly delayed in his creatures.

29 Who can consider the (l) spreadinges out of his cloudes, the coueringes of his tabernacle?

30 Behold, he doth stretch his light vpon it, and coufereth the bottome of the sea.

31 For by these gouerneth he his people, and geueth them abundance of meate.

32 With the cloudes he hydeth the light, and at his commaundement it breaketh out:

33 which dashing vpon the next cloudes, shew tokens of wrath.

¶ The

¶ The. xxxvij. Chapter.

Elihu proueth that the vnsearcherable wysdome of God is manifest by his workes, 4 as by the thunders, 6 the snowe, 9 the whirle winde. 11 and the rayne.

1 AT (a) this also my heart is astonied, and moued out of his place.

2 Heare (b) then the sounde of his voyce, & the noyse that goeth out of his mouth.

3 He directeth it vnder the whole heauen, and his light vnto the endes of the worlde.

4 A roring voyce followeth it: for his glorious maiestie geueth a thunder clappe, & he will not stay whē his voyce is heard.

5 God thundreth marueylously with his voyce, great thinges doth he which we can not comprehend.

6 He commaundeth the snow, and it falleth vpon earth: he geueth the rayne a charge, and the showres haue their strength and fall downe.

7 With the force of the rayne he shutteth men vp, that all men may knowe his (c) workes.

8 The beastes (d) creepe into their dennes, and remaine in their places.

9 Out of the south commeth the tempest, and colde out from the north winde.

10 At the (e) breath of God the hoare frost is geuen, and the brode waters are frosen.

11 He maketh the (f) cloudes to labour in geuing moystnesse, and againe with his (g) light he dryueth away the cloude.

12 He turneth the heauens about by his gouernement, that they may do whatsoeuer he (h) commaundeth them vpon the whole worlde.

13 whether it be for punishment, or for his lande, or to do good to them that seeke him.

14 Hearken vnto this O Iob, stand still, and consider the wonderous workes of God.

15 Didst thou know when God disposed them: & caused the (i) light of his cloudes to shine:

16 Hast thou knowen the varietie of the cloudes, and the wonderous workes of him which is perfect in knowledge:

17 And how thy clothes are warme, when the lande is stil through the south winde:

18 Hast thou helped him to spreade out the heauens which are strong and bright as a (k) loking glasse:

19 Teache vs what we shall saye vnto him: for we are vnneete to frame our talke because of (l) darkenesse.

20 Shall it be tolde him what I saye: Shall man speake when he shalbe destroyed:

21 For men see not the light that shineth in the cloudes: but the winde passeth and cleanseth them.

22 The faire weather commeth out of the north, the prayse thereof is to God Who is terrible.

23 It is the almightie, we can not finde him out: he is excellent in power and iudgement, and aboundaunt in iustice: he afflicteth not.

24 Let men therefore (m) feare him: for there shall no man see him that is wyse in his owne conceit.

(a) That is, Gods wōderful creatures, as the thunder and lightning.
(b) As though he would say, the thunder is the dreadfull voyce of God.
(c) Which workes are as it were a confirmation of gods maiestie: for alloone as the thunder commeth, they flee for feare, wherein they declare their owne weakenes, and do witnesse a maiestie of God on hye.
(d) Not onely man, but beastes also are witnesses of gods power and maiestie, whē they runne to their dennes for feare of the thunder.
(e) Meaning, the windes which are called the breathes of God, which as they blow whot or colde so they frize or thawe the waters, making them lesser and greater.
(f) That is, to gather vapours frō the earth, and to powre them downe as gods pleasure, to the watering of the same.
(g) That is, he scatereth the cloudes abroade with the lightnings that are inclosed therein.
(h) Gods creatures are at his becke to do his pleasure, either to plague any lande of his, or to do good vnto any.
(i) That is, the lightening.
(k) For the clearenes or brightnes of them.
(l) That is, of our ignorauncs.
(m) Meaning to Iob.

¶ The. xxxviii. Chapter.

God speaketh to Iob and declareth the weakenes of man in the consideration of his creatures, by whose excellencie the power, iustice, and prouidence of the creator is knowen.

1 THen aunswered the Lorde vnto Iob out of the (a) whirle winde, and saide:

2 What is he that (b) darkeneth his counsaile by wordes without knowledge:

3 Girde vp thy (c) loynes lyke a man: for I wyl question with thee, see thou geue me a direct aunswere.

4 Where wast thou when I (d) layed the foundations of the earth: Tell playnely, if thou hast vnderstanding.

5 Who hath measured it, knowest thou: or who hath (e) spread the lyne vpon it:

6 Whereupon are the (f) foundations set: or who layed the (g) corner stone thereof:

7 Where

(a) To shewe his maiestie, and to reprehend Iob before whom he is.
(b) That is, speaketh so rashly and vnaduisedly.
(c) That is, prepare thy selfe to answere.
(d) Inferring by this, that if he could not comprehende gods excellent workes, much lesse his vnsearchable wysdome.
(e) That is, compassed the earth with his bondes.
(f) Meaning, the handes of God, which holde vp as a pyller the heauens and the earth that it falleth not.
(g) That is, who layd the foundations of the earth and made it so stedfast that it falleth not.

7 Where wast thou when the morning starres prayſed me together, and all the children of God reioyced triumphantly?
8 Who (h) ſhut the ſea with doores, when it brake foorth as out of the wombe?
9 When I made the cloudes [to be] a couering for it, and (i) ſwadled it with the darke:
10 When I gaue it my commaundement, making doores and barres for it, 11 Saying, Hitherto ſhalt thou come, but no further: and here ſhalt thou laye downe thy proude and hie waues.
12 Haſt thou geuē the morning his charge ſince thy dayes, and ſhewed the day ſpring his place,
13 That it might take holde of the " corners of the earth, and that the vngodly might be ſhaken out of it.
14 (k) They are faſhioned as is the clay with the ſeale, and all ſtand vp as a garment.
15 The vngodly ſhall be diſapointed of their light, and " the arme of the proude ſhalbe broken.
16 (l) Cameſt thou euer into the " grounde of the ſea, or walkedſt in the lowe corners of the deepe?
17 Haue the gates of death ben opened vnto thee? or haſt thou ſeene the doores of the ſhadowe of death?
18 Haſt thou alſo perceaued how brode the earth is? If thou haſt knowledge of all this:
19 Then ſhewe me the way where light dwelleth, & where is the place of darke-neſſe?
20 That thou ſhouldeſt receaue it in the boundes thereof, and know the pathes to their houſes.
21 Knewеſt thou afore thou waſt borne how olde thou ſhouldeſt be?
22 (m) Wenteſt thou euer into the treaſures of the ſnow, or haſt thou ſeene the ſecrete places of the hayle, 23 Which I haue prepared againſt the time of trouble, againſt the time of battaile and warre?
24 By what way is the light parted? and into what land breaketh the eaſt winde?
25 Who deuideth the waters into diuers chanels? or who maketh a way for the lightening and thunder, 26 To cauſe it to rayne on the earth where no man is, and in the wilderneſſe where none inhabiteth?
27 To ſatisfie the deſolate and waſte grounde, and to cauſe the budde of the hearbe to ſpring foorth.
28 Who is the (n) father of the rayne? or who hath begotten the droppes of the deawe?
29 Out of whoſe wombe came the yce?
who hath gendred the " coldneſſe of the ayre?
30 That the waters are " hidde as [with] a ſtone, and lye congealed aboue the deepe.
31 Wylt thou binder the ſweete influences of the ſeuen ſtarres? or looſe the bandes of Orion?
32 Canſt thou bring foorth Mazzaroth in their time? canſt thou alſo guide Arcturus with his ſonnes?
33 Knowеſt thou the courſe of heauen, that thou mayeſt ſet vp (o) the ordi-naunce thereof vpon the earth?
34 Moreouer, canſt thou lift vp thy voyce to the cloudes, that they may powre downe a great rayne vpon thee?
35 Canſt thou ſend the lightninges alſo, that they may go their way, and be obedient vnto thee, ſaying, Lo here are we?
36 Who hath put wyſdome in the reynes?
or who hath geuen the heart vnder-ſtanding?
37 Who numbreth the cloudes in wyſdome? Who ſtilleth the behement " waters of the heauen?
38 (p) To cauſe the earth to grow into hard-neſſe, & the clots to cleaue faſt together?
39 (q) Wylt thou hunt the pray for the lion?
or fill the appetite of the lions whelpes, 40 When they couche in their places, and tarie in the couert to lye in wayte?
41 Who prouideth meate for the rauen, when his young ones crye vnto God,
and flee about for lacke of meate?

¶ The

(h) That is, who after the creation ſhut vp the ſeas within their limits, as with doores?
(i) As though the houge ſeas were but a weake childe in gods hand, to rule at his pleaſure.
" Or, ſwinges.
(k) Though the vngodly truſt in their eſtate to endure long, yet they ſhalbe as weake as clay, and as a garment ſhall ſoone periſhe.
" Or, the high arme.
(l) I iudge ought to be ſkilfull in the cauſe that he iudgeth: but ſeeing thou knowеſt none of theſe thinges that are viſible, ſohy wylt thou preſume to iudge of thinges inuiſible?
" Or, bottome.
(m) No man can go in the place where the ſnowe is gendred: much leſſe may Job clyme vp to heauen to know gods ſecretes.
(n) Meaning, God is the creator and maker of all thinges.
" Or, froſt of the heauen.
" Or, Stone vnto me, hard.
(o) The diſtinct.
* Or, bottels.
(p) For ſo groweth the earth by the meanes of rayne.
(q) After he had declared his meruailes about, he commeth to the earthly creatures, as though God ſhould ſay, the thinges on the cloudes are vnknowen to thee, yea euen thinges on earth thou canſt not do, how much leſſe then durſt thou to reache to gods ſecret wyſdome.

The .xxxix. Chapter.

1 The bountie and prouidence of God, which extendeth euen to beastes, geueth man full occacion to put his confidence in God.

1 KNowest thou the time whē the wylde goates bring foorth their young among the stonye rockes? or (a) layest thou wayte when the hindes vse to calue?
2 Canst thou number the monethes that they go with young? or knowest thou the time when they bring foorth?
3 They lye downe, they calue their young ones, and they are deliuered of their trauaile and paine:
4 Yet their young ones growe vp, and ware fatte through good feeding with corne: They go foorth, and returne not againe vnto them.
5 Who letteth the wylde asse to go free? or who looseth the bondes of the wylde mule?
6 Euen I which haue geuen the wylderneſſe to be their houſe, and the (b) vntilled land to be their dwelling.
7 They (c) force not for the multitude of people in the citie, neither regarde the crying of the driuer:
8 But seeke their pasture about the mountaines, and followe the greene graſſe.
9 Wyll the (d) vnicorne do thee seruice, or abide still by thy cribbe?
10 Canst thou binde the yoke about the vnicorne in the forowe, to make him plowe after thee in the valleyes?
11 Wayst thou trust him because he is strong, or commit thy labour vnto him?
12 Wayst thou beleue him that he wyll bring home thy " corne, or carry any thing vnto thy barne?
13 Gauest thou the faire winges vnto the peacockes, or winges and fethers vnto the Eſtriche?
14 For she leaueth her egges in the earth, and heateth them in the duſt.
15 She remembreth not that they might be troden with feete, or broken with some wilde beaste.
16 So harde is she vnto her young ones as though they were not hers, and (e) laboureth in vaine without any feare.
17 And that because God hath (f) taken wyſdome from her, & hath not geuen her vnderstanding.
18 When her time is that she fleeth vp on hie, she careth neither for the horſe nor the ryder.
19 (g) Hast thou geuē the horſe his strength, or learned him to ney corragiously?
20 Canst thou make him afrayde as a grashopper? where as the stoute neying that he maketh is fearefull.
21 He breaketh the grounde with the hooffes of his feete, he reioyceth chearefully in his strength, and runneth to meete the harneſt men.
22 He layeth aside all feare, his stomacke is not abated, neither starteth he backe for any ſwoorde.
23 Though the quiuers rattle vpon him, though the speare and shielde glister:
24 Yet ruſheth he in fiercely beating the grounde, he thinketh it not the noyse of the trumpettes:
25 But when the trumpettes make moſt noyse, he saith, " tuſhe, for he smelleth the battaile a farre of, the noyse of the captaines and the shouting.
26 Commeth it through thy wyſdome that the Goſhauke flieth toward the (h) south?
27 Doth the Egle mount vp, and make his nest on hye at thy cōmaundement?
28 He abydeth in stony rockes, and dwelleth vpon the hye toppes of moūtaines:
29 From whence he seeketh his praye, and loketh farre about with his eyes.
30 His young ones also ſucke vp blood: and where any dead body lyeth, there is he.

(a) The chiefe by reason of such beastes, for they bring foorth their youngelinges with greatest paine.

(b) Some reade, salt places meaning barreine grounde.

(c) For the vse of the asse is of all beastes most vntameable.

(d) If thou canst not rule the vnicorne, canst thou draw gods secretes, or appoynt him to be thy ſeruile

" Or, seeke.

(e) The Eſtriche, when she hath hatched her egges, hydeth them in the sande, and by the heate of the sunne the young are brought forth, but she leaueth the egges as carelesse, forgetting the place where she put them, and so her labour is vaine.

(f) To be naturall toward her owne.

(g) Thus in all creatures, the glory of gods maieſtie is declared.

" Or, ha ha.

(h) That is, flee into the regions that are wel, or when colde commeth.

¶ The

¶ The .xl. Chapter.

2 How weake mans power is, being compared to the woꝛkes of God. 10 Whose power appeareth in the creation and gouerning of the great beastes.

1 Moreouer the Lorde spake vnto Job, and saide:
2 Shall he whom the almightie wyl chasten, contend with him: Should not he which disputeth with God, geue him an answere:
(a) Here Job confesseth his offence, and durst not speake: for when God doth reprehend, who can answere
3 Then Job (a) answered the Lorde, saying:
4 Beholde, I am vyle, what shall I answere thee, [therefore] I wyll laye my hande vpon my mouth.
5 Once haue I spoken, but I wyll saye no more: yea twyse, but I wyl proceede no further.
6 Then answered the Lorde vnto Job out of the whirle winde, and saide:
7 Girde vp thy loynes now lyke a man: I wyll demaunde of thee, and make thou answere.
(b) Meaning, that for a man to accompt him selfe iust, is to accuse God for vniust.
8 Wylt thou (b) disanul my iudgement: or wylt thou condempne me, that thou mayst be righteous:
" Or, arme.
9 Is thy " power then lyke the power of God: maketh thy voyce a sounde as his doth:
(c) Which no man is able to do, for these thynges are onely pertayning to God.
10 Decke thy selfe now with excellencie and maiestie, and araye thy selfe with (c) beautie and glory:
11 Cast abrode the indignation of thy wrath, and beholde euery one that is proude, and abase him:
12 Loke on euery one that is arrogant, and bring him lowe, & destroy the wicked in their place:
(d) That is, cause them to dye, if it lye in thy power.
13 Hide them in the dust together, and couer their faces in (d) secrete:
(e) Which God can onely do, and therefore trusting in thyne owne strength, thou compareste with God.
14 Then wyll I confesse vnto thee also, that (e) thyne owne right hande shall saue thee.
(f) The Hebrues say, Behemoth signifieth an Olyphant, & is also for his hugenesse, by the which may be vnderstand the deuill.
15 Beholde the beaste (f) Behemoth, whō I made with thee, which eateth haye as an oxe:
16 Lo how his strength is in his loynes, and what power he hath in the [illegible] of his body.
17 When he wyll, he spreadeth out his tayle lyke a Cedar tree, all his sinowes are stiffe.
18 His bones are lyke pipes of brasse, yea his bones are lyke staues of iron.
19 He is the chiefe of the wayes of God, he that made him wyl make his sword to approche vnto him.
20 Surely the mountaines bring him foorth grasse, where all the beastes of the fielde take their pastime.
21 He resteth him in the shade, in the couerte of the reede and fennes.
22 The trees couer him with their shadowe, and the wyllowes of the brooke compasse him about.
23 Beholde, he drinketh vp whole ryuers and feareth not, he thinketh that he can drawe vp Jordane into his mouth.
(g) Strongly, he is inuisible amongst men, yet God can hyssel him.
24 He taketh it with his eyes, and yet the hunter putteth (g) a bridle into his nose.
(h) Leuiathan is a whale.
25 Canst thou drawe out (h) Leuiathan with an hooke, or binde his tongue with a corde:
26 Canst thou put a hooke in the nose of him, or bore his iawe through with a " naule:
" Or, ryng.
27 Wyl he make many faire wordes with thee [thinkest thou] or flatter thee:
28 Wyll he make a couenaunt with thee: or wilt thou take him for a seruaunt for euer:
29 Wylt thou take thy pastime with him as with a birde, wilt thou binde him for thy maydens:
30 That thy companions may make a refection of him: or shall he be parted among the marchauntes:
(i) For it is dangerous to trust Satan in any thing, yea it is hurtfull to touch him, by Leuiathan we vnderstand Satan.
31 Canst thou fil the basket with his skin: or the fishe panier with his head:
32 Laye thyne hande vpon him, remember the battaile, and do no more so.
33 Beholde his hope is in vaine: for shall not one perishe euen at the sight of him:

¶ The .xli. Chapter.

1 By the greatnesse of this monster Leuiathan, God sheweth his greatnes and his power, which nothing can resist.

(a) If the monster can not be resisted, how can men withstand him?

1 NO (a) man is so fierce that dare stirre him vp:
who is able to stande
2 before me:
Or who hath geuen me any thyng afore-hande, that I may re-warde him againe: All thinges vnder

3 I will not keepe secrete his great strength, his power, nor his comely proportion.
4 Who can discouer the face of his garment: or who shall come to him with a double bridle:
(b) That is, who dare take in his mouth.
5 who (b) shall open the doores of his face: for he hath horrible teeth round about.
6 His scales are as it were strong shieldes, so fastened together as if they were sealed:
7 One is so ioyned to another, that no
ayre can come in:
8 Yea, one hangeth so vpon another, & sticketh so together, that they can not be sundred.
(c) That is, his eyelids and lames of fire out of his mouth.
" Or the rayes of the morning.
9 His (c) neesinges make a glistering like fyre, and his eyes lyke the " morning shine.
10 Out of his mouth go torches, and sparkes of fire leape out.
11 And out of his nostrels there goeth a smoke, lyke as out of an hotte seething pot, or caldron.
(d) For Satan is the prince of the world, who became by mans fall Christs ouerthrowe his kingdome by his passion.
12 His breath maketh the coles burne, and the flambe goeth out of his mouth.
13 In his (d) necke ther remaineth strength, and nothing is so labourous for him.
14 The members of his body are ioyned
(so strait one to another,) and cleaue so fast together, that he cannot be moued.
15 His (e) heart is as hard as a stone, and as fast as " the stythie that the smyth smiteth vpon.
16 When he goeth the mightie are afraide, and feare troubleth them.
17 If any man draw out a sword at him, it shall not hurt him: there may neither speare, taueling, nor brestplate abide him.
18 He setteth asmuch by iron as by a straw, and asmuch by brasse as by a rotten sticke.
19 He starteth not away from him that bendeth the bowe: as for sling stones he careth asmuch for stouble as for thē.
20 He counteth the dartes no better then a straw, he laugheth him to scorne that shaketh the speare.
21 (f) Sharpe stones are vnder him lyke potsheardes, and he lyeth vpon sharpe thinges as vpon the soft myre.
22 He maketh the (g) deepe to boyle lyke a pot, and stirreth the sea together lyke an oyntment.
23 He maketh the (h) path to be seene after him, and he maketh the deepe to seeme all hoarie.
24 Vpon earth there is no power lyke vnto his: for he is so made that he feareth not.
25 He beholdeth all the hye thinges, (i) he is a king ouer all the children of pride.
(e) Satan is called hard of heart, because he is vnmercifull, cruell, and vntreatable.
" Or, the heather millstone.
(f) For the hardnesse of his skin is such, that he lyeth vpon it without paine, as in the soft myre.
(g) He ipounteth out the water in such sorte, that the seas seeme to boyle.
(h) With a white froth vpon the water.
(i) He despiseth all, and is proudest of all.

¶ The .xlij. Chapter.

6 The repentaunce of Iob. 9 He prayeth for his friendes, 12 and his goodes are restored double vnto him.

1 THen Iob aun-swered the Lord,
2 and saide:
I (a) know that thou hast power
ouer all thinges, and that there is no thought hid vnto thee.
(a) Iob confesseth the omnipotencie of God, and perceiueth his offence that he spake he knew not.
3 For who can keepe his owne counsaile so secrete but it shalbe knowen: Therefore haue I spoken that I vnderstoode not, euen the thinges that are to won-derfull for me, and passe myne vnder-standing.
4 O (b) hearken thou vnto me also, and let me speake: aunswere vnto the thing that I will aske thee.
(b) Iob desireth to learne of God.

5 I haue heard of thee by the hearing of the eare, but nowe myne eye (c) seeth thee.

(c) He sawe him not but by his worde, which is the face and image of God, as Christe.

6 Wherefore I gene myne owne selfe the blame, and take (d) repentaunce in the dust and asshes.

(d) As the maner of mourners was then that repented.

7 Now when the Lorde had spoken these wordes vnto Job, it came to passe that the Lorde saide to Eliphas the Themanite: I (e) am displeased with thee, and thy two frendes: for ye haue not spoken of me the thyng that is right, lyke as my (f) seruaunt Job hath done.

(e) Because they defended the iustice of God with carnall reasons.

(f) For Job offended of ignorance.

8 Therefore take you now seuen oxen, and seuen rammes, and go (g) to my seruaunt Job, and offer vp for your selues a burnt offring, and my seruaunt Job shall pray for you: him wyll I accept, and not deale with you after your foolishnesse, in that ye haue not spoken of me the thing which is right, lyke as my seruaunt Job hath done.

(g) Reconciling your selues to him, in that ye haue done him offence, and then wyll I here him for you.

9 So Eliphas the Themanite, and Bildad the Suhite, and Sophar the Naamathite, went and did according as the Lorde commaunded them: the Lorde also accepted " the person of Job,

" Or, the face.

10 And the Lorde (h) tourned the captiuitie of Job when he prayed for his friendes: yea the Lorde gaue Job twyse as much as he had afore.

(h) He ridde him from his troubles and plagues.

11 And then came there vnto him (i) all his brethren, all his sisters, and all they that had ben of his acquaintaunce (k) afore, and did eate bread with him in his house, and had compassion on him, and comforted him ouer all trouble that the Lorde had brought vpon him: euery man also gaue him a certaine summe of money, and " a iewell of golde.

(i) That is, all they that were of his kinred.

(k) Here is the exceeding blessinges of God towardes the godly, and they that be tayne thy trust in him.

" Or, an earring.

12 So the Lorde blessed the last dayes of Job more then the first: for he had fourteene thousand sheepe, sixe thousand camels, a thousand yoke of oxen, and a thousand she asses:

13 He had seuen sonnes also, and three daughters.

14 The first daughter called he (l) Jemima, the second (m) Kezia, and the third (m) Kerenhapuch.

(l) Passing in beautie as the day, and long lyuing.

(m) As sweete as cassia, or fine spices.

15 In al the land were no women found so faire as the daughters of Job: and their father gaue them inheritaunce among their brethren.

(n) The childe of beautie.

16 After this liued Job an hundred and fourtie yeres: so that he sawe his children, and his childrens children into the fourth generation.

Gen.l.d. Tob.14.2. Psal.128.

17 And so Job dyed, being olde, and " of a perfect age.

" Or, full of yeres.

¶ A Prologue of saint Basill the great, vpon the Psalmes.

DAVID that notable king and prophete, a man singulerly chosen of almightie God after his owne heart, being indued both with the knowledge of his creatur, and with the knowledge of him selfe, and being throughly exercised in the whole state of his life with the experience of the world: uttreth his sundry affections (as his occasions serued him) in this his booke of psalmes, a booke set out with diuers names, but sounding all to one thing. The Hebrues name it Telhillim ספר תהלות & ספר תלים that is to say, a boke of laudes and hymnes. The Greeke expresse it by the name of a musicall instrument ψαλτηριου so called. Our Sauiour Christe calleth it a booke of psalmes (as his disciple Peter doth the same.) Some intituleth it, liber contemplationum, siue soliloquiorum: A booke of contemplations or secrete meditations, whereby the godly speaketh solitarily and alone to almightie God: A booke of holy scripture, no doubt most comfortable in doctrine, high in misterie, and profounde in sense: but yet familier and ready to be vnderstanded of the true christen heart. To the diligent vsing of which booke, the holy Apostle saint Paule by graue aduisement, no lesse then in two of his epistles exhorteth vs, saying in the one thus: Let the worde of Christe dwell in you richly, in all wysdome (thereof) teaching and admonishing your selues in psalmes and hymnes and spirituall songes, singing with grace in your hearttes to the Lorde. An admonition so serious ought not to be contempned. Now forasmuch as the vse of the psalmes hath a speciall peculiar grace aboue all other partes of scripture, therefore it ought of all other chiefely to be esteemed, and duely to be vsed, as euermore in the Church of God, aswell of the olde people of Israel, as of the new people of the christians, it hath ben in most frequent vse and reuerence. Furthermore all Act.xiiii. Luk.xx. Act.i. Ephe.v. Colm. Basil.

maner of scripture, so much as is profitable for instruction) is expressed by the determination of the holy ghost, to the intent that all men should gather out thereof (as out of a store house of physicke for the soule) peculiar remedies, euery one of vs for our owne infirmities: for such physicke (as one writeth) will restraine great and many sinnes. Now whereas the prophetes haue doctrine proper to them selues, and the bookes of the diuine historyes matter by them selues, the law haue his peculiar fourme of teaching, and the prouerbiall bookes haue their seuerall kinde of exhortations: The booke of the psalmes comprehendeth in it selfe the whole commoditie of all their doctrines aforesaide, for it prophecieth of thinges to come, it recyteth the histories, it geueth lawe for the gouernaunce of lyfe, it teacheth what ought to be done: and to be short, it is a common storehouse of all good doctrine, which doth apply distribute matter conuenient for euery man peculiar to him self: for it healeth not only olde festured woundes of the soule, but also can geue quicke remedie to such as be newly made. It slayeth and consumeth that member which is sicke and corrupt, and preserueth that which is whole and sounde, it plucketh vp by the rootes (as much as is possible) all such euill affections as do raigne so tirannically in the whole course of mans lyfe, which effect it worketh as it were with a greeable delectation, instilling pleasantly into our hearte all sober honestie. For where as the holy ghoste perceaued that mankinde was hardly trayned to vertue, and that we be very negligent in thinges concerning the true lyfe in deede, by reason of our inclination to worldly pleasures and delectations: What hath he inuented? He hath mixt in his fourme of doctrine the delectation of musicke, to the intent that the commoditie of the doctrine might secretly steale into vs, whyle our eares be touched with the pleasauntnesse of the melodie. Euen much lyke as expert Phisitions vse to do, when they minister their bitter potions to sicke children, lest they should abhorre their health for the bitternes of their drinkes, for the most part they annoynt the brinkes of the cuppes with hony. And for this ende be these sweete and harmonious songes deuised for vs, that such as be children either by age, or children by maners, should in deede haue their soules wholesomly instructed, though for the time they seeme but to sing onely. Furthermore, we see commonly that they which be of the vulgare people, or of rude and grosse nature, can not redyly beare away and kepe in minde the graue preceptes of the Apostles or Prophetes, where yet the deuine psalmes they sing at home in their houses, and abrode they can recorde them. And certainely, though a man were neuer so furiously raging in ire and wrath, yet assone as he heareth the sweete tunes of the psalmes, straight way is he aswaged of his fury, and must depart more quiet in minde by reason of the melody. The psalme is the rest of the soule, the rodde of peace, it stilleth and pacifieth the raging bellowes of the minde, for it doth assuage and mollifie that vrefull power and passion of the soule, it inducth chastitie where raigned wantonnesse, it maketh amitie where was discorde, it knitteth friendes together, it returneth enemies to amitie againe. For who can long repute him as an enemie, with whom he ioyneth him selfe in lyfting vp his voyce to God in prayer? So that the song of the psalme worketh charitie, which is the greatest treasure of all goodnesse that can be, deuising by this enducement of concord singing, the knot and bonde of vnitie, so ioyning the people together after the similitude of a quyer in their vnitie of singing. The psalme is an introduction to beginners, it is a furtherer to them which go forwarde to vertue, it is to the perfect man a stable foundation to rest on: it is the sweete voyce, the only mouth of the spouse of Christe the Church. The psalme doth cheare the feastfull day the better to reioyce, it worketh that same heauinesse which is beauinesse to Godwarde: For the psalme is able to plucke out teares of any mans heart, though it be neuer so stony harde. O wyse and maruelous deuise of our heauenly schoolemaster, who coulde inuent that we shoulde both pleasantly sing and therewith profitably learne, whereby wholsome doctrine might be the deeper printed in vs: for that which with violence and force is learned of vs, is not wont to abide long: but that which entreth into vs with pleasure, and by louing grace, it continueth the longer in our heartes, it sticketh the faster in our memories. Now as for the matter and content of the psalme, what is there but that a man may learne it there? Is not there to be learned the valiauntnes of fortitude, the righteousnes of iustice? the sobernes of temperaunce? the perfection of prudence, the fourme of penaunce, the measure of patience? Yea and whatsoeuer foundeth to vertue or perfection is it not there taught? In the psalme is contayned absolute diuinitie, both prophecie of Christes comming in the flesshe, the threatfull warninges of the iudgement, the hope of our rysing againe, the feare of Gods punishmentes, the promyses of euerlasting ioy, the reuelation of all misteries: all these be layd and couched vp in the psalter booke, as in a great treasure house common to all men. Which booke the prophete Dauid framed most aptly (among many instrumentes of musicke) to agree with the instrument called the Psalterie: signifying thereby (as I can iudge) the grace of God to come from aboue by the inspiration of the holy ghost. For this only instrument of all other, haue the cause of his sounde from his vpper part, where the harpe or the lute by their wrestes haue their sounde comming foorth out of the lower part of them: but the Psalterie put foorth the sweetenes of his harmonious melodie from the vpper part, teaching vs thereby that we should set our whole studie and meditation in heauenly thinges aboue, and not by the sweetenesse of the tunes to be borne downe to the sensuall affections and delectations of the flesshe.

¶ Saint Austen.

THe sweete tunes O Lord wherto thy holy scriptures geue so liuely a grace, when they be song with the moderate voyce of expert men, I do confesse that they do somwhat delectably stirre me: but yet not for that I would dwell and abide still there, but for that my minde might ryse vpward to godly affection and heauenly deuotion. Notwithstanding, when I feele this in my selfe, that the melodie moueth me more then the matter of the dittie which is song: I confesse then that I offend mortally therein. lib. confes. Cap.

NOW let the gentle reader haue this christian consideration within him selfe, that though he findeth the psalmes of this translation folowing, not so to sounde agreeably to his eares in his wonted wordes and phrases, as he is accustomed with: yet let him not be to much offended with the worke, which was wrought for his owne commoditie and comfort. And if he be learned, let him correct the worde or sentence (which may dislike him) with the better, and whether his note ryseth either of good wyll and charitie, either of enuie and contention not purely, yet his reprehension, if it may turne to the finding out of the trueth, shall not be repelled with griefe, but applauded to in gladnesse, that Christe may euer haue the prayse: To whom with the father and the holy spirite, be all glory and prayse for euer, Amen.

¶ The argument of the first psalme.

¶ The first psalme seemeth to be a preface vnto the residue. It declareth that the iust man only hath the true felicitie in this worlde, whose delight is wholly in practising the lawe of God. As for the vngodly man, although he seeme for a tyme to prosper and to florishe, yet his ende is very miserable and wretched.

1 Blessed is the man that walketh not in the counsell of the vngodly: nor standeth in the way of sinners, nor sitteth in the seate of the scornefull.

2 But his delight [is] in the lawe of God: and in [God] his lawe exercyseth him selfe day and night.

3 And he shalbe lyke a tree planted "by the waters syde, that bryngeth foorth her fruite in due season: and whose leafe wythereth not, for whatsoeuer he doth (a) it shall prosper.

4 [As for] the vngodly [it is] not so [with them:] but they [are] like the chaffe which the winde scattereth abrode.

5 Therefore the vngodly shall not [be able to] "stande in the iudgement: neither the sinners in the congregation of the righteous.

6 For God (b) knoweth the way of the righteous: and the way of the vngodly shall perishe.

"Neare to the riuers of water.

(a) Following his vocation.

"Shall not" rise.

(b) Approueth.

¶ The argument of the. ij. psalme.

¶ All conspiracies of the Gentiles, Jewes, Princes, Magistrates, and Kinges, against Christe, be but altogether vayne, for God hath marueylously appointed hym Lorde and king ouer al people, to the vtter confusion of his aduersaries. An exhortation to Kinges and Judges for to be learned, for to serue God, and for to receaue his sonne Christe: for happy are they that trust in hym.

1 Why do the heathen so furiously rage together: and why do the people imagine a vayne thing?

2 The kynges of the earth stande vp: and the rulers take counsell together against god, and against his annointed.

3 (a) Let vs breake [say they] their bondes a sunder: and cast away their cordes from vs.

4 He that dwelleth in heauen wyll laugh them to scorne: the Lorde wyll haue them in derision.

5 Then wyll he speake vnto them in his wrath: and he wyll astonie them with feare in his sore displeasure.

6 [Saying] (b) euen I haue annointed [him] my kyng: vpon my holy hyll of Sion.

7 I wyll declare the decree, God sayde vnto me: thou art my sonne, this day I haue begotten thee.

8 Desire of me, and I wyll geue thee the heathen for thyne inheritaunce: and the vttermost partes of the earth for thy possession. B

9 Thou shalt bruise them with a rod of iron: and breake them in peeces like a potters vessell.

10 Wherfore be you nowe wel aduised O ye kinges: be you learned ye [that are] iudges of the earth.

11 Serue ye God in feare: and reioyce ye with a trembling.

12 Kisse ye the sonne lest that he be angrye, and [so] ye perishe [from] the (c) way, if his wrath be neuer so litle kindled: blessed are all they that put their trust in hym.

(a) The vngodly mayden.

(b) Or the kinges mayden.

(c) That leadeth to heauen

¶ The argument of the. iij. pſalme

¶ Dauid maruayling at the great number of his enemies, calleth vpon God for helpe. He putteth his truſt in God, and therfore he feareth not his aduerſaries, but he reioyceth at the ſucceſſe that God geueth vnto hym.

¶ A pſalme of Dauid when he fled from the face of Abſalom his ſonne. 2. Samu. cap. 15. & 16.

A 1 O God howe are myne enemies increaſed: many do ryſe vp againſt me.
2 Many ſay of (a) my ſoule: there is no ſaluation for it in God. (b) Selah.
3 But thou O God art a buckler for me: thou art my worſhip, and the lifter vp of my head.
4 I dyd call vpon God with my voyce, and he hearde me out of his holy hyll. Selah.
5 I layde me downe and ſlept: and I roſe vp agayne, for God ſuſtayned me. B
6 I wyll not be afrayde of ten thouſandes of the people: that haue ſet [themſelues] againſt me rounde about.
7 Ariſe vp O God, ſaue thou me O my Lorde: for thou haſt ſmitten all myne enemies vpon the cheeke bone, thou haſt broken the teeth of the vngodly.
8 Saluation is of God: thy bleſſing is vpon thy people. Selah.

(a) Of me. (b) Selah ſignifieth a lifting vp of the voyce, it admoniſhed the ſingers of the pſalmes to ſing out in their hyeſt tune, becauſe the matter of that part of the pſalme where that worde is founde, was eſpecially to be hearkened vnto, and to be conſidered.

¶ The argument of the. iiij. pſalme

¶ Dauid at the rebellion of his ſonne Abſalom, cryeth to God for helpe. He reproueth the chiefe doers of his aduerſaries, and exhorteth them to repent. He is glad that they haue plentie of victuals and other neceſſaries, ſeyng that he him ſelfe is aſſured of God his fauour.

¶ To the O chiefe muſition on O Neginoth, a pſalme of Dauid.

1 HEare me when I call O God (a) of my righteouſneſſe: thou haſt ſet me at libertie when I was in diſtreſſe.
2 O ye ſonnes of (b) men, how long [wyll ye go about to bryng] my glory to confuſion: ye loue vanitie, ye ſeeke after lyes. Selah.
3 For ye muſt know that God hath choſen to him ſelfe a godly [man]: God wyl heare when I call vnto hym.
4 Be ye angry, but ſinne not: commune with your owne heart in your chaumber, and be ſtyll. Selah.
5 Offer the ſacrifice of righteouſneſſe: and put your truſt in God.
6 There be many that ſay, Who wyll ſhewe vs [any] (c) good: O God lift thou vp the light of thy countenaunce vpon (d) vs.
7 Thou haſt put gladneſſe in my heart: ſince the time that their corne and wine increaſed.
8 I wyll lay me downe in peace and take my reſt: for thou God only makeſt me to dwell in ſafetie.

(a) The geuer and defender of my righteouſneſſe. (b) The chiefe of the conſpiracie.

O) It was he to whom the pſalmes were committed, either to be ſong of hym ſelfe, for that he was moſt excellent in muſicke, or els to appoint thoſe that ſhoulde ſing and play them.

() Neginoth is ſuppoſed to be a certayne inſtrument of muſicke: for hyng Dauid ordayned in the temple, not only ſome to ſing pſalmes, but alſo to play thē on diuers kindes of muſicall inſtrumentes, that the hearers mindes might be the more ſtyrred by and allured to conſider the ſenſe of the wordes that were ſong and played.

(c) Many of the rebels wiſhes not only to ſee me caſt out of my kyngdome cleane: but to be vtterly deſtroyed, as though therby they ſhoulde proſper and ſee good dayes. (d) Vs and them.

The argument of the. v. pſalme.

¶ Dauid afflicted with enemies, requireth God to heare his prayers, to guide him, and to deſtroy wicked flattering rebels, truſting moſt aſſuredly that the godly ſhall be of hym defended and bleſſed.

¶ To the chiefe muſition vpon O Nehiloth, a pſalme of Danid.

1 GEue eare vnto my wordes O God: vnderſtande thou my penſiuneſſe.
2 Hearken thou vnto the voyce of my crying my kyng and my Lorde: for vnto thee I wyll make my prayer.
3 Thou ſhalt heare my voyce betymes O God: I wyll early in the morning direct [a prayer] vnto thee, and I wyll looke [for helpe from thee.]
4 For thou art the Lorde that hath no pleaſure in wickedneſſe: neither can any euyll dwell with thee.
5 Suche as be fooliſhe, can not ſtande in thy ſight: thou hateſt all workers of iniquitie.
6 Thou wilt deſtroy them that make a lye: God wyll abhorre both the bloodthirſtie and deceytfull man.

() A notable inſtrument of muſicke, ſo named, for that in ſounde it reſembled ſomwhat the noyſe of bees.

A

7 As for me I wyll come into thyne house, [trusting] in the multitude of thy mercy: and in thy feare I will (a) humble my selfe in thyne holy temple.

8 Leade me O God in thy righteousnesse, because of myne enemies: make thy way playne before my face.

9 For no "trueth is in "their mouth, their inwarde partes are very wickednesse: their throte is an open sepulchre, they flatter with their tongue.

10 Destroy thou them O Lord, let them perishe through their owne counsailes: cast them out in the multitude of their vngodlinesse, for they haue "rebelled against thee.

11 And all they that trust in thee wyll reioyce, they wyll triumph for euer, "because thou defendest them: and they that loue thy name, wyll be ioyfull in thee.

12 For thou O God wylt blesse the righteous: and thou wylt compasse hym about with beneuolence, as with a shielde.

"Made manye aulterations, that is, they haue ben nowe of one minde, and nowe of another as touching thee and thy worde.

"And thou wylt put a couer ouer them.

The argument of the. vj. psalme.

¶ Dauid besecheth God of his mercy to mitigate the afflictions whiche he felt in his body and soule, to this ende, that he in this lyfe might prayse God: And forsomuch as he assureth him selfe that God hath hearde his prayer, he pronounceth that his enemies shall be put to shame.

¶ To the chiefe musition on Neginoth vpon Oeyght, a psalme of Dauid.

A 1 O God rebuke me not in thine indignation: neither chasten me in thy wrath.

2 Haue mercy on me O God, for I am weake: O God heale me, for my bones be very sore.

3 My soule also is greatly troubled: but O God howe long [shall I be in this case?]

4 Turne thee O God, and deliuer my soule: Oh saue me for thy mercies sake.

5 For in death no man remembreth thee: and in the graue who can acknowledge thee?

6 I am weerie of my groning: I washe my bed euery nyght, and I water my couche with my teares.

7 Mine eye is almost put out through griefe: and worne out through all mine enemies.

8 Away from me all workers of iniquitie: for God hath hearde the voyce of my weeping.

9 God hath hearde my petition: God wyll receaue my prayer.

10 All myne enemies shalbe confounded and sore vexed: they shalbe turned backe, they shalbe put to shame sodainlye.

Oeyther the instrument of musike Neginoth had eyght strings, or els the song had many eyghtes.

B

The argument of the. vij. psalme.

¶ Dauid prayeth God to deliuer him from such as do persecute him to death for that he is innocent and hath deserued no suche thing at their handes: comforting him selfe therfore in God, he threatneth destruction to his enemies.

¶ OSiggaion of Dauid, whiche he song vnto God in the busines of Chus, the sonne of Iemini.

A 1 O God my Lord, in thee I haue put my trust: saue me from all them that do persecute me, and deliuer thou me.

2 Lest (a) he like a Lion seaseth on my soule: teareth it in peeces, hauyng no reskue.

3 O God my Lord, if I haue done any (b) such thing: or if there be any wickednesse in my handes.

4 If I haue done euyll vnto hym that had peace with me: and [if] I haue [not] deliuered hym that is without a cause myne aduersarie:

5 [Then] let myne enemie persecute my soule and take me: yea, let hym "put me to death, and lay myne honour in the dust. Selah.

6 Arise O God in thy wrath, and (c) stand thou vp agaynst the rage of myne enemies: stirre thou for me [according] to the (d) iudgement [whiche] thou hast "geuen.

7 And

O Siggaion is taken to be a begynning of a song, after whose tune this psalme was song.

"Treade my life vnder foote.

(c) Shewe thy power. (d) Thou hast appoynted the kingdome of the Israelites vnto me.

"Commaũded.

7 And so shall the congregation of the people come about thee: for their sakes therfore place thy selfe on (c) high.

He imputeth this Gods fauour towardes hym to proceede of that he loued Gods woꝛde, ryght dealyng, and honeſt companie. Thus encouraged with Gods preſence and ayde, he maketh ſure count, not only to ouerrunne and deſtroy his enemies and rebelles: but alſo to ſubdue vnto hym other nations of the heathen, that God amongſt them alſo may be prayſed.

¶ The argument of the.xxiij. Psalme.

David resemblyng God to a sheephearde and hym selfe to a sheepe, declareth that all commodities, plentie, quietnesse and prosperitie, ensueth them that be fully perswaded of Gods prouidence: for God feedeth, norisheth, defendeth, and gouerneth those that put their whoell trust in hym after a more ample sort then any sheephearde doth his sheepe.

The argument of the. xxv. Pſalme.

¶ Dauid afflicted with enemies, & feelyng the great burden of ſinne, namely of his youth: prayeth God partly to delyuer hym, partly to teache hym and to pardon his offences. ¶ Dauid brought into that distresse that he had no hope to escape, cryeth to God: he commendeth him selfe wholly to him, he declareth the complaintes, sorowes, and afflictions whiche he felt in that daungerous time, he prayeth for helpe, he wisheth confusion to wicked liers, he rehearseth what good thinges God hath prepared for them that feare him and put their trust in him, he thanketh God for his goodnes towardes him, he exhorteth all men to loue God, and that continually.

It is thought that this psalme pertayneth to the storie. 1. Sam. 23.

¶ To the chiefe musition, a psalme of Dauid.

3 For thou art my strong rocke and fortresse: euen for thy name sake conduct me, and direct me.

4 Take me out of the net that they haue layde priuily for me: for thou art my strength.

5 Into thy hande I commende my spirite: [for] thou hast redeemed me O God the Lorde of trueth.

6 I haue hated them that obserue superstitious vanities: and my trust hath ben in God.

8 Thou hast not shut me vp into the hande of the enemie: [but] hast set my feete in a large roome.

9 Haue mercy vpon me O God, for I am in distresse: mine eye, my soule, and my belly be consumed for very heauinesse.

10 For my life is wasted with sorow, and mine eares with mourning: my strength fayleth me because of mine (a) iniquitie, and my bones are putrified.

11 I became a reprofe among al mine enemies, but especially among my neighbours: and they of mine acquaintaunce were afraide of me, and they that dyd see me without, conueyed them selues quickly fro me.

12 I became cleane forgotten as a dead man out of minde: I became like a broken vessell.

ℭ Dauid setteth forth the exceeding goodnes of God towardes the innocent and iust, and towardes those that worship hym, feare hym, and trust in hym: for God heareth them whensoeuer they call vpon hym in their necessitie, he is present with them in helping, deliuering and defending them. Agayne, he ordereth so seuerely the wicked, that he bringeth them to desolation, that no remembraunce be left once of them.

א 1 I Wyll alway blesse God: his prayse shall euer be in my mouth.
2 My soule shal glory in God: the humble shall heare therof and be glad.
3 Magnifie God with me: and let vs exalt his name [all] together.
4 Carefully I sought God, & he hearde me: yea he deliuered me out of all my feare.
5 Let them turne their eyes on him, and make speede to come vnto hym: and their faces shall not be ashamed.
6 [Lo] this same poore man hath cryed: and God hath hearde hym, and saued hym out of all his troubles.
ב 7 The angell of God campeth rounde about them that feare hym: and deliuereth them.
8 O taste and see how gracious God is: blessed is the man that trusteth in him.
9 Feare God ye that be his saintes: for they that feare him lacke nothing.
10 Young Lions do lacke and suffer hunger: but they whiche seeke God, shall want no maner of thing that is good.
11 Come ye chyldren and hearken vnto me: I will teache you the feare of God.
12 What man is he that listeth to liue: [and] woulde fayne see good dayes.
13 Kepe thy tongue from euill: and thy lippes that they speake no guyle.
14 Eschewe euill & do good: seeke peace and ensue it. ℭ
15 The eyes of God [are] ouer the righteous: and his eares [are open] vnto their prayers.
16 The countenaunce of God is against them that do euill: to roote out the remembraunce of them from of the earth.
17 The righteous crye, and God heareth them: and deliuereth them out of all their troubles.
18 God is nye vnto them that are of a (a) contrite heart: and saueth such as be of an humble spirite.
19 Great are the troubles of the righteous: but God deliuereth him out of all.
20 He kepeth all his bones: so that no one of them is broken.
21 Malice shal put the vngodly to death: and they that hate the righteous, shalbe brought to naught. ד
22 God redeemeth the soules of his seruauntes: and al they that put their trust in him, shall not be brought to naught.

12 Thou haſt delyuered vs as ſheepe to be eaten: and thou haſt ſcattered vs among the heathen.

13 Thou haſt ſolde thy people for naught: and thou haſt taken no money for them.

14 Thou haſt made vs a rebuke to our neighbours: to be laughed to ſcorne and had in deriſion of them that are rounde about vs. C

15 Thou haſt made vs [to be] a (c) fable among the heathen: [and to be ſuch] that the people ſhake their head at vs.

17 [And though] all this be come vpon vs: [yet] we do not forget thee, nor ſhewe our ſelues to be falſe in thy couenaunt.

18 Our heart is not turned backe, neither our ſteppes be declined out of thy pathes: no not when thou haſt ſmitten vs in the place of dragons, and couered vs with the ſhadowe of death.

19 If we had forgotten the name of our Lorde, and holden vp our handes to any ſtraunge god: Woulde not God ſearche it out? for he knoweth the very ſecretes of the heart.

2 I wyll open my mouth in a parable: I wyll declare harde ſentences of the olde tyme paſt.
3 Which We haue hearde and knowen: and ſuch as our fathers haue tolde vs.
4 We wyll not hyde them from their children: nay We wyll ſet foorth in wordes to the generation to come, the prayſes of God, and his myght and wonderfull wonderfull wozkes that he hath done.

5 Foz he reuiued a statute in Jacob, and gaue Jsrael a lawe: in the whiche he commaunded our fozefathers to teache their childzen.
6 To the intent the posteritie shoulde knowe it, [and] childzen whiche shalbe bozne: that they shoulde ryse vp and declare it to their childzen.
B 7 That they shoulde put their trust in God, and not forget the wozkes of God: but kepe his commaundementes.
8 And that they be not as their fozefathers [were] a rebellious and a mutable generation: a generation that directed not their heart aright, and whose spirite cleaued not stedfastly vnto God.
9 [Like as] the childzen of Ephzaim, which beyng harnessed & carying bowes: turned their backes in the day of battayle.
10 They kept not the couenaunt of God: and they woulde not walke in his lawe.
11 But they forgat his wozkes: and his wonders which he had shewed them.
12 Marueylous thinges dyd he in the sight of their fathers: in the land of Egypt, in the fielde "of Zoan.
13 He deuided the sea and let them go thorowe: he made the waters to stande as on an heape.
C 14 In the day time also he led them with a cloude: and all the night through with a light of fire.
15 He cloued the harde rockes in the wildernes: & gaue them drinke therof, as it had ben out of the great deepe waters.
16 He brought running streames out of a stonie rocke: and caused waters to gushe downe, like as out of riuers.
17 Yet for all this they sinned still against hym: so that they prouoked the most hyghest in the wilderneſſe.
18 And they temped god in their heartes: in requiring meate for their "lust.
19 They spake against God: they said, can God prepare a table in the wilderneſſe:
20 Beholde, he hath smytten the stonie rocke, and waters haue gushed out, and streames haue flowed out abundantly: but can he likewise geue bread, can he prouide flesshe for his people:
D 21 Wherefore God hearde [them,] he was wroth, a fire was kindled in Jacob: and there arose vp heauy displeasure against Jsrael.
22 Because they beleued not in the Lord: nor did put their trust in his saluation.
23 And yet he commaunded the cloudes aboue: and opened the doores of heauen.
24 He raigned downe "Manna also vpon them, that they shoulde eate: and gaue them corne from heauen. "Man.
25 [So] man dyd eate the bread of "angels: he sent them meate inough. "or, princes
26 He remoued the east winde from vnder the heauen: and through his power he brought in the south winde.
27 He rained flesshe vpon them as thycke as dust: and fethered foules like as the sande of the sea.
28 He let it fall among their tentes: euen rounde about their paulions.
29 So they dyd eate and were wel filled, for he gaue them their owne desire: neuertheleſſe they were not alienated from their lust.
30 But whyle the meate was yet in their mouthes, the heauy wrath of God came vpon them, and slue the welthyest of them: and made the chosen men of Jsrael to stoupe.
31 For all this they sinned still: and beleued not his wonderous wozkes.
32 Therfore their dayes dyd he consume in vanitie: & their yeres in a short [troublous] time. E
33 When he slue them, they sought hym: they repented them, and (a) made God their mozninges wozke. (a) They rose in the mozning to pray to God.
34 And they remembred that the Lorde was their rocke: & that the Lorde most hyghest was their redeemer.
35 Neuertheleſſe they dyd but flatter him with their mouth: and they made hym a lye with their tongue.
36 For their heart was not vpright with him: neither continued they faythfull in his couenaunt.
37 Yet for all that he beyng most merciful: cleane pardoned all their mysdeedes, and destroyed them not.
38 Yea many a tyme he dyd much for: to represse his anger: and neuer woulde suffer his whole rage to breake out.
39 For he considered that they were but flesshe, and that they were euen a winde that passeth away & cõmeth not againe.
40 How oft dyd they prouoke hym in the wildernes: & greeued hym in the desert:
41 They turned backe and tempted the Lorde: and prescribed (b) boundes to the most holy [God] of Jsrael. (b) As though he were not omnipotent.
42 They thought not of his hande: in the day when he redeemed them from the enemie.

44 For he turned into blood their riuers & fludes: so that they might not drinke.

45 He sent amongst them all kind of flyes who dyd eate them: and frogges who destroyed them.

46 He gaue their fruites vnto the caterpiller: & their labour to the grashopper.

47 He destroyed their vines with hayle stones: and their wilde figge trees with the harde frost.

48 He smote their cattell also with hayle stones: and their flockes with thunder boltes.

49 He cast vpon them the rage of his furie, anger, disdayne, and trouble: by sending foorth euill angels amongst them.

50 He made away to his indignatiõ, & spared not their soule from death: he gaue their lyfe to be subiect to the pestilence.

51 And he smote all the first borne of Egypt: the first fruites of (c) concupiscence in the paulions of (d) Cham.

(c) Or strength, meaning the first borne.
(d) Egypt was named of the sonne of Cham.

52 But as for his owne people, he led them foorth like sheepe: and conducted them through the wildernesse like a flocke of cattell.

53 He brought them out safely that they shoulde not feare: and ouerwhelmed their enemies with the sea.

54 And brought them within the borders of his (e) sanctuarie: euen to this (f) mountayne which his right hand purchased.

(e) Or holy countrey.
(f) So he called Chanaan, because it was full of mountaynes.

55 He dyd cast out the heathen also before them: he caused their land to be deuided among thẽ for an heritage, & made the tribes of Israel to dwell in their tentes.

56 Neuertheless, they tempted and displeased the most highest Lorde: & kept not his testimonies.

57 They turned backe warde, and they went astray like their forefathers: they started aside like a bowe "that breaketh.

"That is vncertaine.

58 For they stirred him to anger with their high places: and prouoked him to iealousie with their carued images.

59 When the Lorde hearde this, he was wroth: & toke sore displeasure at Israel.

60 So that he forsoke the tabernacle in Silo: the paulion where he dwelt amongst men.

61 He deliuered his (g) force into captiuitie: and his glorie into the enemies hande.

(g) Or strength: for the arke was not taken away of the Philistims.

62 He gaue also his people ouer to ỹ sword: and was wroth with his inheritaunce.

63 Fire consumed his young men: and his maydens were not "maryed.

"Prayfed.

64 His priestes were slayne with the sworde: and his wydowes made no lamentation.

65 But the Lorde awaked as though he had slept: like a giaunt making a triumphant noyse after wine.

66 He smote his enemies in the hynder parts: & put them to a perpetual shame.

67 He refused the tabernacle of Joseph: and chose not the tribe of Ephraim.

68 But he chose the tribe of "Juda: euen the hill of Sion which he loued.

"Iehudh.

69 And there he buylded his temple on high: and layde the foundation of it like a grounde euer to continue.

70 He chose also Dauid his seruaunt: and toke hym away from the sheepefoldes.

71 As he was folowing the ewes great with young he toke hym: that he might feede Jacob his people, and Israel his inheritaunce.

72 So he fed them according to the simplicitie of his heart: and guided them by the discretion of his handes.

The argument of the. lxxxix. psalme.

¶ The prophete prayseth the inspeakable goodnes of God, for the couenaunt made to him and to the elect people of God for euer. He prayseth his great power, goodnes, and iustice. He declareth what promise God hath made to hym of his kingdome and posteritie. He complayneth of the great spoyling of his kingdome, and of his people. He desireth God for his couenauntes sake, to deliuer hym out of affliction, vpon the consideration that mans life is very short.

¶ A wyse instruction of Ethan the Ezrachite.

Euening prayer. A 1 I wyll sing allwayes of the mercy of God: with my mouth I wyll make knowen thy trueth from one generatiō to another.

2 For I sayde, mercy shall for euer "endure: thou hast established thy trueth in the heauens.

"Be buylded vp.

3 I haue made a couenaunt with my chosen: I haue sworne vnto Dauid my seruaunt.

4 I wyll establishe thy seede for euer: and buylde vp thy throne from generation to generation. Selah.

5 O God, the very heauens shall confesse thy wonderous workes: and thy trueth in the congregation of saintes.

6 For who is he in the cloudes that shal matche God: [and who] is like vnto God amongst the children gods?

B 7 God is very terrible in the assemblie of saintes: and to be feared aboue al them that are about him.

8 O God, Lorde of hoastes, who is like vnto thee a most mightie Lorde: and thy trueth is on euery side thee.

"The pride 9 Thou rulest the "ragyng of the sea: when her waues aryse, thou delayest them.

10 Thou hast brought Egypt in so bad a case as if it were wounded: thou hast scattered thyne enemies abrode with thy mightie arme.

11 The heauens are thine, the earth also is thine: thou hast layde the foundation of the rounde worlde, and of all the plentie that is therin.

C 12 Thou hast made the north and the south: Tabor and Hermon do reioyce in thy name.

13 Thou hast a mightie arme: thy hand is strong, and thy right hand is exalted.

14 Iustice and iudgement is the foundation of thy throne: mercy and trueth shall go before thy face.

15 Blessed is the people that knoweth a (a) triumphant noyse: O God, they shal walke in the light of thy countenaunce.

(a) He meaneth the ioyful noyse of the trumpet Num. 10. to call the people together. It was an argument of the maiestie and presence of God.

20 I haue founde Dauid my seruaunt: I haue annoynted him with myne holye oyle.

30 But if his children forsake my lawe, and walke not in my iudgement: if they breake my statutes, and kepe not my commaundementes,

31 I will then visite their transgressions with with a rodde: and their wickednesse with stripes.

32 Neuertheles, my louyng kyndnesse I wyll not take vtterly from hym: I wyl "not breake my promise with hym.

33 I wyll not violate my couenaunt: nor alter the thyng that is gone out of my lyppes.

37 But thou hast abhorred & forsakē thine annoynted: & art sore displeased at him.

38 Thou hast broken the couenaunt of thy seruaunt: thou hast disgraced his crowne, [casting it] on the grounde.

39 Thou hast ouerthrowē all his walles: and broken downe his strong holdes.

40 All they that go by the way spoyle hym: he is become a rebuke vnto his neyghbours.

41 Thou hast exalted the ryght hande of his enemies: and made all his aduersaries to reioyce.

42 Thou hast turned the harde edge of his swoorde: and thou hast not lifted him vp in the battayle.

43 Thou hast brought his (c) noble estate to an ende: and hast cast his throne downe to the grounde.

¶ The argument of the .xc. Psalme.

¶ In this prayer he setteth forth the euerlastyng diuinitie of God and his wonderfull prouidence towardes his people. There is also a lamentation of the breuitie & miserie of this present lyfe, the cause wherof is our sinnes. For God displeased with our wickednesse, causeth our dayes of this lyfe to be both short and miserable, which thyng he that considereth, should be incited therby to be wise. Moreouer, there is a petition that God woulde haue pitie of his people, in recompensing the calamities of this life with felicitie in the worlde to come, and so by that meanes he shall make mery his sorowfull seruauntes.

¶ A prayer of Moyses the man of God.

A 1 Morning prayer.

LOrde thou hast ben our habitation: from one generation to another generation.

2 Before the mountaynes were brought forth, or euer the earth & the worlde were made: thou art God both from euerlastyng, and also vntyll euerlastyng.

3 Thou (a) turnest man most miserable euen vnto dust: thou sayest also, O ye children of men returne you into dust.

4 For a thousande yeres in thy syght are but as yestarday that is past: and as a watch in the nyght.

5 Thou makest them to flowe away, they are a sleepe: they be in the morning as an hearbe that "groweth.

6 In the morning it flourisheth and "groweth vp: in the euenyng it is cut downe and wythered.

7 For we be consumed through thy displeasure: and we are astonyed through thy wrathfull indignation.

8 Thou hast set our misdeedes before thee: and our sinnes wherof we be not priuie, in the lyght of thy countenaunce.

¶ The prophete declareth the confidence, trust, safenesse, securitie, and contentation of mynde, that they haue who depende wholy of Gods gouernment & protection, they be without daunger in all aduersitie, no calamitie can hurt them, God mightily preserueth them in all afflictions and temptations. He promiseth those that knowe hym, loue hym, and honour hym, in callyng vpon hym for helpe in their neede, that they shalbe hearde, deliuered, brought to honour, they shall haue long lyfe in this worlde, and after this lyfe, they shalbe saued both body and soule.

¶ The argument of the.xcij.Pſalme.

¶ It ſeemeth that the prophete made this pſalme to be ſong vnto the people vpon the Sabbath dayes, for to ſtirre them vp the better to knowe God, and to prayſe God in his workes. He commendeth the ſettyng forth of Gods prayſe in muſicall inſtrumentes. He reioyceth much and wondereth at Gods workes. But the foole vnderſtandeth not that the wicked, be they neuer ſo fortunate, ſhall come to a wretched ende, for the wicked ſhalbe deſtroyed, and the godly ſhall proſper. The greateſt felicitie that the iuſt hath in this lyfe, is to be planted in the houſe of God, there continually for to prayſe hym.

¶ A Pſalme, the ſong for the ſabbath day.

1 IT is a good thyng to confeſſe vnto God: and to ſyng pſalmes vnto thy name O thou moſt hygheſt.

2 To ſet forth in wordes thy louyng kyndneſſe early in the mornyng: and thy trueth in the nyght ſeaſon.

3 Upon an inſtrument of ten ſtrynges, and vpon the Lute: vpon the Harpe with a ſolemne ſounde.

4 For thou God haſt made me glad thorowe thy Workes: I do reioyce in the workes of thy handes.

5 O God howe glorious are thy workes: thy thoughtes are very depe.

6 An vnwiſe man doth not conſider this: and a foole doth not vnderſtande it.

7 Wheras the vngodly do bud vp greene as the graſſe, and wheras all workers of iniquitie do floriſhe: that they [notwithſtandyng] ſhalbe deſtroyed for euer and euer.

8 But thou O God: art the moſt higheſt for euermore.

9 For lo, thine enemies O God, lo thine enemies ſhall periſhe: & all the workers of wickedneſſe ſhalbe deſtroyed.

10 But my horne ſhalbe exalted lyke the horne of an vnicorne: for I am annoynted with excellent oyle.

11 And myne eye ſhall ſee thoſe that lye in wayte for me: myne eare ſhall heare the malitious perſons that riſe vp agaynſt me.

12 The ryghteous ſhall floriſhe lyke a paulme tree: and ſhall ſpread abroade like a Cedar in Libanus.

¶ The prophete prayſeth the mightineſſe of the maieſtie of God, which is declared from the beginning of the world: partly by the wonderful continuaunce of creatures made in it, and partly by teſtifiyng his wyll, cõmaundementes, and holyneſſe to his people.

The argument of the.cvi.psalme

¶ The prophete exhorteth all men to prayse God, and to do iustly. He maketh his prayer, acknowledging his owne sinnes, and the sinnes of the forefathers of the Israelites, who not considering the great benefites of God, rebelled against God at the red sea. Afterwarde in the wyldernes they did tempt God. Core, Dathan, and Abiram conspiring against Moyses and Aaron, were swalowed vp of the earth. They worshipped a calfe made of golde. They murmured against them that viewed the land of promise, abhorring to heare of it. They sacrifised to Baal Peor. They grudged at God for lacke of water. Finally, when they came to the holy lande, they committed idolatrie, and al kinde of wickednes of life, so that they were geuen vp vnto their enemies handes, but God most mercyfully deliuered them for his promise sake.

6 We haue sinned with our fathers: we haue done amisse and dealt wickedly.

9 And he rebuked the red sea, and it was dryed vp: so he led them through the deepe, as through a wyldernesse.
10 And he saued them from the hande of suche as hated them: & redeemed them from the hande of the enemie.
11 As for their aduersaries the waters ouerwhelmed them: there was not one of them left remayning.
12 Then beleued they his wordes: and song "prayse vnto him.
13 But within a very short whyle they forgat his workes: they woulde not (a) wayte for his counsell.

"Sea, for it was on the ſouth part of Iurie.

4 They went aſtray out of the way in ſolitarines, and in wildernes, and found no citie to dwell in: they were hungry and thirſtie, their ſoule fainted in them.

5 And they cry vnto god in their trouble: who deliuereth them frō their diſtreſſe.

6 And he leadeth them forth by the right way: that they might go to the citie inhabited.

7 O that men would confeſſe vnto God his louyng kindneſſe: and his marueylous actes [done] to the chyldren of men. B

8 For he ſatisfieth the greedie ſoule: and filleth the hungry ſoule with goodnes.

9 Suche as ſit in darkneſſe and in the ſhadowe of death: beyng faſt bounde in miſerie and iron.

10 Becauſe they "went from the wordes of the Lorde: and lightly regarded the counſayle of the moſt higheſt.

"Diſobediently chaunged.

11 Therfore he humbled their heart thorowe heauines: they fall downe, and there is none to helpe them.

12 And they cry vnto god in their trouble: who deliuereth thē out of their diſtreſſe.

13 For

13 For he bringeth them out of darkneſſe and out of the ſhadowe of death: and breaketh their bondes in ſunder.

14 O that men would confeſſe vnto God: his louing kindnes and his marueylous actes [done] to the chyldren of men.

15 For he breaketh the gates of braſſe: & ſmyteth the barres of iron in ſunder.

16 Foolish men are plagued for their miſcheuous wayes: & for their wickednes.

17 Their ſoule abhorreth all maner of meate: and they be euen harde at deathes doore.

18 And they crye vnto God in their trouble: who deliuereth them out of their diſtreſſe.

19 He ſendeth his worde & healeth them: and he maketh them to ſcape ſafe from their (a) corruptnes.

20 O that men would confeſſe vnto God: his louing kindnes and his marueylous actes [done] to the chyldren of men.

21 And that they would offer [vnto him] ſacrifices of "thankes geuing: and ſet forth in wordes his workes with a ioyfull noyſe.

22 Such as go downe to the ſea in ſhips and followe their buſines in great waters: they ſee the workes of God, and his wonders in the deepe.

23 For he commaundeth and cauſeth a ſtormie winde to ariſe: and he lifteth vp on high his waues.

24 [Then] they aſcende vp to heauen, and come downe agayne to the deepe: ſo that their ſoule melteth away through trouble.

25 They reele to and fro, and they do ſtacker like a drunken man: and their wyſdome fayleth them.

26 And they cry vnto god in their trouble: Who deliuereth thē out of their diſtreſſe.

27 For he maketh the ſtorme to ceaſſe: ſo that the waues therof are ſtill.

28 Then be they glad becauſe they are at reſt: and he bringeth them to the hauen where they woulde be.

29 O that men would confeſſe vnto god: his louyng kyndnes and meruaylous actes [done] to the chyldren of men. E

30 And that they would exalt him in the congregation of the people: and prayſe him in the conſiſtorie of the aged.

31 He turneth (b) fluddes into a wildernes: and waterſpringes into a drye grounde. (b) Moyſte and fruitfull groundes.

32 He [maketh] a fruitfull grounde barren: for the wickednes of them that dwell therein.

33 [Contrary] he reduceth a wyldernes into a ſtanding water: and a drye ground into water ſpringes.

34 And he ſetteth there the hungry: and they buylde them a citie to dwell in.

35 And they ſowe their lande and plant vineyardes: and they yelde [vnto them] "aboundant ſtore of fruites. "Fruites of increaſe. F

36 He bleſſeth them, ſo that they multiplie exceedingly: and he ſuffereth not their cattle to decreaſe.

7 But [when they do fall from God,] they are diminiſhed & brought low: through oppreſſion, calamitie, & griefe of minde.

38 He bringeth princes into contempt: & he maketh them to wander in a wildernesſe where there is no way at all.

39 Yet he exalteth the poore out of miſerie: and geueth him houſholdes equall to flockes of cattell.

40 The righteous will marke [this] and reioyce: and the mouth of all wickednesſe ſhalbe ſtopped.

41 Whoſoeuer is wyſe, he wyll both obſerue theſe thinges: and alſo well conſider the louing kindneſſe of God.

¶ Dauid greeuously complayneth before the face of God of his enemies malice and craft. He wiſheth vnto them the horrible vengeaunce of God, vttering the cauſe why he ſo wyſheth. He requireth Gods helpe in his great miſerie, to this ende, that both his enemies might well perceaue that his helpe commeth from Gods hande, and alſo that he him ſelfe might prayſe God therfore.

¶ To the chiefe muſition, a pſalme of Dauid.

1 HOlde not thy tongue: O thou the Lorde of my prayſe.
2 For the mouth of the vngodly and the mouth of the deceiptfull is opened vpon me: they haue ſpoken againſt me with a falſe tongue.
3 And they haue compaſſed me about with hatefull wordes: and fought againſt me without a cauſe.
4 For the loue that I bare vnto them, they are become mine aduerſaries: but I (a) geue my ſelfe vnto prayer.
5 Thus haue they rewarded me euyll for good: and hatred for my good wyll.
6 Set thou an vngodly man to be ruler ouer him: and let Satan ſtande at his right hande.

11 Let the extortioner bring into his ſnare all that he hath: and let ſtraungers ſpoyle his labour.
12 Let there be no man to ſhewe hym any gentlenes: nor to haue compaſſion vpon his fatherleſſe children.
13 Let his poſteritie come to deſtruction: and in the next generation let his name be cleane put out.
14 Let the wyckednes of his fathers be had in remembraunce in the ſight of God: and let not the ſinne of his mother be wyped away.
15 Let them be alway before God: that he may roote out the memorial of them from the earth.

20 Let this (e) rewarde be from God vnto myne aduerſaries: and vnto thoſe that ſpeake euill againſt my ſoule.
21 But thou O God my Lorde, do vnto me according vnto thy name: for ſweete is thy mercy.

A 1 GOD sayd vnto (a) my Lorde: sit thou on my right hande, vntyll I make thyne enemies thy foote stoole.

¶ The prophete exhorteth all them to prayſe God who come to the temple, for that God hath choſen Jacob to be his inheritaunce, and alſo for that he is able to do what he wyll in heauen, earth, and ſea. He rehearſeth the workes that God did, in deliuering them out of Egypt, and in bryngyng them into the lande of Chanaan. As for the gods of the Heathen, they be but golde and ſiluer.

A 1 PRayſe ye the Lorde, prayſe ye the name of God: prayſe it ye ſeruauntes of God.

The argument of the. cxxxvi. psalme.

The prophete exhorteth men to prayse God, as well for all thinges created by hym, as for his benefites peculiarly bestowed vpon the chyldren of Israel, in deliuering them out of Egypt, and in bringing them into the lande of Chanaan. He doth insinuate also that God is not praysed worthyly, except we acknowledge that all his benefites proceede of his free and meere goodnes, and not of our desertes.

The

The argument of the cxlv. psalme.

¶ Dauid setteth foorth to be talked and song of all ages the wonderous woorkes of God, wherin is declared his goodnesse, mercifulnesse, power, and prouidence. God raigneth for euer, he aydeth the oppressed and afflicted. He feedeth all creatures. He is iust and mercifull in all his woorkes. He is present with those that call vpon him and feare him: such he heareth and saueth, wheras he destroyeth the wicked.

O A psalme conteynyng the prayse of God, made by Dauid.

¶ O The prayse of Dauid.

A
1 I Will magnifie thee O Lord my king: and I wyll blesse thy name for euer and euer.
2 I wyll blesse thee euery day: and I wyll prayse thy name for euer and euer.
3 Great is God and most worthy to be praysed: and his greatnesse can not be searched out.
4 One generation shal praise thy woorkes vnto another: and they shall declare thy mightie power.
5 I wyll set foorth in woordes the glorious maiestie of thy excellentnesse: and thy wonderous woorkes.
6 I wyll also declare thy greatnesse: so that men shall speake of the force of thy terrible actes.
B 7 They shall vtter out of their mouth a memoriall of thyne aboundaunt kyndnesse: and they shall syng of thy righteousnesse.
8 God is gratious and mercifull: loth to be angry, and great in louing kindnesse.
9 God is good vnto euery man: and his mercie is ouer all his woorkes.
10 All thy woorkes shall confesse it vnto thee O God: and thy saintes shall blesse thee.
11 They shal shewe the glorie of thy kingdome: and talke of thy power.
12 That they may make knowen to the children of men his mankinde power: & the glorious maiestie of his kingdome.
13 Thy kingdome is an euerlasting kingdome: and thy dominion endureth throughout all ages.
14 God vpholdeth all such as fall: and lyfteth vp all those that be bowyng downewarde. C
15 The eyes of all wayte vpon thee: and thou geuest them their meate in "due season. "In their tyme.
16 Thou openest thyne hande: and thou satisfiest the desire of euery thing liuing.
17 God is righteous in all his wayes: and holy in all his woorkes.
18 God is nye vnto all them that call vpon hym: vnto all such as call vpon hym in (a) trueth. (a) Vnfeynedly, without hypocrisie 19 He wyll fulfyll the desire of them that feare hym: he will also heare their crye, and he wyll saue them.
20 God preserueth all those that loue him: but he wyll bring to nothyng such as be vngodly.
21 My mouth shall speake the prayse of God: and all flesh shall blesse his holy name for euer and euer.

The argument of the. cxlvi. psalme.

¶ The prophete vttereth his great desire to prayse God. he withdraweth men from puttyng their trust in princes, pronouncyng that man to be happy who trusteth in God the creatour of all thinges, the geuer of right to those that suffer wrong, the feeder of the hungry, the deliuerer of prisoners out of captiuitie, and the defendour of straungers, fatherlesse, and widdowes.

A
1 PRayse ye the Lord, prayse thou God O my soule, Whylest I lyue I wyll prayse God: I wyll syng psalmes vnto my Lorde so long as I shalbe.
2 Put not your trust in princes [nor] in the sonne of man: in Whom there is no saluation.
3 His spirite shall depart out of hym, he shall turne agayne to his earth: at that day all his thoughtes shall perishe.
4 Blessed is he vnto Whom the God of Jacob is an ayde: his trust is in God his Lorde.
5 Who made heauen and earth, the sea and all that therin is: Who mainteyneth the trueth for euer.
6 Who executeth iudgement for those that are oppressed with wrong: Who geueth foode to the hungry. B
7 God looseth those that be bounde: God geueth syght to the blynde.
8 God rayseth them vp that are "falling: God loueth the righteous. "Croked.
9 God taketh straungers into his custodie, he releeueth the fatherlesse and the widdowe: as for the way of the vngodlye he turneth it vpsyde downe.
10 God thy Lorde shall raigne O Sion, to the worldes ende: throughout all generations. Prayse ye the Lorde.

The

The argument of the cxlvij. pſalme.

¶ The prophete exhorteth the children of Iſrael to prayſe God, for that by hym they were brought home out of captiuitie. He declareth Gods great power, wiſdome, and goodneſſe, which appeareth in all his workes and benefites, but eſpecially in that he had ſet foorth by Moyſes his lawe and commaundementes.

A 1 PRayſe ye the Lorde, for it is a good thyng: ſing pſalmes vnto our Lorde, for it is a pleaſaunt thing, [his] praiſe is to be deſired.
2 God buildeth vp Hieruſalem: he wyll gather together the Iſraelites that were baniſhed.
3 He healeth thoſe that are broken in heart: he wrappeth vp their ſorowes.
4 He counteth the number of the ſtarres: he geueth vnto them all names.
5 Great is our Lorde, and great is his power: his vnderſtandyng is infinite.
B 6 God ſetteth vp the meeke: he bringeth the vngodly downe to the grounde.
7 Syng ye vnto God with a confeſſion: ſyng pſalmes vpon the Harpe vnto our Lorde.
8 Who couereth the heauē with cloudes: who prepareth rayne for the earth, who maketh graſſe to growe vppon the mountaynes.
9 He geueth vnto cattell their foode: [euen] vnto Rauens which call for it.
10 He hath no pleaſure in the ſtrength of an horſe: he delighteth not in the legges of a man.
11 God delyghteth in them that feare him: [and] in them that put their truſt in his mercie.
12 Prayſe God O Hieruſalem: prayſe thy Lorde O Sion.
13 For he maketh faſt the barres of thy gates: he bleſſeth thy children within thee.
C
14 He maketh peace in thy borders: he fylleth thee with "good corne. " The fat.
15 He ſendeth foorth his commaundement vpon the earth: his word runneth very ſwiftly.
16 He geueth ſnowe [ſo whyte] as wooll: he ſcattereth the hoare froſt like aſhes.
17 He caſteth foorth his yce lyke fragmentes: who is able to abide his froſt?
18 He ſendeth foorth his worde and melteth them: he bloweth with his winde, and the waters flowe.
19 He declareth his worde vnto Jacob: his ſtatutes & ordinaunces vnto Iſrael.
20 He hath not dealt ſo with euery nation: neither haue they the knowledge of his iudgementes. Prayſe ye the Lorde.

The argument of the cxlviij. pſalme.

¶ The prophete calleth vpon all creatures which be in heauen or earth to prayſe God: but eſpecially vpon the people of God, who haue greater cauſe geuen them for to do it then other.

A 1 PRayſe ye the Lorde, prayſe ye God out of heauen: prayſe ye hym on hygh aboue.
2 Prayſe hym all ye his angels: prayſe hym all ye his hoaſt.
3 Prayſe ye hym ſunne and moone: praiſe hym all ye ſtarres [that geue] lyght.
4 Prayſe ye hym all ye "heauens: and ye waters that be aboue the heauens. "The heauens of heauens.
5 Euen they ſhoulde prayſe the name of God: for he commaunded, and they were created.
6 He hath ſet them ſure for euer and euer: he hath geuen them a lawe which ſhall not be broken.
7 Prayſe ye God from the earth: ye dragons and all deepes.
8 Fire and hayle, ſnowe and vapours: ſtormie wynde fulfyllyng his worde. B
9 Mountaynes and all hylles: fruitfull trees and all Cedars.
10 Beaſtes and all cattell: wormes and fethered foules.
11 Kynges of the earth and all people: princes and all iudges of the earth.
12 Young men and maydens, olde men with children, ſhoulde prayſe the name of God: for his name only is moſt excellent, and his maieſtie aboue earth and heauen.
13 He hath exalted the horne of his people: the prayſe of all his ſaintes, euen of the children of Iſrael, a people that is moſt nye vnto hym. Prayſe ye the Lord.

¶ The argument of the.cxlix.Pſalme.

¶ The prophete exhorteth the children of Iſrael to expreſſe a ioy towardes God by prayſyng hym, by ſyngyng vnto hym, and by playing on muſicall inſtrumentes, partly for that God is pleaſed with them, partly alſo for that God hath geuen them a victorie ouer the heathen their enemies.

A 1 PRayſe ye the Lorde, ſyng vnto God a newe ſong: "he ought to be prayſed in the congregation of ſaintes.
2 Iſrael ſhoulde reioyce in his maker: the children of Sion ſhoulde be ioyfull in their kyng.
3 They ſhoulde prayſe his name in a daunce: they ſhoulde ſing pſalmes vnto hym vpon a tabret and a harpe.
4 For God hath a pleaſure in his people: he wyll beautifie the afflicted with ſalvation.
5 "The ſaintes ſhalbe ioyful with glory: they ſhal expreſſe a ioyfull noyſe in their beddes.
6 The hygh promotions of the Lorde ſhalbe in their mouth: and a two edged ſworde in their handes. B
7 That they may take auengement of the heathen: and correction of the nations.
8 That they may bynde their kynges in chaynes: and their nobles with iron fetters.
9 That they may execute the iudgement preſcribed: this honour ſhalbe to all his ſaintes. Prayſe ye the Lorde.

"His prayſe ſhoulde be.

"The godly diſpoſed.

The argument of the. cl. pſalme.

¶ The prophete exhorteth generally all lyuyng creatures to prayſe the mightineſſe and greatneſſe of God. He wylleth men to do it with inſtrumentes of muſicke.

A 1 PRayſe ye the Lorde, prayſe ye the Lord in his ſanctuarie: praiſe ye him in the firmament (a) of his power.
2 Prayſe ye hym in his ſtrength: prayſe ye hym in his excellent greatneſſe.
3 Prayſe ye hym in the ſounde of a trumpet: prayſe ye hym vpon a Lute and an Harpe.
4 Prayſe ye hym with a tabret and a daunce: prayſe ye him vpon the ſtringes and vpon the Organes.
5 Prayſe ye hym vpon the well tuned Cimbales: prayſe ye hym vpon the loude Cimbales.
6 Euery thyng that draweth breath: ought to prayſe the Lorde. Prayſe ye the Lorde.

(a) In the firmament Gods power appeareth.

The prouerbes of Solomon.

¶ The first Chapter.

1 The power and vse of the worde of God. 7 Of the feare of God and knowledge of his worde. 10 We may not consent to the intisinges of sinners. 20 Wysdome complayneth that she is contemned. 14 The punishment of them that contemne her.

A 1  He prouerbes of Solomon the sonne of Dauid, king of Israel:

2 To learne wisdome and instruction, & to perceaue the wordes of vnderstanding,

3 To receaue the instruction of wysdome, iustice, iudgement, and equitie:

4 To geue wyt vnto the simple, & that the young men might haue knowledge and vnderstanding.

5 The wyse man wyll geue eare, and wyll come by more wysdome, and he that is endued with vnderstanding, shall attayne vnto [wyse] counselles.

6 To vnderstande a parable, and the interpretation thereof, the wordes of the wyse, and their darke speaches.

B 7 *The feare of the Lorde is the beginning of knowledge: but fooles dispise wysdome and instruction.

8 My sonne, heare thy fathers doctrine, & forsake not the " lawe of thy mother:

9 For they shalbe an encrease of grace vnto thy head, and [as] a chayne about thy necke.

10 My sonne, if sinners " entice thee, consent not vnto them.

11 If they say, come with vs, let vs lay wayte for blood, and lurke priuily for the innocent without a cause,

12 Let vs *swallowe them vp lyke the graue quicke and whole, as those that go downe into the pit:

13 So shall we finde all maner of costly riches, and fill our houses with spoyles:

14 Cast in thy lot among vs, and let vs all haue one purse.

15 My sonne, walke not thou with them, refrayne thy foote from their wayes.

16 For *their feete runne to euill, and are hastie to shed blood.

17 But [as] in vayne, the nette is layde foorth before the byrdes eyes:

18 So these lay wayte for the blood of them, and lye priuily for their liues.

19 Suche [are] the wayes of euery one that is greedie of gayne, who taketh away the lyfe of the owner therof.

20 *Wysdome cryeth without, and putteth foorth her voyce in the streates: Pro. viii. a 21 She calleth before the congregation D in the open gates, and sheweth her wordes thorowe the citie, saying:

22 O ye chyldren, howe long will ye loue chyldishnes? howe long wyll the scorners delite in scorning, and the vnwyse hate knowledge?

23 O turne you at my correction: lo I wyll expresse my minde vnto you, and make you vnderstande my wordes.

24 *Because I haue called, and ye refused, I haue stretched out my hand, and no man regarded: Esay. lxv. b. Iere. vii. a.

25 But all my counsels haue ye dispised, and set my correction at naught:

26 Therefore wyll I also laugh at your destruction and mocke you, when the thing that ye feare commeth vpon you,

27 Euen when the thing that ye be afraide of, falleth in sodenly lyke a storme, E and your miserie lyke a tempest, yea when trouble and heauines commeth vpon you.

28 Then shall they call vpon me, but I wyll not aunswere: they shall seeke me early, but they shall not finde me:

29 And that because they hated knowledge, and did not chose the feare of the Lorde, 30 They would none of my counsayle, but dispised all my correction.

31 Therfore shall they eate of the fruite of their owne way, and be filled with their owne inuentions.

32 For the turning away of the vnwyse shall slay them, and the prosperitie of fooles shall destroy them.

33 *But whoso hearkeneth vnto me, shal Pro. iii. a dwell safely, and be sure from any feare of euyll.

¶ The. ii. Chapter.

1 Wysdome exhorteth to obay her. 5 She teacheth the feare of God. 6 She is geuen of God. 10 She preserueth from wickednes.

א 1 MY sonne, if thou wylt receaue my wordes, and laye vp my commaundementes with=in thee,
2 That thou wylt encline thyne eares vnto wysdome, applye thyne heart then to vnderstanding.
3 For if thou cryest after wysdome, and cryest for knowledge:
4 If thou seekest for her as for siluer, and searchest for her as for treasures:
5 Then shalt thou vnderstand the feare of the Lorde, and finde the knowledge of God.
Iacob.i.a. Eccle.i.a. and vii.c. iii.Reg iii.b and, iiii.d.
6 *For the Lorde geueth wysdome, out of his mouth commeth knowledge and vnderstanding.
ב 7 He stirreth vp health for the righteous: and defendeth them that walke vprightly,
8 That they may kepe the right path: and he preserueth the way of suche as do serue hym with godlynesse.
9 Then shalt thou vnderstande righteousnesse, and iudgement, and equitie, yea and euery good path.
10 When wysdome entreth into thyne heart, and thy soule deliteth in knowledge:
11 Then shall counsell preserue thee, and vnderstanding shall kepe thee,
12 That thou mayest be deliuered from the euyll way, and from the man that speaketh frowarde thinges:
13 From such as leaue the wayes of righteousnesse, to walke in the wayes of darknesse:
14 Whiche reioyce in doyng naught, and delite in the wickednesse of the euill: ג
15 Whose wayes are crooked, and they frowarde in their pathes.
16 That thou mayest be deliuered also* from the straunge woman, and from her that is not thyne owne, whiche geueth sweete wordes, Prou.v.a. and. vii.a.
17 Forsaketh the husbande of her youth, & forgetteth the couenaunt of her God.
18 For her house is enclined vnto death, and her pathes vnto hell.
19 All they that go in vnto her, come not agayne, neither take they holde of the way of life.
20 Therefore walke thou in the way of suche as be vertuous, & kepe the pathes of the righteous.
21 For the iust shall dwell in the lande, & they that be perfect, shall remaine in it.
22 But the vngodly shall be cut of from the earth: and the wicked doers shalbe rooted out of it.

The. iii. Chapter.

1 The worde of God geueth lyfe. 5 Trust in God. 7 Feare hym. 9 Honour hym. 11 Suffer his correction. 22 To them that folowe the worde of God, all thinges shall succeede well.

א 1 MY sonne, *forget not thou my lawe, but see that thyne heart kepe my commaundementes:
Deut.xi.a.
2 For they shal prolong the dayes and yeres of thy life, and bryng thee peace.
3 Let mercy and faythfulnes neuer go from thee: binde them about thy necke, and wryte them in the tables of thyne heart:
4 So shalt thou finde fauour and good vnderstanding in the sight of God and men.
5 Put thy trust in God with all thyne heart: & leane not vnto thyne owne wit.
6 In all thy wayes acknowledge hym, and he shall order thy goynges.
7 *Be not wyse in thyne owne conceipt: but feare the Lorde, and depart from euyll:
ב Esai.v.c. Rom.xii.c.
8 So shall thy (a) nauell be whole, and thy bones strong.
(a) That is, the whole body. Tob.iii.b. Deu.xxvi.d. Malach.ii.c. Exo.xxiii.c. Exod.xv.c.
9 *Honour the Lorde with thy substaunce, and with the firstlinges of all thyne encrease:
10 So shall thy barnes be filled with plenteousnes, and thy presses shall flow ouer with sweete wine.

11 My

11 My sonne refuse not the chastening of the Lorde, neither faynt when thou art corrected of hym:
12 *For whom the Lorde loueth, him he chasteneth, and yet deliteth in him, euen as a father in his owne sonne.
13 Well is hym that findeth Wysdome, and getteth vnderstandyng:
14 For the marchaundise of it, is better then the marchaundise of siluer, and the gayne therof [is better] then golde.
15 *She is more worth then pretious stones: and all the thinges that thou canst desire, are not to be compared vnto her.
16 In her right hande is long life, and in her left hande riches and honour.
17 Her wayes are pleasaunt wayes, and all her pathes are peaceable.
18 She is a *tree of lyfe to them that lay holde vpon her: and blessed is he that kepeth her fast.
19 With wysdome hath the Lorde layde the foundation of the earth, and through vnderstanding hath he stablished the heauens.
20 Through his knowledge the deapthes are broken vp, and the cloudes droppe downe the deawe.
21 My sonne, let not these thinges depart from thyne eyes, but kepe wysdome and vnderstanding:
22 So they shall be lyfe vnto thy soule, and grace vnto thy mouth.
23 Then shalt thou walke safely in thy way, and thy foote shall not stumble.
24 *If thou sleepest, thou shalt not be afraide: but shalt take thy rest, and sleepe sweetely.
25 Thou shalt not be afraide of any sodayne feare, neither for the violent rushing in of the vngodly when it cometh.
26 For the Lorde shall stande by thy side, & kepe thy foote that thou be not taken.
27 Withdraw no good thyng from them that haue nede, so long as thyne hande is able to do it.
28 Say not vnto thy neyghbour, go thy way and come agayne, and to morowe wyll I geue thee: where as thou hast nowe to geue hym.
29 Intende no hurt against thy neyghbour, seing he hopeth to dwell in rest by thee.
30 Striue not with any man without a cause, where as he hath done thee no harme.
31 *Folowe not a wicked man, and chose none of his wayes:
32 For the Lord abhorreth the froward: but his "counsayle is among the righteous.
33 The curse of the Lord is in the house of the vngodly: but he blesseth the dwellinges of the righteous.
34 As for the scornfull, doth he not laugh them to scorne: but he geueth grace vnto the lowly.
35 The wyse shall haue honour in possession: but shame is the promotion that fooles shall haue.

¶ The. iiij. Chapter.

1 Wysdome and her fruites ought to be searched. 14 The way of the wicked must be refused. 20 By the worde of God, the heart, eyes, and course of life must be guyded.

1 Heare O ye chyldren a fatherly instruction, & take good heede, that ye may learne vnderstanding.
2 For I haue geuen you a good doctrine, forsake not ye my lawe.
3 For when I my selfe was my fathers deare sonne, and tenderly beloued of my mother:
4 He taught me also and sayde vnto me, *let thyne heart receaue my wordes, kepe my commaundementes and thou shalt liue.
5 Get thee wysdome, and get thee vnderstanding: forget not the wordes of my mouth, and shrinke not from them.
6 Forsake her not, and she shall preserue thee, loue her, and she shall kepe thee.
7 The chiefe poynt of wysdome, is to possesse wysdome: and before all thy goodes to get thee vnderstanding.
8 *Make much of her, and she shall promote thee, yea if thou embrace her, she shall bryng thee vnto honour:
9 She shal beautifie thy head with manyfolde graces, and garnishe thee with a crowne of glory.

Deu.xxvi.d

10 Heare my sonne, and receaue my wordes, and the yeres of thy life shalbe many.
11 I haue shewed thee the way of wyldome, & led thee into the right pathes.
12 So that if thou goest in them, there shall no straitnesse hinder thee: & when thou runnest, thou shalt not fall.
13 Take fast holde of doctrine, and let her not go: kepe her, for she is thy life.
14 *Come not in the pathe of the vngodlye, and walke not in the way of the wicked:
15 Abhorre it and go not therein, depart aside, and passe ouer by it.
16 For they sleepe not except they haue done mischiefe: and sleepe is taken from them, vntyll they haue done harme.
17 For they eate the bread of wickednes, and drinke the wine of robberie.
18 The path of the righteous shineth, as the light that is euer bryghter and bryghter vnto the perfect day.
19 But the way of the vngodly is as the darkenesse, they knowe not where they fall.
20 *My sonne marke my wordes, and encline thyne eare vnto my sayinges:
21 Let them not depart from thine eyes, but kepe them euen in the middest of thyne heart:
22 For they are life vnto those that finde them, and health vnto all their bodyes.
23 Kepe thyne heart with all diligence, for out of it issueth lyfe.
24 Put away from thee a frowarde mouth, and let the lippes of slaunder be farre from thee.
25 Let thyne eyes beholde that thyng that is right, and let thyne eye lidde loke straight before thee.
26 Ponder the path of thy feete, and let all thy wayes be ordred aright.

3 Whordome forbidden. 9 and prodigalitie. 15 He willeth a man to lyue on his labour, and to helpe others. 18 To loue his wyfe. 22 The wicked taken in their owne wickednes.

1 MY sonne geue heede vnto my wisdome, and bowe thyne eare vnto my "prudence:
2 That thou mayest regarde good counsell, and that thy lippes may kepe knowledge.
3 *For the lippes of a straunge woman are a dropping hony combe, and her throte is more glistering then oyle:
4 But at the laste she is as bitter as wormewood, and as sharpe as a two edged sworde.
5 Her feete go downe vnto death, and her steppes pearce thorowe vnto hell.
6 Perchaunce thou wylt ponder the path of her lyfe: so vnstedfast are her wayes that thou canst not know them.
7 Heare me nowe therefore O ye chyldren, and depart not from the wordes of my mouth.
8 Kepe thy way farre from her, & come not nigh the doores of her house.
9 That thou geue not thy honour vnto other, and thy yeres to the cruell:
10 That other men be not filled with thy vertues, and that thy labours come not in a straunge house.
11 Yea, that thou mourne not at the last, when thou hast spent thy bodye and lustie youth, and then say:
12 Alas, why hated I nurture? why did my heart dispise correction?
13 Wherefore was not I obedient vnto the voyce of my teachers, and hearkened not vnto them that enfourmed me?
14 I was come almost into all misfortune, in the middest of the multitude and congregation.

16 Let thy welles flowe out abrode, that there may be riuers of waters in the streates:
17 But let them be onlye thyne owne, and not straungers with thee.
18 Let thy well be blessed, and be glad with the wyfe of thy youth.

¶ The. vij. Chapter.

1 An exhortation to wysdome, and to the worde of God. 5 Whiche will preserue vs from the harlot. 6 Whose maners are discribed.

A 1 My sonne * kepe my wordes, and lay vp my commaundements by thee.
Deut. vi. b. and. xi. a.
2 Kepe my commaundementes & my lawe, euen as the apple of thyne eye, and thou shalt liue.
3 Binde them vpon thy fingers, and wryte them in the table of thyne heart.
4 Say vnto wysdome, thou art my sister: and call vnderstanding thy kinswoman:
Prou. ii. b. and. xi. a.
5 That they may kepe thee from the straunge woman, and from the forraine woman which geueth sweete wordes.
6 For at the windowe of my house I loked through the windowe,
B 7 And behelde among the simple people and among the chyldren a young man voyde of wyt,
8 Goyng ouer the streate by the corner in the way towarde her house
9 In the twylight of the euening, when it began nowe to be night and darke:
10 And behold there met hym a woman * with open tokens of an harlot, onlye her heart was hid:
Eccle. ix. a.
11 She was full of loude wordes and redye to dallie, whose feete coulde not abide in the house:
12 Nowe is she without, nowe in the streates, and lyeth in wayte at euery corner.
13 She caught hym and kissed him, and was not ashamed, saying:
14 I had a vowe of peace offerynges to pay, and this day I performe it:
15 Therefore came I forth to meete thee, that I might seeke thy face, and so haue I founde thee. C
16 I haue decked my bed with couerynges of tapessarie, and clothes of Egypt.
17 My bed haue I made to smell of Myrre, Aloes, and Cinamon.
18 Come let vs take our fill of loue vntyll the morning, and let vs solace our selues with the pleasures of loue.
19 For the good man is not at home, he is gone farre of.
20 He hath taken the bagge of money with hym, and will returne at the appointed solempne feast.
21 Thus with many sweete wordes she ouercame him, and with her flatterynge lippes she entised hym. D
22 Sodainly he folowed her, as it were an ore led to the slaughter, and lyke as it were a foole [that laugheth] when he goeth to the stockes to be punished, 23 So long tyll she had wounded his lyuer with her dart: lyke as if a byrde hasted to the snare, not knowyng that the perill of his life lieth therupon.
24 Heare me nowe therfore O my chylde, and marke the wordes of my mouth:
25 Let not thyne heart wander in her wayes, and be not thou deceaued in her pathes.
26 For many one hath she wounded and cast downe, yea many a strong man hath ben slaine by the meanes of her.

The. viii. Chapter.

1 Wysdome declareth her excellencie. 11 Riches. 15 Power. 22 Eternitie.
32 She exhorteth all to loue and folowe her.

A 1 DOth not * Wysdome crye? doth not vnderstanding put foorth her voyce?

2 She standeth in the top of high places, by the way in the place of the pathes:

3 She cryeth at the gates of the citie, at the entrye of the doores:

4 It is you O ye men [saith she] whom I call, vnto the chyldren of men do I lyft vp my voyce.

5 Take heede vnto knowledge O ye ignorant, be ye wise in heart O ye fooles.

6 Geue eare, for I wyll speake of great matters, and open my lippes to tell thinges that be right:

B 7 For my mouth shall be talking of the trueth, and my lippes abhorre vngodlynesse.

8 All the wordes of my mouth are righteous, there is no frowardnes nor falsehood in them.

9 They are all playne to suche as wyll vnderstande, and right to them that finde knowledge.

10 Receaue my doctrine and not siluer, and knowledge rather then fine golde:

Prou.iii.d. 11 *For Wysdome is more worth then pretious stones, yea all thinges that thou canst desire, may not be compared vnto it.

12 I Wysdome dwell with counsell, and finde out knowledge and vnderstanding.

13 The feare of the Lorde abhorreth wickednes, pryde, disdayne, and the euil way, and a mouth that speaketh wicked thinges I vtterly abhorre.

18 Riches and honour are with me, yea durable riches and righteousnes.

19 My frute is better then golde and pretious stones, and mine encrease more worth then fine siluer.

20 I wyll guyde thee in the way of righteousnes, and in the midst of the pathes of iudgement:

21 That I maye stablishe the inheritaunce of them that loue me, and encrease their treasure. D

31 As for the rounde compasse of this worlde I make it ioyfull: for my delite is to be among the chyldren of men.

32 Therefore hearken vnto me: O ye chyldren, blessed are they that kepe my wayes.

33 O geue eare vnto nurture, be wyse, and refuse it not: Blessed is the man that heareth me, watchyng dayly at my gates, and geuing attendaunce at the postes of my doores.

34 For Whoso findeth me, findeth life, and shall obtaine fauour of the Lorde.

35 But Whoso offendeth against me, hurteth his owne soule: and they that hate me, are the louers of death.

¶ The. ix. Chapter.

2 Wysdome calleth all to her feast. 7 The scorner wyll not be corrected. 10 The feare of God. 13 The conditions of an harlot.

A 1  Wysdome hath buylded her house, and hewen out seuen pillers:

5 O come on your way, eate my bread, and drinke my wine [whiche] I haue powred out for you.

6 Forsake foolishnes, and ye shall lyue: and see that ye go in the way of vnderstandyng.

B 7 Whoso reproueth a scornefull person, getteth him selfe dishonour: and he that rebuketh the vngodly, stayneth hym selfe.

8 Reproue not a scorner, lest he owe thee euyll will: but rebuke a wyse man, and he wyll loue thee.

9 Geue a discrete man but an occasion, and he wyll be the wyser: teache a righteous man, and he wyll encrease in knowledge.

3 Who so loueth Wisdome, maketh his father a glad man: *but he that kepeth companie with harlottes, spendeth away that he hath.

4 With [true] iudgement the kyng stablisheth the lande: but yf he be a man that oppresse the people with gatherynges, he turneth it vpside downe.

5 Who so flattereth his neighbour, layeth a net for his feete.

15 The rodde and correction geueth Wisdome: but a childe left to his owne will, bryngeth his mother to shame. C

16 When the vngodly are multiplied, Wickednesse encreaseth: but the ryghteous shall see their fall.

17 Nurture thy sonne with correction, and thou shalt be at rest: yea, he shall do thee good at thine heart.

18 When the Worde of God is not preached, the people perishe: but Well is hym that kepeth the lawe.

19 A [stubbourne] seruaunt wyll not be the better for Wordes: for though he vnderstande, yet will he not regarde them.

20 Seest thou a man that is hastie to speake vnaduisedly: there is more hope in a foole then in hym.

21 He that delicately bryngeth vp his seruaunt from a chylde, shall make hym " his maister at length. D

22 An angry man stirreth vp strife, and he that beareth euyll will in his mynde doth much euyll.

25 He that feareth men shall haue a fall: but Who so putteth his trust in the Lorde, "is without daunger.

26 Many there be that seke the princes fauour: but euery mans iudgement commeth from the Lorde.

The ende of the prouerbes of Solomon.

The booke of the preacher, otherwise called Ecclesiastes, which is Solomon the king.

¶ For Solomon is called in scripture by three sundry names. The one, Solomon, that is, the maker of peace. The seconde Idida, that is, beloued of God. The thirde Ecclesiastes, that is, a preacher, teachyng that true and eternall felicitie consisteth not in any worldly wisdome or aboundaunce of riches, or in carnall pleasure, which all be but vayne and transitorie: but he proueth that true felicitie consisteth in a whole toynyng our selues to God by pure religion, that is, with a sincere fayth and the feare of God obseruyng his commaundementes.

The first Chapter.

2 All thynges in this worlde are full of vanitie and of none indurance. 13 All mans wisdome is but follie and griefe.

A 1 THe wordes of the preacher ye sonne of Dauid kyng of Hierusalem.

(a) He doth not condemne the creatures and giftes of God as euyll: but the carefull seekyng of them, and the pride & trust that man hath in worldly thynges.

2 (a) All is but most vayne vanitie saith the preacher, & all is most vayne (I say) and but playne vanitie.

He proueth by fiue reasons that true felicitie is not to be put in any worldly thyng.

3 For what (b) els hath a man of all the labour that he taketh vnder the sunne?

(b) The first reason is, that nothyng can be attayned in this life without labour & care.

4 (c) One generation passeth away, another commeth: but the earth abideth styll.

(c) 2 Mans lyfe is but short and vncertayne. And though the earth it selfe continueth for a longer time, yet it cõmeth to an ende at the last.

5 (d) The sunne aryseth, the sunne goeth downe, and returneth to his place, that he may there ryse vp agayne.

6 The wynde goeth towarde the south and turneth vnto the north, fetcheth his compasse, whirleth about, and goeth forth, and returneth agayne to his circuites from whence he dyd come.

(d) 3 Neither Astronomie nor any other science, is perfectly knowen in this lyfe.

7 All fluddes runne into the sea, and yet is the sea it selfe not fylled: For loke vnto what place the waters runne, thence they come to flowe agayne.

B 8 All thynges are so harde to be knowen, that no man can expresse them: (e) The eye is not satisfied with sight, the eare is not fylled with hearyng.

(e) 4 Man in this lyfe is so desirous to see and heare newes alwayes, that he is neuer satisfied nor content with his estate.

9 (f) The thyng that hath ben, commeth to passe agayne, and the thyng that hath ben done, shalbe done agayne: There is no newe thyng vnder the sunne.

(f) 5 The first clause is vnderstanded of thynges made by nature, ye seconde of thynges done by art.

10 Is there any thyng wherof it may be sayde, lo this is newe: for it was long ago in the tymes that haue ben before vs.

11 The thyng that is past is out of remembraunce: euen so the thynges that are for to come, shal no more be thought vpon among them that come after.

12 I my selfe the preacher was kyng of Israel at Hierusalem,

13 And dyd applie my mynde to seke out & searche for knowledge of all thynges that are done vnder heauen: (g) Such trauayle and labour hath God geuen vnto the children of men, to exercise them selues therin. ¶

(g) 6 It is the reward of the sinne of curiositie, of our forefather Adam, that knowledge can not be attayned vnto without great trauayle: the ende of all which knowledge, is for to teach man humilitie.

14 Thus haue I considered all these thynges that come to passe vnder the sunne: and lo, they are all but vanitie and vexation of mynde.

15 (h) The croked can not be made straight, nor the imperfection of thynges can be numbred.

(h) Man is not able of his owne power to reforme that is amisse, and to ryse vp from sinne, nor to knowe his imperfection & wickednesse, to do any thyng that is good, without the grace of God.

16 I communed with myne owne heart, saying: lo I am come to great estate, and haue gotten more wisdome then all they that haue ben before me in Hierusalem.

17 Yea, my heart had great experience of wisdome & knowledge: for therunto I applied my mynde, that I myght knowe what were wisdome and vnderstandyng, what were errour and foolishnesse: and I perceaued that this was also but a vexation of mynde.

18 For where much wisdome is, there is also great trauayle and disquietnesse: and the more knowledge a man hath, the more is his care.

The

The .ij. Chapter.

1 Pleasures, sumptuous buildynges, riches, and possessions, are but vanitie. 14 The wise and the foole haue both one ende touchyng the bodyly death.

1 Then sayde I thus in my heart: Nowe go to, (a) I will take myne ease, and haue good dayes: But lo, that is vanitie also.

2 Insomuch that (b) I saide vnto the man geuen to laughter, thou art mad: and to mirth, What doest thou?

3 So I thought in my heart to geue my flesh vnto Wine, and agayne to apply my mynde vnto Wisdome, and to comprehende foolishnesse: vntyll the tyme that among all the thynges which are vnder the sunne, I myght see what were best for men to do so long as they liue vnder heauen.

4 (d) I made gorgious faire workes: I builded my houses, and planted vineyardes.

5 I made me orchardes and gardens of pleasure, and planted trees in them of all maner of fruites.

6 I made pooles of water, to water the greene and fruitfull trees withall.

7 I bought seruauntes and maydens, and had a great housholde: As for cattel and sheepe, I had more substaunce of them then all they that were before me in Hierusalem.

8 I gathered together siluer and golde, and the chiefe treasures of kynges and landes: I haue prouided me men singgers and women singers, and the delites of the sonnes of men, as a woman taken captiue, and women taken captiues.

9 And I was greater and in more worship then all my predecessours in Hierusalem: For Wisdome remayned with me.

10 And loke whatsoeuer myne eyes desired, I let them haue it: and wherin soeuer my heart delited or had any pleasure, I withheilde it not from it: Thus my heart reioyced in all that I did, and this was my portion of all my trauayle.

11 But when I considered all the workes that my handes had wrought, and all the labour that I had taken therin: lo all was but vanitie and vexation of mynde, and nothing of any value vnder the sunne.

12 (e) Then turned I me to consider Wisdome, errour, and foolishnesse (for What is he among men that myght be compared to me the kyng in such workes?)

13 And I sawe that Wisdome excelleth foolishnesse, as farre as light doth darknesse.

14 For a Wise man hath his eyes in his head, but the foole goeth in darknesse: I perceaued also that they both (f) had one ende.

15 Then thought I in my mynde, yf it happen vnto the foole as it doth vnto me, What needeth me then to labour any more for Wisdome? So I confessed within my heart that this also was but vanitie.

16 For the Wise are euer as litle in remembraunce as the foolishe: for the dayes shall come (g) when all shalbe forgotten: yea the Wise man dyeth as well as the foole.

17 Thus began I to be weery of my life, insomuch that I coulde away with nothyng that is done vnder the sunne: for all was but vanitie and vexation of mynde.

18 (h) Yea I was weery of my labour which I had taken vnder the sunne, because I shoulde be fayne to leaue them vnto another man that commeth after me:

19 (i) And who knoweth whether he shalbe a Wise man or a foole? And yet shall he be lorde of all my labours which I with such Wisdome haue taken vnder the sunne: This is also a vayne thyng.

20 So I turned me to refrayne my mynde from all such trauayle as I toke vnder the sunne, 21 Forsomuch as a man shoulde weery hym selfe with Wisdome, with vnderstandyng and oportunitie, and yet be fayne to leaue his labours vnto another that neuer sweat for them: This is also a vayne thyng, and great miserie.

22 For What getteth a man of all the labour and trauayle of his mynde that he taketh vnder the sunne?

23 But heauinesse, sorowe, and disquietnesse all the dayes of his life? Insomuch that

(a) God hath appointed that man should be obedient to godly reason, as to his kyng: and not to be led with carnall affection.

(b) Mirth.

(c) Wisdome.

(d) Buildynges.

(e) God hath appointed that man should be obedient to godly reason, as to his kyng: and not to be led with carnall affection.

(f) They both suffer like aduersitie in this worlde, or as touchyng the corruption of the bodye, they dye both alyke.

(g) Meaning in this worlde.

(h) That he myght seke the true felicitie whiche is in God.

(i) He rebuketh men that maketh carefull prouidence to enriche their heires by vnlawfull meanes to their owne dampnation, not knowyng who or what they shalbe, eyther good or euyll.

that his heart can not rest in the nyght: This is also a vayne thyng.

(k) Is it is the blessyng of God to obtayne ryches honestly: so is it no lesse blessing to refresh himselfe with the fruites therof in measure. Of both wythe blessinges Solomon confesseth hym selfe to haue tasted largely, and yet not happy thereby.

24 (k) Is it not better then for a man to eate and drynke, and his soule to be mery in his labour: yea I sawe that this also was a gift of God.

25 For Who wyll eate or go more lustyly to his Worke then I:

26 And Why: God geueth to the man that is good before hym, Wisdome, vnderstandyng, and gladnesse: but vnto the sinner he geueth Weerinesse, that he may gather and heape together the thyng that afterwarde shalbe geuen vnto hym Whom it pleaseth God: This is nowe a vayne thyng, yea a very disquietnesse and vexation of mynde.

The .iij. Chapter.

1 All thynges haue their tyme. 14 The workes of God are perfect, and cause vs to feare hym. 17 God shall iudge both the iust an vniust.

A (a) Although true scripture is not to be put in any worldlye thyng: yet God hath appointed al necessarie thinges to be done in due tyme, order, and measure.

1 Euery (a) thyng hath a tyme, yea all that is vnder the heauē hath his conuenient season.

2 There is a tyme to be borne, and a tyme to dye: there is a tyme to plant, and a tyme to plucke vp the thyng that is planted.

3 A tyme to slay, and a tyme to make whole: a tyme to breake downe, and a tyme to builde vp.

4 A tyme to weepe, and a tyme to laugh: a tyme to mourne, & a tyme to daunce.

5 A tyme to cast away stones, and a tyme to gather stones together: A tyme to imbrace, and a tyme to refrayne from imbracyng.

6 A tyme to wynne, and a tyme to lose: A tyme to spare, and a tyme to spende.

B 7 A tyme to cut in peeces, and a tyme to sowe together: A tyme to kepe silence, and a tyme to speake.

8 A tyme to loue, and a tyme to hate: A tyme of warre, and a tyme of peace.

9 What hath a man els that doth any thyng, but Weerinesse and labour:

(b) God hath appoynted y euery man shoulde diligently trauayle & take payne in his vocation, to the ende he woulde haue hym humble & feare God.

10 (b) For as touchyng the trauayle and carefulnesse Which God hath geuen vnto men, I see that he hath geuen it them to be exercised in it.

11 All this hath he ordeyned marueilous goodly, to euery thyng his due tyme: He hath planted ignorannce also in the heartes of men, that they shoulde not comprehende the ground of his Workes which he doth from the begynnyng to the ende.

12 So I perceaued that in those thinges there is nothyng better for a man then to be mery, and to do well as long as he lyueth.

13 For all that a man eateth & drynketh, yea Whatsoeuer a man enioyeth of all his labour: that same is a gyft of God.

14 I considered also that Whatsoeuer ¶ God doth, it continueth for euer: And that nothyng can be put vnto it, nor taken from it, & that God doth it to the intent that men shoulde feare hym.

15 *The thyng that hath ben, is nowe: and the thyng that is for to come, hath ben afore time: for God restoreth againe the thyng that was past. Eccles.d.

16 Moreouer, I sawe vnder the sunne vngodlynes in the steade of iudgement, & iniquitie in steade of righteousnesse.

17 Then thought I in my mynde, God shall separate the ryghteous from the vngodly: and then shalbe the tyme and iudgement of all counsayles & Workes.

18 I communed with myne owne heart also concernyng the children of men, howe God hath chosen them, and yet letteth them appeare as though they were beastes.

(c) There is no differēce betwixt a man and a beast as touchyng the body, which of them both dyeth: but the soule of man liueth immortalle, and the body of man rysith vp a gayne by the mighty power of the spirite of God

19 (c) For it happeneth vnto men as it doth vnto beastes, euen one condition vnto them both: as the one dyeth so dyeth the other, yea they haue both one maner of breath: so that in this a man hath no preeminence aboue a beast, but are all subdued vnto vanitie.

20 They go all vnto one place: for as they be all of dust, so shall they all turne vnto dust agayne.

(d) The immortalitie of the soule is not knowen by carnall reason or sense, but by the worde and spirite of God.

21 (d) Who knoweth the spirite of man that goeth vpwarde, & the breath of the beast that goeth downe to the earth:

22 Wherfore I perceaue that there is nothyng better for a man then to be ioyfull in his labour, for that is his portion: But who wyll bryng hym to see the thyng that shall come after hym:

* Or of the children of men.

The

The .iiij. Chapter.

1 The innocent are oppressed. 4 Mens labours are full of abuse and vanitie. 9 Mans societie is necessarie. 13 A young man poore and wise, is to be preferred before an olde kyng that is a foole.

A 1 SO I turned me, and *considered all the violent wrong that is done vnder the sunne: and behold the teares of such as were oppressed, and there was no man to comfort them, or that woulde deliuer and defende them from the violence of their oppressours.

2 Wherfore I" iudged those that are dead, to be more happy then those that be alyue:

3 (a) Yea hym that is yet vnborne, to be better at ease then they both: because he seeth not the miserable workes that are done vnder the sunne.

4 (b) Agayne, I sawe that all trauayle and diligence of labour that euery man taketh in hande, was done of enuie agaynst his neyghbour: This is also a vayne thing, and a vexation of mynde.

5 (c) The foole foldeth his handes together, and eateth vp his owne flesshe.

6 One handfull [sayth he] is better with rest, then both the handes full with labour and trauayle of mynde.

B 7 Moreouer I turned me, and beholde yet another vanitie vnder the sunne:

8 There is one man, no mo but hym selfe alone, hauyng neither childe nor brother, yet is there no ende of his careful trauayle, his eyes can not be satisfied with riches: [yet sayth he not] for whom do I take such trauayle? For whose pleasure do I thus consume away my life? This is also a vayne and miserable thyng.

9 (d) Therfore two are better then one, for they may well enioy the profite of their labour: For yf one of them fall, his companion helpeth hym vp agayne.

10 But wo is hym that is alone: for yf he fal, he hath not another to helpe him vp.

11 Agayne when two sleepe together they are warme: but howe can a body be warme alone?

12 One may be ouercome, but two may make resistaunce: A three folde gable is not lightly broken.

13 A poore childe beyng wise, is better then an olde kyng that doteth, " and can not beware in tyme to come.

14 *Some one commeth out of prison, and is made a kyng: and another which is borne in the kyngdome, commeth vnto pouertie.

15 And I perceaued that all men lyuyng vnder the sunne (e) go with the seconde childe that shall stande vp in the steade of the other.

16 As for the people that haue ben before hym, and that come after hym, they are innumerable, and they that come after hym shall not reioyce of hym: This is also a vayne thyng, and vexation of mynde.

17 When thou commest into the house of God, kepe thy foote and drawe nye, that God which is at hande may heare that thou geue not the (g) offerynges of fooles: for they knowe naught but to do euyll.

(a) Mutuall societie is both comfortable & necessarie for a mans lyfe.

" Or, will not receaue admonition.

¶ Gen.xiii.b. 1.Reg.16.c.

(e) Men seke rather to please and to come in to fauour with hym that shall succeede into the place of honour, then with him that doth occupie the present estate.

(f) The people wyll not be long pleased with hym that occupieth the place of honour.

(g) We must direct our fayth, prayer, and workes, by the worde of God: and not by a blinde or wicked intent.

The .v. Chapter.

1 Not to speake lightly, chiefly in Gods matters. 9 The couetous can neuer haue enough. 11 The labourers sleepe is sweete. 14 Man when he dyeth taketh nothyng with hym. 18 To lyue ioyfully and with a contented mynde, is the gyft of God.

A 1 BE (a) not hasty with thy mouth, and let not thine heart speake any thyng rashly before God: For God is in heauen, and thou vpon earth, therfore let thy wordes be fewe.

2 For where much carefulnesse is, there are many dreames: and where many wordes are, there men may heare fooles.

3 *If thou make a vowe vnto God, be not slacke to performe it: As for foolish vowes he hath no pleasure in them: yf thou promise any thyng, pay it.

4 (b) For better is it that thou make no vowe, then that thou shouldest promise and not pay.

5 Suffer not thy mouth to cause thy flesshe

Deu.xxv.ii.e Baruc.vi.c.

(b) We ought to vowe those thynges the which tendeth to the glory of God, & which are in our power to performe.

flesshe for to (c) sinne, neither say thou before the angell that it is thy ignorannce: for then God wyll be angry at thy voyce, and destroy all the worke of thyne handes.

6 (d) And why? Wheras are many dreames and many wordes, there are also diuers vanities: but loke that thou feare God.

7 If thou seest the poore to be oppressed, and wrongfully dealt withall, so that equitie and right of the lawe is wrested in the lande, marueyle not thou at such a thyng: for he that is (e) hygher then the hyghest regardeth, and there be hygher then they.

8 (f) The increase of the earth vpholdeth all thyng: yea the kyng hym selfe is mayntayned by husbandry.

9 He that loueth money, wyll neuer be satisfied with money: and he that loueth riches, shalbe without the fruite therof: This is also a vayne thyng.

10 Wheras much riches is, there are many also that spende them away: And what pleasure more hath he that possesseth them, sauyng that he may loke vpon them with his eyes?

11 A labouryng man sleepeth sweetly whether it be litle or much that he eateth: but the aboundaunce of the riche wyll not suffer hym to sleepe.

12 (g) Yet is there a sore plague which I haue seene vnder the sunne [namely] riches kept to the hurt of him that hath them in possession:

13 For oft tymes they perishe with his great miserie and trouble: and yf he haue a childe, it getteth nothyng.

14 *Lyke as he came naked out of his mothers wombe, so goeth he thyther agayne, and carryeth nothyng away with hym of all his labour.

15 This is a miserable plague, that he shall go euen as he came away: what helpeth it hym then that he hath laboured in the wynde?

16 (h) All the dayes of his lyfe also he dyd eate in the darke, with great carefulnesse, sickenesse, and sorowe.

17 (i) Therfore me thynke it a better and a fairer thyng, a man to eate and drynke, and to be refreshed of all his labour that he taketh vnder the sunne, all the dayes of his lyfe which God geueth hym: for this is his portion.

18 For vnto whom soeuer God geueth riches, goodes, and power, he geueth it hym to enioy it, to take it for his portion, and to be refreshed of his labour: this is the gyft of God.

19 For he thinketh not much howe long he shall lyue, forasmuch as God fylleth his heart with gladnesse.

(c) In promising that which thou art not able to performe. Or by intemperate eatyng & drynkyng, or by sayng that you shuld not voluntarily, but of necessitie, makyng God the auctour of sinne.

(d) Dreames are not to be credited: but God is to be feared.

(e) Meanyng that God will redresse these thynges, and therfore we must depende vpon hym.

(f) The decay of husbandry is the decay of the prince.

(g) A plague of the couetous man.

(h) That is, in deepe, and without quietnesse.

(i) Man by reason can comprehende nothyng better in this life then to vse the gyftes of God saberly and comfortably: for to knowe further, is a special gyft of God reuealed by his spirite.

The .vj. Chapter.

The miserable estate of hym to whom God hath geuen riches, and not the grace to vse them.

1 There is yet a plague vnder the sunne, and it is a generall thyng among men: When God geueth a man riches, goodes, and honour, so that he wanteth nothyng of all that his heart can desire, and yet God geueth hym not leaue to enioy the same, but another man spendeth them: This is a vayne thyng and a miserable plague.

2 If a man beget a hundred children, and lyue many yeres, so that his dayes are many in number, and yet can not enioy his good, (a) neither be buryed: as for hym I say, that vntymely birth is better then he.

3 For he commeth to naught, & spendeth his tyme in darknesse, and his name is forgotten.

4 Moreouer he seeth not the sunne, and knoweth not of it: and yet hath he more rest then the other.

5 Yea, though he lyued two thousande yeres, yet hath he no good lyfe: Come not all to one place?

6 (b) All the labour that a man taketh is for him selfe, and yet his desire is neuer fylled after his mynde.

7 For what hath the wise more then the foole? what helpeth it the poore that (c) he knoweth to walke with fooles before the lyuyng?

8 (d) The cleare syght of the eye is better then that the soule shoulde walke after desires of the lust: Howbeit, this is also a vayne thyng, and a disquietnesse of mynde.

9 The thyng that hath ben, is named alreay,

(a) The wicked couetous man by many hyndes of offences wanteth & honour of a christian mans buryal, either by murthering hym selfe, or by such other kynde of offence.

(b) That is, to death, meanyng that he is nothyng better then the vnfruitefull fruite.

(c) Or, by his mouth.

(d) That is, that he knoweth before to vse his riches well in the iudgement of the spirite.

alredy,and knowen that it is euen man hym selfe: neither may he go to lawe with him (f) that is mightier then he.
10 Many thinges there be that encrease vanitie, and what hath a man els?
11 For who knoweth what is good for man liuing in the dayes of his vayne life, whiche is but a shadowe? Or who wyl tell a man what shall happen after hym vnder the sunne?

The. vij. Chapter.

Diuers preceptes to folowe that whiche is good, and to auoyde the contrary.

1 *Good name is more worth then precious oyntment: (a) & the day of death, is better thē
the day of byrth.
2 (b) It is better to go into an house of mourning, then into a banketting house: For there is the ende of all men, and he that is liuing taketh it to heart.
3 (c) Grauitie is better then to laugh: for when the countenaunce is heauie, the heart is refourmed.
4 The heart of the wise is in the mourning house: but the heart of the foolishe is in the house of myrth.
5 *It is better to geue eare to the chastening of a wyse man, then to heare the songue of fooles:
6 For the laughyng of fooles is like the
(d) cracking of thornes vnder a pot: and that is but a vayne thing.
7 The wyse man hateth wrong dealing, and abhorreth the heart that coueteth rewardes.
8 Better is it to consider the ende of a thing then the beginning: The pacient of spirite, is better then the hye minded.
9 Be not hastyly angrie in thy minde:
for wrath resteth in the bosome of fooles.
10 (e) Say not thou, what is the cause that the dayes of the old time were better then they that be nowe? for that were no wyse question.
11 Wysdome with inheritaunce is good, yet better is it with them that without care may beholde the sunne:
12 For Wysdome defendeth aswell as money, and the excellent knowledge & Wysdome geueth lyfe vnto hym that hath it in possession.
13 Consider the worke of God, how that no man can make the thing (f) straight, whiche he maketh crooked.
14 Use well the tyme of prosperitie, and remember the tyme of misfortune: for God doth so temper the one and the other, that a man (g) can finde nothing
els. &

(g) That no man can finde fault with Gods doynges

15 All thinges haue I considered in the time of my vanitie: that the (h) iust man perisheth for his righteousnesse sake, & the vngodly liueth in his wickednesse.
16 (i) Therfore be thou neither to righteous (k) nor ouer wyse, that thou perishe not.
17 (l) Be neither to vnrighteous also nor to foolishe, lest thou die before thy time.
18 It is good for thee to (m) take holde of this, and not to let that go out of thy hande: For he that feareth God, commeth foorth with them all.
19 Wysdome geueth more courage vnto the wyse, then ten mightie men of the citie.
20 *For there is not one iust vpon earth that doth good, and sinneth not.
21 Take no heede vnto euery word that is spoken, lest thou heare thy seruaunt curse thee: for thyne owne heart knoweth that thou thy self also hast ofttimes spoken euyll by other men.
22 All these thinges haue I proued in wysdome, for I thought to be wyse, *but she went farther fro me then she was before: yea and so deepe, that I might not reache vnto her.
23 I applied my minde also vnto knowledge, and to seeke and searche out scieence, wysdome, and vnderstanding, to knowe the foolishnesse of the vngodly, and the errour of doting fooles.
24 And I founde that *a woman is bitterer then death, the whiche hath cast abrode her heart as a net that men fishe with, and her handes are chaynes:
(n) who so pleaseth God shall escape from her, but the sinner wyll be taken with her.

(b) Meaning that the cruel tirauntes put the innocent to death, & spare the wicked.
(i) Folow not thy good intent in those thinges which be contrary to Gods commaundement, or punishe not euery light fault with extremitie.
(k) Be not wyse in thyne owne conceipt
(l) Depart quickly from that that is wicked.
(m) Take heede of these admonitions.

(n) A thirewde woman is escaped only by the grace of God.

Ecclesiastes.

Prou.vii.d.

25 Beholde (saith the preacher) this haue I diligently searched out and proued: One thing must be considered with another, that a man may come by knowledge, which "as yet I seeke, and finde it not.

"Or, my soule seeketh.

26 Among a thousande men I haue founde one: but (o) not one woman among all.

(o) Meaning (I thinke) generally, because men are their owne peruerters.

27 Lo this onlye haue I founde, that *God made man iust and right: (p) but they sought many inuentions.

(p) That is, euery one of their owne deliberation.

¶ The.viij. Chapter.

2 To obey princes and magistrates. 17 The workes of God passe mans knowledge.

A 1 Who is wise? who hath knowledge to make an answere? A (a) mans wysdome maketh his face to shine: but "vnshamefastnes putteth it out of fauour.

(a) That is, getteth to him fauour.

"Or, strength.

2 Kepe the kynges commaundement, namely for the oth that thou hast made vnto God for the same.

(b) withdraw not thy selfe lightly from the kynges obedience.

3 (b) Be not hastie to go out of his sight, and see thou continue in no euyll thing: for whatsoeuer it pleaseth hym, that doth he.

4 Like as when a king geueth a charge, his commaundement is mightie: euen so, *who may say vnto him, What doest thou?

Iob.xi.b.

Leu.xviii.a.

5 *Who so kepeth the commaundement, shall feele no harme: but a wyse mans heart discerneth the tyme and iudgement.

6 For euery thing wyll haue oportunitie and iudgement: and this is the thing that maketh men full of carefulnesse and sorowe.

B 7 And why? a man knoweth not what is for to come: for who can tell hym when it shalbe?

8 Neither is there any man that hath power ouer the spirite to kepe styll the spirite, nor to haue any power in the tyme of death, nor that can make an ende of the battayle, neither may vngodlynesse deliuer them that meddle withall.

9 All these thinges haue I considered, and applied my mynde vnto euery worke that is vnder the sunne, howe one man hath lordship vpon another to (c) his owne harme.

(c) It commeth often tymes to tirauntes and wicked rulers

10 For I haue seene often the vngodly brought to their graues, (d) and yet they haue returned into the citie agayne: and

(d) That is, the vngodly hath ben prayed for after their buriall.

(e) came from the place of holy men, whiche in the citie were growen out of memorie, as were those also that liued well: This is also a vayne thing.

(e) That is, the holy men after their buriall grew out of memorie.

11 (f) Because nowe that euyll workes are not hastyly punished, the heart of man geueth hym selfe ouer vnto wickednesse.

(f) Where iustice is neglected, there sinne raigneth

12 Because an euyll person offendeth an hundred tymes, and God deferreth, geuing hym long life, therefore am I sure that it shall go well with them that feare God, whiche haue hym before their eyes.

13 Againe, as for the vngodly it shall not be well with him, neither shall he prolong his dayes: but euen as a shadowe, so shall he be that feareth not God.

14 Yet is there a vanitie vpon earth: ℭ There be iust men vnto whom it happeneth as though they had the workes of the vngodly: Againe, there be vngodly, with whom it goeth as though they had the workes of the righteous: This haue I called also a vayne thing.

15 Therfore I commende gladnesse, because a man hath no better thing vnder the sunne, then to eate and drinke, and to be merie: (g) for that shall he haue of his labour, al the dayes of his life which God geueth hym vnder the sunne.

(g) This he speaketh in the person of a carnall man.

16 And so I applied my minde to learne wysdome, and to knowe the trauayle that is in the worlde, and that of suche a fashion, that I suffred not mine eyes to sleepe neither day nor night.

17 I vnderstoode of all the workes of God, but it is not possible for a man to attayne vnto the workes that are done vnder the sunne: and though he bestowe his labour to seeke them out, yet can he not reach vnto them: yea though a wyse man would vndertake to know them, yet shall he not finde them.

¶ The

¶ The. ix. Chapter.

1 By no outwarde thing can man know whom God loueth or hateth. 11 No man knoweth his ende. 19 Wysdome excelleth strength.

A 1 FOr all these thinges purposed I in my mynde to seeke out: The righteous & wise, yea & their seruauntes also are in the hand of God, (a) and there is no man that knoweth eyther loue or hate, but all thinges are before them.

2 It happeneth vnto one as vnto another, it goeth with the righteous as with the vngodly, (b) with the good and cleane, as with the vncleane, With hym that offereth, as with him that offereth not: like as it goeth with the vertuous, so goeth it also with the sinner: as it happeneth vnto the periured, so happeneth it also to hym that is afrayde to be forsworne.

3 Among all thinges that come to passe vnder the sunne, this is a miserie, that it happeneth vnto all alike: This is the cause also that the heartes of men are full of wickednesse, and madde foolishnesse is in their heartes as long as they liue, vntyll they dye.

4 And why? as long as a man liueth, he hath an hope: for a quicke (c) dogge [say they] is better then a dead lion.

5 For they that be liuing knowe that they shall dye: but they (d) that be dead knowe nothing, neither deserue they any more, for their memoriall is forgotten.

6 Also their loue, and their hatred, and their enuie is nowe perished, neither haue they any more part in the worlde in all that is done vnder the sunne.

B 7 (e) Go thou thy way then, eate thy bread with ioy, & drinke thy wine with a glad heart, for thy workes please god: Let thy garmentes be alwayes white, *and let thy head lacke no oyntment.

8 Use thy selfe to liue ioyfully with thy wife whom thou louest all the dayes of thy life whiche is but vayne, that God geueth thee vnder the sunne all the dayes of thy vanitie: for that is thy portion in this life of al thy labour and trauayle that thou takest vnder the sunne.

9 Whatsoeuer thou takest in hande to do, that do with al thy power: for in the graue that thou goest (f) vnto, there is neither worke, counsayle, knowledge, nor wysdome.

10 So I turned me vnto other thinges vnder the sunne, & I sawe that in running it helpeth not to be swift, in battell it helpeth not to be strong, to feeding it helpeth not to be wyse, to riches it helpeth not to be a man of muche vnderstanding, to be had in fauour it helpeth not to be cunning: (g) but that all lieth in tyme and fortune.

11 For a man knoweth not his tyme: but like as the fishes are taken with the angle, and as the byrdes are caught with the snare: euen so are men taken in the perillous time, When it commeth sodaynly vpon them.

12 (h) This wysdome haue I seene also vnder the sunne, and me thought it a great thing:

13 There was a litle citie and a few men within it: so there came a great kyng and besieged it, and made great bulwarkes against it. C

14 And in the citie there was founde a poore man, but he was wyse, whiche with his wysdome deliuered the citie, yet was there no body that had any respect to such a simple man.

15 Then sayd I, Wysdome is better then strength: Neuertheless, a simple mans wysdome is despised, and his wordes are not hearde.

16 A wyse mans counsayle that is "followed in silence, is farre aboue the crying of a captaine among fooles.

17 *For wysdome is better then harnesse: but one sinner alone destroyeth muche goodnesse.

(f) There is no tyme of worcking, or repentaunce after this life.

(g) Thus the wicked worldlinges are deceaued, attributing to fortune the which is ordered by the secrete prouidence of god, for that the reward according to mens doinges is not in this life, but chiefly in the life to come.

(h) A prayse of wyse men.

" Or, hearde.

7 (p) Or euer the siluer lace be taken away, and or the (q) golden well be broken: Or the (r) pot be broken at the (s) well, and the (t) wheele broken vpon the (u) cesterne.

8 Then shall the dust be turned agayne vnto earth from whence it came, and the spirite shall returne vnto God who gaue it.

9 *All is but vanitie (saith the preacher) all is but playne vanitie. Eccle.i.a.

10 The preacher was yet more wyse, and taught the people knowledge, he gaue good heede, sought out the ground, and set foorth many parables: His diligence was to finde out acceptable wordes, right scripture, & the wordes of trueth. Hebr.iiij.e.

11 For *the wordes of the wyse are like prickes and nayles that go thorowe, of the (x) auctoures of gatheringes [which] are geuen of one shepheard.

21 Therefore beware my sonne of that doctrine that is beside this: for to make many bookes, it is an endlesse worke, and to muche studie weerieth the body.

13 Let vs heare the conclusion of all thinges, Feare God, and kepe his commaundementes: for that toucheth all men. For God shall iudge all workes and secrete thinges, whether they be good or euyll.

(o) Lamenting the dead. (p) The marowe in the backe bone. (q) The yelowe skinne that couereth the braine. (r) The two great vaynes. (s) The liuer. (t) The head. (u) The heart

(x) Auctoures of gatheringes he calleth wise men, because they gather the sayinges of the wyser sort of men in their booke.

The Ballet of Ballettes of Solomon, called in Latin, Canticum Canticorum.

The firſt Chapter.

1 The familier talke and miſticall communication of the ſpirituall loue betweene Jeſus Chriſte and his Churche. 6 The domeſticall enemies that perſecute the Churche.

1 (a) That he would kiſſe me with the kiſſes of his mouth: for thy loue is more pleaſaunt then wine, and that becauſe of the good and pleaſaunt ſauour of thy moſt pre-
(a) The Churche deſireth y peace of Chriſte.
ciouſ baulmes.

2 (b) Thy name is a ſweet ſmelling oyntment when it is ſhed foorth, therfore do the (c) maydens loue thee.
(b) Chriſtes mercy is ſet foorth by preaching.
(c) The maydens, that is, they that are pure in heart.

3 Drawe thou me [vnto thee] we wyll runne after thee. The kyng hath brought me into his (d) priuie chaumbers: we wylbe glad and reioyce in thee, we thinke more of thy loue then of wine: they that be righteous loue thee.
(d) Priuie chaumber, that is, his ſecretes and miſteries.

4 (e) I am blacke (O ye daughters of Hieruſalem) but yet (f) fayre and well fauoured, like as the tentes of the Cedarenes, and as the hanginges of Solomon.
(e) Blacke, thorowe the ſpottes of ſinne and perſecution.
(f) Fayre, thorow fayth in the blood of Chriſte.

5 Marueyle not at me that I am ſo blacke, for why? the ſunne hath ſhined vpon me: my mothers chyldren haue euyll wyll at me, they made me the keper of the vineyardes, but mine owne vineyarde haue I not kept.

6 Tell me O thou whom my ſoule loueth, where thou feedeſt the ſheepe, where thou makeſt them reſt at the noone day: for why ſhall I be like hym that goeth wrong about the flockes of thy companions?

7 If thou knowe not thy ſelfe (O thou fayreſt among women) then go thy way foorth after the (g) footeſteppes of the ſheepe, and feede thy goates beſyde the ſhepheardes tentes.
(g) After the doctrine of the Apoſtles.

8 Unto * the hoaſt of Pharaos charets haue I compared thee, O my loue.
Exo. xiiii.

9 Thy cheekes and thy necke is beautifull as the turtles, and hanged with ſpanges and goodly iewels, a neckband of golde wyll we make thee, with ſiluer buttons.

10 (h) When the king ſitteth at the table, he ſhall ſmell my Nardus: a bundell of myrre is my loue vnto me, he wyll lye betwixt my breſtes: a cluſter of Camphire in the vineyardes of Engaddi is my loue vnto me.
(h) So long as the Churche followeth Chriſte, ſhe ſhall not erre from the true fayth of ſaluation.

11 * Oh howe fayre art thou my loue, Oh howe fayre art thou: thou haſt doues eyes. O howe fayre art thou my beloued, howe well fauoured art thou:
Cant. i.

12 Our bed is dect with flowres, the ſeelinges of our houſe are of Cedar tree, and our croſſe ioyntes of Cypreſſe.

The. ij. Chapter.

3 The Churche deſireth to reſt vnder the ſhadowe of Chriſte. 8 She heareth his voyce. 14 She is compared to the doue. 15 And the enemies to the foxes.

1 I Am the roſe of the fielde, and lillie of the valleys,

2 (a) As the lillie among the thornes: ſo is my loue among the daughters.
(a) Chriſte among his enemies.

3 (b) Like as the apple tree among the trees of the wood: ſo is my beloued among the ſonnes.
(b) The loue of the Church toward de Chriſte.

4 My delight is to ſit vnder his ſhadowe, for (c) his fruite is ſweete vnto my throte.
(c) Hys fruit, that is, his ſwoyde.

5 He bringeth me into his wine ſeller, his bamer ſpread ouer me, whyche is his loue.

6 Set about me cuppes of wine, comfort me with apples, for I am ſicke of loue.

7 * His left hande lyeth vnder my head, and his right hande ſhall imbrace me.
Cant. viii.

8 I charge

8 (a) I charge you (O ye daughters of Hierusalem) by the roes and hindes of the fielde, that ye wake not vp my loue, nor touche her, tyll she be content her selfe.

9 We thinke I heare the voyce of my beloued: lo, there commeth he hopping vpon the mountaines, and leaping ouer the litle hilles.

10 My beloued is lyke a roe or a young hart: beholde he standeth behinde (c) our wall, he looketh in (f) at the windowe, and peepeth thorowe the grate.

11 My beloued aunswered and sayd vnto me: O stande vp my loue, my beautifull, and go to thyne owne: (g) for lo the winter is nowe past, the rayne is away and gone.

12 (h) The flowres are come vp in the field, the tyme of the byrdes singing is come, and the (i) voyce of the turtle doue is heard in our lande.

13 The figge tree bryngeth foorth her figges, and the vines beare blossomes and haue a good smell.

14 O stande vp then and come my loue my beautifull, [and come I say] O my doue, out of the caues of the rockes, out of the holes of the wall, O let me see thy countenaunce and heare thy voyce: for sweete is thy voyce, and fayre is thy face.

15 Get vs (k) the foxes, yea the litle foxes that hurt the vines: for our vines beare blossomes.

16 *My loue is mine, & I am his, Whiche feedeth among the lillies vntill the day breake, and till the shadowes be gone:

17 (l) Come againe O my beloued, and be lyke as a roe or a young hart vpon the wyde mountaines.

(a) Christe speaketh vnto his Churche, and commaundeth her to watche.

(b) Christe is our brauder by earnest redemption, and by the Gospell.

(c) Christe must be sought for in the Churche.

(f) Christe will not be found at all times.

(g) That is, when the persecution is past.

(h) Christe by his Apostles.

(i) The voyce of the holy ghost.

(k) Suppresse the heretickes at the beginning, when they preache false doctrine.

(l) The Church prayeth Christe to be a present helpe alwayes in tyme of neede.

¶ The.iij. Chapter.

1 The Churche desireth to be ioyned inseparably to Christe her husbande. 6 Her deliueraunce out of the wyldernesse.

A 1 By (a) night in my bed I sought hym whom my soule loueth: yea diligently sought I him, but I found him not.

2 I will get vp [thoughe I] (b) & go about the citie, in the wayes in all the streates wyll I seeke hym whom my soule loueth: but when I sought him I founde him not.

3 The watchmen also that go about the citie, founde me [to whom I sayde] Sawe ye not hym whom my soule loueth?

4 So when I was a litle past them, I founde him whom my soule loueth: I haue gotten holde vpon hym, and wyll not let him go, vntyll I bryng him into my mothers house, and into her chaumber that bare me.

5 *I charge you O ye daughters of Hierusalem by the roes and hyndes of the fielde, that ye wake not vp my loue, nor touch her, till she be content her self.

6 Who is this that commeth vp out (c) of the wyldernesse like vapours of smoke, as it were a smell of myrre, frankensence, and all maner spices of the Apothecarie?

7 Beholde, about (d) Solomons bedsteede there stande threescore valiaunt, of the most mightie in Israel: They holde swordes euery one, and are expert in warre.

8 (e) Euery man also hath his sworde vpon his thigh, because of feare in the night.

9 Kyng Solomon had made him selfe a pallace of the wood of Libanus, the pillers are of siluer, " the couering of golde, the seate of purple, the grounde is pleasauntly paued with loue for the daughters of Hierusalem.

10 Go foorth (f) (O ye daughters of Sion) and beholde kyng Solomon in the crowne wherewith his mother crowned him in the day of his mariage, and in the day of the gladnesse of his heart.

(a) Christe is our bridegrome by earnest request, and by the Gospell.

(b) We must enquire in prayer, though we be not heard at the first.

(c) By this is ment the chyldren of Israel, whiche in the wyldernes did folow Christe.

(d) By Solomons bedsteede, is vnderstanded the temple of Solomon the whiche is defended by the sword, that is by the worde.

(e) Euery man must learne the word of God, by the whiche he shalbe defended in the time of temptation.

" Some reade, the' pauement of golde, the couering of purple.

(f) ye that be of the number of the faythfull

¶ The. iiij. Chapter.

1 The prayſes of the Churche. 7 She is without blemiſhe in his ſight. 9 The loue of Chriſte towardes her.

A 1 HOwe (a) fayre art thou my loue, howe fayre art thou? thou haſt (b) doues eyes, beſide that which lyeth hid within: Thy heerie lockes are lyke the wooll of a flocke of goates that be ſhorne vpon mount Gilead.

(a) Chriſte prayſeth his Churche, wherein he hath great delight.
(b) A ſimple, faythfull and ſincere.
(c) The fruites of a true faythe.

2 (c) Thy teeth are like a flocke [of ſheepe] of the ſame bigneſſe whiche went vp from the waſhing place, where euery one beareth two twinnes, and not one vnfruitfull among them.

(d) By the teeth is ſignified faythe, by the whiche we are all made the ſonnes of God equally.

3 Thy lippes are lyke a roſe coloured ribande, thy wordes are louely, thy cheekes are like a peece of a pomegranate within thyne heeres.

4 (e) Thy necke is like the towre of Dauid buylded with coſtly ſtones, lying out on the ſides wherevpon there hange a thouſande ſhieldes: yea all the weapons of the giauntes.

(e) By the necke are ſignified the preachers.

5 (f) Thy two breaſtes are lyke two twinnes of young Roes, whiche feede among roſes.

(f) The two breaſtes ſignifie the two teſtamentes.

6 O that I might go to the mountaine of myrre, and to the hil of frankencenſe, til the day breake, and til the ſhadowes be paſt away.

7 Thou art all fayre (O my loue) and no ſpot is there in thee.

8 Come to me from Libanus (O my ſpouſe) come to me from Libanus: looke from the top of Amana, from the top of Sanir and Hermon, from the lions dennes, and from the mountaines of the leopardes.

9 Thou haſt [with loue] bewitched my heart O my ſiſter my ſpouſe, thou haſt bewitched my heart with one of thyne eyes, and with one chayne of thy necke. B

10 O howe fayre are thy breaſtes, my ſiſter, my ſpouſe? Thy breaſtes are more pleaſaunt then wine, and the ſmell of thyne oyntmentes paſſeth all ſpices.

11 (g) Thy lippes, O my ſpouſe, drop as the hony combe, yea mylke and hony is vnder thy tongue, and the ſmell of thy garmentes is like the ſmell of Libanus.

(g) The preaching of the Goſpel, bringeth forth much conſolation & profite.

12 (h) A garden well locked is my ſiſter, my ſpouſe: a garden well locked, and a ſealed well.

(h) The Churche is defended by Chriſte.

13 The fruites that are planted in thee, are lyke a very paradiſe of pomegranates with ſweete fruites, as Camphire, Nardus, & Saffron, Calamus, Sinamom, with all ſweete ſmellyng trees, Myrre, Aloes, and all the beſt ſpyces, a well of gardens, a well of liuing waters which runne downe from Libanus.

14 (i) Vp thou north winde, come thou ſouth winde and blowe vpon my garden, that the ſmell therof may be caryed on euery ſide: yea that my beloued may come vnto his garden, and eate of the ſweete fruites [that growe therein.]

(i) He prayeth for the grace of the holy ghoſt to ſtyrre the Churche, without the whiche nothing can proſper vnt.

The. v. Chapter.

1 Chriſte calleth his Churche to the participation of all his treaſures. 2 She heareth his voyce. 6 She confeſſeth her nakednes. 10 She prayſeth Chriſte her huſbande.

A 1 I Am (a) come into my garden, O my ſiſter, my ſpouſe, I haue gathered my Myrre with my ſpice: I haue eate hony with my hony combe, I haue dronke my wine with my mylke: Eate O ye frendes, drinke and be merie O ye beloued.

(a) The garden ſignifieth the Churche of God, in the whiche Chriſte beſtoweth his ſinguler benefites.

2 I am a ſleepe, but my heart is waking: I heare the voyce of my beloued when he knocketh, ſaying, Open to me O my ſiſter, my loue, my doue, my dearling: for my head is full of deawe, and the lockes of my heere are full of the nyght doppes.

3 I haue put of my coate, howe can I do it on agayne? I haue waſhed my feete, howe ſhall I fyle them agayne?

4 My loue put in his hande at the hole, and my heart was moued within me.

5 I ſtoode

5 I stoode vp to open vnto my beloued, and my handes dropped with Myrre, & the Myrre ranne downe my fingers vpon the locke.

6 I opened vnto my beloued, but he was departed and gone his way: Now whē he spake, my heart was gone: (b) I sought him, but I coulde not finde him: I cryed vpon hym, neuertheless he gaue me no aunswere.

7 So the watchmen that went about the citie, founde me, smote me, and wounded me: yea they that kept the walles toke away my kerchaffe from me.

8 I charge you therfore O ye daughters of Hierusalem, yf ye fynde my beloued, that ye tell hym howe that I am sicke for loue.

9 What maner of man is thy loue aboue other louers, O thou faireſt among women? Or what can thy loue do more then other louers, that thou chargest vs so straytly?

10 As for my loue, he is whyte and red coloured, a goodly person among tenne thousande.

11 His head is as the most fine golde, the lockes of his heere are bussched, & blacke as a crowe.

12 His eyes are as the eyes of doues by the water brookes as though they were washed with mylke, [n] and are set lyke pearles in golde.

13 His cheekes are lyke a garden bed, wherin the Apothecaries plant all maner of sweete thynges.

14 His lippes are lyke lilies that droppe sweete smellyng Myrre: His handes are lyke golde rynges, hauyng inclosed the precious stone of Tharsis.

15 His body is as the pure iuorie, dect ouer with Saphires: His legges are as the pillers of Marble set vpon sockettes of golde.

16 His face is as Libanus: and as the beautie of the Cedar trees.

17 The wordes of his mouth are sweete: yea he is altogether louely: Such a one is my loue O ye daughters of Hierusalem, such a one is my loue.

(b) Christ withdraweth his presence from his Church, when she is not diligent in her vocation.

[n] Some reade, and remayne by the full vessels.

The .vi. Chapter.

2 The Church assureth her selfe of the loue of Christe. 3 The prayses of the Church. 8 She is but one and vndefiled.

1 Whyther is thy loue gone then O thou faireſt among women? whyther is thy loue departed, and we wyll seke hym with thee?

2 (a) My loue is gone downe into his garden vnto the sweete smellyng beddes, that he may refreshe hym selfe in the garden, & gather lilies.

3 My loue is myne, and I am his, which feedeth among the lilies.

4 Thou are beautifull O my loue as is [the place] Thirza, thou art faire as Hierusalem, fearefull as an armie of men with their banners.

5 Turne away thine eyes from me, for they [n] haue set me on fire: Thy heery lockes are lyke a flocke of goates shorne vpon the mount of Gilead.

6 Thy teeth are lyke a flocke of shorne sheepe which go out of the washyng place, where euery one beareth twinnes, and not one vnfruitfull among them.

7 Thy cheekes are like a peece of a pomegranate within thy lockes of heere.

8 (b) There are threescore queenes, fourescore wiues, and damselles without number.

9 (c) One is my doue, one is my dearlyng: She is the only beloued of her mother, and deare vnto her that bare her: When the daughters sawe her, they sayde she was blessed, yea the queenes & wiues prayſed her.

10 What is she this that loketh forth as the mornyng, faire as the moone, cleare as the sunne, and fearfull as an armie of men with their banners?

11 (d) I went downe into the nut garden to see what grewe by the brookes, and to loke yf the vineyarde flourished, or yf the pomegranates were not forth.

12 I knewe not that my soule had made me the charyot of the people that be vnder tribute.

13 Turne agayne turne agayne O thou perfect one, turne agayne turne agayne and we wyll loke vpon thee: What will ye see in the (e) Sulamite? She is lyke men of warre singing in a companie.

(b) There be many in the Churche of God, & diuers orders and degrees therein.

(c) Diuers particuler Churches dispersed, maketh but one catholike Churche.

(d) Christe loketh vpon his Church subiect to affliction, what fruite it bryngeth.

(e) Sulamite, that is, Hierusalem, the which was Shalem, that signifieth peace.

(c) The Churche deſireth to be ioyned with Chriſte by the ſeale of the holy ghoſt.

The booke of the prophete Esai.

The first Chapter.

2 The prophete accuseth the sinnes of the people: namely of ingratefulnesse, stubbornesse, 11 faithlesse seruice of God, 24 and sheweth Gods terrible iudgement against them vnlesse they repent.

(a) A reuelation or prophecie.

THe (a) vision of Esai ẏ sonne of Amos, which he sawe vpon Juda and Hierusalem, in the dayes of Uzia & Joathan, Ahaz and Jehezekiah, kinges of Juda.

2 Heare O heauens, and hearken O earth: for the Lorde hath spoken, I haue nourished and brought vp children, and they haue done vnfaithfully against me.

3 The ore hath knowen his owner, and the asse his maisters cribbe: [but] Israel hath not knowen, my people hath geuen no heede.

4 Ah sinnefull nation, a people laden with iniquitie, a seede of the wicked, corrupt children: they haue forsaken the Lorde, they haue prouoked the holy one of Israel vnto anger, they are gone backwarde.

5 Why shoulde ye be stricken any more? [for] ye are euer fallyng away: euery head is diseased, and euery heart heauy:

6 From the sole of the foote vnto the head there is nothyng sounde in it: [but] woundes, blaynes, and putrifying sore: they haue not ben salued, neither wrapped vp, neither mollified with the oyntment.

7 Your lande is wasted, your cities are burnt vp, straungers deuour your lande before your face, and it is made desolate, as it were the destruction of enemies [in the tyme of warre.] 25

8 And the daughter of Sion shalbe left as a cotage in a vineyarde, lyke a lodge in a garden of Cucumbers, lyke a besieged citie.

9 Except the Lorde of hoastes had left vs a small remnaunt, we shoulde haue ben as Sodoma, & lyke vnto Gomorra.

10 Heare the worde of the Lord ye lordes of Sodoma, and hearken vnto the lawe of our God thou people of Gomorra.

11 Why offer ye so many sacrifices to me, wyll the Lorde say: I am full of the burnt burnt offeringes of weathers, & of the fatnesse of fed beastes, (b) I haue no pleasure in the blood of bullockes, lambes, and goates.

12 When ye come to appeare before me treadyng in my courtes, who hath required this at your handes:

13 Offer me no mo oblations, for it is but lost labour: incense is an abhominable thyng vnto me, I may not away with your newe moones, your sabbathes & solempne meetynges, your solempne assemblies are wicked.

14 I hate your newe moones and appoynted feastes euen from my very heart, they make me weery, I can not abyde them.

15 When you holde out your handes, I wyll turne myne eyes from you: and though ye make many prayers, yet I wyll heare nothyng at all, seyng your handes are full of blood.

16 Washe you, make you cleane, put away your euyll thoughtes out of my syght: ceasse from doyng of euyll,

17 Learne to do well, applie your selues to equitie, deliuer the oppressed, helpe the fatherlesse to his ryght, let the Widdowes complaynt come before you:

18 And then go to, saith the Lorde, let vs talke together: though your sinnes be as red as scarlet, they shalbe as whyte as snowe: and though they were lyke purple, they shalbe as whyte as wooll.

19 If ye be wyllyng and obedient, ye shal eate the good of the lande:

20 But yf ye be obstinate and rebellious, ye shalbe deuoured with the swoorde: for the mouth of the Lord hath spoken [it.]

21 Howe happeneth it then that the righteous citie which was full of equitie, is become vnfaythfull as a whore: Righteousnesse dwelt in it, but nowe murtherers.

22 Thy siluer is turned to drosse, and thy wine mixt with water.

23 Thy princes are wicked, and companions of theeues: they loue gyftes altogether, and gape for rewardes: As for the fatherlesse they helpe hym not to his ryght, neither wyll they let the Widdowes causes come before them.

24 Therfore saith the Lorde God of hoastes, the mightie one of Israel: Ah I must ease me of mine enemies, and auenge me of mine aduersaries:

25 And I shall lay my hande vpon thee, and purely purge away thy drosse, and take away all thy tinne:

26 And set thy iudges agayne as they were sometyme, and thy senatours as they were from the begynnyng: and then thou shalt be called the ryghteous citie, the faythfull citie.

27 Sion shalbe redeemed with equitie, and her conuertes with righteousnesse.

28 But the transgressours, and the vngodly, and such as forsake the Lorde, shall altogether be vtterly destroyed.

29 For ye shalbe confounded for the trees which ye haue desired: and ye shalbe ashamed of the gardens that ye haue chosen.

30 For ye shalbe as a tree whose leaues are fallen away, and as a garden that hath no moystnesse.

31 And the very strong one [of your idols] shalbe as towe, and the maker of it as a sparke [of fire] and they shal both burne together, and no man quenche them.

The .ij. Chapter.

1 A prophecie of Christe and his kyngdome. 12 Pryde, couetousnesse, superstition, and idolatrie are reproued. 17 Gods terrible iudgement agaynst these.

1 The selfe same worde that Esai the sonne of Amos sawe vpon Iuda and Hierusalem.

2 And [this] shall come to passe in the latter dayes: the hyll of the Lordes house shalbe prepared in the heyght of the mountaynes, and shalbe hygher then the hylles, and all nations shall preasse vnto hym.

3 And a multitude of people shall go, speakyng [thus one to another] come, let vs ascende to the hyll of the Lorde, to the house of the God of Jacob, and he wyll instruct vs of his wayes, and we wyll walke in his pathes: for out of Sion shall come a lawe, and the worde of the Lorde from Hierusalem:

4 And shall geue sentence among the heathen, and shall reforme the multitude of people: they shall breake their swoordes also into mattockes, and their speares to make sithes: And one people shall shall not lyft vp a weapon agaynst another, neither shall they learne to fyght from thencefoorth.

5 Come ye O house of Jacob, and let vs walke in the lyght of the Lorde:

6 For thou hast forsaken thy people the house of Jacob, (b) because they be replenished [with euils] from the east, and with sorcerers lyke the Philistines, and in straunge children they thynke them selues to haue enough.

(b) The causes why God forsaketh his people is, idolatrie, heathenishe superstition, couetousnesse, and trust in other thinges then in God alone.

7 Their lande is full of siluer and golde, neither is there any ende of their treasure: their lande is also full of horses, and no ende is there of their charrettes.

8 Their lande also is full of vayne gods, and before the worke of their owne handes they haue bowed them selues, yea euen before the thyng that their owne fingers haue made.

9 There kneeleth the man, there falleth the man downe [before them:] therfore forgeue them not.

10 Get thee into the rocke, and hyde thee in the grounde for feare of the Lorde, and for the glorie of his maiestie.

11 The high lookes of man shalbe brought lowe, and the hautinesse of men shalbe bowed downe: and the Lorde alone shalbe exalted in that day.

12 For the day of the Lorde of hoastes [shalbe] vpon all the proude, lofty, and vpon all that is exalted, and he shalbe brought lowe:

13 And vpon all high and stout Cedar trees of Libanus, and vpon all the okes of Basan,

14 And vpon all the high mountaynes, and vpon all the high hilles, ¶

15 And vpon euery high towre, and vpon euery fenced wall,

16 And vpon all the shippes of Tharsis, and vpon all pictures of pleasure.

17 And the pride of man shalbe brought downe, and the loftinesse of men shalbe made lowe, and the Lorde alone shalbe exalted in that day:

18 As for the idols he shall vtterly abolishe:

19 And they shall creepe into holes of stone, and into caues of the earth for feare of the Lorde, and for the glorie of his maiestie, when he ariseth to destroy [the wicked ones of] the earth.

20 In the selfe same day shall man cast away his gods of siluer, and his gods of golde, into the holes of Mowles and Backes, which he neuertheless had made to hym selfe to honour them.

21 And they shall creepe into the clyftes of the rockes, and into the toppes of the harde stones for feare of the Lorde, and for the glorie of his maiestie, when he ariseth to destroy [the wicked ones of] the earth.

22 Ceasse therfore from man in whose nosethrilles there is breath: for wherin is he to be accompted of?

The .iij. Chapter.

1 The mischiefes that God sendeth on common weales for the contempt of his worde. 14 The couetousnesse of rulers reproued. 16 The proude nicenesse of women punished to their shame.

A 1 For lo, the Lorde God of hoastes doth take away from Hierusalem and Juda all maner of stay, all stay of meate and drynke,

2 The captayne and the souldiour, the iudge and the prophete, the (a) prudent and the aged man,

(a) The prudent, that is, such as can foresee by their prudencie thynges to come.

3 The captayne of fifties & the honorable, the senatour, the cunnyng artificer, and the eloquent oratour.

4 And I shall geue children to be their princes, and babes shall rule ouer them.

5 And the people shall eche one of them violently oppresse another, and euery one agaynst his neyghbour: The boy shall presume agaynst the elder, and the person of lowe degree agaynst the honorable.

6 Yea one shall take a friende of his owne kinrede by the bosome, and say: thou hast clothyng, thou shalt be our head, and stay this ruine with thy hande.

7 Then shall he sweare and say, I can not helpe you: there is neither meate nor clothyng in my house, make me no ruler of the people.

8 For Hierusalem and Juda must decay: because that both their wordes and counsayles are agaynst the Lorde to prouoke the presence of his maiestie to anger.

9 Their

9 Their very countenaunce bewrayeth
the, yea they declare their owne sinnes [themselues] as Sodome, they hide it not:
wo be to their owne soules, for they haue rewarded euyll vnto them selues.
10 Say to the ryghteous that it shall go well with them: for they shall eate the fruite of their owne studies.
11 [But] wo be vnto the wicked, for it shal-be euyll with hym: for he shalbe rewarded after his owne workes.
12 Children are extortioners of my people, and women rule ouer them: O my people, thy leaders deceaue thee, and corrupt the way of thy footsteppes.
13 The Lorde is here to commune of the matter, & standeth to iudge the people.
¶ 14 The Lorde shall enter into iudgement with the elders and princes of his people, [and shall say to them:] It is ye that haue burnt vp my vineyarde, the spoyle of the poore is in your houses.
15 What meane ye that ye bray [as in a morter] my people, and grinde the faces of the poore? saith the Lorde God of hoastes.
16 Moreouer the Lord hath said, seing the daughters of Sion are waxen proude, & walke with stretched foorth neckes, and wanton lokes, goyng and trippyng nicely, and tinckelyng with their feete:
17 Therfore shall the Lorde shaue the heades of the daughters of Sion, and shall discouer their filthynesse.
18 In that day shall the Lord take away the gorgiousnesse of the attire about their feete, & the caules, and the rounde tires [after the fashion of the moone.]
19 The sweete perfumes, and the bra-lettes, and the mufflers, 20 The bonnettes, and the sloppes, and the head bandes, and the tablettes, and the earynges,
21 And rynges, and nose iewels:
22 The costly apparell, and the vayles, D and the wimples, & the crispyng pinnes, 23 And the glasses, and the fine linnen, and the hoodes, and the lawnes.
24 And in steade of good smell there shal-be stincke, and in steade of their girdle a rent, and for well set heere there shal-be baldnesse, in steade of a stomacher a sacke cloth, & [same] burnyng for beautie.
25 Thy men shal perishe with the sword, and thy valiaunt souldiours in the bat-tayle [O Hierusalem.]
26 And her gates shall mourne and be-wayle: and she beyng desolate, shall syt vpon the grounde.

wyll finde our selues
meate and apparell:
only let vs be called by thy name, to take our shamefull reproofe [from vs.]

Lorde be beautifull and glorious, and the fruite of the earth shalbe excellent and pleasaunt, for them that are escaped of Israel.
3 Then shall the remnaunt in Sion and the remnaunt at Hierusalem be called holy: [namely] all such as are written among the lyuyng in Hierusalem,
4 (b) After that the Lorde hath washt away the filthinesse of the daughters of Sion, and hath purged the blood out from Hierusalem in the spirite of iudge-ment and in the spirite of fire.
5 And vpon all the dwellynges of the hylles of Sion, and vpon her congregations, the Lord shall create a cloude and smoke by day, and the shynyng of a flamyng fire by night: for all the (c) glorie shalbe preserued.

shadowe in the day time from the heat,

The

The .v. Chapter.

1 Of Christe and his vineyarde, 8 with an execration of couetousnesse, 11 drunkennesse, 19 and contempt of Gods worde.

A 1 NOwe wyll I syng my beloued friende, a song of my friende touching his vineyard: My beloued friende hatha vineyarde in a very fruteful plenteous grounde.

2 This he hedged, and gathered out the stones from it, and planted it with the choysest vine: In the middest of it builded he a towre, also made a wine presse therin: (a) and he loked that it shoulde bring him grapes, and it brought foorth wylde grapes.

(a) God loketh to receaue of his people the thankefull fruites of fayth, and not the vnpleasant workes of faythlesse ingratitude.

3 Nowe O citezen of Hierusalem, and man of Juda, iudge I pray thee betwixt me and my vineyarde:

4 what more coulde haue ben done for it, that I haue not done? wherfore then hath it geuen wylde grapes, where I loked to haue had grapes of it?

5 Well, nowe I shall tell you howe I will do with my vineyarde: I will take the hedge from it, that it may perishe, and breake downe the wall therof, that it may be troden vnder foote.

6 I wyll lay it waste, it shall neither be digged nor cut, but beare thornes and briers: I wyll also forbyd the cloudes that they shall not rayne vpon it.

B 7 As for the vineyarde of the Lorde of hoastes, it is the house of Israel: and the man of Juda, the plant of his pleasure: Of these he loked for equitie, but see there is oppression for ryghteousnesse, and lo it is a crying.

8 Wo vnto them that ioyne one house to another, and bring one lande so nigh vnto another, that there is no more place: wyll ye be placed alone in the myddest of the earth?

9 These thynges are in the eares of the Lorde of hoastes: of a trueth great and faire houses shalbe without any dweller in them.

10 And tenne acres of vines shall geue but a quart, and thirtie bushels of seede shall geue but an Epha.

11 Wo be vnto them that rise vp early to folowe drunkennesse, continuyng vntyll nyght, tyll they be set on fire with wine.

12 In their feastes are harpes and lutes, tabrettes and pipes, and wine: but they regarde not the worke of the Lord, and consider not the operatiō of his handes.

13 Therfore commeth my folke into captiuitie, because they haue no vnderstandyng: (b) Their glorie is famished with hunger, and their multitude dryed vp with thirst.

(b) Or glorie, for neither can he eate who cannot swallow.

14 Therfore gapeth hell and openeth her mouth marueilous wyde, that their glorie, multitude, and wealth, with such as reioyce in her, may descende into it. C

15 Thus hath man a fall and is brought lowe, and the hygh loke of the proude shalbe layde downe.

16 But the Lorde of hoastes shalbe exalted in iudgement, and God that is holy is sanctified in ryghteousnesse.

17 Then shall the sheepe eate as they were wont, and the riche mens landes that were layde waste shall straungers deuour.

18 Wo be vnto them that drawe wickednesse with cordes of vanitie, and sinne as it were with a cart rope.

19 Which vse to speake on this maner, Let hym make speede and hasten his worke, that we may see it: let the counsayle of the holy one of Israel come and drawe nye, that we may knowe it.

20 Wo be vnto them that call euyll good, and good euyll, which make darknesse lyght, and lyght darknesse, that make sowre sweete, and sweete sowre.

21 Wo be vnto them that are wise in their owne syght, and thynke them selues to haue vnderstandyng. D

22 Wo be vnto them that are strong to suppe out wine, and expert men to set vp drunkennesse.

23 Wo be vnto them that geue sentence with the vngodly for rewardes, but condempne the iust cause of the ryghteous.

24 Therfore, lyke as fire licketh vp the straw, and as the flambe consumeth the stubble: euen so their roote shalbe as corruption, and their blossome shall vanishe away lyke dust: for they haue cast away the lawe of the Lorde of hoastes, and despised the worde of the holy one of Israel.

25 Therfore is the wrath of the Lorde kindeled kindeled against his people, and hath stretched forth his hande vpon them, yea he hath smitten them: and the hilles dyd tremble, and their carkases dyd lye torne in the open stretes: and in al this the wrath of God hath not ceassed, but his hande stretched out styll.

26 And he shall geue a token to a people of a farre countrey, and shall hisse vnto them from the ende of the earth: and beholde, they shall come hastyly with speede.

27 There shall not be one faynt nor feeble among them, no not a sluggishe nor sleepie person: there shall not one of them put of his gyrdle from his loynes, nor loose the latchet of his shoe.

28 His arrowes are sharpe, and all his bowes bent: his horse hoofes are as flint, and his cart wheeles like a whyrle winde.

29 His crye is as it were of a Lion, and he roreth lyke Lions whelpes: they shall roare and hantche vpon the pray, and no man shall recouer it, nor get it from them.

30 In that day he shalbe so fierce vpon him as the raging of the sea: then one shall beholde the (c) lande, and lo darkenesse and sorow, and the light is darkened in the heauens therof.

(c) The lande of Juda shalbe ouerwhelmed with miserable affliction.

The. vj. Chapter.

1 Esai sawe the glory of the Lorde. 9 And was sent to prophecie the desolation of Jurie.

1 IN the yere that kyng Oziah dyed, I sawe also the Lorde sitting vpon an high and glorious seate, and his trayne filled the temple.

2 And about hym stoode Seraphims, whereof one had sixe winges, with twayne eche couered his face, with twayne his feete, and with twayne did he flee.

3 They cryed also eche one to another on this maner, Holy, holy, holy is the Lorde of hoastes: the whole earth is full of his glory.

4 And the lintels of the doore cheekes moued at his crying, and the house was full of smoke.

5 Then sayd I, wo is me, for I am lost, in as much as I am a man of vncleane lippes, and dwell among people that hath vncleane lippes also: for mine eyes haue seene the kyng the Lorde of hoastes.

6 Then flewe one of the Seraphims vnto me, hauing a hote cole in his hand, whiche he had taken from the aulter with the tongues,

7 And layde it vpon my mouth, and sayde: Lo, [this] hath touched thy (a) lippes, and thine vnrighteousnesse shalbe taken away, and thy sinne forgeuen.

(a) Gods sacraments are not bare signes, but with the signe and the word, the matter signified, is exhibited to the faythfull.

8 Also I hearde the voyce of the Lorde on this maner: Whom shall I sende, and who wyll be our messenger? Then I sayde, Here am I, sende me.

9 And he sayd, Go and tell this people: Heare in deede, yet vnderstande not, ye shall playnely see, and yet perceaue not.

10 Harden the heart of this people, stop their eares, and shut their eyes: lest they see with their eyes, heare with their eares, and vnderstande with their heartes, and conuert and be healed.

11 Then spake I, Lord, howe long? He aunswered, vntill the cities be vtterly wasted without inhabiters, and the houses without men, and tyll the lande be also vtterly desolate.

12 For the Lorde shall put the men farre away, and [there shalbe] great waste in the middest of the lande.

13 Yet in it shall succeede ten kinges, and it shall returne and be afterwarde wasted: [But] as the Teyle tree and the Oke in the fall of their leaues haue yet the sappe remayning in them, [euen so] the holy seede shalbe the stay therof.

¶ The. vij. Chapter.

1 The Syrians moue battayle against Hierusalem. 14 A virgin shall beare a chylde.

A 1 IT happened in the tyme of Ahaz ỹ sonne of Jotham, whiche was the sonne of Uzziah king of Juda, that Razin the kyng of Syria, and Pechah the sonne of Romeliah kyng of Israel, went vp toWarde Hierusalem to besiege it: but Razin was not able to Winne it.

(a) Dauids house, that is Ahaz.

2 Nowe When the (a) house of Dauid hearde Worde thereof, that Syria and Ephraim Was cõfederate together, his heart quaked, yea and the heartes also of his people, lyke as When the trees of the Wood are moued With the Winde.

3 Then sayd God vnto Esai: Go meete Ahaz thou and thy sonne Sear Jasub, at the head of the ouer poole in the footepath by the fullers grounde,

4 And say vnto him: Take heede to thy selfe and be styll, feare not, neither be faynt hearted, for these two tayles, that is, for these two smoking firebrandes, the Wrath and furiousnesse of Razin the Syrian, and Romelies sonne:

5 Because that the Syrian, Ephraim, and Romelies sonne haue Wickedly conspired against thee,

6 Saying, We Wyll go vp against Juda, vexe them, and bring them vnder vs, and set a kyng there, euen the sonne of Tabel:

B 7 Thus saith the Lorde God thereto, It shal not so go foorth, neither so come to passe.

8 For the head citie of the Syrians is Damascus, but the head of Damascus is Razin: And after threescore and fiue yeres shall Ephraim be no more a people.

9 And the head of Ephraim is Samaria, but the head of Samaria is Romelies sonne: if ye beleue not, surely ye shall not be established.

10 Moreouer, God spake agayne vnto Ahaz, saying:

11 Require to thy selfe a token of the Lorde thy God, Whether it be toWarde the depth beneath, or toward the height aboue.

12 Then said Ahaz, I Will require none, neither Wyll I tempt the Lorde.

13 The prophete answered, Then heare ye of the house of Dauid: Is it not inough for you that ye be greeuous vnto mẽ, but ye must greeue my God also?

14 Therefore the Lorde hym selfe shall geue you a token: Beholde, a virgin shall conceaue and beare a sonne, and shall call his name Emmanuel. C

15 Butter and honye shall he eate, vntill he knowe to refuse the euyll and choose the good.

16 For or euer the chylde come to knowledge to eschewe the euil and choose the good, the lande that thou so abhorrest shalbe desolate of both her kynges.

17 The Lord also shall sende a tyme vpon thee, vpon thy people, and vpon thy fathers house, such as neuer came since the tyme that Ephraim departed from Juda, namely thorowe the kyng of the Assyrians.

18 For at the same tyme shall the Lorde hisse for the flyes that are about the Water of Egypt, and for the bees in the Assyrians lande:

19 These shall come and shall light all in the desolate valleys, in the holes of stones, and vpon all thorne and bushie places.

20 At the same time shal the Lord shaue the (b) heere of the head, and the feete, and the beard cleane of, With the raser that he shall hyre beyonde the Waters: namely With the king of the Assyrians. D

(b) The heer of the head and the beard, the parts of a man most fearful to be shaue from, till it people.

21 At the same time shal a man nurrishe a young cowe, and two sheepe.

22 Then because of the aboundaunce of mylke that they geue he shall eate butter: so that euery one Which remayneth in the lande shall eate butter and hony.

23 At the same time al vineyardes Wherin there shalbe a thousand vines Worth a thousande siluerlinges, shalbe turned to bryers and thornes.

24 They shall come into the lande With arrowes and bowes, because all the lande shall become bryers and thornes.

As for all hilles that shalbe digged With the mattocke, there shall not come vpon them any feare of bryers and thornes: but the cattell shalbe driuen thyther, and the sheepe shal feede there.

The. viij. Chapter.

5 The deliueraunce of the lande by Emmanuel. 14 The stone of offence, at whiche many shall stumble.

A 1 MOreouer the Lorde sayde vnto me, Take thee a great roule, and wryte in it as men do with a pen: make hastie speede to rob, and haste to the spoyle.

2 And I called vnto me faythfull Witnesses to recorde, Uriah the priest, and Zacharias the sonne of Barachiah.

3 After that went I vnto the prophetisse, and she conceaued & bare a sonne: Then sayde the Lord to me, Geue him his name, a speedie robber, an hastie spoyler.

4 For why, or euer the chylde shall haue knowledge to crye my father and mother, shall the riches of Damascus and the spoyle of Samaria be taken away before the kyng of the Assyrians.

5 The Lorde spake also vnto me agayne, saying:

6 Forsomuche as this people refuseth the styll running water of Silo, and put their delight in Razin and Romelies sonne:

B 7 Beholde, the Lord shall bryng mightie and great fludds of water vpon them, namely the king of the Assyrians with all his power, which shall climbe vp vpon all his fludds, and runne ouer all his bankes,

8 And shall breake in vpon Juda, he shall flowe and passe thorowe, tyll he come vp to the necke thereof: he shall fill also the Wideneſſe of thy lande with his wynges O Emmanuel.

9 Breake downe O ye people, (a) and ye shalbe broken downe, hearken to all ye of farre countreys: muster you, and you shalbe broken downe, prepare you, and you shalbe torne in peeces.

10 Take your counsell together, yet shall your counsell come to naught: determine the matter, yet shall it not prosper: for God is with vs.

11 For the Lorde spake thus to me in a mightie propheſie, (b) and warned me that I should not walke in the way of this people, saying:

12 Ye shall not speake [wordes] of conspiracie in all thinges, When this people shall say conspiracie: feare them not, neither be afraide of them.

13 But sanctifie the Lorde of hoastes, let him be your feare and dread.

14 For he shalbe the holy place to flee to, C and stone to stumble at, the rocke to fall vpon, a snare and net to both the houses of Israel, and the inhabitours of Hierusalem:

15 And many among them shall stumble, and fall, and be broken, yea they shalbe snared and taken.

16 Binde vp the testimonie, seale the law in my disciples.

17 (c) And I wyll wayte vpon the Lorde that hideth his face from the house of Jacob, and I wyll loke for him. (c) The wordes of Christ.

18 But lo, as for me and the chyldren whiche the Lorde hath geuen me, we are to be a token and a wonder in Israel from the Lorde of hoastes, whiche dwelleth vpon the hill of Sion.

19 And if they say vnto you, Aske counsayle at the Soothsayers, Witches, Charmers, and Conurers: [then make them this aunswere.] Is there a people any where that asketh not counsayle at his God: shoulde men runne vnto the dead for the liuing:

20 Get thee to the lawe, (d) and the testimonie: and if they speake not after this worde, there is no light in them. D (d) We must seeke in Gods word what to folowe, for in meanes without Gods worde there is no light.

21 And they shall wander thorowe this lande hardly besteade and hungry, and when they suffer hunger, they wyll be out of patience, and curse their king and their God, and shall loke vpwarde and downewarde to the earth, 22 And beholde there is trouble and darkneſſe, dymneſſe is rounde about him, & he shalbe driuen into darkneſſe.

23 Neuertheleſſe, the darkneſſe shall not be suche as was in her veration, when at the first he lightly afflicted the lande Zabulon, and the lande of Nephthali, and afterwarde dyd more greeuously afflict her by the way of the sea beyond Jordane in Galilee of the heathen.

The. ix. Chapter.

5 He prophecieth of Christes natiuitie and dominion.

A 1 THE people that walked in darknesse, haue seene a great light: As for them that dwell in the lande of the shadowe of death, vpon them hath the light shined.

2 Thou hast multiplied the people, and not increased their ioy: *they reioyce before thee, euen as men make merie in haruest, and they be ioyfull as men that do deuide the spoyle [after the victorie.]

3 For thou hast broken the yoke of his burthen, the staffe of his shoulder, and the rod of his oppressour, as in the day of Madian.

4 And truely euery battayle that the warrier maketh, is done with confused noyse: and defiling their garmentes with blood, but this battayle [shalbe with burning and consuming of fire.

(a) Christe his kingdome and his names.

5 For vnto vs a (a) chylde is borne, and vnto vs a sonne is geuen, vpō his shoulder doth the rule lye, and he is called with his owne name Wonderfull, the geuer of counsell, the mightie God, the euerlasting father, the prince of peace.

6 He shall make no ende to encrease the rule & peace, and shall sit vpon the seate of Dauid, and in his kingdome, to order the same, and to stablishe it with equitie and righteousnesse from hence foorth for euermore: This shall the zeale of the Lorde of hoastes bring to passe.

B 7 The Lorde sent a worde into Jacob, the same is come into Israel.

8 And all the people of Ephraim shall knowe, and they that dwell in Samaria that say with pryde and high stomackes [on this maner.]

9 The tyle worke is fallen downe, but we wyll buylde it with squared stones: the Mulberie timber is broken, but we shall set it vp agayne with Cedar.

10 But the Lorde shall strengthen the enemies of Razin, and ioyne his aduersaries together against him.

11 The Syrians before, and the Philistines behinde, and shall deuour Israel with open mouth: After all this is not the wrath of the Lorde ceassed, but yet his hande stretched out styll.

12 For the people turneth not vnto hym that chastiseth them, neither do they seeke the Lorde of hoastes. C

13 Therefore hath the Lorde rooted out of Israel both head and tayle, bough and reede in one day.

14 By the head, is vnderstande the senatour and honourable man, and by the tayle, the prophete that preached lyes.

15 For the guides of this people are deceauers, and those that be gouerned are vtterly lost.

16 Therefore shall the Lorde haue no pleasure in their young men, neither haue pitie of their fatherlesse and wydowes: for they are altogether hypocrites and wicked, and al their mouthes speake folly: After all this is not the Lordes wrath ceassed, but yet his hand is stretched out styll. D

17 For vngodlynesse burneth as a fire, and shall deuour bryers and thornes, and it shall burne as in the thicket of a wood, and [the wicked] aduaunce themselues, as the smoke is caryed vp.

18 Through owe the wrath of the Lorde of hoastes is the lande full of darknesse, and the people be consumed as it were with fire: no man doth spare his brother.

19 But he robbeth on the right hande, and doth famishe, he eateth on the left hande, and he shall not haue inough: euery man shall eate the flesshe of his owne arme.

20 Manasses [shall eate] Ephraim, and Ephraim Manasses, and they both together shall eate Juda: After all this is not the Lordes wrath ceassed, but yet his hande stretched out styll.

¶ The. x. Chapter.

1 He threatneth the oppressours of the poore. 12 And prophecieth against Sennacherib.

A 1 WO be vnto them that make vnrighteous lawes, and that cau-
2 seth their actuaries to wryte greeuousnesse, where thorowe the poore are put from their right, and my seelie people robbed of iudgement, that wydowes may be their pray, and that they may rob the fatherlesse.

3 What wyll ye do in the tyme of visitation, and when destruction shall come from farre: to whom wyll ye runne for helpe: and where wyll you leaue your glory:

4 That when I withdrawe my hand, ye come not among the prysoners, nor lye among the dead: After all this doth not the wrath of the Lorde ceasse, but yet is his hande stretched out styll.

5 O Assur whiche art the staffe of my wrath, in whose hand is the rod of mine indignation.

6 I wyll sende hym among those hypocritishe people: among the people that haue deserued my displeasure wyll I sende hym, that he vtterly rob them, spoyle them, and treade them downe lyke the myre in the streete.

B 7 Howbeit, his meaning is not so, neither thinketh his heart on this fashion: But he imagineth howe he may roote out and destroy muche people.

8 For he saith, Are not my princes all kynges:

9 Is not Chalno as easie to winne, as Charchamis: Is it harder to conquer Hamath, then Arphad: or is it lighter to ouercome Damascus, then Samaria:

10 [As who say] I were able to winne the kyngdomes of the idolaters and their gods, but not Hierusalem and Samaria.

11 Shall I not do vnto Hierusalem and her images, as I dyd vnto Samaria and her idols:

12 Wherefore it shall come to passe, that assoone as the Lorde hath performed his whole worke vpon the hill of Sion and Hierusalem, then wyll I visite the fruite of the stoute heart of the kyng of Assyria with his proude lookes.

13 For he standeth thus in his owne conceipt, This do I thorowe the power of myne owne hande, & thorowe my wysdome: for I am wyse, I am he that remoue the landes of the people, I rob their treasure, and haue pulled downe the inhabitauntes like a valiaunt man.

14 My hand hath found out the strength of the people as it were a nest: and like as egges that were layde here and there, are gathered together, so do I gather all countreys, and there was none [to bolde] as to moue the winge, that dare open his mouth, or once whisper. C

15 Shall the axe boast it selfe against him that heweth therwith: or shal the sawe make any bragging against hym that ruleth it: That were euen lyke as if the rod did exalt it selfe against him that beareth it, or as though the staffe should magnifie it selfe [as who say] it were no wood.

16 Therefore shall the Lorde the God of hoastes sende among his fatlinges leanenesse, and burne vp his glory as it were with a fire.

17 And the light of Israel shalbe that fire, and his holy one shalbe the flambe: and it shall kindle and burne vp his thornes and bryers in one day.

18 Yea all the glory of his woodes and fieldes shalbe consumed with body and soule, and they shalbe as an hoast of men, whose standard bearer fayleth.

19 The trees also of his wood whiche remayne shalbe of such a number that a chylde may tell them.

20 After that day shall the remnaunt of Israel, and suche as are escaped out of the house of Jacob, seeke no more comfort at him that smote them: but vnfaynedly shall they trust vnto the Lorde, the holy one of Israel.

¶ 21 The remnaunt, euen the posteritie of Jacob, shall conuert vnto God the mightie one.
22 For though thy people O Israel be as the sande of the sea, yet shal the remnaunt of them conuert vnto him: The decreed consumption ouerfloweth with righteousnesse.
23 And therefore the Lorde of hoastes shall perfectly fulfill the thing that he hath determined in the middest of the whole worlde.
24 Therefore thus saith the Lorde God of hoastes: Thou my people that dwellest in Sion, be not afraide for the king of the Assirians: he shall smyte thee with a rod, and shall lyft vp his staffe against thee, as the Egyptians dyd sometime.
25 But very soone after shall my wrath and indignation be fulfilled in the destruction of them:
26 Moreouer, the Lorde of hoastes shall stirre vp a scourge for him, like as was the slaughter of Madian vpō the rocke Oreb, and as the destruction of the Egyptians when he lyfted vp his rod vpon the sea.
27 Then shal his burthen be taken from thy shoulders, and his yoke from thy necke, yea the same yoke shalbe destroyed because of the vnction. D
28 He shal come to Aiath, and go thorow towarde Migron, at Michmas shall he lay vp his harneste.
29 They shall go ouer the foorde, Geba shalbe their resting place, Rhama shalbe afraide, Gibea Saul shall flee away.
30 Lift vp thy voyce O daughter Gallim, geue eare to Laisa thou poore Anathoth.
31 Madmena shall tremble for feare, but the citizens of Gabim are manly.
32 Yet shall he remaine at Nob that day: after that shall he lyft vp his hande against the mount of the daughter Sion the hyll of Hierusalem.
33 But see, the Lord God of hoastes shall breake downe the bough with feare, he shall hewe downe the proude, and fell the high minded.
34 The thickets also of the wood shall he roote out with iron, and Libanus shall haue a fall thorowe the mightie.

The. xj. Chapter.

1 He prophecieth of the natiuitie of Christe, and of his people. 6 Of the remnaunt of Israel. 10 And of the layth of the heathen or gentiles.

A 1 ND there shall come a sprig foorth of the (a) stemme of Esai, and a young shoote shall growe out of his roote.
(a) Christe shalbe borne of the seede of Esai.
2 The spirite of the Lorde shall rest vpon him, the spirite of wysdome and vnderstanding, the spirite of counsaile and strength, the spirite of knowledge and of the feare of the Lorde,
3 And shall make hym of deepe iudgement in the feare of God: For he shall not geue sentence after the thing that shalbe brought before his eyes, neither reproue after the hearing of his eares:
4 But with righteousnesse shal he iudge the poore, and with equitie shall he reproue the simple of the worlde, and he shall smyte the worlde with the rod of his (b) mouth, and with the breath of his mouth shall he slay the vngodly. (b) The armour of Christe and of his kyngdome
5 Righteousnesse shalbe the gyrdle of his loynes, and faythfulnesse the gyrding vp of his raynes.
6 The woolfe shall dwell with the Lambe, and the Leoparde shall lye downe by the Goate: Bullockes, Lions, and cattell, shall kepe company together, so that a litle chylde shall leade them.
7 The Cowe and the Beare shall feede together, and their young ones shall lye together: the Lion shall eate strawe, lyke the Oxe or the Cowe. B
8 The chylde whyle he sucketh shall haue a desire to the serpentes nest, and when he is weaned, he shall put his hande into the Cockatrice denne.
9 No man shall do euill vnto another, no man shall destroy another in all the hyll hyll of my holynes: for the earth shalbe full of the knowledge of the Lorde: euen as the sea floweth ouer with water.

10 And in that day shall the gentiles enquire after the roote of Jesse, whiche shalbe set vp for a token vnto the people, and his rest shalbe glorious.

11 At the same time shall the Lord take in hande agayne to recouer the remnaunt of his people, whiche shalbe left alyue from the Assirians, Egyptians, Arabians, Mozians, Elamites, Chaldees, Antiochians, & from the Flandes of the sea, 12 And he shall set vp a token among the gentiles, and gather together the dispearsed of Israel, yea and the outcastes of Juda from the foure corners of the worlde.

13 The hatred of Ephraim also and enemies of Juda shalbe cleane rooted out: Ephraim shall beare none euyll wyll to Juda, & Juda shall not vexe Ephraim.

14 But they both together shall flee vpon the shoulders of the Philistines towarde the West, and spoyle them together that dwell towarde the east: The Idumites and the Moabites shal come vnder their handes, and the Amonites shalbe obedient vnto them. C

15 The Lord also shal cleaue the tongues (c) of the Egyptians sea, and with his mightie winde shall he lyft vp his hand ouer Nilus, and shall smyte his seuen streames, and make men go ouer drye shod.

(c) The tongue, that is, the arme of the sea that hindereth the passage.

16 And thus shall there be a way for his people that remayneth from the Assirians, lyke as it happened to the Israelites what tyme they departed out of the lande of Egypt.

The.xij.Chapter.

4 The song of the Churche for the obtayning of the victorie and ouercomming of the worlde.

A 1 AND in that day thou shalt say, O Lorde I wyll prayse thee, for thou wast displeased at me: but refrayne thou from thy wrath, and comfort me.

2 Beholde, God is my saluation, in whō I wyll trust and not be afrayde: for the Lorde God is my strength and [my] song, he also is become my saluation.

3 Therfore with ioy shall ye drawe water out of the welles of saluation:

4 And then shall ye say: Geue thankes vnto the Lorde, call vpon his name, declare his workes among the people, kepe them in remembraunce, for his name is excellent. B

5 O sing prayses vnto the Lorde, for he hath done great thinges, as it is knowen in all the worlde.

6 Crye out, and sing thou that dwellest in Sion: for great is the holy one of Israel in the middest of thee.

¶ The. xiij. Chapter.

1 He prophecieth the destruction of Babylon, the captiuitie and the comming agayne of the people.

A 1 THis is the (a) burthen of Babylon, whiche Esai the sonne of Amos did see.

(a) Burthen, that is, the prophecie.

2 Lift vp the banner vpon the high hyll, call vnto thē, wagge your hande, that they may go into the gates of the princes.

3 I haue commaunded my sanctified, I haue also called my valiaunt ones, ioying in my honour to execute my wrath.

4 There is a noyse of a multitude in the mountaynes, lyke as of a great people, a rushing as though the kingdomes of the nations came together: the Lorde of hoastes mustreth his armye to battayle.

5 They come out of a farre countrey from the ende of the heauen, euen the Lorde hym selfe with the ministers of his wrath, to destroy the whole lande.

6 Mourne ye, for the day of the Lord is at hande, and shall come as a destroyer from the almightie.

7 Therefore shall all handes be letten downe, and all mens heartes shall melt away.

8 They shall stande in feare, carefulnes and sorowe shall come vpon them, and they shal haue payne, as a woman that trauayleth with childe: One shalbe abashed of another, and their faces shall burne like the flame of fire.

9 Beholde, the day of the Lorde shall come terribly and full of indignation, furie & wrath, to make the lande waste, and to roote out the sinners therof.

10 For the starres and planettes of heauen shall not geue their light, the sunne shalbe darkened in the rising, and the moone shall not shine with her light.

11 And I wyll visite the wickednesse of the worlde, and the sinnes of the vngodlye. The high stomakes of the proude wyll I take away, and will lay downe the boasting of the tiraunt.

12 I wyll make a man dearer then fine gold, and a man to be more worth then a golden wedge of Ophir.

13 Therfore I wyll shake the heauens, and the earth shall remoue out of her place in the wrath of the Lorde of hoastes, and in the day of his fearefull indignation.

14 And [Babylon] shalbe as an hunted or chased Doe, and as a sheepe that no man taketh vp: Euery man shall turne to his owne people, and flee eche one vnto his owne lande.

15 Whoso is founde shalbe shot thorowe: and whoso taketh their part, shalbe destroyed with the sworde.

16 Their children shalbe slayne before their eyes: their house spoyled, and their wiues rauished.

17 For lo, I shall bring vp the Medes against them, whiche shall not regarde siluer, nor be desirous of golde:

18 with bowes shall they destroy the young men, and haue no pitie on women with childe, and their faces shall not spare the children.

19 And Babylon that glory of kingdomes, and beautie of the Chaldees honour shalbe destroyed, euen as God destroyed Sodome and Gomor.

20 It shall not endure for euer, neither shall there be any more dwelling there from generation to generation: The Arabians shall pitche no tentes there, neither shall the sheepheardes make their foldes there any more.

21 But fearefull wylde beastes shall lye there, and the houses shalbe ful of great Owles, Estriches shall dwell there, and Apes shall daunce there.

22 Wylde cattes shall crye in the palaces, and dragons shalbe in the pleasaunt houses: And as for Babylons tyme it is at hande, and her dayes shall not be prolonged.

The. xiiij. Chapter.

1 The returne of the people from captiuitie, the prosperitie of the people of God, and affliction of their enemies. 13 The pryde of Babylon.

1 A BUt the Lorde wylbe mercyfull vnto Jacob, and will yet chose Israel againe, and set them in their owne land, straungers shall cleaue and get them to the house of Jacob.

2 The people shall take them and carry them home to their owne land: and the house of Israel shall possesse them in the lande of the Lord, that they may be seruaunts and handmaydes: and they shall take those prysoners whose captiues they had ben before, and rule those that had oppressed them.

3 When the Lorde nowe shall bryng thee to rest from thy trauayle, feare, and harde bondage that thou wast laden withall:

4 Then shalt thou vse this mockage vpon the kyng of Babylon, and say: Howe happeneth it that the oppressour leaueth of: Is the golden tribute come to an ende:

5 The Lorde hath broken the scepter of the vngodly, and the rod of the lordlye,

6 whiche

6 which when he is wroth, smiteth the people with continuall strokes, and in wrath raigneth ouer the heathen, whō he persecuteth without compassion.

B 7 And therfore the whole worlde is nowe at rest and quietnesse, and men sing for ioy.

8 Yea euen the Firre trees and Cedars of Libanus reioyce at thy fall, saying: Nowe that thou art layde downe, there come no mo vp to hewe downe vs.

9 Hell also beneath trembleth to meete thee at thy commyng, and for thy sake hath rayled his dead, all mightie men and princes of the earth, all kynges of the earth stande vp from their seates,

10 That they may all aunswere and speake vnto thee, Art thou become weake also as we? Art thou become lyke vnto vs?

11 Thy pompe and thy pride is layde downe into the pit, and so is the melodie of thy instrumentes. Wormes be layde vnder thee, & wormes be thy couering.

12 Howe art thou fallen from heauen O Lucifer, thou faire morning chylde? Howe hast thou gotten a fall euen to the grounde, which didst weaken the nations?

C 13 For thou saydest in thine heart, I wyll clymbe vp into heauen, and exalt my throne aboue beside the starres of God, I wyll sit also vpon the mount of the congregation towarde the North.

14 I wyll clymbe vp aboue the cloudes, and wyll be lyke the hyghest of all.

15 Yet thou shalt be brought downe to the deepe of hell, to the sides of the lake.

16 They that see thee shall narowly loke vpon thee, and thinke in them selues, [saying:] Is this the man that brought all landes in feare, and made the kyngdomes afrayde?

17 [Is this he] that made the worlde in a maner waste, and layde the cities to the grounde, which let not his prisoners go out?

18 The kynges of the nations lye euery one in his owne house with worship.

D 19 And thou art cast out of thy graue like a fylthy abhominable braunche, like as dead mens rayment that are shot thorowe with the swoorde, and go downe to the stones of the deepe, as a dead coarse that is troden vnder feete.

20 Thou art not buried with them: euen because that thou hast wasted thy lande & destroyed thy people: The generation of the wicked shalbe out of memorie for euer.

21 Let there a way be sought to destroy their children that be in their fathers wickednesse, that they come not vp agayne to possesse the lande, and fyll the worlde full of enemies.

22 I wyll stande vp agaynst them saith the Lorde of hoastes, and roote out the name and remnaunt, sonne and sonnes sonne of Babylon saith the Lorde.

23 I wyll geue it to the Otters, and wyll make water puddels of it, and I wyll sweepe them out with the besome of destruction saith the Lorde of hoastes.

24 The Lorde of hoastes hath swoorne an othe, saying: It shall come to passe as I haue determined, and shalbe fulfylled as I haue deuised,

25 So that Assyria shall I destroy in my lande, and vpon my mountaynes wil I treade hym vnder foote, wherthrough his yoke shall come from them, and his burthen shalbe taken from their shoulder. E

26 This deuise hath God taken throughout the whole worlde, and this is his hande stretched out ouer all people.

27 For yf the Lord of hoastes determine a thyng, who is able to disanull it? And if he stretch forth his hande, who may returne it agayne?

28 The same yere that kyng Ahaz dyed, was this burthen:

29 Reioyce not thou whole Palestina, because the rod of him that beateth thee is broken: for out of the serpentes roote there shall come an Adder, and his fruite shalbe a fierie fleeyng worme.

30 But the first borne of the poore shalbe fed, and the simple shall dwell in safetie: Thy roote also wyll I destroy with hunger, and it shall slay the remnaunt.

31 Mourne thou porte, weepe thou citie, for, O whole lande of Palestina, thou art layd waste: for there shal come from the north a smoke, that not one alone may abide at home in his times. F

32 What shall one then aunswere the messengers of the Gentiles? For the Lorde hath stablished Sion, and the poore of his people that be therein shall put their trust in it.

¶ The

The.xv.Chapter.

A prophecie agaynst Moab.

A 1 THis is the burthen vpon Moab: Ar of Moab was destroyed & ouerthrowen in the nyght season, Kir also in Moab was destroyed and perished in the nyght.

2 Moab went vp to the idols house, euen to Dibon to the hygh places to weepe: for Neba and Moab shall mourne for Medba, All their heades were balde, and all their beardes shauen.

3 In her streetes are they girded about with sackcloth: In all the toppes of her houses and streetes shalbe nothyng but mournyng and weepyng.

4 Hesbon and Eleale shall crye, that their voyce shalbe heard vnto Jahaz: and therfore the armed souldiours also of Moab shall bleate out and crye for very sorowe of their myndes.

5 Who shall my heart be for Moabs sake, they shall flee vnto the citie of Zoar, which is lyke a faire young bullocke of three yere olde, for they shall all go vp to Luith weepyng: euen so by the way towarde Horonaim they shall make lamentation for their vtter destruction.

6 For the waters of Nimrim shalbe dryed vp, by reason wherof the grasse is withered, the hearbes destroyed, and the greene thynges gone. B

7 Therfore the goodes that remayneth in Moab, and the riches therof, they shall cary to the brooke of Wyllowes.

8 For the crye went ouer the whole lande of Moab, vnto Eglaim and vnto Beer Elim was there nothyng but mournyng.

9 Because the waters of Dimon were full of blood, I wyll adde more vpon Dimon: and lions vpon the remnaunt of the lande, and on them that are escaped from Moab.

The .xvj. Chapter.

The destruction of Moab.

A 1 SEnde the lorde of the worlde a lambe from the rocke that lyeth towarde the desert, vnto the hyl of the daughter Sion.

(a) The careless and obstinate dispisers of tymely repentaunce moued by the preachyng of gods worde, shall repent when it is to late.

2 For as for the daughters of Moab they shalbe as a trembling birde that is put out of her nest: for they shall cary them vnto Arnon.

3 Gather your counsell, come together in iudgement, couer vs with your shadowe in the midday as the nyght doth hyde the chased, and bewray not them that are fled.

4 Let my persecuted people dwell among you, Moab be thou their refuge against the destroyer: for the aduersarie is brought to naught, the robber is vndone, the tiraunt is wasted out of the lande.

5 And in mercie shall the seate be prepared, and he shall sit vpon it in the trueth in the tabernacle of Dauid, iudging and seekyng iudgement, and makyng haste vnto ryghteousnesse.

6 We haue heard of the pride of Moab, he is very proude, presumptuous, arrogant, and full of indignation, and bayne are his lyes.

7 Therfore shall Moab make lamentation because of the Moabites [that shalbe slayne] yea they shall wayle altogether: because of the foundations of the citie that is made of bricke shall ye complayne, euen ye lame people that are left only behynde. B

8 For the vines of Hesbon are cut downe: as for the vine of Sibma, the lordes of the heathen haue broken downe her principall braunches, they are come euen vnto Jazer, they went on wandering vnto the wildernesse, her goodly braunches were throwen downe as they went ouer the sea.

9 Therfore wyll I mourne for Jazer, and for the vine of Sibma, I wyl poure my teares vpon thee O Hesbon and Eleale: for the crye of thyne enemies is fallen vpon thy sommer fruites, and vpon thy haruest.

10 The mirth and cheare is taken away out of the plentifull fielde, and in the vineyardes there shalbe no ioy nor gladnesse: The treader shall treade out no wine in their presses, the song of their mery mery cheare haue I layde downe.

11 (a) Wherfore my bowels shall rumble like an Harpe for Moabs sake, & mine inwarde partes for the cities sake that is made of bricke.
12 And it shall come to passe, that when it is seene that Moab shalbe made weery of his hyll chappelles, he shall come to his temple to pray, (b) but he shall not be able.
13 So then this is the saying that the Lorde hath spoken concernyng Moab since that tyme.
14 But nowe the Lorde hath spoken, saying: In three yeres, which shalbe as the yeres of an hired seruaunt, shall the glorie of Moab be turned into contempt throughout all his multitude, which is very great: and that which remayneth shalbe very small and feeble.

(a) The sufferinges and daungers that might haue come to one place, are come vpon all.

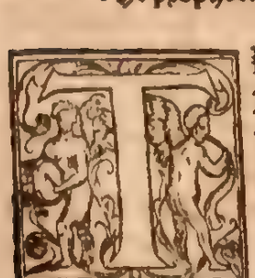
(b) That is through wearinesse, or it shall not profite him.

¶ The. xvij. Chapter.

A prophecie agaynst Damascus.

1 THis is the burthen vpon Damascus: Beholde Damascus is taken away to be no more a citie, but shalbe an heape of broken stones.
2 The waste cities of Aroer shalbe foldes for cattell which shall lye there, and there shalbe none to fray them away.
3 Ephraim also shall no more be strong, and Damascus shall no longer be a kyngdome, and the remnaunt of Syria shalbe as the glorie of the children of Israel, saith the Lorde of hoastes.
4 And in that day it shall come to passe, that the glorie of Jacob shalbe made very thinne, and the fatnesse of his flesshe shall waxe leane.
5 And he shalbe as one that gathereth vp corne in harueste, euen lyke hym whose arme reapeth the eares of corne: he shalbe also lyke hym that gathereth eares of corne in the valley of Rephaim.
6 Some gatheryng in deede shall there be left in it, euen as in the shakyng of an Olyue tree there remayne two or three berries in the toppe of the vppermost bowe, and foure or fyue in the brode fruitfull braunches thereof, saith the Lorde God of Israel.
7 Then shall man turne agayne to his maker, and his eyes shall haue respect to the holy one of Israel.
8 As for the aulters which are his owne handy worke he shal not regarde them, and the thynges that his fingers hath made, as groues and images, those shal he not cast his eye vnto.
9 In that day shall their strong cities be as the forsaken shrubbes & braunches, which they left because of the childrē of Israel, and the lande shalbe desolate.
10 Because thou hast forgotten the God of thy saluation, and hast not ben myndfull of thy strong rocke: therfore shalt thou set pleasaunt plantes, and shalt graffe the braunche of another mans vine.
11 In that day shalt thou make thy plant to growe, and early in the morning shalt thou make thy seede to florishe: The harueste shalbe gone in the day of inheritaunce, and there shalbe sorowe without hope of comfort.
12 ℣ Wo shalbe to the multitude of much people, which shall make a sounde lyke to the noyse of the sea, and the violence of the nations which shall rage lyke the rushyng in of many waters. ℭ
13 Euen lyke many waters shal the people rage, God shall rebuke hym, and he shal flee farre of, he shalbe chased away lyke as drye strawe vpon the mountaynes before the wynde, and lyke a thyng that turneth before the storme.
14 At euen beholde there is trouble, and or euer it be morning lo it is gone: This is the portion of them that oppresse vs, and the lot of them that robbe vs.

¶ The



The.xviij.Chapter.

1 An exhortation to the Ethiopians and the countreys nygh adioynyng to them.
7 The vocation of the Gentiles.

A 1  That lande that trusteth vnder the shadow of wynges, [that lande] which is beyonde the waters of Ethiopia,
2 Sendyng messengers by the sea, euen in vessels of reedes ouer the water, Get you hence ye speedy messengers to a nation that is scattered abrode, and robbed of that they had, a fearefull people from their begynnyng hytherto, a nation troden downe by litle and litle, whose lande the fludes haue spoyled.
3 All the inhabitours of the worlde, and indwellers of the earth, loke vp whē ye setteth vp a token in the mountaynes, and hearken when he bloweth with the trumpe.
4 For so the Lorde sayde vnto me [as for me] I wyll take my rest, and loke vpon the matter in my habitation, lyke a faire heate after the rayne, and lyke a cloude of deawe in the heate of harueste.
5 For afore the harueste whē the braunch is growen, there shall come ripe fruite of the floure: and he shal cut downe the increase with sithes, and the braunches shall he take away with hookes.
6 Thus shall they be left together vnto the foules of the mountaines, and to the beastes of the earth: for in sommer the birdes shall remayne vpon it, and euery beast of the lande shalbe vpon it in wynter. B
7 In that tyme shall there a present be brought vnto the Lord of hoastes, euen a people that is scattered abrode and robbed of that they had, that same people which haue ben fearfull from their begynnyng hytherto, a nation troden downe by litle and litle, whose lande the fludes haue spoyled, to the place of the name of the Lorde of hoastes, euen to the mount Sion.

The .xix. Chapter.

1 He prophecieth agaynst Egypt, 18 and the vocation of the Gentiles to Christe.

A 1  The burthen of Egypt. Beholde, the Lorde rideth vpon a swift cloude, and shall come into Egypt, and the idols of Egypt shall tremble at the presence of hym, and the heart of Egypt shall quake in the middest of her.
2 And I wyll set the Egyptians one agaynst another, so that one brother shall fyght agaynst another, and one neighbour against another, citie against citie, and realme against realme.
3 The mynde also of Egypt shalbe cleane without counsayle within it selfe, and the deuice that they take wil I destroy: and they shall seke counsayle at idols and at sorcerers, at workers with spirites, and at soothsayers.
4 And the Egyptians wyll I geue ouer into the hande of a maruaylous cruell lorde, and a mightie kyng shall haue dominion ouer them, saith the Lorde God of hoastes.
5 The waters of the sea shall fayle, and the riuer shall decrease and be dryed vp.
6 The waters shalbe drawen out, the riuers of Egypt shalbe emptied & dryed vp, the reedes and flagges shalbe cut downe.
7 The grasse in the riuer and by the riuers bancke, and all that groweth by the riuer, shall wither away, and be brought to naught. B
8 The fisshers also shall mourne, and all they that cast angle into the water shall make lamentation: and they that lay forth their net beside the waters shalbe rooted out.
9 Moreouer, they that worke in flare and make fine workes, shalbe confounded, and so shall they that weaue open workes.
10 For their open workes shal euen be destroyed, and all they that make pondes and flues for fishe shall come to naught.
11 But you foolishe princes of Zoan, ye wise counsaylers of Pharao, whose wit is turned to foolishnesse, howe say ye vnto vnto Pharao, I am come of wise men and of auncient kinges:

12 Where are thy wise men: Let them tell thee yf they can, what the Lorde of hoastes hath deuised vpon Egypt.

13 The princes of Zoan are become fooles, the princes of Noph are deceaued, they haue deceaued Egypt, euen they that were taken for the chiefe stay therof.

C 14 In the middest of it hath the Lorde powred the spirite of wickednesse: and they haue deceaued Egypt in euery worke therof, euen as a dronken man staggereth in his vomite.

15 Neither shall the (a) head or tayle, the braunche or reede, be able to do any worke in Egypt.

(a) By the head and braunche are ment the honorable and gouerners of the lande, by the tayle & reede, the meaner sorte and lower kynd of people.

16 In that day shall Egypt be lyke vnto women: It shalbe afrayde and stande in feare at the motion of the hande of the Lorde of hoastes which he shaketh ouer it.

17 And Egypt shalbe afraide of the lande of Juda: so that euery one that maketh mention of it shalbe afraide therat, because of the counsayle of the Lorde of hoastes which he deuised for it.

18 In that day shall fiue cities in the lande of Egypt speake the language of Chanaan, and sweare by the Lorde of hoastes: the citie of desolation shalbe called one of them.

19 In that day shall the aulter of the Lorde be in the middest of the lande of Egypt, and this title beside it vnto the Lorde.

20 And it shalbe a token and a witnesse vnto the Lorde of hostes in the lande of Egypt: For they shal crie vnto the Lord because of such as trouble them, and he shall sende them a sauiour and a great man to delyuer them.

21 And the Lorde shalbe knowen in Egypt, and the Egyptians shall knowe the Lorde in that day, and do sacrifice and oblation: yea they shall bowe a bowe vnto the Lord, and performe it. D

22 The Lorde also shall smite Egypt sore, and heale them agayne: and they shalbe conuerted vnto the Lorde, and he shalbe intreated of them, and shall heale them.

23 In that day shall there be a common way out of Egypt into Assyria, and Assyria shall come into Egypt, & Egypt into Assyria: so that the Egyptians and the Assyrians shall serue the Lorde together.

24 In that day shal the nation of Israel be the thirde with Egypt and Assyria: and they shalbe blessed in the middest of the lande, 25 which lande the Lorde of hoastes hath blessed, saying: blessed is my people of Egypt, Assur also is the worke of my handes, and Israel is mine inheritaunce.

The.xx.Chapter.

Agaynst Egypt and Ethiopia.

A 1 IN the yere that Tharthan came vnto Asdod when Sargon the kyng of Assyria had sent hym, and had fought agaynst Asdod, and taken it:

2 At the same tyme spake the Lorde by the hande of Esai the sonne of Amos, saying: Go and take of the sackcloth from thy loynes, and put of thy shoe from thy foote. And he dyd so, walkyng naked and barefoote.

3 And the Lorde sayde, Lyke as my seruaunt Esai hath walked naked and barefoote for a signe and wonder three yeres vpon Egypt and Ethiopia:

4 Euen so shall the kyng of Assyria take away out of Egypt and Ethiopia, children and olde men naked and barefoote, with their loynes vncouered, to the great shame of Egypt.

5 They shalbe brought in feare also, and be ashamed of Ethiopia their hope, & of Egypt wherin they are wont to glorie.

6 And they that dwell in the same Ile shall say in that day, Beholde such is our hope, whyther shall we flee for helpe, that we may be delyuered from the kyng of Assyria: And howe shall we escape:

Agaynst Babylon, Idumea, and Arabia.

A (a) The waste sea is Babylon or Chaldee.

1 The burthen of the (a) Waste sea. Euen as the stormie weather passeth through at the noone day from the wilderneſſe, ſo ſhall it come from the terrible lande.

2 A greeuous viſion was ſhewed vnto me: let one deceiptfull offendour come agaynſt another, and one deſtroyer agaynſt another: Up Elam, lay ſiege thou of Media, all their gronyng haue I layde downe.

3 Therfore are my loynes fylled with ſorowe, heauineſſe hath taken holde vpon me as the panges of a woman that is trauaylyng: it made me ſtoupe when I heard it, and it vexed me when I ſawe it.

4 My heart panted, fearefulneſſe came vpon me: the nyght of my voluptuouſneſſe hath he turned agaynſt me into feare.

5 Whyle they garniſhed the table, the watchman loked: and whyle I was eatyng and drynkyng, it was sayde, vp ye captaynes, take you to your ſhielde.

6 For thus hath the Lorde ſayde vnto me: Go and ſet a watchman to tel what he ſeeth.

B 7 And he ſawe a charret which two horſemen ſat vpon, with the cariage of an Aſſe, and the cariage of a Camel: So he loked, and toke diligent heede.

8 And he cryed, a lion, my Lorde I ſtande continually vpon the watche towre in the day tyme, and am appoynted to kepe my watch euery nyght.

9 And beholde here commeth a charret of men, with two horſemen, and he aunſwered and ſayd, Babylon is fallen, it is fallen, and all the images of her gods hath he ſmitten downe vnto the grounde.

10 Thou art he whom I muſt threſhe, and thou belongeſt to my corne floure: This that I hearde of the Lorde of hoaſtes the God of Iſrael, haue I ſhewed vnto you.

11 The burthen of Duma. He calleth to me out of Seir: watchman what haſt thou eſpied by nyght: watchman what haſt thou eſpied by nyght:

12 The watchman ſayde, The mornyng commeth, and ſo doth the nyght: If ye wyll aſke me any queſtion, then aſke it: returne and come agayne.

13 The burthen concernyng Arabia. In ℭ the wooddes of Arabia ſhall ye tary all nyght, euen in the ſtreetes of Dedanim.

14 The inhabitours of the lande of Thema brought foorth water to hym that was thirſtie, they preuented hym that was fled away with their bread.

15 For because of ſwordes they are become fugitiue, Euen for the drawen ſworde, and for the bent bowe, and because of the greeuouſneſſe of warre.

16 For thus hath the Lorde ſayde vnto me: There is yet a yere, accordyng to the yeres of an hired ſeruaunt, and all the glorie of Cedar ſhall fayle.

17 And the number of them that ſhall eſcape from the bowes, ſhalbe minished by the mightie children of Cedar: for the Lorde God of Iſrael hath ſpoken it.

A prophecie agaynſt Hieruſalem.

A (a) Hieruſalem is meant by the valley of viſion.

1 The burthen of the (a) valley of viſion. What haſt thou to do here, that thou clymbeſt to the houſe toppes?

2 Thou that art full of tumultuouſnes, thou troubleſome and proude citie: Thy ſlayne men are neither put to death with the ſworde, nor dead in battayle.

3 All thy captaynes are fugitiue together, the archers haue taken them priſoners: All they I ſay that are founde in thee are in captiuitie together, and they alſo that fled farre of.

destruction of the daughter of my people.

5 For this is a day of trouble, of ruine, and of destruction, that the Lorde the God of hoastes wyll bryng to passe in the valley of vision, breakyng downe the citie, and crying vnto mountaynes.

6 Elam bare the quiuer with a charret of footmen and horsemen, and the citie of Kir shewed the shielde open.

B 7 Thy chefe valley also was full of charrettes, and the horsemen set their faces directly towarde the gate.

8 And in that day dyd the enemie take away the couer of Juda, and then didst thou loke towarde the (b) armour of the house of the forest.

9 Ye haue seene also the broken places of the citie of Dauid, howe that they are many, and ye gathered together the waters of the lower poole.

10 As for the houses of Hierusalem ye haue numbred them, and the houses haue ye broken downe, to make the wall strong.

11 A pit also haue ye made betweene the two walles for the waters of the olde poole, (c) & haue not regarded the maker therof, neither had respect vnto hym that fashioned it long ago.

12 And in that day dyd the Lorde God of hoastes call men vnto weepyng and mournyng, to baldnesse and girdyng about with sackcloth.

13 And beholde they haue ioy and gladnesse, slaying oxen, and kyllyng sheepe, eatyng flesh, and drynkyng wine: *Let vs eate and drynke, for to morowe we shall dye.

C 14 And it came to the eares of the Lorde of hoastes, This iniquitie shall not be purged from you tyll ye dye, saith the Lorde God of hoastes.

15 Thus saith the Lord God of hoastes: Get ye vnto yonder treasurer, euen vnto *Sebna, which is the ruler of the house. Esai 36. a 16 What hast thou to do here: and whom hast thou here: that thou shouldest here hewe thee out a sepulchree, as it were one that heweth hym out a sepulchree on hye, or that graueth an habitation for hym selfe on an harde rocke:

17 Beholde O thou man, the Lorde shal cary thee away into captiuitie, and shall surely couer thee with confusion.

18 The Lorde shal turne thee ouer like a ball with his handes [and shall sende thee] into a farre countrey: there shalt thou dye, and there in steade of the charrets of thy pompe, shall the house of thy Lorde haue confusion.

19 I wyll driue thee from thy place, and out of thy dwellyng shal he ouerthrowe thee.

20 And in that day shall I call my seruaunt Eliakim the sonne of Helkia:

21 And with thy garmentes wyll I clothe hym, and with thy girdle wyll I strength hym: thy power also wyll I commit into his hande, and he shalbe a father of such as dwell in Hierusalem, and in the house of Juda. D

22 *And the key of the house of Dauid wyll I lay vpon his shoulder: so that he shall open and no man shut, he shall shut and no man open. Iob. xii. b. Apoc. iii. b.

23 And I wyll fasten hym as a nayle in a sure place, and he shalbe the glorious seate of his fathers house.

24 Moreouer, all generations and posterities shall hang vpon him all the glorie of their fathers house, all vessels both great and small, and all instrumentes of measure and musicke.

25 In that day saith the Lord of hoastes, shall the nayle that is fastened in the sure place, depart and be broken, and fall: and the burthen that was vpon it shalbe pluckt away, for so the Lorde hath spoken.

The. xxiij. Chapter.

1 A prophecie against Tyrus, 17 and a promise that it shalbe restored agayne.

A 1  he burthen of *Tyre. Mourne ye shippes of Tharsis, for there commeth such destruction, that ye shall not haue an house to enter into: and that there shalbe no traffike out of the lande of Cittim, they haue knowledge of this plague.

2 Be styll ye that dwell in the Isle, the marchauntes of Zidon, & such as passe ouer the sea haue made thee plenteous.

3 The corne that groweth by the great waters of Nilus, and the fruites of the riuer were her vittayles, so that it became became a common mart of the nations.

(a) By the sea and the strength of the sea, is meant Tyrus

4 Be ashamed thou Zidon: for the[a] sea, euen the strength of the sea hath spoken saying, I haue not trauayled nor brought forth children, nor nourished vp young men, or brought vp virgins.

5 When tidinges commeth to the Egyptians, they shalbe sory for the rumour of Tyre.

6 Get you to Tharsis, mourne you that dwell in the Ile.

B 7 Is not this that glorious citie of yours which hath ben of olde antiquitie: her owne feete shall cary her forth to be a sojourner into a farre countrey.

(b) That crowneth her selfe, that is, which boasted her selfe to be as it were the Queene of all cities on the sea coast.

8 Who hath deuised this agaynst Tyre that[b] crowneth her selfe: whose marchauntes are princes, & whose factours are honorable in the worlde.

9 Euen the Lorde of hoastes hath deuised this, to put downe the pride of all such as be glorious, and to minishe all them that be proude vpon the earth.

10 Get thee out of thy lande like a flodde vnto the daughter of Tharsis, for thou hast no more strength.

11 He that smote the kyngdomes together, holdeth out his hande ouer the sea: euen the Lord him selfe hath geuen a commaundement agaynst the same common place of marchaundise, that they shall vtterly destroy the myght therof.

12 And he sayde: Make no more thy boast O virgin thou daughter Zidon, thou shalt be brought downe: Up, get thee ouer vnto Cittim, where neuertheles thou shalt haue no rest.

13 Beholde, this people came not of the Chaldees, but Assur made them strong with great shippes: They set vp the strong holdes therof, and destroyed his palaces: and he brought it in decay.

14 Mourne ye shippes of Tharsis, for C your strength is brought downe.

15 And in that day shal Tyre be forgotten seuentie yeres, according vnto the yeres of one king: & after the ende of the seuentie yeres shall Tyre sing as doth an harlot.

16 Take an harpe and go about the citie thou harlot that hast ben forgotten, make sweete melodie, sing mo songes, that thou mayest be had in remembraunce.

17 And after the ende of the seuentie yeres shall the Lorde visite Tyre, and she shall conuert vnto her rewarde, and shall commit fornication with all the kyngdomes of the earth that are in the worlde.

18 Their occupying also & their rewarde shalbe holy vnto the Lorde: their gaynes shall not be layde vp nor kept in store, but it shalbe theirs that dwell before the Lorde, that they may eate inough, and haue clothyng sufficient.

The.xxiiij.Chapter.

A prophecie of tribulation to come vpon the worlde because of sinne.

A 1 Beholde, the Lord maketh the earth waste and emptie, he turneth it vpside downe, and scattereth abrode the inhabitours therof.

2 And the priest shalbe as the people, and the maister as the seruaunt, the mistresse lyke the mayde, the seller lyke the byer, he that lendeth vpon vsurie, like him that borroweth vpon vsurie, the creditour as the dettour.

3 The lande shalbe cleane wasted and vtterly spoyled: for so the Lorde hath spoken.

4 The earth is sory and consumeth away, the worlde is feeble & perisheth, the proude people of the earth are come to naught.

5 The earth also is become vnprofitable vnder the inhabitours therof, which haue transgressed the lawes, chaunged the ordinaunce, broken the euerlastyng couenaunt.

6 Therfore hath the curse consumed the E earth, and they that dwell therin are fallen into trespasse: wherfore the inhabitours of the earth are perished with drought, and fewe men are left behinde.

7 The wine fayleth, the vine hath no myght, all they that haue ben mery of heart are come to mournyng.

8 The myrth of tabrettes is layde downe, the noyse of such as haue made mery is ceassed, the ioy at the harpe is at an ende.

9 They shall drynke no more wine with mirth, strong drynke shalbe bytter to them them that drinke it.

10 The citie of vanitie is broken downe, euery house is shut vp, that no man may come in.

11 In the streetes is there a crying because of wine, all cheare is vanished away, the myrth of the lande is gone.

12 In the citie is left desolation, and the gate is smitten with destruction.

13 For in the middes of the lande, euen among the people, it shall come to passe as at the shaking of olives, and as the grapes are when the wine harvest is done.

C 14 They shall lift vp their voyce, and make a merie noyse: and in magnifying of the Lorde shall they crye out of the west.

15 Wherefore prayse ye the Lorde in the valleys, euen the name of the Lorde God of Israel in the Iles of the sea.

16 From the vttermost part of the earth haue we heard prayses and myrth, because of the righteous: And I sayde, I knowe a thing in secrete, I knowe a thing in secrete, wo is me: the transgressours haue offended, the transgressours haue greeuously offended.

17 Fearefulnesse, the pit, and the snare are vpon thee, O thou that dwellest on the earth.

18 It wyll come to passe, that whosoeuer escapeth the fearefull noyse, shall fall into the pit, and he that commeth vp out of the pit, shalbe taken with the snare: for the windowes from on high are open, and the foundations of the earth are moued.

19 The earth is vtterly broken downe, the earth hath a sore ruine, the earth quaketh exceedingly:

20 The earth shall reele to and fro like a D drunkarde, and shalbe remoued lyke a tent, and the iniquitie thereof shalbe heauie vpon it, it shall fall, and not rise vp agayne.

21 And in that day shall the Lorde visite the hoast aboue that is on hye, and the kynges of the worlde that are vpon the earth.

22 And they shalbe gathered together as they that be in prison, and they shalbe shut vp in warde, and after many dayes shall they be visited.

23 *The moone shalbe abashed, and the sunne ashamed, when the Lorde of hoastes shal raigne in mount Sion and in Hierusalem with worship, and in the sight of suche as shalbe of his counsell. Luk.xxi.c.

The. xxv. Chapter.

1 A thankes geuing to God for his workes.

A 1 Thou art my Lorde my God, I wyll magnifie thee, I will geue thankes vnto thy name, for thou hast brought wonderfull thinges to passe, according to thine olde counsels truely & faythfully.

xxvi 2 *Thou hast made a citie a heape of stones, and brought a strong towne into decay: the habitation of straungers hast thou made to be no citie, neither shall it be buylded any more.

3 Therefore shall the mightie people geue glory vnto thee, the citie of the valiaunt heathen shall feare thee.

4 For thou hast ben a strength vnto the poore, and a succour for the needie in his trouble, a refuge against euill weather, a shadow against the heate: for the blast of raging men is like a storme that casteth downe a wall.

5 Like as the heate in a drye place wasteth all thinges: so shalt thou suppresse the noyse of aliantes, the heate [is abated] with the shadowe of the cloude, [euen so shall God] asswage the noyse of the cruel tirauntes.

11 And he shall stretche out his hande in the middes of them, as he that swimmeth casteth out his hands to swimme: and with the strength of his handes shall he bring downe their pryde.

¶ The. xxvij. Chapter.

1 A prophecie of the comming of Christe, and destruction of idolatrie.

A 1 IN that day the Lord with his sore, great, and mightie sworde, shall visite (a) *Leuiathan the fugitiue serpent, euen Leuiathan that crooked serpent, and he shall slay the dragon that is in the sea.

(a) By Leuiathan the great fish of fishes in the sea, is ment the kingdome of Satan, and the wicked ministers of the same, meaning Egypte, and generations of his religion.

2 In that day see that ye sing of the congregation which is the vineyarde that bringeth foorth the best wine:

1.Cor.xv.c. Apoc.xx.c. 3 Euen I the Lorde do kepe it, in due seasons shall I water it: and lest the enemie do it any harme, I wyll both night and day preserue it.

4 There is no displeasure in me, els when the vineyarde bringeth me foorth bryers and thornes I woulde go thorowe it by warre, and burne it vp together.

(b) God calleth his worde his strength, because therein he worketh men and banisheth their vnbeliefe.

5 Let it take holde of my (b) strength, and it shalbe at one with me, euen at one shall it be with me.

B 6 The dayes are comming that Jacob shall take roote, Israel shalbe greene and florishe, and the world shalbe filled with fruite.

7 Hath he smitten hym as sore as he did the other that smote hym? Or is he slayne with so sore a slaughter as they that slue hym?

8 Thou wylt punishe it in the braunches, yet not beyonde measure: for in the day that the east winde bloweth sore, it taketh away the fruites.

(c) God vseth afflictions, as meanes to call men to repentaunce, whereupon followeth forgeuenesse of sinnes.

9 By this meanes therfore shall the iniquitie of Jacob be purged, and this is all the fruite [namely] the (c) taking away of his sinne, if he make all the stones of the aulter of idols as chalke stones that are beaten in sunder, that their groues and images rise not vp agayne.

C 10 Els shall the strong citie be desolate, and the habitation forsaken and left like a wildernesse: there shall the Calfe feede, and there shall he lye, and eate vp the graffes therof.

11 When the braunches of it are drye, they are broken of, & the women come and set them on fire: *for it is a people of no vnderstanding, and therfore he that made them shall not fauour them, and he that created them shall geue them no grace. Deut.xxxii.b.

12 And in that day shall the Lorde make a threshing, from the middest of the riuer Euphrates, vnto the riuer of Egypt, and ye children of Israel shalbe gathered together one to another.

13 In that day shall the great trumpe be blowne, so that they which were lost in the lande of Assyria, and they that were banished in the lande of Egypt, shall come and worship the Lorde in the holye mount of Hierusalem.

priest also and the prophete are gone astray by the meanes of strong drinke, they are drunken With Wine, they go amisse thorowe strong drinke, they fayle in prophetyng, and stumble in iudgement.

8 For all tables are full of vomit and filthynesse, that no place is cleane.

9 Whom then shall suche one teache knowledge: and Whom shall he make to vnderstande the thing that he heareth: for they are as ignorant as young chyldren that are taken from the milke, and are weaned.

10 For they that be suche, must take after one lesson, another lesson, *after one commaundement, another commaundement, for one rule, another rule, after one instruction, another instruction, there a litle, and there a litle.

Esai.x.a. Mat.xxiii.a

11 For he that speaketh vnto this people, is euen as one that vseth rudenesse of speache, and a straunge language.

12 If any man say vnto them, lo, this is the rest wherewith ye may ease hym that is weerie, this is the refreshing: they Wyll not hearken.

1.Cor.xiiii.e

C 13 *Therfore shall the Word of the Lord be vnto them, lesson vpon lesson, commaundement vpon commaundement, rule vpon rule, instruction vpon instruction, there a litle, and there a litle: that they may go on and fall backWarde, be bruised, tangled, and snared.

14 Wherfore heare the Word of the Lord ye mockers, ye that haue rule of this people Whiche is at Hierusalem.

15 Because ye haue sayd, We haue made a couenaunt With death, and With hell are We at agreement: and though there go foorth a sore plague, it shall not come vnto vs, for We haue made falsehood our refuge, and vnder vanitie are We hid.

16 Therfore thus saith the Lorde God, Beholde, I lay in Sion for a foundation a stone, euen a tryed stone, a precious corner stone, a sure foundation: Who so beleueth, let hym not be to (a) hastie.

(a) Who so thorowe fayth doth stay hym selfe vpon Christe in hastie going forwarde, shall not fal: that is, shall not fayle of that he hopeth to obtaine

17 Judgement also Wyll I laye to the rule, and righteousnesse to the balaunce, so that the (b) hayle shall sweepe away as a broome your vayne confidence, and the priuie place of your refuge shall the Waters runne ouer.

(b) The gospell is compared to hayle & fluddes, for that it breaketh downe and carieth away idolatrie and superstition, wherein men do trust in vayne.

18 And thus the couenaunt that ye made With death, shalbe disanulled, and your agreement that ye made With hell shall not stand, yea When the sore plague goeth foorth, ye shalbe troden downe vnder it.

19 From the tyme that it goeth foorth it shall take you away: for early in the morning euery day, yea both day and night shall it go thorowe, and When the noyse thereof is perceaued, it shall gender veration.

20 For the bed is narrowe and not large, and the couering so small that a man can not winde him selfe [vnder it.] D

Esa.xxxvi.f ii.Reg.v.b. Iosu. x.b. i.Par.xii.d.

21 *For the Lord shall stand as in mount Perazim, and shalbe Wroth like as in the valley *Gibeon, that he may do his Worke, his straunge Worke, and bring to passe his acte, his straunge acte.

22 Nowe therefore see that ye be no mockers, lest your punishment increase: For I heard of the Lorde of hoastes, that there shall come a short ende vpon the whole earth.

23 Heare ye then, and hearken vnto my voyce, consider and ponder my speache.

24 Doth not the husbandman plowe all the day, and openeth and breaketh the clottes of his grounde, that he may sowe:

25 When he hath made it playne, Wyll he not spreade abrode the fitches, and sowe comin, and cast in Wheate by measure, and the appointed barlye and rye in their place:

26 God

26 God wyll instruct hym to haue discretion, euen his God wyll teache hym.
27 For fitches shall not be threshed with an harrowe, neither shall a cart wheele be brought thorowe the comin: but the fitches are beaten out with a staffe, and comin with a rodde.
28 But the seede that bread is made of, is threshed, though it be not alway a threshing, and the cart wheele must be brought ouer it, lest he grinde it with his teeth.
29 This also commeth of the Lorde of hoastes, which worketh with wonder-full wysdome, and bringeth excellent workes to passe.

The. xxix. Chapter.

1 A prophecie against Hierusalem, 13 and against the vayne traditions of men.

A 1 WO vnto thee O Ariel Ariel, thou citie that
*Dauid dwelt in: Go on from yere to yere, and let the lambes be slayne.
2 I wyll lay siege vnto Ariel, so that there shalbe heauinesse and sorowe in it: and it shalbe vnto me euen an aulter of slaughter.
3 I will besiege thee rounde about, and fight against thee thorowe a bulwarke, and wyll reare vp diches against thee.
4 Thou shalt be brought downe, and shalt speake out of the ground, and thy speache shall go lowe out of the dust:
5 Thy voyce also shall come out of the grounde lyke the voyce of a witche, and thy talkyng shall whisper out of the dust:
5 Moreouer, the noyse of the straunge enemies shalbe like thinne dust, and the multitude of tirauntes shalbe *as drye strawe that can not tary: euen sodenly and in haste shall their blast go.
6 Thou shalt be visited of the Lorde of hoastes with thunder, earthquake, and with a great noyse, with storme and tempest, and with the flambe of a consumming fire.
B 7 And the multitude of all nations that fight against Ariel, shalbe as a dreame seene by night: *euen so shall they be that make warre against it, and strong holdes to ouercome it, and that lay any siege vnto it.
8 In conclusion, it shalbe euen as when a hungry man dreameth that he is eating, and when he awaketh, his soule is emptie, or as when a thirstie man dreameth that he is drinking, and when he awaketh, he is yet fainte, and his soule hath appetite: euen so shall the multitude of all nations that fighteth against mount Sion.
9 Ponder these thinges once in your mindes, and wonder: *Blinded are they Math.xv.d.
them selues, and the blinde guides of other: They are drunken, but not with wine: they are vnstable, but not thorow strong drinke.
10 For the Lorde hath couered you with a slumbring spirite, and hath closed your eyes: your prophetes also and rulers that shoulde see, them hath he cou-ered.
11 *And the vision of all the prophetes is Esai.vi.b. become vnto you as the wordes of a booke that is sealed vp, whiche men de-liuer to one that is learned, saying, Reade thou in it: and he saith, I can not, for it is sealed.
12 And the booke is geuen to him that is not learned, saying, Reade thou in it:
and he saith, I am not learned.
13 Therfore thus hath the Lorde sayd: ℭ
For somuche as this people when they Math.xv.a.
be in trouble, do honour me with their Mar.vii.a. mouth and with their lippes, but their heart is farre fro me, and the feare whiche they haue vnto me proceedeth of a commaundement that is taught of men:
14 Therefore wyll I do marueyles among this people, euen marueylous thinges [I say] and a wonder: *For the Abdi.i.c. wysdome of their wyse men shall pe- i.Cor.i.c.
rishe, and the vnderstanding of their wittie men shall hyde it selfe.
15 WO vnto them that kepe secrete their thoughtes, to hide their counsell from the Lorde, and to do their workes in darkenesse, saying: *who seeth vs: and Esai xlvii.b.
who knoweth vs: Eccl xxiii.d
Ezech.ix.c.

C 16 Doubtlesse your destruction is in reputation as the potters clay: And doth the worke say of hym that made it, he made not me: And doth an earthen vessell say of hym that fashioned it, he had no vnderstanding:

17 Is it not harde at hande that Libanus shalbe turned into a low fielde, and that the lowe fielde shalbe taken as the wood:

18 And in that day shall deafe men heare the wordes of the booke, and the eyes of the blynde shall see, euen out of the cloude, and out of darknesse.

19 The meeke spirited also shall be merie in the Lorde, and the poore among them that be lowly shall reioyce in the holy one of Israel:

20 For he that dyd violence is brought to naught, and the scornefull man is consumed, and they rooted out that made haste early to vnrighteousnesse,

21 Making a man to sinne in the worde, and that toke him in a snare, whiche reproued them in the open place, and they that haue turned the cause of the righteous to naught. D

22 Therefore thus saith the Lorde to the house of Jacob, euen thus saith he that redeemed Abraham: *Jacob shall not nowe be confounded, nor his face pale. Esai.xliii.a.

23 But when he seeth his chyldren the worke of my handes in the middes of hym, they shall sanctifie my name, and prayse the holy one of Jacob, and feare the God of Israel.

24 They also that haue ben of an erroneous spirite shall come to vnderstanding, and they that haue ben scornefull shall learne doctrine.

The. xxx. Chapter.

1 Against them that forsake the counsell of God, and cleaue to the counsell of men.
3 The prophete also threatneth the remnaunt of the people, that after the destruction of Hierusalem went into Egypt.

A 1 ALas for those disobedient chyldren saith the Lorde, *that they will take counsell and not of me, that they will take a secrete aduice and not out of my spirite, and therefore adde they sinne vnto sinne. Esai.viii.b.

2 Euen they that walke to go downe into Egypt, and haue asked no question at my mouth, but seeke strength in the might of Pharao, and trust in the shadowe of Egypt.

3 Therefore shall the strength of Pharao be your confusion, and the trust in the shadowe of Egypt your shame.

4 For his captaynes were at Zoan, and his embassadours came vnto Hanes.

5 *They were ashamed of the people that coulde do them no good, and that might not helpe them nor shewe them any profit, but were their confusion and rebuke. 4. Reg.18.d. Iere.xvii.b. Ezech.xxix.a.

6 The burthen of the beastes of the south. In a land of trouble & anguishe, from whence shall come the young and olde lion, the viper and fiery serpent that fleeth against them that vpon coltes beare their riches, and vpon camels their treasures, to a people that can do them no good.

7 For vayne and nothing worth shall the helpe of the Egyptians be: Therefore haue I cryed vnto Hierusalem, they shall haue strength inough if they will settle their mindes in quietnesse. B

8 *Nowe therefore go thy way, and write this before them in a table, and note it in a booke: that it may finally remaine and be kept styll for euer. Esai.viii.a.

9 For this is an obstinate people, *and dissembling chyldren, chyldren that refuse to heare the lawe of the Lorde. Esai.i.d.

10 For they say vnto the seers, see not, and to them that be cleare of iudgement, loke not out right thinges for vs: but speake fayre wordes vnto vs, loke out errours.

11 Get you out of this way, depart out of this path, and turne the holy one of Israel from vs.

12 Wherefore thus saith the holy one of Israel: Because your heartes ryse against against this worde, and because you trust in wrong dealing and peruerse iudgement, and put your confidence therin:

13 Therfore shall ye haue this mischiefe for your destruction and fall, like as an hye wall that falleth because of some rift or blast, whose breakyng commeth sodainly.

14 *And the hurt thereof is lyke an earthen vessell whiche breaketh without helpe, so that in the burstyng of it, there is not founde one sheuer to fetch fire in, or to take water withall out of the pit. *Hilab. C

15 For thus saith the Lorde God, euen the holy one of Israel: In repentaunce and in* rest shall ye be safe, in quietnesse and sure confidence shalbe your strength, but ye haue had no list thereto. *Deu.xxiii.c. *Psa.xxx.

16 For ye haue sayde, No, but we wyll escape thorowe horses, therefore shall ye flee: And we wyll get vs vp vpon swift beastes, and therefore shall your persecutours be swifter. Lai.xxvi.a Deu.xxxii.a

17 *A thousande shall flee at the rebuke of one, and at the rebuke of fiue shall ye all flee, till ye be left as a ship mast vpon the top of a mountaine, and as a beaken vpon an hill. *Deu.iiij.a.

18 *Therefore doth the Lorde tause you to wayte, that he may haue mercy vpon you, to the entent that he may haue the preeminence When he is gratious vnto you: For the Lord is the God of iudgement, Blessed are all they that hope in hym.

19 If the people remaine in Sion and at Hierusalem, thou shalt not be in heauinesse: but at the voyce of thy complaint shall he haue mercy vpon thee, and When he heareth it, he shall geue thee an answere.

20 And though the Lorde geue you the bread of trouble, and the water of aduersitie, thy rayne shalbe no more so scant, but thyne eyes shall see thy rayne. D Deu.viiij.a.

21 Yea and thyne eare shall heare the talking of him that doth speake behinde thee: *This is the Way, walke ye in it, turne not aside neither to the right hande, nor to the left.

22 Ye shall destroy also the couering of your siluer images, and the decking of your golden idols, euen as filthynesse shalt thou put them away: And thou shalt say vnto it, Get thee hence.

23 Then shall God geue rayne vnto thy seede, that thou shalt sowe the grounde withall, and bread of the increase of the earth, whiche shalbe fat and very plenteous: in that day also shall thy cattell be fed in large pastures.

24 The oxen lykewyse and the young asses that eare the grounde shall eate cleane prouender, whiche is purged With the winde and the fanne.

25 Finally, vpon euery hye mountayne and hyll shall there be riuers, and streames of waters* in the day of the great slaughter When the towres fall. ii.Pet.iii.b. E

26 Moreouer, the light of the moone shalbe as the light of the sunne, and the sunne light shalbe seuen folde, and haue as much shine as in seuen dayes beside, When the Lorde bindeth vp the sore of his people, and healeth the stroke of their wounde.

27 Beholde, the fame of the Lorde commeth from farre, and his presence is so hotte, that no man is able to abyde: his lippes are full of indignation, and his tongue is as a consuming fire.

28 His breath is a vehement flud of water, that reacheth vp to the necke: that he may sift away the heathen in the siue of vanitie, and his breath is a bridle of errour in the iawes of the people. F

29 And ye shall sing lyke as in the night When the holy solempnitie beginneth, and ye shall haue gladnesse of heart, like as When one commeth With a pipe vnto the hill of the Lorde, and to the most mightie one of Israel.

30 And the Lorde shall cause his glorious voyce to be hearde, and shall declare his stretched out arme With a terrible countenaunce, & With the flambe of a consuming fire, With noysome lightening, With a showre, and With hayle stones. Esai.x.a.

31 For thorowe the voyce of the Lorde shall *Assur be destroyed, which smote other men With the rodde.

32 And it shall come to passe, that whyther soeuer he goeth the rodde shall cleaue vnto him which the Lorde shall laye vpon hym, With tabrettes and harpes: and With great warre shall he fight against his hoast.

Mat.xxv.b. 33 *For the fire of hell is ordayned from the beginning, yea euen for the kyng is it prepared: This hath the Lorde set in the deepe, and made it wide, the burning whereof is fire and muche wood: The breath of the Lorde whiche is like a riuer of brimstone doth kindle it.

The. xxxi. Chapter.

1 He curseth them that forsake God, and seeke for the helpe of men.

A 1 WO be vnto them that go downe into Egypt for helpe, and trust in horses, and put their confidence in charrets because they be many, and in horsemen because they be lustie and strong: but they regarde not the holy one of Israel, and they aske no question at the Lorde.

2 And he neuertheless is wise, and will plague the wicked, and goeth not from his worde, he will aryse against the housholde of the frowarde, and against the helpe of euyll doers.

3 Nowe the Egyptians are men and not God, and their horses flesh, and not spirite: And assoone as the Lord stretcheth out his hande, then shall the helper fall and he that shoulde haue ben helped, and they shall altogether be destroyed.

4 For thus hath the Lorde spoken vnto me: *Lyke as the lion and *lions whelpe roareth vpon the pray that he hath gotten, and is not afraide though Apoc.v.a. Gen.xlix.b the multitude of shepheardes crye out vpon him, neither be abashed for all the heape of them: so shall the Lorde of hoastes come downe to fight for mount Sion, and defende his hyll.

5 Like as the byrdes flutter about their nestes, *so shall the Lorde of hoastes, kepe, saue, defende, and deliuer Hierusalem. Deut.xi.d

6 Therefore O ye chyldren of Israel, turne againe vnto him whom you haue ofttimes forsaken.

7 *For in that day euery man shall cast out his idols of siluer, and his idols of golde, whiche ye haue made with your owne handes vnto your sinne. B Esai.ii.c.

8 *Assur also shalbe slayne with the swoorde, not with a mans swoorde, neither shal the swoorde of any man deuoure hym, and he shall flee from the slaughter, and his choise young men shalbe discomfited. Esai.xxx.c.

9 He shall go for feare to his strong holdes, and his princes shall flee from his standerd saith the Lord, whose fire is in Sion, and his fornace in Hierusalem.

¶ The. xxxij. Chapter.

1 The conditions of good rulers and officers.

A 1 BEholde, a kyng shall gouerne after the rule of righteousnesse, and the princes shall rule according to the ballaunce of equitie.

2 And that man shalbe vnto men as a defence for the winde, and as a refuge for the tempest, lyke as a ryuer of water in a thirstie place, and the shadowe of a great rocke in a drye lande.

3 The eyes of the seeing shall not be dim, and the eares of them that heare shall take diligent heede.

4 The heart of the vnwyse shall attayne to knowledge, and the vnperfect tongue shall speake playnely and distinctly.

5 Then shall the foolishe nigarde be no more called gentle, nor the churle liberall.

6 But the nigarde will speake nigardlye, and his heart will worke euyll, and play the hypocrite, and imagine abhominations against God, to make the hungry leane, and to withholde drinke from the thirstie.

7 The weapons of the churlishe are euyll, he deuiseth noysome deuises, that he 23 he may beguyle the poore with deceiptfull wordes, yea euen there as he should geue sentence with the poore.

8 *But the liberall person imagineth honest thynges, and commeth vp for liberalitie vnto promotion.

xvii.b.

9 Vp ye riche and idle women, hearken vnto my voyce, ye careleſſe daughters marke my wordes.

10 Many yeres and dayes shall ye be brought in feare O ye careleſſe women: for the vintage shall fayle, and the harueſt shall not come.

11 Be abashed you that lyue in aboundaunce, tremble you that lyue careleſſe, caſt of your rayment, make your selues bare, and put sackcloth about you.

12 For as the infantes weepe when their mothers teates are dryed vp: so shall you weepe for your faire fieldes and fruitfull vineyardes.

13 My peoples fielde shall bryng thornes and thiſtles: and so shall it be in euery house of voluptuouſneſſe, and in euery citie that reioyceth.

14 The palaces also shalbe brokē, and the greatly occupied cities deſolate: The towres and bulwarkes shall become dennes for euermore, where wylde asſes take their pleaſure, and sheepe their paſture. ℭ

15 Vnto the tyme that the spirite be powred vpon vs from aboue, and that the wilderneſſe be a fruitfull fielde, and the plenteous fielde be reckened for a wood.

16 Then shall equitie dwell in the deſert, and righteouſneſſe in a fruitfull lande.

17 *And the worke of righteouſneſſe shalbe peace, and her fruite reſt and quietneſſe for euer. Rom.v.a.

18 *And my people shall dwell in the innes of peace, and in sure dwellynges, in safe places of comfort. Iere.xxxiii.

19 And when the hayle falleth, it shall fall in the wood, and the citie shalbe set lowe in the valley.

20 O howe happy shall ye be when ye shall safely sowe your seede beſide all waters, and dryue thyther the feete of your oxen and asſes.

The .xxxiij. Chapter.

O to thee that deſtroyeſt when thou waſt not deſtroyed, thou breakeſt ẏ league where as none hath broken it with thee: for when thou shalt leaue deſtroying, *thou thy ſelfe shalt be deſtroyed: and when thou ceaſſeſt from breakyng the league, then shall they breake it to thee.

Exo.xxi.b. Leui.24.d. Sup. xi.c. Mat.vii.a.

2 O Lorde haue mercie vpon vs, we haue put our whole truſt in thee: be an arme to such early, and *our health in the tyme of trouble.

Pſal.ix.b.

3 At that confuſe noyſe the people fled, and at thine exaltyng the heathen were ſcattered.

4 And the spoyles shalbe gathered, which shalbe yours, as are the gatheryng of Bruchus, and the multitude goyng to it shalbe as Locuſtes, running to and fro.

5 The Lorde is exalted, for it is he that dwelleth on hye, he hath fylled Sion with iudgement and rygteouſneſſe.

6 And a sure stablishyng of thy tymes, shalbe strength, health, wiſdome, and knowledge: and the very feare of the Lorde shalbe the treaſure of it.

7 Beholde the meſſengers shall crye without: and the embaſſadours of peace shall weepe bitterly. B

8 Their streetes are waſte, there walketh no man therin: God hath broken the appoyntment, the cities are caſt away, and men are nothyng regarded.

9 The deſolate earth is in heauineſſe, Libanus is shamed and hewen downe, Saron is like a Wilderneſſe, Basan and Charmel are spoyled of their fruites.

10 And therfore saith the Lorde, I wyll vp nowe, nowe wyll I be aduaunced, nowe wyll I be exalted.

11 *Ye shall conceaue stubble, and beare strawe: and your spirite shalbe the fire, that it may conſume you. Iere.v.c.

12 And the people shalbe burnt like lime, and as thornes burnt that are hewen of and caſt in the fire.

13 Nowe

13 Nowe hearken to ye that are farre of howe I haue done, and consider my power ye that are at hande.

℄ 14 The sinners at Sion are afrayde, a sodayne fearefulnesse is come vpon the hypocrites: what is he among vs say they that shall dwell by the consumyng fire: which of vs may abyde the euerlasting heate:

Psal. xiiii.a. and.xxiii.a. 15 *He that leadeth a godly life, and speaketh the trueth, he that abhorreth gaynes by violence and deceipt, he that kepeth his hande that he touche no rewarde, which stoppeth his eares that he heare no counsayle agaynst the innocent blood, which holdeth downe his eyes that he see no euyll:

16 He it is that shall dwell on hye, whose safegarde shalbe in a bulwarke of rockes: to hym shalbe geuen meate, and his waters shall not fayle.

17 Thine eyes shall see the kyng in his glorie, euen the kyng of the farre countreys shall they see.

18 Thine heart studied for feare thinking thus: *what shall then become of the scribe: of the receauer of our money: what of hym that tared our fairest houses:

i.Cor.i.a.

19 There shalt thou not see a cruel people of a straunge tongue, to haue so diffused a language that it may not be vnderstanded, neither so straunge a speache but it shalbe perceaued.

20 Loke vpon Sion the head citie of our solempne feastes: thyne eyes shall see Hierusalem that glorious habitation, *the tabernacle that neuer shall remoue, whose nayles shal neuer be taken out worlde without ende, whose cordes euery one shall neuer corrupt. Heb.ix.b.

21 For the glorious maiestie of the Lorde ℣ shall there be present among vs as a place where faire brode riuers and streames are, through the which shall neither galley rowe nor great ship sayle.

22 *For the Lorde is our iudge, the Lord is our lawe geuer, the Lord is our king, and he hym selfe shalbe our sauiour. Iacob.iiii.c.

23 Thy tackling is loosed, therfore it can not make fast the mast, nor spread the sayle: then there is dealed great spoyle, yea lame men runne after the pray.

24 There lyeth no man that saith, I am sicke: but all euyll is taken away from the people that dwell there.

The.xxxiiij.Chapter.

1 The last destruction of the sinagoge, in which the kingdome and priesthood of the people was translated to the Church and congregation of Christe.

℣ 1 Come ye heathen and heare, take heede you people: hearken thou earth and all that is therin, thou rounde compasse and all that dwelleth therupon.

2 For the Lorde is angry with all people, & his displeasure is kindled agaynst all the multitude of them, he hath destroyed them, and delyuered them to the slaughter.

3 So that their slayne shalbe cast out and their bodyes stincke, that euen the very hylles shalbe wet with the blood of them.

4 All the starres of heauen shall waste, and the heauens shall folde together lyke a roll, and all the starres therof shall fall, lyke as the leaues fall from the vines and figge trees.

5 For my sworde shalbe bathed in heauen, and shall immediatly come downe to iudgement vpon Idumea, and vpon the people which I haue cursed.

6 And the Lordes sworde shalbe full of blood, and be rusty with the fatnesse and blood of lambes and goates, with the fatnesse of the kidneys of weathers: For the Lord shall kyll a great offering in Bozra, and a great slaughter in the lande of Idumea.

7 There shall the vnicornes fall with ℣ them, and the bulles with the giauntes, and their lande shalbe throughly soked with blood, and their grounde corrupt with fatnesse.

8 For it is the (a) day of Gods vengeaunce, and the yere of recompence for the reuenge of Sion.

(a) God declareth his loue and care to preserue his Church by his scarre punishyng of the enemies to his Church.

9 And his ruddes shalbe turned to pitch, and his earth to brimstone, and therwith shall the lande be kindled.

10 So that it shall not be quenched day nor nyght, but smoke euermore, and so foorth lye waste: and no man shall go through it for euer.

11 But Pellicanes, Storkes, great Owles,

Owles, and Rauens shall haue it in possession and dwell therin: for God shall spreade out the line of desolation vpon it, and the stones of emptinesse.

12 Her nobles shall call, and there is no kyngdome: and all her princes shalbe nothyng.

C 13 Thornes shall growe in their palaces, nettles & thistles in their strong holdes, that the dragons may haue their pleasure therin, and that they may be a court for Estriches.

14 There shall straunge bisures & monsterous beastes meete one another, and the wylde kepe company together: there shall the Lamia lye and haue her lodgyng.

15 There shall the Owle make her nest, builde, be there at home, & bryng foorth her young ones: there shall the Kytes come together, eche one to his lyke.

16 Seke through the booke of the Lorde and reade it: there shall none of these thynges be left out, there shall not one nor such lyke fayle: for his mouth commaundeth, and that same doth his spirite gather together, or fulfyll.

17 He hath cast the lot for them, and to those beastes hath his hande deuided it by the line: therfore those shall possesse it for euer, from generation to generation shall they dwell therin.

¶ The. xxxv. Chapter.

1 Of the tyme and kyngdome of Christe.

A 1 (a) The diuers nature of mankynde in all generations shalbe made manifest by your gouernaunce in Christe.

BUt (a) the desert & Wilderneſſe shall reioyce, the waste ground shall be glad and florishe as the Lilie.

2 She shall florishe pleasauntly and be ioyfull, and euer be geuing thankes more and more: For the glorie of Libanus, the beautie of Charmel and Saron shalbe geuen her: These shall knowe the honour of the Lorde, & the maiestie of our God.

Hebxiib. Deut.xx.a. and xxxi.b. 3 *And therfore (b) strength the weake handes, and comfort the feeble knees.

10 And the redeemed of the Lorde I say shall conuert and come to Sion with thankesgeuyng: euerlastyng ioy shall they haue, pleasure and gladnesse shalbe among them, and as for all sorowe and heauinesse it shall vanishe.

The. xxxvj. Chapter.

1 Hierusalem is besieged by Sennacherib in the tyme of kyng Hezekias.

A 1 1. Reg.xi.c. Paral.xxxii.b. Esa.xxxvi.a. and xxxvii.a.

IN *the foureteenth yere of king Hezekias came Sennacherib kyng of the Assyrians downe, to lay siege vnto all the strong cities of Juda, to conquer them.

2 And the kyng of the Assyrians sent Rabsakeh from Lachis towarde Hierusalem, agaynst Hezekias with an exceedyng hoast, which set hym by the conduite of the ouer poole in the way that goeth through the fullers lande.

3 And so there came foorth vnto hym Eliakim Helkias sonne, the chiefe ouer the Esai. xxii.a.

the houſeholde, *Sobna the ſcribe, and Joah Aſaphs ſonne the ſecretarie:

4 And Rabſakeh ſayde vnto them, Tell Hezekia that the great kyng ſaith thus vnto hym: what preſumption is this that thou truſteſt vnto?

5 I ſayde ſurely that thou truſteſt in vayne wordes, when counſayle and ſtrength are neceſſarie to battayle: but nowe wherto truſteſt thou, that thou rebelleſt agaynſt me?

4.Reg.18.b. Eze.xxix.a. 6 *Lo, thou putteſt thy truſt in a broken ſtaffe of reede [I meane] Egypt, Which he that leaneth vpon, it goeth into his hande and ſhooteth it through: euen ſo is Pharao the kyng of Egypt vnto all them that truſt in hym.

ℬ 7 But if thou wouldeſt ſay vnto me, We truſt in the Lorde our God: Is not he that God Whoſe hygh places & aulters Hezekia toke downe, and commaunded Juda and Hieruſalem to worſhip only before this aulter?

8 Nowe therfore deliuer hoſtages that thou rebell no more agaynſt my Lorde the kyng of the Aſſyrians, and I wyll geue thee two thouſande horſes yf thou be able to ſet men vpon them.

9 Howe dareſt thou reſiſt the power of the ſmalleſt prince that my Lorde hath? howe dareſt thou truſt in the charrets and horſemen of Egypt?

10 Moreouer, thinkeſt thou that I am come vp hyther to deſtroy this lande without the Lordes wyll? The Lorde ſayd vnto me, Go vp agaynſt this lande and deſtroy it.

11 Then ſayd Eliakim, Sobna, & Joah, vnto Rabſakeh: Speake to vs thy ſeruauntes We pray thee in the Syrians language, for we vnderſtande it well, and ſpeake not to vs in the Jewes tongue, leſt the folke heare Which lyeth vpon the wall.

ℬ 12 Then aunſwered Rabſakeh: hath my maiſter ſent me to ſpeake this only to thy maiſter and thee? hath he not ſent me to them alſo that lye vpon the wall? that they may be compelled to eate their owne dunge, and drynke their owne ſtale with you?

13 And Rabſakeh ſtoode ſtiffe, and cryed with a loude voyce in the Jewes tongue, and ſayde: Nowe take heede howe the great kyng of the Aſſyrians geueth you warnyng.

14 Thus ſaith the kyng: Let not Hezekia deceaue you, for he ſhall not be able to deliuer you.

15 Moreouer, let not Hezekia comfort you in the Lorde when he ſaith, The Lorde without doubt ſhall defende vs, and ſhall not geue ouer this citie into the handes of the king of the Aſſyrians.

16 Hearken not to Hezekia, for thus ſaith the kyng of Aſſyria: Obtayne my fauour, encline to me, ſo may euery man enioy his vineyardes and figge trees, and drynke the water of his ceſterne:

17 Vnto the tyme that I come my ſelfe, and bryng you into a lande that is lyke your owne, Wherin is Wheate & wine, Which is both ſowen with ſeede and planted with vineyardes.

18 Let not Hezekia deceaue you, when ℭ he ſaith vnto you, the Lorde ſhall deliuer vs: *Myght the gods of the gentiles kepe euery mans lande from the power of the kyng of the Aſſyrians? Eſai.x.a.

19 Where is the god of Hemath and Arphad? where is the god of Sepharuaim? and Who is able to defende Samaria out of my hande?

20 Or which of all the gods of theſe landes hath deliuered their countrey out of my power? Is the Lord in deede able to deliuer Hieruſalem from my hande?

21 Vnto this Hezekias meſſengers helde their tongues, and aunſwered not one worde: for the kyng had charged them that they ſhould geue him no aunſwere.

22 So came Eliakim Helkias ſonne the chiefe ouer the houſeholde, Sobna the ſcribe, and Joah Aſaphes ſonne the ſecratarie vnto Hezekia with rent clothes, and tolde hym the wordes of Rabſakeh.

The.xxxvij.Chapter.

1 Hezekia humbleth hym selfe before the Lorde. 36 The armie of Sennacherib is slayne of the angell of the Lorde, 38 and he hym selfe is killed of his owne sonnes.

1 AND when Hezekia heard that, he rent his clothes, *and put on sackcloth, and went into the temple of the Lorde.

2 But he sent Eliakim the chiefe ouer the householde, Sobna the scribe, with the eldest priestes clothed in*sacke, vnto the prophete Esai the sonne of Amos,

3 And they sayde vnto hym, Thus saith Hezekia: This is the day of trouble, of plague, and of blasphemie: for the children are come to the place of birth, but there is no power to bryng them forth.

4 The Lorde thy God [no doubt] hath well considered the wordes of Rabsakeh, whom his lorde king of the Assyrians hath sent to defie and blaspheme the lyuyng God, with such wordes as the Lorde thy God hath heard ryght well: and therfore lyft vp thy prayer for the remnaunt that yet are left.

5 So the seruauntes of the kyng Hezekia came to Esai,

6 And Esai gaue them this aunswere: Say thus vnto your lorde, Thus saith the Lord: Be not afraide of the wordes that thou hast heard, wherwith the kyng of the Assyrians seruauntes haue blasphemed me.

7 *Beholde, I wyll rayse vp a wynde agaynst him, & he shall heare a rumour, and he shall go agayne into his countrey, there wyll I destroy hym with the sworde in his owne lande.

8 *Nowe when Rabsakeh returned, he founde the kyng of Assyria laying siege to Libnas: for he had vnderstandyng that he was departed from Lachis.

9 And there came a rumour that Tharakas kyng of Ethiopia was come forth to warre agaynst hym: and when the king of Assyria heard that, he sent other messengers to kyng Hezekia with this commaundement.

10 Say thus to Hezekia kyng of Juda: Let not thy God deceaue thee, in whom thou hopest, and sayest, Hierusalem shall not be geuen into the handes of the kyng of Assyria.

11 For lo, thou knowest well howe the kynges of Assyria haue handled all the landes that they haue subuerted: and hopest thou to escape?

12 Were the people of the gentiles whom my progenitours conquered, deliuered at any tyme through their gods? *[As namely] Golan, Haran, Rezeph, and the children of Eden, which were at Thalassar? 3.Reg.17.a.

13 Where is the king of Hemath, and the king of Arphad, and the king of the citie Sepharuaim, Ena, and Aua?

14 Nowe when Hezekia had receaued the letter of the messengers, and read it, he went vp into the house of the Lorde, and opened the letter before the Lorde, ℭ

15 And Hezekia prayed vnto the Lorde [on this maner.]

16 O Lorde of hoastes, thou God of Israel, which dwellest vpon*Cherubim, thou art the God that only is God of all the kingdomes of the world, for thou only hast *created heauen and earth. Exo.xxv.c Gen.i.a. Baruc.i.c.

17 *Encline thine eare Lorde and consider, open thine eyes Lorde and see, and ponder all the wordes of Sennacherib, which hath sent his embassage to blaspheme the lyuyng God.

18 It is true O Lorde that the kynges of Assyria haue conquered all kyngdomes and landes, 19 And cast their gods in the fire: for those were no gods, but the workes of mens handes, of wood or stone, therfore haue they destroyed them.

20 Nowe therfore deliuer vs O Lord our God from the handes of Sennacherib, that all the kyngdomes of the earth may knowe that thou only art the Lorde.

21 Then Esai the sonne of Amos sent vnto Hezekia, saying, Thus saith the Lorde God of Israel: whereas thou hast made thy prayer vnto me as touching Sennacherib the king of Assyria,

22 This is the aunswere that the Lorde hath geuen concernyng hym: Dispised art thou and mocked O daughter Sion, he hath shaken his head at thee

O daughter

O daughter of Hierusalem.

Zach. ii.b. Mat.xxv.d. Act.ix.c.

23 But thou Sennacherib, *whom hast thou defied and blasphemed? Agaynst whom hast thou lifted vp thy voyce, and exalted thy proude lokes? euen agaynst the holy one of Israel.

D 24 Thou with thy seruauntes hast blasphemed the Lorde, and thus holdest thou of thy selfe: I wyll couer the hye mountaynes and sydes of Libanus with my horsemen, and there wyll I cut downe the hye Cedar trees, and the fayrest Firre trees: I wyll vp in the heyght of it, and into the chiefest of his tymber woods.

25 If there be no water, I wyll graue and drynke: and as for waters of defence, I wyll drye them vp with the feete of myne hoast.

26 Yea, hast thou not hearde what I haue taken in hande and brought to passe of olde tyme? That same wyll I do nowe also, and waste, destroy, and bryng strong cities vnto heapes of stones.

27 For their inhabitours shalbe like lame men brought in feare and confounded: they shalbe lyke grasse and greene hearbes in the fielde, lyke the hay vpon house toppes, that wythereth before it be growen vp.

28 I knowe thy wayes, thy going forth, and thy commyng home, yea and thy madnesse agaynst me.

E 29 Therfore thy furiousnesse agaynst me, and thy pride is come before me, I wyll put my ryng in thy nose, and my bridle bit in the iawes of thee, and turne thee about euen the same way thou camest.

3 I wyll geue thee also this token [Ezekia] this yere shalt thou eate such as groweth of it selfe, and the seconde yere that which springeth agayne of the same, & in the thirde yere ye shall sowe and reape, yea ye shall plant vineyardes, and enioy the fruites therof.

31 And such of the house of Juda as are escaped shall come together, and the remnaunt shall take roote beneath, and bryng forth fruite aboue.

32 For the escaped shall go out of Hierusalem, and the remnaunt from the mount Sion: and this shall the zeale of the Lorde of hoastes bryng to passe.

33 Therfore thus saith the Lorde concernyng the kyng of the Assyrians: He shall not come into this citie, and shall shoote no arrowe into it, there shall no shielde hurt it, neither shall they cast ditches about it.

34 The same way he came he shall returne, and not come at this citie, saith the Lorde. F

35 And I wyll kepe and saue this citie [saith he] for myne owne and for my seruaunt Dauids sake.

4.Reg.19.g. Eccle.48.d. Esai.37.b. 2.Mac.15.d.

36 *Thus the angell of the Lorde went forth, and slue of the Assyrians hoaste an hundred fourescore and fiue thousande: and when men arose vp early in the mornyng, beholde they were slayne, and all lay full of dead bodyes.

37 So Sennacherib the kyng of the Assyrians brake vp & dwelt at Niniue.

38 Afterwarde it chaunced as he prayed in the temple of Nesroch his God, that Adramalech and Sarazer his owne sonnes slue hym with the sworde, and fled into the lande of Armenia: and Asarhaddon his sonne raigned in his steede.

The .xxxviij. Chapter.

1 Hezekia is sicke vnto death, 5 but is yet reuiued by the Lorde, and lyueth fifteene yeres after: 10 for which benefite he geueth thankes.

A 1 *About this tyme was Hezekia sicke vnto death, * and the prophete Esai the sonne of Amos came vnto hym, and sayde, Thus commaundeth the Lorde: Set thyne house in order, for thou must dye, and shalt not escape.

4.Reg.20.a. 2.Par.34.f.

2 Then Hezekia turned his face toward the wall, and prayed vnto the Lorde,

3 And sayde: Remember O Lorde I beseche thee, that I haue walked before thee in trueth and a stedfast heart, & haue done the thyng that is pleasaunt to thee. And Hezekia wept sore.

4 Then sayde God vnto Esai,

5 Go and speake vnto Ezekia: The Lord God of Dauid thy father sendeth thee this worde, I haue hearde thy prayer, and considered thy teares: *beholde I wyll put fifteene yeres mo vnto Iona.iii.b.

to thy lyfe,
6 And deliuer thee and the citie also from the hande of the kyng of Assyria: for I wyll defende the citie.
7 *And take thee this token of the Lord, that he wyll do it as he hath spoken.
8 Beholde, I wyll returne the shadowe of Ahaz diall that nowe is layde out with the sunne, and bring it ten degrees backwarde: *So the sunne turned ten degrees backwarde, the which he was descended afore.

9 A thankesgeuyng which Hezekia kyng of Juda wrote, when he had ben sicke and was recouered.

10 I thought I shoulde haue gone to the gates of hell when myne age was shortened, and haue wanted the residue of my yeres.
11 I spake within my selfe, I wyll neuer visite the Lorde [the Lorde I say] in this lyfe: I wyll neuer see man among the dwellers of the worlde.
12 Myne age is folden together & taken away from me lyke a sheepheardes cotage, I haue hewen of my lyfe by my sinnes, lyke as a weauer cutteth of his webbe: he wyll with pinyng sickenesse make an ende of me, yea he wyll make an ende of me in one day.
13 *I thought I woulde haue lyued vntyll the morowe, but he brused my bones lyke a lion: and in one day thou wylt make an ende of me.
14 Then chattered I lyke a swallowe, and lyke a crane, and mourned lyke a doue, I lift vp mine eyes into the heyght: O Lorde [sayde I] my sickenesse kepeth me downe, ease thou me.
15 What shall I say? The Lorde hath made a promise to me, yea and he hym selfe hath performed it: I shall therefore so long as I lyue remember this bitternesse of my lyfe.
16 O Lorde, to all those that shall lyue hereafter, yea to all men shall it be knowen, that euen in those yeres I haue a ioyfull lyfe, and that it was thou that causedst me to sleepe agayne, thou hast geuen lyfe to me.
17 Beholde, bitter as gall was my pensiuenesse, so sore longed I for health, and it was thy pleasure to deliuer my lyfe from the filthy pit: for thou it is [O Lorde] that hast cast all my sinnes behynde thy backe.
18 *For hell prayseth not thee, death doth not magnifie thee: they that go downe into the graue prayse not thy trueth:
19 But the lyuyng, yea the lyuyng knowledge thee, as I do this day: the father telleth his children of thy faythfulnesse.
20 *To heale me it is the Lordes worke, and we will sing my songes in the house of the Lorde all the dayes of our lyfe.
21 And Esai sayde: Take a plaster of figges, and lay it vpon the sore, so shall it be whole.
22 Then sayd Hezekia: O what a miracle is this, that I shall go vp into the house of the Lorde.

¶ The. xxxix. Chapter.

3 Hezekia is reproued of Esai, because he shewed his treasure vnto the embassadours of Babylon.

AT *the same tyme Merodach Baladan, Baladans sonne kyng of Babylon, sent letters and presentes to Hezekia: for he vnderstoode that he had ben sicke, and was recouered agayne.
2 *And Hezekia was glad therof, and shewed them the house of his treasures of siluer and golde, of spices, and rootes, of precious oyles, & all that was in his cubbordes and treasure houses: there was not one thyng in Hezekias house, and so throughout all his kyngdome, but he let them see it.
3 Then came Esai the prophete to kyng Hezekia, and sayde vnto hym: What haue the men sayde, and from whence came they vnto thee? Hezekia answered, They came out of a farre countrey vnto me, out of Babylon.
4 Esai sayde, what haue they loked vpon in thy house? Hezekia answered, All that is in my house haue they seene, and there is nothyng in my treasure but I shewed it them.
5 Then sayde Esai vnto Hezekia: Understande the worde of the Lorde of hoastes:
6 *Beholde, the tyme wyll come that euery thyng which is in thyne house, and and all that thy progenitours haue layde vp in store vntyll this day, shalbe caryed to Babylon, and nothing left behynde, thus saith the Lorde.

7 Yea and part of thy sonnes that shall come of thee, & whom thou shalt beget, shalbe caryed hence, and become gelded chamberlaynes in the kyng of Babylons court.

8 Then sayde Hezekia to Esai, Good is the worde of God which thou hast tolde me. He sayd moreouer, For there shalbe peace and faythfulnesse in my tyme.

3 The commyng of saint Iohn Baptist. 9 The preparation of the Apostles. The callyng of the Gentiles.

A 1 Comfort my people [Ye prophetes] comfort my people, saith your God,

2 Comfort Hierusalem at the heart, and tell her, that her trauayle is at an ende, that her offence is pardoned, that she hath receaued at the Lordes hande sufficient correction for all her sinnes.

Mat.iii.a. Mar.i.a. Luk.iii.a. Ioh.i.c. Esa.lvii.c.

3 *A voyce crieth in wildernesse: Prepare the way of the Lorde, make strayght the path of our God in the desert.

4 All valleys shalbe exalted, and euery mountayne and hyll layde lowe: What so is croked shalbe made strayght, and the rough shalbe made playne.

Ioh.x.b.

5 *For the glorie of the Lorde shall appeare, for all flesh shall at once see that the mouth of the Lorde hath spoken it.

6 The same voyce spake: Crye. And the prophete aunswered, What shall I crye: *That all flesh is grasse, and that all the goodlinesse therof is as the floure of the fielde.

Psal.x.c. Iacob.i.c. i. Pet.i.b. Eccle.xviii.b

7 The grasse is withered, the floure falleth away, for the breath of the Lord blowyeth vpon them: of a trueth the people are grasse.

8 The grasse withereth, and the floure fadeth away: *yet the worde of our God endureth for euer.

Psal.xc.b. and.cxvii. i. Pet.i.d. Iacob.v.b.

9 Go vp vnto the hye hyll O Sion thou that bryngest good tidinges, lyft vp thy voyce with power O thou preacher Hierusalem, lyft vp without feare, & say vnto the cities of Juda: Beholde your God, 10 Beholde ỹ Lorde God shal come with power, and shall of him selfe beare rule with his arme: beholde his rewarde with hym, and his workes before hym.

11 He shall feede his flocke like an heardman, he shall gather the lambes together with his arme, and cary them in his bosome, and shall kyndly intreate those that beare young.

12 Who hath measured the waters in his fist: who hath measured heauen with his spanne, and hath comprehended all the earth of the worlde in three measures: who hath wayed the mountaynes and hylles in a ballaunce:

13 Who hath directed the spirite of the Lorde: *or who gaue hym counsayle, and shewed hym: Sapi.ix.b. Rom xi.b.

14 Who is of his counsayle, and geueth hym vnderstandyng, and hath taught hym the path of iudgement: Who taught hym cunnyng, and opened to hym the way of vnderstandyng: ℭ

15 Beholde, all people are in comparison of hym as a droppe of a bucket full, and are counted as the least thyng that the ballaunce wayeth: yea and the Iles he taketh vp as a very litle thyng.

16 Libanus is not sufficient to minister fire to his offeryng, and all the beastes therof are not inough for one sacrifice.

17 All people in comparison of hym are reckened as nothyng: *yf they be compared with hym, lesse then nothyng, and as it that is not. Psal.lxii.d

18 To whom then wyll ye lyken God: or what similitude will ye set vp to him:

19 Shall the caruer make hym a carued image: and shall the goldesmith couer hym with golde, or cast hym into a fourme of siluer plates:

20 Moreouer, shal the image maker that the poore man which is disposed may haue some thyng to set vp also, seeke out and choose a tree that is not rotten, and carue thereout an image that moueth not:

21 Knowe ye nothyng: hearde ye neuer of it: hath it not ben preached vnto you since since the beginning: haue ye not ben enformed of this by the foundation of the earth:

D 22 It is he that sitteth vpon the circle of the world, whose inhabiters are [in comparison of him] but as grashoppers: *he spreadeth out the heauens as a couering, he stretcheth them out as a tent to dwell in.

23 He bringeth princes to nothing, and the iudges of the earth as though they were not.

24 So that of them it may be sayde, they be not planted nor sowne agayne, neither their stocke rooted agayne in the earth: for assoone as he bloweth vpon them, they wither and fade away lyke the strawe in a whirle winde.

25 To whom nowe will ye liken me, and whom shall I be lyke, saith the holy one:

26 Lift vp your eyes on high, and consider* who hath made those thinges which come out by so great heapes, and he calleth them al by their names: there is nothing hid from the greatnesse of his power, strength, and might.

27 Howe may then Jacob thinke, or may Israel say, My wayes are hid from the Lord, and my God knoweth not of my iudgementes:

28 Knowest thou not, or hast thou not hearde that the euerlasting God, the Lorde Whiche made all the corners of the earth, is neither weerie nor fainte: and that his wysdome can not be comprehended:

29 It is he that geueth strength vnto the weerie, and power vnto the faint.

30 Children are weerie and faint, and the strongest men fall:

31 *But vnto them that haue their trust in the Lorde, shall strength be increased: Egles winges shall growe vpon them, when they runne they shall not fall, and when they go they shall not be weerie.

The. xlj. Chapter.

2 Of the goodnesse and mercy of God towarde the people.

A 1 BE styll you (a) Ilandes and hearken vnto me: let the people lay their strength together, let them come hither, and then shew their cause: we will go to the lawe together.

(a) By the Ilandes God meaneth the gentiles, who reproueth in their vnbeliefe.

2 Who raysed vp the (b) iust man from the east, and called hym to go foorth: Who cast downe the people, and subdued the kynges before him: that he may throw them al to the ground with his swoorde, and scatter them lyke stubble with his bowe.

(b) By the iust man, is ment Abraham, who being called out of Ur of the Chaldeans, and being instructed by faith, became the father of many nations, whom God alwayes defended against all his enemies.

3 He followeth vpon them, and goeth safely hym selfe, & that in a way where before his foote had not troden.

4 Who hath made and created these thinges: euen he that called the generations from the beginning, *euen I the Lorde Whiche am the first, and with the last.

*Esa.xliii.a. and xliv.c. Apoc.i.b.

5 The Iles sawe and did feare, and the endes of the earth were abashed, drewe nye, and came hither.

6 Euery man helped his neighbour, and sayd to his brother, be strong.

7 The carpenter comforted the goldsmith, and the goldsmith the hammerman, saying, solder will do very well in it: and they fastened it with nayles, that it shoulde not be moued. B

8 But thou Israel art my seruaunt, thou Jacob whom I haue chosē, thou art the seede of Abraham my beloued.

9 Thou art he whom I led from the endes of the earth: for I called thee euen from among the glorious men of it, and sayd vnto thee, Thou art my seruaunt, I haue chosen thee, and not cast thee away.

10 *Be not afraide, for I am with thee: Esai.xliii.b. Melt not away as ware, for I am thy God to strengthe thee, helpe thee, and kepe thee with the right hande of my righteousnesse.

11 Beholde, all they that resist thee shall come to confusion and shame, and thine aduersaries shalbe destroyed & brought to naught.

12 So that who so seeketh after them, shall not finde them, thy destroyers shall perishe: and so shall they that vndertake to make battayle against thee be as that is not, & as a thing of naught.

13 For I the Lorde thy God wyll strengthen thy right hande, euen I that say vnto thee, Feare not, I wyll helpe thee.

℄ 14 Be not afraide thou litle worme Jacob, and thou despised Israel: for I wil helpe thee saith the Lorde, and the holy one of Israel thy redeemer.

15 Beholde, I will make thee a treading cart and a newe flaile, that thou mayest threshe and grinde the mountaines, and bring the hilles to powder.

16 Thou shalt fanne them, and the winde shall carrie them away, and the whirle winde shall scatter them: but thou shalt reioyce in the Lorde, and shalt delight in the holy one of Israel.

Gene.xxi.c. 17 *When the thirstie and poore seeke water and finde none, and when their tongue is drye of thirst, I geue it them saith the Lorde, I the God of Israel forsake them not.

Esai.xxv.b. xlii,xliii,a. 18 *I bryng foorth fluddes in the hilles, and welles in the playne fieldes: I turne the wildernesse to riuers, and the drye lande to conduites of water.

19 I plant in the waste grounde trees of Cedar, Bore, Myrre, and Olives, and in the drie I set Firre trees, Elmes, and Hawthornes together.

20 All this do I, that they altogether may see and marke, perceaue with their heartes and consider that the hande of the Lorde maketh these thinges, and that the holy one of Israel bringeth them to passe.

21 Stande at your cause saith the Lord, & bryng foorth your strongest grounde, saith the kyng of Jacob.

22 Let them bring foorth their gods, and let their gods tel vs what shall chaunce hereafter, yea let them shewe vs the thinges that are past what they be, let them declare them vnto vs, that we may take them to heart, and knowe them hereafter.

23 Either shewe vs thinges for to come, and tell vs what shall be done hereafter, so shall we know that ye are gods: do something either good or bad, so wyl we both knowledge the same, and tell it out. D

24 Beholde ye are gods of naught, and your making is of naught: yea abhomible is the man that hath chosen you.

25 Neuertheless, *I haue waked vp one from the north, and he shall come from the east, he shal call vpon my name, and shall treade vpon princes as vpon clay, and as the potter treadeth downe the mire. Esai.xliii.a. Cyrus.

26 Who declared this from the beginning, and we will knowe hym: or from the olde times, and we wil confesse and say that he is righteous: but there is none that sheweth or declareth any thing, there is none also that heareth your wordes.

27 The first is he that shall say to Sion, beholde, beholde, they are present: and to Hierusalem it selfe wyll I geue an euangelist.

28 But when I consider, there is not a man among them, nor any that can geue counsayle, nor that when I examine them that can aunswere one worde.

29 Lo wicked are they, and bayne, with the thinges also that they take in hand, yea their images are but winde and bayne thinges.

¶ The. xlij. Chapter.

The comming of Christe.

A Math.iii.b. xii.a.xvii.a. 1 Behold *this is my seruaunt vpon whom I leane, my elect in whō my soule is pacified: I haue geuen my spirite vpon him, that he may shewe foorth iudgement among the gentiles.

2 He shall not be an outcryer, nor lift vp his voyce, his voyce shall not be heard in the streetes.

3 And a brooised reede shall he not breake, and the smoking flaxe shall he not quench: but faythfully and truely shall he geue iudgement.

4 He shall not be pensiue nor carefull, that he may restore righteousnesse vnto the earth: and the gentiles also shall loke for his lawes.

5 For

5 *For thus saith God the Lorde vnto hym, euen he that made the heauens and spread them abroade, and set foorth the earth with her increase, whiche geueth breath vnto the people that is in it, and spirite to them that dwell therein,

6 I the Lorde haue called thee in righteousnesse, and wyll holde thee by the hande, and wyll also defende thee, and geue thee for a couenaunt of the people, to be the light of the gentiles.

7 That thou mayest open the eyes of the blinde, *let out the prisoners from their bondes, and them that sit in darknesse out of the dungeon house.

8 Euen I am the Lord, and this is my name: *and my glory wyll I geue to none other, neither mine honour to grauen images.

9 Beholde olde thinges are come to passe, and newe thinges do I declare, and or euer they come I tell you of them.

10 Sing vnto the Lorde a newe song of thankesgeuing, blowe out his prayse from the ende of the worlde: they that be vpon the sea, and all that is therein prayse hym, the Iles and they that dwell in them.

11 Let the wilderneſſe with the cities lift vp her voyce, the townes also that they of Cedar dwell in: let them be glad that sit vpon rockes of stone, and let them crye downe from the high mountaines, 12 Ascribing glory vnto the Lorde, and magnifying hym among the gentiles.

¶ 13 The Lorde shall come foorth lyke a giaunt, and take a stomacke to him like a freshe man of warre: he shall roare and crye, and ouercome his enemies.

14 I haue long holden my peace [saith the Lorde] (a) I haue ben styll and refrained my selfe, but now I wyll crie like a trauayling woman, and at once wyll I destroy and deuour.

15 I wyll make waste both mountaine and hill, and drye vp euery greene thing that groweth theron: I wyll drye vp the fluddes to become Ilandes, and drinke vp the riuers.

16 I wyll bring the blinde into a streete that they know not, and leade them into a foote path that they are ignorant in: I shall make darknesse light before them, and the thing that is crooked to be straight: These things haue I done vnto them, and not forsaken them.

17 *They are fallen backe, yea and let them be ashamed earnestly that hope in idols, and say to the moulten images, ye are our gods. Esai.xliii.b.

18 Heare Ye deafe men, and sharpen your eyes to see Ye blinde.

19 *Who is blinde but my seruaunt? or so deafe as (b) my messenger whom I sent vnto them? for who is so blinde as the perfect man, and so blinde as the Lords seruaunt? Math.xv.b.

20 Thou hast seene much, and kepest nothing: the eares are open, and no man heareth.

21 The Lorde is mercyfull vnto them for his righteousnesse sake, that his word might be magnified and praysed:

22 (c) But the people them selues is robbed and troden vnder the foote, chayned in dungeons, and they all I say, are shut into prison houses: *they be caryed away captiue, and no man doth loose them: they be troden vnder foote, and no man doth labour to bring them agayne.

23 *But who is he among you that pondereth this, that considereth it, and taketh it for a warning in tyme to come?

24 *Who gaue Iacob to be troden vnder foote, and Israel to be spoyled? Did not the Lorde? Because we haue sinned against hym, and haue had no delight to walke in his wayes, neither ben obedient vnto his lawe:

25 Therfore he hath powred vpon hym his wrathfull displeasure and strong battayle, and hath fired hym on euery side, yet wyll he not vnderstand: he burneth hym vp, yet sinketh it not into his heart.

(a) Christe saith tyme beareth, as is there with power to deliuer his elect from the tyrannie of Antichrist, but at the time appointed he will reuenge hym selfe, as a woman in her trauayle, to deliuer his people.

(b) By the seruaunt, messenger, and the perfect man, he meaneth the Iewes & their priestes, who ought of all other people to haue had knowledge, and to haue serued God perfectly.

(c) A greeuous sentence against those that will not beholde the light when it shineth, nor beleue Gods worde when it is preached. Esai.xlviii.d.

¶ The. xliiij. Chapter.

5 Christe promiseth to deliuer his Churche, without any her desertes.

A I SO heare nowe O Jacob my seruaunt, and Israel whom I haue chosen.

2 For thus saith the Lorde that made thee, fashioned thee, and helped thee euen from thy mothers wombe: Be not afraide O Jacob my seruaunt, thou righteous whom I haue chosen:

3 *For I shall powre water vpon the drye grounde, and riuers vpon the thirstie: *I shall powre my spirite vpon thy seede, and my blessing vpon thy stocke:

4 They shall growe together lyke as the grasse, and as the Willowes by the waters side.

5 One shal say, I am the Lordes: another shall call hym selfe after the name of Jacob: the thirde shall subscribe with his hande vnto the Lorde, and geue hym selfe vnder the name of Israel.

6 Thus hath the Lorde spoken, euen the kyng of Israel, and his redeemer the Lorde of hoastes: *I am the first and the last, and besides me there is no God.

7 If any be like me, let hym call foorth the thing past, and openly shewe it, and lay it playne before me, what hath chaunced since I appointed the people of the worlde, and what shalbe shortly, or what shal come to passe [in tyme long to come] let them shewe these thinges:

8 Be not abashed nor afraide: for haue not I euer tolde you hitherto and warned you: ye can beare me recorde your selues: is there any God except me, or any maker, that I should not know hym:

9 All caruers of images are but vayne, and the carued images that they loue can do no good: they must beare recorde them selues, that seeing they can neither see nor vnderstande, they shalbe confounded.

10 *Who dare then make a god, or fashion an image that is profitable for nothing:

11 *Beholde, all the felowship of them must be brought to confusion, & truely all the workemasters of them are men: they shal all be gathered together, they shall stand, tremble, and be confounded one with another.

12 The smith maketh an axe, and tempereth it with hotte coales, and fashioneth it with hammers, and worketh it with all the strength of his armes, yea sometime he is fainte for very hunger, and so thirstie that he hath no more power.

13 The carpenter or image caruer taketh measure of the timber, and spreadeth foorth his line, he marketh it with some colour, he playneth it, he ruleth it, and squareth it, and maketh it after the image of a man, and according to the beautie of a man, that it may stande in the house.

14 Moreouer, he goeth out to hewe ℭ Cedar trees, he bringeth home Elmes and Okes, and taking a bolde courage, he seeketh out the best timber of the wood: he him selfe hath planted a Pine tree, whiche the rayne hath swelled, 15 which wood serueth for men to burne: Of this he taketh and warmeth hym selfe withall, he maketh a fire of it to bakebread, and maketh also a god therof to honour it, and a grauen image to kneele before it.

16 One peece he burneth in the fire, with another he rosteth flesh, that he may eate roste his belly full: with the thirde he warmeth him selfe, and saith, Aha, I am well warmed, I haue ben at the fire.

17 And of the residue he maketh hym a god, and grauen image for him selfe: he kneeleth before it, he worshippeth it, he prayeth vnto it, and saith, Deliuer me, for thou art my god.

18 *Yet men neither consider nor vnderstande, because their eyes be stopped that they can not see, and their heartes that they can not perceaue. Esai. xlv. e.

19 They ponder not in their mindes, for they haue neither knowledge nor vnderstanding to thinke thus: I haue brent one peece in the fire, I haue baked bread with the coales thereof, I haue rosted flesshe withall, and eaten it: and I wyll nowe of the residue make an abhominable idoll, and fall downe before a rotten peece of wood.

20 Thus doth he but lose his labour, and his heart whiche is deceaued doth turne hym aside, so that none of them can haue a free conscience to thinke, Do not I erre?

D 21 Consider this O Jacob and Israel, for thou art my seruaunt: I made thee that thou mightest serue me, O Israel forget me not.

Esai.xliii.d. 22 *As for thyne offences I haue driuen them away lyke the cloudes, and thy sinnes as the mist: Turne thee agayne vnto me, for I haue redeemed thee.

23 Be glad ye heauens, for the Lorde hath dealt graciously with his people, let all that is here beneath vpon the earth be ioyfull: reioyce ye mountaines and woods, with all the trees thereof, for the Lorde hath redeemed Jacob, and wyll shewe his glory vpon Israel.

24 Thus saith the Lorde thy redeemer, euen he that fashioned thee from thy mothers wombe: *I the Lorde do all thinges my selfe alone, I only spreade out the heauens, and I only haue laide abrode the earth by my owne selfe. Gene ii.a. Esai.xlv.c.

25 I destroy the tokens of witches, and make the soothsayers fooles: As for the wise I turne them backwarde, and make their cunning foolishnesse.

26 He doth set vp the purpose of his seruaunt, and fulfilleth the counsaile of his messengers concerning Hierusalem, he saith it shalbe inhabited, and of the cities of Juda they shalbe buylded againe, and I will repayre their decayed places.

27 He saith to the deapth, be dry, and I wyll drye vp water fluddes.

28 He saith of Cyrus, he is my heardman, so that he shall fulfill all thinges after my wyll: He saith also of Hierusalem, it shalbe buylded, and of the temple, it shalbe fast grounded.

10 Wo be vnto hym that saieth to his father, What begettest thou? and to his mother, What bearest thou?

¶ 14 Thus saith the Lorde, The occupiers of Egypt, the marchauntes of the Ethiopians and Sabees, shall come vnto thee with tribute, they shalbe thyne, they shall folowe thee, and go with chaines vpon their feete, they shall fall downe before thee, and make supplication vnto thee: for God without whom there is none other God, shalbe with thee.

15 *O howe profounde art thou O God, thou God and sauiour of Israel: *Dauid.

16 Confounded are they all and put to dishonour, thei are gone hence together with shame, euen the makers of images.

17 But Israel shalbe saued in the Lord with an euerlasting saluation: ye shall not come to shame nor confusion world without ende.

18 For thus saith the Lorde, *Euen he that created heauen, the God that made the earth & fashioned it, and set it foorth, he dyd not make it for naught, but to be inhabited, euen I the Lorde, without whom there is none other. *Genes.

19 *I haue not spoken secretly, neither in darke places of the earth: I sayde not in vayne to the seede of Jacob, seeke me: I am the Lorde, whiche when I speake, do declare the thing that is righteous and true. *Exod.xx.c.

21 Drawe nye, come hyther, and let them ✠ alke counsaile one at another, and shew foorth what is he that told this before: or who spake of it euer since the beginning: haue not I the Lorde done it: *without whom there is none other God, the true God and sauiour, and there is els none but I. *Esai.xlvi.b.

2 Bryng foorth the querne and grinde meale, vntruſſe thy broydred heere, put of thy ſhoes, make bare thy knees, and wade thorowe the water riuers.

Eze.xvi.d. Naum.iiii.a. 3 *Thy filthyneſſe ſhalbe diſcouered, and thy prauities ſhalbe ſeene: for I wil auenge me of thee, and wyll ſhewe no mercy to thee, as I do to other men.

4 Our redeemer is called the Lorde of hoaſtes, the holy one of Iſrael.

5 Sit ſtill, holde thy tongue, get thee into ſome darke corner O daughter Caldea: for thou ſhalt no more be called lady of kyngdomes.

6 I was ſo wroth with my people, that I puniſhed myne inheritaunce, and gaue them into thy power, *neuertheleſſe thou ſhewedſt them no mercy, but euen the very aged of them diddeſt thou oppreſſe right ſore with the yoke. Prou.xxi.b Iere.l.b.

B 7 And thou thoughteſt thus: I ſhalbe lady for euer, and beſide all that, thou haſt not regarded theſe thinges, neither remembred what was the ende of that citie Hieruſalem.

8 Heare nowe therefore thou delicate one that ſitteſt ſo careleſſe, and ſpeakeſt thus in thyne heart, *I am alone, and without me is there none, I ſhal neuer be widowe nor deſolate agayne. Ffai.xx.b. Apo.xvii.c

9 And yet both theſe thinges ſhal come to thee vpon one day, in the twincke-ling of an eye, *namely, widowhood and deſolation: they mightyly fall vpon thee, for the multitude of thy witches, and for the great heape of thy coniurers. Dani.v.a.

10 For thou haſt truſted in thy wickedneſſe, and haſt ſaid, *No man ſeeth me: thine owne wiſdome and cunning hath deceaued thee, in that thou haſt ſayd in thyne heart, I am alone, and without me there is none. Eſai.xxix.c

11 Therefore ſhall trouble come vpon thee, and thou ſhalt not knowe from whence it ſhall ariſe: Miſchiefe ſhall fal vpon thee, which thou ſhalt not be able to put of, a ſodayne vtter deſtruction ſhall come vpon thee or euer thou be ware.

12 Nowe go to thy coniurers, and to the multitude of thy witches with whom thou haſt weeryed thy ſelfe from thy youth, if thei may helpe thee or ſtrength thee.

13 Thou haſt hitherto had many counſayles of them: So let the heauen gaſers, and the beholders of ſtarres, and moone prophetes, come on nowe and deliuer thee, yea and let them ſhew when theſe new thinges ſhal come vpon thee. C

14 Beholde, they ſhalbe lyke ſtrawe, whiche if it be kindeled with fire, no man may rid it for the vehemencie of the flambe, and yet it geueth no ſinders to warme a man by, nor cleare fire to ſit by.

15 Thus are they with whom thou haſt weeried thy ſelf, and thus are thy marchauntes that haue ben with thee from thy youth: euery one hath taken his owne way, and none of them ſhall defende thee.

1 The hypocrisie of the Jewes is reproued. 11 The Lorde alone wyll be worshipped, which hath chosen vs, 20 and which succoureth vs for his owne sake.

A 1 HEare this O thou house of Jacob, ye that are called by the name of Jsrael, & are come out of one stocke with Juda: which sweare by the name of the Lorde, and beare witnesse by the God of Jsrael, but not with trueth and ryght.

2 For they are named * of the holy citie, and are grounded vpon the God of Jsrael, * whose name is the Lorde of hoastes.

3 The thynges that I haue shewed you euer since the begynnyng, haue I not brought them to passe immediatly as they came out of my mouth, and declared them, and they are come:

4 Howbeit I knowe that thou art obstinate, and that thy necke hath an iron sinowe, and that thy browe is of brasse.

5 Neuertheless, I haue euer since the begynnyng shewed thee of thynges for to come, and declared them vnto thee or euer they came to passe: that thou shouldest not say, myne idoll hath done it, my carued or molten image hath shewed it.

6 Thou heardest it before, and beholde it is come to passe: And shall not ye your selues shewe foorth or confesse the same: But as for me, I tolde thee before at the begynnyng newe and secrete thynges which thou knewest not of,

9 Neuertheless, for my names sake I wyll withdrawe my wrath, and for my honours sake I will patiently forbeare thee, that I do not roote thee out.

10 Beholde I haue purged thee, yet not as siluer, *I haue chosen thee in the fire of affliction.

11 And that only for myne owne sake, yea * euen for myne owne sake wyll I do this: or els what dishonour would they do to my name: surely I wyll not geue my glorie vnto another.

12 Hearken vnto me O Jacob, and Jsrael whom I haue called: I am euen he that is, I am the first and the last.

13 My hande hath layde the foundation of the earth, and my ryght hande hath spanned ouer the heauens: assoone as I call them, they stande together.

14 Gather you altogether and hearken: C which of yonder gods hath declared this: The Lorde hath a loue vnto him, and he shal performe his wyll against Babel, and declare his power against the Chaldees.

15 I my selfe alone, euen I haue tolde you this, I dyd call him and bryng him foorth, and he shall make his iourney prosperous.

16 Come to me and heare this: Haue I spoken any thyng darkly since the begynnyng: From the tyme that this thyng begynneth I am there: Wherefore the Lorde God and his spirite hath sent me.

17 And thus saith the Lorde God thy redeemer, the holy one of Jsrael: I am the Lorde thy God which teache thee * profitable thynges, and leade thee the way that thou shouldest go.

18 *O that thou hadst regarded my commaundementes, then had thy wealthynesse ben as the water streame, and thy ryghteousnesse as the waues flowyng in the sea:

19 Thy seede also had ben lyke as the sande in the sea, and the fruite of thy body lyke the grauell stones therof: his name shoulde not be rooted out, nor destroyed before me.

20 *Go away from Babylon, flee from the Chaldees, with a mery voyce speake of this, declare it abrode, and go foorth into the ende of the worlde, say: The Lorde hath redeemed his seruaunt Jacob.

¶ The. xlix. Chapter.

6 Christe shall gather together all nations be they neuer so farre of.

A 1 YE Iles hearken vnto me, and take heede ye people from farre: The Lord hath called me from my birth, and made mention of my name from my mothers wombe:

Esai.li.c. Eph.vi.c. 2 *He hath made my mouth *lyke a sharpe sworde, vnder the shadowe of his hande hath he defended me, and hid me in his quiuer as a good arrowe,

3 And sayde vnto me: Thou art my seruaunt Israel, *I wyll be honoured in thee. Ioh.xvii.b.

4 Then I aunswered: I haue lost my labour, I haue spent my strength in vayne: Neuertheless, I wyll commit my cause and my worke vnto the Lorde my God.

5 And nowe saith the Lorde, euen he that fashioned me from my mothers wombe to be his seruaunt, that I may bryng Jacob agayne vnto hym, albeit Israel wyll not be gathered vnto hym agayne, yet in Gods sight shall I be glorious, my God shalbe my strength.

6 And he sayde: It is but a small thyng that thou art my seruaunt to set vp the kinredes of Jacob, and to restore the destruction of Israel: *For I haue made thee the lyght of the gentiles, that thou mayest be my health vnto the ende of the worlde. Esai.xlii.b. Ioh.viii b. Act.xiii c.

B 7 Moreouer, thus saith the Lorde the redeemer and holy one of Israel, concernyng the abhorred & dispised among the gentiles, the seruaunt of them that beare rule, kynges and princes shall see and arise, and worship because of the Lorde that is faythfull, and because of the holy one of Israel that hath chosen thee.

8 And thus saith the Lorde: *In the tyme accepted haue I hearde thee, and in the day of saluation haue I helped thee: *I wyll preserue thee, and make thee to be the attonement of the people, that thou mayest helpe vp the earth againe, and possesse againe the desolate heritages. ii.Cor.vi.a. Iere.xxi.a. Esai.xlix.a. Esai.xlii.a.

9 *That thou mayest say vnto the prisoners, go foorth, and to them that are in darknesse, come into the lyght: they shall feede thee in the hye wayes, and get their pasture in all hye places. Zach.ix.b. Luk.iii.b.

10 *They shall neither hunger nor thirst, heate nor sunne shall not hurt them: for he that fauoureth them shall leade them, and geue them drynke of the well springes. Apoc.vii.c.

11 I wyll make wayes vpon all my mountaynes, and my footpathes shalbe exalted.

12 And beholde, these shall come from farre, lo, some from the north and west, some from the lande of Sinis [which is in the south.]

13 *Reioyce ye heauens, and sing prayses thou earth, talke of ioy ye hylles: for God hath comforted his people, & wyll haue mercie vpon his that be in trouble. Esai.liii.a.

C 14 But Sion sayde: *God hath forsaken me, and my Lorde hath forgotten me. Rom.xi.a.

15 Will a woman forget her owne infant, and not pitie the sonne of her owne wombe? And though they do forget, yet wyll I not forget thee.

16 Beholde, I haue written thee vp vpon my handes, thy walles are euer in my syght.

17 They make haste who buildeth thee vp againe: as for those that ouerthrowe thee and make thee waste, they shall depart from thee.

18 *Lift vp thine eyes and loke about thee, all these gather them together and come to thee: As truely as I lyue saith the Lorde, thou shalt put them all vpon thee as an apparell, and girde them to thee as a bride doth her iewels. Gen.xv.a. Esai.xl.a.

19 As for thy lande that lyeth desolate, wasted, and destroyed, it shalbe to narowe for them that shall dwell in it: and they that woulde deuoure thee, they shalbe farre away.

20 Then thy children whom the barren shall bring foorth, shall say in thine eare: This place is to narowe, geue place that I may haue roome.

21 Then

21 Then shalt thou thinke by thy selfe, who hath begotten me these, seeyng I am barren and alone, a captiue and an outcast: and who hath norished them vp for me: I am desolate and alone, but from whence come these?

22 And therfore thus saith the Lorde God: Beholde, I wyll stretch out my hande vnto the gentiles, and set vp my token to the people, they shall bryng thee thy sonnes in their lappes, and cary thy daughters vnto thee vpon their shoulders.

23 For kynges shalbe thy nursyng fathers, and queenes shalbe thy nursyng mothers: They shall fall before thee with their faces flat vpon the earth, & lick vp the dust of thy feete: that thou mayest knowe howe that I am the Lorde, *and that who so putteth their trust in me shall not be confounded. Rom.ix.d.

24 Shall the spoyle be taken from the mightie: or the lawfull prisoner from the taker?

25 But thus saith the Lorde: The prisoners shalbe taken from the mightie, & the spoyle shalde recouered from the violent: for I wyll mayntayne thy cause agaynst thine aduersaries, and I wyll saue thy sonnes.

26 And I wyll feede thine enemies with their owne flesh, & make them drunken with their owne blood, as with sweete wine: And all flesh shall knowe O Iacob that I am the Lorde thy sauiour, thy noble redeemer.

The. L. Chapter.

1 The Iewes are reproued, and also called.

1 THus saith the Lorde: *where is the byll of your mothers deuorcement whom I sent away: or who is the vsurer to whom I solde you? *Beholde, for your offences are ye solde, and because of your transgression is your mother forsaken.

2 For why woulde no man receaue me when I came: and when I called, no man gaue me aunswere: *Is my hande shortened that it myght not helpe: or haue I not power to deliuer: lo, *at a worde I drynke vp the sea, *& of water fluddes I make drye lande: so that for want of water the fishe corrupt and dye for thirste.

3 *As for heauen I clothe it with darknesse, and put as it were a sacke vpon it.

4 The Lorde God hath geuen me a well learned tongue, *so that I can comfort them that are troubled, yea & that in due season: he waketh mine eare vp betymes in the morning, betymes in the morning I say he wyll waken mine eare, that I might hearke as to the schoolemaisters.

5 *The Lorde God hath opened myne eare, and I haue not gaynesayde nor withdrawen my selfe.

6 *But I offred my backe vnto the smiters, and my cheekes to the nippers: *I turned not my face from shame and spittinges. Mat.xxvi.g Luk.xx.c. Psal. lv.a. Heb.xiii.a.

7 And the Lorde God shall helpe me, therfore shall I not be confounded: I haue therfore hardened my face lyke a flint stone, for I am sure that I shall not come to confusion. B

8 He is at hande that iustifieth me, who wyll then go with me to lawe? Let vs stande together, yf there be any that will reason with me: let hym come here foorth to me.

9 *Beholde the Lorde God wyll helpe me, what is he thē that can condempne me: lo, *they all shall ware olde lyke a cloth, the moth shall eate them vp. Rom.viii.d. Psal.ci.b. ii.Pet.iii.b.

10 Therfore who so feareth the Lorde among you, let hym heare the voyce of his seruaunt: who so walketh in darknesse and no lyght shyneth vpon hym, let hym put his trust in the name of the Lorde, and holde hym by his God.

11 But take heede, ye all kindle a fire, and stirre vp the coales: walke on in the glisteryng of your owne fire, and in the coales that ye haue kindled: This commeth vnto you from my hande [namely] that ye shall sleepe in sorowe.

1 Consolation and comfort is promised vnto the faythfull.

Gen.xxi.a. 2 Consider Abraham your father, and Sara that bare you, how that *I called hym alone, and blessed hym, and encreased hym.

3 Therfore shall the Lorde comfort Sion, and repayre all her decay, makyng her desert as a paradise, and her wildernesse as the garden of the Lorde: Mirth and ioy shalbe founde there, thankesgeuyng and the voyce of prayse.

4 Haue respect vnto me then O my people both high & lowe, and lay thine eare vnto me: *for a lawe and an ordinaunce shall go foorth fro me, to lyghten the gentiles.

Esai.li.a. 5 It is harde by that my health and my ryghteousnesse shall go foorth, and the people shalbe ordered with mine arme: the ilandes [that is the gentiles] shall hope in me, and put their trust in myne arme.

6 Lyft vp your eyes towarde heauen, and loke vpon the earth beneath: *for the heauens shall vanishe away lyke smoke, and the earth shal ware olde like a garment, and they that dwell therein shall perishe in lyke maner: But my saluation shall endure for euer, and my ryghteousnesse shall not ceasse.
Psal.cii.d. Mat.24.c. ii. Pet. iii.

11 Therfore the redeemed of the Lorde shall turne agayne, & come with ioy vnto Sion, *continuall ioy shalbe on their head, and mirth and gladnesse shalbe with them, and sorowe and wo shall flee from them.
i.Esd.i.b.

13 And forgetteſt the Lorde that made thee, that spread out the heauens, and layde the foundation of the earth: but thou art euer afrayde for the sight of thyne oppressour, which is redy to do harme: where is the wrath of the oppressour?

Esai 49.a.

17 Awake, awake, and stande vp O Hierusalem, thou that from the hande of the Lorde hast dronken *out the cup of his wrath, thou that hast supped of and sucked out the slumbryng cuppe to the bottome.
Psal 75.b. Iere xxv.c.

18 For among all the sonnes whom he hath begotten, there is not one that may holde it vp, and not one to leade it by the hande of all the sonnes that he hath norished.

19 Both these thinges are happened vnto thee, but who is sory for it: yea destruction, wastyng, hunger, and sworde, but who wyll comfort thee?

20 Thy sonnes lye comfortlesse at the head of euery streete like a take venison, and are full of the terrible wrath of the Lorde, and punishment of thy God.

21 And therfore thou miserable and dronken drunken (howbeit not with wine) heare this:

22 Thus saith the Lorde, thy Lorde and God, the defendour of his people: Beholde, I wyll take the slumbryng cup out of his hande, euen the cup with the dregges of my wrath, that from hence foorth thou shalt neuer drinke it more:

23 But I wil put it into their hande that trouble thee, which haue spoken to thy soule, Stoupe downe, that we may go ouer thee, make thy body euen with the grounde, and as the streete to go vpon.

1 An exhortation and comfort to the people of God.

A 1 VP Sion, vp, take thy strength vnto thee, put on thyne honest rayment O Hierusalem, thou holy citie: for from this tyme foorth there shall no vncircumcised nor vncleane person come in thee.

2 Shake thee from the dust, arise and stande vp O Hierusalem: Plucke out thy necke from the bonde, O thou captiue daughter Sion.

Iauith. 3 For thus saith the Lorde: *ye are solde for naught, therfore shal ye be redeemed also without any money.

Iauvia. Exod.i. Iudic. 4 For thus saith the Lorde God: *My people went downe afore tyme into Egypt, there to be straungers, *and the kyng of the Assyrians oppressed them without any cause.

5 And nowe, What profite is it to me saith the Lorde: that my people is freely caryed away, & brought into heauinesse by their rulers, *and my name euer styll blasphemed saith the Lorde.

6 But that my people may knowe my name, I my selfe wyll speake in that day, Beholde here am I.

B 7 *O howe beautifull are the feete of the embassadour that bryngeth the message from the mountayne and proclaymeth peace: that bryngeth the good tidinges, and preacheth health, and saith vnto Sion, Thy God is the kyng.

8 Thy watchmen shall lyft vp their voyce, with loude voyce they shall reioyce together: for they shall *see plainly when the Lorde shall conuert Sion. i.Ioh.i.c.

9 Be glad O thou desolate Hierusalem, and reioyce together: for the Lord hath comforted his people, he hath deliuered Hierusalem. Esai.xlix.c.

12 For ye shall not escape by runnyng, nor by fleeyng away: but *the Lorde shall go before you, and the God of Israel shall gather you together. Exo.xiii.d.

13 Beholde my (a) seruaunt shal deale prosperously, therfore shal he be magnified, exalted, and greatly honoured.

(a) Christe is called Gods seruaunt for his office sake, which he exercised in the tyme of his abasyng hym selfe in the flesshe.

14 Lyke as the multitude shall wonder vpon hym, because his face shalbe so deformed and not as mans face, his *beautie like no man: Phil.ii.c. Esai.lxv.c.

15 Euen so shall the multitude of the gentiles speake of him, and kynges shall shut their mouthes before hym: *for they haue seene that which was not tolde to them, and haue vnderstande that wherof they had not hearde. Rom.xv.c.

3 *He is dispised and abhorred of men, he is such a man as hath good experience of sorowes and infirmities: We haue reckened hym so vile, that we hyd our Hebr.v.a.

25 7 He suffered violence, and was euyll intreated, and dyd not open his mouth: *He shalbe led as a sheepe to be slayne, yet shall he be as styll as a lambe before the shearer, and not open his mouth.

Iere.xi.d. Mat.27.b. Act.viii.d. ii.Cor.v.c. 8 From the prison and iudgement was he taken, and his generation who can declare? for he was cut of from the grounde of the lyuyng, which punishment dyd go vpon hym for the transgression of my people.

11 Of the trauayle and labour of his soule, shall he see the fruite & be satisfied: *My righteous seruaunt shall with his knowledge iustifie the multitude, for he shall beare their sinnes. Rom.iii.c.

12 Therfore wyll I geue hym among the great ones his part, and he shall deuide the spoyle with the mightie, because he geueth ouer his soule to death, *and is reckened among the transgressours: Which neuertheless hath taken away the sinnes of the multitude, and made intercession for the misdoers. 3 For thou shalt be multiplied on the ryght syde and on the left, and thy seede shall haue the gentiles in possession, and dwell in the desolate cities.

4 Feare not, for thou shalt not be confounded: be not ashamed, for thou shalt not come to confusion: Yea thou shalt forget the shame of thy youth, and shalt not remember the dishonour of thy widowhead.

1 *Come to the waters all ye that be thirstie, and ye that haue no money, come, bye, that ye may haue to eate: Come, bye wine and mylke without any money or money worth.

2 Wherfore do ye lay out any money for the thyng that feedeth not, and spende your labour about the thyng that satisfieth you not? But hearken rather vnto me, and ye shal eate of the best, and your soule shall haue her pleasure in plenteousnesse.

5 Lo, thou shalt call an vnknowen people: and a people that had no knowledge of thee shall runne vnto thee, because of the Lorde thy God and the holy one of Israel which glorifieth thee.

6 Seke the Lorde whyle he may be founde, and call vpon hym whyle he is nye.

7 *Let the vngodly man forsake his owne wayes, and the vnrighteous his owne imaginations, and turne agayne vnto the Lorde, so shall he be mercifull vnto hym: and to our God, *for he is very redy to forgeue.

¶ The. lvij. Chapter.

1 The good men are taken away, 3 the wicked ones take pleasure in idolatrie, the godly receaue comfort, the wicked doth perishe.

A 1 THe *ryghteous perisheth, and no man regardeth it in his heart: good godly people are taken away, & no man considereth it, namely, that the righteous is conueyed away from the wicked.

Sapi.ii.b.

2 He commeth into peace, and godly men rest in their chaumbers, and before the godly man goeth peace.

3 Come hyther therfore ye charmers children, *ye sonnes of the adulterer and the whore.

Mat xii.d.

4 Wherin take ye your pleasure? vpon whom gape ye with your mouth, and bleare out your tongue? Are ye not children of transgression, and a seede of dissimulation?

5 *Ye make your fire vnder the okes, and vnder all greene trees, and ye offer children in the valleys and dennes of stone.

The. lviij. Chapter.

1 The Lorde (by the mouth of the prophete) reproueth the people for their fastinges,
2 whiche were full of hypocrisie.

A 1
Rye* nowe as loude
as thou canst, leaue not of, lift vp thy voyce like a trumpet, & shew my people their offences, and the house of Jacob their sinnes.
2 For they seeke me dayly, and wyll knowe my wayes, euen as it were a people that dyd right, and had not forsaken the statutes of their God: they aske of me concerning right iudgement, and wyll be nye vnto God.
3 *Wherefore fast we [say they] and Marh.ix.d.
thou seest it not? we put our liues to straitnesse, and thou regardest it not?
4 *Beholde, when ye fast, your lust re- Esai.i.b. maynet[h] still, for ye do no lesse violence to your detters: lo, ye fast to strife and debate, and to smite with your fist without mercy: Nowe ye shall not fast thus, that your voyce might be heard aboue.

Zach. vii.a. 5 *Thinke ye this fast pleaseth me, that a man shoulde chasten hym selfe for a day: and to hang downe his head like a bulrushe, and to lye vpon the earth in an heerie cloth: Should that be called fasting, or a day that pleaseth the Lorde:

6 Doth not this fasting rather please me, That thou *lose the wicked bands, that thou take of the ouer heaule burthens, that thou let the oppressed go free, and breake all maner of yoke:

Deut.xv.a.

℣ 7 *To deale thy bread to the hungrie, and to bring the poore wandering home into thy house: when thou seest the naked that thou couer hym, and hide not thy selfe from thy neighbour, and despise not thyne owne flesh:

Eze.xviii.b. Math.xv.c.

Luk. xi.d. 8 *Then shall thy light breake foorth as the morning, and thy health florishe right shortly: righteousnesse shall go before thee, and the glory of the Lorde shall embrace thee.

Prou.xxi.b. 9 *Then if thou callest, the Lorde shall aunswere thee, if thou cryest, he shall say, here I am: yea if thou layest away from thee thy burthens, and holdest thy fingers, and ceassest from vngracious talking:

Zach. vii.a. Math.v.b. 10 *If thou hast compassion vpon the hungrie, and refreshest the troubled soule: then shall thy light spring out in the darknesse, and thy darknesse shalbe as the noone day.

11 The Lorde shall euer be thy guyde, and satisfie the desire of thyne heart in the tyme of drought, and fill thy bones with mary: Thou shalt be like a freshe watred garden, * and like the fountaine of water that neuer leaueth running.

Iohn.iiii.b.

12 Then the places that haue euer ben waste, shalbe builded of thee, there shalt thou lay a foundation for many kinredes: Thou shalt be called the maker vp of the breache, and the buylder agayne of the way to dwell in.

13 Yea if thou turne thy feete from the *sabbath, so that thou do not the thing whiche pleaseth thy selfe in my holy day, and thou call the pleasaunt, holy, and glorious sabbath of the Lorde, and that thou geue hym the honour, so that thou do not after thyne owne imagination, neither seeke thyne owne wyll, nor speake thyne owne wordes:

Esai.lvi.a. and.lxvi.d.

14 Then shalt thou haue thy pleasure in the Lorde, and I wyll cary thee hye aboue the earth, and feede thee with the heritage of Jacob thy father: for the Lordes owne mouth hath so promised.

¶ The. lix. Chapter.

1 The Lorde is mightie to saue, and redie to heare our requestes. 12 Our sinnes are the cause why God heareth not vs, neither graunteth our requestes.

℣ 1 Esai. l.a. Nume.xi.a.

Beholde, *the Lordes hande is not so shortened that it can not helpe, neither is his eare so stopped that it may not heare:

Iere.v.b. 2 But *your misdeedes haue seperated you from your God, and your *sinnes hyde his face from you, that he heareth you not.

Esai. i.d.

3 For your handes are defiled with blood, and your fingers with vnrighteousnesse: your lippes speake leasinges, and your tongue setteth out wickednesse.

4 No man regardeth righteousnesse, and no man iudgeth truely: euery man hopeth in vayne things, and imagineth deceipt, *conceaueth weerinesse, and bringeth foorth euill.

Iob xv.d. Psal.vii.b.

5 They breede cockatrice egges, and weaue the spiders webbe, who so eateth of their egges, dyeth: but if one treade vpon them, there commeth vp a serpent.

6 Their webbe maketh no cloth, and they may not couer them with their labours: their deedes are the deedes of wickednesse, and the worke of robberie is in their handes.

Prou.i.a. Psal.v.d. and.xiii.a.

7 *Their feete runne to euyll, and they make haste to shed innocent blood: their counsels are wicked counsels, harme *and destruction are in their wayes.

Rom.xiii.d.

8 But

8 But the way of peace they know not, in their goinges is no equitie: their wayes are so crooked, that whosoeuer goeth therein knoweth of no peace.

9 And this is the cause that equitie is so farre from vs, and that righteousnesse commeth not nie vs: *we loke for light, lo it is darknesse: for the morning shine, see, we walke in the darke.

10 *we grope lyke the blinde vpon the wall, we grope euen as one that hath none eyes, we stumble at the noone day as though it were towarde night, in the falling places, lyke men that are halfe dead.

11 We roare all like beares, and mourne still like doues: We looke for equitie, but there is none: for health, but it is farre from vs.

12 For our offences are many before thee, and our sinnes testifie against vs: yea we must confesse that we offende, and knowledge that we do amisse, 13 [Namely] transgresse and dissemble against the Lorde, and fall away from our God, vsing presumpteous and trayterous imaginations, and casting false matters in our heartes.

14 And therefore is equitie gone aside, and righteousnesse standeth farre of, *trueth is fallen downe in the streete, and the thing that is playne and open, may not be shewed.

15 Yea the trueth is taken away, and he that refraineth hym selfe from euyll, must be spoyled: When the Lorde sawe this, it displeased hym sore that there was no equitie.

16 He sawe also that there was no man righteous, and he wondred that there was no man to helpe hym: wherefore he helde hym by his owne power, and he sustayned hym by his owne righteousnesse.

17 *He put righteousnesse vpon hym for a brestplate, he set the helmet of health vpon his head: He put on wrath in the steade of clothing, and toke ielousie about him for a cloke. Ephe.vi.b. i.Tes.v.a.

18 Euen as when a man goeth forth wrathfully to recompence his enemies, and to be auenged of his aduersaries, he wyll recompence and rewarde the Ilandes.

19 They shall feare the name of the Lorde from the rising of the sunne, and his maiestie vnto the going downe of the same, for he shall come as a violent water streame which the winde of the Lorde hath moued.

20 *But vnto Sion there shall come a redeemer, and vnto them in Jacob that turne from wickednesse, saith the Lord. Rom.xi.d. Psal.xiii.a.

21 I wyll make this couenaunt with them (saith the Lord:) My spirite that is vpon thee, and the wordes whiche I haue put in thy mouth, shall neuer go out of thy mouth, nor out of the mouth of thy childers chyldren, from this time forth for euermore, worlde without ende, saith the Lorde.

The. lx. Chapter.

1 A consolation and confort to Hierusalem. 5 The Churche is gathered together among the gentiles by preaching of the gospell. 16 and aboundeth with all good thinges.

1 ARise thee vp betymes, and be bright [O Hierusalem] for thy *light commeth, and the glorie of the Lord is risen vp vpon thee. Esai xlix.d. Mar.viii.d. Gen.xv.a.

2 For lo, whyle the darknesse & cloude coureth the earth and the people, the Lorde shall shewe thee light, and his glory shalbe seene in thee.

3 The gentiles shall come to thy light, & kinges to the brightnesse that springeth forth vpon thee.

4 *Lift vp thyne eyes, and loke rounde about thee: all these gather them selues and come to thee, thy sonnes shall come vnto thee from farre, and thy daughters shall gather them selues to thee on euery side.

5 Then thou shalt see this and be glorious, thou shalt marueyle exceedingly, and thyne heart shalbe opened: When the aboundaunce of the sea shalbe con-uerted vnto thee [that is] when the riches of the gentiles shall come vnto thee.

6 The multitude of camels shall couer thee, the dromedaries of Madian and Epha: *all they of Saba shall come, Psal.lxxii.d Math.ii.b. bringing gold and incense, and shewing
the prayse of the Lorde.

ℵ 7 All the cattell of Cedar shalbe gathered vnto thee, the rammes of Nabaiblie vpon mine aulter, *and the house Hebr.xiii.b.

8 But what are these that flee here like the cloudes, and as the doues fleing

9 The Iles also shall wayte for me, and specially the shippes of Tharsis, that they may bryng thy sonnes from farre, and their siluer and their golde with them, vnto the name of the Lorde thy God, vnto the holy one of Israel that hath glorified thee.

Esai. liii.d. 10 *Straungers shall buylde vp thy Apoc.xxi.d 11 *Thy gates shall stande open still both day and night, and neuer be shut, that the hoast of the gentiles may come, and that their kynges may be brought vnto thee.

12 For euery people and kingdome that serueth not thee, shall perishe, and be destroyed with vtter destruction.

13 The glory of Libanus shall come vnto thee, the Firre trees, Boxes, and Cedars together, to garnishe the place of my sanctuarie: for I wyll glorifie the place of my feete.

14 Moreouer, those shall come kneeling vnto thee that haue vexed thee, and all they that despised thee shall fall downe at thy foote: Thou shalt be called the citie of the Lorde, Sion [the citie] of the holy one of Israel. ℭ

15 Because thou hast ben forsaken and hated, so that no man went thorowe thee: I wyl make thee glorious for euer and euer, and ioyfull throughout all posterities.

16 *Thou shalt sucke the milke of the Esai.xlix.c.
gentiles, and kinges breastes shall feede thee: and thou shalt knowe that I the Lorde am thy sauiour and redeemer, the mightie one of Jacob.

17 For brasse, wyll I geue thee golde, and for iron, siluer: for wood, brasse, and for stones iron: I wyll turne thyne oppression into peace, and thyne exactions into righteousnesse.

18 Violence and robberie shall neuer be heard of in thy lande, neither harme and destruction within thy borders:
thy walles shalbe called health, and thy gates the prayse of God.

19 *The sunne shall neuer be thy day Apoc.xxi.a light, and the light of the moone shall ℘ neuer shine vnto thee: but the Lorde him selfe shalbe thyne euerlasting light, and thy God shalbe thy glory.

20 *Thy sunne shall neuer go downe, Apo.xxi.b. and thy moone shall not be hid: for the Lorde hym selfe shalbe thyne euerlasting light, and thy sorowfull dayes shalbe ended.

21 Thy people shalbe all righteous and possesse the lande euer, the floure of my planting, the worke of my hands wher-of I wyll reioyce.

22 The youngest and least shall growe into a thousande, and the simplest into a strong people: I the Lorde shall shortlye bryng this thing to passe in his tyme.

¶ The. lxj. Chapter.

1 He prophesieth that Christe shalbe annoynted and sent to preache.

ℵ 1 The *spirite of the Lord is vpon me: for the Lord hath annoynted me, and sent me to preache good tidinges vnto the poore, that I might binde vp the wounded heartes, *that I might preache deliueraunce to the captiue, and open the prison to thē that are bounde: Luk.iiii.c. and.vii.c. Esai. xi.a. Esai.lvii.b. and.lxvi.a.

2 That I might declare the acceptable yere of the Lorde, and the day of the vengeaunce of our God: *that I might Math.xv.a and.xi.a.
comfort all them that are in heauinesse:

3 That I might geue vnto them that mourne in Sion, that I might geue [I say] beautie in steede of asshes, ioyfull oyntment for sighing, pleasaunt ray-
ment

ment for an heaule minde, that they might be called trees of righteousnesse, a planting of the Lorde for hym to reioyce in.

4 They shall buylde the long rough wildernesse, and set vp the olde desert: they shall repayre the waste places, and suche as haue ben voyde throughout many generations.

5 Straungers shall stande and feede your cattell, and the alauntes shalbe your plowmen and dressers of your vines.

6 *But ye shalbe named the priestes of the Lorde, and men shall call you the seruauntes of our God: ye shall enioy the goodes of the gentiles, and triumph in their substaunce.

7 For your great reproofe you shal haue double ioy, and for shame shall they haue ioy of their portion: for they shall haue double possession in their lande, and euerlasting ioy shalbe with them.

8 For I the Lorde whiche loue right and hate robberie (though it were offered me) shall make their workes full of faythfulnesse, and make an euerlasting couenaunt with them. B

9 Their seede also and their generation shalbe knowen among the gentiles, and among the people: all they that see them, shall knowe that they are the hye blessed seede of the Lorde.

10 And therefore *I am ioyfull in the Lorde, and my soule reioyceth in God: *For he hath put vpon me the garment of saluation, and couered me with the mantle of righteousnesse: *He shal decke me lyke a bridegrome, and as a bride that hath her apparell vpon her. Luke.ii.b. Psal.xlv.a. Ezec.xvi.b.

11 For like as the ground bringeth foorth her fruite, and as the garden shooteth foorth seede: so shall the Lorde God cause righteousnesse and prayse to flooryshe foorth before all the heathen.

The. lxij. Chapter.

1 A prophecie of the comming of Christe.

A 1 FOr Sions sake wyll I not holde my tongue, and for Hierusalems sake I wyll not ceasse, vntill their righteousnesse breake foorth as the shining light, and their saluation as a burning lampe.

2 Then shall the gentiles see thy righteousnesse, and all kynges thy glory: Thou shalt be named with * a newe name, whiche the mouth of the Lorde shall shewe.

3 Thou shalt be a crowne in the hande of the Lorde, and a glorious garlande in the hande of thy God.

4 From this tyme foorth thou shalt neuer be called the forsaken, and thy lande shall no more be called the wildernesse: but thou shalt be called, My pleasure is in her, and thy lande shalbe called the maried woman: for the Lorde loueth thee, and thy land shalbe ioyned in mariage.

5 *And lyke as a young man taketh a virgin to mariage, so shal thy sonnes be maried vnto thee: and as a bridegrome is glad of his bride, so shall thy God reioyce ouer thee.

6 I haue set watchmen vpon thy walles O Hierusalem, which shall neither ceasse day nor night to preache the Lorde: and ye also that remember the Lorde, ye shall not kepe him close, B

7 Nor leaue to speake of him, vntill Hierusalem be set vp, and made the prayse of the worlde.

8 The Lorde hath sworne by his right hand and by his strong arme, that from hencefoorth he wyll not geue thy corne to be meate for thyne enemies, nor thy wine wherein thou hast laboured, to be drinke for the straungers.

9 But they that haue gathered in the corne, shall eate it, and geue thankes to the Lorde: and they that haue borne in the vine, shall drinke it in the court of my sanctuarie.

10 Go you, go you thorowe the gates, make cleane the way for the people, make playne, make playne the foote path, path, and take away the stones out of it, and set out a token for the people.

11 Beholde, the Lorde proclaymeth vnto the endes of the worlde, *tell the daughter Sion, See thy sauiour commeth, beholde he bringeth his recompence with hym, and his worke go before hym.

Esai.xl.b. Zach.ix.b. Math.xxi.a

12 For they whom the Lorde deliuereth, shalbe called the *holy people: and as for thee, thou shalt be named the greatlye occupied, and not the forsaken citie. Esai.liii.a.

The.lxiij. Chapter.

7 Of the redemption promised to the people.

A 1 What is he this that commeth frō Edom, with red coloured clothes from Bosra: He is honourablye arrayed, and commeth in mightyly with his power: I am he that teacheth righteousnesse, and am of power to helpe.

2 Wherefore then is thy clothing red, and thy rayment like his that treadeth in the wine presse?

3 I haue troden the presse my selfe alone, and of all people there is not one with me: Thus wyll I treade them downe in my wrath, and set my feete vpon them in myne indignation, and their blood shal be sprong vpon my clothes, and so wyll I stayne all my rayment.

Esai.34.b. 4 *For the day of vengeaunce is assigned in my hart, and the yere when my people shalbe deliuered is come.

5 I loked about me, and there was no man to shewe me any helpe, I marueyled that no man helde me vp: Then I helde me by myne owne arme, and my feruentnesse sustayned me.

6 And thus wyll I treade downe the people in my wrath, and bathe them in my displeasure, and vpon the earth will I lay their strength.

B 7 *I wyll declare the goodnesse of the Lorde, yea and the prayse of the Lorde for all that he hath geuen vs, for the great good that he hath done for Israel, whiche he hath geuen them of his owne fauour, and according to the multitude of his louing kindnesses. Exod.xv.a. Esai.xii.a.

8 For he sayde, These no doubt are my people, and no shrinking chyldren: and so was he their sauiour.

Exod.xiii. xxiii.d,24.c. 9 In their troubles, he *was also troubled with them, and the angell that went forth from his presence deliuered them: of very loue and kindnesse that he had vnto them, he redeemed them, he hath borne them and caried them vp euer since the worlde began.

10 But after they prouoked hym to wrath and vexed his holy spirite, he was their enemie, and fought against them hym selfe.

11 Yet remembred Israel the olde time, of Moyses and his people, *saying: where is he that brought them from the water of the sea, *with them that feede his sheepe: where is he that hath geuen his holy spirite among them? Exo.xliii.e. Psal.77.d.

12 He led them by the right hande of Moyses with his glorious arme, deuiding the water before them, wherby he gat him selfe an euerlasting name.

13 He led them in the deepe as an horse C is led in the playne, that they shoulde not stumble.

14 As a tame beast goeth in the fielde, and the spirite of God geueth hym rest: thus (O God) hast thou led thy people, to make thy selfe a glorious name withall.

15 *Loke downe then from heauen, and beholde from the dwelling place of thy sanctuarie and thy glorie: Howe is it that thy gelousie, thy strength, the multitude of thy mercies, and thy louing kindnesse wyll not be intreated of vs? Deu.xxvi.d Baruc.ii.c.

16 Yet art thou *our father: for Abraham knoweth vs not, neither is Israel acquainted with vs: but thou Lorde art our father and redeemer, and thy name is euerlasting. Math.vi.d Luk.xi.a. and.xxiii.a.

17 O Lorde, wherefore hast thou led vs out of the way? *wherefore hast thou hardened our heartes that we feare thee not? Be at one with vs agayne for thy seruauntes sake, and for the generation of thyne heritage. Psal.cxix.b.

18 Thy

18 Thy holy people haue had but a litle whyle thy sanctuarie in possession, for our enemies haue troden downe thy holy place.

19 And we were thyne from the beginning, when thou wast not their Lorde, for they haue not called vpon thy name.

¶ The. lxiiij. Chapter.

1 The prophete (vnder the person of the Iewes) bewayleth their exile and banishment. 6 Mans righteousnesse is like a cloth defiled.

A 1 O That thou wouldest cleaue the heauens in sunder & come downe, that the mountaines might melt away at thy presence:

2 Like as at an hotte fire, and [that the malitious might boyle away] as the water doth vpon the fire: whereby thy name might be knowen among thyne enemies, and that the gentiles might tremble before thee.

3 When thou wroughtest wonderous straunge workes, we looked not for them: thou camest downe, and the hilles melted at thy presence.

4 For since the beginning of the worlde it hath not ben hearde or perceaued, *neither hath any eye seene another God beside thee, whiche doest so muche for them that put their trust in thee.

5 Thou helpest hym that doth right with chearefulnesse, and them that thinke vpon thee in thy wayes: but lo, thou hast ben angrie, for we offended, and haue ben euer in sinne, though the worlde hath cleaued to them, *yet shall we be saued.

6 We are all as an vncleane thing, and all our righteousnesse are as filthy ragges: we fal euerychone as the leafe, for our sinnes cary vs away lyke the winde.

7 There is no man that calleth vpon thy name, that standeth vp to take hold by thee: therefore hidest thou thy face from vs, and consumest vs, because of our sinnes. B

8 But nowe, O Lorde, thou father of ours, *we are thy clay, and thou art our potter, and we all are the worke of thy handes. Rom ix.c.

9 *Be not to sore displeased O Lord, and kepe not our offences to long in thy remembraunce: but consider that we all are thy people. Psa.lxxix.a Iere.x.d.

10 The cities of thy sanctuarie lye waste, *Sion is a wildernesse, and Hierusalem a desert. Mich.iii.c.

11 Our holy house whiche is our beautie where our fathers praysed thee, is brent vp: yea, all our commodities and pleasures are wasted away.

12 Wylt thou not be intreated, O Lorde, for all this wylt thou holde thy peace, and scourge vs so sore?

The.lxvj. Chapter.

1 God dwelleth not in temples made by mans hande. 3 He dispiseth sacrifices done without mercie and fayth. 5 God comforteth them that are troubled for his sake. 23 Among the christen the Sabbath is continuall.

A 1 THus saith the Lorde: *Heauen is my seate, and the earth is my footstoole: where shall nowe the house stande that ye wyll builde vnto me? And where shalbe the place that I wyll dwell in?

2 As for these thynges, my hande hath made them all, and they are all created saith the Lorde: *Which of them shall I then regarde? Euen hym that is poore and of a lowly troubled spirite, and standeth in awe of my wordes.

3 For who so slayeth an oxe [for me, doth me so great dishonour] as he that killeth a man: He that killeth a sheepe for me "knetcheth a dogge: He that bryngeth me meate offerynges, offereth swynes blood, Who so maketh me a memorial of incense, prayseth the thyng that is vnryght: Yet take they such wayes in hande, and their soule delyghteth in these abhominations.

4 *Therfore wyll I also haue pleasure in laughyng them to scorne, & the thyng that they feare will I bring vpon them: *For when I called, no man gaue answere, when I spake, they would not heare: but did wickednesse before mine eyes, and chose the thynges that displeased me.

5 Heare the worde of God all ye that feare the thyng which he speaketh: Your brethren that hate you and cast you out for my name sake, say, The Lorde is heynous agaynst vs: but you shall see hym in ioy, when they shalbe confounded.

6 *Then shalbe hearde a great noyse from the citie and the temple, the voyce of the Lorde, that wyll rewarde and recompence his enemies:

B 7 Lyke as when a wife bringeth foorth a man childe, or euer she suffer the payne of the birth & anguishe of the trauayle.

8 Who euer heard or sawe such thinges? doth the grounde beare in one day? or are the people borne all at once, as Sion trauayled in childe birth and bare her sonnes?

9 For thus saith the Lorde: *Am I he that maketh other to beare, and beare not my selfe? Am not I he that beareth and maketh barren, saith thy God?

10 Reioyce with Hierusalem, and be glad with her all ye that loue her, *be ioyfull with her all ye that mourne for her. Mat.v.a

11 For ye shall sucke comfort out of her breastes, and be satisfied: Ye shall taste, and haue delyte in the bryghtnesse of her glorie.

12 For thus saith the Lorde: Beholde, I wyll let peace into her lyke a water fludde, and the glory of the heathen like a flowing streame: Then shall ye sucke, ye shalbe borne vpon her sydes, and be ioyfull vpon her knees.

13 For lyke as a chylde is comforted of his mother: so shall I comfort you, and ye shalbe comforted in Hierusalem.

14 And when ye see this, your heart shall reioyce, *and your bones shall florishe lyke an hearbe: Thus shall the hande of the Lorde be knowen among his seruauntes, and his indignation among his enemies. ℭ Pro.xvii.d. Ezech.37.a.

15 For beholde the Lorde shall come with fire, and his charret shalbe lyke a whirle wynde: that he may recompence his vengeaunce in his wrath, and his indignation with the flambe of fire.

16 For the Lorde shall iudge all flesh with the fire and with his sworde, and there shalbe a great number slayne of the Lorde.

17 Such as haue made them selues holy and cleane in the gardens, and those that haue eaten swines flesh, mice, and other abhominations, shalbe taken away together saith the Lorde.

18 For I do knowe their workes and thoughtes, and I wyll come to gather all people and tongues: then they shall come and see my glorie.

19 Unto them shall I geue a token, and sende certayne of thē that be deliuered among the gentiles, into Cilicia, Affrica, and Lydia, where men can handle bowes, into Italie, and also Greeke lande: *The Iles farre of that haue not hearde speake of me, and haue not seene my glorie, shall preache my prayse among the gentiles. Esai.xlix.a. and.lxv.a.

20 And

20 And shall bryng all your brethren for an offeryng vnto the Lorde out of all the people, vpon horses, charettes, and horslitters, vpon mules and cartes, to Hierusalem my holy hil saith the Lord: lyke as the children of Israel bryng the offeryng in cleane vessels to the house of the Lorde.

Esai.lxi.a. i.Pet.n.b. Rom.xii.a.

21 *And I shal take out certayne of them for to be prestes and Leuites, saith the Lorde.

22 For lyke as the newe heauen and the newe earth which I wyll make, shalbe fast stablished by me, saith the Lorde: so shall your seede & your name continue.

23 And it shall come to passe, that from moone to his moone, from Sabbath to his Sabbath, all flesshe shall come to worship before me, saith the Lorde.

24 And they shall go forth and loke vpon the carions of them that haue transgressed agaynst me: *for their wormes shall not dye, neither shall their fire be quenched, and all flesshe shall abhorre them. Matix.a.

The ende of the booke of the prophete Esai.

The booke of the prophete Ieremie.

The first Chapter.

1 The stocke of Jeremie, and in what tyme he prophecied, 5 He excuseth him selfe and wolde refuse the office of a prophete, because he is young and vnexpert, 8 He is taught of the Lorde and becommeth bolde, 11 God openeth vnto hym, that the destruction of the Jewes by the Babylonians is at hande, 17 Jeremie is commaunded to speake the worde of God vnto the Jewes without feare.

1 These are the sermons of Jeremie the sonne of Helkiah the preest, one of them that dwelt at *Anathoth in the lande of Beniamin, Ierc.xi.a.

2 when the Lorde had first spoken with hym in the tyme of Josiah the sonne of Amon kyng of Juda, in the .xiij. yere of his raigne:

3 And so duryng vnto the tyme of Jehoakim the sonne of Josiah king of Juda, *and vntyll the .xi. yere of Zedekiah the sonne of Josiah kyng of Juda were ended, when Hierusalem was taken, euen in the fifth moneth. 4.Reg.xxiv. Iere.lyi.

4 The worde of the Lorde spake thus vnto me.
5 *Before I fashioned thee in thy mothers wombe, I dyd knowe thee: and or euer thou wast borne, I sanctified thee, and ordeyned thee to be a prophete vnto the people.
6 Then sayde I: *O Lorde God, I can not speake, for I am yet but young.
7 And the Lorde aunswered me thus:
Say not so, I am to young: *for thou shalt go to all that I shall sende thee vnto, *and whatsoeuer I commaunde thee, that shalt thou speake.
8 Be not afrayde of their faces: for I am with thee to deliuer thee, saith the Lorde.
9 *And with that the Lorde stretched out his hande and touched my mouth:
and the same Lorde sayde vnto me, Be-holde, I put my wordes in thy mouth.
10 And beholde, this day do I set thee ouer the people and kyngdomes, that thou mayest roote out, breake of, destroy, and make waste, and that thou mayest builde vp and plant.
11 After this the Lorde spake vnto me, saying: Ieremie, what seest thou? And
I sayd, [a] I see a rod of an Almond tree.
12 Then sayde the Lorde vnto me: thou hast seene ryght, for I wyll make haste speedyly vpon my worde to performe it.
13 It happened afterwarde that the Lorde spake to me agayne, and sayde:
What seest thou? and I sayde: I do see a seethyng *pot, lokyng from out of the north. Iob.xli.b.
14 Then sayde the Lorde vnto me: *Out ℂ of the north shall come a plague vpon Iere.xiiii.b. and.xxv.b.
all the dwellers of the lande.
15 For lo, *I wyll call all the kinredes of Abac.i.b.
the kingdomes of the north, saith the Lorde: and they shall come, and euery one shall set his seate in the gates of Hierusalem, and in all their walles rounde about, and in all cities of Juda.
16 And through them shall I declare my iudgement, vpō all the wickednesse of those men that haue forsaken me, that haue burnt incense vnto straunge gods, and worshipped the workes of their owne handes.
17 *And therfore girde vp thy loynes, Eze.iii.a.
arise, and tell them all that I geue thee in commaundement: Feare them not, lest I destroy thee before them.
18 *For beholde, this day do I make thee Iere.xv.d.
a strong fensed towne, an iron pyller, and a brasen wall, agaynst the whole lande, agaynst the kinges and mightie men of Juda, agaynst the priestes and people of the lande.
19 They shall fight agaynst thee, but they shall not be able to ouercome thee:
for I am with thee to deliuer thee, saith
the Lorde.

The.ij.Chapter.

2 God rehearseth his benefites done vnto the Jewes. 8 Agaynst priestes and prophetes or preachers that contempne and dispise God. 12 The Jewes are destroyed because they forsoke God, and because they ranne a whore hunting after idols.

21 MOreouer, the worde of the Lorde came vnto me, saying:
2 Go thy way, crye in the eares of Hierusalem, and say, Thus saith the Lorde: I remember thee, the kindnesse of thy youth, and the loue of thy despousyng, in that thou folowedst me through the wildernesse in an vntylled lande.
3 Israel was an halowed thyng vnto
the Lorde, and was his first fruites:
*All they that deuour Israel shall offende, misfortune shall fall vpon them,
saith the Lorde.
4 Heare therfore the worde of the Lord
O thou house of Jacob, and all the generations of the house of Israel.
5 Thus saith the Lorde, what vnfaith-fulnesse founde your fathers in me, that they went so farre away fro me, fallyng to lightnesse, and beyng so vayne?
6 They thought not in their heartes, where is the Lord that brought vs out of the lande of Egypt, *that led vs tho-rowe the wildernesse, through a desert & Exo.xiii.c. rough lande, through a drye and deadly lande, yea a lande that no man had gone through, and wherin no man had dwelt?
7 *And when I had brought you into a Deu.vi.b.
pleasaunt fertile lande, that ye myght enioy the fruites & all the commodities of

of the same: ye went foorth and defiled my lande, and brought mine heritage to abhomination.

B 8 The priestes them selues sayde not, Where is the Lord? They that had the lawe in their handes knewe me not, the sheepheardes offended agaynst me, the prophetes did prophesie in Baal, and followed such thinges as shal bryng them no profite.

9 Wherfore I am constrayned, saith the Lorde, yet agayne to contende in iudgement with you, and with your childers childzen.

10 Go into the Iles of Cethim, and loke well: sende vnto Cedar, take diligent heede, and see whether such thynges be done there, 11 whether the gentiles them selues haue chaunged their gods which yet are no gods in deede: but my people hath chaunged their (a) honour for a thyng that may not helpe them.

(a) Honour, that is, the faithfull and euerlyuyng God, in whom only they ought to glorie.

12 Be astonished O ye heauens, be afraide and abashed at such a thyng, saith the Lorde.

13 For my people hath done two euils: they haue forsaken me the well of the *water of lyfe, and digged them pittes, yea vile and broken pittes that can holde no water.

Iere. xvii.b. Ioh iii.b. Exod.iii.d.

C 14 Is Israel a bonde seruaunt, or one of the household? why is he thē so spoyled?

15 They rore and crye vpon him as lions, they haue made his lande waste: *his cities are so burnt vp, that there is no man dwellyng in them:

Esai. i.a.

16 Yea the childzen of Noph & Taphnes shall cracke their crowne.

17 *Commeth not this vnto thee because thou hast forsaken the Lorde thy God, euen when he led thee by the way?

Ier.xxxii.a.

18 And what hast thou nowe to do in the streete of Egypt, to drynke water out of (b) Nilus? Either what makest thou in the way to Assyria, to drynke water of the fludde?

(b) God reproueth the people for that they sought remedies, which are meant by the water of Nilus: and the flud agaynst their euils among the Egyptians and Assyrians, whereas their only remedie had ben to haue reconciled them selues vnto the Lord with faithfull repentaunce. Esa.i.a. Eze.x.d.

19 *Thine owne wickednesse shall reproue thee, and thy turnyng away shall condempne thee: that thou mayest knowe and vnderstand howe euyll and hurtfull a thyng it is, that thou hast forsaken the Lorde thy God, and hast not feared me, saith the Lorde God of hoastes.

20 *I haue euer broken thy yoke of olde, and burst thy bondes, yet sayest thou: I will no more transgresse: but like an harlot thou runnest about vpon all hye hylles, and among all greene trees.

Iere.iii.b.

21 Wheras I planted thee a noble vine, and wholly a right seede: *howe art thou turned then into a bitter vnfruitfull and straunge grape?

D

22 [Yea and that so sore] that though thou washe thee with Nitrus, and make thy selfe to sauour with that sweete smellyng hearbe of Borith: yet in my sight thou art stayned with thy wickednesse, saith the Lorde thy God.

23 Howe sayest thou nowe, I am not vncleane, and I haue not followed Baalim? *Loke vpon thine owne wayes in the valleys what thou hast done? Thou art like a swift dromedarie that goeth easyly her way.

4.Reg.7.b. Ier.iii.b.v.b. Esai.lvii.a. Eze.xvi.b.

24 And thy wantonnesse is lyke a wylde Asse that vseth the wildernesse, and that snuffeth and bloweth at her will: who can tame her? All they that seeke her, shall not fayle but fynde her in her moneth.

25 Kepe thy foote from nakednesse, and thy throte from thirst, and thou thinkest in thy selfe: tushe, I will take no sorowe, for I haue loued the (c) straungers, and them will I followe.

(c) The peruertie of idolaters is, not only to contempne the voyce of the preacher callyng them to repentaunce: but shamelessely to prouo the loue of straungers and the following of them, that is, the worshipping of stocks and stones, and feruing of God agaynst his worde after their owne deuises. Deut.xi.c.

26 Lyke as a theefe that is taken with the deede, commeth to shame: euen so is the house of Israel come to confusion, the common people, their kynges and rulers, their priestes and prophetes.

27 For they say to a stocke, Thou art my father, & to a stone, Thou hast begotten me: *yea they haue turned their backe vpon me, and not their face: *but in the tyme of their trouble, when they say, stande vp and helpe vs:

28 [I shall auntwere them] where are nowe thy gods that thou hast made thee? bid them stande vp, and helpe thee in the time of thy neede: *For loke howe many cities thou hast O Juda, so many gods hast thou also.

Iere. xi.b.

29 Wherfore then will ye go to lawe with me? seeyng ye all are sinners agaynst me, saith the Lorde.

30 It is but lost labour that I smite your childzen, for they receaue not my correction: *your owne swozde destroyeth your prophetes, lyke a deuouryng lion.

2.Par.24.d.

31 Oh generation, hearken vnto the worde of the Lorde: Am I become a wildernesse vnto the people of Israel?

or or a lande that hath no lyght: Wherfore saith my people then, We are lordes, We wyll come no more vnto thee:

32 Doth a mayde forget her rayment, or a bride her stomacher: but my people hath forgotten me a very long whyle.
33 Why beautifiest thou thy wayes so hyely, to obteyne fauour therthrough:
therfore also hast thou taught Wickednesse through thy wayes.
34 *Upon thy wynges is found the blood of poore and innocent people, whom thou didst not fynde in corners & holes:
but thou sluest the prophetes for repro-uyng all these thynges.
35 Yet darest thou say, I am [without sinne and] giltlesse, Tushe, his wrath can not come vpon me: Beholde, I wyll reason with thee, because thou darest say, I haue not offended.
36 Why gaddest thou so much hither and thither, to chaunge thy wayes: for thou shalt be confounded aswell of Egypt as thou wast of the Assyrians.
37 Yea thou shalt go thy way from them, and smite thine handes together vpon thy head, because the Lorde shall bring that confidence and hope of thine to naught, & thou shalt not prosper withal.

The.iij.Chapter.

1 God beyng mercifull, calleth to repentaunce his people which he had forsaken for their whoredome with idols. 20 He exhorteth Israel vnto repentaunce, promisyng them sheepheardes that shoulde haue the true knowledge of God. 23 The returne of Israel vnto God confessyng their offence.

A 1 COmmonly * when a man putteth away his wyfe, and she goeth from hym & maryeth with another, then the question is: shoulde he resort vnto her any more after that: (Is not that lande then defiled and vncleane:) *But as for thee thou hast played the harlot with many louers, yet turne agayne to me, saith the Lorde.
2 Lift vp thine eyes to the hygh places, and loke where thou hast not ben defiled: Thou hast wayted for them in the streetes, and as a murtherer in the Wil-dernesse, through thy whoredome and shamefull blasphemies is the lande defiled.
3 *This is the cause that the rayne and euenyng deawe hath ceassed: Thou hast gotten thee an whores forehead, and wylt not be ashamed.
4 Wylt thou not hereafter say vnto me, O my father, thou art he that hast brought me vp, and led me from my youth:
5 Wyll God continue his wrath for euer:
Wyll he kepe our faultes in memorie to the ende: Neuertheless, thou speakest such wordes, but thou art euer doyng worse and worse to the vtmost of thy power.
6 *The Lorde sayde also vnto me in the tyme of Iosiah the kyng, Hast thou seene what that rebellion Israel hath done: howe she hath runne vp vpon all the hylles, and among all thicke trees, and there played the harlot:

that she shoulde turne agayne vnto me, backslyder Israel, is more righteous

then the vnfaithfull Juda.
12 And therfore go preach these wordes towarde the north, and say, Thou dis-

17 *Then shall Hierusalem be called the Lordes seate, and all heathen shalbe gathered vnto it for the name of the Lordes sake which shalbe set vp at Hierusalem: And from that tyme foorth they shall folowe no more the imagination of their owne frowarde heart.

20 Truely, lyke as a woman fayleth her husbande, so are ye vnfaithfull vnto me O ye house of Israel, saith the Lorde.

21 *The voyce of the children of Israel was hearde on hye, weepyng and waylyng: for that they haue defiled their way, and forgotten God their Lorde.

D Ier.xxxi.a.

A 1  Israel, yf thou Wylt turne thee, then turne vnto me, saith ỹ Lord: and yf thou Wylt put away thine abhominations out of my sight, thou shalt not be moued.

2 *And shalt sweare, The Lord lyueth, in trueth, in equitie, and righteousnesse, and all people shalbe fortunable and ioyfull in hym.

Iere.v.a. xii.a.

3 For thus saith the Lorde to all Juda and Hierusalem: Plowe your lande, and sowe not among the thornes.

4 *Be circumcised in the Lorde, and cut away the foreskynne of your heartes all ye of Juda, and all the indwellers of Hierusalem: *that myne indignation breake not out lyke fire, and kindle, so that no man may quenche it, because of the wickednesse of your imaginations.

Iere.vi.b. and.ix.a.

9 At the same tyme saith the Lord, the heart of the kyng & of the princes shalbe gone, the priestes shalbe astonished, and the prophetes shalbe sore afrayde.

10 Then sayde I: Oh Lorde God, hast thou then deceaued this people and Hierusalem, saying, *Ye shall haue peace: and nowe the sworde goeth through their lyues?

11 Then shall it be sayde to the people and Hierusalem, *A strong Winde in the hye places of the Wildernesse commeth through the way of my people, but neither to fanne nor to cleanse.

12 After that, shall there come vnto me a strong wynde from those places, & then will I also geue sentence vpon them.

13 For lo, he ariseth like a cloude, and his charrets are like a stormie wynde, *his horses are swifter then the Egle: wo vnto vs, for we are destroyed.

14 O Hierusalem, *washe thine heart from wickednesse, that thou mayest be helped: howe long shall thy vayne thoughtes remayne with thee?

¶ 15 For a voyce from Dan and from the hill of Ephraim speaketh out, and telleth of a destruction.

16 Remember the heathen, and geue Hierusalem warning, and preache vnto her, that watchers ouer her are comming from farre countries, they haue cryed out against the cities of Juda.

17 And they haue beset her about in euery place, lyke as the watchmen in the fielde: * For they haue prouoked me to wrath, saith the Lorde.

18 *Thy wayes and thy thoughtes haue brought thee vnto this, such is thine owne wickednesse and disobedience: and because it is a bitter thyng, it hath stricken thee to the heart.

19 Ah my belly, ah my belly shalt thou crie, howe is my heart so sore: my heart panteth within me, I can not be styll, for I haue heard the crying of the trumpettes, and peales of warre.

20 They crye murther vpon murther, the whole lande shall perishe: Immediatly my tentes were destroyed, and my hanginges in the twinckling of an eye.

21 Howe long shall I see the tokens of warre, and heare the noyse of the trumpettes? ד

22 [Neuertheless, this shall come vpon them,] *because my people is become foolishe, and hath not knowen me: * they are the children of foolishnesse, and without any discretion: To do euyll, they haue wit inough: but to do well, they haue no wisdome. Esai.v.b. Baruc.iii.b. Ozee.iii.b.

23 I haue loked vpon the earth, and see it was waste and voyde: I loked towarde heauen, and it had no shine.

24 I behelde the mountaynes, and lo, they trembled, and all the hylles were in a feare.

25 I loked about me, and there was no body: and all the birdes of the ayre were away.

26 I marked well, and the plowed fielde was become waste, yea all their cities were broken downe at the presence of the Lord and indignation of his wrath.

27 For thus hath the Lorde saide: The whole lande shalbe desolate, yet will I not then haue done.

28 And therfore shall the earth mourne, and the heauen be sore aboue: for the thyng that I haue spoken to the prophetes, purposed, and taken vpon me to do, shall not repent me, and I will not go from it.

29 The whole lande shall flee for the noyse of horsemen and bowmen, they shall runne into dennes, into woodes, and climbe vp the stonye rockes: all the cities shalbe voyde, and no man dwelling therin. ה

30 What wylt thou nowe do, thou being destroyed? * For though thou clothest thy selfe with scarlet, and deckest thee with golde, *though thou paintest thy face with colours nowe, yet shalt thou trimme thy selfe in vayne: For those that hitherto haue ben thy louers, shall abhorre thee, and go about to slay thee. Iere.ii.e. 4.Reg.9.f.

31 For I heare a noyse lyke as it were of a woman trauaylyng, & one labouryng of her first childe, Euen the voyce of the daughter Sion, that casteth out her armes, and sowneth, saying: Ah, wo is me, howe sore vexed and faynt is my heart for feare of the murtherers?

The.v.Chapter.

1 In Jurie is there no righteous or faithfull man founde, either amongst the people or the rulers, for whose sake the Lorde shoulde spare the citie, 15 wherefore Jurie is destroyed of the Assyrians.

A 1 Loke through Hierusalem, beholde and see, seeke through her streetes also within, yf ye can fynde one man that doth equall and rycht, or seketh for the trueth, and I shall spare that citie, saith the Lorde.

2 *For though they can say, the Lorde lyueth: yet they sweare to deceaue.

3 Wheras thou (O Lorde) lokest only vpon faith and trueth: Thou hast scourged them, but they toke no repentaunce, thou hast corrected them for amendement, but they refused thy correction, they made their faces harder then a stone, and woulde not amende.

4 Therfore I thought in my selfe: peraduenture they are so simple & foolishe that they vnderstande nothyng of the Lordes way, and iudgementes of their God.

Deut.17.d. 5 *Therfore will I go vnto their heades and rulers, and talke with them, if they knowe the way of the Lord, and iudgementes of their God: But these [in lyke maner] haue broken the yoke, and burst the bondes in sunder.

Deut.32.d. 6 *Wherfore a lion out of the wood hath hurt them, and a woolfe in the euenyng shall destroy them, the Leoparde doth lye lurkyng by their cities, to teare in peeces all them that come therout: for their offences are multiplied, and their departyng away is encreased.

B 7 Shoulde I then for all this haue mercie vpon thee? Thy children haue forsaken me, and sworne by them that are no gods: and albeit that I fed them to the full, yet they fall to adulterie, and haunt harlottes houses.

Sophon.1.a.

8 In the desire of vncleanly lust they are become lyke the stoned horse, *euery man neyeth at his neighbours wife.

Eze.xxii.b. Iere.ix.a.

9 *Shoulde I not correct this, saith the Lorde? shoulde I not be auenged of euery people that is lyke vnto this?

10 Clymbe vp vpon their walles, beate them downe, and (a) destroy them not vtterly: take away their battlementes, because they are not the lordes.

(a) These wordes are not to be referred vnto the citie or walles which were vtterly destroyed: but vnto a remnaunt of the people whom God did reserue that his whole church should not vtterly perishe, although but a fewe did remayne faithfull.

11 For vnfaithfully hath the house of Israel and Juda forsaken me, saith the Lorde.

12 *They haue denied the Lorde and sayde, It is not he [that loketh vpon vs] *tushe, there shall no misfortune come vpon vs, We shall see neither sworde nor hunger. 2.Pet.3.a. Iere.xiiii.b. and.xxiii.c. Deut.29.c. Sophon.3.c. Iere.v.b.

13 *As for the warning of the prophetes, it is but wynde, yea there is not the worde of God in them: such thynges shall happen vnto them selues.

14 Wherfore thus saith the Lorde God of hoastes, Because ye speake such wordes, beholde, *the wordes that are in thy mouth wyll I turne to fire, and make the people to be wood, that the fire may consume them. Esai.33.b.

15 *Lo, I wyll bryng a people vpon you from farre, O house of Israel, saith the Lorde, a mightie people, an olde people, a people whose speache thou knowest not, neither vnderstandest what they say. Deut.28.c. Baruc.iii.c.

16 Their arrowes are sodayne death, yea they them selues be very giauntes.

17 This people shall eate vp thy fruite and thy meate, yea they shall deuour thy sonnes & thy daughters, thy sheepe and thy bullockes, they shall eate vp thy grapes and figges: As for thy strong and well defensed cities wherin thou didst trust, they shall bryng to pouertie, and that through the sworde.

18 *Neuertheless, I wyll not then haue done with you, saith the Lorde. Iere.xvi.b.

19 But if they say, wherfore doth the Lorde our God all this vnto vs? Then answere them: *because that lyke as ye haue forsaken me, & serued straunge gods in your lande, euen so shal ye serue straungers out of your lande. Deut.28.g.

20 Preach this vnto the house of Jacob, and crye it out in Juda, and say thus:

21 Heare this thou foolishe and vndiscreete people, *ye haue eyes but ye see not, eares haue ye but ye heare not. Esai.vi.b. Iohn.x.d.

22 Feare ye not me, saith the Lorde: Will ye not tremble at my presence? *Which bynde the sea with the sande by a continuall decree, so that it can not passe his bounds: for though it rage, yet can it do nothyng, Iob.26.d and.38.a.

nothing, and though the waues therof do swell, yet may they not go ouer.

23 But this people hath a false and obstinate heart, they are departed and gone away fro me.

24 They thinke not in their heartes, O let vs feare the Lord our God, who geueth vs raine early and late when nede is, whiche kepeth euer still the haruest for vs yerely.

Iob.xxi. 25 *Neuertheles, your misdeedes haue turned these from you, and your sinnes haue robbed you of good thinges.

26 For among my people are found wicked persons, that priuily lay snares and wayte for men, to take them and destroy them.

27 And like as a nette is full of byrdes, so are their houses full of that which they haue gotten with falshood and deceipt: Hereof commeth their great substaunce and riches, 28 Hereof are they fat and welthy, and are more mischieuous then any other: *they minister not the lawe, they make no ende of the fatherlesse cause, yea and they prosper: yet they iudge not the poore according to equitie. Esai.i.c.

29 *Should I not punishe these thinges saith the Lorde: should not I be auenged of all suche people as these be: Iere. v.b. and.ix.a.

30 Horrible and greeuous thinges are done in the lande.

31 The prophetes teache falsely, and the preachers receaue giftes, and my people *hath pleasure therein: What wyll come thereof at the last. Osee.vii.a. Rom.i.a.

The. vj. Chapter.

1 The sinnes for whiche Hierusalem is afflict. 10 Uncircumcised eares, 13 couetousnesse, 14 deceipt. 20 The Lord reiecteth the sacrifices of the Iewes. 22 The comming of the Babylonians is prophecied againe.

A 1  Ome out of Hierusalem, ye strong chyldrē of Beniamin, blowe vp the trumpettes ye Thecuites, set vp a token vnto Bethcaran: for a plague & a great miserie appeareth out from the north.

2 I wyll liken the daughter Sion to a faire and tender woman, and to her shall come the (a) shepheardes with their flockes.

3 Their tentes shall they pitche rounde about her, and euery one shall feede in his place.

4 Make battayle against her [shall they say] aryse, let vs go vp whyle it is yet day: Alas the day goeth away, and the night shadowes fall downe.

5 Arise, let vs go vp by night, and destroy her strong holdes.

6 For thus hath the Lorde of hoastes commaunded, Hewe downe her trees, and set vp bulwarkes against Hierusalem: for the tyme is come that this citie must be punished, for in her is all malicousnesse.

7 Like as a conduite spouteth out waters, so she spouteth out her wickednesse: Robberie and vnrighteousnesse is hearde in her, sorowe and woundes are euer there in my sight.

8 Amende thee (O Hierusalem) lest I withdrawe my heart from thee, and make thee desolate, and thy lande also, that no man dwell in it. B

9 For thus saith the Lorde of hoastes: The residue of Israel shalbe gathered as the remnaunt of grapes: and therefore turne thyne hande agayne into the basket, like the grape gatherer.

10 But vnto whom shall I speake: whom shall I warne that he may take heede: *Their eares are so vncircumcised, that they may not heare: beholde, *they take the worde of God but for a scorne, and haue no lust therto. Iere. iiii.a. and.ix.d. Iere. v.c. and.xx.b.

11 And therefore I am so full of thyne indignation O Lorde, that I may suffer no lenger, but shed it out vpon the chyldren that are without, and vpon all young men: yea the man must be taken prisoner with the wife, and the aged with the creeple.

12 Their houses with their landes and wiues shalbe turned into straungers: for I wyll stretche out mine hand vpon the inhabitours of this lande, saith the Lorde.

13 *For from the least to the most they Esai.lvi.c. Iere. vii.b.

hang all vpon couetousnesse: and from the prophete vnto the priest, they go about falshood and lyes.

14 *And beside that, they heale the hurt of my people with sweete wordes, saying, Peace, peace: when there is no peace at all.

15 Were they ashamed when they had committed abhomination? Truly nay, they be past shame, *and therefore they shall fall among the slayne: and in the houre when I shall visite them, they shalbe brought downe saith the Lorde.

16 Thus saith the Lorde, Go into the streetes, consider and make inquisition for the olde way, and if it be the good and right way, then go therein, that ye may finde rest for your soules: but they say, We wyll not walke therin.

17 Moreouer, I wyl set watchmen ouer you, and therefore take heede vnto the voyce of the trumpet: but they say, We wyll not take heede.

18 Heare therefore ye gentiles, and thou congregation shalt know what I haue deuised for them.

19 Heare thou earth also: behold, I wyll cause *a plague to come vpon this people, euen the fruite of their owne imaginations, for that they haue not ben obedient vnto my wordes and to my lawe, but abhorred them.

20 Wherefore *bryng ye me incense from Saba, and sweete smelling calamus from farre countreys? (b) your burnt offeringes displease me, and I reioyce not in your sacrifices.

21 And therefore thus saith the Lorde: Behold, I wyll lay stumbling blockes among this people, and there shall fall at them the father with the chyldren, one neighbour shall perishe with another.

22 Thus saith the Lorde: *Behold, there shall come a people from the north, and a great people shal arise from the endes of the earth.

23 With bowes and with dartes shall they be weaponed, it is a rough and fearce people, & an vnmercifull people: their voyce roareth like the sea, thei ride vpon horses well appointed to the battaile against thee O daughter Sion.

24 The fame of them haue we hearde, our armes are feeble, (c) heautnesse and sorowe is come vpon vs, as vpon a woman trauayling with chylde.

25 Let no man go forth into the fielde, let no man come vpon the hye streete: for the swoorde and feare of the enemie is on euery side.

26 Wherefore gyrde a sackcloth about thee O thou daughter of my people, sprinkle thy selfe with ashes: *mourne and weepe bitterly as vpon thyne onlye beloued sonne, for the destroyer shall sodainly fall vpon vs.

27 Thee haue I set for a strong towre [O thou prophete] and a well fensed wall among my people, to seeke out and to trye their wayes.

28 *For they are all stubborne apostates and fallen away, walking deceiptfully, they are cleane brasse and iron, for they hurt and destroy euery man.

29 The bellowes are brent in the fire, the leade is not moulten, the melter melteth in vayne, for the euill is not taken away from them.

30 Therefore do they call them naughtie siluer, because the Lorde hath cast them out.

2 Jeremie is commaunded to shewe vnto the people the worde of God, which trusteth in the outwarde seruice of the temple. 13 The euils that shall happen to the Jewes for the despising of their prophetes. 21 Sacrifices doth not the Lord chiefly require of the Jewes, but that they shoulde obay his worde.

A 1 THese are the wordes that God spake vnto Jeremie, saying:

Iere.xvii.b. and.xxvi.a. 2 *Stande vnder the gate of the Lordes house, & crye out these wordes there with a loude voyce, and say, Heare the Word of the Lorde all ye of Juda, that go in at this doore to worship the Lorde:

3 Thus saith the Lorde of hoastes, the God of Jsrael: *Amende your wayes and your counsels, and I wyll let you dwell in this place.

6 Oppresse

6 Oppresse not the straunger, the fatherlesse, and the widowe, shed not innocent blood in this place, cleaue not to straunge gods to your owne destruction:
7 Then wyll I let you dwell in this place, yea in the land that I gaue afore tyme to your fathers for euer.
8 But take heede, ye trust in lying tales, that beguile you and do you no good.
9 For when ye haue stollen, murthered, committed adultrie and periurie, when ye haue offered vnto Baal, folowing straunge and vnknowen gods: shall ye be vnpunished:
10 Yet then come ye and stande before me in this house* (whiche hath my name geuen vnto it) and say, tushe, we are absolued quite, though we haue done all these abhominations.
11 What, thinke you this house that beareth my name, is a denne of thieues:
*And yet I see what you thinke, saith
the Lorde.
12 Go to my place in Silo, *where vnto
I gaue my name afore tyme, and looke well *what I did to the same place for the wickednesse of my people of Israel.
13 And now seing ye haue done all these deedes saith the Lorde, and I my selfe rose vp euer betimes to warne you and to commune with you, yet would ye not heare me, *I called, ye would not aunswere:
14 Therefore, *euen as I haue done vnto Silo, so wyll I do to this house that my name is geuen vnto, and that you put your trust in, yea vnto the place that I haue geuen to you and your fathers:
15 And I shal thrust you out of my sight,
*as I haue cast out all your brethren
the whole seede of Ephraim.
16 *Therfore thou shalt not pray for this people, thou shalt neither geue thankes nor bid prayer for them: make thou no intercession for them, for in no wise will I heare thee.
17 Seest thou not what they do in the cities of Juda, and in the stretes of Hierusalem:
18 *The chyldren gather stickes, the fathers kindle the fire, the wom̃ kneade the dough to bake cakes for the queene of heauen: they powre out drinke offe-ringes vnto straunge gods, to prouoke me vnto wrath.
19 Howbeit they hurt not me saith the Lord, but rather confounde and shame them selues.
20 And therefore thus saith the Lorde
God: Beholde, my wrath and indignation shalbe powred out vpon this place, vpon men and cattell, vpon trees in the fielde, and fruite of the lande: and it shall burne, so that no man may quench it.
21 Thus saith the Lorde of hoastes the God of Israel: Heape vp your* burnt offeringes with your sacrifices, and eate the flesh.
22 *For when I brought your fathers out of Egypt, I spake no worde vnto them of burnt offeringes and sacrifices:
23 But this I commaunded them, saying, *Hearken and obay my voyce, and I shalbe your God, and ye shalbe my people, so that ye walke in al the wayes whiche I haue commaunded you, that ye may prosper.
24 *But they were not obedient, they inclined not their eares therevnto: but went after their owne imaginations, and after the motions of their owne wicked heart, and so turned them selues away, and conuerted not vnto me.
25 And this haue they done from the tyme that your fathers came out of Egypt, vnto this day: *Neuertheles,
I sent vnto you all my seruauntes the prophetes, I rose vp early, and sent you worde.
26 Yet woulde they not hearken nor offer me their eares, but were obstinate, and worse then their fathers.
27 And thou shalt nowe speake all these wordes vnto them, but they shall not heare thee: thou shalt crye vpon them, but they shall not answere thee.
28 Therefore shalt thou say vnto them,
This is the people that neither heareth the voyce of the Lorde their God, nor receaueth his correction: *faythfulnesse and trueth is cleane rooted out of their mouth.
29 *Wherefore cut of thine heere, O Hierusalem, and cast it away, take vp a complaint on hye: for the Lorde hath cast away and forsaken the people that he is displeased withall.
30 For the chyldren of Juda haue done euyll in my sight, saith the Lorde: *they

1 The destruction of the Jewes. 4 The Lorde moueth the people to amendement, reckening vp their sinnes. 10 He reprehendeth the lying doctrine of the prophetes and priestes.

2 And layde against the *sunne, the moone, & all the heauenly hoast, whom they loued, whom they serued, whom they ranne after, whom they sought and worshipped: they shall neither be gathered together nor buried, but shall lye as dunge vpon the earth.

5 Wherefore then is this people of Hierusalem gone so farre backe, that they turne not againe: They are euer the longer the more obstinate, and wyll not be conuerted.

6 For I haue loked and considered, but there is no man that speaketh a good worde, there is no man that taketh repentaunce for his sinne, that wyll so muche say, What haue I done: but euerie man turneth to his owne course, like a fierce horse headlong to the battaile.

15 *We loked for peace, and we fare not the better, we wayted for the tyme of health, and lo, here is nothing but trouble.

16 The noyse of his horses is heard from Dan, the whole lande is afraide at the neighing of his strong horses: for they are come in, and haue deuoured the lande, withall that is in it, the cities, and those that dwell therin.

17 *Moreouer, I wyll sende cockatrices and serpentes among you (whiche wyl not be charmed) and they shall bite you, saith the Lorde.

18 I Woulde haue had comfort against sorowe: but sorowe is come vpon me, and heauinesse vexeth my heart.

19 For lo, the voyce of the crying of my people is hearde, [for feare of them that come] from a farre countrey: Is not the Lord in Sion? Is not her king in her? wherefore then haue they greeued me [(shall the Lorde say)] with their images, and foolishe straunge fashions of a forraine god?

20 The harueste is gone, the sommer hath an ende, and we are not helped.

3 They bend their tongues like bowes to shoote out lyes, they waxe strong vpon earth: As for the trueth, they may nothing away withall in the worlde, for they go from one wickednes to another, and wyll not knowe me, saith the Lorde.

4 *Yea, one must kepe hym selfe from another, no man may safely trust his owne brother: for *one brother vndermindeth another, one neighbour beguileth another.

5 Yea, one dissembleth with another, and they deale with no trueth: *They haue practised their tongues to lye, and taken great paynes to do mischiefe.

6 Thou sittest in the middes of a deceiptfull people, which for very dissembling falshood wyll not knowe me, saith the Lorde.

7 Therefore thus saith the Lorde of hoastes: Beholde, I wyll melt them and trye them: for what shoulde I els do to my people? B

8 *Their tongues are like sharpe arrowes to speake deceipt: with their mouth they speake peaceablie to their neighbour, but priuilie they lay wayte for hym.

9 *Should I not punishe them for these thinges, saith the Lorde? or shoulde I not be auenged of any suche people as this?

10 Upon the mountaines wyl I take vp a lamentation and a sorowfull crye, and a mourning vpon the faire places of the wildernesse: Namely, howe they are so brent vp, that no man goeth there any more, yea a man shall not heare one beast crye there: byrdes and cattell are all gone from thence.

11 *I wyl make Hierusalem also an heape of stones, & a den of venemous wormes: and I wyll make the cities of Juda so waste, that no man shall dwel therin.

12 What man is so wise as to vnderstand this? to whom hath the Lorde spoken by mouth, that he may shewe this, and say: O thou lande, why perishest thou so? Wherfore art thou so brent vp, and like a wildernesse that no man goeth thorowe?

13 Yea the Lorde hym selfe tolde the same vnto them that forsoke his lawe, and kept not the thing that he gaue them in commaundement, neither liued thereafter:

℄ 14 *But folowed the wickednesse of their owne heartes, & serued straunge gods as their forefathers taught them. Deut.29.a. Iosue xxiii.c.

15 Therefore thus saith the Lorde of hoastes, the God of Israel: Beholde, I wyll feede this people with wormewood, and geue them gall to drinke.

Deu.xxii.b. Iere.xxiii.c. Deut.xx.c. 16 *I wyll scatter them also among the heathen, whom neither they nor their fathers haue knowen: * and I wyll send a sworde among them to persecute them, vntyll I bring them to naught.

17 Moreouer, thus saith the Lorde of hoastes: Beware of the vengeaunce that hangeth ouer you, and call for mourning wiues, and sende for wyse women, that they come shortly, 18 And sing a mourning song of vs, that the teares may fall out of our eyes, and that our eye liddes may gushe out of water.

19 For there is a lamentable noyse heard of Sion: O howe are we so sore destroyed: O howe are we so pitiously confounded: we must forsake our owne naturall countrey, and we are shut out of our owne lodginges.

20 Yet heare the worde of the Lorde (O ye women) and let your eares regarde the wordes of his mouth: that ye may learne your daughters to mourne, and that euery one may teache her neighbour to make lamentation

21 [Namely thus] Death is climing vp in at our windowes, he is come into our houses, to destroy the chylde before the doore, and the young man in the streete. D

22 But tell thou playnely, thus saith the Lord: *The dead bodyes of men shall lye vpon the ground as the dunge vpon the fielde, and as the handfull after the mower, and there shalbe no man to take them vp. Iere.viii.d. and.viiii.d.

23 Thus saith the Lorde: Let not the wise man reioyce in his wisdome, nor the strong man in his strength, neither the riche man in his riches:

24 But who so wyll reioyce, let hym reioyce in this, that he vnderstandeth and knoweth me, that I am the Lorde whiche do mercy, equitie, and righteousnesse vpon the earth: *therfore haue I pleasure in suche thinges, saith the Lorde. Esai.lv.e. i.Cor.i.d. ii.Cor.x.i.a. Math.ix.d. and.xii.a. Osee.vi.b.

25 Beholde the time commeth (saith the Lord) that I will visite all them whose foreskinne is vncircumcised, and the circumcised, 26 The Egyptians, the Iewes, the Edomites, the Ammonites, the Moabites, *and the shauen Madianites that dwel in the Wildernesse: for all the gentiles are all vncircumcised in the flesshe, but all the house of Israel are vncircumcised in the heart. Iere.xxv.e. Iere.iii.a. and.vi.b. Rom.ii.c.

¶ The. x. Chapter.

2 The constellations of the starres are not to be feared. 5 Of the weakenesse of idols, and of the power of God. 21 Of euill curates.

A 1 Heare the worde of the Lorde that he speaketh vnto thee, O thou house of Israel.

2 Thus saith the Lord: ye shal not learne after the maner of the heathen, and ye shall not be afraide for the tokens of heauen: for the heathen are afraide of suche. Esai.xlvii.c.

3 Yea all the customes and lawes of the gentiles are nothing but vanitie: *They hewe downe a tree in the wood with the handes of the workeman, and fashion it with the axe. Esai xliiii.b.

4 They couer it ouer with golde or siluer, they fasten it with nailes and hammers, that it moue not.

5 It standeth as stiffe as the Palme tree, it can neither speake nor go one foote, but must be borne: *Be not ye afraide of suche, for they can do neither good nor euill. Baruc.vi.c. 4.Re.xvii.g

6 But there is none lyke vnto thee O Lorde, *and great is the name of thy power. Apoc.xv.a.

7 Who would not feare thee, O king of the gentiles: for thyne is the dominion: for among all the wise men of the gentiles, and in all their kingdomes, there is none that may be likened vnto thee.

8 They are altogether brutishe and vnwise in this one thing: (a) Wood is the teaching of vanitie.

(a) By wood is ment all kinde of matter whereof images are wont to be made, whiche although they be garnished with golde and siluer, and clothed in purple and silke, and set vp as some men say, to be lay mens bookes, yet teache they nothing saith the prophete, but vanitie.

9 Siluer

9 Siluer is brought out of Tharsis, and beaten to plates, and gold from Ophir, *a worke that is made with the hande of the craftesman, and they are clothed with yelowe silke and scarlet: all these are the worke of cunning men.

10 But the Lorde is a true God, a liuing God, and an euerlasting kyng: *if he be wroth, the earth shaketh, all the gentiles may not abide his indignation.

11 [As for their gods] thus shall you say to them, they are no gods that made neither heauen nor earth, therfore shall they perishe from the earth, and from all thinges vnder heauen.

12 But [as for our God] *he made the earth with his power, and with his wisdome doth he order the whole compasse of the worlde, with his discretion hath he spread out the heauens.

13 At his voyce the waters gathered together in the ayre, *he draweth vp the cloudes from the vttermost partes of the earth, he turneth lightning to raine, and bringeth forth the windes out of their treasures.

14 His wisdome maketh all men fooles, and confounded be casters of images: for that they cast, is but a vayne thing, and hath no life.

15 *The vayne craftesmen with their workes that they in their vanitie haue made, shall perishe one with another in time of visitation.

16 Neuertheless, Iacobs portion is none such: but it is he that hath made all thinges, and Israel is the rod of his inheritaunce: the Lorde of hoastes is his name.

17 Gather vp thy wares out of the land, thou that art in the strong place.

18 For thus saith the Lorde: beholde, I wyll now throwe as with a stone sling, the inhabiters of this land at this once, and I wyll bring trouble vpon them, that they shall proue true the wordes that I haue spoken by the prophetes.

19 Alas howe am I hurt: alas howe paynefull are my scourges vnto me: for I consider this sorowe by my selfe, and I must suffer it.

20 My tabernacle is destroyed, and all my cordes are broken, my children are gone fro me, & can no where be founde: Nowe haue I none to spreade out my tent, nor to set vp my hanginges.

21 (b) For the heardmen are become foolishe, and they haue not sought the Lorde: therefore haue they dealt vnwisely with their cattell, and all are scattered abrode.

(b) The kinges, the rulers, the prophetes, and the priestes are blinde, and so destroyeth the flocke

22 Beholde, the noyse is harde at hande, and great sedition out of the north, to make the cities of Iuda a wildernesse, and a dwelling place for dragons.

23 *Nowe I knowe (O Lord) that it is not in mans power to order his owne wayes, or to rule his owne steppes and goinges.

Prou.xx.b.

24 Therefore chasten thou me O Lord, but with fauour, *and not in thy wrath, lest thou bring me vtterly to naught.

Pſal. vi.a. xxi.c.viii.c.

25 *Powre out thyne indignation vpon the gentiles that knowe thee not, and vpon the people that call not vpon thy name, *and that because they haue consumed, deuoured, and destroyed Iacob, and haue made his habitation waste.

The. xj. Chapter.

1 I curse to them that obay not the worde of Gods promise. 10 The people of Iuda folowing the steppes of their fathers, worshippeth straunge gods. 15 The Lord saith that he wyll not heare the Iewes, and forbiddeth also Ieremie to pray for them.

1 THis is a sermō which the Lorde commaunded Ieremie for to preache, saying:

2 Heare the wordes of this couenaunt and speake vnto the men of Iuda, and to all them that dwell at Hierusalem,

3 And say vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel: *Cursed be euery one that is not obedient vnto the wordes of this couenaunt,

5 And wyll kepe my promise * that I haue sworne vnto your fathers, [namelye] that I woulde geue them a lande whiche floweth with milke and honie, as ye see it is come to passe vnto this day. Then aunswered I and sayde, Amen: let it be euen so Lorde as thou sayest.

6 Then the Lord sayd vnto me againe: Preache this in the cities of Juda, and rounde about Hierusalem, & say: Heare the wordes of this couenaunt, and kepe them.

B 7 For I haue diligently exhorted your fathers, euer since the tyme that I brought them out of the lande of Egypt vnto this day, I gaue them warning betimes, saying: hearken vnto my voyce.

Iere.xi.b. 8 *Neuertheless, they would not obey me, nor encline their eares vnto me: but followed the wicked imaginations of their owne heartes, and therefore I haue brought vpon them al the wordes of this couenaunt that I gaue them to kepe, which they [notwithstanding] haue not kept.

9 And the Lorde sayde vnto me: it is founde out that whole Israel and all these cities of Hierusalem are gone backe.

10 They haue turned them selues to the blasphemies of their forefathers, which had no lust to heare my wordes: Euen lykewyse haue these also followed straunge gods, and worshipped them: The house of Israel and Juda haue broken my couenaunt whiche I made with their fathers.

11 Therefore, thus saith the Lorde: beholde, I will send a plague vpon them, whiche they shall not be able to escape: and they shall crye vnto me, and I wyl not heare them.

Zach.vii.b.

C Iere.vi.d. and. xv.a.

14 *Therfore pray not thou for this people, byd neither prayse nor prayer for them: for though they crye vnto me in their trouble, yet wil I not heare them.

15 What part hath my beloued in my house, seing he hath wrought abhomination, seruing many gods: * The holy fleshe offeringes in the temple are gone from thee [O Juda] and thou when thou hast done euyll, makest thy boast of it.

17 For the Lorde of hoastes that planted thee, hath deuised a plague for thee (O thou house of Israel and Juda) for the euyll that ye haue done to prouoke hym to wrath, in that ye dyd seruice to Baal.

Amo.vii.d.

22 Thus [I say] spake the Lorde of hoastes: Beholde, I will visit you, your young mē shal perishe with the sworde, your sonnes and your daughters shall vtterly dye of hunger, 23 So that none shall remaine: for vpon the citizens of Anathoth wyll I bring a plague euen the yere of their visitation.

The .xij. Chapter.

1 The prophete marueyleth greatly at the prosperitie of the wicked, although he confesse God to be righteous. 7 The Iewes are forsaken of the Lord. 10 He speaketh against curates, and preachers that seduce the people. 14 The Lord threatneth destruction vnto the nations that bordered vpon Iurie, which troubled and vexed it.

1 O Lorde thou art more righteous, then that I shoulde dispute with thee: neuertheless, let me talke with thee in thynges reasonable. *Howe happeneth it that the way of the vngodly is so prosperous: and that it goeth so well with them which without any shame offend and liue in wickednesse,

2 Thou plantest them, they take roote, they growe, and bryng foorth fruite: they boast much of thee, yet art thou farre from their (a) raynes.

3 But thou Lorde to whom I am well knowen, thou that hast sene and proued my heart,* take them away, like as a flocke is caryed to the slaughter house, & appoynt them for the day of slaughter.

4 Howe long shall the lande mourne, *and all the herbes of the fielde perishe for the wickednesse of them that dwell therin: The cattell and the birdes are gone, yet say they, tushe, *God wyll not destroy vs vtterly.

5 Seyng thou art weery in runnyng with the footmen, howe wilt thou then runne with horses: In a peaceable sure lande thou mayest be safe: but howe wylt thou do in the furious pryde of Iordane:

6 For thy brethren and thy kinrede haue altogether dispised thee, and cryed out vpon thee altogether: *Beleue them not, though they speake faire wordes to thee.

7 As for me [I say] I haue forsaken mine owne dwellyng place, and left mine heritage: my lyfe also that I loue so well, haue I geuen into the handes of myne enemies.

8 *Myne heritage is become vnto me as a lion in the wood: it cryed out vpon me, therfore haue I forsaken it.

9 Is not mine heritage vnto me as a speckled birde: are not the birdes round about against her: Come and gather ye together all the beastes of the fielde, come, that ye may eate it vp.

10 *Diuers heardmen haue broke downe my *vineyarde, and troden vpon my portion: of my pleasaunt portion they haue made a wilderneſſe and desert. Esai.lvi.c. Esa..v.a.

11 They haue layde it waste, and nowe that it is waste it sigheth vnto me: yea the whole lande lyeth waste, and no man regardeth it.

12 The destroyers come ouer the borders in the desert euery way: for the swoorde of the Lorde doth consume from the one ende of the lande to the other, and no flesh hath rest.

13 They haue sowen wheate, and reaped thornes, they haue taken heritage in possession, but it doth them no good: and they were ashamed of your fruites, because of the great wrath of the Lord. ℂ

14 Thus saith the Lord vpon all my euyl neighbours that lay hande on mine heritage which I haue possessed, euen my people of Israel: Beholde, I wyll plucke them [namely Israel] out of their lande, and put out the house of Juda from among them.

15 *And when I haue rooted them out, I will be at one with them agayne, and I wyll haue mercie vpon them, * and bryng them agayne euery man to his owne heritage, and into his lande. Deu.iiii.e. and.xxx.a. Esai. lvi..b. i.Esd i.a.

16 And yf they [namely that trouble my people] wyll learne the wayes of them to sweare by my name, the Lorde lyueth, lyke as they learned my people to sweare by Baal, then shall they be built among my people:

17 *But yf they wyll not obey, then wyll I roote out the same folke, and destroy them, saith the Lorde. Mat.xxii.b.

The

¶ The.xiij. Chapter.

1 The destruction of the Jewes is prefigured, and their sparsyng abrode. 11 Why Israel was receaued to be the people of God, and why they were forsaken.

A 1 THus saith the Lorde vnto me: Go thy way and get thee a lynnen girdle, and girde it about thy loynes, let it not be wet.

2 Then I got me a girdle accordyng to the commaundement of the Lorde, and put it about my loynes.

3 After this, the seconde tyme the Lorde spake vnto me agayne.

4 Take the girdle that thou hast prepared and put about thee, and get thee vp, and go vnto Euphrates, and hyde it there in a hole of the rocke.

5 So went I, and hyd it at Euphrates, as the Lorde commaunded me.

6 And it happened long after this, that the Lorde spake vnto me: Up, and get thee to Euphrates, & fetche the girdle from thence, which I commaunded thee to hyde there.

B 7 Then went I to Euphrates, & digged vp, and toke the girdle from the place where I had hid it: and beholde, the girdle was corrupt, so that it was profitable for nothyng.

8 Then sayde the Lorde vnto me,

9 Thus saith the Lorde, Euen so wyll I corrupt the pride of Juda, and the hye mynde of Hierusalem.

Iere.vii.c. xi..b.xviii.c and.xix.c.

10 This people is a wicked people, *they wyll not heare my worde, they folowe the wicked imaginations of their owne heart, and hang vpon straunge gods, them they serue and worshyp, and therfore they shalbe as this breeche that serueth for nothyng.

11 For as straytly as a girdle lyeth vpon a mans loynes, so straytly dyd I bynde the whole house of Israel, and the whole house of Juda vnto me, saith the Lorde: * that they myght be my people, that they might haue a glorious name, that they might be in honour: but they would not obey me.

Deut.iiii.c. and.xxvi.d. Iere.xxx.d.

12 Therfore lay this riddle before them, and say, Thus saith the Lorde God of Israel: Euery pot shalbe fylled with wine. And they shall say vnto thee. Thinkest thou we knowe not that euery pot shalbe fylled with wine?

13 Then shalt thou say vnto them, thus saith the Lorde: Beholde, I shall fyll all the inhabitours of this lande with drunkennesse, the kynges that syt vpon Dauids stoole, the priestes & prophetes, with all that dwell at Hierusalem.

14 And I wyll set them one agaynst another, yea the fathers against the sonnes, C saith the Lorde: I wyll not pardon them, I wyll not spare them, nor haue pitie vpon them: but destroy them.

15 Heare, geue eare, take not disdayne at it: for it is the Lorde hym selfe that speaketh.

16 Honour the Lorde your God or he take his light from you, and or euer your feete stumble in darcknesse at the hyll: lest when you loke for the lyght, he turne it into the shadowe and darcknesse of death.

17 But if ye wyll not heare me that geue you secrete warnyng, I wyll mourne from my whole heart for your stubburnnesse: *piteously wyll I weepe, and the teares shall gushe out of mine eyes, for the Lordes flocke shalbe caried away captiue.

Iere.xxxi.c. Thre.a.

18 Tell the kyng and the queene, humble your selues, sit you downe lowe, for your dignitie shalbe throwen downe, and the crowne of your glorie shall fall from your head.

19 The cities towarde the south shalbe shut vp, and no man shall open them: all Juda shalbe caryed away captiue, so that none shall remayne.

20 Lyft vp your eyes, and beholde them that come from the north, where is the flocke [O thou lande] that was geuen thee: and where are thy fat and riche sheepe?

21 *To whom wilt thou make thy mone D when the enemie shall come vpon thee: for thou hast taught them thy selfe, and made them maisters ouer thee: Shall not sorowe come vpon thee as on a woman trauaylyng with childe?

Iere.xix.a. Esa.xiii.b.

22 And if thou wouldest then say in thyne heart, wherfore come these thynges vpon me? *Euen for the multitude of thy blasphemies shall thy hynder partes and thy feete be discouered.

Iere.xv.b.

23 May a man of Inde chaunge his skinne, skinne, and the cat of the mountayne her spottes: so, may ye that be exercised in euyll, do good:

25 This shalbe your portion, and the portion of your measure wherwith ye shalbe rewarded of me saith the Lorde, because ye haue forgotten me, and put your trust in deceiptfull thinges.

26 *Therfore shall I turne thy clothes ouer thy head, and discouer thy shame. Ozee.ii.b.

27 Thy adulteries, thy neyghinges, thy shamefull whoredome on the hylles in the fieldes, and thy abhominations haue I seene: Wo be vnto thee (O Hierusalem) wylt thou neuer be clensed any more: Or when shall that be:

The.xiiij. Chapter.

1 Of the dearth that shoulde come in Iurie. 7 The prayer of the people asking mercie of the Lorde. 10 The vnfaithfull people are not hearde. 12 Of prayer, fastyng, and of false prophetes that seduce the people.

A 1 The worde of the Lorde shewed vnto Ieremie concernyng the dearth of the fruites.

2 Juda hath mourned, his gates are desolate, they are brought to heauinesse, euen vnto the grounde, and the crye of Hierusalem goeth vp.

3 The Lordes sent their seruauntes to fetche water, and when they came to the welles, they did finde no water, but caried their vessels home emptie: they be ashamed and confounded, and couer their heades.

xiii.b 4 *For the grounde is dryed, because there commeth no rayne vpon it: the plowmen also be ashamed and couer their heades.

5 The hynde also forsoke the young fawne that he brought foorth in the fielde, because there was no grasse.

6 The wylde asses did stande in the hye places, and drewe in their winde lyke the dragons, their eyes did fayle for want of grasse.

B 7 Doubtlesse our owne wickednesse doth rewarde vs: but Lorde do thou accordyng to thy name, though our transgression and sinnes be many, and agaynst thee haue we sinned.

d.xvii.c. wilt thou be as a straunger in the lande, and as one that goeth his iourney, and cõmeth in only to remayne for a night:

9 Why wylt thou make thy selfe a cowarde, and as it were a giaunt that yet may not helpe: But thou O Lorde art in the middest of vs, and thy name is called vpon of vs, forsake vs not.

10 Thus hath the Lorde sayde vnto his people, seyng they haue had such a lust to wander abrode, and haue not refrayned their feete: therfore the Lorde hath no pleasure in them, but he wyll nowe bring againe to remembraunce all their misdeedes, and punishe all their sinnes.

11 Yea euen thus sayde the Lorde vnto me: *Thou shalt not pray to do this people good. Iere.vii.d.

12 For though they fast, I wyll not heare their prayers, and though they offer burnt offeringes and sacrifices, yet wyll not I accept them: for I wyll destroy them with the sworde, hunger, and pestilence.

13 Then aunswered I: O Lorde God, *the prophetes say vnto them, Tushe, ye shall *neede to feare no sworde, and no hunger shall come vpon you: but the Lorde shall geue you sure rest in this place. Iere. v.d. Sophon.i.e. Iere.xii.a. and.xxiii.c.

14 And the Lorde sayde vnto me, The prophetes preach lyes in my name, wheras I haue not *sent them, neither gaue I them any charge, neither did I speake vnto them: yet they preache vnto you false visions, charming, vanitie, and deceiptfulnesse of their owne heart. C Iere.xxiii.d.

15 Therfore thus saith the Lorde: As for those prophetes that preache in my name, whom I neuertheless haue not sent, and that say, Tushe, there shall no sworde nor hunger be in this lande: *with sworde and with hunger shall those prophetes perishe. Zach.xiii.a.

and their daughters: for thus wyll I poure their wickednesse vpon them.

17 This shalt thou say also vnto them, *Mine eyes shall weepe without ceassyng day and nyght: for my people shalbe destroyed with great harme, and shall perishe with a great plague. Thre.i.d. and.ii.e.

18 For yf I go into the fielde, lo, it lyeth all full of slayne men: If I come into the citie, lo, they be all famished of hunger: yea their prophetes also and priestes shalbe led into an vnknowen lande.

19 Hast thou then vtterly forsaken Juda: Doest thou so abhorre Sion: wherfore hast thou so plagued vs, that we can be healed no more: *we loked for peace, Iere.viii.c.

and there commeth no good, for the tyme of health, and lo here is nothyng but trouble.

20 We knowledge (O Lorde) all our misdeedes, and the sinnes of our fathers: for we haue offended thee.

21 Cast vs not of (O Lord) for thy names sake, *forget not thy louyng kindnesse, ouerthrowe not the (a) throne of thine honour, breake not the couenaunt that thou hast made with vs. Esai xlix.d. (a) The temple at Hierusalem is called the seate of Gods honour, because he had appointed that place wherin specially to be honoured, and there to shewe the tokens of his honourable presence.

22 *Are there any among the gods of the gentiles that sende rayne, or geue the showres from heauen: Art not thou thy selfe our Lorde God: we wyll trust in thee, for thou doest all these thynges.

The .xv. Chapter.

1 The Lorde wyll not heare Moyses or Aaron yf they pray for the people, but wyll wrappe them in many miseries. The cause of such great miseries.

A 1 THus spake the Lorde vnto me, *Though Moyses and Samuel stoode before me, yet haue I no heart to this people: driue them away, that they may go out of my sight. Iere.vii.d. xi.c.xiiii.b. Eze.xiiii.e.

2 And yf they say vnto thee, Whyther shall we go: then tell them, The Lorde geueth you this aunswere: *Some vnto death, some to the sworde, some to hunger, some into captiuitie. Eze.v.c.

3 For I wyll bryng foure plagues vpon them, saith the Lorde: The sworde shal slay them, the dogges shall teare them in peeces, *the foules of the ayre and beastes of the earth shall eate them vp, and destroy them. Iere.xvi.a.

4 I wyll scatter them about also in all kingdomes and landes to be plagued, because of *Manasses the sonne of Hezekia kyng of Juda, for the thynges that he did in Hierusalem. 4.Reg.xxi.a.

5 Who shall then haue pitie vpon thee O Hierusalem: Who shalbe sorie for thee: Or who shall make intercession to obtayne peace for thee:

6 Seing thou goest from me, and turnest backwarde, saith the Lorde: therfore I dyd stretche out myne hande against thee to destroy thee, and I haue ben sore for thee so long that I am weerie.

7 I haue scattred them abrode with the fanne of euery side of the land, *I haue wasted my people and destroyed them, yet they haue had no lust to turne from their owne wayes. B Iere.viic.

8 I haue made their widowes mo in number then the sandes of the sea, vpon the mothers of their children dyd I bryng a destroyer in the noone day: *sodaynly and vnawares did I sende a feare vpon their cities. i.Tess.v.a.

9 She that hath borne seuen children, hath none, her heart is full of sorowe: *the sunne doth fayle her in the cleare day, she is confounded and faintie for very heauinesse: As for those that remayne, I wyll deliuer them vnto the sworde before their enemies, saith the Lorde. Amos.viii.d.

10 *O mother, alas that thou euer didst beare me, a brawler and rebuker of the whole lande: though I neuer lent nor receaued vpon vsurie, yet all men speake euyll vpon me. Iere.xx.d.

11 And the Lord aunswered me, Verely thy (a) remnaunt shall haue wealth: Come not I to thee when thou art in trouble, & helpe thee when thine enemie oppresseth thee: (a) By the remnaunt is meante the tymes towarde the last ende of his ire, when God caused his ambassadors to shewe reason vnto Jeremie. Iere.xl.

money, but because of all thy sinnes that thou hast done in all thy coastes.

14 *And I wyll bryng thee with thine enemies into a lande that thou knowest not: for the fire that is kindled in myne indignation shall burne you vp.

15 O Lorde thou knowest, therfore remember me, and visite me, reuenge me of my persecutours: take me not from this life in the tyme of thine anger, thou knowest that for thy sake I suffer rebuke.

16 *When I had founde thy wordes I did eate them vp greedyly, they haue made my heart ioyfull and glad: for thy name was (a) called vpon me O Lorde God of hoastes.

17 I dwell not among the scorners, neither is my delight therin: but I dwell alone because of thy hande, for thou hast filled me with bitternesse.

18 Shall my heauinesse endure for euer? Are my plagues then so great that they may neuer be healed? Wylt thou be as one that is false, and as a water that falleth, and can not continue?

19 Upon these wordes, thus sayde the Lorde vnto me, If thou wylt turne agayne, I shall set thee in my seruice, and yf thou wylt take out the thynges that is precious from the vile, thou shalt be euen as myne owne mouth: *they shall conuert vnto thee, but turne not thou vnto them. Iere.xxi.a.

20 And so shall I make thee a strong brasen wall agaynst this people, *they shall fyght agaynst thee, but they shall not preuayle: for I my selfe wyll be with thee, to helpe thee and deliuer thee, saith the Lorde: Iere.i.c.

21 And I will rid thee out of the handes of the wicked, and deliuer thee out of the handes of tirauntes.

¶ The.xvj. Chapter.

1 He prophecieth the miserie of the Iewes. 2 He sheweth that the worshippyng of images and the contempt of Gods lawe, is cause of their miserie. 13 He prophecieth the captiuitie of Babylon, and their deliueraunce from thence agayne. 19 The callyng of the gentiles.

A 1 THus sayde the Lorde vnto me:

2 Thou shalt take thee no wife, nor beget children in this place.

3 For of the children that are borne in this place, of their mothers that haue borne them, and of their fathers that haue begotten them in this lande, thus saith the Lorde.

4 They shall dye an horrible death, *no man shall weepe for them, nor bury them, but they shall lye as dunge vpon the earth: they shall perishe through the sworde & hunger, *and their bodyes shalbe meate for the fowles of the ayre, and beastes of the earth.

5 For thus saith the Lorde, Go not thou into the house of mournyng, nor come to mourne and weepe for them: for I haue taken my peace from this people saith the Lorde, yea my fauour and my mercies.

6 And in this lande shall they dye olde and young, and shall not be buryed: no man shall beweepe them, no man shall clippe or shaue hym selfe for them.

7 They shall not wryng their handes in mournyng wise on their dead one to comfort another: one shall not offer another the cup of consolation, to forget their heauinesse for their father and mother. B

8 *Thou shalt not go into their feast house, to sit downe to eate or drynke with them: i.Cor.xv.b.

9 For thus saith the Lorde of hoastes the God of Israel: *Beholde, I shall take away out of this place the voyce of mirth and gladnesse, the voyce of the bridegrome and of the bride, yea and that in your dayes, that ye may see it. Iere.vii.d. xxv.b.

10 Nowe when thou shewest this people all these wordes, and they say vnto thee, *wherfore hath the Lord deuised all this great plague for vs? or What is the offence and sinne that we haue done agaynst the Lorde our God? Iere.v.d.

11 Then make thou them this answere: *Because your fathers haue forsaken me, saith the Lorde, and haue walked after straunge gods, whom they honoured and worshipped: but me haue they forsaken, and haue not kept my lawe. Deut.iiii.d. Iere.vii.b.

12 And

Iere.vii d. 12 *And ye with your shamefull blasphemies haue exceeded the wickednesse of your fathers: for euery one of you hath folowed the frowarde and euyll imaginations of his owne heart, and is not obedient vnto me.

Deut.28.c. 13 *Therfore wyll I cast you out of this lande, into a lande that ye and your fathers knowe not: and there shall ye serue straunge gods day and nyght, there wyll I shewe you no fauour.

℣ 14 *Beholde therfore saith the Lorde, the Iere.xxiii.b dayes are come that it shall no more be sayd: The Lorde liueth which brought the children of Israel out of the lande of Egypt:

15 But it shalbe sayde, The Lorde liueth that brought the children of Israel from the north, and from all landes where he had scattered them: for I wyll bryng them agayne into the lande that I gaue their fathers.

Mat.iiii.c. 16 Beholde, saith the Lorde, *I wyll sende out many fisshers to take them, and after that wyll I sende out many hunters, to hunt them out from all mountaynes and hylles, and out of the caues of stone.

17 For mine eyes behold all their wayes, and they can not be hyd fro my face: neither can their wicked deedes be kept close out of my sight.

18 But first wyll I sufficiently rewarde their shameful blasphemies and sinnes, because they haue defiled my lande (a) with their stinckyng carions and their abhominations, wherwith they haue filled mine heritage.

Iere.xxiii.b 19 *O Lorde my strength, my power and refuge in tyme of trouble: the gentiles shall come vnto thee from the endes of the worlde, and say, Verely our fathers haue cleaued vnto lyes, their idols are but vayne and vnprofitable.

20 Howe can a man make those his gods, which are not able to be gods?

21 And therfore I wyll once teach them, saith the Lorde, I wyll shewe them my hande and my power, and they shall knowe that my name is the Lorde.

(a) Gods seruice done according to his worde fauoureth swetely, that is, pleaseth God: but Gods seruice and worship without his worde, both sauour like carion, that is, is abhorred, and much displeaseth God.

The.xvij. Chapter.

1 The frowardnesse of the Iewes. 5 Cursed be those that put their confidence in man, and those blessed that trust in God. 9 Mans heart is wicked. 10 God is the searcher of the heart. 13 The liuyng waters are forsaken. 21 The halowyng of the Sabbath is commaunded.

A 1 YOur sinne [O ye of the tribe of Iuda] is written in the table of your heartes, and grauen so vpon the edges of your aulters with a penne of iron, and with an Adamant clawe:

2 That as the fathers thinke vpon their children, so thinke you also vpon your aulters, woodes, thicke trees, hye hylles, mountaynes, and fieldes.

Iere. xv.a. xx.b. 3 *Wherfore, I wyll make my mount that standeth in the fielde, all your substaunce and treasure to be spoyled, for the great sinne that ye haue done vpon your hye places throughout all the coastes of your lande.

4 Ye shalbe cast out also from the heritage that I gaue you: and I wyll subdue you vnder the heauie bondage of your enemies, in a lande that ye knowe not: for ye haue ministred fire to mine indignation, which shall burne euermore.

5 Thus saith the Lorde, *Cursed be the man that putteth his trust in man, and that taketh flesh for his arme, and he whose heart departeth from the Lord. Psal.xlix.d. Pro.xi.e. Iere.xlvi.c. and.xlviii.a. Eze.xxix.a.

6 He shalbe like the heath that groweth in wildernesse: As for the good thyng that is for to come, he shall not see it, but dwell in a drye place of the wildernesse, in a salt and vnoccupied lande.

B 7 *O blessed is the man that putteth his trust in the Lorde, and whose hope is in the Lorde hym selfe. Psal.ii.b. xxxix c. Pro.xxii c.

8 *For he shalbe as a tree that is planted by the water side, which spreadeth out the roote vnto moystnesse, whom the heate can not harme when it commeth, but his leafe shalbe greene: And though there growe but litle fruite because of drouth, yet is he not carefull, but he neuer leaueth of to bryng foorth fruite. Psal. i.a. Prou.xi.d.

9 Among all thynges, man hath the most deceiptfull and stubburne heart: who shall then knowe it?

10 *Euen I the Lorde searche out the grounde of the heart, & trye the raynes, and Iere.xi.d. Apoc.ii d.

*and reward euery man accordyng to his wayes, and accordyng to the fruite of his workes.

11 *The partrich maketh a nest of egges, which she layed not: he commeth by riches, but not righteously, in the middest of his life must he leaue them behynde hym, & at the last be founde a very foole.

12 But thou (O Lorde) whose throne is most glorious, excellent, and of most antiquitie, which dwellest in the place of our holy rest:

13 Thou art the comfort of Israel, all they that forsake thee shalbe confounded, all they that do depart from thee shalbe written in earth: *for they haue forsaken the Lorde the very conduite of the waters of lyfe.

14 Heale me O Lorde, and I shalbe whole: saue thou me, & I shalbe saued: for thou art my prayse.

15 Beholde, these men say vnto me, where is the worde of the Lorde? let it come nowe.

16 Wheras I neuertheless obediently followed thee as a sheephearde, & haue not vncalled taken this office vpon me, this knowest thou well: my wordes also were vpright before thee.

17 Be not thou terrible vnto me O Lord: *for thou art he in whom I hope when I am in perill.

18 Let my persecutours be confounded, but not me: let them be afrayde, and not me: Thou shalt bryng vpon them the tyme of plague, and shalt destroy them right sore.

19 Thus hath the Lorde sayde vnto me, *Go and stande vnder the gate wherethrough the people and the kynges of Juda go out and in, yea vnder all the gates of Hierusalem, 20 And say vnto them, Heare the worde of the Lorde ye kynges of Juda, and all thou people of Juda, and all the citezins of Hierusalem, that go through this gate.

21 Thus the Lorde cõmaundeth, *Take heede for your lyues that ye cary no burthen vpon you in the Sabbath, to bryng it through the gates of Hierusalem. Exod.23.d. Deut.v.b.

22 Ye shall beare no burthen also out of your houses in the Sabbath, you shall do no labour therin: but halowe the Sabbath, *as I commaunded your fathers. Exod.xx.d.

23 Howbeit they obeyed me not, neither hearkened they vnto me: but were obstinate & stubburne, and neither obeyed me, nor receaued my correction.

24 Neuertheless, yf ye wyll heare me saith the Lorde, and beare no burthen into the citie through this gate vpon the Sabbath, yf ye wyll halowe the Sabbath, so that ye do no worke therin:

25 Then shall there go through the gates of this citie kynges and princes that shal sit vpon the throne of Dauid, they shalbe caryed vpon charrettes, and ride vpon horses, both they & their princes: yea whole Juda and all the citezins of Hierusalem shall go here through, and this citie shall euer be inhabited.

26 There shall come men also from the cities of Juda, from about Hierusalem, and from the lande of Beniamin, from the plaine fieldes, from the moũtaynes, and from the wilderneſſe, which shall bryng burnt offerynges, sacrifices, oblations, and incense, and offer vp thankesgeuyng in the house of the Lorde.

27 But yf ye wyll not be obedient vnto me to halowe the Sabbath, so that ye wyll beare your burthens through the gates of Hierusalem vpon the Sabbath: then shall I set fire vpon the gates of Hierusalem, and it shall burne vp the houses of Hierusalem, and no man shalbe able to quenche it.

¶ The.xviij. Chapter.

2 God sheweth by the example of a potter, that it is in his power to destroy the dispisers of his worde, and to helpe them agayne when they amende. 18 The conspiracie of the Jewes agaynst Ieremie. 19 His prayer agaynst his aduersaries.

THis is another communication that God had with Jeremie, saying:

2 Arise, and go downe into the potters house, & there shal I tell thee more of my mynde.

3 Nowe when I came to the potters house, I founde hym makyng his worke vpon a wheele.

4 The vessell that the potter made of clay, brake among his handes: So he began a newe, and made another vessell accor-accordyng to his mynde.

5 Then sayde the Lorde thus vnto me:

Ffai.xlv.b. Iere.xix.c. Rom.ix.c. 6 *May not I do with you as this potter doth O ye house of Israel saith the Lorde? Beholde ye house of Israel, ye are in my hande, euen as the clay is in the potters hande.

Eze.xviii.c. Luk.xv.a. 7 *When I take in hande to roote out, to destroy, or to waste away any people or kyngdome:

B Ion.iii.b. 8 *If that people agaynst whom I haue thus deuised, conuert from their wickednesse, I repent of the plague that I deuised to bryng vpon them.

i.Reg.xv.f. 9 *Agayne, When I take in hande to builde or to plant a people or a kyngdome:

10 If the same people do euyll before me and heare not my voyce, I repent of the good that I haue deuised for them.

11 Speake nowe therfore vnto whole Juda, and to them that dwell at Hierusalem, thus saith the Lorde, Beholde I am deuisyng a plague for you, and am takyng a thyng in hande agaynst you: Iere.xxv.a. and.xxxv.c Jonas.iii.b. *therfore let euery man turne from his euyll way, and take vpon you the thyng that is good and ryght.

Iere.xviii.a. 12 But they sayde, No more of this, *we wyll folowe our owne imaginations, and do euery man accordyng to the wilfulnesse of his owne mynde.

13 Therfore thus saith the Lorde, Aske among the heathen yf any man haue hearde such horrible thynges, as the mayden Israel hath done:

C (a) It is extreme madnesse to forsake God the only fresshe spryng of pure pleasaunt waters, who is nigh at hande, and to go far of to seke fowle and fylthy puddels. Wherein there is nothyng but vnclean and stinckyng water.

14 (a) Wyll a man forsake the snowe of Libanus, which commeth from the rocke of the fielde? Or shall the colde flowyng waters that commeth from another place be forsaken?

15 But my people hath forgotten me, they haue made sacrifice in vayne, and their prophetes make them fall in their wayes from the auncient pathes, and to go into a way not vsed to be troden [of iust men.]

16 Wherethrough they haue brought their lande into an euerlastyng wildernesse and scorne: *so that whosoeuer trauayleth therby, shalbe abashed, and wagge their heades. Iere.xix.b. and.xlix.c.

17 With an east wynde wyll I scatter them before their enemies: and when their destruction commeth, I wil turne my backe vpon them, but not my face.

18 Then sayd they, *Come, let vs imagine Iere.xi.b. sumethyng agaynst this Jeremie: for the priestes shall not be destitute of the lawe, neither shall the wise men be destitute of counsayle, nor the prophetes destitute of the worde of God: Come, and let vs smite hym with the tongue, and let vs not marke all his wordes.

19 Consider me O Lorde, and heare the voyce of mine enemies.

20 *Shall they recompence euyll for good? Psal.xxx.c for they haue digged a pit for my soule: *Remember howe that I stoode before Iere.x.d. thee to speake good for them, and to turne away thy wrath from them.

21 *Therfore, let their children dye of D hunger, and let them be oppressed with Psal.lxix.b. the sworde: Let their wiues be robbed Thre.v.f. of their children, and become widowes, let their husbandes be slayne, let their young men be kylled with the sworde in the fielde.

22 Let the noyse be hearde out of their houses when thou bryngest the murtherer sodaynly vpon them: *for they Iere.xi.d. haue digged a pit to take me, and layde snares for my feete.

23 Yet Lorde thou knowest all their counsayle, that they haue deuised to slay me, forgeue not their wickednesse, and let not their sinnes be put out of thy sight, but let them be iudged before thee as giltie: this do thou vnto them in the tyme of thine indignation.

The.xix. Chapter.

1 He prophecieth the destruction of Hierusalem, for the contempt and dispysyng of the worde of God.

A 1 THus sayde the Lorde: Go thy way and buye thee an earthen pitcher, and bryng foorth the senatours & chiefe priestes,

2 Unto the valley of the children of Hennom, which lyeth without the east gate, and shewe them there the wordes that I shall tell thee.

3 And say thus vnto them, Heare the worde of the Lorde ye kinges of Juda, and ye citezins of Hierusalem, *thus saith the Lorde of hoastes the God of Israel; 3. Reg.xxi.c

Israel: *Beholde, I wyll bryng suche a plague vpon this place, that the eares of all that heare it shall glowe:

4 And that because they haue forsaken me, and vnhalowed this place, and haue offered in it vnto straunge gods, whom neither they, their fathers, nor the kynges of Juda haue knowen: they haue filled this place also with the blood of innocentes.

5 *And they haue set vp an aulter vnto Baal, to burne their children for a burnt offring vnto Baal, whiche I neither commaunded nor charged them, neither thought once therupon.

6 Beholde therfore *the time commeth (saith the Lorde) that this place shall no more be called Thopheth, nor the valley of the chyldren of Hennom, but the valley of slaughter.

7 For in this place wyll I bryng to naught the counsayle of Juda and Hierusalem, and kyll them downe with the sworde before their enemies: and I wyll deliuer them into the handes of them that seeke their liues, and their dead carkasses will I geue to be meate for the foules of the ayre, & the beastes of the fielde.

8 And I will make this citie so desolate and despised, *that whosoeuer goeth thereby shalbe abashed, and iest vpon her, because of all her plagues.

9 *I will feede them also with the flesh of their sonnes and their daughters, *yea euery one shall eate vp another in the besieging & straytnesse wherewith their enemies [that seeke their liues] shall kepe them in.

10 And the pitcher shalt thou breake in the sight of the men that goeth with thee, 11 And say vnto them, Thus saith the Lorde of hoastes: *Euen so wyll I destroy this people and citie, as a man breaketh an earthen vessell that can not be made whole agayne: *in Thopheth shall they be buried, for they shall haue none other place. Iere.xviii.a. Iere.vii.d.

12 Thus wyll I do vnto this place also saith the Lorde, and to them that dwel therin, yea I wyll make this citie as Thopheth. ℭ

13 For the houses of Hierusalem, and the houses of the kynges of Juda shalbe defiled like as Thopheth, and so shal al the houses in whose roofes they did sacrifice vnto all the hoast of heauen, and powred drinke offerings vnto straunge gods.

14 And so Ieremie came from Thopheth where the Lorde had sent hym to prophesie, and stoode in the court of the house of the Lorde, and spake to all the people, 15 Thus saith the Lorde of hoastes the God of Israel: Beholde, I will bryng vpon this citie, and vpon euery towne about it, all the plagues that I haue deuised against them, *because they haue ben obstinate, and would not obay my warninges. Iere.vii.c.

¶ The. xx. Chapter.

2 Ieremie is smitten and cast into prison for preaching of the worde of God. 3 He prophecieth the captiuitie of Babylon. 7 He complayneth that he is a mocking stocke for the worde of God. 9 He is compelled by the spirite to preache the worde.

1 When Phashur the preest the sonne of Emmer, chiefe in the house of the Lorde, heard Ieremie preache these wordes [so stedfastly]

2 *he smote Ieremie, and put hym in the prison that is in the hye gate of Beniamin towardes the house of the Lorde.

3 The next day folowing Phashur brought Ieremie out of the prison a-gayne: Then saide Ieremie vnto him, The Lorde shall call thee no more Phashur [that is excellent and increasing] but Magor [that is fearefull and afraide] euery where.

4 For thus saith the Lorde: Beholde, I wil make thee afraide, euen thy selfe, and all that fauour thee, which shall perishe with the sworde of their enemies, euen before thy face, and I wyll geue whole Juda into the hands of the king of Babylon, whiche shall cary some vnto Babylon prisoners, and slay some with the sworde.

4 Reg xx.e Iere. xv.c. and. xvii.a.

5 *Moreouer, all the substaunce of this citie, Whatsoeuer they haue gotten with their trauaile, all their precious thinges, & all the treasure of the kinges of Juda, Will I geue into the handes of their enemies, Whiche shall spoyle them, and cary them vnto Babylon.

6 But as for thee (O Phashur) thou shalt go into captiuitie with all thyne housholde, and to Babylon shalt thou come, where thou shalt dye and be buried, thou and all thy fauourers to whom thou hast preached lies.

B (a) The prophete assuretly the truth of his doctrine, against the slaunderer, for it is the word of God, who can not deceaue nor be deceaued.

7 (a) O Lord, if I am deceaued, then hast thou deceaued me, thou enforcedst me, and hast preuayled: dayly am I despised and laughed to scorne of euery man.

Iere. vi.b.

8 For since I began to preache, I cryed out against violencie, and exclamed against oppression: *for the whiche cause they cast the worde of the Lorde in my teeth, to my reproche continually.

9 Wherefore I thought from henceforth not to speake of hym, nor to preache any more in his name: but the worde of the Lorde was a very burning fire in my heart and in my bones, Whiche when I would haue stopped, I might not.

10 Verily I hearde the euyll reportes of many, terrour was on euery side of me: (b) complayne vpon hym say they, and we will tell his tale: Yea all myne owne companions, and suche as were conuersaunt with me, lay in wayte for my halting, saying: peraduenture he wylbe deceaued, and so shall we preuayle against hym, and be auenged of hym.

(b) The priestes and suche as were in auctoritie with the king, stirred vp the people to watche narrowly Jeremies sayings, if they coulde finde hym to halt in any thing, wherefore they might accuse hym to the kyng.

11 But the Lorde stoode by me lyke a mightie giaunt, therefore my persecutours fell and coulde do nothing: they shalbe sore confounded, for they haue done vnwisely, they shall haue an euerlasting shame, which shall neuer be forgotten.

12 *And nowe O Lorde of hoastes that triest the righteous, which knowest the raynes and the very heartes, let me see them punished: for vnto thee I haue declared my cause.

Iere. xi.d.

13 Sing vnto the Lord and prayse hym, for he hath deliuered the soule of the oppressed from the hande of the violent.

14 *Cursed be the day wherein I was borne, vnhappy be the day wherein my mother brought me forth.

Iob. iii.a. Iere. xv.b. Gen. xix.c.

15 *Cursed be the man that brought my father the tidinges to make hym glad, saying, Thou hast begotten a sonne:

16 Let it happen vnto that man, as to the cities (c) which the Lorde turned vpsidedowne and repented not: Let hym heare crying in the morning, and at noone day lamentable howling.

(c) The most godly men are sometimes caried away with the vnruly rage of immoderate affection, albeit in this prophete the cause of this immoderate zeale was, for that he sawe his trauayle to saue y people, to be in vayne, Gods worde contemned, and all godlynesse scornefully despised.

17 Why slewest thou not me assoone as I came out of my mothers wombe: or that my mother had ben my graue her selfe, that the byrth might not haue come out, but remayned still in her:

18 *Wherefore came I forth of my mothers wombe: to haue experience of labour and sorowe, and to leade my lyfe with shame:

The. xx. Chapter.

¶ He prophecieth that Zedekias shalbe taken, and the citie burned.

1 These are the wordes that the lord spake vnto Jeremie, *what time as kyng Zedekias sent vnto him Phashur the sonne of Melchias, & Sophonias the sonne of Maasias priest, saying:

Iob. x.c.

2 *Aske counsayle at the Lorde [we pray thee] on our behalfe, for Nabuchodonozor the king of Babylon besiegeth vs: if the Lorde (peraduenture) will deale with vs according to his maruaylous power, and take hym from vs.

3 Then spake Jeremie: Geue Zedechias this aunswere.

4 Thus saith the Lord God of Israel: Beholde, I will turne backe the weapons that ye haue in your hands, wherwith ye fight against the king of Babylon and the Chaldees, whiche besiege you rounde about the walles, and I will bryng them together into the middest of this citie.

5 And

5 And I my selfe will fight against you with an outstretched hande, and with a mighty arme, in great displeasure and terrible wrath:
6 And will smite them that dwell in this citie, yea both men and cattell shall dye of a great pestilence.
Ier.xxxi.a. 7 *But after this (saith the Lorde) I 25 shall deliuer Zedekias kyng of Juda, and his seruauntes, his people, and such as are escaped in the citie from the pestilence, sworde, and hunger, into the power of Nabuchodonozor kyng of Babylon, yea into the handes of their enemies, into the handes of those that fo-lowe vpon their liues, whiche shall smite them with the sworde, they shall not pitie them, they shal not spare them, they shall haue no mercy vpon them.
8 And vnto this people thou shalt say, thus saith the Lorde: *Beholde, I lay
Deut.xi. Ier.xxvii.a xxxviii.a. before you the way of life and death.
9 Whoso abideth in the citie, shall perishe, either with the sworde, with hunger, or pestilence: but whoso goeth out to holde on the Chaldees part that besiege it, he shall saue his lyfe, and shall winne his soule for a pray.
10 *For I haue set my face against this Ier.xxii.a. citie (saith the Lorde) to plague it, and to do it no good: it must be geuen into the hande of the kyng of Babylon, and be brent with fire.
11 And vnto the house of the king of Juda say thus: Heare the worde of the Lorde:
12 O thou house of Dauid, thus saith the Lorde: *Minister righteousnesse Esai.i.c.
and that soone, deliuer the oppressed Ier.xxii.a.
from violent power,* or euer my terri- Zacha vii.b.

because of the wickednesse of your imaginations.
13 *Behold, saith the Lord, I will come Ier.xlviii.a vpon thee that dwellest in the valleys, rockes, and fieldes, and say, *tushe, who Deu.xxix.c
will make vs afraide? or who wil come Ier.v.b.
into our houses? xii.a. xiii.b.
and.xxiii.e.
14 For I will visite you saith the Lord, Sopho.i.c.
because of the wickednesse of your inuentions, and will kindle suche a fire in your wood, as shall consume all that is about you.

¶ The. xxij. Chapter.

2 He exhorteth the kyng of Juda to iudgement and righteousnesse. 9 Why Hierusalem is brought into captiuitie. 11 The death of Sellum the sonne of Iosua is pro-phecied.

A 1 THus saith the Lord: Go downe into the house of the kyng of Juda, and speake there these wor-

And say: Heare the worde of the Lorde thou king of Juda that sittest in the kyngly seate of Dauid, thou and thy seruauntes, and thy people that go-

3 Thus the Lord cõmaundeth: *Kepe equitie and righteousnesse, deliuer the oppressed from the power of the violent, do not greeue nor oppresse the straunger, the fatherlesse, nor the widowe, and shed no innocent blood in this place.
4 And if ye kepe these thinges faythfullye, then shall there come in at the doore of this house, kinges to sit vpon Dauids seate, they shalbe caried in charrets, and ride vpon horses, both they and their seruauntes, and their people.
5 But if ye will not be obedient vnto these commaundementes, *I sweare Esai.i.c. Ier.l.c. Hebre.vi.b
by mine owne selfe, saith the Lord, this house shalbe waste.
6 For thus hath the Lorde spoken vppon the kynges of Juda: Thou Gilead art vnto me the head of Libanus:
Shall I not make thee so waste as the cities that no man dwell in?
7 I will prepare a destroyer with his weapons for thee, to hewe downe thy especiall Cedar trees, and to cast them in the fire.

8 And all the people that go by this citie, shall speake one to another: *Wherefore hath the Lorde done thus vnto this noble citie?

Deu.xxix.d iii.Re.ix.b.

9 Then shall it be answered: *Because they haue broken the couenaunt of the Lorde their God, and haue worshipped and serued straunge Gods.

Deu.xxix.d iii.Re.ix.b. 4.Re.xxiii.b ii.Par.vii.d. 4.Reg.23.c.

10 Mourne not ouer the dead, and be not wo for them: but be sorie for hym that departeth away, for he commeth not agayne, and seeth his native countrey no more.

11 For thus saith the Lorde as touching *Sellum the sonne of Josias kyng of Juda, whiche raigned after his father: When he is caried out of this place, he shall neuer come hyther agayne.

ii.Par. iii.e.

12 For he shall dye in the place whereunto he is led captiue, and shall see this lande no more.

13 *Wo worth hym that buyldeth his house with vnrighteousnesse, and his parlours with the good that he hath gotten by violence, which neuer recompenceth his neighbours labour, nor payeth hym his hyre:

Esai. v.c. Agge. i.a.

14 Who thinketh in hym selfe, I wyll buylde me a wyde house and gorgious parlours, who causeth windowes to be hewen therin, and the seelinges and toystes maketh he of Cedar, and painteth them with Sinoper.

15 Thinkest thou to raigne nowe that thou hast inclosed thy selfe with Cedar? Did not thy father eate and drinke and prosper well, as long as he dealt with equitie and righteousnesse?

16 Yea, when he helped the oppressed and poore to their right, then prospered he well: From whence came this, but onlye because he knewe me, saith the Lorde?

17 Neuertheless, as for thyne eyes and thyne heart they loke vpon couetousnesse, to shed innocent blood, to do wrong and violence.

18 *And therefore thus saith the Lorde against Jehoakim the sonne of Josias kyng of Juda: They shall not mourne for hym [as they vse to do] Alas brother, alas sister: neither shall they say vnto him, Alas sir, alas for that noble prince.

4.Reg.23.c. and.xxiii.a Ier.xxxvi.d

20 Climbe vp the hyll of Libanus [O thou daughter Sion] lyft vp thy voyce vpon Basan, crye from all partes: for all thy louers are destroyed.

21 I gaue thee warning whyle thou wast yet in prosperitie: but thou saidest, I wyll not heare: And this maner hast thou vsed from thy youth, that thou wouldest neuer heare my voyce. D

22 All thy heardmen shalbe driuen with the winde, and thy darlinges shalbe caryed away into captiuitie: then shalt thou be brought to shame and confusion, because of all thy wickednes.

23 Thou that dwellest vpon Libanus, and makest thy nest in the Cedar trees, *O howe litle shalt thou be regarded when thy sorowe and panges come vpon thee, as vpon a woman trauayling with chylde?

25 And I wyll geue thee into the hande of them that seeke thy life, and into the power of them that thou fearest, euen into the power of Nabuchodonozor the kyng of Babylon, and into the power of the Chaldees.

26 Moreouer, I wyll sende thee and thy mother that bare thee into a straunge lande where ye were not borne, and there shall ye dye. E

27 But as for the lande that ye wyll desire to returne vnto, ye shall neuer come at it agayne.

28 This man Conanias shalbe lyke an image robbed and torne in peces, and like a vessell wherein there is no pleasure: wherefore both he and his seede shalbe sent away, and cast into a lande that they knowe not.

29 O thou earth, earth, earth, heare the worde of the Lorde, 30 Thus saith the Lorde, write this man destitute of chyldren: for no prosperitie shall this man haue all his dayes, neyther shall any of his seede be so happie as to sit vpon the seate of Dauid, and to beare rule any more in Juda.

The. xxiij. Chapter.

1 He speaketh against euill curates that make hauocke of the flocke of the Lord. 3 Of the conuersion of the remnaunt of the Jewes to the fayth. 5 The comming of the true shepheard Christe is prophecied. 9 Against false prophetes. 22 When a prophete preacheth the worde of God, God conuerteth the heartes of the hearers. 26 Against prophetes that preache lies vnder the name of God. 32 The miracles of false prophetes.

A 1 WO vnto the shepheardes that destroy and scatter my flocke, saith the Lorde.

2 Wherefore this is the saying of the Lord God of Israel concerning the shepheardes that feede my people, Ye scatter and thrust out my flocke, and loke not vpon them: therefore nowe wyll I visite the wickednesse of your imaginations, saith the Lorde.

3 And I wyll gather together the remnaunt of my flocke from all landes that I had driuen them vnto, and will bring them agayne to their foldes, that they may growe and increase.

4 I wyll set shepheardes also ouer them, whiche shall feede them: they shall no more feare and dread, and there shall none of them be loste, saith the Lorde.

Ier.xxiii.c

B 7 *And therefore beholde the time commeth saith the Lorde, that it shalbe no more sayde, the Lorde liueth whiche brought the chyldren of Israel out of the lande of Egypt:

8 But the Lorde liueth which brought foorth and led the seede of the house of Israel out of the north lande, and from all countreys where I had scattred them: and they shal dwel in their owne lande agayne.

9 My heart breaketh in my body, because of the false prophetes all my bones shake, I am become like a drunken man that by the reason of wine can take no rest, for very feare of the Lorde and his holy wordes.

10 Because the lande is full of adulterers, and therowe swearing it mourneth, *and the pleasaunt pastures of the desert are dryed vp: yea the way that men take is wicked, and their power is nothing right. Ier.xiiii.a.

11 For the prophetes and the priestes them selues are polluted hypocrites, and their wickednesse haue I founde in my house, saith the Lorde.

12 Wherefore their way shalbe slipperie C in the darknesse, wherein they may stacker and fall: for I wyll bryng a plague vpon them, euen the yere of their visitation, saith the Lorde.

13 I haue seene folly among the prophetes of Samaria, that preached for Baal, and deceaued my people of Israel.

14 I haue seene also among the prophetes of Hierusalem foule adultrie, and presumptuous lyes: they take the most shamefull men by the hande, flattering them, so that they can not returne from their wickednes: all these with their citizens are vnto me as Sodom, and as the inhabitours of Gomorre.

15 Therefore thus saith the Lorde of hoastes concerning these prophetes: *Beholde, I wyll feede them with wormewood, and make them drinke the water of gall: For from the prophetes of Hierusalem is hypocrisie come into all the lande. Ier.ix.b.

C 16 And therfore the Lorde of hoastes geueth you this warning: *Heare not the wordes of the prophetes that preache vnto you and deceaue you, truely they teache you vanitie: for they speake the meaning of their owne heart, and not out of the mouth of the Lorde.

Iere.xxvii.b and.xxix.b

17 *They say vnto them that despise me, The Lorde hath spoken it, tushe, ye shall prosper right well: and vnto all them that walke after the lust of their owne heart, they say, tushe, there shall no misfortune happen you.

18 For who hath sitten in the counsayle of the Lorde, that he hath hearde and vnderstande what he is about to do: who hath marked his deuice, and hearde it:

19 *Beholde, the stormie weather of the Lorde [that is] his indignation, shall go foorth, and a violent whirlewinde shall fall downe vpon the head of the vngodly.

Iere.xxx.d.

20 And the wrath of the Lorde shall not turne agayne, vntill he perfourme and fulfill the thought of his heart: *and in the latter dayes ye shall knowe his meaning.

Iere.xxx.d.

D 21 I haue not sent these prophetes [saith the Lorde] and yet they ranne, *I haue not spoken to them, and yet they preached.

Iere.xiiii.b.

22 But if they had continued in my counsayle, they had opened to my people my wordes, and they had turned my people from their cuyll wayes, and wicked imaginations.

25 I haue hearde well inough what the prophetes say that preache lyes in my name, saying, I haue dreamed, I haue dreamed.

26 Howe long wyll this continue in the prophetes heart to tell lies, and preache the craftie subtiltie of their owne heart:

27 Whose purpose is with the dreames that euery one tell, to make my people forget my name, as their fathers dyd when Baal came vp.

28 The prophete that hath a dreame, let hym tell it, *and he that vnderstandeth my worde, let hym shewe it faythfully: for what hath chaffe and wheate to do together saith the Lorde:

i.Cor.iii.a. i.Pet.iii.b.

29 Is not my worde like a fire saith the Lorde: and like an hammer that breaketh the harde stone:

E

30 Therefore thus saith the Lorde: beholde, I wyll vpon the prophetes that steale my worde priuilie from euery man.

31 Beholde, here am I saith the Lorde, against the prophetes that make tongues tender to speake, and to say, The Lorde hath saide it.

32 Beholde, here am I saith the Lorde, against those prophetes that dare prophecie lying dreames, and deceaue my people with their vanities and inconstant deuices, yet I neuer sent nor commaunded them: They shall do this people no good at all, saith the Lorde.

33 If this people, eyther any prophete or priest aske thee, and say: What is the (a) burthen of the Lord: Thou shalt say vnto them: what burthen: I wyll forsake you saith the Lorde.

(a) The wicked mens hearties were so hardened against the truth, that they vsed scornefully to scoffe at Gods threatning prophecies in mockage: calling them Gods farde or burthen.

34 And the prophete, priest, or people that vseth this tearme, The burthen of the Lorde: him wyll I visite, and his house also.

35 But thus shall ye say euery one to another, and euery man to his brother: What aunswere hath the Lorde geuen: or what is the Lordes commaundement:

F

36 And as for the burthen of the Lorde, ye shall speake no more of it, for euery mans owne worde is his burthen: because ye haue altred the wordes of the liuing God, the Lorde of hoastes, our God.

37 Thus shall euery man say to the prophetes: What aunswere hath the Lorde geuen thee: or what saith the Lorde:

38 And not once to name the burthen of the Lorde. Therefore thus saith the Lord: Forasmuch as ye haue vsed this terme (the burthen of the Lord) where as I notwithstanding sent vnto you and forbad you to speake of the Lordes burthen:

39 Beholde therefore, I wyll take you vp as a burthen, and wyl cast you farre of from my presence, yea and the citie also so that I gaue you and your fathers:

40 And wyll bryng you to an euerlasting confusion, and into a shame that shall neuer be forgotten.

¶ The. xxiiij. Chapter.

1 The vision of the two panniers of figges. 5 The first vision signifieth, that part of the people shoulde be brought agayne from captiuitie. 8 The seconde, that Zedechias and the rest of the people shoulde be destroyed.

A 1 THe Lorde shewed me a vision: Beholde, there stode two maundes of figges before the temple of the Lorde, after that *Nabuchodonozar kyng of Babylon had led away captiue Jechonias the sonne of Jehoakim kyng of Juda, the nightie men also of Juda, with the workemasters and cunning men of Hierusalem vnto Babylon.
4.Reg.24.d
2 In the one maunde were very good figges, euen like those that be first ripe: in the other maunde were very naughtie figges, whiche might not be eaten they were so euyll.
3 Then sayd the Lord vnto me: what seest thou Jeremie? I sayde, *figges, whereof some be very good, and some so euyll that no man may eate them.
Oseæ.d.
4 Then came the worde of the Lorde vnto me, after this maner:
5 Thus saith the Lorde the God of Israel, Like as thou knowest the good figges: so shall I knowe the men led away, whom I haue sent out of this place into the lande of the Chaldees for their profite:
6 And I wyll set mine eyes vpon them for the best, for I wyll bryng them agayne into this lande, I wyll buylde them vp, and not breake them downe, I wyll plant them, and not roote them out.
7 *And I wyll [illegible] them an heart to knowe howe that I am the Lorde: They shalbe my people, and I wyll be their God: for they shall returne vnto me with their whole heart.
B Deu.xxix.a Iere.xxx.d. xxxi.f. xxxii.e.
8 *And like as thou knowest the naughtie figges whiche may not be eaten they are so euyll: euen so wyll I, saith the Lorde, cause Zedechias the kyng of Juda, yea and all his princes, and the residue of Hierusalem that remaine ouer in this lande, and them also that dwel in Egypt, to be vexed and plagued in all kyngdomes and landes.
Iere.xxix.c.
9 And I wyll make them to be a *reprofe, a common byworde, a laughing stocke and shame in al the places where I shall scatter them.
Psa.lxxix.a Baruc.iii.a.
10 I wyll sende the sworde, hunger, and pestilence among them, vntyll I haue cleane consumed them out of the lande that I gaue vnto them and their fathers.

The. xxv. Chapter.

1 Jeremie prophecieth that they shalbe in captiuitie threscore and ten yeres, because they contemned and despised the worde of God. 10 He sheweth that after the threscore and ten yeres, the Babylonians shoulde be destroyed. 14 The destruction of all nations is prophecied. 34 He moueth the prieستes of the nations to wayling.

A 1 A Sermon that was geuen vnto Jeremie vpon all the people of Juda, in the fourth yere of Jehoakim the sonne of Josias kyng of Juda (that was in the first yere of Nabuchodonozor kyng of Babylon.)
2 Which sermon Jeremie the prophete made vnto all the people of Juda, and to all the inhabitours of Hierusalem, on this maner.
3 From the thirteenth yere of Josias the sonne of Amon kyng of Juda vnto this present day (that is euen twentie and three yeres) the worde of the Lord hath ben committed vnto me, *and so I haue spoken vnto you, I haue risen vp early, I haue geuen you warning in season: but ye woulde not heare me.

season, yet would ye not obay, ye would not encline your eares to heare.

4.Re.xvii.c. 5 Ye sayde: * Turne againe euery man from his euill way, and from your wicked imaginations, and so shall ye dwell for euer in the lande that the Lord promised you and your forefathers.

6 And go not after straunge gods, serue them not, worship them not, and anger me not with the workes of your owne handes, then wyll I not punishe you.

B 7 Neuertheless, ye woulde not heare me saith the Lorde, but haue prouoked me to anger with the workes of your handes, to your great harme.

8 Wherefore thus saith the Lorde of hoastes: *Because ye haue not hearkened vnto my worde, Iere. i.b.

9 Lo, I wyll sende out and call for all the people that dwell in the north saith the Lorde, and wyll prepare Nabuchodonozar the kyng of * Babylon my seruaunt, and wyll bryng them vpon this lande, and vpon all that dwell therin, and vpon all the people that are about them, and wyll vtterly roote them out: I wyll make them amased, a mocking, and a continuall desert.

Esai.xa. Iere.xvii.a.

Iere. viii.b. and.xvi.b.

10 *Moreouer, I wyll take from them the voyce of gladnesse and solace, the voyce of the bridegrome and the bride, the noyse of the milstones, and the light of the cressets.

11 And this whole lande shall become a wilderneste and astonished: and these nations shal serue the king of Babylon threscore yeres and ten.

2.Par.36.d. 1.Esdra.1.a. Iere. v.c. and xxix.b Dan.ix.a. Zacha.1.b.

12 *When the threscore and ten yeres are expired, I will visite all the wickednesse of the kyng of Babylon and his people saith the Lorde, yea and the lande of the Chaldees, and wyll make it a perpetuall wildernesse, 13 And wyll fulfill all my wordes vpon that lande whiche I haue deuised against it: yea all that is written in this booke, whiche Jeremie hath prophecied of all people.

14 So that they also shalbe subdued vnto diuers nations and great kynges, * for I will recompence them according to their dedes and workes of their owne handes.

Iob.34.d.

15 For thus hath the Lorde God of Israel spoken vnto me: take this wine cup of indignation fro my hande, that thou mayest cause all people to whom I sende thee, for to drinke of it.

C Esai.li.d. Psal.lxxv.b

16 That when they haue drunken therof, they may be madde and out of their wittes, when the swoorde commeth that I wyll sende among them.

17 Then toke I the cuppe from the Lordes hande, and made all people to drinke thereof vnto whom the Lorde had sent me:

18 But first the citie of Hierusalem, and all the cities of Juda, their kinges and princes, to make them desolate, amased, despised, and hissed at, and cursed, according as it is come to passe this day:

19 Yea and Pharao the kyng of Egypt, his seruauntes, his princes, and his people altogether one with another:

20 And all kinges of the lande of Hus, all kinges of the Philistines lande, Ascalon, Azah, Accaron, and the remnaunt of Asdod,

21 The Edomites, the Moabites, and the Ammonites,

22 All the kinges of Tyrus and Sidon, D the kinges of the Iles that are beyonde the sea,

23 Dedan, Thema, Buz, and all them that dwell in the vttermost partes of the worlde,

24 All the kinges of Arabia, and [generally] all the kinges that dwell in the desert,

25 All the kinges of Zimri, al the kinges of Elam, all the kinges of the Medes, 26 All the kinges towarde the north, whether they be farre or nye, euery one against his neighbour, yea and all the kyngdomes that are vpon the whole earth: and the kyng of Sesach shall drinke also after them.

27 Therfore say thou vnto them, This is the commaundement of the Lorde of hoastes the God of Israel: Drinke and be drunken, spewe and fall, that ye neuer arise, and that thorowe the swoorde whiche I wyll sende among you.

28 But yf they wyll not receaue the cup of thy hande, and drynke it, then tell them, thus doth the Lorde of hoastes threaten you, Drynke it you shall, and that shortly:

Iere. xlix.b Eze.ix.b. i.Pet.iiii.c.

29 For lo, *I begyn to plague the citie that my name is geuen vnto, thinke ye then then that I will leaue you vnpunished: ye shall not go quite: for why? I call for a sworde vpon all the inhabitours of the earth, saith the Lorde of hoastes.

E 30 Therfore tell them all these wordes, and say vnto them: *The Lorde shall crye from aboue, and his voyce shalbe heard from his holy habitation, With a great noyse shal he crie from his court regall: he shall geue a great voyce like the grape gatherers, and the sounde therof shalbe heard vnto the endes of the worlde.

31 For the Lorde hath a iudgement to geue vpon all people, and will holde his court of iustice with all flesh, and will deliuer the vngodly to the sworde, saith the Lorde.

32 For thus saith the Lorde of hoastes, *Beholde, a miserable plague shall go from one people to another, and a great stormie water shall arise from all the endes of the earth.

33 And the same day shall the Lord him selfe slay them from one ende of the earth to another: there shal no mone be made for any of them, none gathered vp, none buryed: but shall lye as dunge vpon the grounde.

34 Mourne O ye sheepheardes, and crye, sprinckle your selues with asshes O ye rammes of the flocke: for the tyme of your slaughter and breache is fulfylled, and ye shall fall lyke vessels that were much set by.

35 *The sheepheardes shall haue no way to flee, and the rammes of the flocke shall not escape. Psal. cxlii.a.

36 Then shall the sheepheardes crye horribly, and the rammes of the flocke shall mourne: for the Lorde hath consumed their pasture, 37 And their best fieldes lye dead, because of the horrible wrath of the Lorde.

38 They haue forsaken their foldes like as a lion: for their lande is waste because of the spoylers furious crueltie, and of his fearefull indignation.

¶ The.xxvj. Chapter.

2 Ieremie moueth the people to amendement. 7 He is taken of the prophetes and priestes, and brought to iudgement. 23 Urias the prophete is kylled of Iehoakim, contrary to the will of God.

A 1 IN the begynnyng of the raigne of Iehoakim the sonne of Iosias kyng of Juda, came this worde from the Lorde, saying:

2 Thus saith the Lord: *Stande in the court of the Lordes house, & speake vnto al them which (out of the citie of Juda) come to do worship in the Lordes house, all the wordes that I commaunde thee to say: *loke that thou kepe not one worde backe.

3 (If peraduenture they will hearken and turne euery man from his wicked way, *that I may also repent of the plague which I haue determined to bryng vpon them, because of their wicked inuentions.)

4 And after this maner shalt thou speake vnto them, Thus saith the Lord: If ye will not obey me, to walke in my lawes which I haue geuen you,

5 And to heare the wordes of my seruauntes the prophetes whom I sent vnto you, rysyng vp tymely, and styll sendyng, yet you haue not hearkened:

6 Then will I do to this house *as I did vnto Silo, and will make this citie to be abhorred of all the people of the earth. Iere. vii. a.

7 And the priestes, the prophetes, and all the people hearde Ieremie preache these wordes in the house of the Lorde. B

8 Nowe when he had spoken out all the wordes that the Lorde commaunded hym to preache vnto the people, then the priestes, the prophetes, and all the people toke holde vpon hym, and sayde, Thou shalt dye:

9 Howe darest thou be so bolde as to say in the name of the Lord, it shall happen to this house as it did vnto Silo, and this citie shalbe so waste that no man may dwell therin?

10 And when all the people were gathered about Ieremie in the house of the Lorde, the princes of Juda hearde of this rumour, and they came soone out of the kynges palace into the house of the Lorde, and sate them downe before the *newe doore of the Lorde.

11 Then spake the priestes and the prophetes vnto the rulers, and to all the people, 4. Reg. 15. g. Iere. 36. d.

people these wordes, *This man is worthy to dye: for he hath preached agaynst this citie, as ye your selues haue heard with your eares.

Ioh.xix.a. Mat.xvi.g.

12 Then sayde Jeremie vnto the rulers and to all the people, The Lorde hath sent me to preache agaynst this house, and agaynst this citie, all the wordes that ye haue heard.

13 Therfore amende your wayes, and your adulcementes, and be obedient vnto the voyce of the Lorde your God, so shall the Lorde repent of the plague that he hath deuised agaynst you.

℣ 14 Nowe as for me I am in your handes, do with me as you thinke expedient and good:

15 But this shall ye knowe yf ye put me to death, *ye shall make your selues, this citie, and all the inhabitours therof giltie of innocent blood: For this is of a trueth, that the Lorde hath sent me vnto you, to speake all these wordes in your eares.

Mat.xxiii.e

16 Then sayde the rulers and the people vnto the priestes and prophetes: This man may not be condempned to death, for he hath preached vnto vs in the name of the Lorde our God.

17 The elders also of the lande stoode vp, and sayde thus vnto all the people.

Mich.i.a.

18 Micheas the Morasthite, which was a prophete vnder Ezekias kyng of Juda, spake to all the people of Juda, thus saith the Lorde of hoastes, *Sion shalbe plowed like a fielde, Hierusalem Mich.iii.c.

shalbe an heape of stones, and the hyll of the Lordes house shalbe turned to an hye wood.

19 Did Ezekias the kyng of Juda and all the people of Juda put hym to death for this? No verily: *but rather feared the Lord, and made their prayer vnto hym, for the which cause also the Lorde(a) repented of the plague that he had deuised agaynst them: Shoulde we then do such a shamefull deede agaynst our soules?

Ionas.iii.b.

20 There was a prophete also that preached stifly in the name of the Lorde, called Urias the sonne of Semaiah of Kiriathiarim: this man also preached agaynst this citie and agaynst this lande, according to all as Jeremie saith.

21 Nowe when *Jehoakim the king with all the estates and princes had heard his wordes, the kyng went about to slay him: *when Urias perceaued that, he was afrayde and fled, and departed into Egypt.

3.Reg.xx.d. Mich.ii.e.

22 Then Jehoakim the kyng sent seruauntes into the lande of Egypt [namelye] Elnathan the sonne of Achbor, and certayne men with hym into Egypt:

23 Which fetched Urias out of Egypt, and brought him vnto king Jehoakim, that slue hym with the sworde, and cast his dead body into the common peoples graue.

24 But Ahikam the sonne of Saphan helped Hieremie, that he came not into the handes of the people to be slayne.

(a) In the deuine nature there is no such alteracion or chaungeablenesse: but God is sayde after the maner of men to repent, when he doth not execute that he had denounced, or doth deferre the plague which he had threatned.

The.xxvij. Chapter.

1 Jeremie at the commaundement of the Lorde sendeth bondes to the kyng of Juda, and to the other kynges that were nye, wherby they are monished to become subiectes vnto Nabuchodonozor. 9 He warneth the people, and the kinges, and rulers, that they beleue not false prophetes.

A 1 IN the begynnyng of the raigne of Jehoakim the sonne of Josias kyng of Juda, came this worde vnto Jeremie from the Lorde, which spake thus vnto me:

2 Make thee bondes and chaynes, and put them about thy necke,

3 And sende them to the kyng of Edom, to the kyng of Moab, to the kyng of Ammon, to the kyng of Tyrus, and to the kyng of Sidon, and that by the messengers which shall come to Hierusalem, vnto Zedekiah the kyng of Juda:

4 And bid them say vnto their maisters, Thus saith the Lorde of hoastes, the God of Israel, speake thus vnto your maisters:

5 *I am he that made the earth, the men, and the cattell that are vpon the grounde with my great power & stretched out arme, and haue geuen it vnto whom it pleased me.

Deut.x.c.

6 *And nowe will I deliuer all these landes into the power of Nabuchodonozor nozor the kyng of Babylon *my seruaunt: the beastes also of the fielde shall I geue hym, to do hym seruice.

7 *And all the people shal serue him, and his sonne, and his childers children, vntyll the tyme of the same lande be come, and his tyme also: yea many people and great kynges shall serue hym.
8 Moreouer, that people and kyngdome which wyl not serue Nabuchodonozor, & that wyll not put their neckes vnder the yoke of the kyng of Babylon: the same people wyll I visite with the swoorde, with hunger and pestilence, vntyll I haue consumed them in his handes, saith the Lorde.
9 *And therfore folowe not your prophetes, soothsayers, expounders of dreames, charmers, & witches, which say vnto you, Ye shal not serue the kyng of Babylon.
10 For they preache you lyes, to bring you farre from your lande, & that I myght cast you out, and destroy you.
11 But the people that put their neckes vnder the yoke of the kyng of Babylon and serue hym, those wyll I let remayne styll in their owne lande, saith the Lorde, and they shall occupie it and dwell therin.
12 All these thynges tolde I Zedekiah the kyng of Juda, and sayde: *Put your neckes vnder the yoke of the kyng of Babylon, and serue him and his people, that ye may liue.
13 Why wylt thou and thy people perishe with the swoorde, with hunger, with pestilence, like as the Lord hath deuised for all people that wyll not serue the kyng of Babylon:
14 *Therfore geue no eare vnto those prophetes that tell you, Ye shall not serue the kyng of Babylon: for they preache you lyes.
15 Neither haue I sent them saith the Lorde: howbeit they are bolde falsly to prophecie in my name, that I myght the sooner driue you out, and that ye myght perishe, with your preachers. ℂ
16 I speake to the priestes also, and to all this people: Thus saith the Lorde, Heare not the wordes of your prophetes that preache vnto you, and say, Beholde, *the vessels of the Lordes house shall shortly be brought hyther agayne from Babylon: for they prophecie lyes vnto you. Iere. 28.a.
17 Heare them not, but serue the kyng of Babylon, that ye may lyue: Wherfore wyll ye make this citie to be destroyed:
18 But yf they be true prophetes in very deede, and yf the worde of the Lorde be committed vnto them, then let them pray the Lord of hoastes, that the remnaunt of the ornamentes which are in the house of the Lorde & in the house of the kyng of Juda, and at Hierusalem, be not caryed to Babylon also.
19 For thus hath the Lorde of hoastes spoken concerning the pillers, the lauer, the seate, and the residue of the ornamentes that yet remayne in this citie,
20 Which Nabuchodonozor the kyng of Babylon toke not when he caryed away Jechonias the sonne of Jehoakim kyng of Juda, with all the power of Juda & Hierusalem, vnto Babylon captiue. 4.Reg 24.c.
21 Yea thus hath the Lorde of hoastes the God of Israel spoken, as touchyng the residue of the ornamentes of the Lordes house, of the kyng of Juda his house, and of Hierusalem:
22 *They shalbe caryed vnto Babylon, and there shall they remayne vntyll I visite them, saith the Lorde: *then wyll I bryng them hyther agayne. 4.Reg. 25.c. i.Esd.i.b.

¶ The.xxviij. Chapter.

1 The false prophecie of Hananias the prophete. 12 Jeremie sheweth that the prophecie of Hananias is false, by the example of the other prophetes. 15 He being inspired of the Lorde, reproueth Hananias prophecying his death.

AND it came to passe the same yere, euen in the begynnyng of the raigne of Zedekiah kyng of Juda, in the fourth yere, the fift moneth, that Hananias the sonne of Assur the prophete of Gibeon spake to me in the house of the Lorde, in the presence of the priestes, and of all the people, and sayde:
2 Thus saith the Lorde of hoastes the God of Israel: I haue broken the yoke of the kyng of Babylon,

3 And

Iere xxvii.c 3 *And after two yeres wyll I bryng agayne into this place all the ornamentes of the Lordes house, that Nabuchodonozor kyng of Babylon caryed away from this place vnto Babylon,

4 Yea I wyll bryng agayne Jechonias the sonne of Jehoakim the kyng of Juda hym selfe, with all the prisoners of Juda that are caried vnto Babylon, euen into this place, saith the Lorde: for I wyll breake the yoke of the kyng of Babylon.

5 Then the prophete Jeremie gaue aunswere vnto the prophete Hananias before all the priestes, and before all the people that were present in the house of the Lorde.

Mich.iii.c. 6 *And the prophete Jeremie sayde, Amen, the Lorde do that, and graunt the thyng which thou hast prophecied, that he may bryng agayne all the ornamentes of the Lordes house, and restore all the prisoners from Babylon into this place.

B 7 Neuertheless, hearken thou also what I wyll say, that thou and all the people may heare.

8 The prophetes that were before vs in tyme past, which prophecied of warre, or trouble, or pestilence, 9 Either of peace vpon many nations and great kyngdomes, were proued by this (yf God hath sent them in very deede) *when the thyng came to passe which the prophete tolde before.

Deu.xviii.d

10 And Hananias the prophete toke the chayne from the prophete Jeremies necke, and brake it:

11 And with that sayde Hananias that all the people might heare, thus hath the Lorde spoken, Euen so wyll I breake the yoke of Nabuchodonozor kyng of Babylon from the necke of all nations, yea and that within this two yere. And so the prophete Jeremie went his way.

12 Nowe after that Hananias the prophete had taken the chayne from the prophete Jeremies necke and broken it, the worde of the Lorde came vnto the prophete Jeremie, saying:

13 Go and tell Hananias these wordes, Thus saith the Lord: thou hast broken the chayne of wood, but in steade of wood thou shalt make chaynes of iron.

14 For thus saith the Lorde of hoastes the God of Israel: I wyll put a yoke of iron vpon the necke of all this people, that they may serue Nabuchodonozor the kyng of Babylon, yea and so shall they do: and I wyll geue hym the beastes of the fielde. C

15 Then sayde the prophete Jeremie vnto the prophete Hananias: *Heare me Hananias, The Lorde hath not sent thee, but thou bryngest this people into a false beliefe. Iere.xxix.c

16 And therfore thus saith the Lorde: Beholde, I wyll sende thee out of the lande, and within a yere thou shalt dye, because thou hast falsely spoken agaynst the Lorde.

17 So Hananias dyed the same yere in the seuenth moneth.

The.xxix.Chapter.

1 The pistle of Jeremie sent vnto them that were in captiuitie in Babylon. 10 He prophecieth their returne from the captiuitie after seuentie yeres. 16 He prophecieth the destruction of the king and of the people that remayned in Hierusalem. 21 He threatneth two prophetes that seduced the people. 25 The death of Semeiah the Nehelamite is prophecied.

A 1 These are the wordes of the booke that Jeremie the prophete sent from Hierusalem vnto the prisoners, the senatours, priestes, prophetes, and all the people, whom Nabuchodonozor had led from Hierusalem vnto Babylon,

2 After that tyme that kyng Jechonias and his queene, his chamberlaynes, the princes of Juda and Hierusalem, the workmaisters of Hierusalem, were departed thyther.

3 Which booke Elasah the sonne of Saphan, & Gamariah the sonne of Helkia did beare, whom Zedekias the kyng of Juda sent vnto Babylon to Nabuchodonozor the kyng of Babylon: These were the wordes of Hieremies booke.

4 Thus hath the Lorde of hoastes the God of Israel spoken, vnto all the prisoners that were fled from Hierusalem to Babylon:

5 Builde

5 *Builde you houses to dwell therin, plant you gardens, that you may enioy the fruites therof.

6 *Take you wiues to beare you sonnes and daughters, prouide wines for your sonnes, and husbandes for your daughters, that they may get sonnes & daughters: and that ye may multiplie there, and decrease not.

B 7 Seke after the peace and prosperitie of the citie wherin ye be prisoners, *and pray vnto the Lorde for it: for in the peace therof shall your peace be.

8 For thus saith the Lorde of hoastes the God of Israel, *Let not these prophetes and soothsayers that be among you deceaue you, and beleue not your owne dreames:

9 For why: *they preache you lyes in my name, and I haue not sent them, saith the Lorde.

10 But thus saith the Lorde, *when ye haue fulfylled seuentie yeres at Babylon, I will bring you home, and of mine owne goodnesse I wyll cary you hither agayne into this place.

11 For I knowe what I haue deuised for you, saith the Lorde: My thoughtes are to geue you peace, and not trouble, and to geue you an ende as you wishe and hope to haue.

12 *Ye shall crye vnto me, ye shall go and call vpon me, and I wyll heare you.

13 *Ye shall seke me and fynde me, yea yf so be that you seke me with your whole heart.

C 14 I wyll be founde of you, saith the Lord, and will deliuer you out of prison, and gather you together agayne out of all places wherin I haue scattered you saith the Lorde, and wyll bring you agayne to the same place from whence I caused you to be caried away captiue.

15 But where as ye say that God hath raysed you vp prophetes at Babylon, 16 Thus hath the Lorde spoken to the king that sitteth in the throne of Dauid, and to all the people that dwell in this citie, your brethren *that are gone with you into captiuitie:

17 Thus [I say] speaketh the Lorde of hoastes, Beholde * I wyll sende a swoorde, hunger, and pestilence vpon them, and wyll make them lyke vntymely figges that may not be eaten for bitternesse:

18 And I wyll persecute them with the swoorde, with hunger, and pestilence, I wyll deliuer them vp to be vexed of all kyngdomes, to be cursed, abhorred, laughed to scorne, and put to confusion of all the people among whom I haue scattered them:

19 And that because they haue not ben obedient vnto my commaundementes saith the Lord, which I sent vnto them by my seruauntes the prophetes: *I stoode vp early and sent vnto them, but they woulde not heare, saith the Lorde. Iere.xxv.a. and.xliii.a.

20 Heare therfore the woorde of the Lord all ye prisoners whom I sent from Hierusalem to Babylon.

21 Thus hath the Lorde of hoastes the D God of Israel spoken of Ahab the sonne of Colaiah, and of Zedekiah the sonne of Maasiah, which prophecie lyes vnto you in my name: Beholde, I wyll deliuer them into the hande of Nabuchodonozor the kyng of Babylon, that he may slay them before your eyes.

22 And all the prisoners of Iuda that are in Babylon, shall take this tearme of cursyng, and say: Nowe God do vnto thee as he did vnto Zedekiah & Ahab, whom the kyng of Babylon rosted in the fire:

23 Because they sinned shamefully in Israel, for they haue not only defiled their neighbours wiues, but also preached lying woordes in my name, which I haue not commaunded them: This I testifie and assure, saith the Lorde.

24 But as for Semeiah the Nehelamite, thou shalt speake vnto hym:

25 Thus saith the Lorde of hoastes the God of Israel, Because thou hast sent letters in thine owne name vnto all the people that is at Hierusalem, and to Sophoniah the sonne of Maasiah the priest, yea & sent them to all the priestes, wherin thou writest thus vnto hym:

26 The Lorde hath ordeyned thee to be priest in the steade of Iehoiada the priest, that thou shouldest be chiefe in the house of the Lorde aboue all prophetes and preachers, and that thou mightest set them vpon the pyllory, or in the stockes: 4.Reg.11.a. 2.Par.23.a, 27 Howe happeneth it then that thou hast not reproued Hieremie of Anathoth, which neuer leaueth of his prophecying.

28 And beside all this, he hath sent vs woorde vnto Babylon, and tolde vs playnely Iere.xxix.c.

playnely that our captiuitie shall long endure, that we should builde vs houses to dwel therin, and to plant vs gardens, that we may enioy the fruites therof.

29 Which letter Sophonias the priest read, and let Jeremie the prophete heare it.

30 Then came the worde of the Lorde vnto Jeremie, saying:

31 Sende worde to all them that be in captiuitie, on this maner, Thus hath the Lorde spoken concerning Semeiah the Nehelamite: *Because that Semeiah hath prophecied vnto you without my commission, and brought you into a false hope: Iere 28 c.

32 Therfore thus the Lorde doth certifie you, Beholde, I wyll visite Semeiah the Nehelamite and his seede, so that none of his shall remayne among this people, and none of them shall see the good that I wyll do for my people, saith the Lorde: for he hath preached falsely of the Lorde.

¶ The.xxx. Chapter.

1 The returne of the people from Babylon. 8 God by his chastenyng sheweth that the people is sinnefull. 16 The destruction of the enemies of Israel.

A 1 These are the wordes that the Lord sheweth vnto Jeremie, saying:

2 Thus saith the Lorde God of Israel: *Write vp diligently all the wordes that I haue spoken vnto thee in a booke. Iere.xxx.c.

3 For lo, the tyme commeth saith the Lorde, that I wyll bryng agayne the prisoners of my people of Israel and Juda saith the Lorde: for I wyll restore them vnto the lande that I gaue to their fathers, and they shall haue it in possession.

4 Agayne, these wordes spake the Lord concernyng Israel and Juda, 5 Thus saith the Lorde, We haue heard a terrible crye, feare and disquietnesse.

6 For What els doth this signifie that I see? [Namely] that all strong men smite euery man his hande vpon his loynes, as a woman in the payne of her trauayle: who euer sawe a man trauayle with childe? Enquire therafter and see, yea all their faces are marueylous pale. Iere.xiii.b.

B 7 Alas for this day, which is so dreadfull that none may be likened vnto it, and alas for the tyme of Jacobs trouble, from the which he shal yet be deliuered.

8 For in that day saith the Lorde of hoastes, I wyll take his yoke from of thy necke, and breake thy bondes, and straungers shall no more haue dominion ouer them:

9 But they shall do seruice vnto God their Lorde, and to *Dauid their kyng whom I wyll rayse vp vnto them. Ezech.34.d.

Iere.xlvi.g. 10 *And as for thee O my seruaunt Jacob, feare not saith the Lorde, and be not afrayde O Israel: For lo, I wyll helpe thee also from farre, and thy seede from the lande of their captiuitie: And Jacob shall turne agayne, he shalbe in rest, and haue a prosperous lyfe, and no man shall make hym afrayde:

11 For I am with thee to helpe thee, saith the Lorde: *And though I shall destroy all the people among whom I haue scattered thee, yet wyll I not destroy thee, but correct thee, *and that with discretion: for I wyll not vtterly destroy thee. Amos.ix.b. Iere.x.d.

12 *Therfore thus saith the Lorde, Thy brosinges are perilous, & thy woundes redy to cast thee into sickenesse. Exod.ij.a. Nahum.i.a.

13 There is no man to meddle with thy cause, or to lay plaster vpon thee, or to bynde vp thy woundes to heale thee.

14 All thy louers haue forgotten thee, and care nothyng for thee: for I haue geuen thee a cruell stroke, and chastened thee roughly, and that for the multitude of thy misdeedes: for thy sinnes haue had the ouer hande. C

15 Why makest thou mone for thy harme? In deede thou art sore wounded and in ieopardie: *but for the multitude of thy misdeedes and sinnes I haue done this vnto thee. Iere.xiii.d.

16 *And therfore all they that deuour thee, shalbe deuoured, and all thine enemies shalbe led into captiuitie: all they that make thee waste, shalbe wasted them selues, and all those that rob thee, wyll I make also to be robbed. Iere xii.a. and.x.d.

17 For I wyll geue thee thy health agayne, and make thy woundes whole saith the Lorde, because they reuiled thee, as one cast away and dispised: Sion

Sion [sayde they] is she whom no man regardeth.

18 For thus saith the Lorde, Beholde I wyll bryng agayne the captiuitie of Iacobs tentes, and defende his dwellyng place: the citie shalbe builded in her olde estate, and the houses shall haue their ryght foundation.

19 And out of them shal go thankesgeuing and the voyce of ioy: I wyll multiplie them, and they shal not be fewe, I shall endue them with honour, and no man shall subdue them.

20 Their children shalbe as aforetyme, and their congregation shall continue in my syght: and all those that vexe them wyll I visite.

21 *A captayne also shall come of them, and a prince shall spryng out from the middest of them, hym wyll I chalenge to my selfe, and he shall come vnto me: *For what is he that geueth ouer his heart to come vnto me, saith the Lorde:

22 *Ye shalbe my people also, and I wyll be your God.

23 *Beholde, on the other syde shall the wrath of the Lorde breake out as a stormie water, as a myghtie whirle wynde, and shall fall vpon the heades of the vngodly.

24 The terrible displeasure of the Lorde shall not leaue of, vntyll he haue done and perfourmed the intent of his heart, *which in the latter dayes ye shall vnderstande.

The.xxxj. Chapter.

1 He prophecieth that the people of Israel shalbe restored agayne vnto their prosperitie. 18 To be turned from sinne is the gyft of God. 27 The birth of Christe is prophecied. 30 All the wicked shall dye in their wickednesse. 31 The newe testament and couenaunt is prophecied. 33 The Christians are taught and instruct of the Lorde. 34 Our sinnes shall so be remitted, that they shall not once be thought vpon. 36 God promiseth that he wyll cast of the Iewes. 38 The buildyng agayne of Hierusalem.

1 AT the same tyme, saith the Lord, shal I be the God of all the generations of Israel, & they shalbe my people.

2 Thus saith the Lord: *The people of Israel which escaped in the wilderneſſe from the swoorde, founde grace to come into their rest.

3 Euen so shall the Lorde nowe also appeare vnto me from farre [and say] *I loue thee with an euerlasting loue, therfore by my mercie I haue drawen thee vnto me.

4 I wyll repayre thee agayne O thou daughter of Israel, that thou mayest be fast and sure: thou shalt take thy tabrettes agayne, and go forth with them that leade the daunce:

5 Thou shalt plant vines agayne vpon the hylles of Samaria, and the grape gatherers shall plant, and commonly eate of it.

6 For the dayes shall come when the watchmen vpon the mount of Ephraim shall crye, *Arise, let vs go vp vnto Sion to our Lorde God.

7 For thus saith the Lorde, Reioyce with gladnesse because of Iacob, crye vnto the head of the gentiles, speake out, syng and say, O Lorde saue thy people the remnaunt of Israel.

8 Beholde, I wyll bryng them agayne from out of the north lande, and gather them from the endes of the worlde, with the blynde & lame that are among them, with the women that be great with chylde, & such as be also deliuered: and the companie of them that come agayne shalbe great.

9 They shall come weepyng, and with mercifull pitie will I bring them hither agayne: I will leade them to the riuers of water in a straight way where they shall not stumble: *For I am Israels father, and *Ephraim is my first borne.

10 Heare the worde of the Lorde O ye gentiles, preache in the Iles that lye farre of, and say: He that hath scattered Israel, shall gather hym together agayne, and shall kepe hym as a sheepheard doth his flocke.

11 For the Lorde hath redeemed Iacob, and ridde hym from the hande of the violent.

12 And they shall come and reioyce vpon the hyll of Sion, and shall haue plenteousnesse of goodes, which the Lorde shall geue them, [namely] wheate, wine, oyle, young sheepe, and calues: and their soule shalbe as a well watered garden, for for they shall no more be hungry.

13 Then shall the mayde reioyce in the daunce, yea both young and olde folkes: for I wyll turne their sorowe into gladnesse, and wyll comfort them from their sorowes, and make them ioyfull.

℣ 14 I wyll powre plenteousnesse vpon the heartes of the priestes, and my people shalbe satisfied with my goodnesse, saith the Lorde.

Iere.iii.c. Math.ii.c. 15 Thus saith the Lorde, *The voyce of heauinesse, weepyng, and lamentation was heard on hye, euen of Rachel mournyng for her children, and would not be comforted because they were not.

16 But nowe saith the Lorde, leaue of from weepyng and crying, withholde thine eyes from teares: for thy labour shalbe rewarded saith the Lorde, and they shall come agayne out of the lande of their enemies.

17 Yea euen thy posteritie shall haue consolation in this saith the Lorde, that thy children shal come agayne into their owne lande.

18 Moreouer, I herde Ephraim that was led away captiue complayne on this maner: Ezc.xx.c. *O Lorde thou hast correct me, & thy chastenyng haue I receaued as an vntamed calfe, Ihre.v.c. Zach.i.a. *conuert thou me and I shalbe conuerted: for thou art my Lorde God.

19 Yea assoone as thou turnest me, I shall reforme my selfe, and when I vnderstande, I shall smite vpon my thygh: For verely I haue committed shamefull thynges: for I haue borne the reproofe and confusion of my youth.

20 Upon this complaynt I thought thus by my selfe: Gen.48.d. *Is not Ephraim my deare sonne: Is he not the childe with whom I haue had all my mirth and pastime: For since the tyme that I first cōmuned with hym, I haue hym euer in remembraunce: therfore my heart driueth me vnto hym, gladly and louyngly wyll I haue mercie vpon him, saith the Lorde.

D 21 Make thy selfe markes, set vp heapes of stone, set thine heart vpon the way that thou didst walke, and turne againe O thou daughter of Israel, turne agayne to these cities of thine.

22 Howe long wilt thou go astray O thou shrinkyng daughter: for the Lorde wyll worke a newe thyng vpon earth: A woman shall compasse a man.

23 For thus saith the Lorde of hoastes the God of Israel: It wyl come therto, that when I haue brought Juda out of captiuitie, these wordes shalbe heard in the lande and in his cities, The Lorde bless thee O thou dwellyng place of ryghteousnesse, O thou holy hyll.

24 And there shall dwell Juda and all her cities, the sheepheardes and husbandmen:

25 For I * shall feede the hungry soule, and refreshe all faynt heartes. Mat.v.a. and.xi.e.

26 When I herde this, I came agayne to my selfe, I sawe like as I had ben waked out of a sweete sleepe.

27 Beholde saith the Lorde, the dayes come that I wyll sowe the house of Israel and the house of Juda with men and with cattell.

28 *Yea it shall come therto, that like as I haue gone about in tymes past to roote them out, to scatter them, to breake them downe, to destroy them, & chasten them: euen so wyll I also go diligently about to builde them vp agayne, and to plant them, saith the Lorde. Deut.28.g. Iere.31.e. Zac.viii.c.

29 *Then shall it no more be sayde, The fathers haue eaten a sowre grape, and the childrens teeth are set on edge: Ezec.xviii.a

30 For euery one shall dye for his owne ℣ misdeedes: so that who so eateth a sowre grape, his teeth shalbe set on edge.

31 *Beholde the dayes wyll come saith the Lorde, that I wyll make a newe couenaunt with the house of Israel, and the house of Juda: Heb.viii.b.

32 Not after the couenaunt that I made with their fathers, when I toke them by the hande and led them out of the lande of Egypt, which couenaunt they brake, yea euen when I as an husbande had rule ouer them saith the Lorde.

33 *But this shalbe the couenaunt that I wyll make with the house of Israel after those dayes saith the Lorde: *I wyll plant my lawe in the inwarde partes of them, and write it in their heartes, *and wyll be their God, and they shalbe my people. Heb.x.b. Esai.li.b. Iere.24.b. and.xxxi.d.

34 And from thencefoorth shall no man teache his neighbour or his brother, and say, Knowe the Lorde: but they shal all knowe me from the lowest vnto the hyest, saith the Lorde: for I wyll forgeue their misdeedes, and wyll neuer remember their sinnes any more.

35 Thus saith the Lorde, Which gaue the sunne to be a lyght for the day, and the moone Gen.i.b.

moone and the starres to shine in the night, whiche moueth the sea, so that the fludds thereof waxe fierce, his name is the Lorde of hoastes.

36 Like as this ordinaunce shall neuer be taken out of my sight, saith the Lord: so shall the seede of Israel neuer ceasse, but allway be a people before me.

37 Moreouer, thus saith the Lord, Like as the heauen aboue can not be measured, and as the foundations of the earth beneath may not be sought out: *so will I also not cast out the whole seede of Israel for that they haue committed saith the Lorde.

38 Beholde, the dayes come saith the Lorde, that the citie of the Lorde shalbe enlarged, from the *towre of Hananeel, vnto the gate of the corner wall. ii.Esd.iii.a. Zac.xxxiii.b

39 From thence shall the right measure be taken before her vnto the hyll toppe of *Gareb, and shall come about Gath. Iere.xix.b.

40 And the whole valley of the dead carkasses, and of the asshes, and all the fieldes, vnto the brooke of Cedron, and vnto the corner of the horse gate towarde the east, it shalbe holy vnto the Lorde, and shall neuer be broken nor cast downe any more.

¶ The. xxxii. Chapter.

1 Ieremie is cast into prison, because he prophecied that the citie shoulde be taken of the kyng of Babylon. 7 By the fielde that Ieremie bought at the commaundement of the Lorde, is signified that the people should come agayne to their owne possession. 38 The people of God are his seruauntes, and he is their Lorde. 40 To feare God, is Gods gyft, to the entent that sinnes may be eschewed.

A 1 THese wordes spake the Lorde vnto Ieremie in the tenth yere of Zedekias king of Juda, whiche was the eyghteenth yere of Nabuchodonozor,

2 what tyme as the kyng of Babylons hoast layde siege vnto Hierusalem: but Jeremie the prophete lay bounde in the court of the prison, whiche was in the kyng of Judaes house,

3 where Zedekias the kyng of Juda cauled hym to be layde, because he had prophecied on this maner: Thus saith the Lorde, *Beholde, I will deliuer this citie into the handes of the kyng of Babylon, whiche shall take it.

4 As for Zedekias the kyng of Juda, he shall not be able to escape the Chaldees: but surely he shall come into the handes of the king of Babylon, whiche shall speake with him mouth to mouth, and one of them shall looke another in the face.

5 And Zedekias shalbe caryed vnto Babylon, and there shall he be vntyll the tyme that I visite hym saith the Lorde: but if thou takest in hande to fight against the Chaldees, thou shalt not prosper.

6 And Jeremie saide, Thus hath the Lorde spoken vnto me:

7 Beholde, Hananeel the sonne of Sellum thine vncles sonne, shall come vnto thee, and require thee to redeeme the lande that lyeth in Anathoth vnto thy selfe: *for by reason of kinred it is thy right to redeeme it and bye it out. B Leuit.xxv.d Nu.xxxiii.a. and.xxxvi.a Ruth.iii.a.

8 And Hananeel myne vncles sonne came to me in the court of the prison, according to the Word of the Lord, and sayde vnto me: Bye my lande I pray thee, that lieth in Anathoth in the countrey of Beniamin, for by heritage thou hast right to loose it out for thy selfe, therfore redeeme it. Then I perceaued that this was the cõmaundement the Lorde:

9 And so I bought the lande from Hanaeel of Anathoth myne vncles sonne, and wayed hym there the money, euen seuen sicles, and ten syluer pence:

10 And I writ it in a booke, and sealed it, and toke witnesses, and wayed hym there the money vpon the waightes.

11 So I toke the euidence with the copie, when it was orderly sealed, and read it ouer:

12 And I gaue the euidence to Baruch the sonne of Nerias, the sonne of Maasiah, in the sight of Hananeel my cosin, and in the presence of the witnesses that be named in the euidence, and before all the Jewes that were thereby in the court of the prison.

13 I charged Baruch also before them, saying:

¶ 14 The Lord of hoastes, the God of Israel commaundeth [thee] to take this sealed euidence with the copie, and to lay it in the earthen vessell, that it may long continue.

15 For the Lorde of hoastes the God of Israel hath determined, that houses, fieldes, and vineyardes shalbe possessed agayne in this lande.

16 Nowe when I had deliuered the euidence vnto Baruch the sonne of Neriah, I besought the Lorde, saying:

Gene.i.a. Iere.x.b. 17 O Lorde God,* it is thou that hast made heauen and earth with thy great power and hye arme, and there is nothing hid from thee.

Exod.34.a. 18 *Thou shewest mercy vpon thousandes, thou recompensest the wickednesse of the fathers into the bosome of the children that come after them.

19 Thou art the great and mightie God, whose name is the Lorde of hoastes, great in counsel, and excellent in worke, thyne eyes looke vpon all the wayes of mens children, *to rewarde euery one after his way, and according to the fruites of his inuentions. Rom.ii.a.

Exod. vii. vnto the. xv chapter. 20 *Thou hast done great tokens and wonders in the lande of Egypt, as we see this day, vpon the people of Israel, and vpon those men, to make thy name great, as it is come to passe this day.

¶ 21 Thou hast brought thy people of Israel out of the lande of Egypt, with tokens, with wonders, with a mightie hande, with a stretched out arme, and with great terriblenesse:

22 And hast geuen them this lande, like as thou haddest promised vnto their fathers [namely] that thou wouldest geue them a lande that floweth with milke and honye.

Iud.ii.iii.iiii. vi. viii. Esther.v.b. 23 *Nowe when they came therein and possessed it, they followed not thy voyce, and walked not in thy lawe: *but all that thou commaundedst them to do, that haue they not done, and therefore come all these plagues vpon them.

24 Beholde, there are bulwarkes made nowe against this citie to take it, and it shalbe wonne of the Chaldees that besiege it with sworde, with hunger, and death: and looke what thou hast spoken, that same shall come vpon them, for lo all thinges are present vnto thee.

25 Yet sayest thou vnto me O Lorde God, and commaundest me that I shall bye a peece of land vnto my selfe for money, and take witnesses thereto: and yet in the meane season the citie is deliuered into the power of the Chaldees.

26 Then came the worde of the Lorde vnto Jeremie, saying:

27 Beholde, I am the Lorde God of all flesh: is there any thing then to harde for me?

¶ Iere. xxv. xxxix.c. 28 Therefore thus saith the Lorde: *beholde, I shall deliuer this citie into the power of the Chaldees, and into the power of Nabuchodonozor the king of Babylon, they shall take it:

29 For the Chaldees shall come and winne this citie, and set fire vpon it, and burne it, with the gorgious houses, in whose parlours they haue made sacrifice vnto Baal, and powred drinke offeringes vnto straunge gods, to prouoke me vnto wrath:

30 For the children of Israel and the children of Juda haue only ben doyng wickednesse before me from their youth vp, they haue ben only prouoking me to wrath with the workes of their owne handes, saith the Lorde.

31 For what hath this citie ben els, but a prouoking of my wrath euer since the day that thei builded it, vnto this houre wherein I cast it out of my sight:

32 Because of the great blasphemies of the children of Israel and Juda, which they haue done to prouoke me, yea they, their kynges, their princes, their priestes, their prophetes, the men of Juda, and the citizens of Hierusalem:

Iere.ii.b. 33 *when I stoode vp early and taught them, and instructed them, they turned their backes to me, and not their faces, Iere.viii.d. 34 They would not heare to be refourmed and correct: *but set their idols in the house that is halowed to my name, to defile it.

35 They haue buylded hye places for Baal in the valley of the children of Hennom, to cause their sonnes & daughters to passe thorow [fire] in the honour of Moloch, whiche I neuer commaunded ded them: neither came it euer in my thought to make Juda sinne with such abhomination.

G 36 And nowe therefore thus hath the Lorde God of Israel spoken concerning this citie, whiche as ye your selues confesse, shalbe deliuered into the hande of the kyng of Babylon, [when it is wonne] with the swoorde, with hunger, and with pestilence.

Deu.xxx. 37 *Beholde, I wyll gather them together from all landes, wherein I haue scattred them in my wrath in fearefull and great displeasure, and wyll bryng them agayne vnto this place, where they shall dwell safely:

38 And they shalbe my people, and I wyll be their God.

Hiere.xxxi.c. 39 *And I wyll geue them one heart and one way, that they may feare me al the dayes of their lyfe: that they and their chyldren after them may prosper.

Isa.xxxvi. 40 *And I wyll set vp an euerlasting couenaunt with them [namely] that I wyll neuer ceasse to do them good, and that I wyll put my feare in their heartes, so that they shall not runne away from me.

41 *Yea I wyll haue a lust and pleasure to do them good, and faithfully to plant them in this land with my whole heart and with my whole soule. Deut 29.b. Iere. xxx.c

42 For thus saith the Lorde, Like as I haue brought all this great plague vpon this people: euen so wyll I also bryng vpon them all the good that I haue promised them.

43 And men shall haue their possessions in this lande, wherof ye say nowe, that it shall neither be inhabited of the people, nor of cattell, but be deliuered into the handes of the Chaldees:

44 Yea lande shalbe bought for money, and euidences made therupon, and sealed before witnesses in the countrey of Beniamin, and rounde about Hierusalem, in the cities of Juda, in the cities that are vpon the mountaynes, and them that lye beneath, yea and in the cities that are in the south: for I wyll bryng their prysoners hyther agayne, saith the Lorde.

¶ The. xxxiii. Chapter.

1 The prophete is monished of the Lord, to pray for the deliueraunce of the people, whiche the Lorde promiseth. 8 God forgeueth sinnes, and doth graciously to the people for his owne renowme. 15 Of the byrth of Christe. 20 The kyngdome of Christe in the Churche shall neuer be ended.

A 1 MOreouer, the woorde of the Lorde came vnto Ieremie againe* whē he was yet bounde in the court of the prison. Iere.xxx. xxxii.a.

2 Thus saith the Lord who made Hierusalē, who fashioned the same to establishe it, whose name is the Lorde:

Exod.xxiii. Esay.vii.d. 3 *Crye vnto me, and I wyll aunswere, and shewe thee great and hye thinges whiche were vnknowen vnto thee.

4 Thus [I say] speaketh the Lorde god of Israel, concerning the houses of this citie, and the houses of the kynges of Juda that are broken thorowe the ordinaunce and the swoorde.

5 The inhabitours of this citie haue come to fight against the Chaldees, and they are filled with the dead carkasses of men, whom I haue slayne in my wrath and displeasure, when I turned my face from this citie, because of al her wickednesse.

6 Beholde saith the Lorde, I wyll repaire and heale their woundes, and make them whole: I wyll open them the large treasure of peace and trueth,

7 And wyll returne the captiuitie of Juda and Israel, and wyll set them vp agayne as they were before: B

8 *From all misdeedes wherein they offended against me, I wyll clense them: and all their blasphemies which they haue done against me when they regarded me not, I wyll forgeue them. Ierexliii.d.

9 And this shall get me a name, a prayse and honour among all the people of the earth, whiche shall heare all the good that I wyll shewe vnto them, yea they shalbe afraide and astonied at all the good deedes and benefites that I wyll do for them.

10 Moreouer, thus saith the Lorde: In this place (wherof ye say that it shalbe a wilderneſſe, wherein neither people nor cattle shall dwell) in lyke maner in the cities of Juda and in the streetes of Hierusalem (which also shalbe so voyde that neither people nor cattle shall dwel there,)

11 Shall the voyce of gladneſſe be heard agayne, the voyce of the bridegrome and of the bride, the voyce of them that shall sing, *Prayse the Lord of hoaſtes, for he is louing, and his mercy endureth for euer, and the voyce of them that offer vp gyftes in the house of the Lorde: for I wyll restore the captiuitie of this lande as it was afore, saith the Lorde.

Pſal.cviii.a. i.Mach.iii d

12 Thus saith the Lorde of hoaſtes, It shall come yet therto, that in this lande whiche is voyde from men and cattle, and in all the cities of the lande, there shalbe set vp shepheardes cottages to rest their flockes.

13 In the cities vpon the mountaynes, and in the cities that lye vpon the plaine, and in the cities of the south, in the lande of Beniamin, and rounde about Hierusalem, and in the cities of Juda shall the sheepe passe agayne vnder the hande of him that telleth them, saith the Lorde.

C

Iere.xxiii.a. 14 *Beholde, the tyme commeth saith the Lorde, that I will perfourme that good thing whiche I haue promised vnto the house of Jsrael, and vnto the house of Juda.

15 In those dayes, and at the same tyme, I wyll bryng foorth vnto Dauid the braunche of righteouſneſſe, and he shall do equitie and righteouſneſſe in the lande.

Eſa.xxxii.d ii.Reg.vii.c. (a) This name hath God geuen to Christe, and doth properly belong to hym alone: but here it is attributed vnto the Churche, for that God the father hath eſpoused Christ his sonne vnto the Churche, and hath endowed her with all that hys.

16 In those dayes shall Juda be saued, *and Hierusalem shall dwell safe: and this shalbe her name, (a) God our righteouſneſſe.

17 For thus the Lorde promiseth, Dauid shall neuer want one to sit vpon the throne of the house of Jsrael:

18 *Neither shall the prieſtes and leuites want one to offer alway before me burnt offeringes, to kindle the meate offeringes, and to prepare the sacrifices. i.Reg.ii.g.

19 And the worde of the Lord came vnto Jeremie, after this maner.

20 Thus saith the Lorde: May the couenaunt whiche I haue made with day and night be broken, that there shoulde not be day and night in due season:

21 Then may my couenaunt also be broken whiche I made with Dauid my ſeruaunt, and so he not to haue a sonne to raigne in his throne: *so shall also the Prieſtes and Leuites neuer fayle, but serue me. D ii.Pet.ii.a.

22 *For like as the starres of heauen may not be numbred, neither the sande of the sea measured: so wyll I multiplie the seede of Dauid my ſeruaunt, and the Leuites my miniſters. Gene.xv.b. and.xxxvi.c

23 Moreouer, the worde of the Lorde came to Jeremie, saying:

24 Conſidereſt thou not what this people speaketh? Two kinredes [say they] had the Lorde chosen, and those same two hath he cast away: for so they haue deſpiſed my people, and they reputed them as though they were no people.

25 Therefore thus saith the Lord, If I haue made no couenaunt with day and night, and geuen no statute vnto heauen and earth:

26 Then will I also cast away the seede of Jacob and Dauid my ſeruaunt, so that I wyll take no prince out of his seede to rule the posteritie of Abraham, Jsaac, and Jacob: but yet I will turne agayne their captiuitie, and be mercyfull vnto them.

The. xxxiiij. Chapter.

2 He threatneth that the citie, and the king Zedekias also shalbe geuen into the handes of the kyng of Babylon. 11 He rebuketh them that brought suche of their brethren into captiuitie, as were pardoned to go at their libertie.

A 1 THese are the wordes whiche the Lord spake vnto Ieremie, *what tyme as Nabuchodonozor the king of Babylon, and all his hoast, and all the kyngdomes that were vnder his power, and all his people fought against Hierusalem and all the cities therof.

2 Thus saith the Lorde God of Israel, Go and speake to Zedekias the king of Juda, and tell hym, the Lorde sendeth thee this worde: beholde, *I will deliuer this citie into the hande of the kyng of Babylon, he shall burne it with fire,

3 And thou shalt not escape his handes, but shalbe taken prisoner, and deliuered into his power: Thou shalt looke the kyng of Babylon in the face, and he shall speake to thee mouth to mouth, and then shalt thou go to Babylon.

4 Yet heare the worde of the Lorde, O Zedekias thou kyng of Juda, thus saith the Lorde vnto thee, Thou shalt not be slayne with the sworde,

5 But shalt dye in peace: And as thy forefathers the kynges, thy (a) progenitours were brent, so shalt thou be brent also, and in thy mourning they shal say, O Lorde: for thus haue I determined, saith the Lorde.

6 Then sayde Jeremie the prophete all these wordes vnto Zedekias kyng of Juda in Hierusalem, 7 What tyme as the kyng of Babylons hoast besieged Hierusalem, and the remnaunt of the cities [namely] Lachis and Azecah, whiche yet remayned of the *strong defensed cities of Juda.

8 These are the wordes that the Lorde spake vnto Ieremie the prophete, when Zedekias was agreed with all the people at Hierusalem, that there shoulde be proclaymed a *libertie: B Exod.xxi.a. Leui.xxvi.f Deut.xv.b.

9 So that euery man should let his seruaunt and handmayde go free, Hebrue and Hebruesse, and no Iewe holde his brother as a bondman.

10 Nowe as they had consented, all the princes and all the people whiche had gathered vnto this agreement, that euery man shoulde set at libertie his bondseruaunt and bondwoman, and no longer to holde them bounde: euen so they were obedient, and let them go free.

11 But afterwarde they repented, and toke agayne the seruauntes and handmaydens whom they had let go free, and so made them bonde agayne.

12 For whiche cause, the worde of the Lorde came vnto Ieremie from the Lorde hym selfe, saying:

13 Thus saith the Lorde God of Israel: *I made a couenaunt with your fathers when I brought them out of the lande of Egypt, out of the house of bondage, saying: Deut.xv.a. Exod.xxi.a

14 When seuen yeres are out, euery man shall let his bought seruaunt an Hebrue go free, if he haue serued hym sixe yeres: but your fathers obayed me not, and hearkened not vnto me. C

15 As for you ye were nowe turned, and dyd right before me, in that ye proclaymed euery man to let his neighbour go free, and in that ye made a couenaunt before me in the temple that beareth my name.

16 But yet ye turned your selues againe, and blasphemed my name, in this, that euery man hath required his seruaunt and handemayde agayne whom ye had let go quite and free, and compelled them to serue you agayne, and to be bondmen and bondwomen.

17 And therfore thus saith the Lord: Be haue not obayed me, euery man to proclaime freedome vnto his brother and neighbour: Wherefore I wyll call you vnto freedome, saith the Lorde, euen vnto the sworde, to the pestilence, and to hunger, and will make you to be plagued in all kyngdomes of the earth.

18 Yea those men that haue broken my couenaunt, and not kept the wordes of the appointment whiche they made before me, * when they hewed the calfe in two, and when they went thorowe the two halfes therof, Gene.xv.b.

19 The princes of Juda, the princes of Hierusalem, the gelded mẽ, the priestes, and all the people of the lande, whiche went thorowe the two sydes of the calfe:

20 Those men will I geue into the power of their enemies, and into the handes of them that folowe vpon their liues: * and their dead bodies shalbe meate for the foules of the ayre and beastes of the fielde.

Psal.79.a. Iere.vii.d.

21 As for Zedekias the king of Juda and his princes, I wyll deliuer them into the power of their enemies, & of them that desire to slay them, and into the hande of the kyng of Babylons hoast, * whiche nowe is departed from you.

Iere.37.e.

22 But thorowe my commaundement (saith the Lord) they shall come againe before this citie, they shall fight against it, winne it, and burne it: Moreouer, I wyll lay the cities of Juda so waste, that no man shall dwell therin.

¶ The. xxxv. Chapter.

1 He propoundeth the obedience of the Rechabites, and therby confoundeth the pryde of the Jewes. 6 The commaundement of Jonadab the father of the Rechabites. 17 He threatneth punishment vnto the rebellious Jewes. 19 He promiseth prosperitie vnto the Rechabites for their obedience.

A 1 THE wordes which the Lorde spake vnto Jeremie, in the raigne of Jehoakim the sonne of Josias kyng of Juda, are these:

iiii.Reg.x.e. 2 Go vnto the house * of the Rechabites, and call them out, and bryng them to the house of the Lorde, into some commodious place, and geue them wine to drinke.

3 Then toke I Jazaniah the sonne of Jeremie, the sonne of Habazinjah, and his brethren, and all his sonnes, and the whole housholde of the Rechabites,

4 And brought them into the house of the Lord, into the closet of the chyldren of Hanan the sonne of Jegedaliah the man of God, whiche was by the closet of the princes, that is aboue the closet of Maasiah the sonne of Sellum, whiche is the treasurer.

5 And before the sonnes of the kinred of the Rechabites I set pottes full of wine, and cuppes, and sayde vnto them, Drinke wine:

6 But they sayde, We wyll drinke no wine: for Jonadab the sonne of Rechab our father commaunded vs, saying: Ye and your sonnes shall neuer drinke wine, * buylde houses, sowe no seede, plant no vines,

Iere.xxix.b

7 Yea ye shall haue no vineyardes: but for al your tyme ye shall dwel in tentes, that ye may liue long in the land wherin ye be straungers. B

8 Thus haue we obayed the commaundement of Jonadab the sonne of Rechab our father in al that he hath charged vs, and so we drinke no wine al our life long, we nor our wiues, our sonnes and our daughters,

9 Neither buylde we any house to dwel therein: we haue also among vs neither vineyardes, nor corne lande to sowe:

10 But we dwell in tentes, we obay, and do according vnto all that Jonadab our father commaunded vs.

11 But nowe that Nabuchodonosor the kyng of Babylon came vp into the lande, we sayde, Come, let vs go to Hierusalem, that we may escape the hoast of the Chaldees and the Assyrians: and so we dwell nowe at Hierusalem.

12 Then came the worde of the Lorde vnto Jeremie, saying:

13 Thus

13 Thus saith the Lorde of hoastes, the God of Israel: Go and tell the men of Juda, and the inhabitours of Hierusalem: Wyll ye not be reformed to obay my wordes, saith the Lorde:

¶ 14 The wordes whiche Jonadab the sonne of Rechab commaunded his sonnes, that they shoulde drinke no wine, are fast surely kept, for vnto this day they drinke no wine, but obay their fathers commaundement: but as for me *I haue stande vp early, I haue spoken vnto you, and geuen you earnest warning, and yet haue ye not ben obedient vnto me.

Iere xviii.a. xxv.a.

15 Yea I haue sent my seruauntes al the prophetes vnto you, I rose vp early, and sent you worde, saying: O turne you nowe euery man from his wicked way, amende your liues, and go not after straunge gods to worship them, that ye may continue in the lande whiche I haue geuen vnto you and your fathers: but ye wouldе neither heare me nor followe me.

16 The chyldren of Jonadab Rechabs sonne, haue stedfastly kept their fathers commaundement that he gaue them: but this people is not obedient vnto me, 17 And therfore thus saith the Lorde of hoastes, the God of Israel: Beholde, I wyll bryng vpon Juda, and vpon euery one that dwelleth in Hierusalem, all the trouble that I haue deuised against them: *For I haue spoken vnto them, but they wouldе not followe, I haue called vnto them, neuertheles they wouldе geue me no answere. Prou.i.c. Esai.xlv.b. Iere.vii.b.

18 Jeremie also spake vnto the housholde of the Rechabites, Thus saith the Lord of hoastes the God of Israel: forasmuche as ye haue obayed the commaundement of Jonadab your father, and kept all his preceptes, and done according to all that he hath bidden:

19 Therefore thus saith the Lorde of hoastes the God Israel: *Jonadab the sonne of Rechab shal not faile, but haue one out of his flocke to stande alway before me. Ier.xxxiii.c.

The. xxxvj. Chapter.

1 Baruch wryteth (as Jeremie enditeth) the booke of the curses against Juda and Israel 9 He is sent with the booke vnto the people, and readeth it before them all. 14 He is called before the rulers, and readeth it before them also. 20 The rulers shewe vnto the kyng the wordes of the booke. 23 Jehudi taketh the booke and readeth a litle of it, and casteth it into the fire. 28 There is another written at the commaundement of the Lorde.

A 1 IN the fourth yere of Jehoakim the sonne of Josias the kyng of Juda, came the Worde of the Lorde vnto Jeremie, saying:

Ier.xxx.a. 2 *Take a booke, and write therein all the wordes that I haue spoken to thee against Israel, against Juda, and against all the people, from the tyme that I began to speake vnto thee in the raigne of Josias, vnto this day:

3 That when the house of Juda heareth of the plague whiche I haue deuised for them, they may peraduenture turne euery man from his wicked way, that I may forgeue their offences and sinnes.

4 Then dyd Jeremie call Baruch the sonne of Neriah, *and Baruch wrote in the booke at the mouth of Jeremie, Ier.xxxvi.a.

all the wordes of the Lorde whiche he had spoken vnto hym.

5 And Jeremie commaunded Baruch, saying: I am in prison, so that I may not come into the house of the Lorde:

6 Therefore go thou thither, and reade the booke that thou hast written at my mouth [namely] the wordes of the Lord, and reade them in the Lordes house vpon the (a) fasting day, that the people, whole Juda, and al they that come out of the cities may heare.

7 Peraduenture they wyll pray meekely before the face of the Lorde, and turne euery one from his wicked way: for great is the wrath and displeasure that the Lorde hath taken against this people.

8 So Baruch the sonne of Neriah, dyd according to all that Jeremie the prophete commaunded hym, reading the wordes of the Lorde out of the booke in the Lordes house.

(a) When Jehoakim the kyng of Juda heard that the kyng of Babylon his armie was comming to besege Hierusalem, he appointed a solemne and publique fast for al the people, commaunding them to resort vnto the temple at the tyme appointed, and there to make their humble prayers vnto God for peace & his fauour, as the maner of Gods people was in all their distresses to fast & pray in faithfull repentaunce.

B 9 And this was done in the fifth yere of Jehoakim the sonne of Josias kyng of Iosu. iii.a. Juda, in the ninth moneth, *when it was commaunded that all the people of Hierusalem shoulde fast before the Lorde, and they also that were come frō the cities of Juda vnto Hierusalem:

10 Then read Baruch the wordes of Jeremie out of the booke within the house of the Lorde, out of the treasurie of Gamariah the sonne of Saphan the scribe, Iere.xxvi.a. which is beside the hyer loft of the *new doore of the Lordes house, that all the people might heare.

11 Now when Micheas the sonne of Gamariah, the sonne of Saphan, heard all the wordes of the lord out of the booke, 12 He went downe to the kynges palace into the scribes chaumbers, for there all the princes were set, Elisama the scribe, Dalaiah the sonne of Semei, Elnathan the sonne of Achbor, Gamariah the sonne of Saphan, Zedekias the sonne of Hananias, with all the princes.

13 And Micheas tolde them all the wordes that he heard Baruch reade out of the booke before the people.

14 Then all the princes sent Jehudi the C sonne of Nathaniah the sonne of Selemiah, the sonne of Chusi, vnto Baruch, saying: Take in thine hande the booke whereout thou hast read before all the people, & come. So Baruch the sonne of Neriah toke the booke in his hande, and came vnto them.

15 And they sayd vnto him: Sit downe and reade the booke, that we may heare also: So Baruch read that they might heare.

16 Now when they had heard all the wordes, they were abashed one vpon another, and sayde vnto Baruch: We will certifie the kyng of al these wordes.

17 And they examined Baruch, saying: Tell vs, howe diddest thou write all these wordes out of his mouth?

18 Then Baruch aunswered them: He spake all these wordes vnto me with his mouth, and I wrote them in the booke.

19 Then sayd the princes vnto Baruch: Go thy way, hide thee with Jeremie, so that no man knowe where ye be.

20 And they went in to the kyng to the court (but they kept the booke in the chaumber of Elizama the scribe) and tolde the kyng all the wordes, that he might heare.

21 So the kyng sent Jehudi to fet hym the booke: which he brought out of Eli- D zama the scribes chaumber, and Jehudi read in it, that the king and all the princes whiche were about hym might heare.

22 Nowe the kyng sate in the winter house (for it was in the ninth moneth) and there was a fire before hym.

23 And when Jehudi had read three or foure leaues therof, he cut the booke in peeces with a penknife, and * cast it into i.Mach.iii.c. the fire vpon the harth, vntill the booke was al brent in the fire vpon the harth.

24 Yet no man was abashed therof, nor rent his clothes, neither the kyng hym selfe nor his seruauntes, though they hearde all these wordes.

25 Neuertheless, Elnathan, Dalaiah, and Gamariah besought the kyng that he woulde not burne the booke: notwithstanding, the kyng woulde not heare them:

26 But commaunded Jerahmel the sonne of Amelech, Saraiah the sonne of Ezriel, and Selemiah the sonne of Abdeel, to lay handes vpon Baruch the scribe, and vpon Jeremie the prophete: but the Lorde kept them out of sight.

27 Nowe after that the kyng had brent the booke, and the sermons which Baruch wrote at the mouth of Jeremie, the worde of the Lorde came vnto Je- E remie, saying:

28 Take another booke, and write in it all the foresayde sermons that were written in the first booke whiche Jehoakim the kyng of Juda hath brent.

29 And tell Jehoakim the kyng of Juda, thus saith the Lorde: Thou hast brent the booke, and thoughtest within thy selfe, why hast thou written therin, that the kyng of Babylon shall come and make this lande waste, so that he shall make both people and cattell to be out of it?

30 Therefore thus the Lorde saith of 4.Reg.24.b Iehoakim the kyng of Juda: *There Iere.xxxvi.c. shall none of his generation sit vpon the throne of Dauid, his dead coarse shall be cast out, that the heate of the day and the frost of the night may come vpon hym.

31 And I wyll visite the wickednesse of hym, hym, of his seede, and of his seruauntes: Moreouer, all the euyll that I haue promised them, though they hearde me not, wyll I bryng vpon them, vpon the inhabitours of Hierusalem, and vpon all Juda.

32 Then toke Jeremie another booke and gaue it Baruch the scribe the sonne of Neriah, which wrote therin out of the mouth of Hieremie, all the sermons that were in the first booke which Jehoakim the kyng of Juda did burne: and there were added vnto them many mo sermons, lyke vnto the former.

¶ The.xxxvij. Chapter.

1 Zedekia succedeth Cononiah, 3 he sendeth vnto Jeremie to pray for hym. 12 Jeremie goyng into the lande of Beniamin is taken, 15 he is beaten and put in prison, 17 he is deliuered by kyng Zedekia.

A 1 ZEdekia the sonne of Josiah * which was made kyng through Nabuchodonozor king of Babylon, raigned in the lande of Juda, in the stead of" Cononiah the sonne of Jehoakim.

2 But neither he, nor his seruauntes, nor the people in his lande, would obey the wordes of the Lorde which he spake by the prophete Jeremie.

3 *Neuertheles, Zedekia the king sent Jehucall the sonne of Selemiah, and Sophoniah the sonne of Maasiah the priest, to the prophete Jeremie, saying: Pray thou vnto the Lorde our God for vs.

4 Nowe Jeremie walked free among the people at that tyme, and was not put in prison as yet.

5 *Pharaos hoast also was come out of Egypt: which when the Chaldees which besieged Hierusalem perceaued, they departed from thence.

6 Then came the worde of the Lorde vnto the prophete Jeremie, saying:

B 7 Thus saith the Lorde God of Israel, This aunswere shal ye geue to the king of Juda that sent you vnto me for counsayle: *Beholde, Pharaos hoast which is come forth to helpe you, shal returne into Egypt into his owne lande.

8 But the Chaldees shall come agayne, and fight agaynst this citie, winne it, and set fire vpon it.

9 For thus saith the Lorde, Deceaue not your owne myndes, thynkyng on this maner, Tushe, the Chaldees go nowe their way from vs: No, they shall not go their way.

10 For though ye had slayne the whole hoast of the Chaldees that besiege you, and that none remayned of them but wounded men, yet shoulde they stande vp and set fire vpon this citie.

11 Nowe when the hoast of the Chaldees was broken vp from Hierusalem for feare of the Egyptians armie, 12 Jeremie went out of Hierusalem towarde the lande of Beniamin, to get hym from among the people.

13 And when he came vnder Beniamins port, there was a porter called Jeriah, the sonne of Selemiah, the sonne of *Hananiah, which fell vpon hym, and toke hym, saying: Thy mynde is to runne to the Chaldees. Ier.xxviii.b.

14 Then sayde Jeremie, It is not so, I go not to the Chaldees: Neuertheles, Jeriah woulde not beleue hym, but brought Jeremie bounde before the princes. C

15 Wherfore the princes were angry with Jeremie, & smote hym, and layde hym in prison in the house of Jonathan the scribe: for they had made that house the prison.

16 Thus was Hieremie put into a dungeon and prison, and so lay there a long tyme.

17 Then Zedekia the kyng sent for him, and called hym, and asked hym quietly in his owne house, saying: Thinkest thou this businesse [that nowe is in hande] commeth of the Lorde? Jeremie aunswered, Yea that it doth: and thou (sayde he) shalt be deliuered into the kyng of Babylons power. Iere.38.c.

18 Moreouer, Jeremie sayde vnto king Zedekia, What haue I offended agaynst thee, agaynst thy seruauntes, or agaynst this people, that ye haue put me in prison?

19 *Where are your prophetes which haue prophecied vnto you, and sayde, Ier.xxviii.c.

That

That the kyng of Babylon shoulde not come agaynst you and this lande:
20 And therfore heare nowe O my Lorde the kyng, let my prayer be accepted before thee, and sende me no more into the house of Jonathan the scribe, that I dye not there.
21 Then Zedekia commaunded to put Jeremie in the fore entrie of the prison, and dayly to be geuen hym a cake of bread of the bakers streete, vntyll all the bread in the citie was eaten vp: Thus Jeremie remayned in the fore entrie of the prison.

The.xxxviij.Chapter.

1 By the motion of the rulers, Jeremie is put into a dungeon. 14 At the requell of Abedmelech the chaumberlayne, the kyng commaundeth Jeremie to be brought foorth of the dungeon. 17 Jeremie sheweth the kyng howe he myght escape death.

A 1 Saphatiah the sonne of Mathan, Gedaliah the sonne of Pashur, Jucal the sonne of Selemiah, & Pashur the sonne of Melchia, perceaued the wordes that Jeremie had spoken vnto all the people, namely, on this maner.
Iere.xxi.b. and. xxvii.a 2 Thus saith the Lorde, *who so remayneth in this citie, shall perishe either with the sworde, with hunger, or with pestilence: but who so falleth vnto the Chaldees shal escape, winning his soule for a pray, and shall lyue.
Iere.xxii.e. 3 *For thus saith the Lorde, This citie no doubt must be deliuered into the power of the kyng of Babylon, and he also shall winne it.
4 Then saide the princes vnto the kyng, Sir, We beseche you let this man be put to death: for thus he discourageth the handes of the souldiours that be in this citie, and the handes of all the people, when he speaketh such wordes vnto them: This man laboureth not for peace of the people, but mischiefe.
5 Zedekia the kyng aunswered, and sayde, Lo, he is in your handes: for the kyng may denie you nothyng.
6 Then toke they Jeremie and cast him into the dungeon of Melchiah the sonne of Amelech, that dwelt in the fore entrie of the prison, and they let downe Jeremie with coardes into a dungeon, where there was no water, but mire: So Jeremie stack fast in the mire.
B 7 Nowe when Abedmelech the Morian beyng a chaumberlayne in the kynges court, vnderstoode that they had cast Jeremie into the dungeon, 8 He went out of the kynges house, and spake to the king, which then sate vnder the port of Benamin, these wordes.
9 My Lorde the kyng, where as these men meddle with Jeremie the prophete, they do hym wrong [namely] in that they haue put hym in prison, there to dye for hunger: for there is no more bread in the citie.
10 Then the kyng commaunded Abedmelech the Morian, and sayde, Take from hence thirtie men whom thou wylt, and drawe vp Jeremie the prophete out of the dungeon before he dye.
11 So Abedmelech toke the men with hym, and went to the house of the king, and there vnder the treasurie he gat olde ragges and worne cloutes, and let them downe by a corde into the dungeon to Jeremie.
12 And Abedmelech the Morian sayde vnto the prophete Jeremie: O put these ragges and cloutes vnder thine arme holes betwixt them and the cordes: And Jeremie did so.
13 So they drewe vp Jeremie with cordes, & toke hym out of the dungeon: and he remayned in the fore entrie of the prison.
14 *Then Zedekia the kyng sent, & caused Jeremie the prophete to be called vnto hym, into the thirde entrie that is in the house of the Lorde, and the kyng sayde vnto Jeremie: I wyll aske thee somewhat, but hyde nothyng fro me. Iere.37.c.
15 Then Jeremie aunswered Zedekia, If I be playne vnto thee, thou wylt cause me to suffer death: yf I geue thee counsayle, thou wylt not folowe me.
16 So the kyng swore an oth secretely to Jeremie, saying: As the Lorde liueth that made vs these soules, I wyll not slay thee, nor geue thee into the handes of them that seke after thy lyfe.
17 Then sayde Jeremie vnto Zedekia, Thus saith the Lorde of hoastes the God of Israel: If case be that thou wylt Iere.xxvii.a

wylt go foorth vnto the kyng of Babylons princes, thou shalt saue thy lyfe, and this citie shall not be brent, yea both thou and thy housholde shall escape with your lyues:

18 But yf thou wylt not go foorth to the kyng of Babylons princes, then shall this citie be deliuered into the handes of the Chaldees, which shall set fire vpon it, and thou shalt not be able to escape them.

19 And Zedekia said vnto Jeremie: I am afrayde for the Jewes that are fled vnto the Chaldees, lest I come into their handes, & so they to haue me in derision.

20 But Jeremie answered, No, they shall not betray thee: O hearken vnto the voyce of the Lorde I beseche thee, which I speake vnto thee, so shalt thou be well, and saue thy lyfe:

D 21 But yf thou wylt not go foorth, the Lorde hath tolde me this playnely, 22 Beholde, all the women that are left in the kyng of Judas house, shalbe led foorth vnto the kyng of Babylons princes: and they shall say, thou art deceaued, and the men in whom thou didst put thy trust, haue gotten thee vnder, & set thy feete fast in the mire, and gone their way from thee.

23 Therfore all thy wyues with thy children shall they leade foorth vnto the Chaldees, and thou shalt not escape their handes: but shalt be the kyng of Babylons prisoner, and this citie shalt thou cause to be burnt.

24 Then sayde Zedekia vnto Jeremie: Loke that no body knowe of these wordes, and thou shalt not dye.

25 But yf the princes perceaue that I haue talked with thee, and come vnto thee, saying: O speake, what sayde the kyng to thee, hyde it not from vs, and we wyll not put thee to death: tell vs (we pray thee) what sayde the kyng to thee:

26 See thou geue them this answere: I haue humbly besought the kyng that he wyll let me lye no more in Jehonathans house, that I dye not there.

27 Then came all the princes vnto Jeremie, and asked hym: and he tolde them after the maner as the kyng bad hym. Then they helde their peace, and let hym alone: for they perceaued nothyng.

28 *So Jeremie abode styll in the fore entrie of the prison, vntyll the day that Hierusalem was wonne. Ier.xxxix.c

¶ The.xxxix. Chapter.

1 Nabuchodonozor besiegeth Hierusalem. 4 Zedekia fleeth, 5 he is taken of the Chaldees, 6 his sonnes are slayne, 7 his eyes are thrust out. 11 Jeremie is prouided for. 15 Abdemelech is deliuered from captiuitie, because of the confidence that he had in God.

A 1 NOwe *when the citie of Hierusalem was taken (for in the ninth yere of Zedekia kyng of Juda, the tenth moneth, came Nabuchodonozor the kyng of Babylon and all his hoast, and besieged Hierusalem, and fought agaynst it, Iere.32.a. 4.Reg.25.a.

2 And in the eleuenth yere of Zedekia, in the fourth moneth, the ninth day of the moneth, he brake into the citie)

3 Then all the princes of the kyng of Babylon came in and sate them downe vnder the port: Neregel, Sarezer, Samgarnebo, Sarsachim, Rabsaris, Neregel, Sarezer, Rabmag, with all the other princes of the king of Babylō.

Iere.34.a. 4 *And when Zedekia the kyng of Juda with his souldiers sawe them, then they fled and departed out of the citie by nyght through the kynges garden, and through the port that is betweene the two walles, and so the kyng went towarde the Wildernesse:

5 But the Chaldees hoast followed fast after them, and toke Zedekia in the fielde of Hiericho, and brought hym prisoner to Nabuchodonozor the kyng of Babylon, vnto Reblath, that lyeth in the lande of Hemath, where he gaue iudgement vpon hym.

6 So the kyng of Babylon caused the children of Zedekia and all the nobles of Juda to be slayne before his face at Reblath,

B 7 And made Zedekias eyes to be put out, and bounde him with two chaines, and sent hym to Babylon.

4.Reg.25.d. Iere.xxii.d. 8 *Moreouer, the Chaldees burnt vp the kynges palace, with the other houses of the people, and brake downe the walles of Hierusalem.

9 As for the remnaunt of the people that were in the citie, and such as were come to hym, and whatsoeuer was left of the common sort, Nabuzaradan the chiefe captayne caryed them to Babylon.

10 But Nabuzaradan the chiefe captaine let the rascall people and those that had nothyng, dwell styll in the lande of Juda, and gaue them vineyardes and corne fieldes at the same tyme.

11 Nabuchodonozor also the kyng of Babylon, gaue Nabuzaradan the chiefe captayne a charge concerning Jeremie, saying:

12 Take and cherishe hym, and make much of him, see thou do him no harme, but entreate hym after his owne desire.

13 So Nabuzaradan the chiefe captayne, Nabuzarban, Rabsares, Neregal, Sarezer, Rabmag, and all the kyng of Babylons lordes, sent for Jeremie, 14 *And caused hym to be set out of the fore entrie of the prison, and committed hym vnto Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikam, the sonne of Saphan, that he shoulde cary hym home: *and so he dwelt among the people. ¶ Iere.38.d. Iere.xlb.

15 NOwe when Jeremie lay yet bounde in the fore entrie of the prison, the worde of the Lorde came vnto hym, saying:

16 Go and tell Abdemelech the Mozian, thus saith the Lorde of hoastes the God of Israel: Beholde, the cruell and sharpe plague that I haue deuised for this citie wyll I bring vpon them, that thou shalt see it:

17 But I wyll deliuer thee in that day saith the Lorde, & thou shalt not come in the handes of those men whom thou feareſt:

18 For doubtlesse I wyll saue thee, so that thou shalt not perishe with the sworde: but thy lyfe shalbe saued, and that because thou hast put thy trust in me, saith the Lorde.

The

The.xl.Chapter.

1 Jeremie hath licence to go whyther he wyll, 8 he dwelleth with the people that remayneth at Hierusalem, ouer whom Gedaliah ruleth. 14 Johanan prophecieth death vnto Gedaliah.

A 1 THis is the worde that the Lorde spake vnto Jeremie, *when Nabuzaradan the chiefe captayne had let hym go free from *Ramath, whyther he had led hym bounde among all the prisoners that were caryed from Hierusalem and Juda vnto Babylon.

2 The chiefe captaine called for Jeremie, and sayde vnto hym, The Lorde thy God spake mightily before of the misery vpon this place.

3 Nowe the Lorde hath sent it and performed it as he hath promised: for ye haue sinned agaynst the Lord, and haue not ben obedient vnto his voyce, therfore commeth this plague vpon you.

4 Beholde, I loose the bandes from thy handes this day: yf thou wilt nowe go with me vnto Babylon, vp then, for I wyll see to thee, and prouide for thee: but yf thou wylt not go with me to Babylon, then remayne here: *Beholde all the lande is at thy wyll, loke where thou thinkest conuenient and good for thee to abyde, there dwell.

5 For as yet he was not gone backe agayne to Gedaliah: therfore he sayde to him, Go backe to Gedaliah the sonne of Ahicam, the sonne of Saphan, *whom the kyng of Babylon hath made gouernour ouer the cities of Juda, and dwell with hym among the people, or remayne where soeuer it please thee. So the chiefe captayne gaue him his expences with a reward, and let hym go.

6 *Then went Jeremie vnto Gedaliah the sonne of Ahicam to Mispa, & dwelt there with hym among the people that were left in the lande.

B 7 Nowe whē the captaynes of the hoast of Juda, which with their felowes were scattered abrode on euery syde in the lande, vnderstoode that the kyng of Babylon had made Gedaliah the sonne of Ahicam gouernour in the lande, and that man, wyfe, and chylde, yea and the poore men in the lande that were not led captiue to Babylon, should be vnder his iurisdiction:

8 They came to Gedaliah vnto Mispa, [Namely] Jsmael the sonne of Nathaniah, Johanan and Jonathan the sonnes of Careah, Sareah the sonne of Thanehumeth, the sonnes of Ephai the Netophatite, Jezaniah the sonne of Maachati, with their companions.

9 And Gedaliah the sonne of Ahicam, the sonne of Saphan, sware vnto them and their felowes in this maner: *Be not afrayde to serue the Chaldees, dwel in the lande, and do the kyng of Babylon seruice, so shall ye prosper. 4.Reg.25.c.

10 Beholde I dwell at Mispa, to be an officer in the Chaldees behalfe, and to satisfie such as come to vs: therfore gather wine, corne, and oyle, & kepe them in your ware houses, and dwell in your cities that ye haue in kepyng.

11 Yea all the Jewes also that dwelt in Moab, vnder the Ammonites, Jdumea, and in all the countreys, when they hearde that the kyng of Babylon had made Gedaliah the sonne of Ahicam the sonne of Saphan, gouernour vpon all them that were left in Juda:

12 All the Jewes [I say] returned out of all places where they were fled vnto, and came into the lande of Juda to Gedaliah vnto Mispa, and gathered wine and other fruites, and that very much.

13 Moreouer, Johanan the sonne of Careah, and all the captaynes of the hoast that were scattered on euery syde in the lande, came to Gedaliah to Mispa, and sayde vnto hym:

14 Knowest thou not that Baalis the kyng of the Ammonites hath sent Jsmael the sonne of Nathaniah to slay thee? But Gedaliah the sonne of Ahicam beleued them not. ℭ

15 Then sayde Johanan the sonne of Careah vnto Gedaliah in Mispa these wordes secretely, Let me go I pray thee, and I wyll slay Jsmael the sonne of Nathaniah, so that no body shall knowe it: wherfore wyll he kyll thee, that all the Jewes which resort vnto thee myght be scattered, and the remnaunt naunt in Juda perishe.

16 And Gedaliah the sonne of Ahicam sayde to Johanan the sonne of Careah, Thou shalt not do it: for they are but lyes that thou sayest of Ismael.

The .xlj. Chapter.

2 Ismael kylleth Gedaliah guilefully, and many other with hym. 11 Johanan foloweth after Ismael.

A 1 BVt in the seuenth moneth, it happened* that Ismael the sonne of Nathaniah, the sonne of Elisama, one of the kynges blood came, and the greatest about the kyng, & ten men with him, vnto Gedaliah the sonne of Ahicam to Mispa, and they did eate together in Mispa. 4.Reg.25.a.

2 And Ismael the sonne of Nathaniah, with those ten men that were with him, start vp, and smote Gedaliah the sonne of Ahicam the sonne of Saphan with the sworde, and slue hym whom the king of Babylon had made a gouernour of the lande.

3 Ismael also slue all the Jewes that were with Gedaliah at Mispa, and all the Chaldees that he founde there wayting vpon hym, and those that were able to fyght he slue with hym.

4 The next day after that he had slayne Gedaliah, the matter was yet vnknowen:

5 And there came certayne men from Sichem, from Silo, and Samaria, to the number of fourescore, which had shauen their beardes, rent their clothes, and were all heaue, bryngyng meate offerynges and incense in their handes, to offer it in the house of the Lorde.

6 And Ismael the sonne of Nathaniah went forth of Mispa* weepyng, to meete them: Nowe when he met them, he sayde, Go your way to Gedaliah the sonne of Ahicam. Eccl.xii.c.

B 7 And when they came in the middest of the citie, Ismael the sonne of Nathaniah, with them that were with hym, slue them euen at the middest of the pit.

8 Among these fourescore men there were ten that sayde vnto Ismael: Oh slay vs not, for we haue yet a great treasure in the fielde, of wheate, barly, oyle, and hony: So he spared them, and slue them not with their brethren.

4.Reg.25.c. 9 Nowe the pit* wherin Ismael did cast the dead bodyes of the men whom he slue because of Gedaliah, had kyng Asa caused to be made for feare of Baasa the kyng of Israel, and the same pit did Ismael fyll with slayne men.

10 As for the remnaunt of the people, the kynges daughters, and all the people that were left at Mispa, vpon whom *Nabuzaradan the chiefe captayne had made Gedaliah the sonne of Ahicam gouernour, Ismael the sonne of Nathaniah caryed them away prisoners towarde the Ammonites. 4.Reg.xxv.

11 But when Johanan the sonne of Careah, and all they which had ben captaynes ouer the kinges hoast with him, hearde of all the wickednesse that Ismael the sonne of Nathaniah had done:

12 *They toke their companions, & went out for to fyght with Ismael the sonne of Nathaniah, and founde hym by the great waters that are at Gibeon. Gen.xiii.c. 1.Reg.30.b.

13 Nowe when all the people whom Ismael led captiue, sawe Johanan the sonne of Careah, and all the other captaynes of the hoast, they were glad.

14 So all the people that Ismael had caried away from Mispa, were brought agayne: and when they returned, they came to Johanan the sonne of Careah. C

15 But Ismael the sonne of Nathaniah fled from Johanan with eyght companions, and went to the Ammonites.

16 Then Johanan the sonne of Careah, and all the captaynes of the hoast that were with hym, toke all the remnaunt of the people, whom Ismael the sonne of Nathaniah had led away when he had slayne Gedaliah the sonne of Ahicam, whom they also had reserued from hym, fightyng men, women, and children, and geided men, whom they brought agayne from Gibeon, 17 And went from thence, and sate them downe at Geruth Chamaam, which lyeth beside Bethlehem, *that they might go into Egypt for feare of the Chaldees: Ier.xvii.c.

18 Of whom they were afrayde, because that Ismael the sonne of Nathaniah had slayne Gedaliah Ahicams sonne, whom the kyng of Babylon had made gouernour in the lande. Ier.xl.a

¶ The.xlij. Chapter.

1 The captaynes aske counsayle of Ieremie what they ought to do. 19 Ieremie admonisheth the remnaunt of the people not to go into Egypt.

A 1 THen all the captaynes of Johanan the sonne of Careah, Jezaniah the sonne of Osiah, came, with all the people frō the least vnto the most,
2 And sayde vnto Jeremie the prophete: *O heare our petition, that thou mayest pray for vs vnto the Lorde thy God, [Namely] for all the remnaunt, wherof there be fewe of vs left of many, as thou seest vs:
3 That the Lorde thy God may shewe vs a way to go in, and tell vs what we shoulde do.
4 Then Jeremie the prophete sayde vnto them: I haue hearde you, behoide, I wyll pray vnto God your Lorde as ye haue required me: and loke what aunswere the Lorde geueth, I shall certifie you therof, and kepe nothyng backe from you.
5 And they sayde vnto Jeremie, *The Lorde be a true and faithfull witnesse betwixt vs, that we wyll do all that the Lorde thy God commaundeth vs.
6 Whether it be good or euyll, we wyll hearken vnto the voyce of the Lorde God, to whom we sende thee, that we may prosper when we haue followed the voyce of the Lorde our God.
B 7 And after ten dayes came the worde of the Lorde vnto Jeremie.
8 Then called he Johanan the sonne of Careah, and all the captaynes of the people that were with hym, yea and all the people from the least to the most,
9 And sayde vnto them: Thus saith the Lorde God of Israel, vnto whom ye sent me to lay foorth your prayers before hym:
10 *If ye wyll dwell in this lande, I shall builde you vp, & not breake you downe, I shal plant you, and not roote you out: for I repent as concerning the trouble that I haue done to you.
11 Feare not the kyng of Babylon of whom ye stande in awe, O be not afraide of him, saith the Lord: for I wyll be with you to helpe you, and deliuer you from his hande.
12 I wyll pardon you, I wyll haue mercie vpon you, and cause hym to pitie you, and bryng you agayne into your owne lande.
13 Neuertheleſſe, yf ye purpose not to dwell in this lande, nor to folowe the voyce of the Lorde your God:
14 But wyll say thus, we wyll not dwell ℭ heare, but go into Egypt, where we shall neither see warre, heare the noyse of the trumpe, nor suffer hunger, there wyll we dwell:
15 Wherfore heare nowe the worde of the Lorde O ye remnaunt of Juda, *Thus saith the Lorde of hoastes the God of Israel: If ye be wholly purposed to go into Egypt, and to dwell there as straungers, 16 The sworde that ye feared, shall ouertake you in Egypt: and the hunger wherof ye be here afrayde, shall hang vpon you, and followe you into Egypt, and there shall ye dye.
17 And all they that of set purpose vndertake to go into Egypt to sojourne there, shall perishe with the sworde, with hunger, and pestilence, not one of them shall remayne, there shall none escape the plague that I wyll bryng vpon them.
18 For thus saith the Lorde of hoastes the God of Israel, Lyke as my wrath and indignation is moued agaynst the inhabitours of Hierusalem: so shall my displeasure be kindled agaynst you also yf ye go into Egypt, and there ye shalbe reuiled, abhorred, brought to shame and confusion, and as for this place ye shall neuer see it more.
19 The Lorde forbiddeth you (O ye remnaunt of Juda) that ye shall not go into Egypt: and forget not that I haue warned you earnestly this day.
20 For ye haue dissembled with me: *for ye sent me vnto the Lorde your God, and sayde, O pray thou the Lorde our God for vs, and loke what aunswere the Lorde our God geueth thee, that bryng vs agayne, and we shall do thereafter:
21 Nowe haue I shewed and declared vnto you, but ye haue not obeyed the voyce of the Lorde your God, for the which Deut 28.c. 22 Nowe therfore *be sure that ye shall perishe with the swoorde, with hunger and pestilence, euen in the same place where your lust is to go and dwell.

The.xliij.Chapter.

1 Johanan caryeth the remnaunt of the people into Egypt, contrary to the mynde of Jeremie. 8 Jeremie prophecieth the destruction of Egypt.

A 1 NOwe when Jeremie had ended all ỹ woordes of the Lorde his God vnto the people, which to declare the Lorde their God had sent him to them, euen all these woordes [I say]
2 Azariah the sonne of Osaiah, and Johanan the sonne of Careah, with all the stubburne persons, sayd vnto Jeremie, Iere.xlii.a. *Thou lyest, the Lorde our God hath not sent thee to speake vnto vs, that we shoulde not go into Egypt, and dwell there:
3 But Baruch the sonne of Neriah prouoketh thee agaynst vs, that he myght bryng vs into the captiuitie of the Chaldees, that they myght slay vs, and cary vs away prisoners vnto Babylon.
4 So Johanan the sonne of Careah, and all the captaynes of the hoast, and all the people, folowed not the commaundement of the Lorde, [namely] to dwell in the lande of Juda:
5 But Johanan the sonne of Cariah, and all the captaines of the hoast, caried away all the remnaunt of Juda, *that Iere.xl.c. were come together agayne from all the heathen, among whom they had ben scattered, to dwell in the lande of Juda,
6 Men, women, children, the kynges daughters, all those that Nabuzaradan the chiefe captayne had left with Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikam, the sonne of Saphan: they caryed away also the prophete Jeremie, Baruch the sonne of Neriah,
7 And so came into Egypt: for they were not obedient vnto the commaundement B of God. Thus came they to Thaphnis:
8 And in Thaphnis the woorde of the Lorde happened vnto Jeremie, saying:
9 Take great stones in thine hande, and hyde them in the bricke wall vnder the doore of Pharaos house in Thaphnis, that all the men of Juda may see,
10 And say vnto them, Thus saith the Lorde of hoastes the God of Israel: *Beholde, I will sende and call for Na- Iere.xlvi.c. buchodonozor the kyng of Babylon my seruaunt, and wyll set his seate vpon these stones that I haue hyd, and he shall spreade his tent ouer them.
11 And when he commeth, he shall smite the land of Egypt, some with slaughter, some with banishment, and some with the swoorde.
12 He shall set fire vpon the temple of the Egyptians gods, and burne them vp, and take them selues prisoners: Moreouer, he shall aray hym selfe with the lande of Egypt, lyke as a sheepheard putteth on his coate, and shall depart his way from thence in peace.
13 The pyllers also of the temple of the sunne that is in Egypt shall he breake in peeces, and burne the temples of the Egyptians gods.

The.xliiij.Chapter.

1 He reproueth the people for their Idolatrie. 15 They that set lyght by the threatnyng of the Lorde are chastened. 26 The destruction of Egypt and the Jewes therin, is prophecied.

A 1 THis is the woorde that was shewed to Jeremie concernyng all the Jewes which dwelt in Egypt, at Migdol, at Thaphnis, at Noph, and in the lande of Pathures.
2 Thus saith the Lorde of hoastes the God of Israel, Ye haue seene all the miserie that I haue brought vpon Hierusalem, & vpon all the cities of Juda: so that this day they are desolate and no man dwellyng therin,
3 And that because of the great blasphemies, which they commited to prouoke me me vnto anger, in that they went backe to do sacrifice and worship vnto straunge gods, whom neither they, nor ye, nor your fathers haue knowen.

4 Howbeit I sent vnto them my seruauntes all the prophetes, *I rose vp early, I sent vnto them and gaue them warning, O do no suche abhominable thinges, and thinges that I hate.

5 But they would not folowe nor harken to turne from their wickednesse, & to do no more sacrifice vnto straunge gods.

6 Wherefore, myne indignation and wrath was kindled, and it brent vp the cities of Juda, with the streetes of Hierusalem, so that they were made waste and desolate, as it is come to passe this day.

B 7 Nowe therfore thus saith the Lorde of hoastes the God of Israel: Howe happeneth it that ye do so great euyll vnto your owne soules, thus to destroy the men and woman, chylderen and babes of Juda, so that none of you is left:

8 Because ye prouoke me to wrath with the workes of your owne handes, when ye offer vnto straunge gods in the lande of Egypt where as ye be gone to dwell, that ye might vtterly perishe, and that ye might be reuiled and shamefully intreated of all nations:

9 Or haue ye nowe forgotten the wickednesse of your forefathers, the wickednesse of the kynges of Juda and their wiues, the wickednesse that ye your selues and your wiues haue done in the lande of Juda, and in the streetes of Hierusalem:

10 Yet are ye not sorie this day, ye feare not, neither walke ye in my lawe, and in my commaundementes that I haue geuen vnto you and your forefathers.

11 Therefore thus saith the Lorde of hoastes the God of Israel: I am stedfastly aduised and determined to punish you, and to roote out all Juda.

12 As for the remnaunt of Juda that purposely went into Egypt there to dwell, I wyll take them, *and they shall all be destroyed, in the lande of Egypt shall they perishe, beyng consumed with the swoorde and with hunger: for from the least vnto the most they shall perishe with the swoorde and with hunger: Moreouer, they shalbe reuiled, abhorred, shamed, and confounded.

13 For I wyll visite them that dwell in Egypt, *as I haue visited Hierusalem, with the swoorde, with hunger, and with pestilence. Ezech.39.a.

14 So that none of the remnaunt of Juda whiche are gone to dwell in Egypt, shalbe left to come againe into the land of Juda, although they thinke to come thyther agayne and to dwell there: for none shall come agayne but suche as are fled away. C

15 Then all the men whiche knewe that their wiues had offred vnto straunge gods, and a great sort of wiues that stoode there, yea and all the people that dwelt there in Egypt in the citie of Phatures, aunswered Jeremie and saide:

16 As for the woordes that thou hast spoken vnto vs in the name of the Lorde, we wyll in no wise heare them:

17 But whatsoeuer goeth out of our owne mouth, that wyll we do, we wyll do sacrifice, and offer oblations vnto the Queene of heauen, *like as we and our forefathers, our kinges and our heades haue done in the cities of Juda, and in the streetes of Hierusalem: for then had we plenteousnesse of vitailes, then were we in prosperitie, and no misfortune came vpon vs: Iere.vii.b.

18 *But since we left to offer and to do sacrifice vnto the Queene of heauen, we haue had scarsenesse of all thinges, and perishe with the swoorde and hunger. i.Mach.i.b.

19 [Last of all] When we [women] dyd sacrifice and offred vnto the Queene of heauen: dyd we make her cakes and powre vnto her drinke offerinnges to do her seruice, without our husbandes wylles:

20 Then saide Jeremie vnto all the people, to the men, to the women, and to all the folke whiche had geuen hym that aunswere:

21 Dyd not the Lorde remember the sacrifices that ye, your forefathers, your kynges and rulers, with all the people, haue offred in the cities of Juda, in the streetes of Hierusalem: and hath he not considered this in his minde:

D 22 Insomuche that the Lorde might no longer suffer the wickednesse of your inuentions, and the abhominable thinges whiche ye dyd: *Is not your lande desolate and voyde, yea and abhorred, so that no man dwelleth therein any more, as it is come to passe this day:

Esai i.a.

23 *Did not all this happen vnto you, because ye made suche sacrifice, and sinned against the Lord: *ye haue not folowed his voyce, to walke in his law, in his ordinaunces and statutes: yea this is the cause that all misfortune happened vnto you, as it is come to passe this day.

3.Re. xvii.b. Iere.ii.c iii.c and.v.e. Baruc.iii.a.

24 Moreouer, Jeremie spake vnto al the people, and to al the women: Heare the worde of the Lorde all Juda that be in the lande of Egypt.

25 Thus saith the Lorde of hoastes the god of Israel, ye and your wiues haue spoken with your owne mouth the thing that ye haue fulfilled in deede, *yea thus haue ye sayde: we wyll not fayle, but perfourme the vowes that we haue vowed, we wyll do sacrifice, and powre out drinke offeringes to the Queene of heauen: Purposely wyll ye set vp your owne meaninges, and perfourme your vowes.

Iere.xliiii.c.

26 And therefore heare the worde of the Lorde all Juda, that dwell in the lande of Egypt: Beholde, *I haue sworne by my great name, saith the Lorde, that my name shall not be rehearsed thorowe any mans mouth of Juda in all the lande of Egypt, to say, the Lorde God liueth.

Gen xxii.c.

27 For I wyl watch to plague them, and not for their wealth: *And all the men of Juda that be in the lande of Egypt shall perishe with the sworde, and with hunger, vntil they be vtterly destroyed.

E Iere.xlii.c.

28 Neuertheless, those that fled away for the sworde, shall come againe out of Egypt into the land of Juda, but there shalbe very fewe of them: and all the remnaunt of Juda that are gone into Egypt there to dwell, shall knowe whose words shalbe found true, theirs, or myne.

29 Take this for a token, that I wyll visite you in this place saith the Lorde, and that ye may knowe howe that I without doubt wyl perfourme my purpose vpon you, to punishe you.

30 Beholde saith the Lorde, I wyll deliuer Pharao Hophrea kyng of Egypt, into the handes of his enemies that seeke after his lyfe: *euen as I gaue Zedekias the kyng of Juda into the handes of Nabuchodonozor kyng of Babylon his enemie, Whiche sought after his life.

2 Baruch is reproued of Jeremie.

A 1 These are the wordes that Jeremie the prophete spake vnto Baruch the sonne of Neriah, *after that he had written these sermons in a booke at the mouth of Jeremie, in the fourth yere of Jehoakim the sonne of Josias kyng of Juda, saying:

Ier.xxxvi.a

2 Thus saith the Lorde God of Israel vnto thee, O Baruch:

3 Insomuch as thou thoughtest thus [when thou wast wryting] Wo is me, the Lorde hath geuen me payne for my trauayle, I haue weeried my selfe with sighing, and haue founde no rest:

4 Therefore tell hym O Jeremie, that the Lord saith thus: Beholde, the thing that I haue buylded, wyll I breake downe agayne, and roote out the thing that I haue planted, yea this whole lande:

5 And seekest thou yet promotion [looke not for it, and] desire it not, for I wyll bryng a miserable plague vpon all flesh saith the Lorde: *but thy lyfe wyll I geue thee for a pray in all places whyther soeuer thou goest.

1 He prophecieth the destruction of Egypt. 27 Deliueraunce is promised to Israel.

1 THe wordes of the Lorde to the prophete Ieremie, which he spake against [all] the gentiles.

2 These wordes folowing preached he to *the Egyptians, concerning the hoast of Pharao Necho kyng of Egypt, *when he was in Charchamis beside the water of Euphrates, what tyme as Nabuchodonozor the kyng of Babylon slue hym, in the fourth yere of Iehoakim the sonne of Iosias kyng of Iuda.

3 *Make redy buckler and shielde, and go forth to fight.

*Iere.xxvi.a

4 Harnesse your horses, and set your selues vpon them, set your sallets fast on, bryng forth speares, scoure your swordes, and put on your brestplates.

5 But alas, howe happeneth it that I see you so afraide: why shrinke ye backe: Their worthyes are slayne, yea they runne so fast away that none of them looketh behinde hym: fearefulnesse is fallen vpon euery one of them saith the Lorde.

6 The lightest of foote shall not flee away, and the worthyes shal not escape: towarde the north by the water of Euphrates they dyd stumble and fall.

B 7 But what is he this that swelleth vp as it were a fludde, roaring and raging lyke the streames of water:

8 It is Egypt that ryseth vp lyke the fludde, and casteth out the waters with so great noyse: And he saide, I wyll go vp and wyll couer the earth, I wyll destroy the citie with them that are therin.

9 Get you vp ye horses, roule forth ye charets, come forth worthyes, ye Ethiopians, ye Libyans with your bucklers, ye Lydians with your bowes.

10 But this day of the Lorde God of hoastes, is a day of vengeaunce, that he may auenge him of his enemies: The sworde shall deuour, it shalbe satisfied and bathed in their blood, for the Lord God of hoastes shall haue a slayne offering towarde the north, by the water of Euphrates.

11 Go vp vnto Gilead, and bryng triacle O virgin thou daughter of Egypt: but in vayne shalt thou go to surgerie, for thy wounde shall not be stopped.

12 The heathen haue hearde of thy shame, and the lande is full of thy confusion, for one strong man did stumble vpon another, and they are fallen both together.

13 *These are the wordes that the Lord spake to the prophete Ieremie, concerning the comming of Nabuchodonozor the kyng of Babylon, whiche was sent to destroy the lande of Egypt: *Iere.xliii.b.

C 14 Preache out thorowe the lande of Egypt, and cause it to be proclaymed at Migdol, Noph, and Thaphnis, and say: stande styll, make thee redye, for the sworde shall consume thee rounde about.

15 Howe happeneth it that thy mightie worthyes are fallen: why stoode they not fast: euen because the Lorde thrust them downe.

16 The slaughter was great, for one fell euer still vpon another: and they sayde, Vp, let vs go agayne to our owne people, and to our owne naturall countrey, from the cruel sworde.

17 They dyd crye euen there, Pharao the kyng of Egypt is a kyng of troublesomnesse: he hath ouerpast the appointed tyme.

18 As I liue (saith the kyng *whose name is the Lorde of hoastes) so surely as Thabor standeth among the mountaynes, and Charmel in the sea: euen so assuredly shall this mischiefe come [vpon Egypt.] *Esai.xlviii.b.

19 O thou daughter of Egypt, make redye thy geare to flit: for Noph shalbe voyde and desolate, so that no man shal dwell therein.

20 The lande of Egypt is lyke a goodly faire calfe: but destruction shall come out of the north [I say] it commeth.

21 Her waged souldiers that be with her are lyke fat calues, they also shall flee away away together and not abyde: for the day of their slaughter, and the tyme of their visitation shall come vpon them.

22 The crye of them shall make a noyse as the hissing of serpentes: for they shall enter in with their hoastes, and come against her with axes, as it were hewers downe of wood.

23 And they shall cut downe her (a) wood saith the Lorde, they shalbe innumerable: for they shalbe mo in number then the grashoppers, so that no man shalbe able to tell them.

(a) Her wood, that is, the whole multitude of the people whiche was like a great wood.

24 The daughter of Egypt is confounded, and deliuered into the handes of the people of the north.

25 Thus saith the Lorde of hoastes the God of Israel: Beholde, I wyll visite that restlesse people of Alexandria, Pharao, & Egypt, yea both their gods and their kinges, euen Pharoa and all them that put their trust in hym:

26 Yea I wyl deliuer them into the handes of those that seeke after their liues, [namely] into the power of Nabuchodonozor the kyng of Babylon, and into the power of his seruauntes: and after all these thinges, it shalbe inhabited as afore tyme, saith the Lorde. F

27 Be not thou afraide O my seruaunt Jacob, feare not thou O Israel: for lo, I wyll helpe thee from farre, and thy seede from the lande of their captiuitie: Jacob also shall come againe and be in rest, he shall prosper, and no man shall do hym harme.

28 Feare thou not (O Jacob my seruaunt) saith the Lorde, for I am with thee, and wyll destroy all nations among whom I haue scattered thee: neuertheles I wyll not consume thee, but chasten thee and correct thee, yea and that with discretion, neither wyll I vtterly destroy thee.

¶ The. xlvii. Chapter.

1 The worde of the Lorde against the Philistines.

A 1 These are the wordes that the Lorde spake vnto Jeremie the prophete against the Philistines, before that Pharao smote [the citie of] Azah.

2 Thus saith the Lorde: Beholde, there shal waters arise out of the north, and shall growe to a great fludde, running ouer & couering the lande and all that is therin, the cities and them that dwel therin: and the men shal crye, & all they that dwel in the land shal mourne

3 At the noyse and stamping of their strong barbed horses, at the shaking of their charrets, and at the rumbling of the wheeles: the fathers shall not looke to their chyldren, so feeble and weerie shall their handes be,

4 At the same tyme when he shalbe there to destroy the whole lande of the Philistines, he shall make waste both Tyrus, Sidon, and the residue of their ayde: for the Lorde wyll destroy the Philistines, the remnaunt of the Ile of Caphtor. B

(a) Or, Capadocia.

5 Baldnesse is come vpon Azah, Ascalon is put to silence, with the rest of their valleys: Howe long wylt thou teare thy selfe?

6 O thou sworde of the Lorde, howe long wylt thou not ceasse? Turne againe into thy sheath, rest, and leaue of.

7 But how can it ceasse, when the Lord him selfe hath geuen it a charge against Ascalon, and rayled it vp against the cities of the sea coast?

1 The worde of the Lorde against the Moabites.

A 1 Thus saith the Lorde of hoastes the God of Israel against *Moab: wo be to the citie of Nebo, for it is layde waste, brought to confusion, and Kiriathaim is taken: Misgab is brought to Esai.xv.a. xvi.a. and.xxv.b. Ezec.xxv.b Sopho.ii.b.

shame and afraide.

2 Moab can boast no more of Hesbon, for they haue deuised a mischiefe against it: Come [shall they say] let vs roote them out, that they may be no more a nation, thou also shalt be destroyed O Madmena, and the sworde shall persecute thee.

3 A voyce

3 A voyce shall crye from Horonaim: Great wasting and destruction shall come vpon them,

4 Moab is made desolate, her litle ones haue cryed out.

5 For at the going vp vnto Luith he arose with lamentation and mourning, and downe towarde Horonaim they heard a cruel and deadly crye:

6 Get you away, saue your liues, and be lyke vnto the heath in the wylderneſſe.

B 7 *For because thou hast trusted in thine owne workes and treasure, thou shalt be taken: Chamos with his priestes and princes shall go away into captiuitie.

8 The destroyer shall come vpon all cities, none shall escape: The valleys shalbe destroyed, and the fieldes shalbe layde waste, lyke as the Lorde hath spoken.

9 Geue winges vnto Moab, that she get her away speedyly: for her cities shalbe made so desolate, that no man shall dwell therein.

10 Cursed be he that doth the worke of the Lorde fraudulently, and cursed be he that kepeth backe his *sworde from sheddyng of blood.

11 Moab hath euer ben riche and careleſſe from her youth vp, she hath ben still setled vpon lies, she was neuer yet put out of one vessell into another [that is] she neuer went away into captiuitie, therefore her taste remayneth, and her sauour is not yet chaunged.

12 But lo, the tyme commeth saith the Lorde, that I shall sende her trussers to trusse her vp, whiche shall remoue her from her dwelling, and emptie her vessels, and breake her wine pottes.

13 And Moab shalbe ashamed of Chamos, lyke as Israel was ashamed of *Bethel, wherein she put her trust.

14 Wherefore do ye thinke thus: We are mightie and strong men of warre?

15 Moab is destroyed, and her cities brent vp, her chosen young men be slayne, saith the kyng whose name is the Lorde of hoastes.

16 The destruction of Moab commeth on a pace, and her fall is at hande.

17 All ye neighbours mourne for her, and all ye that knowe her name, say, O howe happeneth it that the strong staffe and the goodly rodde is thus broken?

18 And thou daughter Dibon, come C downe from thy glory, and sit in thyrst: for he that destroyeth Moab, shall come vp to thee also, and breake downe thy strong holdes.

19 And thou that dwellest in Aroer, get thee to the streete, and looke about thee, aske them that are fled and escaped, and say, what thing is happened?

20 Oh Moab is confounded and ouercome: mourne and crye, tell it out at Arnon, that Moab is destroyed.

21 For iudgement shall come vpon the playne lande [namely] vpon Holon, and Jahzah, and vpon Mephaath.

22 And vpon Dibon, vpon Nabo, and Beth Deblathaim,

23 Vpon Kiriathaim, and vpon Beth Gamul, vpon Beth Maon, 24 And vpon Carioth, vpon Bozra, and all the cities in the lande of Moab, whether they lye farre or neare.

25 The horne of Moab is smitten downe, and her arme broken saith the Lorde.

26 Make her drunken, for she magnified her selfe aboue the Lorde, that men may clap their handes at her vomite, and that she also may be laughed to scorne. D

27 Diddest not thou laugh Israel to scorne, as though he had ben taken [with theft] among thieues? for so often as thou makest mention of hym, thou skippest for ioy.

28 Ye Moabites, leaue the cities, and dwel in rockes of stone, and become like doues that make their nestes in holes.

29 *As for Moabs pride we haue hearde of it, she is very hye minded, I knowe her stoutenesse, her boasting, her arrogancie, and the pride of her stomacke, [saith the Lorde.] Esai.xvi.b. Iere.xlix.c.

30 I knowe (saith the Lorde) her indignation, she doth not right, her wordes are lyes, and they haue not dealt truely.

31 Therefore will I mourne for Moab, for whole Moabs sake: my heart shall lament the men of Kirchares.

32 O thou vineyarde of Sabamah, I wyll weepe for thee as for Jazer: thy vine braunches shall come ouer the sea vnto the sea of Jazer, the destroyer shal breake into thy haruest and grape gathering.

33 Myrth and cheare shalbe taken away from the fertile fielde, and from the lande of Moab: there shalbe no sweete wine in the presse, the treader shal haue no stomacke to crye, yea there shalbe none to crye vnto him, ¶ 34 whiche aforetyme were hearde from Hesbon to Eleale, and Jahaz, whiche lyfted vp their voyce from Zoar vnto Horonaim, that bullocke of three yere olde: the waters also of Nemrim shalbe dryed vp.

35 Moreouer, I will make Moab ceasse saith the Lorde, from the offeringes and censing that she hath made vnto her gods in hye places.

36 Wherefore my heart mourneth for Moab like a crowde playing an heauie song, and for the mens sake of Kirchares my heart mourneth also, euen as a pipe that pipeth a dolefull song: for their riches which they haue gathered, shalbe destroyed.

Esai.xv.d. 37 *All heades shalbe shauen, and all beardes clipped of, all handes bounde, and all loynes gyrded about with sackcloth.

38 Vpon all the house toppes and streetes of Moab there shalbe lamentable mourning: for I wyl breake Moab lyke an vnprofitable vessell, saith the Lorde.

39 O howe is she destroyed: O howe mourneth she: O howe doth Moab hang downe her head and is ashamed: Thus shal Moab be a laughing stocke, and had in derision of all them that be rounde about her.

40 *For thus saith the Lorde: Beholde, the enemie shall come fleeing as an Egle, and spreade his winges vpon Moab. Deut.28.c. Iere.xlix.d.

41 They shall take the cities, and winne the strong holdes: then the mightie mens heartes in Moab, shalbe lyke the heart of a woman trauayling with chylde. G

42 And Moab shalbe made so desolate, that she shall no more be a people, because she hath set vp her selfe against the Lorde.

43 *Feare, pit, and snare, shall come vpon thee O Moab, saith the Lorde. Esai.xxiiii.c.

44 Whoso escapeth the feare, shall fall into the pit, and whoso getteth out of the pit, shalbe taken in the snare: for I will bryng a yere of visitation vpon Moab, saith the Lorde.

45 They that are able to flee, shall stande vnder the shadowe of Hesbon, for there shall go a fire out of Hesbon, and a flambe from Sion, and shall burne vp that proude people of Moab, and the toppe of those seditious chyldren.

46 Wo be vnto thee O Moab, thou people of Chamos shalt perishe: yea thy sonnes and daughters shalbe led away captiue.

47 Yet at the last wyll I bryng Moab out of captiuitie agayne saith the Lord: Thus farre is of the plague of Moab.

¶ The worde of the Lorde against the Ammonites, 7 against Idumea, 23 Damascus, 28 Cedar, 34 Elam.

A Ezec.xxi.d. and.xxv.a. Amos.i.a. 1 AS concerning the Ammonites, thus the Lorde saith: Hath Israel no chyldren: or is he without any ayre: why hath your kyng then taken Gad in: wherefore doth his people dwell in his cities.

2 Beholde therefore, the tyme commeth saith the Lord, that I wyll bring a noyse of warre into Rabath of the Ammonites, and it shalbe layde on a desolate heape, and her cities brent vp, and the Israelites shalbe lordes ouer those that had them in possession afore saith the Lorde.

3 Hesbon shall mourne, for Ai shalbe rooted out of the grounde, [saith the Lorde]: the citie of Rabbah shall crye out out, and gyrde them selues with sackcloth, they shall mourne and runne about the walles, for their kyng shalbe led away prisoner, yea his priestes and princes with hym.

4 Wherfore gloriest thou in the (a) valley: thy valley hath flowed away O thou rebellious daughter, and thinkest thou that thou art so safe by reason of thy treasure, that no man shall come to thee?

5 Beholde, I wyll bryng a feare vpon thee saith the Lorde God of hoastes, from all those that be about thee, so that ye shalbe scattered euery man from another, and no man shall gather them together agayne that be fled.

6 But after that, I will bryng the Ammonites also out of captiuitie agayne, saith the Lorde.

7 *Vpon the Edomites hath the Lord of hoastes spoken on this maner: Is there no more wysdome in Theman? Is there no more good counsayle among his people? Is their wysdome then turned cleane to naught?

8 Get you hence, turne your backes, creepe downe into the deepe O ye citizens of Dedan: for I wyll bryng destruction vpon Esau, yea and the day of his visitation.

9 If the grape gatherers come vpon thee, shoulde they not leaue some grapes? If the night robbers come vpon thee, shoulde they not take so much as they thought were inough?

10 But I wyll make Esau bare, and discouer his secretes, so that he shall not be able to byde them: his seede shalbe wasted away, yea his brethren and his neighbours, and he hym selfe shall not be left behynde.

11 Thou shalt leaue thy fatherlesse children behynde thee, and I wyll kepe them, and thy wydowes shal take their comfort in me.

12 For thus hath the Lord spoken: *Beholde, they that men thought were vnmeete to drinke of the cuppe, haue drunken with the first, and thinkest thou then to be free? No no, thou shalt nether be quit nor free: but thou must drinke also.

13 For why? I haue sworne by my selfe saith the Lorde, that Bozrah shall become a wylderneſſe, an open shame, a laughing stocke, and cursing, and all her cities shalbe a continuall desert.

14 For I am perfectly informed of the Lorde, that he hath sent a message alredy vnto the heathen: Gather you together, and go forth agaynst her, make you redy to battayle. ℂ

15 For lo, *I wyll make thee but small among the heathen, and litle regarded among men. Abd.i.a.

16 *Thy hye stomacke, and the pryde of thy heart hath deceaued thee, because thou doest dwell in the holes of stonye rockes, and hast the hye mountaynes in possession: Neuertheleſſe, though thy nest were as hye as the Egles, yet I wyll cast thee downe saith the Lorde. Esa.xlviii.b. Iere.xlviii.d

17 Moreouer, Idumea shalbe a wylderneſſe, *whoso goeth by it, shalbe abashed, and wonder at all her miserable plagues. Iere.xviii.b. xix.b. and.l.b.

18 *Like as Sodom, Gomor, and the cities that lay there about, were turned vpside downe, saith the Lorde: so shall no body dwell in Idumea, and no man shall haue his habitation there. Gen.xix.e.

19 Beholde, lyke as the lion, so shall a destroyer come vp from the pleasaunt medowes of Iordane, vnto the strong dwelling place, & when I haue made hym quiet, I wyll make hym to flee from her, and all chosen men wyll I set in aray against her: who is lyke vnto me? what is he that wyll striue with me? what sheephearde may stande in my handes?

20 *Therefore heare the counsell of the Lorde that he hath taken vpon Idumea, and his purpose that he hath deuised vpon the citizens of Theman: The least of the flocke shall trayle them, and looke what fayre habitation they haue, they shall make it waste, and them selues also. Psal.37.b.

21 At the noyse of their fall the earth shall quake, the crye of their voyce shalbe hearde vnto the red sea.

22 Beholde, *the enemie shall come and flee vp hyther lyke as it were an Egle, and spreade his wynges vpon Bozrah: then shall the heartes of the worthyes in Edom, be as the heart of a woman trauayling of chylde. Iere.xlviii.

23 *Vpon Damascus, Hemath, and Arphad, shall come confusion: for they shal Esai xvii.a. Amos i.a.

heare euyll tidinges, they shalbe tossed to and fro like the sea that can not stand styll.

D 24 Damascus shalbe sore afraide, and shal flee: trembling commeth vpon her, sorowe and payne shall ouertake her, as a woman trauayling of chylde.

25 But howe happeneth it that the famous citie, the citie of my ioy, is not spared?

26 Her young men shal fal in the streetes, and all her men of warre shalbe taken away in that tyme, saith the Lorde of hoastes.

27 I wyll kindle a fire in the walles of Damascus, whiche shall consume the palace of Benhadad.

Esai.xxi.c. 28 *As for Cedar and the kyngdome of Hazor, whom Nabuchodonozor the kyng of Babylon smote, the Lord hath spoken thus vpon them: Aryse, and get you vp vnto Cedar, and destroy the people towarde the east.

29 Their tentes and their flockes shall they take away, yea their hanginges and their vessels, their camels also shall they cary away with them: they shall crye to them, feare is on euery syde.

30 Flee, get you farre away, creepe into caues, that ye may dwell there O ye inhabiters of Hazor saith the Lorde: for Nabuchodonozor the kyng of Babylon hath holden a counsell concerning you, and concluded his deuice against you.

31 Aryse and get you vp against yonder ryche and careleſſe people saith the Lorde, whiche haue neither gates nor doore barres, but dwell alone.

32 Their camels shalbe a pray, and the droues of their cattell driuen awaye: Moreouer, those wil I scatter towarde all the wyndes, and to the farthest partes of the worlde, yea from all the sides therof will I bryng their destruction, saith the Lorde.

33 Hazor also shalbe a dwelling for dragons, and an euerlasting wyldernesse, so that no body shall dwell there, and no man shall haue there his habitation. €

34 These are the wordes that the Lord spake to the prophete Jeremie concernyng *Elam, in the beginning of the raigne of Zedekias kyng of Juda. Ezech.32.a. Dan.viii.a.

35 Thus saith the Lord of hoastes, Beholde, I wyl breake the bowe of Elam, their principall strength.

36 And vpon Elam I wyll bryng the foure windes from the foure quarters of heauen, and wyll scatter them against the same foure wyndes: and there shalbe no people, but some of Elam shall flee vnto them.

37 For I wyll cause Elam to be afraide of their enemies, and of them that seeke their liues, and wyll bryng vpon them a mischiefe, euen my wrath saith the Lorde: And I wyll persecute them with the sworde so long tyll I haue brought them to naught.

38 I wyll set my throne in Elam, I wyll destroy both the kyng and princes from thence saith the Lorde: But in processe of tyme I wyll bryng Elam out of captiuitie agayne, saith the Lorde.

The. l. Chapter.

¶ He prophecieth the destruction of Babylon, and the deliueraunce of Israel, whiche was in captiuitie.

A 1 THE wordes that the Lorde spake vnto the prophete Jeremie, cõcerning Babylon and the lande of the Chaldees:

Esai.xiii.a. and.xlvii.a. and.li.a. Iere. xxv.b. Esai.xlvi.a. Dan.v.a. 2 *Preache among the gentiles, let your voyce be heard, make a token, crye out, kepe no silence, but say, Babylon is wonne, *Bel is confounded, and Merodach is ouercome, *yea their gods be brought to shame, and their images burst in peeces:

3 For out of the north there doth come a people against her, which shall make her lande so waste that no body shall dwell therin, neither man nor beast, for they shall flee and depart from thence.

4 *In those dayes, and at that tyme saith the Lorde, the chyldren of Israel shall come, they and the children of Juda, weeping and making haste, and shal seeke the Lorde their God. i.Esd.i.a.

5 They shall aske the way to Sion, thither

ther shall they turne their faces, saying: Come, and we wyll cleaue to the Lorde in a couenaunt that neuer shalbe broken.

Iere.2.a. Ezech.f. 6 My people haue ben a lost *flocke, my sheepheardes haue deceaued them, and haue made them go astray vpon the hylles, they haue gone from the mountayne to the litle hyl, and forgotten their folde.

B 7 All they that came vpon them haue deuoured them, and their enemies said, we haue made no fault agaynst them, for they haue displeased the Lorde, [yea euen the Lorde which is] the habitation of their righteousnesse, and the hope of their fathers.

8 Flee from Babylon, and depart out of the lande of the Chaldees, and be ye as the rammes that go before the flocke.

Iere.l.g. 9 *For lo, I wyll wake vp an hoast of people from the northren lande, & bryng them vpon Babylon, these shal lay siege to it, and winne it: their arrowes shall not misse, like as a cunnyng archer shooteth not wrong.

10 And the Chaldees shalbe spoyled, and all they that spoyle them, shalbe satisfied saith the Lorde:

Esa.xlvii.a. 11 *Although ye were so chearfull & glad, to treade downe myne heritage, and fulfylled your pleasures as the calues in the grasse, and triumphed ouer them like bulles [when ye had gotten the victorie]

12 Your mothers shalbe sore confounded, and they that bare you shall come to shame, she shalbe the least set by among the nations, voyde, wasted, & dryed vp.

13 No man shalbe able to dwell there for the feare of the Lorde, but she shalbe whole desolate: *all they that go by Babylon, shall stande styll & be abashed, and shall wonder at all her plagues.

Iere.xviii.b. xxx.b.and xlix.c.

C 14 Go forth in your aray agaynst Babylon rounde about all ye that can handle bowes, shoote at her, spare no arrowes: for she hath sinned agaynst the Lorde.

15 Crye out agaynst her rounde about, she shall yelde her selfe, her foundations shall fall, and her walles shall come downe, for it shalbe the vengeaunce of the Lorde, *yea vengeaunce shalbe taken of her: and as she hath done, so deale ye with her.

Iere.xxi.b. xxx.14.d. xxxi.b.

16 Roote out the sower from Babylon, & hym that handleth the sicle in haruest: for feare of the sworde of the enemie euery man shall get hym to his owne people, and euery man shall flee to his owne lande.

17 Israel is a scattered flocke, the lions haue dispersed them: *First the kyng of the Assyrians deuoured them, *last of all this Nabuchodonozor king of Babylon hath brused all their bones.

4.Reg.17.e. Esai.x.a. 3.Reg.25.d.

18 Therfore thus saith the Lorde of hoastes the God of Israel, Beholde, I wyll visite the kyng of Babylon and his kyngdome, as *I haue visited the kyng of the Assyrians, 3.Reg.19.g. Esai.xiii.d.

19 And wyll bryng Israel agayne to his pleasaunt pasture, that he may feede vpon Charmel and Basan, and be satisfied vpon the mount of Ephraim and Galaad.

20 In those dayes and at the same tyme saith the Lorde, yf the offence of Israel be sought for, there shal none be founde, yf men enquire for the sinne of Juda, there shalbe none: for I wyll be mercifull vnto them whom I suffer to remayne.

21 Go downe [O thou auenger] into the enemies lande, and visite them that dwell therin: downe with them, & smite them vpon the backes saith the Lorde, do accordyng to all that I haue commaunded thee. D

22 There is gone about the lande a crye of a slaughter and great murther [namelye on this maner]

23 Howe happeneth it that the hammer of the whole worlde is thus broken and brused in sunder: Howe chanceth it that Babylon is become a wilderneſſe among the heathen [on this maner:]

24 I my selfe haue layde a snare for thee, and thou art taken vnawares, thou art trapped and snared: for why: thou hast contended agaynst the Lorde.

25 The Lorde hath opened his house of ordinaunce, and brought forth the weapons of his wrath: for the thyng that is done in the land of the Chaldees, it is the Lorde of hoastes worke.

26 Come agaynst her, for this is her ende, breake vp her chestes, threshe her as ye thresh corne, destroy her that nothyng shalbe left.

27 Slay all their mightie souldiers, and put them to death: wo be vnto them, for the day and tyme of their visitation is at hande.

28 [We thynke] I heare [alredy] a crye of them that be fled and escaped out of the lande lande of Babylon, which shewe in Sion the vengeaunce of the Lorde our God, the vengeaunce of his temple, [yea a voyce of them that crye agaynst Babylon]

29 Call vp all the archers agaynst Babylon, pitch your tentes rounde about her, that none escape, *recompence her as she hath deserued, and accordyng as she hath done, so deale with her agayne: for she hath *set vp her selfe agaynst the Lorde, agaynst the holy one of Israel.

Iere. l.c. Apoc.18.b.

ii. Tess.ii.a.

30 Therfore shall her young men fall downe in the streetes, and all her men of warre shalbe rooted out in that day saith the Lorde.

E

31 Beholde, I speake vnto thee O thou proude saith the Lorde God of hoastes, for thy day shall come, euen the tyme of thy visitation.

32 And the proude shall stumble and fall, and no man shall helpe hym vp, I wyll burne vp his cities with fire, and it shall consume all that is rounde about hym.

33 Thus saith the Lorde of hoastes, The children of Israel and Juda suffer violence together, all they that haue them in captiuitie kepe them fast, and wyll not let them go.

34 But their auenger and redeemer is mightie, whose name is the Lorde of hoastes, he shall mayntayne their cause, he shal make the lande shake, and iudge them that dwell therin, [one with another]

35 The sworde shal come vpon the Chaldees saith the Lorde, vpon them that dwell in Babylon, vpon their princes, and vpon their wise men.

36 The sworde vpon their soothsayers, as for those they shall become fooles: the sworde vpon their worthies, so that they shall stande in feare.

37 The sworde vpon their horsemen and charrettes, and vpon all the cõmon people that dwell among them, so that they shall all become lyke women: The sworde vpon their treasure, so that it shalbe stollen away.

38 A drought vpon their waters, so that they shalbe dryed vp: for the lande worshippeth images, and delighteth wonderfully in idols.

39 Therfore shall wylde beastes, Lamia, and Cat of mountaynes, and Estreches dwell therin: for there shall neuer man dwell there, neither shall any man haue his habitation there for euermore.

40 Like as God destroyed *Sodome and Gomorre, with the cities that lay there about saith the Lorde: so shall no man dwell there also, neither shall any man haue there his habitation.

Gen. xix.

41 *Beholde, there shall come a people from the north with a great bonde of men, and many kynges shall stande vp from the endes of the earth.

Iere. l.b. Deut.28.c.

42 They beare bowes and bucklers, cruell are they and vnmercifull: their voyce roreth like the ragyng sea, they ryde vpon horses, and come weaponed to fight agaynst thee O Babylon.

43 Assoone as the king of Babylon heare tell of them, his handes shall ware feeble, sorowe and heauinesse shall come vpon him as a woman trauayling with chylde.

G

44 Beholde, *like as the lion commeth vp from the swellyng of Jordane vnto the dennes of Ethan, so wyll I dryue them foorth, and make them runne agaynst her: But whom shall I choose out and ordayne to such a thyng: for Who is like me: or Who wil striue with me: or What sheephearde may stande agaynst me:

Iere. xlix.c.

45 Therfore here the counsayle that the Lorde hath geuen vpon Babylon, and the deuice that he hath taken vpon the lande of the Chaldees, The least among the people shall drawe them out, and loke what pleasaunt houses they haue, they shall lay them waste.

46 The noyse at the wynnyng of Babylon shall moue the earth, and the crye shalbe hearde among the gentiles.

The .lj. Chapter.

1 Howe Babylon shoulde be ouerthrowen. 59 Jeremie geueth his booke to Saraias.

Iere. xxv.b. and l.a.

A 1 THus hath the Lorde sayde: *Behold, I wyll rayse vp a perilous wynde agaynst Babylon, & her citizens that beare euyl wyll against me.

2 I wyll sende also into Babylon fanners to fanne her out, and to destroy her lande: for in the day of her trouble they shalbe about her on euery syde.

3 Moreouer [the Lorde wyll say] vnto the bowmen, and to them that aduaunce them selues in their armoure: Be shall not spare her young men, kyll downe all her hoast.

4 Thus the slayne shall fall downe in the lande of the Chaldees, and the wounded in the streetes.

5 *As for Israel and Juda they shall not be forsaken of their God of the Lord of hoastes, yea (a) for the holy one of Israels sake haue the Chaldees fylled their lande full of sinne.

6 *Flee away from Babylon, euery man saue his syfe, that ye be not rooted out with her wickednesse: for the tyme of the Lordes vengeaunce is come, yea he shall rewarde her agayne.

7 Babylon hath ben in the Lordes hande *a golden cuppe, that maketh all landes dronken: of her Wine haue all people dronken, therfore are they out of their wittes.

8 *But sodaynly is Babylon fallen and destroyed: mourne for her, bryng plasters for her woundes, yf she may peradventure be healed agayne.

9 We Woulde haue made Babylon whole say they, but she is not recouered, therfore wyll We let her alone, and go euery man into his owne countrey: for her iudgement is come into heauen, and is gone vp to the cloudes.

10 The Lorde hath brought foorth our (b) righteousnesse: and therfore come on, We wyll shewe in Sion the worke of the Lorde our God.

11 Make sharpe the arrowes, and multiplie your shieldes: for the Lorde shall rayse vp the spirite of the kyng of the Medes, which hath alredy a desire to destroy Babylon: this shalbe the vengeaunce of the Lorde, & the vengeaunce of his temple.

12 Set vp tokens vpon the walles of Babylon, make your watch strong, set your watchmen in araye, yea holde priuie watches, and yet for all that shall the Lorde go foorth with his deuice which he hath taken vpon them that dwell in Babylon.

13 O thou that dwellest by the great waters, O thou that hast so great treasure and riches, thine ende is come, and the reckenyng of thy wynnynges.

14 *The Lorde of hoastes hath sworne by hym selfe, that he wyll ouerwhelme thee with men lyke grashoppers in number, whiche with a courage shall crye alarum alarum agaynst thee:

15 *Yea euen the Lorde of hoastes that with his power made the earth, with his wisdome prepared the round world, and with his discretion spread out the heauens. Iere.xxxv.b

16 Assoone as he letteth his voyce be hearde, the waters in the ayre ware fierce: he draweth vp the cloudes from the endes of the earth, he turneth the lightnynges to rayne, he bryngeth the wyndes out of their secrete places.

17 [If they be esteemed] by their wisdome, all men are become fooles: *confounded be all the casters of images, for the thing that they make, is but deceipt, and hath no breath. Esai.xliii.c. Baruch. vi.a

18 Vayne is it and an erronious worke, and in the tyme of visitation it shall perishe.

19 The portion of Jacob is none such: but he that made all thinges whose name is the Lorde of hoastes, he is the rodde of his enheritaunce.

20 (c) Thou hast ben mine hammer and weapons for warre: for with thee haue I broken the people in peeces, and with thee haue I destroyed kyngdomes. (c) Thou hast ben, this God speaketh vnto Babylon.

21 Through thee I haue beaten to powder horse and horsemen, yea the charrettes and such as sate vpon them. D

22 Through thee I haue broken man and woman, olde and young, bacheler and mayden.

23 Through thee I haue destroyed the sheepheard and his flocke, the husbandman and his cattell, the princes and the rulers.

24 Therfore wyll I rewarde the citie of Babylon, and all the inhabitauntes of Chaldea, with all the euyll which they haue done vnto Sion, yea that ye your selues shall see it, saith the Lorde.

25 Beholde I come vpon thee thou noysome (b) hyll saith the Lorde, thou that destroyest all landes, I wyll stretch out my hand ouer thee, and cast thee downe from the stony rockes, and wyll make thee a burnt hyll, (b) Babylon is called an hyll, although it stoode in a low place, and no hylles about it: for yͤ her walles & buildinges were so great and hygh as mountaynes.

26 So that neither corner stones shalbe taken any more out of thee: but waste and desolate shalt thou lye for euermore saith the Lorde.

27 Set vp a token in the lande, blowe the trumpets among the heathen, prouoke the nations agaynst her, call the kyng-domes of Ararat, Menni, and Aschanez, agaynst her, set the prince agaynst her, bring as great a sort of terrible horses agaynst her as yf they were grashoppers.

domes

28 Prepare against them the people of the Medes, with their kynges, princes, and all their chiefe rulers: yea and the whole lande that is vnder hym.

29 The lande also shall shake and be afrayde When the deuice of the Lorde shall come forth agaynst Babylon, to make the lande of Babylon so waste that no man shal dwel any more therin.

E 30 The worthyes of Babylon shall leaue the battayle and kepe them selues in strong holdes, their strength hath failed them, they shalbe lyke women, their dwellyng places shalbe burnt vp, their barres shalbe broken.

31 One pursenaunt shall meete another, yea one poste shall come by another, to bryng the kyng of Babylon tidinges that his citie is taken on euery syde, 32 The foordes occupied, the fennes burnt vp, and the souldiers sore afrayde.

33 For thus saith the Lorde of hoastes the God of Israel, (c) The daughter of Babylon hath ben in her tyme lyke as a threshyng floore, but shortly shall her harnest come.

(c) The comynaynt of gods people.

34 Nabuchodonosor the kyng of Babylon hath deuoured and destroyed me, he hath made me an emptie vessell, he swalowed me vp lyke a dragon, and fylled his belly With my delicates, he hath cast me out.

35 My substaunce wherof he hath spoyled me, and the thyng that Was left me which he hath caryed away, crye out against Babylon saith the daughter that dwelleth in Sion, yea and my blood also agaynst the Chaldees, saith Hierusalem.

36 Therfore thus saith the Lorde, Beholde I wyll defende thy cause, and auenge thee, I wyll drynke vp her sea, and drye vp her Water springes.

Esai.xiii.c. 37 *Babylon shall become an heape of stones, a dwellyng place for dragons, a fearefulnesse and Wonderyng, and no man shall dwell there.

F 38 They shall rore together lyke lions, and as the young lions When they be angry, so shall they bende them selues.

39 In their heate I shall geue them a dinner, and they shalbe dronken for ioy: *then shall they sleepe an euerlastyng sleepe, and neuer wake, saith the Lorde. Iere. ii. b.

40 I shall cary them downe to be slayne lyke sheepe, lyke Weathers and goates:

41 O howe Was Sesach wonne: O howe was the glorie of the Whole lande taken: howe happeneth it that Babylon is so wondred at among the heathen:

42 The sea is risen ouer Babylon, & hath couered her With her great waues.

43 Her cities are layde Waste, the lande lyeth vnbuilded and voyde, it is a lande where no man dwelleth, and where no man trauayleth through.

44 Moreouer, I wyll visite Bel at Babylon, & the thyng that he hath swalowed vp, that same shall I plucke out of his mouth: the gentiles also shall runne no more vnto hym, yea and the Walles of Babylon shall fall. Iere. l.a. Esai.xlvi.a. Dan xiiii.d

45 O my people, *come out of Babylon, that euery man may saue his life from the fearfull Wrath of the Lorde. Esai. lii.b. ii.Cor.vi.c.

46 Be not faynt hearted, and feare not at euery rumoure that shalbe heard in the lande: for euery yere bryngeth newe tidinges, and in the yere folowing newe tidinges, and robbyng in the lande, and lorde vpon lorde. G

47 And so the tyme commeth that I will visite the images of Babylon, and the Whole lande shalbe confounded, yea and her slayne shall lye in the middest of her.

48 Heauen and earth With all that is therin shal reioyce ouer Babylon, When the destroyers shal come vpon her from the north, saith the Lorde.

49 *Like as Babylon hath beaten downe and slayne many out of Israel, so shall there fall many, and be slayne in all her kingdome. Iere. l.c.

50 Ye that haue escaped the sworde, haste you, stande not styl, remember the Lord a farre of, and thynke vpon Hierusalem.

51 For We are ashamed to heare the blasphemies, our faces were couered With shame, because the straunge alteamtes came into the sanctuarie of the Lorde.

52 Wherfore, beholde saith the Lorde, the tyme commeth that I Wyll visite the images of Babylon, and through the Whole lande they shall mourne and fall.

53 *Though Babylon clymed vp into heauen, and kept her power on hye, yet shall I sende her destroyers saith the Lorde. Iere. xlix.d.

Lorde.
54 A piteous crye [shalbe heard] from Babylon, and a great miserie from the lande of the Chaldees:
55 When the Lorde destroyeth Babylon, & whē he driueth out the high stomacke and proude boasting, wherwith they haue ben as furious as the waues of the great water fluds, and made great crakes with their wordes:
56 For the destroyers shall come vpon her, euen vpon Babylon, which shall take their worthies, and breake their bowes: for the God of recompence, euen the Lorde shall sufficiently recompence them.
57 Yea [saith the Lorde] I wyll make their princes, their wise men, their chiefe rulers, their nobles, and their worthies drunken, so that they shall sleepe an euerlasting sleepe and neuer wake: thus saith the kyng whose name is the Lorde of hoastes.
58 Moreouer, thus saith the Lorde of hoastes, The thicke wall of Babylon shalbe broken, and her hye gates shalbe burnt vp, & the thyng that the Gentiles & the people haue wrought with great trauayle & labour, shall come to naught, and be consumed in the fire.
59 This is the charge that Ieremie the prophete gaue vnto Saraiah the sonne of Neriah, the sonne of Maasiah, when he went towarde Babylon with Zedekiah the kyng of Juda, in the fourth yere of his raigne: nowe this Saraiah was a peaceable prince.
60 Ieremie wrote in a booke al the miserie that shoulde come vpon Babylon, yea and all these sermons that be written agaynst Babylon.
61 And gaue Saraiah this charge: when thou commest vnto Babylon, see that thou reade these wordes, 62 And say, O Lord thou art determined to roote out this place, so that neither people nor cattell shall dwell there any more, but to lye waste for euer.
63 And when thou hast read out the booke, bynde a stone to it, and cast it in the middest of Euphrates, 64 And say, Euen thus shall Babylon sincke, & be thrust downe with the burthen of trouble that I wyll bryng vpon her: so that she shall neuer come vp agayne. Thus farre are the preachynges of Ieremie.

The .lij. Chapter.

1 He repeateth the takyng of Zedekiah. 4 Hierusalem is taken of the Chaldees. 10 Zedekias sonnes are kylled before his face, and his eyes put out. 13 The citie is burned. 14 The temple is spoyled and robbed. 25 They that were left in Hierusalem are caryed to Babylon. 31 Kyng Iehoakim is brought foorth of prison, and fed like a kyng.

1 ZEdekiah was* one and twentie yeres olde whē he was made kyng, and raigned eleuen yeres in Hierusalē: his mothers name was Hamutal, Ieremies daughter of Lbna.
2 He liued wickedly before the Lorde, euen as Iehoakim did:
3 For the Lorde was angry at Hierusalem and Juda, so long tyll he had cast them out of his presence: and Zedekiah fell from the kyng of Babylon.
4 *But in the ninth yere of his raigne, in the tenth moneth, the tenth day of the moneth, it happened that Nabuchodonozor the kyng of Babylon, with all his hoast, came before Hierusalem, and besieged it, and made bulwarkes rounde about it.
5 And this besiegyng of the citie endured vnto the eleuenth yere of kyng Zedekiah.
6 *And in the fourth moneth, the ninth day of the moneth, there was a great hunger in the citie, that there were no more victuals for the people of the lande. 4.Reg.25.a. Iere.27.b. and.39.a.
7 So all the souldiers brake away, and fled out of the citie by night through the way of the port, betweene the two walles by the kynges garden: (Nowe the Chaldees had compassed the citie rounde about) yet went these men their way through the wildernesse.
8 And so the Chaldees folowed vpon them, and toke Zedekiah the kyng in the fielde of Jericho, when his hoast was runne from hym.
9 So they caryed the kyng away prisoner to Reblath, vnto the kyng of Babylon in the lande of Hemath, *where Iere.39.b.

he he gaue iudgement vpon hym.

B 10 The kyng of Babylon also caused Zedekias sonnes to be slayne before his face, yea and put all the princes of Juda to death at Reblath.

11 Moreouer, he put out the eyes of Zedekiah, & caused hym to be bounde with two chaynes, to be caryed vnto Babylon, and let him lye in prison tyl he dyed.

12 Nowe the tenth day of the fifth moneth, in the nineteenth yere of Nabuchodonozor kyng of Babylon, Nabuzaradan the chiefe captayne, and the kyng of Babylons seruauntes came vnto Hierusalem, 13 And burnt vp the house of the Lorde: he burnt vp also the kynges palace, all the houses, and all the gorgeous buildinges in Hierusalem.

14 And the whole hoast of the Chaldees that were with the chiefe captayne, brake downe all the walles of Hierusalem rounde about.

15 As for the poore people, and such folke as was yet left in the citie, which also were fallen to the kyng of Babylon, yea and what people as yet remayned, Nabuzaradan the chiefe captayne caryed them away prisoners.

16 But the poore people of the countrey did Nabuzaradan the chiefe captayne C leaue in the lande, to occupie the vineyardes and fieldes.

17 The Chaldees also brake the brasen pyllers that were in the house of the Lord, yea the seate and the brasen lauer that was in the house of the Lorde, and caryed all the mettall of them vnto Babylon.

18 They toke away also the chalderns, shouels, fleshhokes, sprinklers, spoones, and all the brasen vessels that was occupied in the seruice.

19 With the basons, cole pannes, sprinklers, pottes, candlesticks, spoones, and cuppes, wherof some were of golde, and some of siluer.

20 The chiefe captayne toke also the two pillers, the lauer, the twelue brasen bullockes that stoode vnder the seat* Which kyng Solomon made in the house of the Lorde: and all the vessels conteyned so much mettal that it might not be waied. *3.Reg.7.d.

21 For euery piller was eyghteene cubites hye, and the rope that went about it was twelue cubites and foure fingers thicke, and rounde.

22 Nowe vpon the rope were brasen knoppes, and euery knoppe was fiue cubites hye, and vpon the knoppes were hoopes, and pomgranates round about of cleane brasse.

23 After this maner were both the pillers fashioned with ỹ pomgranates, wherof there were an hundred ninetie and sixe, which hanged vpon the hoopes rounde about.

24 The chiefe captayne also toke Saraiah the hye priest, and Sophoniah that was chiefe next hym, & the three kepers of the doore:

25 He toke out of the citie a chaumberlaine which was captaine of the souldiers, and seuen men that were the kinges seruauntes, which were founde in the citie: and Sopher a captaine that vsed to muster the men of warre, with threescore men of the countrey that were taken in the citie:

26 These Nabuzaradan the chiefe captaine toke, and caryed them to the king of Babylon vnto Reblath: D

27 And the kyng of Babylon caused them to be put to death at Reblath in the lande of Hemath: And thus Juda was ledde away captiue out of his owne lande.

28 This is the summe of the people whom Nabuchodonozor led away captiue: in the seuenth yere of his raigne he caryed away of the Jewes three thousande twentie and three,

29 In the eyghteenth yere Nabuchodonozor caryed away from Hierusalem eyght hundred thirtie and two persons, 30 In the three and twentie yere of Nabuchodonozor, Nabuzaradan the chiefe captayne toke away seuen hundred fourtie and fiue Jewes, prisoners. The whole summe of the prisoners is foure thousande and sixe hundred.

31 In the thirtie and seuenth yere after that Jehoakim the kyng of Juda was caryed away, in the fiue and twentith day of the twelft moneth, Euilmerodach kyng of Babylon (the same yere that he raigned) gaue Jehoakim the kyng of Juda his pardon, and let hym out of prison, 32 And spake louyngly to hym, and set his throne aboue the thrones of the other kynges that were with hym in Babylon.

33 He chaunged also the clothes of his prison, prison, yea and did eate with hym all his life long.

34 And he had a continuall lyuyng geuen hym of the kyng of Babylon, euery day a certayne thyng alowed hym, all the dayes of his life, vntyll he dyed.

The ende of the booke of the prophete Ieremie.

¶ The lamentations of the prophete Ieremie.

The first Chapter.

1 It happened after Israel was brought into captiuitie and Hierusalem destroyed, that Ieremie the prophete sate weepyng, and sorowfully bewayled Hierusalem, and sighyng and howlyng with an heauy and wofull heart, sayde,

ALas] howe sitteth the citie so desolate, that sometime was full of people: howe is she become lyke a widow? which was great among nations: howe is she brought vnder tribute that ruled landes:

2 She weepeth sore in the nyght, so that the teares runne downe her cheekes: for among all her louers there is none that geueth her any comfort, *yea her next frendes transgresse agaynst her, and are become her enemies.

3 Juda went away by reason of the affliction and great bondage: she dwelleth among the heathen, she findeth no rest, all they that persecuted her, toke her in strayte places [where she coulde not escape.]

4 The streetes of Sion mourne, because no man cõmeth no more to the solempne feastes: all her gates are desolate, her preestes make lamentatiõ, her maydens are carefull, and she her selfe is in great heauinesse.

5 Her enemies haue ben rulers ouer her, and her enemies haue prospered, because the Lorde hath chastened her for her great wickednesse: *her children are led away captiue before their enemies.

6 All the beautie of the daughter of Sion is away, her princes are become lyke harts that fynde no pasture, they are driuen away before their enemie, so that they haue no more power.

7 Nowe Hierusalem remembred in the tyme of her miserie and bare estate all her ioy & pleasure that she hath had in tymes past, seyng her people is brought downe vnder the power of their enemies, and there is no man for to helpe her: her enemies stande lokyng at her, and laugh her Sabbath daies to scorne. 25

8 Hierusalem hath sinned greeuously, therfore is she come in decay: all they that had her in honour dispise her, for they haue seene her filthinesse, yea she sigheth and " is ashamed of her selfe.

" Or, and is turned backwarde.

9 Her skirtes are defiled, she remembred not her last ende, therfore is her fall so wonderfull, and there is no man to comfort her: O Lorde consider my trouble, for myne enemie hath the vpper hande.

10 The enemie hath put his hande to all the precious thinges that she had, yea euen before her eyes came the heathen in and out of the sanctuarie, *whom thou [neuertheless] hast forbidden to come within thy congregation. Deut. 23.c.

11 *All her people seeke their bread with heauinesse, and loke what precious thyng euery man hath, that geueth he for meate to saue his lyfe: Consider O Lorde, and see howe vile I am become. 4.Reg.6.c. Treno.1.c.

12 Haue ye no regarde all ye that go forebye, beholde & see yf there be any sorowe lyke vnto mine, wherwith the Lorde hath troubled me in the day of his fearefull wrath.

13 From aboue hath he sent downe a fire into my bones, and it burneth them cruelly: he hath layde a net for my feete, and throwen me wyde open, he hath made made me desolate, so that I must euer be mournyng.

14 The (a) yoke of my transgressions is bounde fast to his hande, they are wrapped [or writhen] and come vp about my necke: he hath caused my strength to fayle, the Lorde hath deliuered me into those handes wherout I can not quyte my selfe.

15 The Lorde hath destroyed all the mightie men that were in me, he hath proclaymed an appoynted tyme to slaughter all my best men: the Lorde hath troden downe the daughter of Juda, lyke as it were in a winepresse.

16 *Therfore do I weepe, and mine eyes gushe out of water: for the comfort that shoulde quicken me is farre fro me, my children are driuen away: for why? the enemie hath gotten the vpper hande.

17 Sion casteth out her handes, and there is no man to comfort her, the Lorde hath layde the enemies rounde about Jacob, and Hierusalem is become abhominatio in the middest of them.

18 *The Lorde is righteous, for I haue prouoked his countenaunce vnto anger, O take heede all ye people and consider my heauinesse, my maydens and my young men are led away into captiuitie.

19 I called for my louers, but they beguiled me, for my priestes and counsaylers, but they perished, euen whyle they sought for meate to saue their lyues.

20 *Consider (O Lorde) howe I am troubled, my wombe is disquieted, my heart turneth about in me, and I am full of heauinesse, because I rebelled stubburnly: the swoorde hurteth me without, and within I am lyke vnto death.

21 They heare my mournyng, but there is none that wyll comfort me: All myne enemies haue hearde of my trouble, and are glad therof because thou hast done it: and thou hast brought foorth the time which thou calledst, when they also shal be lyke vnto me.

22 Let all their wickednesse come before thee, and do thou to them as thou hast done vnto me for all my trespasses: for my sorowe is very great, and my heart is heauy.

(a) The bondage through sinne is most greeuous, which therfore is called the yoke of sinnes, fastened in or to Gods hande, because by no meanes it can be shaken of or remoued, but only of Gods speciall grace and mercie.

The .ij. Chapter.

1 Alas] *howe hath the Lorde darckened the daughter of Sion in his wrath: As for the honour of Israel he hath cast it downe frō heauen vnto the earth, and he remembred not his owne (a) foote stole when he was angry:

(a) By the footstole is meant the temple of Hierusalem.

2 The Lorde hath cast out all the habitations of Jacob without any fauour, all the strong places of the daughter of Juda hath he broken in his wrath, and throwen them downe to the grounde, her kingdome and her princes hath he prophaned.

3 In the wrath of his indignation he hath broken all the (b) horne of Israel, he hath withdrawen his right hande from the enemie, yea a flambe of fire is kindled in Jacob, and hath consumed vp all rounde about.

(b) The horne, that is, the power or strength.

4 He hath bent his bowe like an enemie, he hath fastened his ryght hande as an aduersarie, and euery thyng that was pleasaunt to see, he hath slayne: he hath powred out his wrath like a fire, into the tabernacle of the daughter of Sion.

5 The Lorde is become like as it were an enemie, he hath deuoured Israel and all his palaces, yea all his strong holdes hath he destroyed, and fylled the daughter of Juda with much sorowe and heauinesse.

6 *His tabernacle as a garden hath he destroyed, his solempne meetinges hath he put downe: the Lord hath brought it so to passe that the hye solempne feastes and Sabbathes in Sion are cleane forgotten: in his heauy displeasure hath he dispised the kyng and priestes. Iere. viii.

7 The Lorde hath forsaken his owne aulter, and hath abhorred his owne sanctuarie, and hath geuen the walles of their towres into the handes of the enemie: their enemies made a noyse in the house of the Lorde, as it had ben in a solempne feast day.

8 The Lorde thought to breake downe the walles of the daughter of Sion, he spread out his line, and drewe not in his hande tyll he had destroyed them: therfore mourne the turrettes, & the broken walles fall downe together.

9 Her gates are suncke downe to the grounde, her barres are broken and smitten smitten in sunder, * the kyng and princes are caryed away to the gentiles:

they haue neither lawe nor prophetes, nor yet any vision from the Lorde.
10 The senatours of the daughter Sion sit vpon the grounde in silence, they haue strawed asshes vpon their heads, and gyrded them selues with sackcloth:
the maydens of Hierusalem hang downe their heades to the grounde.
11 Mine eyes begin to fayle me through weeping, * my body is disquieted, my liuer is powred vpon the earth for the great hurt of the daughter of my people, seeing the chyldren and babes dyd swowne in the streetes of the citie.
12 Euen when they spake to their mothers, where is meate and drinke: for whyle they so sayde, they fell downe in the streetes of the citie, like as they had ben wounded, and some dyed in their mothers bosome.
13 What shall I say vnto thee, O thou daughter Hierusalem: to whom shal I liken thee: To whom shall I compare thee O thou daughter Sion, to comfort thee withall: thy heart is lyke a mayne sea, who may heale thee:
14 * Thy (a) prophetes haue looke dout bayne and foolish thinges for thee, they haue not shewed thee of thy wickednesse, to kepe thee from captiuitie: but they haue seene out for thee burthens of vanitie and banishment.
15 All they that go by thee, clappe their handes at thee, hissing and wagging their heades vpon the daughter Hieru-salem [and say] Is this the citie that men call so faire, wherein the whole lande reioyceth:
16 All thyne enemies gape vpon thee, whispering and grinding their teeth, saying: let vs deuour, for the tyme that we looked for is come, we haue founde and seene it.
17 The Lorde hath fulfilled the thing that he was purposed to do, and per-fourmed that he had deuised long ago:
he hath destroyed and not spared, he hath caused thyne aduersarie to triumph ouer thee, and set vp the horne of thyne enemie.
18 * Their heart cryed vnto the Lorde, Deut.iiii.c.
O thou citie of the daughter Sion: let thy teares runne downe like a riuer day and night, rest not, and let not the apple of thyne eye leaue of.
19 Stand vp, and make thy prayer in the first watche of the night, powre out thine heart like water before the Lord:
lift vp thyne handes for the liues of thy young chyldren that dye of hunger in the streetes.
20 Beholde O Lorde, and consider to D whom thou hast done thus: Shall the women then eate their owne fruite, euen chyldren of a spanne long: shall the priestes and prophetes be slayne in the sanctuarie of the Lorde:
21 Young and olde lye thorowe the streetes vpon the grounde, my may-dens and young men are slayne with the sworde, whom thou in the day of thy wrathfull indignation hast put to death, yea euen thou hast put them to death, and not spared them.
22 My neighbours that are rounde about me hast thou called as it were to a feast day, so that in the day of the lordes wrath none escaped, neither was any left behinde: those that I haue brought vp and nourished, hath myne enemie destroyed.

The. iij. Chapter.

A 1 I Am the man that thorowe the rodde of his wrath haue experience of miserie.
2 He droue me foorth and led me, yea into darknesse, but not into light.
3 Against me is he turned, he turneth his hande dayly against me.
4 My flesh and my skinne hath he made olde, and my bones hath he bruised.
5 He hath buylded rounde about me, and closed me in with gall and trauaile.
6 He hath set me in darknesse, as they that be dead for euer.
7 He hath so hedged me in, that I can not get out, and hath layde heauie linkes vpon me.
8 Though I crye and call pitiously, yet heareth he not my prayer.

9 He hath stopped vp my Wayes With foure squared stones, and made my pathes crooked.
10 He layeth Wayte for me lyke a beare, and as a lion in a hole.
11 He hath marred my Wayes, and broken me in peeces, he hath layde me waste altogether.
12 He hath bent his bowe, and made me as it were a marke to shoote at.
13 The arrowes of his quiuer hath he shot, euen into my reynes.
Iere.xx.b. 14 *I am laughed to scorne of all my people, they make songues vpon me all the ℭ day long.
15 He hath filled me With bitternesse, and geuen me Wormewood to drinke.
16 He hath smitten my teeth in peeces With stones, and roulled me in the dust.
17 He hath put my soule out of rest, I forget all good thinges.
18 I thought in my selfe, I am vndone, there is no hope for me in the Lorde.
19 O remember yet my miserie and my trouble, the Wormewood and the gall.
20 Yea thou shalt remember them, for my soule melteth away in me.
21 Whyle I consider these thinges in my heart, I get a hope agayne.
22 [Namely] it is of the Lordes mercies that We are not vtterly consumed, for truely his pitifull compassion hath not ceassed.
23 Newe mercyes shall the Lord shewe ℵ vpon thee early in the day springing, (O Lorde) great is thy faythfulnesse.
Psal.xvi.a. 24 *The Lorde is my portion saith my soule therefore Wyll I hope in hym.
25 O howe good is the Lord vnto them that put their trust in hym, and to the soule that seeketh after hym.
26 The good man With stilnesse and patience, taryeth for the health of the Lorde.
27 O howe good is it for a man to take the yoke vpon him from his youth vp:
28 He sitteth alone, he holdeth hym styll, because he hath taken [the Lordes yoke] vpon hym.
29 He layeth his face vpon the earth, if there happen to be any hope.
30 He offreth his cheeke to the smyter, he Wyll be content With reproffes:
31 For the Lord Wil not forsake for euer.
i.Reg.iii.b. 32 *But though he punishe, yet according to the multitude of his mercies he receaueth to grace agayne.
33 For he doth not plague willingly, and afflict the chyldren of men, 34 To treade all the prysoners of the earth vnder his feete, ℭ
35 To moue the iudgement of man before the most highest,
36 To condemne a man in his cause: the Lord hath not pleasure in such thinges.
37 What is he then that saith, there should some thing be done Without the Lordes commaundement:
38 Out of the mouth of the most highest goeth not euyll and good:
39 Wherefore then murmureth the liuing man: let hym murmure at his owne sinne.
40 *Let vs looke Well vpon our Wayes, Iob.xxxiid. Psal.xxxiii.a. and remember our selues, and turne agayne to the Lorde.
41 Let vs lift our heartes With our handes vnto the Lorde that is in heauen.
42 We haue ben dissemblers and haue offended, Wylt thou therefore not be intreated:
43 Thou hast couered vs in thy Wrath, and persecuted vs: thou hast slayne vs Without any fauour.
44 *Thou hast hid thy selfe in a cloude, Ecc.xxxv.d. that our prayer should not go through.
45 Thou hast made vs outcastes, and to be despised among the people.
46 All our enemies gape vpon vs.
47 Feare and pit is come vpon vs, yea deceipt and destruction.
48 *Whole riuers of Water gushe out of Trenoi.d. mine eyes for the hurt of my people:
49 Myne eyes runne and cannot ceasse, ℵ for there is no rest:
50 O Lorde, When Wylt thou looke downe from heauen and consider:
51 Mine eyes breaketh my heart, because of all the daughters of my citie.
52 Mine enemies hunted me out sharply like a byrde, yea ℵ that Without a cause.
53 They haue put downe my life into a pit, and they haue cast stones vpon me.
54 They haue powred Water vpon my head: then thought I, nowe am I vndone.
55 I called vpon thy name O Lorde out of the deepe pit.
56 Thou hast heard my voyce, and hast not turned away thyne eares from my sighing and crying.
57 Thou hast inclyned thy selfe vnto me When I called vpon thee: and hast said, feare not.

58 Thou

58 Thou (O Lorde) hast mayntayned the cause of my soule, and hast redeemed my lyfe.
59 O Lorde, thou hast seene my wrong, take thou my cause vpon thee.
60 Thou hast well considered howe they go about to do me harme, and that all their counsels are against me.
61 Thou hast hearde their despitefull wordes O Lorde, yea and all the imaginations against me:
62 The lippes of mine enemies, and their deuises that they take against me al the day long.
63 Thou seest also their sitting downe and their rising vp, they make their songes of nothing but of me.
64 Rewarde them, O Lorde, according to the workes of their handes.
65 Geue them an obstinate heart, euen thy curse.
66 Persecute them O Lorde with thyne indignation, and roote them out from vnder the heauen.

¶ The. iiij. Chapter.

A 1 HOwe is the golde become so dimme: howe is the most fine golde so sore chaunged: and the stones of the sanctuarie thus scattered in the corner of euery streete:
2 The chyldren of Sion that were alway in honour, and clothed with the most precious golde: howe are they nowe become lyke the earthen vessels, whiche be made with the potters handes:
3 The dragons geue their young ones sucke with bare brestes: but the daughter of my people is cruel, like the Estriches in the wildernesse.
4 The tongues of the sucking chyldren cleaue to the roofe of their mouthes for very thyrst: the young chyldren aske bread, but there is no man that geueth it them.
5 They that were wont to fare delicately perishe in the streetes: they that afore were brought vp in purple, make nowe muche of dounge.
6 The sinne of the daughter of my people, is become greater then the (a) Wickednesse of Sodome, that sodaynely was destroyed, and not taken with handes.
7 Her "abstayners were whyter then the snowe or milke, their colour was freshe, red as corall, their beautie like the Saphire.
8 But nowe their faces be very blacke, insomuche that thou shouldest not knowe them in the streetes: * their skinne cleaueth to their bones, it is withered and become like a drye stocke.
9 They that be slayne with the sworde, are happier then such as dye of hunger, and perishe away famishing for the fruites of the fielde.
B 10 *The women (whiche of nature are pitifull) haue sodden their owne chyldren with their hands, that they might be their meate in the miserable destruction of the daughter of my people. Deut.28.e. iiii.Reg.vi.f
11 *The Lorde hath perfourmed his heauie wrath, he hath powred out the furiousnesse of his displeasure: he hath kindeled a fire in Sion, which hath consumed the foundations therof.
12 Neither the kynges of the earth, nor all the inhabitours of the world, would haue beleued that the enemie and aduersarie shoulde haue come in at the gates of the citie of Hierusalem. Treno.ii.a
13 Whiche neuertheles is come to passe for the sinne of her prophetes, and for the wickednesse of her priestes, that haue shed *innocents blood within her.
14 As blinde men went, they stumbling in the streetes, and stayned them selues with blood, insomuch that the heathen woulde in no wyse touche their garmentes. Gene.ix.a
C 15 But they cryed vnto them, flee ye polluted, away, get you hence, touche not: for they are vncleane and be remoued, yea they haue said among the heathen, they shall no more dwell in this citie.
16 The countenaunce of the Lorde hath banished them, and shall neuer looke more vpon them: for they them selues neither regarded the priestes, nor pitied their elders.
17 Wherefore yet our eyes fayled vs, whyles we looked for our vayne helpe, seeing we euer wayted vpon a people that coulde do vs no good.

(a) The greatnesse of the punishments shewed to them thereto to exercise the sinnes of the Sodomites. The Sodomites were so horrible consumed with fire, but the Iewes were miraculously tormented with hunger, pestilence, and the sworde, in seruing and crucifying. * Or, Nazarees. Psal.cxix.a.

Gene. ii.b. (a) The breath, that is, the lyfe, meaning the kyng, who is called the lyfe of the people, for that the people are like an headleſſe body that hath no lyfe in it, when they be left without a kyng or gouernour.

¶ The ende of the lamentations of Ieremie.

The first Chapter.

1 The time wherein Ezechiel prophecied, and in what place. 3 His kinred. 5 The vision of the foure beastes. 16 The fashion and worke of the wheeles. 26 The vision of the throne.

A 1 IT came to passe in the (a) thirtith yere in the fourth [moneth] in the fifth day of the moneth, that (I beyng in the middes of the captiuitie, by the riuer Chebar) the heauens were opened, and I sawe visions of God:

2 In the fifth [day] of the moneth, Which was the fifth yere of kyng Joakins captiuitie,

3 The worde of the Lorde came to Ezechiel the priest the sonne of Buzi, in the lande of the Chaldeans by the riuer Chebar, *where the (b) hand of the Lord was vpon hym.

4 And I looked, and beholde a (c) stormie wind came out of the north, a great cloude, and a fire folding it selfe [in the cloude] and a brightnes rounde about it, and fourth of the middes therof as the colour of amber out of the middes of the fire.

5 And out of the middes therof, the likenesse of foure (d) beastes [appeared] and this was their fourme, they had the likenesse of a man.

6 And euery one had foure faces, and euery one of them had foure wynges.

7 Their feete were straight feete, and the sole of their feete lyke the sole of calues feete, and they glistered as the appearaunce of brasse burnished.

8 From vnder their wynges vpon all the foure corners they had mens handes: and they foure had their faces and their wynges.

9 Their wynges were ioyned one to another: when they went they looked not backe, but eche one went straight forwarde. B

10 But [touching] the similitude of their faces, they foure had the (e) face of a man and the face of a lion on the right side, and they foure had the face of an oxe on the left side, the foure also had the face of an Egle.

11 Thus were their faces, and their wynges were spread out aboue, so that two wynges of euery one were ioyned one to another, and two wynges couered euery one of their bodyes.

12 Euery one went straight forward: (f) whyther as the spirite led them, thither they went, & returned not in their going.

13 And the fashion of the beastes, their appearaunce was lyke coales of fire, burning like the appearaunce of torches, it ran among the beastes, and the fire gaue a glister, and out of the fire there went lightening.

14 And the beastes raane, and returned like lightening.

15 When I had considered the beastes, beholde a wheele vpon the earth nye to the beastes, to euery of the foure before his face.

16 The fashion & worke of the wheeles was lyke the colour of (g) Tharsis, and

(a) After the captiuitie in Babylon were the bookes of the Iewes reckened, wherby they kept the yeres of Iosias captiuitie, and other things were done.

(b) Lord.

(c) Euery Cherub had foure faces, the face of a man and of a lion on the right side, and the face of a bullocke and of an Egle on the left side.

(d) Which were the foure Cherubins the supporters of the throne of God, as Gen. iii. b.

(e) Whyther their wyll or minde was to go.

(f) That is a precious stone of a goodly colour, thought to be the Thurkis.

they foure had one fashion, and their fashion & their worke [was] as though it were a wheele in ỹ middle of a wheele.

17 When they went, they went vpon their foure sides: they returned not backe when they went.

(h) The vtter compasse of the wheeles, whiche some call strakes.

18 They had (h) ringes, and heyght, and were feareful to beholde: & their ringes were full of eyes rounde about them foure.

19 When the beastes went, the wheeles went also by them: and when the beastes were lift vp from the earth, the wheeles were lyft vp.

20 Whyther soeuer the spirite [was] to go, they went, and thyther [was] the spirite to go, and the wheeles were lyft vp before them: for the spirite of the beastes were in the wheeles.

21 When the beastes went, they went, & when they stoode, they stoode, and when they were lifted vp from the earth, the wheeles were lifted vp before thē, for ỹ spirite of ỹ beastes was in the wheeles.

22 And the similitude of the firmament vpon the heades of the beastes, was like the colour of christall wonderfull, spread ouer their heades aboue.

(i) He noteth two maner of couerynges, the one with wynges, stretched vpwarde to couer their faces, and the other with the nether wynges to couer their bodyes.

23 And vnder the firmament their wynges were stretcht foorth one towardes another, euery one had two couering them, and (i) euery one had two couering them, [euen] their bodyes.

24 And when they went, I heard the noyse of their wynges, lyke the noyse of great waters, as it had ben the voyce of the almightie, the voyce of speache, as the noyse of an hoast: when they stoode, they let downe their winges.

25 And there was a noyse from aboue the firmament that was ouer their heades: when they stoode, they let downe their wynges.

26 And aboue the firmament that was ouer their heades, there was the fashion of a throne lyke a Saphir stone: and vpon the similitude of the throne by appearaunce, as the similitude of a man aboue vpon it.

27 And I sawe as the appearaunce of amber [and] as the similitude of fire rounde about within, from the appearaunce of his loynes vpward: and from the appearaunce of his loynes downeward I sawe as the lykenesse of fire, and brightnesse rounde about it. €

28 As the likenesse of a bowe that is in a cloude in a raynie day, so was the appearaunce of the brightnesse rounde about: this was the appearaunce of the similitude of the glory of God, & when I sawe it, I (k) fell vpon my face and hearkened vnto the voyce of one (l) that spake.

(k) Considering the maiestie of God, & the weakenesse of flesh.

(l) That is, the Lorde.

¶ The. ij. Chapter.

The prophete is sent to call the people from their errour.

A 1 AND then said he vnto me, Stande vp vpon thy fete (O thou sonne of man) and I will talke with thee.

2 And the spirite entred into me When he had spoken vnto me, & set me vpon my feete, so that I heard him that spake vnto me.

3 And he sayde vnto me, Thou sonne of man, I sende thee to the children of Israel, to a rebellious people which haue rebelled against me, both they and their forefathers haue wickedly behaued them selues against me, euen vnto this very day.

"Or, impudent.

4 For they are children of a "harde face and stiffe heart, I do sende thee vnto them, and thou shalt say vnto them, Thus saith the Lorde God.

5 And whether they will heare or refuse (for they are a rebellious house) yet they may knowe that there hath ben a prophete among them.

6 And thou sonne of man feare them not, neither be afraide of their wordes, for "byers and thornes are with thee, and thou doest dwell among scorpions: feare not their wordes, nor be abashed at their lookes, for they are a rebellious house.

"Or, rebelles.

B 7 And thou shalt speake my wordes vnto them, whether they will heare or refuse, for they are rebellious.

8 Therefore thou sonne of man, obay thou all thinges that I say vnto thee, and be not thou rebellious lyke the rebellious house: open thy mouth, and (a) eate that I geue thee.

(a) That is, print in thy memorie, & receaue in thine heart all my wordes, as Ezec. iij. b.

9 And when I looked, beholde a hand was sent vnto me, and lo, in it was a roule of a booke.

11 And he opened it before me, and it was written within and without, and there was written therein, (b) lamentations, and mourning, and wo.

(b) That is Gods iudgements against the wicked.

¶ The

The. iii. Chapter.

1 The prophete beyng fed with the worde of God, and with the constant boldnesse of the spirite, is sent vnto the people that were in captiuitie. 17 The office of true preachers.

A 1 After this said he vnto me: Thou sonne of man, eate whatsoeuer thou findest, eate this roule, and go thy way and speake vnto the house of Israel.

2 So I opened my mouth, and he fed me with this roule.

3 And he saide vnto me, Thou sonne of man, thy belly shall eate, and thy bowels shalt thou fill with this roule that I geue thee: Then dyd I eate, and it was in my mouth *sweeter then honie. *Reuel.x.b.

4 And he saide vnto me, Thou sonne of man, go, get thee vnto the house of Israel, and declare my wordes vnto them.

5 For not to a people of "profounde lippes and harde language art thou sent, but vnto the house of Israel: "Strange speache.

6 Not to many nations whiche haue profounde lippes and harde languages, whose wordes thou vnderstandest not: otherwise if I had sent thee vnto them, they would haue hearkened vnto thee.

B 7 But the house of Israel will not hearken vnto thee, for they will not hearken vnto me: for al the house of Israel haue stiffe foreheades, & stubburne heartes.

8 Beholde therefore, I haue made thy face strong against their faces, & thy forehead strong against their foreheades.

9 As an Adamant, harder then the flint stone haue I made thy forehead: thou shalt not feare them, nor be abashed at their lookes: for they are a rebellious house.

10 He sayde moreouer vnto me, Thou sonne of man, all my wordes that I shall speake vnto thee, receaue in thyne heart, and hearken with thyne eares.

11 And go, get thee to the captiuitie, to the children of thy people, and thou shalt speake vnto them, and shalt say vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God, whether they will heare, or leaue.

12 With that the spirite tooke me vp, and I hearde behinde me a voyce of a great rushing [to wit] Blessed be the glory of Iehouah from his place.

13 [I hearde] also the noyse of the winges of the beastes ioyning one with another, and the rattling of the wheeles that were before them, euen a noyse of great rushing.

14 Nowe when the spirite lift me vp and tooke me away, I went in bitternesse and furie of my spirite: but the hande of the Lorde vpon me was strong. C

15 Then I came to the captiues in Thelabib that dwelt by the riuer Chebar, and I sate where they sate, and I remayned there seuen dayes, astonished among them.

16 And when the seuen dayes were expired, the Lorde saide vnto me, 17 Thou sonne of man, I haue made thee a *watchman vnto the house of Israel: therefore thou shalt heare the worde at my mouth, and geue them warning from me. Ezech.33.b.

18 When I shall say vnto the wicked, Thou shalt surely dye, and thou geuest not him warning, nor speakest to admonishe the wicked of his euill way, and so to liue: then shal the same vngodly man dye in his owne vnrighteousnesse, but his blood wyl I require of thyne hand.

19 Neuertheless, if thou geue warning vnto the wicked, and he yet turne not from his vngodlynesse and from his wicked way: he shall dye in his owne wickednesse, but thou hast deliuered thy soule.

20 Nowe if a righteous man go from his righteousnesse and do the thing that is euyll I wyll lay a stumbling blocke before him: and he shall dye, because thou hast not geuen him warning, dye shall he in his owne sinne, so that his righteousnesse whiche he hath done, shall not be thought vpon: but his blood will I require at thyne hande. D

21 Neuertheless, if thou exhortest that righteous that he sinne not, and so the righteous do not sinne: then shall he liue, because he hath receaued thy warning, and thou hast deliuered thy soule.

22 And there came the hand of the Lord vpon me, and he sayd vnto me: Stande vp, and go into the fielde, that I may there talke with thee.

23 So when I had risen vp, and gone foorth into the fielde: beholde, the [a] glorie of the Lord stoode there, like the glorie which I sawe by the riuer Chebar: then fell I downe vpon my face. (a) Meaning the vision of the Cherubims and the wheeles.

24 And the spirite came into me, whiche set me vp vpon my feete, and spake vnto me, and said vnto me: Go thy way, and shut thy selfe in thyne house.

25 Beholde O thou sonne of man, they haue prepared bandes against thee, and they wyll binde thee with them, and thou shalt not go out among them.

(b) It is a great plague of God toward the people, when he causeth the ministers to cease preaching & rebuking of sinne.

26 And I will make thy tongue (b) cleaue to the roofe of thy mouth, that thou shalt be dumbe, and not be as a reprouer vnto them: for they are a rebellious house.

27 But when I speake vnto thee, I wyl open my mouth, and thou shalt say vnto them, Thus saith the Lorde God: whoso heareth, let hym heare, whoso leaueth of, let him leaue: for they are a rebellious house.

¶ The. iiij. Chapter.

1 The siege of the citie of Hierusalem is signified. 9 The long continuaunce of the captiuitie of Israel. 16 Hunger is prophesied to come in the captiuitie.

A 1 Thou sonne of man, take thee a tyle stone and lay it before thee, and purtray vpon it the citie Hierusalem,

2 And lay siege against it, and builde a fort against it, and cast a mount against it: set the campe also against it, and lay engins of warre against it rounde about.

3 Moreouer, take an iron panne, and set it betwixt thee and the citie in steede of an iron wall, then set thy face towarde it to besiege it, and make an assault against it: this shalbe a token vnto the house of Israel.

(a) Hereby he represented the idolatrie & sinne of the ten tribes (for Samaria was on his left hande from Babylon) and howe they had remayned therein three hundred and nineteene yeres.

4 But thou shalt sleepe vpon thy left side, and lay the sinne (a) of the house of Israel vpon it [according] to the number of the dayes that thou shalt sleepe vpon it, thou shalt beare their iniquitie.

5 For I haue layde vpon thee the yeres of their iniquitie according to the number of the dayes [euen] three hundred and nynetie " dayes, so shalt thou beare the iniquitie of the house of Israel.

" Vnderstande, shall they be.

6 When thou hast fulfilled these dayes, lye downe agayne and sleepe vpon thy (b) right side, and beare the sinnes of the house of Juda: fourtie dayes haue I appointed thee, (c) a day for a yere [euen] a day for a yere.

(b) which declared Josuah, who had nowe from the time of Josuah slept in their sinnes fourtie yeres.

(c) That is, for euery yere they haue sinned, to sleepe one day.

7 Therfore set nowe thy face towarde the siege of Hierusalem, and discouer thine arme, that thou mayest prophecie against it.

8 Behold, I will lay chaines vpon thee, that thou shalt not turne thee from one side to another, till thou hast ended the dayes of thy besieging.

9 Wherfore take vnto thee wheate, barlye, beanes, lintils, millet, and fetches, and put these together in a vessell, and make thee loaues of bread thereof, according to the number of the dayes that thou must lye vpon thy side, that thou mayest haue bread to eate for three hundred and ninetie dayes.

10 And thy meate that thou eatest shall haue a certaine wayght appointed, [namely] twentie sicles euery day: & from time to time shalt thou eate therof.

11 Thou shalt drinke also a certaine measure of water [namely] the sixt [part] of an *Hin from tyme to tyme shalt thou drinke. * Exo.xxix.

12 Barly cakes shalt thou eate, and them shalt thou bake in (d) mans doung before their eyes.

(d) Signifying herby the great scarcitie of fuel and matter to burne.

13 And with that sayde the Lord, Euen thus shall the chyldren of Israel eate their defiled bread among the gentiles whyther I wyll cast them.

14 Then sayde I, Oh Lorde God: beholde, my soule was yet neuer stayned, for fro my youth vp vnto this houre, I did neuer eate of a dead carkase, or of that whiche was slayne of wylde beastes, neither came there euer any vncleane flesh in my mouth. ℭ

15 Whervnto he aunswered me: Lo, I wyll graunt thee (e) cowdasins in steede of mans doung, and thou shalt make thy bread with them.

(e) Cowdasins are to bake thy bread with (g) That is, the dryre and strength wher with it should nourishe.

16 And he saide vnto me, Beholde thou sonne of man, I wyll breake the (f) staffe of bread in Hierusalem, and they shall eate their bread with waight and with care, and their water in measure and astonishment shall they drinke, Esai.iii.d. Ezech.v.c. and.xiiii.b.

17 That they may cause a lacke of bread and water, and be astonied one at another, and be consumed in their iniquitie.

The

The.v.Chapter.

1 The signe of the heeres, by which is signified the destruction of the people. 6 The causes of the anger of God towarde the people.

A 1 Thou sonne of man, take thee then a sharpe knife[namely]a barbers rasour, take that to thee, and cause it to (a) passe vpon thy head and vpon thy beard: then take thee waight scales and deuide [the heere.]

2 Thou shalt burne with fire the thirde part in the middest of the (b) citie when the dayes of the siege are fulfylled, and thou shalt take the other thirde part and smite about it with a knife, and the last thirde part thou shalt scatter in the wynde,and I wyll drawe out a swoorde after them.

3 Thou shalt also take therof a fewe in number,and bynde them in thy lappe.

4 Of them yet shalt thou take, and cast them into the middest of the fire,& burne them in the fire: therof shall a fire come foorth into all the house of Israel.

5 Moreouer,thus saith the Lorde God: This same is Hierusalem,which I set in the middest of nations,and countreis rounde about her.

6 But she hath chaunged my iudgementes into wickednesse more then the nations, and my statutes more then the countreis that are rounde about her:for they haue refused my iudgementes and my statutes,and not walked in them.

B 7 Therfore thus saith the Lorde God: For your (c) multiplying more then the gentiles that dwell rounde about you, and because ye haue not walked in my lawes, neither haue ye kept my ordinaunces,no ye haue not done accordyng to the iudgementes of the nations that are rounde about you:

8 Therfore thus saith the Lorde God, Beholde I will also come agaynst thee, I my selfe I say: for in the middest of thee wyll I execute iudgement in the sight of the heathen.

9 And I wyll handle thee of such a fashion as I neuer did before,& as I will neuer do from that tyme foorth, and that because of all thine abhominations.

10 For in thee the fathers* shalbe fayne to eate their owne sonnes, and the sonnes their owne fathers, I wyll execute iudgement in thee, and the whole remnaunt of ther wyll I scatter into all the wyndes. Leuit.26.c. Deut.28.g. 2.Reg.26.c. Lamen 4 b. Baruch.ii.a.

11 Wherfore, as truely as I lyue saith the Lorde God, seyng thou hast defiled my sanctuarie with all maner of abhominations, and with all shamefull offences:

12 For this cause will I also destroy thee, mine eye shall not spare thee, neither wyll I haue any pitie.

13 *One thirde part within thee shall dye of the pestilence and be consumed of hunger, another thirde part shalbe slayne downe rounde about thee with the swoorde, the other thirde part that remayneth, wyll I scatter abroode towarde all the wyndes, and drawe out a swoorde after them. Iere.xv.b.

14 Thus wyll I perfourme mine indignation, & make my wrath to settle vpon them,and I will be (d) comforted: so that when I haue fulfylled myne anger agaynst them, they shall knowe that I am the Lorde, which with a feruent gelousie haue spoken it. C

15 Moreouer, I wyll make thee waste and reuiled among all the heathen that dwell about thee,in the sight of all them that go by thee.

16 So thou shalt be a reproche and shame, a chastisement and a wondryng vnto the nations that are rounde about thee, when I shall execute iudgementes in thee, in anger & in wrath, and in sharpe rebukes, I the Lorde haue spoken it:

17 When I shoote among them the perilous (e) dartes of hunger,which shalbe for their destruction, yea therfore shall I shoote them because I wyll destroy you, I wyll encrease hunger vpon you, and* wyll breake your staffe of bread.

18 Plagues wyll I sende vpon you, yea and wicked beastes also to spoyle thee, pestilence and bloodsheddyng shal come vpon thee, and the swoorde wyll I bring ouer thee: I the Lorde haue spoken it.

(a) To shaue the heed and beard.

(b) To wit, of that citie which he had portrayed vpon the tyrstle, chap. 4. By the fire, he meaneth sometime a pestilence, otherwhyle such one part perished during the siege of Nabuchodonosor: by the swoorde, they that were slayne when Hierusalem was destroyed, those that were caryed awaye captyue, and by the scattering into the wynde, they that fled into Egypt, and into other partes after the citie was taken.

(c) Because ye haue encreased the number of your vices and superstitions more then the gentiles. Esai.65.b.

(d) That is, I wyll not be pacified tyll I be reuenged. Esai. 1.c.

(e) Which be the grashoppers, mildew, and whatsoeuer were occasions of famine. Ezech.xiii.c.

The.vj.Chapter.

1 He sheweth that the people shalbe plagued for the sinne of idolatrie. 8 He prophecieth the repentaunce of the remnaunt of the people, and their deliueraunce. 11 The destruction of the frowarde is prophecied.

A 1 AND the worde of the Lorde came vnto me, saying:

2 Thou sonne of man set thy face to the * mountaynes of Israel, that thou mayest prophecie Ezech.30.a.

agaynst them,

3 And say, Heare the worde of the Lord God: O ye mountaynes of Israel Thus hath the Lord God spoken to the (a) mountaynes, hylles, riuers, & dales, Beholde I (euen I) will bryng a swoorde vpon you, and destroy your hye places.

(a) He speaketh to all the places where the Israelites accustomed to commit their idolatries, threatning them destruction.

4 Your aulters shalbe destroyed, & your images of the * sunne broken downe, your slayne men wyll I cast downe before your idols.

4.Reg.23.b.

5 And the dead carkases of the children of Israel wyll I cast before their idols, your bones will I scatter rounde about

4.Reg.23.c.

*your aulters.

6 In all your dwellyng places your cities shalbe desolate, and the hye places laide waste, so that your aulters shalbe made waste and desolate, your idols shalbe broken and abolished, and your images of the sunne shalbe cut downe, and your workes quite taken away.

B 7 Your slayne men shall fall among you: and ye shal knowe that I am the Lord.

8 Yet wyll I leaue a remnaunt, that you may haue [some] that shall escape the swoorde among the nations, when as ye shalbe scattered through the countreis.

9 And they that escape of you shal thinke vpon me among the heathen where they shalbe in captiuitie, because I haue ben broken with their whorishe heart which hath departed from me, & with their eyes that haue gone a whoryng after their idols: and they shalbe abhorred before their owne eyes for the euils which they haue commited in all their abhominations.

10 And they shall knowe that I am the Lorde, and that I haue not sayde in vayne, that I woulde do this euill vnto them.

11 Thus saith the Lorde God, (b) Smite thine handes together, and stampe with thy feete, and say, Wo worth all the abhominations and wickednesses of the house of Israel: for they shall fall with the swoorde, with hunger, and with pestilence.

(b) He byddeth the prophete not only with swoorde, but also with gestures of hande & foote, to signifie the destruction to come.

12 Who so is farre of shall dye of the pestilence, he that is nye at hande shall perishe with the swoorde, and the other that are besieged shall dye of hunger: Thus wyll I satisfie my wrathfull displeasure vpon them.

13 And so shall ye knowe that I am the Lorde, when their slayne men shalbe among their idols rounde about their aulters, vpon euery hye hyll, and toppes of mountaynes, and vnder euery greene tree, and vnder euery thicke oke, [euen] in the places where they dyd offer sweete sauour to all their idols.

14 I wyll stretche mine hande out vpon them, and wyll make the lande waste, and desolate (c) from the wildernesse vnto Deblathah through all their habitations: and they shall knowe that I am the Lorde.

(c) Some read, more desolate then the wildernesse of Deblathah, which was in Syria, and bordered vpon Israel: but it may stande well from the wildernesse, which was south vnto Deblathah which was north, meaning the whole countrey.

The .vij. Chapter.

2 The ende of all the lande of Israel shall sodaynely come. 20 The cause of the destruction therof. 23 The prophete is commaunded to shewe the summe of the euyls that are at hande.

A 1 THe worde of the Lorde came vnto me, saying:

2 And thou sonne of man, thus saith the Lorde God, an ende is come vnto the lande of Israel: yea verily the ende commeth vpon the foure corners of the lande.

3 Nowe shall the ende come vpon thee: for I wyll sende my wrath vpon thee, and wyll punishe thee accordyng to thy wayes, and rewarde thee after all thine abhominations.

4 Mine

4 Mine eye shall not spare thee, neither wyll I haue pitie, but rewarde thee accordyng to thy wayes, & declare thine abhominations: then shall ye knowe that I am the Lorde.

5 Thus saith the Lorde God, Beholde, one euyll shall come after another:

6 The ende is here, the ende [I say] is come, it watched for thee: beholde it is come alredy.

B 7 The (a) morнyng is come vnto thee that dwellest in the lande, the tyme is at hande, the day of trouble is harde by, and not the (b) soundyng agayne of the mountaynes.

8 Nowe I wyll shortly poure out my sore displeasure ouer thee, and fulfyll my wrath vpon thee: I wyll iudge thee after thy wayes, and recompence thee all thine abhominations.

9 Mine eye shall not spare, neither wyll I haue pitie, but rewarde thee after thy wayes, & thine abhominations shalbe in the middest of thee: and ye shal knowe that I am the Lorde that smiteth.

10 Beholde the day, beholde it is come, the morнyng is gone forth, the rodde (c) flourisheth, pride hath budded.

11 Crueltie is waxen to a rodde of wickednesse, none of them shall remayne, none of their riches, "not one of their seede, & no lamentation shalbe made for them.

12 The tyme commeth, the day draweth nye: Who so byeth let hym not reioyce, he that selleth let hym not be sory: for wyth wrath is vpon all the multitude therof.

13 So that the seller shal not come againe to the thyng that he solde, although their life be (d) yet with the lyuyng: for when the prophecie was preached vnto all the people, none returned, no man shal (e) strengthen hym selfe in the iniquitie of his life.

14 (f) They haue blowen the trumpet, and made all redy, but none goeth to the battayle: for my wrath is vpon the whole multitude.

15 The sworde shalbe without, pestilence and hunger within: so that who so is in the fielde shalbe slayne with the sworde, and he that is in the citie shalbe deuoured with hunger and pestilence.

16 But they that flee away from them shall escape, and shalbe in the mountaynes lyke the doues of the valleys, all they shall mourne, euery one for his iniquitie.

17 *All handes shalbe let downe, and all knees shalbe weake as the water. Esai.xiii.b. Iere.vi.c.

18 They* shall girde them selues with sackcloth, feare shall couer them, shame shalbe vpon all faces, and baldnesse vpon their heades. Esai.xv.a. Iere.48.d.

19 Their siluer shall they cast forth in the streetes, and their golde shalbe dispised: yea* their siluer and golde shall not be able to deliuer them in the day of the wrath of the Lorde, they shall not satisfie their soules, neither fyll their bellyes therwith, because (g) it was a stumblyng blocke of their iniquitie. Prou.xi.a. Eccle.v.b.

20 He had also set the beautie of his (h) ornament in maiestie: but they made images of their abhominations and fylthinesses in it, therfore haue I set it farre from them.

D 21 Moreouer, I wyll geue it into the handes of straungers to be spoyled, & to the wicked of the earth for to be robbed, and they shall pollute it.

22 My face wyll I turne from them, my secrete place shalbe defiled: for burglers shall go into it and pollute it.

23 Make a chayne: for the lande is full of the (i) iudgement of blood, and the citie is full of extortion.

24 Wherfore I wyll bryng the most wicked of the heathen to take their houses in possession, I wyll make the pompe of the mightie to ceasse, and their (k) sanctuaries shalbe defyled.

25 When destruction is come, they shall seeke peace, but they shall haue none.

26 One mischiefe shall folowe another, and one rumour shall come after another: then shall they seeke a vision in vayne at their prophete, the lawe shall perishe from the priest, and counsayle from the auncientes.

27 The kyng shall mourne, the prince shalbe clothed with desolation, and the handes of the people in the lande shalbe troubled: I wyll do vnto them after their owne wayes, accordyng to their owne iudgementes wyll I iudge them: and they shall knowe that I am the Lorde.

(a) That is, the beginning of the punishment.

(b) That is, the tyme of vnmercyfulnesse, as is the case in the lyke.

(c) Meanyng Nebuchodonozor whom God had appointed to be a rod to scourge them. "Or, none of their glorious.

(d) That is, in the tyme of Iubile when euery man returned to such possessions as he had before. Leuit. 25.b.

(e) Iniquitie shall make no man strong against God.

(f) The Israelites made warre, but their hearres ouercame them.

(g) Their golde & siluer brought them to this ruine or destruction.

The

The.viii.Chapter.

2 In appearaunce of the similitude of God. 3 Ezechiel is brought to Hierusalem in the spirite. 6 The Lord sheweth the idolatries of the house of Israel, 7 chiefly of the priestes.

A 1 AND it was in the (a) first yere, in the first [moneth] in the fift [day] of the moneth, I sate in my house, and the elders of Juda sate before me, and the hande of the Lorde God fell there vpon me.

(a) Of the captiuitie of Jeconiah, so that there was fourteene monethes betwixt the first & this.

2 Then I behelde, and lo, there was a likenesse as the appearaunce of fire: from the appearaunce of his loynes downewarde, fire: and from his loynes vpwarde as the appearaunce of brightnesse, lyke the colour of amber.

3 And he stretched out the likenesse of an hande, and tooke me by an heery locke of my head, and the spirite lift me vp betwixt earth and heauen, and (b) brought me in a diuine vision to Hierusalem, into the entry of the inner (c) gate that lyeth towarde the north, where remayned the image of (d) emulation [and] of gayne.

(b) This was in the spirite & not in body.

(c) The porch or court where the people allembled.

4 And beholde, the glorie of the Lorde God of Israel was in the same place, [euen] as I had seene it afore in the fielde.

(d) Of emulation, because it displeased God: of gaine, because it was set vp & worshipped for gaine and the encrease of their offerynges for the priestes, and of their carell and subsistaunce for the people.

5 And he sayde vnto me, Thou sonne of man, lift vp thine eyes nowe towarde the north: then lift I vp mine eyes towarde the north, and beholde northwarde, at the gate of the (e) aulter this image of emulation [was] in the entry.

(e) That was in the court where the people had made an aulter to Baal.

6 And he sayde furthermore vnto me, Thou sonne of man, seest thou what these do: seest thou the great abhominations that the house of Israel commit in this place, to driue me from my sanctuarie: but turne thee about, and thou shalt see yet greater abhominations.

B 7 And with that brought he me to the court gate, and when I loked, beholde there was a hole in the wall.

8 Then sayde he vnto me, Thou sonne of man, digge nowe in the wall: and when I digged in the wall, beholde there was a doore.

9 And he sayde vnto me, Go thy way in, and loke what wicked abhominations they do here.

10 So I went in and sawe, and beholde there were al maner of creeping beastes, and (f) abhominable beastes, and all the idols of the house of Israel paynted vpon the wall rounde about.

(f) Which were forbidden in the lawe. Leuit. xi.

11 There stoode also before the images threescore and ten men of the auncientes of the house of Israel, and in the middest of thē stoode Jaazaniah the sonne of Shaphan, with euery man his censer in his hande, and the smoke of the incense ascended as a cloude.

12 Then sayde he vnto me, Thou sonne of man, hast thou seene what the auncientes of the house of Israel do secretly, euery one in the (g) chaumber of his imagerie: for they say, The Lorde seeth vs not, the Lorde hath forsaken the earth.

(g) For beside their common idolatrie, they had their particuler secrete place of prayer.

13 And he sayde vnto me, Turne thee yet agayne, and thou shalt see greater abhominations that they do.

C 14 And with that he brought me to the doore of the gate of the Lordes house towarde the north, and beholde there sate wome mourning for (h) Thammuz.

(h) The Jewes say this was a prophete of the idols, who after his death was once a yere mourned for in Egipt, only of women. Some Christians thinke it to be Adonis the wanton boye. Other thinke it was Osyris an idoll of the Aegyptians.

15 Then sayde he vnto me, Hast thou seene this thou sonne of man: turne thee yet about, and thou shalt see greater abhominations then these are.

16 And so he brought me into the inward court of the Lordes house, and beholde at the doore of the Lordes house, betwixt the porche and the aulter, there were about twentie and fiue men that turned their backes vpon the temple of the Lorde, and their faces towarde the east, and these worshipped the sunne eastwarde.

17 And he sayde vnto me, Hast thou seene this thou sonne of man: Thinketh the house of Juda that it is but a trifle to do these abhominations which they do here: for they haue filled the lande full of wickednesse, and haue returned to prouoke me to anger, and lo (i) they are puttyng the braunches to their noses.

(i) That is, they turned to their vanitie, ydolatrie, & foolishnesse, in vsyng their sacrifices to the sunne, which yet before was vyle and stinckyng, beyng sacrificed of them vnto their idoll. Prou. xxi.

18 Therfore wyll I also do somethyng in my wrathful displeasure, so that mine eye shall not spare them, neither wyll I haue pitie: yea and though they crye in mine eares with a loude voyce, yet wyll I not heare them.

¶ The.ix. Chapter.

1 The destruction of the citie. 4 They that shalbe saued are marked. 8 A complaynt of the prophete for the destruction of the people.

A 1 HE cryed also with a loude voyce in mine eares, saying: Drawe neare ye (a) visitations of the citie, euery man with a destroying Weapon in his hande.

2 And beholde, then came there (b) sixe men out of the streete of the vpper gate towarde the north, and euery man a slaughter weapon in his hande: There was one amongest them that had on hym lynnen rayment, and a Writers (c) inckhorne by his syde: these went in and stoode besyde the brasen aulter.

3 And the glorie of the Lorde of Israel was gone from the Cherub wherupon it was, to the doore of the house: and he called to the man that had the lynnen rayment vpon hym, and the Writers inckhorne by his syde,

4 And the Lorde sayde vnto hym, Go through the citie, euen through Hierusalem, & set a marke vpon the foreheades of them that mourne, and are sory for all the abhominations that be done therin.

5 And to the other he sayd, that I might here, Go ye after hym through the citie, and smite, let your eye spare none, neither haue ye any pitie:

6 Kyll and destroy both olde men and young, maydens, children, and women: but as for all those that haue the marke vpon them, see that ye touche them not, and begyn at my sanctuarie. Then they began at the auncient men which were before the house.

7 And he sayde vnto them, Defyle ye the temple, fyll the courtes with the slayne, then go your way forth. So they went out, and slue downe through the citie. B

8 Nowe When they had done the slaughter, and I yet escaped, I fell downe vpon my face, and cryed, saying: Ah Lorde God, wylt thou then destroy all the residue of Israel, in powring out thy Wrath vpon Hierusalem?

9 Then sayde he vnto me, The wickednesse of the house of Israel and Juda is exceedyng great: so that the lande is full of *blood, & the citie full of reuoltyng [from God] for they say, The Lorde hath forsaken the earth, and the Lorde seeth it not. *Esai.i.c.

10 As touchyng me also, mine eye shall not spare them, neither wyll I haue pitie: but wyll recompence their wayes vpon their heades.

11 And beholde, the man that had the lynnen rayment vpon hym and the Writers inckhorne by his syde, reported the matter, and sayde: As thou hast commaunded me, so haue I done.

¶ The.x. Chapter.

2 Of the man that toke hotte burnyng coales out of the middle of the wheeles of the Cherubims. 8 A rehearsall of the vision of the wheeles, of the beastes, and of the Cherubims.

A 1 ND as I loked, beholde in the * firmament that was aboue the head of the (a) Cherubims, as it were a Saphir stone [made] lyke the similitude of a throne, was seene ouer them. *Genes.i.d.

2 Then spake he to hym that had the lynnen rayment vpon hym, and sayde: Crepe in betwene the wheeles that are vnder the Cherub, and take thine hand full of hotte coales out from betwene the Cherubims, and scatter them ouer the citie. And he crept in, that I myght see.

3 (Nowe the Cherubims stoode vpon the ryght syde of the house when the man went in, and the cloude fylled the inner court.

4 And the glorie of the Lorde remoued from the Cherubims, and came vpon the doore of the house: so that the temple was full of cloudes, and the court was full of the shine of the Lordes glorie.

5 Yea and the sounde of the Cherubims wynges was heard into the fore court, lyke as it had ben the voyce of the almightie almightie God When he speaketh.)

6 Nowe when he had bidden the man that was clothed in lynnen, saying, Take fire from the middest of the Wheeles Which were vnder the Cherubims: he went, and stoode beside the Wheeles.

B 7 Then one Cherub reached foorth his hande from betwene the Cherubims vnto the fire that was betwene the Cherubims, and toke therof, and gaue it into the handes of hym that had on the lynnen rayment: which toke it, and went out.

8 And vnder the wynges of the Cherubims there appeared the likenesse of a mans hande.

9 I loked also, and behold foure Wheeles beside the Cherubims, one Wheele by one Cherub, and another by another Cherub, and the wheeles were to loke vpon after the fashion of the precious stone *Tharsis.

Eze.i.c.

10 As touchyng their appearaunce (they were all foure of one fashion) as yf one Wheele had ben in another.

11 When they went foorth, they went vpon their foure sides, not turnyng backe in their goyng: for Which Way the [head of the] first loked, after it they went, so that they turned not backe in their goyng.

12 And their whole bodyes, their backes, their handes, and wynges, yea and the wheeles also were full of eyes rounde about the foure wheeles.

13 And to the wheeles, he cryed to them in my hearyng, O Wheele,

C 14 Euery one of them had foure faces, so that the face of the first was the face of a Cherub, and the face of the seconde the face of a man, and of the thirde the face of a lion, and of the fourth the face of an egle.

15 And the Cherubims were lyfted vp: *This is the beast that I sawe at the water of Chebar. Eze.i.a.

16 Nowe When the Cherubims went, the Wheeles went by them: and when the Cherubims lyft vp their wynges to mount vp from the earth, the same wheeles also turned not from besides them.

17 Shortly When they stoode, these stoode also, and when they were lifted vp, the wheeles lift vp them selues also with them: for the (b) spirite of the beast was in the wheeles. (b) There was one consent betwene the Cherubims and the wheeles.

18 Then the glorie of the Lorde departed from aboue the doore of the temple, and remayned vpon the Cherubims. D

19 And the Cherubims flackered with their wynges, and lyft them selues vp from the earth, so that I sawe when they went, & the wheeles besides them, and they stoode at the doore of the east gate of the house of the Lorde, so the glorie of the God of Israel was vpon them on hye.

(c) That is, the whole body of the foure beastes or Cherubims.

20 This is the (c) beast that I sawe vnder the God of Israel by the riuer of Chebar, and I perceaued that it was the Cherubims.

21 Euery one had foure faces, and euery one foure wynges, and vnder their wynges the likenesse of mens handes.

22 Touchyng the similitude of their countenaunces, they were the very same countenaunces which I sawe at the riuer Chebar, and the selfe same appearaunces: euery one in his goyng went strayght forwarde.

The.xj.Chapter.

1 Who they were that seduced the people of Israel. 5 Agaynst these he prophecieth, shewyng them howe they shalbe dispersed abrode. 19 The renuyng of the heart commeth of God. 21 He threatneth them that leane vnto their owne counsayles.

A 1 MOreouer, the spirite lift me vp, and brought me vnto the east gate of the Lordes house, which lyeth eastwarde: and beholde, at the entry of the gate were fiue and twentie men, among whom I sawe Iaazaniah the sonne of Azur, and Pheltiah the sonne of Banaiahu, the rulers of the people.

2 Then sayde he vnto me, Thou sonne of man, these men imagine mischiefe, & a wicked counsayle take they in this citie,

2. Pet 3. (a) We shall not be pulled out of Hierusalem till the houre of our death come, as the fleshe is not taken out of the cauldron till it be sod.

3 Saying, *It is not neare, let vs builde houses: this [Hierusalem] is the (a) cauldron, and We be the fleshe.

4 Therfore shalt thou prophecie against them, them: yea prophecie O sonne of man.

5 And with that fell the spirite of the Lorde vpon me, and sayde vnto me, Speake, thus saith the Lorde: On this maner haue ye spoken (O ye house of Israel) and I knowe the imaginations of your heartes.
6 Many one haue ye murthered in this citie, and fylled the strectes full of the slayne:
B 7 Therfore thus saith the Lorde God, The slayne men that ye haue layde on the grounde in the citie are the (b) flesshe, and this citie is the cauldron: but I wyll bryng you out of it, ye haue feared the swoorde, and I wyll bring a swoorde ouer you, saith the Lorde God.
8 And I wyll bryng you out of the middest therof, and deliuer you into the handes of straungers, and wyll execute iudgementes among you.
10 Ye shall fall by the swoorde, in the borders of (c) Israel wyll I iudge you, and ye shall knowe that I am the Lorde.
11 This citie shall not be your cauldron, neither shall ye be the flesshe therin: but in the borders of Israel wyll I punisshe you,
12 That ye may knowe that I am the Lorde, in whose commaundementes ye haue not walked, nor kept my lawes: but haue done after the customes of the heathen that lye rounde about you.
13 Nowe when I prophecied, (d) Pheltiah the sonne of Banaiahu dyed: then fell I downe vpon my face, and cryed with a loude voyce, saying, Ah Lorde God, wylt thou then vtterly destroy all the remnaunt in Israel?
14 And so the woorde of the Lorde came vnto me on this maner.
15 Thou sonne of man, thy brethren [euen] thy brethren, the men of thy kinrede, and all the house of Israel, wholly [are they] vnto whom the inhabitauntes of Hierusalem haue sayd: (e) Withdrawe ye farre from the Lorde, for the lande is geuen vs in possession.
16 Therfore tell them, thus saith the God: Although I sende them farre of among the gentiles, and scatter them among the nations, yet wyll I be to them as a litle (f) sanctuarie in the landes where they shall come.
17 Tell them also, thus saith the Lorde God, I wyll gather you agayne out of the nations, and bryng you from the countreis where ye be scattered, and I wyll geue you the lande of Israel agayne.
18 And they shall come thither, and they shall take away all their idols, and all their abhominations from thence.
19 *And I wyll geue them one heart, and I wyll put a newe spirite within their bowels: that stony heart wyll I take out of their body, and geue them a fleshlye heart, 20 That they may walke in my commaundementes, and kepe mine ordinaunces and do them, that they may be my people, and I their God.
21 But to the heart of their idols and their abhominations their heart goeth, their wayes wyll I bryng vpon their owne heades, saith the Lorde God.
22 After this did the Cherubims lift vp their wynges and the wheeles besides them, and the glorie of the God of Israel was vpon them on hye.
23 *So the glorie of the Lorde went vp from the middest of the citie, and stoode vpon the mount of the citie towarde the east.
24 And the spirite toke me vp, & brought me agayne to Chaldea to the captiuitie, in a vision by the spirite of God: then the vision that I had seene went vp from me.
25 So I spake vnto the (g) captiues all the woordes of the Lorde which he had shewed me.

(b) Contrary to their owne boyne they were deliuered the flesshe in that sense that the citie was the cauldron, that is, because of the multitude of slayne that lay therin, and so was it the graue.

(d) Seemed a noble man of great authoritie, & therfore the prophet feared some straunge iudgement of God vpon the people.

(e) They shalbe yet a litle Church whom he wyll preserue, though they be dispersed and for a tyme afflicted.

(f) They shalbe yet a litle Church whom he wyll preserue, though they be dispersed and for a tyme afflicted.

The .xij. Chapter.

The parable of the captiuitie. 10 The exposition of the parable, by which the taking of kyng Zedekiah is signified. 18 An other parable whereby the distresse of hunger and thurst is signified.

1 THe woorde of the Lorde came vnto me, saying:
2 Thou sonne of man, thou dwellest in the middest of a rebellious house, which haue eyes to see and yet see not, eares haue they to heare, and yet heare they not: for they are a rebellious house.
3 Therfore (O thou sonne of man) "prepare thee instrumentes to flit with, & remoue on the day time that they may see, yea

"Or make thee vessels to go into captiuitie.

yea [euen] in their sight shalt thou go from thy place to another place, yf peradventure they wyll consider that they be a rebellious house.

4 Thou shalt bryng foorth thine instrumentes as stuffe to flit with by the daytyme in their sight, and thou thy selfe shalt go foorth also at euenyng before their eyes, as they that go foorth to flit.

5 Digge through the wall in their sight, and cary out therby.

6 In their sight shalt thou beare vpon thy shouldiers, and cary it foorth in the darke: hide thy face, that thou see not the earth, for I haue made thee a (a) shewe token vnto the house of Israel.

(a) That as, thou doest so shall they do, and therfore in thee they shall see their owne plague & punishment.

7 And I did so as I was commaunded, I brought foorth my stuffe by day as the stuffe of one that goeth into captiuitie: and in the euening I digged through the wall with my handes, and brought it forth in the darke, and bare it vpon my shoulder in their sight.

8 And in the mornyng came the worde of the Lorde vnto me, saying:

9 Thou sonne of man, hath not the house of Israel, the rebellious house, sayd vnto thee, (b) what doest thou?

(b) Do not they deride and mocke thy doynges.

10 Then tell them, thus saith the Lorde God, This "burden toucheth the prince at Hierusalem, and all the house of Israel that dwell among them.

" Or, prophecie.

11 Tell them, I am your shewe token, lyke as I haue done, so shall it be done vnto them, they shall go into bondage and captiuitie.

12 The prince that is among them shall loade his shoulders in the darke and get hym away, they shall breake downe the wall to cary through by it: he shall couer his face, that he see not the ground with his eyes.

13 My net will I (c) spreade out vpon him, and he shalbe caught in my "net, and I wyll bryng hym to Babylon in the lande of the Chaldees, which he shall not see, and yet shall he dye there.

(c) When the kyng shall thinke to escape by fleeing I wyll take hym in my net, as Ezech. 17.c. and 32.a.

" Or, tooles.

14 As for all his helpers & all his bandes that be about hym, I wyll scatter them towarde all the wyndes, and drawe out a swoorde after them.

15 So when I haue scattered them among the heathen and strowed them in the landes, they shall knowe that I am the Lorde.

Ezec. xiii.

16 But I will leaue a litle "number of the from the swoorde, hunger, and pestilence, to tell all their abhominations among the heathen where they come, that they may knowe howe that I am the Lord.

17 Moreouer, the woorde of the Lorde came vnto me, saying:

13 Thou sonne of man, with a fearfull tremblyng shalt thou eate thy bread, with vnquietnesse & sorowe shalt thou drynke thy water.

19 And vnto the people of the lande speake thou: Thus saith the Lord God to them that dwell in Hierusalem, and to the lande of Israel: they shall eate their bread with sorowe, and drynke their water with desolation: yea the lande with the fulnesse therof shalbe layde waste for the wickednesse of all them that dwell therin.

20 And the cities that nowe be well inhabited, shalbe voyde, & the lande desolate, that ye may knowe that I am the Lorde.

21 Yet came the woorde of the Lorde vnto me agayne, saying:

22 Thou sonne of man, What maner of prouerbe is that which ye vse in the lande of Israel, saying: (d) The dayes are slacke in cõmyng, & all visions fayle?

(d) Becuse they dyd not see the prophecies accomplished, they contemned them as though they neuer should be fulfilled.

23 Tell them therfore, thus saith the Lord God, I wyll make that prouerbe to ceasse, and they shall no more vse it as a prouerbe in Israel: but say vnto them, the dayes are at hande, and the effect of euery vision.

24 There shall no vision be any more in vayne, neither any flattering diuination within the house of Israel:

25 For I the Lorde speake it, and whatsoeuer I shall speake, it shalbe performed, and not be slacke in commyng any more, yea euen in your dayes O rebellious house, wyll I speake the thyng & bryng it to passe, saith the Lorde God.

26 And the woorde of the Lorde came vnto me, saying:

27 Beholde thou sonne of man, the house of Israel saith [on this maner] The vision that he seeth, it wyll be many a day or it come to passe: *it is farre of yet the tyme that he prophecieth of.

Ezech. xii. ii. Pet. iii.

28 Therfore say thus vnto them, thus saith the Lorde God, All my woordes shall no more be delayed, loke what I speake, that same shall come to passe, saith the Lorde God.

The. xiii. Chapter.

1 The worde of the Lorde against false prophetes, whiche teache the people the counsels of their owne heartes.

A 1 THe worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying:
2 Thou sonne of man, prophecie against those prophetes of Israel whiche prophecie, and say vnto them that prophecie out of their owne *heartes, heare the worde of the Lorde,
3 Thus saith the Lord God, Wo be vnto those foolishe prophetes that folowe their owne spirit, & haue seene nothing.
4 O Israel, thy prophetes are lyke the foxes in (a) desert places.
5 For ye haue not stand vp in the gappes, nor made a hedge for the house of Israel, to stande in the battayle in the day of the Lorde.
6 They haue seene vanitie and lying diuination, saying: the Lorde saith it, and the Lorde hath not sent them, and they haue made me hope that they woulde confirme the worde.
7 Haue ye not seene vayne visions, and 8 spoken false prophecies, when ye say, the Lorde hath spoken it, whereas I neuer sayde it.
8 Therfore thus saith the Lorde God, Because ye haue spoken vanitie, and haue seene lies: therfore beholde I am against you, saith the Lorde God:
9 Mine handes shal come vpon the prophetes that see vanities, and deuine lies: they shall not be in the counsell of my people, nor written in the booke of the house of Israel, neither shal they come in the lande of Israel, that ye may knowe howe that I am the Lord God:
10 And that for because they haue deceaued my people, *and told them of peace where no peace was: one setteth vp a (b) wall, and they daube it with vntempered clay.
11 Therfore tell them which daube with vntempred morter, that it shall fall: for there shal come a great showre of raine, I will sende haylestones to cause it to fall, and a great storme of winde shall breake it.
12 And lo, when the wall is fallen, shall it not then be sayd vnto you, where is nowe your morter that ye daubed it withall?
13 Therfore thus saith the Lorde God: I wyll cause a stormie winde to breake out in my wrathfull displeasure, so that in mine anger there shall come a mightie showre of raine, and haylestones in my wrath to destroy it.
14 As for the wall that ye haue daubed with vntempered morter, I wil breake it downe, and make it euen with the grounde, so that the foundation therof shalbe discouered, and it shall fall: yea and ye your selues shall perishe in the middes therof, and ye shall knowe that I am the Lorde. C
15 Thus wyll I perfourme my wrath vpon this wall, and vpon them that haue daubed it with (c) vntempred morter, and then wyl I say vnto you, The wall is gone, and the daubers of it.
16 [To wit] the prophetes of Israel, whiche prophecie vnto Hierusalem, and looke out visions of peace for it, whereas no peace is, saith the Lorde God.
17 Wherefore O thou sonne of man, set thy face against the daughters of thy people, whiche prophecie out of their owne heartes, and prophecie against them:
18 And say, thus saith the Lorde God: Wo be vnto them that sowe (d) pillowes vnder all arme holes, and put kirchifes vpon the heades of euery (e) stature to hunt soules. Wyll ye hunt the soules of my people, and (f) geue life to the soules that [come] vnto you?
19 And wyll ye pollute me to my people for handfuls of barly, and for peeces of bread, to kyll the soules of them that dye not, and promise (g) life to them that liue not, in lying to my people that heareth your lyes?
20 Wherfore thus saith the Lorde God: Beholde, I wyll vpon your pillowes wherwith ye hunt the soules, to (h) make them flee, and I will teare them from your armes, and wyll let the soules go, [euen] the soules that ye hunt to make them to flee.
21 Your kirchifes also wyll I teare in peeces, and deliuer my people out of your handes, so that they shall come no more in your handes to be hunted: and ye shall knowe that I am the Lorde.

(c) That is, whatsoeuer man of him selfe setteth foorth vnder the authoritie of Gods worde, and God alloweth it not.

(d) These superstitious women for lucre would prophesie and tell euery man his fortune, geuing them pillowes to leane on, and kerchifes to couer their heades, that they might the more allure them and bewitche them.
(e) Vpon euery man and woman, young and olde, great and small.
(f) Thinke you the liues of my people to be in your handes, to make them long or short.
(g) These forcerers made the people beleue that they could preserue life or destroy it, and that it should come to euery one according as they prophecied.
(h) Making them flocke vnto you with deceiuable doctrine, as the fowlers do the birdes with their stales & calles.

22 Seeing that with your lyes you discomfort the heart of the righteous, whō I haue not discomforted: Againe, forsomuche as ye encourage the hande of the wicked, so that he may not turne from his wicked way in promising hym life:

23 Therfore shall ye see no more vanitie, neither shall ye deuine diuinations, for I wyll deliuer my people out of your hande, that ye may knowe howe that I am the Lorde.

¶ The. xiiij. Chapter.

2 The Lorde demeth his worde to the people for their sinnes sake. 9 The despisers of the worde doth the Lorde sometyme deceaue by false prophetes. 22 A comfort of them that fled vnto Babylon.

A 1 There resorted vnto me certayne of the elders of Israel, and sate downe by me.

2 Then came the word of the Lorde vnto me, saying:

3 Thou sonne of man, these men haue set vp their idols in their heartes, and put the stumbling blocke of iniquitie before their face: shoulde I then aunswere them at their request?

4 Therefore speake vnto them, and say vnto them, thus saith the Lorde God: Euery man of the house of Israel that setteth vp his idols in his heart, & putteth the stumbling blocke of his iniquitie before his face, and commeth to the prophete: vnto that man wyll I the Lord my selfe geue aunswere when he commeth, according to the (a) multitude of his idols.

(a) As his abhomination hath deserued, that is, he shal be led with lies, according as he delited therein. 2. Thessa. 2. b.

5 That the house of Israel may be snared in their (b) owne heartes, because they be cleane gone from me all of them thorowe their idols.

(b) That is, conuince them by their owne consciences.

6 Wherefore tell the house of Israel, thus saith the Lorde God: Returne and (c) cause to returne from your idols, and turne your faces from all your abhominations.

(c) Vnto such as by your example haue declined from God.

B 7 For euery man, whether he be of the house of Israel, or a straunger that sojourneth in Israel, whiche departeth from me, and setteth vp his idols in his heart, and putteth the stumbling blocke of his wickednesse before his face, and commeth to a prophete for to aske counsell at me through hym: vnto that man wyll I the Lorde geue aunswere by mine owne selfe.

8 I wyll set my face against that man, and wyll make hym to be an example for other, yea and a common byworde, and wyll roote hym out of my people, that ye may knowe howe that I am the Lorde.

9 And if that prophete be deceaued when he telleth a thing, then * I the Lorde my selfe haue deceaued that prophete, and wyll stretche out my hande vpon him, to destroy him out of my people of Israel: * 1. King. 22.

10 And they shalbe punished for their wickednesse, according to the sinne of hym that asketh, shall the sinne of the prophete be:

11 That the house of Israel be led no more from me through errour, and be no more defiled in all their transgressions: but that they may be my people, and I their God, saith the Lorde God.

12 And the worde of the Lorde came vnto me, saying:

13 Thou sonne of man, When the lande sinneth against me by committing a trespasse, I wyll stretche out my hande vpon it, and breake their * staffe of bread, and sende dearth vpon them, to destroy man and beast foorth of it. Ezech. iiij. b and v. b.

C 14 And though * Noe, Daniel, and Job, these three men were among them: yet shal they in their righteousnesse deliuer but their owne soules, saith the Lorde God. Iere. xv.

15 If I bryng noysome beastes into the lande, and they spoyle it, and it be so desolate that no man may passe through it for beastes, 16 If these three men were also in the land: as truely as I liue saith the Lord God, they shall saue neither sonnes nor daughters, but be onlye deliuered themselues: & as for the land, it shalbe waste.

17 Or if I bryng a swoorde vpon this lande, and say, swoorde go through the lande, so that I slay downe man and beast in it, 18 And if these three men were therein: as truely as I liue saith the Lord God, they shall deliuer neither sonnes nor daughters, but only be saued thē selues.

19 If

19 If I sende a pestilence into this lande, and powre out my sore indignation vpon it in blood, so that I roote out of it both man and beast,

20 And if Noe, Daniel, and Job were therein, as truely as I liue saith the Lorde God, they shall deliuer neither sonne nor daughter, but saue their owne soules in their righteousnesse.

21 Moreouer thus saith the Lorde God, howe muche more when I sende my *foure troublous plagues vpon Hierusalem, the sworde, hunger, perillous beastes, and pestilence, to destroy man and beast out of it:

*Ezech. v.c.

22 Beholde, there shalbe a remnaunt saued therein, whiche shall bryng foorth their sonnes and daughters, beholde, they shall come foorth vnto you, and ye shall see their way and their enterprise, and ye shalbe comforted concerning the euyll that I haue brought vpon Hierusalem [euen] concerning all that I haue brought vpon it.

23 They shall comfort you when ye shal see their way and workes: and ye shall knowe howe that it is not without a cause that I haue done all against Hierusalem as I dyd, saith the Lorde God.

¶ The. xv. Chapter.

As the vnprofitable wood of the vine tree is cast into the fire, so saith he that Hierusalem shalbe brent.

A 1 The worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying:

2 Thou sonne of man, what commeth of the vine tree, more then of euery other tree, & of the wylde vine stocke among other trees of the forest?

3 Do men take wood of it to make any worke withall? or wyll men take a pin of it to hang any vessell theron?

4 Behold, it is cast in the fire to be brent, the fire consumeth both the endes of it, the middes of it is brent: is it meete then for any worke?

5 Seeing then that it was meete for no worke beyng whole, muche lesse may there any thing be made of it when the fire hath consumed and brent it.

6 And therefore thus saith the Lorde god, As the vine tree [that is] among the trees of the forest, which I haue geuen to the fire to be consumed: so wyll I geue the inhabitauntes of Hierusalem. B

7 And I wyll set my face against them, they shall go out from the fire, and yet the (e) fire shall consume them: then shall ye knowe that I am the Lorde, when I set my face against them,

8 And when I make the lande waste, because they haue so sore offended, saith the Lorde God.

(e) Though they escape one danger, yet another shall take them.

The. xvj. Chapter.

2 The prophete declareth the benefites of God towarde Hierusalem. 15 Hierusalem is reproued of vnkindnesse for her fornication with idols. 46 He iustifieth the wickednesse of other people, in comparison of the sinnes of Hierusalem. 49 The cause of the abhominations into which the Sodomites fell. 60 Mercy is promised to the repentaunt.

A 1 Gayne the word of the Lorde came vnto me, saying:

2 Thou sonne of man, shewe Hierusalē their abhominations,

3 And say, Thus saith the Lorde God vnto Hierusalem: thy habitation and kinred is of the lande of (a) Chanaan, thy father was an Amorite, thy mother an Hittite.

4 In the day of thy byrth (b) when thou wast borne, the string of thy nauell was not cut of, thou wast not bathed in water to make thee cleane, thou wast not salted with salt, nor swadled in cloutes.

5 No eye pitied thee to do any of these thinges for thee, for to haue compassion vpon thee: but thou wast vtterly cast out vpon the fielde in contempt of thy person in the day of thy byrth.

6 Then came I by thee, and sawe thee defiled in thyne owne blood, and I said vnto thee when thou wast in thy blood, liue: [euen] when thou wast in thy blood, I sayde vnto thee, liue.

7 I caused thee to multiplie as the bud of the fielde, thou art growen vp, and waxen great, thou hast gotten a marueylous pleasaunt beautie, thy brestes are fashioned, thy heere is goodly growen, whereas thou wast naked & bare.

B 8 Nowe when I went by thee and looked vpon thee, beholde, thy tyme was come, yea [euen] the time to woo thee: then spread I my clothes ouer thee to couer thy (c) dishonestie, yea I made an othe vnto thee, and contracted my selfe with thee (saith the Lorde God) and so thou becamest myne owne.

(c) These words, blood, pollution, nakednesse, and filthynesse &c. are oft tymes repeated, to beate downe their pryde, and to cause them to consider what they were before God receaued them to mercye, fauoured them, and couered their shame.

9 Then washed I thee with water, and purged thy blood from thee, and I annointed thee with oyle.

10 I clothed thee with broidred worke, and shod thee with badgers skin, and I gyrded thee about with fine linnen, and couered thee with silke.

11 I decked thee with costly apparell, I put bracelets vpon thy hands, a chayne about thy necke.

12 And I put a frontlet vpon thy face, and eareringes vpon thyne eares, and a beautifull crowne vpon thyne head.

13 Thus wast thou deckt with golde and siluer, and thy rayment was of fine linnen, and of silke, and of broidred worke: thou didst eate fine floure, honye and oyle, marueylous beautifull wast thou, and thou dydst luckyly prosper into a kingdome.

14 And thy name was spread among the heathen for thy beautie: for it was perfite through thy beautie which I put vpon thee, saith the Lorde God.

C 15 But thou hast put thy confidence in thyne owne beautie, and played the harlot because of thy renowne, and hast (d) powred out thy fornications with euery one that went by, thou wast his.

(d) There was none idolatry so vyle, wherwith thou didst not polute thy selfe.

16 Thou didst take thy garmentes, and deckt thy hye places with (e) diuers colours, and played the harlot therupon, (f) they come not, and it shall not be.

(e) This declareth howe the idolaters put their chiefe delite in those thinges which please the eyes and outwarde senses.
(f) In suche sort as the like hath not ben nor shalbe, so that they passed all nations in idolatrie.

17 The goodly iewels which I gaue thee of mine owne golde and siluer, hast thou taken and made thee mens images therof, and committed whordome with them.

18 Thy broidred garmentes hast thou taken, and deckt them therewith: myne oyle and incense hast thou set before them.

19 My meate which I gaue thee, as fine floure, oyle and hony to feede the withall, that hast thou set before them for a swete sauour: and thus it was saith the Lorde God.

20 Thou hast taken thyne owne sonnes and daughters whom thou hast begotten vnto me, and these hast thou offred vp vnto them to be (g) deuoured: is this but a small whordome of thyne?

(g) Meaning by fire, reade Leuit. xviij. & .xx. Deut. xij.

21 And thou hast slayne my chyldren, and deliuered them, to cause them to passe [through the fire] for them.

D

22 And yet in all thyne abhominations and whordomes, thou hast not remembred the dayes of thy youth, howe naked and bare thou wast at that tyme, and wast defiled in thyne owne blood.

23 After all these thy wickednesses, (wo wo vnto thee, saith the Lorde God,)

24 Thou hast buylt vnto thee an hye place, and hast made thee an hye place in euery streete.

25 Thou hast buylt thyne hye place at euery " head of the way, thou hast made thy beautie to be abhorred, thou hast opened thy feete to euery one that came by, and multiplied thy whordome.

" Corner of the streete.

26 Thou hast committed fornication with the (h) Egyptians, thy neighbours whiche were great in flesshe, and thus hast thou increased thyne whordome to anger me.

(h) He noteth the great impiete of this people, who first falling from God to seeke helpe at straunge nations, did also at length embrase their idolatrie, thinking therby to make them to smarte more sore.

27 Beholde, I did stretche out my hand ouer thee, and dyd minishe thy store of foode, and deliuered thee ouer into the wylles of them that hate thee, [euen] the daughters of the Philistines, which are ashamed of thyne abhominable wayes.

C

28 Thou hast plated the whore also with the Assyrians, because thou wast insatiable: yea thou hast [I say] with them played the harlot, and yet hadst thou not inough.

29 Thus hast thou furthermore multiplied thy fornication from the lande of Chanaan vnto the Chaldees, and yet thou wast not satisfied herewith.

30 Howe weake is thyne heart saith the Lorde God, seeing thou doest all these workes of a presumptuous whorishe woman:

31 Buylding thy hye places at the head of euery way, and makest thy hye places in euery streete: thou hast not ben as another whore that holdeth scorne of a rewarde.

32 But

E 32 But as a wyfe that breaketh wedlocke, and taketh other in steede of her husbande.

33 Giftes are geuen to all other whores: but thou geuest rewardes vnto all thy louers, & rewardest them to come vnto thee on euery side for thy fornication.

34 It is come to passe with thee in thy whoredomes contrary to the vse of other women, yea there hath no suche fornication ben committed after thee: seeing that thou geuest gyftes vnto other, and no rewarde is geuen thee, therfore thou art contrary.

35 Therefore heare the worde of the Lorde, O thou harlot.

36 Thus saith the Lorde God, Because thou hast (g) powred out thy brasse, and discouered thy filthynes thorowe thy fornications with thy louers, and with all the idols of thyne abhominations, and in the blood of thy children whom thou hast geuen them:

37 Beholde therefore, I wyll gather together all thy (h) louers with whom thou hast taken pleasure, yea and all them whom thou hast loued, and euery one that thou hatest: I wyll [I say] gather them together rounde about against thee, and wil discouer thy shame before them, that they may see all thy filthynesse.

38 Moreouer, (i) I wyll iudge thee as a breaker of wedlocke and a murtherer, and recompence thee thyne owne blood in wrath and gelousie.

F 39 I wyll geue thee ouer into their handes, and they shal destroy thy hie place, and breake downe thy hye places, they shall strip thee also out of thy clothes: thy faire iewels shall they take from thee, and so leaue thee naked and bare.

40 Yea they shall bryng a company vpon thee, whiche shall stone thee with stones, and thrust thee through with their swordes,

4. King 25.b 41 They shall *burne vp thy houses with fire, and punishe thee in the sight of many women: thus wyll I make thee ceasse from playing the harlot, so that thou shalt geue out no more rewardes.

42 So wyll I make my wrath towarde thee to rest, and my ielousie shall depart from thee, and I will ceasse, and be angry no more.

43 Seing thou remembrest not the dayes of thy youth, but hast fretted me in all these thinges: beholde therfore, I wyll bryng thyne owne wayes vpon thy head saith the Lord God, so that (m) thou shalt not commit [any more] mischiefe vpon all thyne abhominations.

44 Beholde, all they that vse common prouerbes, shall vse this prouerbe also against thee, saying: Such a (n) mother, such a daughter.

45 Thou art euen thy mothers owne daughter, that hath cast of her husband and her children: yea thou art the sister of thy (o) sisters, which forsoke their husbandes & their children: your mother is an Hittite, & your father an Amorite.

46 Thyne eldest sister is Samaria, she and her (p) daughters that dwell vpon thy left hande: but thy younger sister that dwelleth on thy right hande is Sodoma and her daughters.

47 Yet hast thou not walked after their wayes, nor done after their abhominations, as a litle and a litle: but in all thy wayes thou hast ben more corrupt then they.

48 As truely as I liue, saith the Lorde God, Sodoma thy sister with her daughters, haue not done as thou hast done and thy daughters. G

49 Behold, the sinnes of thy sister Sodoma were these: (q) Pryde, fulnesse of meate, and aboundaunce of idlenesse, these thinges had she and her daughters: besides that, they strengthed not the hande of the poore and needie.

50 But they were hautie, and committed abhomination before me, therefore I toke them away as I sawe good.

51 Neither hath (r) Samaria done halfe of thy sinnes, yea thou hast exceeded them in thyne abhominations, and hast (s) iustified thy sisters in all thyne abhominations whiche thou hast done.

52 Therfore thou which didst condemne thy sister, beare thyne owne shame: for thyne owne offences that thou hast cõmitted more abhominable then they dyd, which in deede are more righteous then thou art, be thou [I say] ashamed, and beare the shamefull rebuke, seeing that thou hast iustified thy sisters.

53 Therfore I wyll bryng agayne their captiuitie, the captiuitie of Sodom and her daughters, & the captiuitie of Samaria and her daughters, and the captiuitie of thy captiuities among (t) them,

54 That

(g) That is, hanshed out the money bys pon straungers to thy shame.

(h) Egyptians Assyrians, & Caldeans, whom thou vsedst to be thy louers, the I come and destroy thee. Ezech. xxiij.b

(i) I wyll iudge thee to death as the adulteres & murtherers.

(m) Of all the heynous offẽces this shalbe the last, or god wyll punishe thee so, that thou shalt neuer sinne more

(n) As were the Chananites and the Hittites, and other your predecessours, so are you their successours.

(o) That is, of Samaria and Sodoma.

(p) That is, her cities.

(q) He alleageth their foure vices, pryde, excesse, idlenesse, and cõtempt of the poore, as foure principall causes of such abhomination, wherfore they were to horrible punished. Gen. xix.a.

(r) which worshiped the calues in Bethel and Dan. 3. Reyng 12.d.

(s) Thou art so wicked, that in respect of thee Sodom and Samaria were iust.

(t) That is, as if he had sayde neuer.

54 That thou mayest take thyne owne confusion vpon thee, and be ashamed of all that thou hast done, in that thou hast (u) comforted them.

(u) In that thou hast shewed thy selfe worse then they, and yet thoughtest to escape punishment.

55 And thy sister Sodom and her daughters shall returne to their former state, Samaria also and her daughters shall returne to their former state, when thou and thy daughters shall returne to your former state.

(x) Thou wouldest not call her punishment to minde when thou wast aloft, to learne by her example to feare my iudgementes.

56 For thy sister Sodom was not (x) heard of by thy report in the day of thy pryde, 57 Before thy wickednesse was (y) discouered, according to the tyme of the reproche of the daughters of Aram, and of all the daughters of the Philistines rounde about her, whiche despise thee on all sides.

(y) That is, till thou wast brought vnder by the Syrians and the Philistines. 2. Chro. 28. c.

58 Thou hast borne thy wickednesse and thyne abhomination, saith the Lorde.

59 For thus saith the Lorde God, I might by right deale with thee as thou hast done, which hast despised the (3) othe in breaking the couenaunt:

(3) Vnder the eyght beaste.

60 Neuertheless, I wyll remember my couenaunt with thee in the dates of thy youth, and I wyll establishe vnto thee an euerlasting couenaunt.

61 Then shalt thou remember thy wayes, and be ashamed when thou shalt receaue thy (aa) sisters, [both] thy elder and thy younger: and I wyll geue them vnto thee for daughters, but not by thy couenaunt.

(aa) He speaketh here not onlye of Sodom and Samaria, but also of the gentiles whom God wyll receaue of his owne free mercy.

62 And I wyll establishe my couenaunt with thee, that thou mayest know that I am the Lorde.

63 That thou mayest thinke vpon it, and be (bb) ashamed, and neuer open thy mouth any more for shame of thy selfe, when I am pacified towarde thee for all that thou hast done, saith the Lorde God.

(bb) This declareth the fruites of Gods mercy, to wit, sorowe and repentaunce for their former lyfe.

¶ The. xvij. Chapter.

The parable of the two Egles.

A 1 The worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying:

2 Thou sonne of man, put forth a parable, & speake a prouerbe vnto the house of Israel,

3 And say, Thus saith the Lorde God: There came a great (a) Egle, with great wynges, yea with a mightie long body, and ful of fethers of diuers colours, vpon the mount of Libanus, and toke the hyest braunche of a Cedar tree.

(a) That is Nabuchodonosor, who hath great power, riches, and many countreys vnder him, shall come to Hierusalem and take away Iechoniah the kyng, as vers. xii.

4 And brake of the top of his twigges, and caryed it into the lande of (b) marchauntes, and set it in a citie of marchauntes.

(b) Meaning to Babylon.

5 He toke also of the (c) seede of the land, and planted it in a fruiteful grounde, he brought it vnto great waters, and set it in an open trenche.

(c) That is Zedekiah, who was of the kynges blood, & was left at Hierusalem & made kyng in steade of Iechonias. 4. King. 24. c. Iere. 37. a.

6 Then did it growe, and was a (d) spreading vine, but (e) lowe of stature, whose braunches turned towarde " it, and the rootes of it were vnder it: thus there came of it a vine, and it brought forth braunches, and shot forth buddes.

(d) This was Zedekias kyngdome.

(e) That it might not haue power to rebell against Babylon, as vers. xiii.

" The Egle.

7 But there was another (f) Egle, a great one, whiche had great wynges and many fethers: and beholde, the rootes of this vine turned towardes it,

(f) Meaning the kyng of Egypt, of whō Zedekias sought succour against Nabuchodonosor.

and spread out her braunches towards it, that she might water it by the trenches of her plantation.

8 It was planted vpon a good soyle beside great waters, so that it should haue brought out braunches, & borne fruite, and haue ben a goodly vine. B

9 Speake thou therfore, thus saith the Lorde God: Shall this vine prosper: shall (g) he not pull vp the rootes therof, and destroy the fruite thereof, and cause them to dry: all the leaues of her bud shall wither without great power, or many people, to plucke it vp by the rootes thereof.

(g) Nabuchodonosor, vnderstanded by the first Egle.

10 Behold, it was planted: Shall it prosper therfore: Shall it not be dryed vp and withered: when the (h) east winde shall touche it, it shall wither in the trenches where it grewe.

(h) That is, the Babylonians.

11 Moreouer, the worde of the Lorde came vnto me, saying:

12 Speake now to the rebellious house, Knowe ye not what these thinges [do signifie]: Tell them, beholde, the kyng of Babylon is come to Hierusalem, and hath taken the (i) kyng thereof, and the princes therof, and hath led them with him to Babylon.

(i) That is, Iechonias. 4. King. 24. c.

13 He toke of the kynges seede, and made a coue-a couenaunt with him, and toke an othe of hym, the princes of the lande toke he with him also.

14 That the kyngdome might be holden in subiection, and not lift vp it selfe, but kepe the couenaunt, and stande to it.

15 But he rebelled against hym, and sent his embassadours into Egypt, that he might haue horses and muche people: Should he prosper? shall he escape that doth suche thinges? or shall he breake the couenaunt and escape free?

16 As truely as I liue saith the Lorde God, he shall dye at Babylon in the place where the kyng dwelleth that made hym kyng, whose othe he hath despised, and whose couenaunt he hath broken.

17 Neither shall Pharao with his great hoast and multitude of people, maintayne hym in the warre, when they haue cast vp mountes, and buylt a fort to destroy many persons.

18 For seeing he hath despised the othe and broken the couenaunt, (wheras he yet gaue his (f) hande therevpon) and done all these thinges, he shall not escape.

(f) Because he broke the name of God in sware, & brake his oth which he had confirmed by geuing his hand, therfore the prophet declareth that God woulde not suffer periure and infidelitie to escape punishment.

19 Therfore thus saith the Lorde God, As truely as I liue I wyll bring mine othe that he hath despised, and my couenaunt that he hath broken, vpon his owne head.

20 *I wyll spreade my net vpon hym, and he shall be caught in my net: and I wyll bring hym to Babylon, and enter into iudgement with him there, for the trespasse whiche he hath committed against me. Ezech.xii.b. and.xxxiii.a

21 As for those that flee from hym, with all his hoast, they shalbe slayne with the sworde, and the residue shalbe scattred towardes all the windes: and ye shall knowe that I the Lord haue spoken it. D

22 Thus saith the Lorde God, I wyll also take of the top of this hye Cedar, and wyll set it, and cut of the top of the tender plant thereof, and wyll plant it vpon an hye hyll and a great.

23 [Namely] vpon the hye hyll of Israel will I plant it, that it may bring foorth bowes, and geue fruite, and be an excellent Cedar: and vnder it shall remayne all byrdes, and euery foule shall remaine vnder the shadowe of the braunches thereof.

24 And all the trees of the fielde shall knowe that I the Lorde haue brought downe the hye tree, and exalted the lowe tree, that I haue dryed vp the greene tree, and made the drye tree to florishe, [euen] I the Lorde that spake it, haue also brought it to passe.

The. xviij. Chapter.

4 He sheweth that euery man shall beare his owne sinne. 21 To him that amendeth, is saluation promised. 24 Death is prophecied to the righteous whiche turneth backe from the right way.

1 THE word of the Lord came vnto me, saying:

2 What meane ye by this cõmon prouerbe that ye vse in the lande of Israel, saying: The (a) fathers haue eaten sowre grapes, and the chyldrens teeth are set on edge?

(a) The people murmured at the chastisinges of the Lorde, and therefore vsed this prouerbe, meaning that their fathers had sinned, and they were punished for their transgressions, read Jere. xxxi.b.

3 As truely as I liue saith the Lorde God, ye shall vse this byworde no more in Israel.

4 Beholde, all soules are mine, lyke as the soule of the father is mine, so is the soule of the sonne myne also: the soule that sinneth shall dye it selfe.

5 But if a man be iust, and do that which is lawfull and right:

6 He hath not (b) eaten vpon the hilles,

(b) That is, if he haue not communicated in the sacrifices of idols.

he hath not lift his eyes to the idols of the house of Israel, neither hath defiled his neighbours wyfe, neither hath come neare a (c) woman remoued:

(c) Meaning suche as were set apart in tyme of naturall & monthly diseases, namely in time of chyldbyrth, leprosie, and suche like, as Leuit. xv.c. Esai.lviii.a. Mat xxv.e. Exo.xxii.d. Leui.xxv.e. Deu.xxiii.c Psal.xv.a.

7 Neither hath oppressed any man, but hath restored to the detter his pledge: he that hath not spoyled any by violence, hath *geuen his bread to the hungry, and hath clothed the naked:

8 And hath not *geuen foorth vpon vsurie, neither taken any encrease, he hath withdrawne his hande from iniquitie, and hath executed true iudgement betweene man and man:

9 And hath walked in my statutes, and kept my iudgementes to deale truely: this is a righteous man, he shall surely liue, saith the Lorde God.

10 If he nowe get a sonne that is a robber, a shedder of blood, and do any one of these thinges:

11 Though he do not all these thinges, but either hath eaten vpon the hilles, or defiled his neighbours wyfe:

12 Or hath oppressed the poore and needie, or spoyled by violence, or hath not restored the pledge, or hath lyft vp his eyes vnto the idols, or hath committed abomination:

13 Or hath geuen foorth vpon vsurie, or hath taken encrease: Shall this man liue? he shall not liue: Seeing he hath done al these abhominations he shal die the death, his blood shalbe vpon hym.

14 Nowe if this man get a sonne also, that seeth all his fathers sinnes whiche he hath done, and feareth, neither doth suche like:

15 [Namely] he hath not eaten vpon the hilles, he hath not lift vp his eyes to the idols of the house of Israel, nor defiled his neighbours wyfe:

16 Neither hath oppressed any, nor hath withholden the pledge, neither hath spoiled by violence: [but] hath geuen his bread to the hungry, and hath couered the naked with a garment:

17 Neither hath withdrawen his hande from the afflicted, nor receaued vsurie nor encrease, [but] hath executed my iudgementes, and walked in my statutes: this man shall not dye in his fathers sinne, but shall liue without fayle.

18 As for his father, because he hath cruelly oppressed and spoyled his brother by violence, and hath not done good among his people, lo he dyeth in his owne sinne.

19 And yet say ye, Wherfore then should not this sonne beare his fathers sinne? Because the sonne hath done iudgment and righteousnesse, he hath kept all my statutes and done them: therefore shall he liue in deede.

20 The same soule that sinneth shall dye, *the sonne shall not beare the fathers iniquitie, neither shall the father beare the sonnes iniquitie: the righteousnesse of the righteous shalbe vpon hym, and the wickednesse of the wicked shalbe vpon him selfe also.

Deut 24.c. 4.King.14.c. ii.Par.25.a.

21 But if the vngodly wyll turne away from all his sinnes that he hath done, and kepe all my statutes, and do the thing that is iugdement and right, doubtlesse he shall liue and not dye.

22 As for all his sinnes that he dyd before they shall not be mentioned vnto hym: but in his righteousnesse that he hath done, he shall liue. D

23 *For haue I any pleasure in the death of a sinner saith the Lorde God: shall he not liue if he returne from his wayes? *ii.Pet.iii.b. Ez.xxxiii.b

24 Agayne, if the righteous turne from his righteousnesse, and do iniquitie, and shall do according to all the abominations that the wicked man doth: shall he liue? All the righteousnesse that he hath done shall not be remembred, but in his transgression that he hath committed, in his sinne that he hath sinned, in them he shall dye.

25 And yet ye say, the way of the Lorde is not (b) indifferent. Heare therefore ye house of Israel, is not my way equall? or are not your wayes rather vnequall? (b) In punishing the brethren with the children.

26 When a righteous man turneth away from his righteousnesse, and committeth iniquitie, and dieth in the same: in his iniquitie whiche he hath committed shall he dye.

27 Agayne, when the wicked turneth away from his wickednesse that he hath done, and doth iudgement and right, he shall saue his soule aliue. E

28 Because he "seeth, and turneth away from all his iniquitie that he hath committed, he shall surely liue, and not dye. "Considereth or remembreth his iniquities.

29 And yet saith the house of Israel, the way of the Lorde is not equall. Are my wayes vnequall O ye house of Israel? are not your wayes rather vnequall?

30 Therefore I wyll iudge you, euery man according to his wayes, O ye house of Israel saith the Lorde: returne and bryng your selues agayne from all your wickednesse, so iniquitie shall not be your destruction.

31 Cast away from you all your transgressions wherby ye haue transgressed, and make you a newe heart and a newe spirite: for why wyll ye dye O ye house of Israel?

32 Seing I haue no pleasure in the death of hym that dyeth, saith the Lord God: bryng agayne your selues then, and ye shall lyue.

The .xix. Chapter.

2 The captiuitie of Jehoahas and Jehoiakim is signified by the lions whelpes, and by the lion. 10 He setteth out the prosperitie of the citie of Hierusalem that is past, & the miserie therof that is present.

1 THou also take vp a lamentation for the (a) princes of Jsrael,

2 And say: Wherfore lay thy mother that lionesse among the lions: she norished her young ones among the lions whelpes.

3 One of her whelpes she brought vp, and it became a lion, it learned to catche the pray and to deuour folke.

4 The (b) heathen hearde of hym, and caught hym in their snare, and brought hym in hookes vnto the lande of Egypt.

5 Nowe when she sawe that she had wayted and her hope was lost, she toke another (c) of her whelpes and made a lion of hym.

6 Which went among the lions, and became a fearce lion, learned to catche the pray, and to deuour folke,

7 He destroyed their palaces and made their cities waste, insomuch that the whole lande and euery thyng therin were vtterly desolate through the voyce of his roaryng.

8 Then set the (b) heathen together on euery side of the countreis agaynst him, layde their nettes for him, and toke him in their pit.

9 So they put him in prison in chaynes, and brought him to the kyng of Babylon: they put him in holdes, that his voyce shoulde no more be heard vpon the mountaynes of Jsrael.

10 As for thy (c) mother, she is like a vine in thy blood, planted by the waters: she brought foorth fruite and braunches by the aboundaunt waters.

11 And she had strong roddes for the scepters of them that beare rule, and her stature was exalted on hye among the braunches, & she appeared in her height with the multitude of her braunches.

12 But she was pluckt vp in wrath, cast out vpon the grounde, the east wynde dryed vp her fruite [her braunches] were broken of & withered, as for the roddes of her strength, the fire consumed them.

13 And nowe she is planted in the wildernesse, in a dry and thirstie grounde.

14 And there is a fire gone out of the (f) rodde of her braũches, it hath deuoured her fruite, so that she hath no strong rodde for a scepter to rule: This is a lamentation, and shalbe for a lamentation.

(a) That is, Jehoias and Jehoiakim kings of Jsrael, in the 2. verse true and proper compared vnto lions.

(b) Meaning by Nebuchadnezzar kyng of Egypt. 4. Reg. 23. d.

(c) Which was Jehoiakim.

(c) He speaketh this in the reproche of this wicked kyng, in whose blood, that is, in the race of his predecessors, Hierusalem was & so should haue ben blessed, according to Gods promises, and florished like a fruitfull vine.

(f) Destruction to come by Jeconiah, who was the occasion of the rebellion.

The .xx. Chapter.

3 The Lorde denieth that he wyll aunswere them when they pray, for the offence of vnkindnesse which he here obiecteth. 33 He promiseth that his people shall returne from captiuitie. 46 By the forest that shoulde be burnt, is signified the burning of Hierusalem.

1 IN the (a) seuenth yere the tenth day of the fift moneth, certayne of the elders of Jsrael came for to aske counsayle at the Lorde, and sate downe before me.

(a) Of the captiuitie of Jeconiah.

2 Then came the worde of the Lorde vnto me, saying:

3 Thou sonne of man, speake vnto the elders of Jsrael, and say vnto them, thus saith the Lorde God, Are ye come to enquire of me? As truely as J liue J wyll not be (b) sought of you, saith the Lorde God.

(b) If ye ofter acceptable sacrifice as J wyll giue you no answere. 1. Esd. xxxi.

4 Wylt thou not iudge them some of man, wylt thou not iudge [them:] cause them to vnderstande the abhominations of their fathers.

5 And tell them, thus saith the Lorde God, Jn the day when J chose Jsrael, and (c) lift vp mine hande vpon the seede of the house of Jacob, and was knowen vnto them in the lande of Egypt, yea when J lift vp mine hande ouer them, and sayde, J am the Lorde your God:

(c) This was a maner of swearyng which was obserued in takyng an othe of all antiquitie, and is yet in diuers countreis vsed.

6 Euen in the day that J lift vp mine hande vnto them, to bryng them out of the lande of Egypt into a lande that J had prouided for them, which floweth with mylke and hony, and is pleasaunt among all other landes:

7 Then

7 The saide vnto them, Cast away euery man the abhominations of his eyes, 25
& defile not your selues with the idols of Egypt: for I am the Lorde your God.

8 But they rebelled against me, and woulde not hearken vnto me, they dyd not cast away euery man the abhominations of his eyes, neither dyd they forsake the idols of Egypt: then I said I woulde powre out mine indignation ouer them, and accomplishe my wrath vpon them, yea euen in the middest of the lande of Egypt.

9 And I wrought for my names sake that it shoulde not be polluted before the heathen among whom they were, to whom I was manifestly knowen, in bryngyng them foorth of the lande of Egypt.

10 Nowe when I had caused them to go out of the lande of Egypt, and brought them into the wildernesse:

11 I gaue them my statutes, and shewed them my iudgementes: *which whoso doeth, shall lyue in them.

Rom.x.a. Gal.iii.b. Leuit.18.a.

12 I gaue them also my* Sabbath dayes to be a token betwixt me and them, and therby to knowe that I am the Lorde which halowe them.

Exo.xx.b.

13 And yet the house of Israel rebelled against me in the wildernesse, they woulde not walke in my statutes, they haue cast away my iudgementes, which whoso doth shall lyue in them, and my Sabbath dayes haue they greatly polluted: *then I sayde, I woulde powre out mine indignation vpon them, and consume them in the wildernesse.

Num.14.d.

14 And I wrought for my names sake, lest it shoulde be defiled before the heathen, in whose sight I brought them out. ℭ

15 Yet neuertheless I lift vp my hande vnto them in the wildernesse, that I woulde not bring them into the lande which I gaue them, that floweth with mylke and hony, and is a pleasure of all landes:

16 And that because they cast away my iudgementes and walked not in my statutes: but haue defiled my Sabbathes: for their heart was gone after their idols.

17 Neuertheless mine eye spared them, so that I woulde not destroy them, nor consume them in the wildernesse.

18 Moreouer, I sayde vnto their sonnes in the wildernesse, walke not in the statutes of your (b) fathers, kepe not their iudgementes, and defile not your selues with their idols.

(b) whereby the holy ghost confuteth the that say they wyll folowe the religion & example of their father, & not measure their doynges by Gods worde, whether they be approuable therby or no.

19 I am the Lord your God, walke in my statutes, kepe my iudgementes, & do the.

20 Halowe my Sabbathes, for they are a token betwixt me and you: that ye may knowe howe that I am the Lord your God.

21 Notwithstandyng, their sonnes rebelled agaynst me also, they walked not in my statutes, they kept not my iudgementes to fulfyll them, which he that doth shall lyue in them, they prophaned my Sabbath dayes: and I sayde, I woulde powre out mine indignation ouer them, and accomplishe my wrath vpon them in the wildernesse. D

22 Neuertheless, I withdrewe my hand and wrought for my names sake, lest it shoulde be defiled in the sight of the heathen, before whom I had brought them foorth.

23 I lift vp my hande to them also in the wildernesse, that I would scatter them among the heathen, and strawe them among the nations:

24 Because they had not kept my iudgementes, but cast aside my statutes and broken my Sabbathes, and their eyes were after their fathers idols.

25 Wherfore I (c) gaue them also statutes that were not good, and iudgementes wherin they shoulde not lyue.

(c) Because they woulde not obey my lawes, I gaue them vp to them selues, that they shoulde obey their owne fantasies, as Rom. i. b.

26 And I defiled them in their owne giftes, in that they (f) caused all that openeth the wombe to passe, that I might destroy them, that they might knowe howe that I am the Lorde.

(f) Causyng their first borne to passe through the fire in sacrifice to Molocht.

27 Therfore speake vnto the house of Israel thou sonne of man, and thou shalt say vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God: yet in this also your fathers haue blasphemed me, and greeuously transgressed agaynst me:

28 For after I had brought them into the lande, for the which I lifted vp my hande to geue it vnto them, when they sawe euery hie hil, & all thicke trees, they offered there their sacrifices, & there they presented their offering of (g) anger, there also they made their sweete sauours, and powred out their wine offerynges.

(g) Stocketerryng as prouoke God to anger.

29 And I sayde vnto them, what is that hye place wherevnto ye resort? and the name of it is called (h) Bamah vnto this day.

(h) Which signifieth an hye place, declaryng that they haunted them selues of their idolatrie, and were not ashamed therof, though God had commaunded expressly & they shoulde haue no altar lifted vp on hye by starres. Exod. xx. b.

day.

30 Wherfore speake vnto the house of Israel, thus saith the Lorde God, Are ye not defiled in the waies of your fathers, and commit ye not Whoredome after their abhominations?

31 For when ye offer your giftes, & make your sonnes to passe through the fire, you are polluted with all your idols vnto this day: shall I aunswere you when I am asked, O house of Israel? As I liue saith the Lorde God, I will not be sought of you.

32 And [that which] commeth into your mynde shall not be at all, Which you say, we will be as the gentiles, as the kinredes of countreis, to serue wood and stone.

33 As truely as I liue saith the Lorde God, I my selfe will rule you with a mightie hande, with a stretched out arme, and with indignation powred out ouer you.

34 And I will bring you from the people, and gather you out of the countreis wherin ye are scattered, with a mightie hande, with a stretched out arme, and with indignation powred out.

(l) That is, amongst strange nations. (k) I will reason and plead my cause with you my selfe, 35 And I will bring you into the (l) wildernesse of the people, & there I (k) will be iudged with you face to face.

36 Like as I pleaded with your fathers in the wildernesse of Egypt: so will I pleade with you also, saith the Lorde God.

37 I will cause you to passe vnder the rodde, and I will bring you into the bonde of the couenaunt.

*Or, cull. 38 And I will "purge out of you the rebelles, & them that transgresse against me, and bring them out of the lande of their habitation: as for the lande of Israel they shall not come in it, that you may knowe howe that I am the Lord.

39 As for you O house of Israel, thus saith the Lorde God, Go you and serue euery man his idols, seyng that ye obey not me: and pollute no more my holy name with your giftes and your idols.

40 For vpon my holy hyll, euen vpon the hye hyll of Israel saith the Lord God, shall all the house of Israel, and all that is in the lande worship me: and in the same place will I fauour them, & there will I require your heaue offerynges, and the firstlinges of your oblations, with all your holy thinges.

41 I will accept your sweete sauour, when I bryng you from the nations, & gather you together out of the landes wherin ye haue ben scattered, that I may be halowed in you before the heathen.

42 And ye shall knowe that I am the Lorde, when I shall bring you into the lande of Israel, into the lande for the which I lift vp my hande to geue it vnto your fathers.

43 There shall ye call to remb[illegible]raunce your owne wayes, and all your workes wherin ye haue ben defiled, and ye shalbe cut of in your (1) owne sight for all your wickednesse that ye haue done.

(1) Your owne consciences shal condempne you as worthy to be cut of from the earth.

44 And ye shall knowe that I am the Lorde, when I deale with you for my names sake, and not after your wicked wayes, nor according to your corrupt workes O ye house of Israel, saith the Lorde God.

45 Moreouer, the worde of the Lorde came vnto me, saying: G

46 Thou sonne of man, set thy face towarde the way of Themanah, and drop [thy worde] towarde the (m) south, and prophecie towarde the forest of the south fielde.

(m) That is, towarde Hierusalem and Juda, which was south from Babylon.

47 And say to the forest of the south, Heare the worde of the Lord, thus saith the Lorde God, Beholde I will kindle a fire in thee, that shall consume all the (n) greene trees, with all the dry: the continuall flambe shall not be quenched, and euery face from the south to the north shalbe burnt therin.

(n) That is, both strong & weake in Hierusalem.

48 And all flesh shall see that I the Lorde haue kindled it, and it shall not be quenched.

49 Then sayde I, Ah Lorde God, they say of me, Doth not he speake (o) parables?

(o) He vseth the people so that the prophete speake darkly, therfore he declareth the y to geue them a playner declaration therof.

The

The. xxi. Chapter.

3 He threatneth the swoorde, that is to say, destruction to the citie of Hierusalem. 25 He sheweth the fall of king Zedekiah. 28 He is commaunded to prophecie the destruction of the children of Ammon. 30 After the slaughter of other, at the last the Lorde threatneth death vnto Nabuchodonozor hym selfe.

A 1 The woorde of the Lorde came vnto me, saying:

2 Thou sonne of man, set thy face towarde Hierusalem, and (a) drop [thy woorde] towarde the holy places, and prophecie agaynst the lande of Israel.

3 Say to the lande of Israel, thus saith the Lorde, Beholde I am against thee, and wyll drawe my swoorde out of the sheath, and cut of from thee both the (b) righteous and the wicked.

4 Seyng then that I wyll cut of from thee both the righteous and the wicked: therfore shall my swoorde go out of his sheath agaynst all flesshe from the (c) south to the north,

5 That all flesshe may knowe howe that I the Lorde haue drawne my swoorde out of the sheath, and it shall not be put in agayne.

6 Mourne therfore O thou sonne of man, yea [euen] with the (d) breakyng of thy loynes, mourne bitterly in their presence.

7 And if they say vnto thee, Wherfore mournest thou: Then tell them, for the (e) tidinges that commeth: All hartes shall melt, all handes shalbe letten downe, all stomackes shal faynt, and all knees shall (f) go as water: beholde it commeth, and shalbe brought to passe, saith the Lorde God.

8 Agayne, the woorde of the Lorde came vnto me, saying:

9 Thou sonne of man, prophecie and speake, thus saith the Lorde God, Speake, the swoorde the swoorde is sharpened and well furbished.

10 Sharpened is it to make a great slaughter, and furbished that it may glitter: Shall we then make mirth: It contemneth the (g) rodde of my sonne [as] (h) all other trees.

11 He hath geuen it to be furbished, to holde it in the hande: this swoorde is sharpened, and furbished, to geue it into the hande of the (i) slayer.

12 Crye and houle sonne of man, for it commeth vpon my people [it commeth] vpon all the princes of Israel: the terrours of the swoorde shalbe vpon my people, *smite therfore thou vpon thy thygh. *Iere 31 c.

13 Because it is a triall: and what if (k) it contemne the rodde: It shalbe no more saith the Lorde.

14 Prophecie thou sonne of man, & smite thy (l) handes together, & let the swoorde be doubled thrise, [euen] the swoorde of the great slaughter, entryng into their priuie chaumbers, 15 To make them faynt at the hartes, and to multiplie their falles, in all their gates, haue I geuen the terrour of the swoorde: Ah it is made bright, and dressed for the slaughter.

16 Get thee (m) one way or other, either vpon the right hande or vpon the left, whyther soeuer thy face turneth.

17 I will smite my handes together also, and make my wrathfull indignation to rest: euen I the Lorde haue sayde it.

18 The woorde of the Lorde came yet vnto me agayne, saying:

19 Thou sonne of man, appoynt thee two (n) Wayes, that the swoorde of the king of Babylon may come: Both these Wayes shal go out of one lande, and choose thee a place, at the head of the citie Wayes choose it.

20 Appoynt a way that the swoorde may come towarde Rabbath of the Ammonites, and towarde (o) Juda in the defenced Hierusalem.

21 For the kyng of Babylon stoode at the (p) partyng of the Wayes, at the head of the two Wayes, consultyng by diuination, he made his arrowes bright, consulted with images, & lookt in the liuer.

22 At his right hande was the soothsaying for Hierusalem, to appoynt captaynes, to open [their] mouth to the slaughter, and to lift vp their voice with the alarum, to set battle rammes agaynst the gates, to cast a bulwarke, [and] to builde a fort.

23 And it shalbe vnto them as a false diuination in their sight, for the (q) othes made vnto them: but (r) he wyll call to remembraunce their iniquitie, to the intent

(a) As doctrine is compared to raine, euen so here woordes are compared to droppes.

(b) That is, such as seeme to haue an outward shew of righteousnesse vp obseruation of the ceremonies of the lawe.

(c) Meanyng throughout all the lande.

(d) As though thou were in extreme anguishe wherewith thy loynes should breake.

(e) Because of the great noyse of the armie of the Chaldeans.

(f) Shalbe as weake as water.

(g) Meaning the scepter, shewyng that it wyll not spare the king, who should be as the sonne of God, and in his place.

(h) That is, the rest of the people.

(i) To wit, vnto the armie of the Chaldeans.

(k) Meaning the swoorde of the kyng of Babylon, which shall not spare the scepter of Iuda.

(l) That is, encourage the swoorde.

(m) He speaketh vnto the swoord, geuyng it libertie to range at his pleasure.

(n) Where the way deuideth and leadeth to many cities.

(o) The tribe of Juda that kept christian churches in Hierusalem.

(p) To know whether he should go against the Ammonites or them of Hierusalem.

(q) Because there was a league betweene the Jewes and the Babylonians, they of Hierusalem shall thinke nothyng lesse then that this thyng shall come to passe.

(r) That is, Nabuchodonozor wyll remember the rebellion of Jedekiah, and so come vpon them.

intent they may be taken.

D 24 Therfore thus saith the Lorde God, Because ye haue made your iniquitie to be remẽbred in discouerynge your transgressions, so that in all your workes your sinnes might appeare, because ye are come to remembraunce, ye shalbe taken by hande.

(f) Sometyme Zedechiah.

25 O thou shamefull wicked (f) prince of Israel, whose day is come, euen when wickednesse shall haue an ende,

(g) Some referre this to the priestes office, for Iehoiachin the right went into captiuitie with the king.

26 Thus saith the Lorde God, I wyll take away the (g) Diademe, and put of the crowne: this shalbe no more the same, I wyll exalt the humble, and abase him that is hye.

(h) That is, the state of the kingdome & priesthood shall cease vntyl & more ferre tyll Christ come, from whom of right both belong.

27 Ouerthrowen, ouerthrowen, ouerthrowen wyll I put (h) it, and it shall not be, vntyll he come to whom the iudgement belongeth, and to whom I haue geuen it.

28 And thou O sonne of man, prophecie and speake, Thus saith the Lorde God to the children of Ammon, and to their blasphemie, speake thou: The sworde, the sworde is drawen foorth alredy to slaughter, and furbished to consume because of the glitteryng:

(i) Though the Iewes & Ammonites would not beleue that thou, to wit, the sworde should come vpon them, and sayde that the prophete who the threatned, spake lyes: yet thou shalt as surely come as though thou wart alredy vpon their neckes.

29 Whiles they see vnto thee (i) vanitie, and deuine a lye vnto thee, to put thee with the neckes of the wicked that be slayne, whose day is come when their iniquitie shall haue an ende.

30 Shoulde I cause it to returne into his sheath? In the place where thou wast created, in the lande of thine habitation wyll I iudge thee:

31 And I wyll powre mine indignation vpon thee, and wyll blowe vpon thee in the fire of my wrath, and deliuer thee into the handes of desperate people, which are skilfull to destroy.

32 Thou shalt feede the fire, and thy blood shalbe shed in the lande: thou shalt be put out of remembraunce, for I the Lorde haue spoken it.

The .xxij. Chapter.

The worde of the Lorde against Hierusalem for manslaughter, and denying due honour to their fathers and mothers, and other wickednesses. 25 Of the wicked doctrine of the false prophets and priestes, and of their vnsatiable couetousnesse. 27 The tirannie of rulers. 29 The wickednesse of the people.

1 MOreouer the worde of the Lorde came vnto me, and sayde,

(a) That is, wylt thou harden as hard horrible sinners, and not turne my iudgementes against them?

2 Thou sonne of man, wylt thou not (a) iudge, wylt thou not iudge this blooddy citie? wylt thou not shewe her all her abhominations?

3 And tell them, thus saith the Lorde God, The citie sheddeth blood in the middest of it, that her (b) tyme may come, and maketh idols (c) against her selfe, to defile her selfe.

(b) That is, the time of her destruction.
(c) To her owne hurting.

4 Thou hast made thy selfe giltie in the blood that thou hast shed, and defyled thee in the idols which thou hast made: thou hast caused thy dayes to drawe nye, and made the tyme of thy yeres to come: therfore wyll I make thee a reproche among the heathen, and to be a mockyng in all landes.

5 Whether they be nye or farre from thee, they shall laugh thee to scorne, thou that hast gotten thee so foule a name, and art full of trouble.

6 Beholde the rulers of Israel, euery one in thee [was redy] to his power to shed blood.

7 In thee haue they dispised father and mother, in thee haue they oppressed the straunger, in thee haue they vexed the widowe and the fatherlesse. 25

8 Thou hast dispised my holy thynges, and defiled my Sabbathes.

9 "Tale tellers are there in thee to shed blood, in thee are such as eate vpon the hylles, and in thee they commit abhomination. "Or, pickthankes.

10 *In thee they discouered their fathers shame, in thee they haue humbled her that was set apart for pollution. Leuit.18.b.

11 *Euery man hath dealt shamefully with his neighbours wife, and abhominably defiled his "daughter in lawe, in thee hath euery man forced his owne sister, euen his fathers daughter. Iere.v.b. "Or, sonnes wyfe.

12 Yea giftes haue ben receaued in thee to shed blood, thou hast taken vsurie and encrease, thou hast oppressed thy neighbours by extortion, and forgotten me, saith the Lorde God.

(d) In sorowyng and lamenting their wickednesse: or in token of his wrath and vengeaunce.

13 Beholde, I haue (d) smitten my handes vpon thy couetousnesse that thou hast vsed, and vpon the blood which hath ben shed in thee.

14 Is

¶ 14 Is thy heart able to endure? or may thy handes be strenghthened in the dayes that I shal haue to do with thee? Euen I the Lorde that speake it, Wyll bryng it also to passe.

15 I wyll scatter thee among the heathen, & strawe thee about in the landes, and wyll cause thy filthinesse to (e) ceasse out of thee.

(e) I wyll take away the occasion of thy wickednesse.

16 Yea and thou shalt be thine (f) owne inheritaunce in the sight of the heathen, that thou mayest knowe that I am the Lorde.

(f) Whereas before thou wast Gods inheritaunce, nowe thou shalt be left so thy selfe miserable and forsaken.

17 And the Worde of the Lorde came vnto me, saying:

18 Thou sonne of man, the house of Israel is vnto me as drosse: all they are brasse, tinne, iron, and lead in the middest of the furnace, euen drosse of siluer are they.

19 Therfore thus saith the Lorde God, Forasmuch as ye all are turned into drosse, therfore beholde I wyll bryng you together vnto Hierusalem.

20 Lyke as they gather siluer, brasse, iron, tinne, and lead, into the middest of the furnace, and the fire is blowne there vnder to melt them: euen so wyll I gather you in mine anger & in my wrath, and let you remayne [there] and cause you to (g) melt.

(g) Meaning therby that the godly shoulde be tryed, and the wicked destroyed.

21 I wyll bryng you together, and blowe the fire of my wrath vpon you, and ye shalbe molten in the middest therof.

22 Lyke as the siluer is molten in the furnace, so shall ye also be molten therin, that ye may knowe howe that I the Lord haue powred my wrath vpon you.

23 And the worde of the Lorde came vnto me, saying:

24 Thou sonne of man, tell her, Thou art an vncleane lande, which is not (h) rayned vpon in the day of wrath.

(h) Thou art lyke a barren lande which the Lorde plagueth with drought.

25 There is a (i) conspiracie of her prophetes in the middest therof: as a roring lion rauenyng his pray, they deuour soules, they haue taken the riche and pretious thynges, they haue made her many widowes in the middest therof.

(i) The false prophetes haue conspired together to make their doctrine more probable. 3. Reg. 22. b.

26 Her priestes haue broken my lawe, and defiled my holy thynges, they put no difference betweene the holy & vnholy, neither discerne they betweene the cleane & vncleane: they turne their eyes from my Sabbathes, and I am defiled among them.

27 *Thy rulers in thee are lyke woolues rauenyng the pray, to shed blood, and destroy soules, for their owne couetous lucre.

Mich. iii. b. Soph. iii. a.

28 As for her (k) prophetes, they daube with vntempered morter, they see vanities, and diuine lyes vnto them, saying, The Lorde saith so: wheras the Lorde hath not spoken.

(k) They which shoulde haue reproued the, flattered them in their vices, and coloured their doynges with lyes. Ezec. 13. b 29 The people in the lande vsed wicked extortion and robbery, they vexe the poore and needy, and oppresse the straunger agaynst right.

30 And I sought among them for a man that Woulde (l) make vp the hedge, and set hym selfe in the gap before me in the landes behalfe, that I shoulde not destroy it: but I coulde fynde none.

(l) Which shoulde shewe hym selfe zelous in my cause by resisting vice. Esai. 59. c. and 63. a. and also pray vnto me to withholde my plagues. Psal. 106. b.

31 Therfore haue I powred out my cruel displeasure vpon them, and consumed them in the fire of my wrath: their owne wayes wyll I recompence vpon their heades, saith the Lorde God.

The. xxiii. Chapter.

4 Of the fornication, that is to say, of the idolatrie of Samaria and Hierusalem, vnder the name of Aholah and Aholibah. 11 In comparison of Samaria, he sheweth that the fornication of Hierusalem is the filthier. 22 The destruction of Hierusalem is prophecied. 36 The adulterie of both the whores is founde out. 47 Their destruction.

1 THe Worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying:

A

(a) Meaning Israel and Iuda which came both out of one famine.

2 Thou sonne of man, there were two women the daughters of (a) one mother.

3 And they committed fornication in (b) Egypt, they played the harlottes in their youth: there were their breastes pressed, and there they bruised the teates of their virginitie.

(b) They became idolatours after the manner of the Egyptians.

4 The (c) names of them [were] Aholah the elder, and Aholibah her sister, and they were mine, and they bare sonnes and daughters: thus [were] their names, Samaria is Aholah, and Hierusalem Aholibah.

(c) Aholah signifieth a mansion or dwelling in her selfe, meaning Samaria, which was the royal seate of Israel, and Aholibah signifieth my mansion in her, wherby is ment Hierusalem, where Gods temple was.

5 Aholah played ỳ harlot (d) when she was mine, and she was set on fire with her louers the Assyrians her neighbours:

(d) Or, Vnder me, that is, vnder my gouernaunce, & named the people of god, they became idolaters, forsoke God, and put their trust in the Assyrians.

6 which were clothed with blewe silke, [both] captaynes and princes, they were all pleasaunt young men, and horsemen rydyng vpon horses.

7 Thus she committed her whordome with them [beyng] all chosen men of Assur, Asshur, & with all on whom she doted, and defiled her selfe with all their idols.

8 Neither left she the fornication that she vsed with the Egyptians: for in her youth they (e) lay with her, they bruised the brestes of her maydenhead, and powred their whordome vpon her.

9 Wherfore I deliuered her into the handes of her louers [euen] into ỹ handes of the Assyrians vpon whom she doted.

10 These discouered her shame, toke her sonnes & daughters, and slue her with the sworde, an euyll name had she among women: for (f) they had executed iudgement vpon her.

11 Her sister Aholibah sawe this, and destroyed her selfe with inordinate lone more then she, & with her fornications, more thē her sister with her fornications.

12 She doted vpō the Assyrians captaines & princes her neighbours, clothed with all maner of gorgious apparel, horsmen riding vpon horses, beyng all pleasaunt young men.

13 Then I sawe that she was defiled, and they toke both one way.

14 But she encreased styll in whordome: for when she sawe (g) men paynted vpon the wall, the images of the Chaldees paynted with vermilon, 15 And girded with girdles vpon their loynes, and with dyed attire vpon their heades, lokyng all like princes, after the maner of the Babylonians in Chaldea, the lande where they were borne.

16 Assoone as she sawe them, she burnt in loue vpon them, & sent messengers vnto them into the lande of the Chaldees.

17 Nowe when the Babylonians came vnto her in the bed of loue, they defiled her with their whordome: and so was she polluted with them, and her lust was abated from them.

18 And she discouered her whordome, and disclosed her shame: then my heart forsoke her, like as my heart was gone from her sister also.

19 Neuertheless, she encreased her whordome more, and remembred the dayes of her youth wherin she had played the harlot in the lande of Egypt.

20 She burnt in lust vpon their concubines, whose flesshe was like the flesshe of asses, and their issue like the issue of horses.

21 Thus thou hast called to remēbraunce the filthinesse of thy youth, when thy teates were bruised by the Egyptians, for the pappes of thy youth.

22 Therfore O Aholibah, thus saith the Lorde God, I wyll raise vp thy louers agaynst thee from whom thy heart is departed, and gather them together agaynst thee on euery syde, D

23 [Namely] the Babylonians and all the Chaldees, rulers, wealthy and mightie men, with all the Assyrians, all pleasaūt young men, captaynes and princes, all valiaunt and renowmed, riding vpon horses.

24 These shall come vpon thee with charrettes, wagons, and wheeles, and great multitude of people, with buckler, shielde, and helmet they shall beset thee on euery side: "I wyll geue iudgement before them, yea they them selues shall iudge thee accordyng to their owne iudgement.

25 I wyll lay mine indignation vpon thee, so that they shal deale cruelly with thee: they shall cut of thy nose and thine eares, and thy remnaunt shall fall by the sworde, they shall cary away thy sonnes and daughters, and the residue shalbe deuoured by the fire.

26 They shal strip thee out of thy clothes, and take away thy faire iewels.

27 Thus wyll I make thy wickednesse to ceasse from thee, and thy fornication out of the lande of Egypt: so that thou shalt turne thine eyes no more after them, and cast thy mynde no more vpon Egypt.

28 For thus saith the Lord God, Beholde I wyll deliuer thee into the handes of them whom thou hatest, yea euen into the handes of them from whom thine heart is departed.

29 And they shall deale hatefully with thee, and take away all thy (h) labour, & leaue thee naked & bare, and the shame of thy fornications (i) shalbe discouered, both thy wickednesse & thy whordome.

30 I wyll do these thynges vnto thee, because thou hast gone a whorying after the heathen, and because thou art polluted with their idols.

31 Thou hast walked in the way of thy sister, therfore wyll I geue her cuppe in thine hande.

32 Thus saith the Lorde God, Thou shalt drynke of thy sisters cuppe, deepe & large, thou shalt be laughed to scorne, and had in derision, because it conteineth much.

(e) The holy ghost vseth such rude wordes which seeme straunge to chaste eares, to cause thys horrible vice of whoredome so to be abhorred, that vnneth any should abyde to heare the same there of mentioned.

(f) That is, the Assyrians, whō plaguing them.

(g) This declareth that no wordes are able sufficiently to expresse the rage of adulterers, & therfore the holy ghost here compareth them to those which in their raging loue & filthy lustes burne vpon the images and paynturynges of them after they fall.

(h) All the treasures and riches which thou hast gotten by labour.

(i) All the worlde shall see thy shamefull forsakyng of God to serue idols.

"Or, I wyll leaue the punishment vnto them.

much).

(k) Meaning that the afflictions shoulde be so great, that they shoulde cause them to loose their senses and reason.

33 Thou shalt be filled with (k) drunkennesse and sorowe [euen] with the cup of destruction and desolation, with the cup of thy sister Samaria.

34 Thou shalt drynke it and sucke it out, and thou shalt breake the sheardes therof, and teare thine owne brestes: for I haue spoken it, saith the Lorde God.

E 35 Therfore thus saith the Lorde God, Forasmuch as thou hast forgotten me, and cast me aside behynde thy backe, so beare nowe thine owne wickednesse and whordome.

36 The Lorde sayde moreouer vnto me, Thou sonne of man, Wilt thou not iudge Aholah and Aholibah: shewe them their abhominations.

37 [Namely] that they haue broken their wedlocke, and blood is in their handes: and with their idols haue they cõmitted adulterie, and haue also caused their sonnes whom they bare vnto me, to passe [by the fire] to be their (l) meate.

(l) That is, to be sacrifices to their idols. Read. Ezech. xvi. c.

38 Yea and this haue they done vnto me also, they haue defiled my sanctuarie in the same day, and haue prophaned my Sabbathes.

39 For when they had slayne their children for their idols, they came the same day into my sanctuarie to defile it: and lo thus haue they done in my house.

(m) They sent into other countreis to haue such as shoulde teache them the seruice of their idols.

40 And howe much more [is it] that they sent for men to come from (m) farre, vnto whom a messenger was sent, and lo they came: for whom thou didst washe thy selfe, and paynted thine eyes, and deckedst thee with ornamentes.

41 Thou satteste vpon a stately bed, and a (n) table spread before it, wherupon thou hast set mine incense and mine oyle.

F (n) He meaneth the mixture that was prepared for the idols. "Or, the table.

42 And a noyse of a mery company at "it, and with the men, beside the multitude of the people, were brought men of Saba out of the desert, which gaue them bracelettes vpon their handes, and beautifull crownes vpon their heades.

43 And I sayd vnto her that was worne in her adulteries, Nowe shall her fornications come to an ende, and she also.

44 And they went in to her as they go vnto a common harlot: euen so went they [I say] to Aholah and Aholibah, those wicked women.

45 And the righteous men, they shall iudge thē after the maner of *harlottes, and after the maner of murtherers: for they are harlottes, and blood is in their handes. *Eze. xvi. d.

46 Wherfore thus saith the Lorde God, I wyll bryng a great multitude of people vpon them, and geue them to be tattered and spoyled:

47 And the multitude shall stone them with stones, and cut them downe with their swordes, they shall slay their sonnes and daughters, and burne vp their houses with fire.

48 Thus wyll I cause wickednesse to ceasse out of the lande, that all (o) women may be taught, not to do after your wickednesse.

(o) Meaning all other cities and countreis.

49 And so they shal lay your wickednesse vpon your owne selues, and the sinnes of your idols shall ye beare: and ye shall knowe that I am the Lorde God.

The.xxiiij. Chapter.

3 He proueth the firing of Hierusalem by a parable of a seething pot. 16 The parable of Ezechiels wyfe beyng dead, which he after expoundeth.

A (a) Of Jeconiahs captiuitie, and of the raigne of Zedekiah. 4. Re. 25. a.

1 IN the (a) ninth yere, in the tenth moneth, the tenth day of the (b) moneth, came the worde of the Lorde vnto me, saying:

(b) That is, the citezins & chiefe men therof

2 O thou sonne of man, write the name of this day, yea euen of this present day: for the kyng of Babylon set hym selfe agaynst Hierusalem this selfe same day.

(c) Meaning of the innocentes whom they had slaine, who were the cause of the kindling of Gods wrath against them.

3 Shewe the rebellious house a parable, and speake vnto them, thus saith the Lorde God: Prepare a (c) pot, set it on, and powre water into it.

(c) Wherby is meant Hierusalem.

4 Gather the (d) peeces therof into it, euery good peece, the thygh and the shoulder, & fyll it with the chiefe bones.

5 Take one of the best sheepe, & a heape of (e) bones vnder it: let it boyle well, and let the bones therof seeth well therin.

(e) Signifying the remayne.

6 With that sayde the Lorde God on this maner, Wo vnto the blooddy citie, to the pot whose (f) scummie is therin, & whose scumme is not gone out of it: bryng it out (g) peece by peece, let no (h) lot fall vpon it.

(f) whose iniquities & wicked enterprises there yet remayne.

(g) Signifying they shoulde not be destroyed all at once, but by litle and litle.

(h) Spare no state or condition.

7 For her blood is yet in it, vpon a hygh (i) drye stone hath she powred it: and not vpon the grounde, that it myght be couered with dust.

(i) The citie shewed her crueltie to all the world, and was not ashamed therof, neither yet hid it.

8 That

8 That it might cause wrath to arise, and take vengeaunce: I haue set her blood vpon a high drye rocke, that it shoulde not be couered.

9 Wherefore thus sayth the Lorde God: Woe be vnto the bloodthirstie citie, for whom euen I my selfe wil make a great fire,

10 And set much wood, and (k) kindle the fire, and seeth the flesche, & spice the pot, so that the very bones shalbe brent.

11 Moreouer, I will set the pot emptie vpõ the coales, so that the brasse thereof may be hot and burnt, and the filthynesse of it may be molten in it, and the scum of it shalbe consumed.

12 She hath weeried her selfe with labour, yet her great scum is not gone of her, in the fire her scum [must be consumed.]

13 In thy filthynesse is wickednesse: because I (l) would haue purged thee, and thou wast not purged, from thy filthynesse thou shalt not be purged any more, till I haue caused myne indignation to rest in thee.

14 Euen I the Lorde haue spoken it: yea it is come therto all redy that I will do it, I will not go backe, I will not spare, I will not repent: but according to thy wayes and imaginations shall they (m) iudge thee, sayth the Lorde God.

15 And the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying:

16 Thou sonne of man, behold I wil take away from thee the (n) pleasure of thyne eyes with a plague, yet shalt thou neither mourne nor weepe, neither shal thy teares run downe.

17 Mourne in silens, make no (o) mourning of the dead, bynde the tyre of thy head vpon thee, and put on thy shoes vpon thy feete, couer not thy lippes, and (p) eate no mans bread.

18 So I spake vnto the people betymes in the morning, & at euen my wife dyed: then vpon the next morowe I dyd as I was commaunded.

19 And the people sayd vnto me: Wilt thou not tell vs what this signifieth towarde vs, that thou doest so?

20 I aunswered them, The worde of the Lorde came vnto me, saying: D

21 Tell the house of Israel, thus sayth the Lorde God: Beholde, I will (q) pollute my sanctuarie, euen the glorie of your power, the pleasure of your eyes, and your heartes delite: & your sonnes and daughters whom ye haue left, shall fall through the sworde. (q) By sending the Chaldeans to destroy it, as chap. 7. c.

22 Like as I haue done, so shall ye do also: ye shall not couer your lippes, ye shall eate no mans bread.

23 And your tire [shalbe] vpon your heades, and your shoes vpon your feete: ye shall neither mourne nor weepe, but ye shall pyne away in your iniquities, & mourne one towardes another.

24 Thus Ezechiel is your shewtoken, according to all that he hath done, ye shall do: when it commeth, then ye shal know that I am the Lorde God.

25 Also thou sonne of man, shall it not be in the day when I take from thẽ their power, the ioy of their honour, the pleasure of their eyes, and the (r) lifting vp of their soules, their sonnes & their daughters, (r) Their heartes delite

26 In that day shall come one that is escaped, vnto thee, [(s) and bring it] to the hearing of [thyne] eares: (s) That is, bring thee tydinges of the destruction of Hierusalem.

27 In that day shall thy mouth be opened to him which is escaped, that thou mayst speake & be no more dumbe: yea thou shalt be their shewtoken, that they may knowe how that I am the Lorde.

The. xxv. Chapter.

1 The worde of the Lorde vpon the sonnes of Ammon, which reioyced at the fall of Hierusalem. 8 Against Moab and Seir, against Idumea, against the Philistines.

A 1 THe worde of the Lorde came vnto me, saying:

2 Thou sonne of man, set thy face toward the Ammonites, and prophecie vpon them.

3 And say vnto the Ammonites: heare the worde of the Lorde God, thus sayth the Lorde God: For so much as thou saydest (a) Haha ouer my sanctuarie because it was polluted, and ouer the land of Israel because it was desolate, and ouer the house of Iuda because they went into captiuitie:

4 Beholde therfore, I wil deliuer thee to the people of the (b) east, that they may haue thee in possession: these shall settle their (c) palaces in thee, and make their dwellinges in thee, they shall eate thy frute, and drinke vp thy milke. (b) That is, to the Babylonians. (c) They shall chase theeaway, and take thy gorgeous houses to dwell in.

5 As for (d) Rabbath, I will make of it a stable for camels, and of the Ammonites a sheepfolde: and ye shall knowe that I am the Lorde. (d) Called also Philadelphia, whiche was the chiefe citie of the Ammonites and full of conduites as 2. Reg. 12. b.

6 For thus sayth the Lorde God: Insomuch as thou hast clapped with thyne handes, and stamped with thy feete, yea and reioyced ouer the lande of Israel with all thy "despite in heart:

"Or tikling of heart.

B 7 Behold therfore I will stretche out my hande ouer thee, and deliuer thee to be spoyled of the heathen, & roote thee out from among the people, and cause thee to perishe out of the landes: yea I will make thee to be destroyed, that thou mayest know that I am the Lorde.

8 Thus sayth the Lord God: Forsomuch as Moab and Seir do say, Beholde the house of Juda is like as all gentiles be:

9 Therfore behold, I will open the side of Moab from the cities, from his cities [I say] of his frontiers, the pleasures of the countrey [as namely] Bethiesimoth, Baalmeon, and Kiriathaim:

(e) Vnderstand out of the next verse I will open &c.

10 (e) Vnto the children of the east against the Ammonites, and will geue it into possession, so that the Ammonites shall no more be had in remembraunce among the heathen.

11 And I will execute iudgementes vpon Moab, and they shall knowe that I am the Lorde.

12 Thus sayth the Lorde God: For that Edom hath done in auenging reuengement vpon the house of Juda, & hath done great offence and auenged hym selfe vpon them:

13 Therfore thus sayth the Lord God, I will reache out myne hand vpon Edom, and destroy man and beast out of it, I will make it desolate from Theman, & Dedanah shall fall by the sworde.

14 And I will execute my reuengement vpon Edom by the hande of my people Israel, they shall do in Edom according to my wrath and indignation, so that they shall knowe my vengeaunce, sayth the Lord God. C

15 Thus sayth the Lorde God: For that the Philistines dyd in vengeaunce, [namely] in auenging reuengement, with a "dispyteful heart to destroy it for the old enmitie:

"Or, tikling heart, as they often haue which delite in seking reuengement.

16 Therfore thus saith the Lord God, Behold I will stretche out my hande ouer the Philistines, and destroy the (f) Cerethites, and cause all the remnaunt of the sea coast to perishe:

(f) whiche were certayne garrisons of Philistines: wherby they oft molested & Iewes. Of the Cerethites Dauid also had a garde, 2. Reg. 8. d.

17 A great vengeaunce will I take vpon them, with punishements of my wrath, that they may knowe that I am the Lord, when I shal lay my vengeaunce vpon them.

The. xxvi. Chapter.

1 He prophecieth that Tyrus shalbe ouerthrowen, because it reioyced at the distruction of Hierusalem. 15 The wondring and astonishment of the marchauntes for the desolation of Tyrus.

A 1 AND it came to passe in the (a) eleuenth yere, the first day of the moneth, the word of the Lorde came vnto me, saying:

(a) Either of the captiuitie of Iconiah, or of the raigne of Zedekia.

2 Thou sonne of man, because that Tyre hath spoken vpon Hierusalem, Haha, the gates of the people is broken, (b) it is turned vnto me, for now that she is destroyed, I shalbe (c) filled:

(b) The traffique of marchaundise that was vsed in Hierusalem, shalbe turned to my againe. (c) My riches and fame shall encrease: thus the wicked reioyce at their fall by whom they may haue any profite or aduantage.

3 Therfore thus sayth the Lord God, Behold O Tyre, I will vpon thee, I will raise vp many nations against thee, like as whē the sea ariseth with his waues.

4 They shal breake the walles of Tyre, & cast downe her towres, I will scrape her dust frō her, & make her a dre rocke.

5 She shalbe for a spreading of nettes in the sea, for I haue spoken it, sayth the Lord God, and she shalbe for a spoyle to the nations.

(d) Meaning the small townes and villages that were in the countrey or territory of Tyrus.

6 Her (d) daughters that are in the fielde shalbe slayne with the sworde, that they may knowe how that I am the Lorde.

8 Thy daughters that are in the field shal he slay with the sword: but against thee he shal make bulwarkes, & cast a mount against thee, and lift vp his speare against thee.

9 He shall set engins of warre before hym against thy walles, & with his weapons breake downe thy towres.

10 The dust of his horses shall couer thee they shalbe so many: thy walles shall shake at the noyse of the horsemen, wheeles & chariots, when he shal enter into thy gates, as into the entry of a citie broken downe.

11 With the hookes of his horses shall he treade downe al thy streetes, he shall slay the people with the sworde, and the pillers of thy strength shall fall downe to the grounde.

12 They

12 They shall rob thy riches, and spoyle thy marchaundise, thy walles shall they breake downe, and destroy thy houses of pleasure, thy stones, thy timber, and dust shall they cast into the mids of the water.

13 *Thus will I cause the sounde of thy songues to ceasse, and the noyse of thy harpes shall no more be hearde.

14 I will bring thee into a drie rocke, thou shalt be for a spreading of nettes, thou shalt neuer be buylt againe: for euen I the Lord haue spoken it, saith the Lord God.

15 Thus hath the Lord God spoken concerning Tyre: Shall not the iles tremble at the noyse of thy fall, and at the crie of the wounded, when they shalbe slaine & murthered in the mids of thee?

16 All princes of the (e) sea shal come downe from their thrones, they shall lay away their robes, & put of their broidred garmentes, yea with trembling shall they be clothed, they shal sit vpon the ground, they shalbe astonished at euery moment, and be amased at thee.

17 They shall mourne for thee, and say vnto thee: How art thou destroyed that wast inhabited of the (f) seas, the renowmed citie, whiche was strong in the sea, she and her inhabitauntes, whiche caused their feare to be on all that haunted therin?

18 Now shall the inhabitours of the iles be astonished in the day of thy fall: yea the iles that are in the sea shalbe troubled at thy departure.

19 For thus sayth the Lord God: When I make thee a desolate citie, as other cities be that no man dwell in, and when I bring vp the deepe vpon thee, that great waters may couer thee:

20 Then wil I cast thee downe vnto them that descend into the pit, vnto a people of (g) olde time, and set thee in a lande that is beneath, like the olde ruynes, with them which go downe to the graue, so that no man shall dwell more in thee: but I wil reserue honour for the (h) land of the liuing:

21 I will make thee terrors, and thou shalt be no more: though thou be sought for, yet shalt thou not be founde for euermore, sayth the Lorde God.

The. xxviii. Chapter.

1 The word of God against the king of Tyrus for his pride. 12 Ezechiel the prophete is moued to bewayle the king of Tyrus. 20 The word of the Lord against Sidon. 25 The Lorde promiseth that he will gather together the children of Israel.

A 1 THe worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying:

2 Thou sonne of man, tel the prince of Tyre, thus sayth the Lorde God: Because thou hast a proude heart, and hast said, I am (a) a God, I sit in the seate of God, in the mids of the sea: wher as thou art but a man, and not God, (b) though thou set thyne heart as the heart of God.

3 Beholde, thou thinkest thy selfe wyser then (c) Daniel, that there is no secretes hyd from thee.

4 With thy wisdome and thine vnderstanding thou hast gotten thee great welthines, & gathered treasure of siluer & gold.

5 With

(a) Like as God is safe in heauen, euen so I am safe that none can come to hurt me.
(b) Though thou diddest thinke in thine heart that thou wast equall with God.
(c) It has be speaketh by derision, for Daniel had declared notable signes of his wisdome in Babylon, when Ezechiel wrote this.

5 with thy great Wysedome and occupying hast thou encreased thy power, and because of thy great riches thy heart is proude.

6 Therfore thus sayth the Lorde God, Forsomuch as thou hast set thyne heart as the heart of God:

7 Behold, I will bring straungers vpon thee, euen the terrible nations, these shal drawe out their swordes vpon the beautie of thy Wysdome, and shall defile thy glorie.

8 They shall cast thee downe to the pit, so that thou shalt dye the death of them that be slayne in the mids of the sea.

9 Wilt thou say then before them that slay thee, I am a God: Where as thou art but a man, and not God, in the handes of them that slay thee.

10 Die shalt thou the death of the (c) vncircumcised in the handes of the straungers: for I haue spoken it, sayth the Lorde God.

(c) Like the rest of the heathen and infidels which are gods enemies.

11 Moreouer, the Worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying:

12 Thou sonne of man, take vp a lamentation vpon the king of Tyre, & tel him, thus sayth the Lorde God: Thou sealest vp the summe, (d) full of Wysdome, & perfite beautie.

(d) He derideth the pernicious and conceyt that the Tyrans had of their owne strength and riches.

13 Thou hast ben in the pleasaunt garden of God, thou art deckt with all maner of precious stones, with ruby, topas, diamond, thurkis, onyx, iasper, saphir, emeralde, carbuncle, and golde: the Workemanship of thy timbrels and of thy pipes [that be] in thee, was prepared in the day that thou wast created.

14 Thou art an (e) annoynted Cherub, that couereth, and I haue (g) set thee [in this dignitie,] thou wast vpon the holy mount of God, thou hast walked in the mids of the (h) stones of fire.

15 From the time of thy creation thou haste ben perfite in the Wayes, till Wickednesse was founde in thee.

16 By the multitude of thy marchaundise they haue filled the mids of thee with cruelte, & thou haste sinned: I will cast thee as prophane out of the (i) mount of God, & I will destroy thee O couering Cherub, from the mids of the stones of fire.

17 Thy heart was proude in thy beautie, and thorowe thy brightnesse thou hast destroyed thy Wisdome: I will cast thee downe to the grounde, I will lay thee before kinges, that they may beholde thee.

18 Thou hast defiled thy (k) sanctification with the great wickednesse of thyne vnrighteous occupying: I will bring a fire from the middest of thee to consume thee, and will make thee to asshes vpon the earth, in the sight of all them that loke vpon thee.

(k) That is, the honour wherunto I called thee.

19 Al they that haue ben acquainted with thee among the heathen shalbe abashed at thee: thou hast ben a terrour, and neuer shalt thou be any more.

20 And the word of the Lorde came vnto me, saying:

21 Thou sonne of man, set thy face against D Sidon, and prophecie vpon it, 22 And speake, thus sayth the Lord God: Beholde O Sidon, I will vpon thee, and I wilbe glorified in thee: that it may be knowen howe that I am the Lord when I shal haue executed iudgementes in her, & shalbe sanctified in her.

23 For I will sende pestilence and bloodshedyng into her streetes, and the slayne shall fall in the mids of her, by the sword [comming] vpon her on euery side: & they shall knowe that I am the Lorde.

24 They shalbe no more a pricking thorne vnto the house of Israel, nor a greeuous thorne of al that are round about them and despised them: and they shal knowe that I am the Lorde God.

25 Thus sayth the Lorde God: when I gather the household of Israel together againe from the nations among whom they be scattered, then shall I be sanctified in them in the sight of the gentiles, and they shall dwell in the lande that I gaue to my seruaunt Jacob.

26 They shal dwell with confidence therin, buyld houses and plant vineyardes: yea with confidence shall they dwell therin, when I haue executed iudgementes vpon all those that despise them rounde about: and then shal they know that I am the Lorde their God.

(g) Thou shalt haue no part among my people.

The. xxix. Chapter.

1 He prophecieth against Pharao, and of the desolation of Egypt, with the sparkling abrode of the Egyptians. 13 The Lorde promiseth that he will restore Egypt againe after fourtie yeres. 19 Egypt is the rewarde of king Nabuchodonozor for the labour which he toke against Tyrus.

A

1 IN the (a) tenth yere, vpon the twelft day of the tenth moneth, the worde of the Lorde came vnto me, saying:

2 Thou sonne of man, set thy face against Pharao the king of Egypt, prophecie against him, and against the whole lande of Egypt.

3 Speake & tell him, thus sayth the Lord God: Beholde O Pharao thou king of Egypt, I will vpon thee thou great (b) dragon that lyeth in the mids of his riuers, thou that sayst, The riuer is mine, I haue made it for my selfe.

4 I wil put (c) hookes in thy chawes, and hang the fishe in thy riuers vpon thy skales: after that I will drawe thee out of thy riuers, yea and all the fishe of thy riuers shall hang vpon thy skales.

5 I will leaue thee in the wilderneſſe, [both] thee and all the fishe of thy riuers: thou shalt fall vpon the open fielde, thou shalt not be brought together, nor gathered: I haue geuen thee for meate to the beastes of the fielde, & to the foules of the ayre,

6 That all they which dwell in Egypt may know that I am the Lord, because they haue ben a *staffe of reede to the house of Israel.

B

7 When they toke hold of thee with their hand, thou brakest & rent all their shoulder: & when they leaned vpon thee, thou brakest and madest all their loynes to stande (d) vpright.

8 Therefore thus sayth the Lorde God: Behold, I will bring a sword vpon thee, & destroy out of thee both man and beast.

9 Yea the lande of Egypt shalbe desolate and waste, and they shall knowe that I am the Lorde, because he sayde, The riuer is myne, I my selfe haue made it.

10 Beholde therefore I will vpon thee and vpon thy riuers, I will make the land of Egypt vtterly waste and desolate, from the towre of Seueneh vnto the borders of (e) Ethiopia.

11 No foote of man shall passe by it, nor foote of beast shall passe by it, neither shall it be inhabited fourtie yeres.

12 I wil make the land of Egypt to be desolate among other waste countreys, and her cities destroyed fourtie yeres among other destroyed cities: and I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations, and strawe them thorow the countreys.

13 Againe, thus sayth the Lorde God: *When the fourtie yeres are expired, I will gather the Egyptians together againe out of the nations among whom they were scattered. Ier. 46. d.

14 And I will bring the captiuitie of Egypt againe, and cause them to returne into the lande of Pathros, the lande of their habitation, and they shalbe there a (f) small kingdome.

C

15 Yea it shalbe the smallest among other kingdomes, neither shall it exalt it selfe any more aboue the nations: for I wil so minishe them, that they shall no more rule the nations.

16 And they shalbe no more vnto the house of Israel a trust whiche bringeth their iniquitie to remembraunce, when they shall loke after them: & they shal knowe that I am the Lorde God.

17 In the (g) twentie and seuenth yere, the first day of the first moneth, came the word of the Lorde vnto me, saying:

18 Thou sonne of man, Nabuchodonozor the king of Babylon caused his armie to serue a great seruice against Tyrus: euery head was made balde, & euery shoulder bare, yet had neither he nor his armie any wages for Tyrus for the seruice which he serued against it.

19 Therefore thus sayth the Lorde God: Behold, I will geue the lande of Egypt vnto Nabuchodonozor the king of Babylon, that he may take away her multitude, and spoyle her spoyles, & take her pray to pay his hoast their wages withall.

20 For the "worke whiche he wrought about it, I haue geuen him the lande of Egypt, because they wrought for me, sayth the Lorde God.

21 In that day I will cause the horne of the house of Israel to bud forth, and I will geue thee the opening of thy mouth in the mids of them: & they shall knowe that I am the Lorde.

(a) To wit, of the captiuitie of Iecoma & of the raigne of Zedekia: But note that the disposition of these visions are not set forth according to the order of the times: but according to the nearnesse and distaunce of the countreys against whom they were written.

(b) When they felt their hurt, they would stap no more vpon thee, but stoode vpon their feete, and put their trust in others.

(c) I will send enemies against thee, which shall pluche thee & thy people that trust in thee, out of thy sure places.

(d) The vision of Tyrus seene in the eleuenth yere, is set before this, seene in the tenth yere, because it was nearer to Iurie then Egypt.

The xxx. Chapter.

The destruction of Egypt, and of his cities is bewayled.

A 1 THe woꝛd of the Loꝛde came vnto me, saying:
2 Thou sonne of man pꝛophecie, and speake, thus sayth the Loꝛde God, howle, wo woꝛth this day:
3 Foꝛ the day is neare, the day of the Loꝛde is at hande, the darke day, the time of the nations shalbe,
4 And the swoꝛde shall come vpon Egypt, and feare shalbe in Ethiopia When the slayne shall fall in Egypt: and they shall take away her multitude, and her foundations shalbe broken downe.
5 Yea Ethiopia, Lybia, & Lydia, all their common people, and Chub, and all that be confederate vnto them, shal fall with them thoꝛowe the swoꝛde.
6 Thus sayth the Loꝛde: The mayntainers of the lande of Egypt shall fall, the pꝛyde of her powꝛe shall come downe: euen from the towꝛe of (a) Seueneh shal they fall downe in it With the swoꝛde, sayth the Loꝛde God.
B 7 Among other desolate countreys they shalbe made desolate, among other waste cities they shalbe wasted.
8 And they shall knowe that I am the Loꝛd When I haue set a fire in Egypt, & when al her helpers shalbe destroyed.
9 In that day shall messengers go foꝛth from me in ships to make the careless Moꝛians afrayde, and feare shall come vpon them, accoꝛding to the day of Egypt: foꝛ lo it commeth.
10 Thus sayth the Loꝛd God, I wil cause the multitude of Egypt to ceasse by the hande of Nabuchodonoꝛ king of Babylon.
11 He, and his people with him, the terrible nations shalbe bꝛought to destoy the land: they shal dꝛawe out their swoꝛdes vpon Egypt, & fill the land full of slayne men.
12 I wil make their riuers dꝛie, and sel the lande into the handes of wicked people: the land and all that is therin I will destroy thoꝛow the hand of straungers: euen I the Loꝛde haue sayde it.
13 Thus sayth the Loꝛde God, I will destroy the idoles, and bring the images of (b) Noph to an end: there shal no moꝛe be a pꝛince of Egypt, and a fearfulnesse wil I send into the Egyptians lande.
14 As foꝛ Pathꝛos, I wil make it desolate, and kindle a fire in (c) Zoan, and I will execute iudgementes in (d) No.
15 And I will powꝛe my wꝛathful indignation vpon Sin the strength of Egypt, & I will destroy the multitude of No.
16 And I will kindle a fire in Egypt, Sin shalbe in great heauinesse, No shalbe rooted out, and Noph shall haue dayly soꝛowe.
17 The young men of "Auen, and of "Phibeseth shall fall by the swoꝛde, and these [cities] shall go into captiuitie.
18 At Tehaphnehes the day shalbe (e) darke, When I breake there the barres of Egypt, and when the pompe of her power shall ceasse in her: a cloude shall couer her, and her daughters shall go into captiuitie.
19 Thus will I execute my iudgementes in Egypt, and they shall knowe howe that I am the Loꝛde.
20 And in the (f) eleuenth yere, vpon the seuenth day of the first moneth, the woꝛde of the Loꝛde came vnto me, saying:
21 Thou sonne of man, I haue (g) broken the arme of Pharao king of Egypt: and lo, it shall not be bounde vp to be healed, to put a roller to bynde it, to make it strong to hold the swoꝛde.
22 Therfoꝛe thus sayth the Loꝛde God: Beholde, I will vpon Pharao king of Egypt, and breake his arme that was strong, but is broken: and I will cause the swoꝛde to fall out of his hande.
23 As foꝛ the Egyptians, I will scatter them among the nations, and strawe them in the landes about.
24 Againe, I will strengthen the arme of the king of Babylon, and geue hym my swoꝛd in his hande: but I will breake Pharaos armes, and he shall grone the grodinges of a deadly wounded man befoꝛe hym:
25 Yea I will strengthen the king of Babylons arme, and the armes of Pharao shall fall downe: and they shall knowe that I am the Loꝛde, When I shall (h) geue my swoꝛd into the hand of the king of Babylon, that he may stretch it out vpon the lande of Egypt.
26 And I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations, & strowe them in the landes about: and they shal knowe that I am the Loꝛde.

The.xxxi. Chapter.

1 A comparison of the prosperitie of Pharao with the prosperitie of the Assyrians.
10 He prophecieth a like destruction to them both.

A 1 (a) Of Iroe-kias raigne, or Ieconiahs captiuitie.

MOreouer, in the (a) eleuenth yere, the first day of ỹ third moneth, the worde of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

2 Thou sonne of man, speake vnto Pharao king of Egypt, and to all his people: whom art thou (b) lyke in thy greatnesse?

(b) Meaning that he was not lyke in strength to the king of the Assyrians, who the Babylonians ouercame.

3 Behold, Assur is a Cedar in Libanon, with faire braunches, and with thycke shadowing bowes, of a hygh stature, & his top was among the thicke bowes.

4 The waters made him great, and the deepe set him vp on hye, with her riuers running rounde about his plantes, and sent out her (c) litle riuers vnto all the trees of the fielde.

(c) Many other nations which were vnder their dominion.

5 Therefore was he higher then all the trees of the fielde, and his bowes were multiplied, & his braunches were long, because of the multitude of the waters, which the deepe sent out.

6 All foules of the aire made their nestes in his braunches, vnder his bowes did all the beastes of the fielde bring foorth their young, and vnder his shadowe dwelt all mightie nations.

B 7 Beautiful was he in his greatnesse, and in the length of his braunches: for his roote stoode beside great waters.

(d) Signifiing that there was no greater power in the world then his was.

8 No Cedar tree might (d) hyde hym in the garden of God, there was no fyre trees like his braunches, the chestnut trees were not like the bowes of him: all the trees in the garden of God, might not be compared vnto him in his beautie.

9 I made him faire with the multitude of his braunches: insomuch that all the trees in the pleasaunt garden of God had enuie at hym.

10 Therefore thus sayth the Lorde God: forsomuch as he hath lift vp him selfe so hye, and hath shot vp his top among the thycke bowes, and his heart is lift vp in his heyght:

11 I haue therfore deliuered hym into the handes of the (e) mightiest among the heathen: he shall handle hym, [for] in his wickednesse haue I cast hym away.

(e) That is, Nabuchodonozor, who afterwarde was the monarche and only ruler of the world.

12 And straungers haue destroyed hym, euen the terrible nations, and haue left hym: vpon the mountaynes and vpon al valleys haue his bowes fallen, and his bowes are (f) broken by all the riuers of the land: and all the people of the earth are departed from his shadowe, & haue forsaken hym.

(f) Hereby is signified the destruction of the power of the Assyrians, by the Babylonians.

13 Upon his ruine shall all the foules of the ayre remayne, and all the beastes of the fielde shalbe vpon his braunches.

14 So that none of all the trees by the waters shalbe exalted in their heyght, nor shoot vp their toppes among the thycke bowes, neither shall their trees stande in their heyght, as many of them as drinke water: for they are all deliuered vnto death in the neather partes of the earth, in the mids of the children of men among them that go downe to the pit. C

15 Thus sayth the Lord God: In the day when he went downe to the graue, I caused a lamentation to be made, I (g) couered the deepe for hym, I restrayned the fludes thereof, and the great waters were stayed, I caused Libanus to mourne for him, and all the trees of the fielde fainted.

(g) The deepe waters that caused hym to mount so hye, meaning his great aboundaunce and pompe, shall now lamente: they which in mourning were couered with sackecloth.

16 I made the heathen shake at the sound of his fall, when I cast hym downe to hell with them that descend into the pit: all the excellent trees of Eden, & the best of Libanus, all that (h) drinke waters, shalbe (i) comforted in the neather partes of the earth.

(h) That are moystned with waters.
(i) To cause this destruction of the king of Assyria to seeme more horrible, he letteth foorth other kinges and princes which are dead, as though they reioyced at the fall of such a tyraunt.

17 They also went downe to hell with him vnto them that be slayne with the sworde, which were his arme [and] dwelt vnder his shadowe in the middest of the nations.

18 To whom (k) art thou thus like in glorie and in greatnesse among the trees of Eden: yet thou shalt be cast downe with the trees of Eden vnto the neather partes of the earth: in the middest of the (l) vncircumcised shalt thou sleepe with them that are slayne with the sworde: This is Pharao and all his multitude, sayth the Lorde God.

(k) Meaning that Pharaos power was nothing so great, as his

¶ The .xxxij. Chapter.

The prophete is commaunded to bewaile Pharao the king of Egypt. 12 He prophecieth that destruction shall come vnto Egypt through the king of Babylon.

A 1 IN the (a) twelfth yere, the first day of ỹ twelfth moneth, the worde of the Lorde came vnto me, saying:

2 Thou sonne of man, take vp a lamentation vpon Pharao the king of Egypt, and say vnto him, thou art (b) lyke a lion of the heathen, and as a Whale fishe in the sea: thou drawest out thy riuers, thou (c) troublest the waters With thy feete, and stampest in their riuers.

3 Thus saith the Lorde God, * I wyll spreade my nette ouer thee With a great multitude of people, these shal make thee come vp into my net.

4 For I wyll leaue thee vpon the lande, and cast thee vpon the open fielde, and I wyll cause all the foules of the ayre to remaine vpon thee, & fill all the beastes of the fielde with thee.

5 Thy flesh wyll I lay vpon the hils, and fill the valleyes With thy (d) highnesse.

6 I wyll (e) Water thyne ouerflowing lande With thy blood euen to the mountaynes, and the riuers shalbe ful of thee.

7 When thou art (f) put out, I wyll couer the heauen, and make his starres dim: * I wyll spreade a cloude ouer the sunne, and the moone shall not geue her light.

8 All the lightes of heauen wyll I make darke for thee: and bring (g) darkenesse vpon thy lande, saith the Lorde God.

9 I wyll stirre vp to anger the heartes of many people, When I bring thy destruction among the heathen, and vpon the countries Which thou knowest not.

10 Yea, I wyll make many people amased at thee, and their kinges shalbe astonished With feare for thee, When I shall make my sworde to glitter against their faces: and they shalbe afraide at euery moment euery man for his owne lyfe, in the day of thy fall.

11 For thus saith the Lorde God, The king of Babylons sworde shal come vpon thee:

12 With the swordes of the mightie wyll I smyte downe thy multitude: they all shalbe terrible nations, & they shal destroy the (h) pompe of Egypt, and all the multitude thereof shalbe consumed.

13 I wyll destroy also al the beastes therof from the great Waters sides, neither shall the foote of man trouble them any more, nor the hoofes of beastes trouble them.

14 Then wyll I make their waters (i) deepe, and cause their riuers to runne lyke (k) oyle, saith the Lorde God, 15 When I make the lande of Egypt desolate, and when the countrey With all that is therein shalbe layde Waste, and When I smyte all them Which dwell in it, then shall they knowe that I am the Lorde.

16 This is the mourning When they shal lament her, the daughters of the nations shall lament her, they shall make the lamentation ouer Egypt, and ouer all the people thereof, saith the Lorde God.

17 In the twelfth yere, the fifteenth day of the moneth, came the worde of the Lorde vnto me, saying:

18 Thou sonne of man, lament for the multitude of Egypt, and (l) cast them downe, euen them and the daughters of the famous nations vnto the neather partes of the earth, With them that go downe into the pit.

19 Whom doest thou passe in (m) beautie: go downe and sleepe With the vncircumcised.

20 Among those that be slaine With the sworde shall they lye: to the sworde is (n) she alredie delyuered, drawe her downe and all her multitude.

21 The (o) mightie Worthies shall speake to her out of the hell, and to her helpers: they are gone downe and lye vncircumcised With them that be slaine With the sworde:

22 Assur is there also With all his company, and their graues rounde about him, Which were slaine and fell all With the sworde.

23 Whose graues are made in the side of the pit, and his multitude are rounde about his graue, [to wit] all the slaine and fallen by the sworde, Which cause a feare

(e) The word signifieth to be parted, as it were in peces. Esay.19. Ier.46. and 51. Mat.24. Mar.13. By this manner of speache is meant the great losse that shalbe for the great daughter of the king and his people.

(f) This came to passe in lesse then foure yeres after the prophecie.

(g) The inhabitantes of Egypt shalbe so cleane destroyed, that there shall remaine none to drawe the waters out of the riuers to water their grounded as before, whereby it shalbe the deeper in his channel.

(k) That is, clear and untroubled with feete, passing through the floodes.

(l) That is, prophecie, that they shalbe cast downe. Thus the Lorde geueth power both to plant and to destroy by his worde. Ier.1.

24 There is (p) Elam also, with all his people rounde about his graue: which all being slaine & fallen with the swoorde, are gone doWne vncircumcized vnder the earth, which neuertheleſſe sometime brought feare into the lande of the (q) lyuing: they beare their oWne shame, with the other that be gone doWne to the graue.

(q) They which being a lyue, were a terrour to all the woorlde, now being dead, are despised both of the lyuing and the dead.

25 They haue made his bed in the midst of the slaine, with al his multitude, their graues are rounde about him: all these vncircumcized, slaine by the swoorde, although they caused their feare in the lande of the lyuing, yet haue they borne their shame with them that go doWne to the pit, they are layde in the midst of them that are slaine.

(r) That is, the Cappadocians & Thalians, or Spaniardes. Iosephus writeth.

26 There is (r) Mesech also and Tubal, and their people, & their graues rounde about him: these al vncircumcized were slaine with the swoorde, because aforetime they made the lande of the lyuing afraide.

(s) which dyed not by cruell death, but by the course of nature, and are honorably buried with their coate armour, and signes of honour.

27 They shall not lye with the (s) valiaunt [which are] fallen of the vncircumcized, which are gone doWne to the graue with their Weapons of warre, and haue layde their swoordes vnder their heades: but their iniquitie shalbe vpon their bones, because the terrour of their mightie [was] in the lande of the lyuing.

28 Yea, among the vncircumcized shalt thou be destroyed, and sleepe with them that perished through the swoorde.

29 There is Edom With her kinges and princes also, Which With their strength are layde by them that were slaine With the swoorde: yea among the vncircumcized shal they sleepe, & With them which are gone doWne into the pit.

30 Moreouer, there be al the princes of the (t) north with al the Sidonians, Which are gone doWne With the slaine: With their feare and strength they are come to confusion, and lye there vncircumcized among those that be slaine With the swoorde, and beare their oWne shame With them that be gone doWne to the pit.

(t) That is, the kinges of Babylon.

31 Pharao shall see them, and be (u) comforted ouer all his multitude: Pharao and al his armie [shalbe] slaine With the swoorde, saith the Lorde God.

(u) Lyke as the wicked rejoyce, when they see others partakers of their miseries.

32 For I haue geuen my feare (x) in the lande of the lyuing: but Pharao and al his people shalbe layde among the vncircumcized, and among them that be slaine With the swoorde, saith the Lorde God.

(x) I will make the Egyptians afraide of me, as they haue caused other to feare them.

¶ The .xxxiii. Chapter.

He setteth out the office of the gouernours and ministers, 14 He strengthneth them that dispaire and boldneth them With the promise of mercie, 30 The woorde of the Lorde against the remnaunt of the people, against the mockers of the woordes of the prophete.

AGaine, the woorde of the Lorde came vnto me, saying:

2 Thou sonne of man, speake to the children of thy people, and tell them: When I sende a swoorde vpon a lande, if the people of the lande take a man of their coastes, and set him to be their (a) watchman:

(a) She weth that the people ought continually to haue governours and teachers, which may haue a care ouer them, and to warne them euer of the daungers which are at hande.

3 If When he seeth the swoorde come vpon the lande, he shall blow the trumpet and warne the people:

4 Then he that heareth the noyse of the trumpet and Wyll not be warned, and the swoorde come and take him away, his blood shalbe vpon his oWne head.

5 For he heard the sounde of the trumpet, and would not be warned, therefore his blood be vpon him: but he that receaueth warning, he shall saue his lyfe.

6 Againe, if the watchman see the swoord come, and blow not the trumpet, so that the people is not warned, if the swoorde come then, and take any man from among them: the same shalbe (b) taken away in his oWne sinne, but his blood Wyl I require at the watchmans hand.

(b) Signifiing that the wicked shall not escape punishment, though the watchmen be negligent: but if the watchmen blowe the trumpet, and then he wyll not obay, he shall deserue double punishment. Chap 3.6.

7 And thou O sonne of man, I haue made thee a watchman vnto the house of Israel: therefore thou shalt here the woorde at (c) my mouth, and thou shalt warne them from me.

(c) which teacheth that he that receaueth not his charge and watchwoorde at the Lorders mouth, is a spye, and not a true watchman.

8 If I say vnto the wicked, thou Wicked, thou shalt surely dye: & thou speakest not to admonish the wicked of his way: that wicked man shall dye in his oWne sinne, but his blood Wyl I require at at thy hande.

9 Neuertheleſſe, if thou warne the wicked of his way to tourne from it, and he yet wyll not be turned from his way: then ſhal he dye in his iniquitie, but thou haſt deliuered thy ſoule.

10 Therfore O thou ſonne of man, ſpeake vnto the houſe of Iſrael, yea ſay thus: Iſ our offences and ſinnes lye vpon vs, and we be conſumed in them, (b) howe ſhould we then liue?

(b) Thus the wicked when they heare of Gods iudgementes for their ſinnes, do pyne of bus nesses and vnrighteouſnesse.

11 Tell them, as truely as I liue ſaith the Lorde God, * I haue no pleaſure in the death of the wicked, but much rather that the wicked tourne from his way, and lyue: Turne you, turne you from your wicked wayes, for why wil ye dye O ye of the houſe of Iſrael?

Ezec. xviii. c.

12 Therefore thou ſonne of man, tell the children of thy people, * the righteouſnes of the righteous ſhall not ſaue him in the day of his iniquitie: againe, the wickednes of the wicked ſhall not ouerthrow him for it in the day that he returneth from his wickednes: neither ſhall the righteous lyue for (c) it in the day that he ſinneth.

(c) Namely, his righteouſneſſe.

13 Iſ I ſay vnto the righteous, he ſhall ſurely lyue, and ſo he truſt to his owne righteouſnes, and do ſinne: then ſhall his righteouſnes be no more thought vpon, but in his wickednes that he hath done, in it he ſhall dye.

14 Againe, if I ſay vnto the wicked, thou ſhalt ſurely dye: and ſo he turne from his ſinnes, and (d) do the thing that is lawfull and right,

(d) Hereby he declareth all them of hypocriſie which pretend to forſake wickednes and yet declare not true fruites ſuch by their fruites: that is, in obeying gods commaundementes, and by godly lyfe.

15 Inſomuch that the ſame wicked man geueth the pledge againe, reſtoreth that he had take away by robbery, walketh in the commaundementes of lyfe, and doth none iniquitie: then ſhall he ſurely lyue and not dye.

16 None of the ſinnes that he hath committed ſhalbe mentioned vnto him: for inſomuch as he doth now the thing that is lawfull and right, he ſhall lyue,

Ezec. xviii. c.

17 And yet the children of thy people ſay, * the way of the Lorde is not equall: but their owne way is rather vnequall.

18 When the righteous turneth from his righteouſnes, and doth the thing that is wicked, he ſhall dye therein.

19 But if the wicked turne from his wickednes, doing the thing that is lawfull and right, he ſhall lyue therefore.

20 Yet ye ſay, the way of the Lorde is not equall: O ye houſe of Iſrael, I wyll iudge euery one of you after his wayes.

21 In the twelfth yere, the fift day of the tenth moneth of our (g) captiuitie, one which was eſcaped out of Hieruſalem, came vnto me and ſaid, The citie is ſmitten.

(g) When the prophete was led away captiue with Ieconiah.

22 Nowe the (h) hande of the Lorde had ben vpon me the euening afore this man which was eſcaped came vnto me, and had (i) opened my mouth vntill the morning that he came to me: yea, my mouth was opened, ſo that I was no more dumbe.

(h) I was endued with the ſpirite of prophecie as Chap. 8. a.

(i) whereby is ſignified that the miniſters of god can not ſpeake till God geue them courage, and open their mouthes. Chap. 24. d.

23 Then came the worde of the Lorde vnto me, and ſaide:

24 Thou ſonne of man, theſe that dwell in the waſted lande of Iſrael talke and ſay: (k) Abraham was but one man, and he had the lande in poſſeſſion: nowe are we many, and the lande is geuen vs to poſſeſſe alſo.

(k) Thus the wicked thinke themſelues more worthy to enioy gods promiſe then the ſainctes of God, to whō they were made: & would binde God to be ſubiect to them, though they wouldе not be bound to him. Leuit. 17. c.

25 And therefore tel them, thus ſaith the Lorde God, * In the blood haue ye eaten, your eyes haue ye lift vp to idols, and haue ſhed blood: ſhall ye then haue the lande in poſſeſſion?

26 Ye (l) leane vpon your ſwordes, ye worke abhominations, euery one defileth his neighbours wyfe: and ſhall ye then poſſeſſe the lande?

(l) As they that are redy full to ſhed blood.

27 Say thou thus vnto them, thus ſaith the lorde God: As truely as I liue, they that are in the deſolate places ſhall fall by the ſworde, and him that is vpon the fielde wyll I geue vnto the beaſtes to be deuoured: and they that be in the ſtrong holdes and dennes ſhall dye of the peſtilence.

28 For I wyll make the lande ſo deſolate and waſte, that the * pompe of her ſtrength ſhall ceaſſe: the mountaynes of Iſrael ſhalbe ſo waſte, that no man ſhall trauaile thereby.

Eze. vii. d.

29 Then ſhall they knowe that I am the Lorde, when I make the land deſolate and waſte, becauſe of all their abhominations that they haue wrought.

30 And thou ſonne of man, the children of thy people that talke of thee by the waters and in the doores of their houſes, and ſpeake one to another, euery one to his brother, ſaying, Come I praye you, let vs heare what worde is gone foorth from the Lorde:

31 They come vnto thee as the people vſeth to come, and my people ſyt before thee, thee, and heare thy wordes, but they do not therafter: for in their mouthes they make a (m)iest of them, and their heart goeth after their couetousnes.

32 And lo, thou art vnto them as a (n) iesting song of one that hath a pleasaunt voyce, and can sing well: for they heare thy wordes, but do them not.

33 When this commeth to passe (lo it commeth:) then shall they knowe that there hath ben a prophete among them.

(m) This declareth that we ought to heare gods worde with such zeale and affection, that we should not onely delight therein to heare it preached, but also in al pointes obey it: els we abuse the worde to our owne condemnation, and make of the ministers as though they were iestes to serue mens fantasies.

(n) For a song of pastime and pleasure.

¶ The .xxxiiij. Chapter.

2 Against shepheardes that despise the flocke of Christe, and seeke their owne gaine. 7 The Lorde saith that he wyll visite his dispearsed flocke, and gather them together. 18 He reproueth the malice of certaine of the flocke. 23 He promiseth the true shephearde Christe, and with him peace.

A

1 AND the worde of the Lorde came vnto me, saying:

2 Thou sonne of man, prophecie against the shepheardes of Israel, prophecie and speake vnto them: thus saith the Lorde God vnto the shepheardes, * Wo be vnto the (a) shepheardes of Israel that feede them selues: should not the shepheards feede the flockes?

(a) By the shepheardes, he meaneth the king, the magistrates, priestes, and prophetes.

3 Ye eate vp the (b) fat, ye clothe you with the wooll, the best fed do ye slay: but the flocke do ye not feede.

(b) Ye seeke to enriche your selues by their commodities, and so sporte their riches and substaunce.

4 The (c) weake haue ye not strengthened, the sicke haue ye not healed, the broken haue ye not bounde together, the driuen away haue ye not brought againe, the lost haue ye not sought: but with force and crueltie haue ye ruled them.

(c) He describeth the office and duetie of a good pastor, who ought to loue and succour his flock, and not to be cruel towards them.

5 They are scattered without a shephearde, yea all the beastes of the fielde (d) deuour them, and they go astray.

(d) For lacke of good gouernment and doctrin: they perishe.

6 My sheepe go wandring vpon al mountaines, and vpon euery hie hill, yea my flocke is scattered through all the face of the earth, and there is no man that seeketh or searcheth [after them.]

B 7 Therefore O ye shepheardes, heare the worde of the Lorde.

8 As truely as I liue saith the Lorde God, forsomuch as my sheepe are robbed, & deuoured of all the wylde beastes of the fielde, hauing no shepheard, and seeing that my shepheardes seke not my sheepe, but the shepheardes feede them selues, and feede not my sheepe:

9 Therefore heare the worde of the Lorde O ye shepheardes,

10 Thus saith the Lorde God: beholde, I wyll vpon the shepheardes, and require my sheepe from their handes, and make them ceasse from feeding of the sheepe, yea the shepheardes shall feede them selues no more: for I wyll (e) deliuer my sheepe out of their mouthes, so that they shall not deuour them after this.

(e) By destroying the couetous hirelinges, & restoring true shepheardes.

11 For thus saith the Lorde God: behold, I [euen] I wyll loke to my sheepe my selfe, and seeke them out.

12 Lyke as a shephearde when he hath ben among the flocke, seeketh after the sheepe that are scattered abroade: euen so wyll I seeke after my sheepe, and deliuer them out of all places where they haue ben scattered, in the (f) cloudie and darke day.

(f) In the day of their affliction and misery: and this promise is to comforte the churche in all daungers.

13 I wyll bring them out from the people, and gather them together out of the landes, I wyl bring them into their owne lande, and feede them vpon the mountaines of Israel, by the riuers and in all the places of the countrey.

14 I wyll feede them in right good pastures, and vpon the hie mountaines of Israel shall their foldes be: there shall they lye in a good folde, and in a fat pasture shall they feede, euen vpon the mountaines of Israel. C

15 I wyll feede my sheepe and bring them to their rest, saith the Lorde God.

16 Such as be lost, wyll I seeke: such as are driuen away, wyll I bring againe: such as be broken, wyl I binde vp: such as be weake, wyll I make strong: such as be fat and strong, those wyll I roote out, and feede them with (g) iudgement.

(g) That is, by putting difference betweene the good and bad, & so geue to eyther as they deserue.

17 And as for you O my sheepe, saith the Lorde God, I wyll iudge betweene cattaile & cattaile, betweene the rammes and the goates.

18 Seemeth it a smal thing to you to haue eaten vp the good (h) pasture, and to treade downe the residue of your pasture with your feete also: to drinke the deepe

(h) By good pasture and deepe waters is ment the pure worde of God, and the administration of iustice: which they did not distribute to the people but corrupt it.

deepe waters, and to trouble the reſt alſo with your feete?

19 Thus my ſheepe muſt be faine to eate the thing that ye haue troden downe with your feete, and to drinke it that ye with your feete haue defiled.

20 Therefore thus ſaith the Lorde God vnto them: Beholde I [euen] I wyll iudge betweene the fat cattaile and the leane cattaile, 21 Forſomuch as with ſide and ſhoulder ye haue ſhoued, and with your hornes haue puſhed all the weake, till ye haue ſcattered them abroade.

22 I wyll ſaue my ſheepe, ſo that they ſhal no more be ſpoyled, yea I wil iudge betweene cattaile and cattaile.

23 I wyll ſet vp ouer them a ſhepheard, and he ſhall feede them, euen my ſeruaunt (i) Dauid, he ſhall feede them, & he ſhalbe their ſhepheard.

24 And I the Lorde wyll be their God, and my ſeruaunt Dauid ſhalbe their prince: euen I the Lorde haue ſpoken it.

25 Moreouer I wyll make a couenaunt of peace with them, & cauſe euil beaſtes to ceaſſe out of the lande: ſo that they may dwell (k) ſafely in the wilderneſſe, and ſleepe in the woods.

26 And I wyll ſet them [as] a bleſſing euen rounde about my hill, and I wyll cauſe raine to come downe in due ſeaſon, [and] there ſhalbe raine of bleſſing.

27 And the tree of the fielde ſhal yeelde her fruite, and the earth ſhall geue her encreaſe: they ſhalbe ſafe in their lande, and ſhall knowe that I am the Lorde, when I haue broke the bondes of their yoke, and deliuered them out of the handes of thoſe that ſerued them ſelues of them.

28 They ſhall no more be ſpoyled of the heathen, nor deuoured with the beaſtes of the lande: but ſafely ſhall they dwel, and no man ſhall fray them.

29 And I wil raiſe vp for them a (l) plant of renowme, and they ſhalbe no more "clunge with hunger in the lande, neither beare the reproche of the heathen any more.

30 Thus ſhall they vnderſtand that I the Lorde their God am with them, and that they, euen the houſe of Iſrael, are my people, ſaith the Lorde God:

31 And ye my ſheepe, the ſheepe of my paſture, are men: and I am your God, ſaith the Lorde God.

(i) Meaning Chriſt, of whom Dauid was a figure, as Ieſa. 37.

Ier. 30.b. (k) This declareth, that vnder Chriſte the Churche ſhould be euery where preſerued in the Church, when they ſhould neuer perish.

(l) That is, the rodde that ſhall come out of the roote of Iſai. Eſai. xi.a. "Or clemed, or hunger-ſtaruen.

¶ The .xxxv. Chapter.

The deſtruction that ſhall come on the mount Seir, that is, on the Idumeans, becauſe they troubled the people of the Lorde.

1 Moreouer, the worde of the Lorde came vnto me, ſaying:

2 Thou ſonne of man, ſet thy face toward the mount *(a) Seir, prophecie againſt it.

3 And ſay vnto it, thus ſaith the Lorde God: Beholde O thou mount Seir, I wyll vpon thee, I wyll reache out my hande ouer thee, yea waſte and deſolate wyll I make thee,

4 Thy cities wyll I laye waſte, & thou ſhalt lye voyde, that thou mayſt knowe howe that I am the Lorde,

5 Forſomuch as thou beareſt an olde enmitie, and haſt put the children of Iſrael to flight by the force of the ſworde, in the time of their calamitie, [when their] iniquitie had an ende.

6 Therefore as truely as I liue, ſaith the Lorde God, I wyll prepare thee vnto blood, yea blood ſhall folowe vpon thee, except thou (b) hate blood, euen blood ſhall perſecute thee.

(b) Except thou repent the former cruelitie.

7 Thus wyll I make the mount Seir deſolate and waſte, and cut out from it him that paſſeth out, and him that returneth:

8 His mountaines wyll I fill with his ſlaine men, thy hils, valleys, and al thy riuers, the ſlaine with the ſworde ſhall fall in them.

(c) To ſtand to their former eſtate.

9 I wyll make thee a perpetuall wildernes, ſo that thy cities ſhal not (c) returne: that ye may knowe that I am the Lorde.

(d) Meaning Iſrael and Iuda.

10 And becauſe thou haſt ſaide, (d) both theſe nations, and both theſe landes muſt be myne, and we wyll haue them in poſſeſſion, * whereas the Lorde was there:

Exo. 25.d.

11 Therefore as truely as I liue ſaith the Lorde God, I wyll euen do according

(e) As thou hast done cruelly, so shalt thou be cruelly handled.
(f) Shewing that when God punisheth the enemies, the godly ought to consider that he hath a care ouer them, & so praise his name: and also that the wicked rage as though there were no God, till they fecle his hande to their destruction.

ding to thy (e) wrath, and according to thyne enuiyng which thou hast vsed in thyne hatred against them: and I will make my selfe (f) knowen amongst them when I haue iudged thee.

12 Yea and thou shalt knowe that I the Lorde haue heard all thy blasphemies, whiche thou hast spoken against the mountaines of Israel, saying, They are made waste, & geuen vs to deuour.

13 Thus with your mouthes ye haue made your boastes against me, yea and multiplied your wordes against me, which I haue heard.

14 Thus saith the Lord God: To the ioy of all the worlde will I make thee waste.

15 And lyke as thou wast glad because the heritage of the house of Israel was destroyed, euen so will I do vnto thee: thou shalt be destroyed O mount Seir, and all Idumea wholly, and they shall knowe that I am the Lorde.

The .xxxvj. Chapter.

2 He promiseth to deliuer Israel from the Gentiles. 22 The benefites done vnto the Iewes, are to be ascribed to the mercie of God, not vnto their deseruinges. 26 God reneweth our heartes, that we may walke in his commaundementes.

1 And thou sonne of man prophecie vnto the mountaines of Israel, and speake, *heare the worde of the lord

Eze.vi.a.

2 O ye mountaines of Israel, Thus saith the Lord God: Because your (a) enemie hath saide vpon you aha, the (b) hie places of the worlde are now become ours in possession:

(a) That is, the Idumean.
(b) That is, the hilly countreys of Iuda.

3 Prophecie therefore and speake, thus saith the Lorde God: For because that they haue made you desolate, and swalowed you vp on euery side, that ye might be a possession vnto the residue of the gentiles, and ye are taken vp in the (c) lippes and tongues of men, and to the reproche of the people:

(c) Ye are made a matter of talke and derision to all the worlde.

4 Therefore heare the worde of the Lorde God, O ye mountaines of Israel, thus saith the Lorde God to the mountaines and hils, to the riuers and valleys, to the waste and desolate places, and to the cities that are forsaken, which are spoyled and had in derision on euery side, among the residue of the heathen:

5 Therefore thus saith the Lorde God: Surely in the fire of my gelousie haue I spoken against the residue of the gentiles, and against all Edom, which haue (d) appoynted my lande for their possession, which also reioyced from their whole heart with a dispitefull stomake, to cast it out for a pray.

(d) They appointed with themselues to haue it, and therfore came with Nabuchodonozor against Hierusalem for this purpose.

6 Prophecie therefore vpon the lande of Israel, and speake vnto the mountaines and hils, to the riuers and dales, thus saith the Lorde God: Behold, this haue I spoken in my gelousie and terrible wrath, because ye haue borne the (e) shame of the heathen:

(e) Because ye haue ben a laughing stocke vnto them.

7 Therefore thus saith the Lorde God, I haue (f) lyft vp my hande, surely the heathen that are about you, shall beare their shame.

(f) By making a solempne oth, Chap.20.6.

8 But you, O mountaynes of Israel, ye shall (g) shoote out your braunches, and bring foorth your fruite to my people of Israel: for they are at hande to come.

(g) God declareth his mercies and goodnes toward his church, who shal preserueth his, euen whē he destroyeth his enemies.

9 Beholde I come vnto you, and vnto you will I turne my face, that ye may be tilled and sowen.

10 I will multiplie men vpon you, [euen] al the house of Israel wholly, the cities shalbe inhabited, and the decayed places shalbe repaired againe.

11 And I will multiplie vpon you man and beast, which shal encrease and bring fruite: and I will cause you to dwell after your olde estate, & be better (h) vnto you then at the beginning: and ye shall knowe that I am the Lorde.

(h) Which was accomplished vnder Christe, to whom al these temporall deliuerances did direct the.

12 Yea I will cause men to walke vpon (i) you, [euen] my people Israel, & they shall possesse (k) thee, and thou shalt be their inheritaunce, & thou shalt no more henceforth deprriue them of [men]

(i) That is, vpon the mountaines of Iuda.
(k) you, chaunging the number.

13 Thus saith the lorde God, Forsomuch as they say vnto you, thou art an (l) eater vp of men, and a waster of thy people:

(l) Thus the enemies imputed as the reproche of the lande, which God did for the sinnes of the people, according to his iust iudgements.

14 Therefore thou shalt eate no more men, neither destroy thy people any more, saith the Lorde God:

15 Neither

15 Neither wyll I cause men to heare in thee the shame of the heathē any more: neither shalt thou beare the reproche of the people any more, nor cause thy folke to fall any more, saith the Lorde God.

16 Moreouer, the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying:

17 O thou sonne of man, When the house of Israel dwelt vpon their owne grounde, they defiled them selues with their owne wayes and imaginations: so that in my sight, their way was lyke the vncleannes of a remoued woman.

18 wherfore I powred my wrathful displeasure vpon them, because of the blood that they had shed in the lande, and because of their idols wherewith they had defiled it:

D 19 I scattered them also among the heathen, so that they were strawed about in the landes: according to their wayes, & after their owne inuentions, so did I iudge them.

Exo 32.a. Rom.15.d. 20 And when they entred vnto the heathen whyther they went, *they polluted my holy name, When they saide of them, These are the people of God, & are gone out of his lande.

(n) Ino Ezechye herein not ceasen my name to be had in contempt, as the heathen would haue reproched me, if I had suffered my church to perish.

21 Then spared I my holy (m) name, which the house of Israel had dishonoured among the gentiles where they came.

(o) This reuoketh from euery all diffidence and meane to deferre any euyll by, seeing that God referreth the whole to him selfe, and that euery for the glory of his holy name.

22 Therfore tel the house of Israel, thus saith the Lorde God: I (n) do not this for your sakes O house of Israel, but for my holy names sake Which ye dishonoured among the heathen where ye came.

23 Therefore I wyll halowe my great name againe, which among the gentiles is polluted, for ye your selues haue dishonoured it among them: & the gentiles shall know that I am the Lorde saith the Lorde God, When I shalbe sanctified in you before your eyes.

24 As for you, I wyll take you from among the heathen, and gather you together out of all countreys, and bring you againe into your owne lande.

E * That is, the spirite, or els he meaneth the heart, and so vnderstandeth Ezech.36.a. 11.19.

25 Then wyll I sprinckle cleane (o) water vpon you, and ye shalbe cleane: yea from all your vncleannes and from all your idols shall I cleanse you.

26 A *newe heart also wyll I geue you, and a newe spirite wyll I put into you: as for that stony heart I wyll take it out of your flesh, and geue you a fleshy heart.

27 I wyll geue my spirite among you, and cause you to walke in my cōmaundementes, and ye shall kepe my iudgementes and do them.

28 And so ye shall dwell in the lande that I gaue to your fathers: & ye shalbe my people, and I wil be your God.

29 I wyll deliuer you from all your vncleannes, I wyl call for the (p) corne, and wyll encrease it, and lay no famine vpon you.

(p) Vnder the aboundaunce of temporall benefites, he concludeth the spirituall graces.

30 I wil multiplie the fruites of the trees and the encrease of the fielde: so that ye shal receaue no more reproche of hunger among the heathen.

31 Then shall ye remember your owne wicked wayes, and your imaginations which were not good: so that ye shalbe (q) irksum in your owne eyes for your sinnes and abhominations.

(q) Ye shall come to true repentaunce, and thinke your selues vnworthy to be of the number of gods creatures, for your ingratitude against him.

32 But I wyl not do this for your sakes, saith the Lorde God, be ye sure of it: therefore O ye house of Israel, be ashamed and confounded of your owne wayes.

F

33 Moreouer, thus saith the Lorde God, What time as I shal cleanse you from al your iniquities, then wil I make the cities to be inhabited againe, and the places that be decayed shalbe repaired.

34 The desolate lande shalbe tilled againe, which afore time lay waste in the sight of al them that went by.

35 And they shal say, this waste lande was like the garden of Eden: and these waste and desolate and ruinous cities [were] strong [and] inhabited.

36 Then the residue of the heathen that lye rounde about you, shall knowe that I the Lord (r) repaire that was broken downe, and plant againe that that was made waste: euen I the Lord haue spoken it, and wyl do it in deede.

(r) He declareth that it ought not to be referred to the soile or certaintie of the earth, that any countrey is rich & aboundant: but onely to gods mercies, as his plagues & curses declare wel enough when he maketh it barein.

37 Thus saith the Lorde God: I wyll yet for this be sought of the house of Israel, to do it for them, I wyll multiplie them as a flocke of men.

38 Like as the holy flocke, and the flocke of Hierusalem are in the hie solempne feastes, so shall also the wasted cities be filled with flockes of men: and they shal knowe that I am the Lorde.

¶ The .xxxij. Chapter.

He prophecieth the bringing againe of the people being in captiuitie. 16 He sheweth the vnion of the ten tribes with the two.

A 1 THe hande of the Lorde was vpon me, and caried me out in the spirite of the Lorde, and set me downe in the midst of a plaine fielde that was full of (a) bones.

(a) By this vision he prophecieth that the people of Israel shalbe deliuered, whom he compareth to bones of dead men: for as drye bones seeme without all hope of lyfe againe, so the Israelites thought they should neuer returne into their countrey, as appeareth by their wordes in the eleuenth verse Our bones are dryed, and our hope is gone &c.

2 And he led me rounde about by them, and beholde, there were very many in the open fielde, and lo [they were] very drye.

3 Then saide he vnto me: Thou sonne of man, thinkest thou these bones may liue againe? I aunswered, O Lorde God, thou knowest.

4 And he saide vnto me, Prophecie thou vpon these bones, & speake vnto them: Ye drye bones, heare the worde of the Lorde,

5 Thus saith the Lorde God vnto these bones: Beholde, I wyll cause breath to enter into you, that ye may lyue.

6 I wyll geue you sinowes, and make flesh growe vpon you, and couer you ouer with skinne, & so geue you breath, that ye may liue, and knowe that I am the Lorde.

7 So I prophecied as I was cõmaunded: and as I was prophecying, there was a noyse, and lo a great motion, so that the bones came neare together, bone to his bone.

B

8 Now when I had loked, behold they had sinowes, & flesh grewe vpon them, and aboue they were couered with skin: but there was no breath in them.

9 Then saide he vnto me: Thou sonne of man, prophecie toward the winde, prophecie & speake to the winde, thus saith the Lorde God: Come, O thou ayre from the foure (b) windes, and blowe vpon these slaine, that they may lyue.

(b) He frameth this talke to the fantasie and opinion of men, that thinke the life of men when they departe is dissolued into the ayre, when as in deede the spirite returneth to him that gaue it, to the Lorde, who is the bosome of Abraham, the receptacle of the faithfull: Neither ought any man to conclude here vpon that the soule of man is of the nature of ayre

10 So I prophecied as he had commaunded me: then came the breath into them, and they receaued lyfe, and stoode vp vpon their feete, a marueilous great armie.

11 Moreouer he said vnto me: Thou sonne of man, these bones are the whole house of Israel: Behold, they say, Our bones are dryed vp, our hope is gone, and we are cleane cut of.

12 Therefore prophecie thou, and speake vnto them, thus saith the Lorde God: Beholde, I wyll open your graues O my people, and cause you to come out of your your sepulchres, and bring you into the lande of Israel againe.

13 So shal ye know that I am the Lord, when I open your graues O my people, & bring you (c) out of your sepulchres.

14 My spirite also wil I put in you, and ye shal liue, I wil set you againe in your owne lande: and ye shall knowe that I the Lorde haue sayde it, and fulfilled it indeede, sayth the Lorde.

C 15 The word of the Lord came vnto me, saying:

16 Thou sonne of man, take one sticke, and write vpon it, Unto Juda and to the children of Israel his companiõs. Then take another sticke and write vpon it, Unto Joseph the stocke of Ephraim, & to all the houshold of Israel his companions.

17 And (d) ioyne thee them one to another into one sticke: and they shalbe as one in thy hande.

18 Now if the children of thy people speake vnto thee, saying: Wilt thou not shew vs what thou meanest by these?

19 Then geue them this aunswere, thus sayth the Lorde God: Beholde, I will take the (e) stocke of Joseph, whiche is in the hand of Ephraim, and of the tribes of Israel his felowes, and wil put them with him, [euen] with the stocke of Juda, and make them one stocke, and they shalbe one in my hande.

20 And the stickes where vpon thou writest, shalt thou haue in thy hand, that they may see.

D 21 And thou shalt say vnto them, thus sayth the Lorde God: Beholde, I will take the children of Israel from among the heathen vnto whom they be gone, and will gather them together on euery side, and bring them againe into their owne lande.

22 Yea I wil make one people of them in the land vpon the mountaynes of Israel, and *one king shalbe king to them al: they shall no more be two peoples, neither be deuided from henceforth into two kingdomes. Ioan.x.c.

23 They shall also defile them selues no more with their idoles and abhominations, and al their wicked doynges: I wil saue them out of all their dwelling places wherin they haue sinned, and will so cleanse them, that they shalbe my people, and I wilbe their God.

24 *Dauid my seruaunt shalbe their king, and they all shall haue one sheepheard only: they shall walke in my iudgementes, and my commaundementes shall they kepe, and fulfill them. Esa.xl.b. Ier.xxiii.a. chap 34.d. Dan.ix.c.

25 They shall dwell in the lande that I gaue vnto Jacob my seruaunt, wheras your fathers also haue dwelt, yea [euen] in the same land shal they, their children, & their childers children dwell for euermore: and my seruaunt Dauid shalbe their prince for euer.

26 Moreouer, I will make a bonde of peace with them, whiche shalbe vnto them an euerlasting couenaunt: I will settle them also and multiplie them, my sanctuarie will I set among them for euermore.

27 My tabernacle shalbe with them: yea I wilbe their God, and they shalbe my people.

28 Thus the heathen also shal know that I the Lorde do sanctifie Israel, when my sanctuarie shalbe among them for euermore. E

The. xxxviii. Chapter.

1 He prophecieth that Gog and Magog shall come with an appointed hoast into the land of promise. 12 Their intent. 17 He rehearseth that the comming of Gog was before prophecied of the prophetes. 21 The destruction of hym.

AND the worde of the Lorde came vnto me, saying:

2 Thou sonne of man, set thy face towarde (a) Gog, the land of Magog, Which is the chiefe prince at Meseth and Tubal: prophecie against him,

3 And say, thus sayth the Lorde God: O Gog, thou chiefe prince of Meseth and Tubal, beholde, I will vpon thee:

4 And I will turne thee backe, and put hookes in thy chawes, I will bring thee forth and all thyne hoast, both horse and horsemen, all armed with all sortes of armour, a great multitude with speares and shieldes, all handling swordes.

5 They of (b) Paras, of Cush, & Phut, with them [euen all [hauing] shieldes and helmets. (b) The Persians, Ethiopians, & men of Ephrica.

B 6 (c) Gomer and all his hoastes, the house of Togarma out of the north quarters and all his hoastes, yea and much people with thee.

(c) Gomer was Japhets sonne, and Togarma the sonne of Gomer, and are thought to be they that inhabite in Asia minor.

7 Therfore prepare thee, set thy selfe in aray with all thy people that are come vnto thee by heapes, & be thou their defence.

8 After many dayes thou shalt be visited, and in the latter yeres thou shalt come into the lande that hath ben turned [and tost] With the swoorde, and gathered together againe out of many people vpon the mountaynes of Israel, which haue ben alwayes [subiect] to waste: but it is brought out of the people, and they dwell all safe.

9 Thou shalt ascend and come vp like a storme, as a cloude to couer the lande shalt thou be: thou with al thine hoastes, & a great multitude of people with thee.

(d) That is, to molest & destroy the churche.

10 Moreouer, thus sayth the Lorde God: At the same time shall thinges come into thy minde, so that thou shalt thinke (d) euyll thoughtes.

(e) Meaning Israel whiche had now ben destroyed, and was not yet bupit againe, declaring hereby also the simplicitie of the godly, who seke not so much to fortifie themselues by outwarde force, as to depend on the prouidence and goodnesse of God.

11 And say, I will vp to the lande of (e) vnwalled villages, I will go to them that be at rest, whiche dwell safely, all dwelling without walles, they haue neither barres nor gates:

12 To spoyle the pray, and to take a bootie, to turne thy hande vpon the desolate places that are [nowe] inhabited, & vpon that people that is gathered together from among the heathen, whiche haue gotten cattell and goodes, and dwell in the mids of the lande.

(f) One enemie shal enuie another, because euery one shall thinke to haue the moyle of the people of God.

13 Then shall Saba and Dedan, and the marchauntes of Tharsis with all their lions, say vnto thee: (f) Art thou come to spoyle a pray? hast thou gathered thy people together to take a bootie, to take away siluer and golde, to cary away cattel and good, and to haue a great pray?

C

(g) Shalt not thou espie thine occasiõs to come against the church, when they suspect nothyng?

14 Therfore, O thou sonne of man, thou shalt prophecie and say vnto Gog, thus sayth the Lord God: In that day when my people Israel (g) dwelleth safe, shalt thou not knowe it?

15 And thou shalt come from thy place out of the north partes, thou and much people with thee, which ride al vpon horses, [euen] a great multitude and a mightie armie.

16 Yea thou shalt come vpon my people of Israel, as a cloude to couer the lande: this shall come to passe in the (h) latter dayes, and I will bring thee vp into my land, that the heathen may knowe me, when I shalbe (i) sanctified in thee O Gog, before their eyes.

(h) Meaning in the last age, and from the comming of Christ vnto the end of the world.

(i) Signifying that god wolde sanctified by maynteining his church & destroying his enemies, as chap. 36. c. and 37 d.

17 Thus sayth the Lorde God: Art not thou he of whom I haue spoken in olde time (k) by the handes of my seruauntes the prophetes of Israel, which prophecied in those dayes and yeres, that I should bring thee vpon them?

(k) Hereby he declareth that none afflictiõs can come to the church, wherof they haue not ben aduertised afore time, to teach them to endure all thinges with more patience when they know that God hath so ordeyned.

18 At the same time when Gog commeth vp into the lande of Israel, sayth the Lorde God, shall myne indignation rise in my wrath:

19 For in my ielousie and fire of my wrath haue I spoken it, surely at that time ther shalbe a great shaking in the lande of Israel. D

20 The very fisshes in the sea, the foules in the ayre, the beastes of the fielde, and all that moue and crepe vpon the earth, and all the men that are vpon the earth, shall tremble at my presence: the hilles also shalbe turned vpside downe, the (l) staires shall fall, and all walles shall fall downe to the grounde.

(l) Meaning wherby man should thinke to saue him selfe that kayle, the afflictions in those dayes shalbe so great, and the enemies destruction shalbe so terrible.

21 I will call for a swoorde vpon (m) hym in all my mountaynes, sayth the Lorde God: so that euery mans swoorde shalbe vpon another.

(m) Against the people of Gog & Magog.

22 With pestilence and blood wil I pleade against him: stormie rayne and hayle stones, fire and brimstone wil I cause to rayne vpon him and all his hoastes, yea and vpon all that great people that is with him.

Chap. 36. 6. and 27. 6.

23 Thus will I be *magnified, sanctified, and knowen in the eyes of many nations: and they shall knowe that I am the Lorde.

The

The. xxxix. Chapter.

1 He sheweth the destruction of Gog and Magog. 11 The graue of Gog and his hoast. 17 He prophecieth that Gog and his companie shalbe deuoured of birdes and beastes. 23 Wherfore the house of Israel is wasted. 25 Their bringing againe from captiuitie is promised.

A 1 THerfore O thou sonne of man, prophecie against Gog, & speake, thus sayth the Lorde God: Behold O Gog, thou chiefe prince at Meschech and Tubal, I will vpon thee.

2 And I will turne thee about, and I will (a) prouoke thee forward, and cause thee to come vp from the north partes, and bring thee vp to the mountaynes of Israel.

3 As for thy bow, I will smite it out of thy left hande, and cause thyne arrowes to fall out of thy right hande.

4 Thou with all thyne hoast, and all the people that is with thee, shall fall vpon the mountaynes of Israel: then will I geue thee vnto the (b) flockes of birdes [euen] to all fethered foules and beastes of the fielde, to be deuoured.

5 Thou shalt fal vpon the open fielde: for I haue spoken it, sayth the Lorde God.

6 Into Magog, and among those that sit so carelesse in the (c) Iles will I sende a fire, and they shall know that I am the Lorde.

7 I will make also the name of my holinesse to be knowen among my people of Israel, and I will not let them pollute my holy name any more: but the very heathen also shall knowe that I am the Lord, the holy one of Israel.

8 Behold it is (d) come, and it is done, sayth the Lorde God: this is the day wherof I haue spoken.

9 They that dwell in the cities of Israel, shall go forth and (e) set fire vpon the weapons, and burne them, shieldes and speares, bowes & arowes, hand staues and "swordes, and they shal burne them with fire seuen yeres.

10 So that they shall els bring no wood from the fielde, neither hew downe any out of the wood: for with weapons shal they make their fire, they shall rob those that robbed them, and spoyle those that spoyled them, sayth the Lorde God.

11 At the same time will I geue vnto Gog a place to be buried in Israel, euen the valley wherethrough men go towarde the east sea: those that trauayle thereby, shall (f) stop their noses, there shall Gog and all his multitute be buried, & it shalbe called the valley of the "multitude of Gog.

12 Seuen monethes long shall the house of Israel be burying of them, that they may cleanse the lande.

13 Yea all the people of the land shal burie them, and they shall haue a name when I shalbe glorified, sayth the Lord God.

14 They shall chose out men to go continually thorowe the lande, to (g) burie as they passe through those that remayne vpon the ground, to cleanse it: after the end of seuen monethes, shall they make their searche.

15 And the trauaylers that passe thorowe the land, where they see a mans bone, they shal set vp a token by it, til the dead buriers haue buried it also in the valley of the multitude of Gog.

16 And the name of the citie shalbe called (h) Hamonah: thus shall they make the lande cleane.

17 And thou sonne of man, thus sayth the Lord God: Speake vnto the birdes and all fethered foules, yea and to all the beastes of the fielde, Assemble you together, and come, gather you round about to my (i) sacrifice that I sacrifice for you, [euen] a great sacrifice vpon the mountaynes of Israel, that ye may eate flesh, and drinke blood.

18 Ye shall eate the flesh of the valiaunt, and drinke the blood of the princes of the land, of the rammes, of the weathers, of the goates, and of the bullockes, that be all fed at Basan.

19 Ye shall eate the fat your belly full, and drinke blood till ye be drunken of my sacrifice, which I haue sacrificed for you.

20 Ye shall fil you at my table with horses & horsemen, with the valiaunt and men of warre, sayth the Lorde God.

21 I wil set my glorie also among the gentiles, that all the heathen may see my iudgement that I haue executed, & my hand whiche I haue layde vpon them.

22 And the house of Israel shall knowe that I am the Lorde their God, from that day, and so forwarde.

23 And

(a) That is, as one moued with anger and wrath.

(b) Whereby he speaketh after the maner which is vsed in sacrifices of beastes.

(c) Which were vnder the Persians.

(d) Hereby he signifieth that it is vndoubted.

(e) Partly for the great plentie of wood that was there, and partly for the great hatred which they had conceiued against their enemies.

(f) For the stinke of the carkases, that shal lye slayne there vnburied.

" Or, Hamon Gog.

(g) Partly that the holy land should not be polluted, and partly for the compassion which the children of God haue, euē vpon their enemies.

(h) So called, for the multitude of the people of Gog that should be slayne there.

(i) As solemne sacrifices were common feastes to great multitudes of people assembled: so was this slaughter as a great sacrifice and feaste for all birdes and beastes to fede vpon.

23 And the heathen shal know, that Wherfore the house of Israel was led into captiuitie, it was for their (k) wickednesse sake, because they offended me: for the which cause I hyd my face from them, & deliuered them into the handes of their enemies, that they might all be slayne with the swoorde.

(k) The heathen shall know that they ouercame not my people by their owne strength, neither yet by the weaknesse of myne arme, but that this was for my people sinnes.

24 According to their vncleanenesse, & according to their transgressions haue I done vnto them, & hid my face frō them.

25 Therefore thus sayth the Lorde God: Nowe will I bring againe the captiues of Jacob, and haue mercie vpon the whole house of Israel, and be ielous for my holy names sake,

26 After that they haue borne their shame, and all their transgression, wherby they haue transgressed against me when they dwelt safely in their lande, and no man to feare them:

27 And when I haue brought them againe from among the people, when I haue gathered them together out of their enemies landes, and am sanctified in them in the sight of many nations:

28 Then shall they knowe that I am the Lorde their God, which caused them to be led into captiuitie among the heathen, but haue gathered them againe into their owne land, and not left one of them any more there. E

29 After that wil I hyde my face no more from them, but will powre out my spirite vpon the house of Israel, sayth the Lorde God.

The. xl. Chapter.

1 The restoring of the cities and of the temple that was to come, is shewed vnto the prophete.

A 1 IN the fyue and twentie yere of our captiuitie, in the (a) beginning of the yere, the tenth day of the moneth, that is the fourteenth yere after the citie was smitten, the selfe same day came the hand of the Lorde vpon me, & brought me thyther:

(a) The Iewes counted the beginning of the yere after two sortes: for feastes, they began to count in Marche: and for their other affaires in September so that this is to be vnderstande of September.

2 Euen into the land of Israel brought he me in the visions of god, & set me downe vpon a marueylous hye mountayne, Wherevpon there was as it had ben the buylding of a citie towarde the south.

3 Thyther he caried me, and behold there was a (b) man, whose similitude was like brasse, whiche had a twisted line of flax in his hand, and a cane to measure with: and he stoode in the doore.

(b) Whiche was an angell in fourme of a mā, that came to measure out this buylding.

4 And that man sayde vnto me: Thou sonne of man, marke well with thyne (c) eyes, hearken to with thyne eares, and fasten it in thy heart, Whatsoeuer I shal shewe thee: for to the intent that they might be shewed thee, therfore art thou brought hyther, and whatsoeuer thou seest, thou shalt certifie the house of Israel therof.

(c) By this and the like hebrew phrases, he exhorted him to beholde, & marke diligently as a thing worthy noting.

5 Behold, there was a wall on the (d) outside of the house, rounde about: the cane to measure with that he had in his hande, was sixe cubites long by the (e) cubite & a hande breadth: So he measured the breadth of the building with one cane, and the heyght with one cane.

(d) Which compassed the whole hill of Sion, in the top wherof the temple was buylded.

(e) The cubite which he speaketh of, was larger then the common cubite by a hād breadth: that is, foure inches, and it was called the holy cubite: the common cubite conteyned but fiue hand breadth, and this sixe. Vide cha. 43.

6 Then came he to the gate which loketh toward the east, and went vp the staires therof, and measured the post of the gate one cane broade, and the other post of the gate one cane broade.

7 And [euery] chamber was one cane long and one cane broade, and betweene the chambers were fiue cubites: and the post of the gate by the porche of the gate within, was one cane. 25

8 He measured also the porche of the gate within one cane.

9 Then measured he the porche of the gate eyght cubites: & the "pentises therof two cubites, and the porche of the gate [was] inwarde.

"Or, fronts

10 And the chambers of the gate eastward, were three on this side, & three on that side: they three were of one measure, & the pentises had one measure on this side, and one measure on that side.

11 After this, he measured the breadth of the entrie of the gate ten cubites, and the heyght of the gate thirteene cubites.

12 The space also before the chambers was one cubite [on this side] and the space one cubite on that side: & the chambers sixe cubites on this side, and sixe cubites on that side.

13 He measured the gate from the roofe of a chamber to his owne roofe the breadth of fiue and twentie cubites: doore against doore.

14 He made "frontes also of threescore cubites, [euen] vnto the front of the court rounde about the gate. "Or, postes. C

15 And from the forefront of the entrie of the gate, vnto the forefront of the gate within [were] fiftie cubites.

16 And

16 And there were narowe windowes in the chambers, and in the frontes within the gate rounde about: & so in the arches: and the windowes [went] rounde about within, and vpon the frontes were paulme trees.

17 Then brought he me into the outward court, where as were chambers, and a pauement made for the court rounde about: thirtie chambers were vpon the pauement.

18 And the pauement [was] by the side of the gates, ouer against the length of the gates: and the pauement [was] beneath.

19 Then he measured the breadth frō the forefront of the lower gate without, vnto the forefront of the court within, a hundreth cubites eastwarde and northwarde.

20 And the gate in the outward court that loked toward the north, measured he after the length and breadth therof.

D 21 And the chambers therof [were] three on this side, and three on that side: and the frontes therof, and the arches therof were after the measure of the (f) first gate: the length thereof was fiftie cubites, and the breadth fiue and twentie cubites.

(f) That is, the vtter gate, as appeareth vnder verse 23.

22 And their windowes and their arches with their paulme trees [were] after the measure of the gate that loketh toward the east: and the goyng vp vnto it [had] seuen steppes, and the arches therof [were] before them.

23 And the gate of the inner court [stoode] ouer against the gate toward the north and toward the east, and he measured from gate to gate a hundreth cubites.

24 After that he brought me toward the south, where there stoode a gate toward the south, and he measured the frontes therof and the arches therof according to those measures.

25 And [there were] windowes in it, and in the arches therof round about like these windowes: the length [was] fiftie cubites, & the breadth fiue and twentie cubites.

26 And [there were] seuen steppes at the goyng vp to it, and the arches therof before them: & it had paulme trees, one on this side, and an other on that side, vpon the front therof.

27 And [there was] a gate in the inner court toward the south, and he measured from gate to gatet oward the south, a hundred cubites.

28 So he brought me into the inner court thorowe the south gate, and he measured the south gate according to those measures. E

29 And the chambers thereof, the frontes therof, and the arches thereof, according to these measures, and wyndowes in it: and in the arches thereof round about, fiftie cubites long, and fiue and twentie cubites broade.

30 And the arches round about [were] fiue and twentie cubites long, and fiue cubites broade.

31 And the arches therof [were] toward the vtter court, and paulme trees vpon the frontes therof, & the goyng vp to it [had] eyght steppes.

32 He brought me also into the inmost court toward the east, and measured the gate according to those measures.

33 And the chambers thereof, and frontes therof, and the arches therof [were] according to these measures, & there were windowes therin, and in the arches therof round about: it [was] fiftie cubites long, & fiue and twentie cubites broade.

34 And the arches therof [were] towarde the vtter court, and paulme trees vpon the frontes thereof on this side and on that side, & the goyng vp to it had eyght steppes.

35 And he brought me to the north gate, & measured it according to those measures. F

36 The chambers thereof, the frontes therof, and the arches therof, and [there were] windowes therin rounde about: and the length [was] fiftie cubites, & the breadth fiue and twentie cubites.

37 And the frontes therof [were] towarde the vtter court, and paulme trees [were] vpon the frontes therof on this side, and on that side, and the goyng vp to it had eyght steppes.

38 And a chamber and the entrie thereof [was] vnder the frōtes of the gates: there they washed the (g) burnt offeringes.

(g) That is, the inwardes or entraples of the sacrifice that was offered for a burnt offering.

39 And in the porche of the gate stoode two tables on this side, and two tables on that side, vpon the whiche they slue the burnt offering, and the sinne offering, and the trespasse offering.

40 And at the side without the steppes at the entrie of the north gate [stoode] two tables, and on the other side which was at the porche of the gate [were] two tables.

41 Foure tables were on this side, and foure on that side by the side of the gate, [euen] eyght tables, Wherevpon they slue [their sacrifices.]

42 And the foure tables were of hewen stone for the burnt offring, of a cubite & a halfe long, and a cubite and a halfe broade, and one cubite hye, Wherevpon were layde the instrumentes wherwith they slue the burnt offring, and the sacrifice.

43 And within there were hookes one hand breadth [long] fastened rounde about, and vpon the tables was the offering flesh.

44 And without the inner gate [were] the chambers of the singers in the inwarde court, whiche was at the side of the north gate, and their prospect was towarde the south: and one was at the side of the east gate, hauing the prospect towarde the north.

45 And he sayde vnto me: This chamber, whose prospect is towarde the south, [is] for the priestes that haue charge to kepe the house.

46 And the chamber whose prospect is towarde the north [is] for the priestes that haue charge to kepe the aulter: these are the sonnes of Sadoc, which of the sonnes of Leui come neare to the Lorde, to minister vnto him.

47 So he measured the court, which had in length a hundred cubites, and a hundred in breadth, [euen] foure square: and the aulter stoode before the house.

48 And he brought me to the porche of the (b) house, and measured the porche fiue cubites on this side, and fiue cubites on that side: and the breadth of the gate was three cubites on this side, and three cubites on that side.

(b) That is, of the temple.

49 The (i) length of the porche was twentie cubites, the breadth eleuen cubites, and by steps went men vp to it: by the frontes also were pillers, one on this side, and another on that side.

(i) From north to south.

The. xli. Chapter.

1 The disposition and deuice of building againe the temple, and of the other thinges therto belonging.

AFter this he brought me to the temple, and measured the frontes sixe cubites broade on the one side, and sixe cubites broade on the other side, [which was] the breadth of the tabernacle.

2 The breadth of the doore was ten cubites, and the sides of the doore [were] fiue cubites on the one side and fiue cubites on the other syde, and he measured the length (a) therof fourtie cubites, and the breadth twentie cubites.

(a) Of the temple from this doore to the most holy place.

3 Then went he in & measured the front of the doore two cubites: but the doore it selfe was sixe cubites, and the breadth on the other side of the doore was seuen cubites.

4 He measured the length therof twentie cubites, and the breadth twentie cubites before the temple. And he said vnto me, This is the most holy [place.]

5 He measured also the wall of the house sixe cubites, and the breadth of a chamber foure cubites round about the house on euery side.

6 And the chambers were chamber vpon chamber, three and thirtie in order: and they entred the wall whiche was of the house for the chambers rounde about, that they might be fastened, and not be fastened in the wall of the house.

7 Ther was an enlarging, and a winding about, mounting still vpwarde to the chābers: for the staire of the house was mounting still vpward round about the house, therfore the house was larger vpwarde: so they went vp from the lowest [chamber] to the highest by the midst.

8 And I saw the house hye round about: the foundatiōs of the chambers [were] a ful cane of sixe cubites (b) vp to the armeholes.

(b) That is, great, and of the largest syze.

9 The thickenesse of the wall which was for the chamber without [was] fiue cubites, and that whiche remayned was the place of the chambers that were within.

10 And betweene the chambers was the wydenesse of twentie cubites rounde about the house on euery side.

11 And the doores of the chambers were toward the " place that remayned, one doore toward the north, and another toward the south: & the breadth of the place that remayned was fiue cubites rounde about.

" Or, borde space.

12 Now

12 Now the buylding that was before the separate place at the end towarde the west [was] seuentie cubites broade: and the wall of the buylding was fyue cubites thicke round about, and the length nynetie cubites.

13 So he measured the house, Which was a hundred cubites long, and the separate place and the buylding with the walles were a hundred cubites long also.

14 The breadth also of the forefront of the house and of the separate place towarde the east, was a hundred cubites.

15 And he measured the length of the buylding ouer against the separate place which was behynde it, and the chambers on the one side & on the other side a hundreth cubites, with the temple within, and the porches of the court.

16 The doore postes, and the narow windowes, & the chambers round about, on three sides ouer against the doore, seeled with wood round about, and from the ground vp to the windowes: and the windowes themselues were seeled.

17 And from aboue the doore vnto the house within and without, and vpon euery wall rounde about within and without, [toke he] measure.

18 And it was made with (d) Cherubims and paulme trees, so that a paulme tree was betweene a Cherub and a Cherub, and euery Cherub had two faces.

(d) That is, Cherubims and paulme trees were drawen at the walles.

19 So that the face of a man was toward the paulme tree on the one side, and the face of a lion towarde the paulme tree on the other side: [thus] was it made through all the house rounde about.

20 From the ground vnto aboue the doore were Cherubims & paulme trees made: and [thus was] the wall of the temple.

21 The postes of the temple were foure squared, and the fashion of the sanctuarie was (e) appearaunce lyke appearaunce. D

(e) That is, the doore postes or cheekes of the sanctuarie, were like the doore cheekes of the temple.

22 The aulter of wood was three cubites hye, and two cubites long: the corners, the length, and the walles thereof were of wood. And he sayd vnto me, This is the table that shalbe before the Lorde.

23 The temple and the holiest of all had either of them two doores.

24 And the doores had two (f) doores [a peece, euen] two folding doores, two for the one doore, and two doores for the other.

(f) That is, two leaues, one on the one side and the other on the other side, of either of the doores.

25 And vpon the doores of the temple, there were made Cherubims & paulme trees, lyke as was made vpon the walles: & thicke beames vpon the forefront of the porche without.

26 And [there were] narow windowes and paulme trees on the one side and on the other side, by the sides of the porche and vpon the sides of the house, and thicke beames.

The. xlii. Chapter.

1 Of the chambers of the temple for the priestes, and the holy thinges.

A 1 Then led he me into the vtter court by the way towarde the north, and he brought me into the chamber that [was] ouer against the separate place, Whiche [was] before the buylding towarde the north.

2 Before the length of a hundred cubites [was] the north doore: and the breadth [was] fiftie cubites.

3 Ouer against the twentie cubites, Which were for the inner court, and ouer against the pauement, which was for the vtter court, [was] chamber against chamber, three [orders.]

4 And before the chambers, ther was a walking place of ten cubites wyde inwarde, the way of one cubite: and their doores towarde the north.

5 Thus the vpper chambers were alway narower: for those chambers [seemed] to eate vp these, [to wit] the lower and the middlemer of the buylding.

6 For they were in three orders, but had no pillers as the pillers of the courtes: therfore were they smaller then the nethermost and the middlemost [to reckon] from the grounde.

7 And the wall that was without ouer against the chambers, towarde the vtter court on the forefront of the chambers, the length therof was fiftie cubits. B

8 For the length of the chambers that were in the vtter court was fyftie cubites: and lo, before the temple was a hundred cubites.

9 And vnder these chambers [was] the entrie from the east, as one goeth vnto them from the vtter court.

10 In the thickneſſe of the wall of the court towarde the eaſt before the ſeparate place, and before the building of the chambers.

11 And the way before them after the appearaunce of the chambers which were toward the north, as their length, ſo was their breadth: and all their entries [were] according to their faſhion, and according to their doores.

12 And according to the doores of the chambers that were toward the ſouth, [was] a dooze in the head of the way, [euen] the way directly before the wall towarde the eaſt, as one entreth.

13 Then ſayd he vnto me: The chambers toward the north, and the chambers towarde the ſouth, whiche are before the ſeparate place, thoſe be holy chambers, wherin the prieſtes that (a) approche vnto the Lorde muſt eate the moſt holy thinges, & there muſt they lay the moſt holy thinges, and the meate offring, and ſinne offering, and treſpaſſe offering: for it is a holy place.

(a) That is, which exerciſe the prieſtes office, as more fully is declared in the next chapter folowing verſ. 19.

14 When the prieſtes come therein, they ſhall not go out of the holy place into the vtter court, but there they ſhall lay vp their garmentes wherin they miniſter, for they are holy: & ſhall put on (b) other garmentes, and ſo ſhall approche to thoſe which are for the people.

(b) That is, their common apparel which they vſed among the people: and as ſome ſay, was ſuch as the common people vſed.

15 Now when he had finiſhed the meaſuring of the houſe within, he led me foorth toward the gate whoſe proſpect is towarde the eaſt, and he meaſured it rounde about.

16 He meaſured the eaſt ſide with the meaſuring cane fiue hundred canes, [euen] with the meaſuring cane round about.

17 And he meaſured the north ſide fyue hundred canes, [euen] with the meaſuring cane round about.

18 The ſouth ſide alſo meaſured he fiue hundred canes, by the meaſuring cane.

19 He turned about [alſo] to the weſt ſide, and meaſured fiue hundred canes, by the meaſuring cane.

20 So he meaſured it by the foure ſides: it had a wall round about fyue hundred canes long, and fiue hundred broade, to make a ſeparation betweene the (c) ſanctuarie, and the prophane place.

(c) That is, betweene the temple & the citie, which in reſpect of the ſanctuarie and temple was counted prophane.

The .xliii. Chapter.

1 He ſeeth the glorie of God goyng into the temple, from whence it had before departed. 7 He mencioneth the idolatrie of the children of Iſrael, for the whiche they were conſumed and brought to naught. 10 He is commaunded to call them againe to repentaunce.

1 A SO he brought me to the gate [euen] the gate that turneth towarde the eaſt:

2 And beholde, then came the glorie of the God of Iſrael from out of the eaſt, whoſe voyce was lyke a great noyſe of waters, and the earth was lightened with his glorie.

3 And *according to the appearaunce of the viſion which I ſaw, [euen] according to the viſion which I ſawe (a) when I came to deſtroy the citie: and the viſions were like the viſions whiche I ſawe by the riuer Chebar, & I fell vpon my face.

Ezec. ix. a.

(a) When I prophecied the deſtruction of the citie by the Chaldeans.

4 And the (b) glorie of the Lorde came into the houſe by the way of the gate whoſe proſpect is towarde the eaſt.

(b) Whiche was departed before chap. 10. 8. and 11. 6.

5 So a winde toke me vp, and brought me into the innermer court: and behold, the houſe was full of the glorie of the Lorde.

6 And I heard one ſpeaking vnto me out of the houſe, & there ſtoode a man by me,

7 And he ſayd vnto me: O thou ſonne of man, this roome is my ſeate, & the place of my foote ſteppes, wheras I wil dwel among the children of Iſrael for euermore: ſo that the houſe of Iſrael ſhal no more defile my holy name, neither they nor their kinges thorowe their whordome, and thorowe the dead bodies of their (c) kinges [in] their hye places. B

8 Albeit they haue ſet their threſholdes by my threſholdes, and their poſtes by my poſtes, and a wal betwixt me and them, yet haue they defiled my holy name with their abominations that they haue committed: wherfore I haue conſumed them in my wrath.

(c) He alludeth to Ammon & Manaſſes, who were buried in their gardens neare the temple, and there he erected by monamentes to their idols.

9 But nowe let them put away their whordome, and the dead bodies of their kinges out of my ſight, and I will dwel among them for euermore.

10 Therfore O thou ſonne of man, ſhewe thou the houſe of Iſrael this houſe, that they may be aſhamed of their wickedneſſe, & meaſure them ſelues an example therat.

11 And

11 And if they be ashamed of all their workes, then shew them the fourme of the house and patterne thereof, the going out, the comming in, all the maner therof, yea all the ordinaunces thereof, the figures, and all the lawes thereof, and write it in their sight, that they may kepe the whole fashion thereof, and all the ordinaunces thereof, and do them.

(d) Or, the compasse.

12 This is the (d) lawe of the house: Upon the top of the mount, shall all the limits thereof be, rounde about the most holy place: lo, this is the lawe of the house.

13 And these are the measures of the aulter in cubites: the cubite is a cubite and a hande breadth, the botome [shalbe] a cu-bite, and the breadth a cubite, & the border therof by the edge thereof rounde about was one span, and this [shalbe] the height of the aulter.

¶ 14 And from the bottome vpon the grou̅d vnto the lower peece [shalbe] two cubites, and the breadth one cubite: and from the litle peece to the great peece [shalbe] foure cubites, & the breadth one cubite.

15 The aulter was foure cubites hie, and from the aulter vpwarde stoode foure hornes.

16 And the aulter was twelue cubites long, and twelue cubites broade, square in the foure corners thereof.

17 The frame of the aulter [shalbe] fourteene cubites long, and fourteene broade in the foure square corners thereof, and the border about it shalbe halfe a cubite, and the bottome thereof [shalbe] a cubite about, and the steps thereof [shalbe] turned toward the east.

18 And he saide vnto me, Thou sonne of man, thus saith the Lorde God: These are the ordinaunces of the aulter, in the day when it is made, to offer burnt offeringes thereupon, & to sprinckle blood thereupon.

19 And thou shalt geue to the priestes, to the Leuites that be of the seede of Sa-doc, and approche vnto me saith the D Lord God to minister vnto me, a young bullocke for a sinne offering.

20 And thou shalt take of the blood ther-of, & put it on the foure hornes of it, and on the foure corners of the frame, and vpon the border rounde about: thus shalt thou cleanse it, and purge it.

21 Thou shalt take the bullocke also of the sinne offering, and burne him in the ap-poynted place without the sanctuary.

22 The seconde day, take a goate bucke without blemishe for a sinne offering, to cleanse the aulter withal, like as it was cleansed with the bullocke.

23 Now when thou hast made an ende of cleansing it, then offer a young bullocke without blemishe, and a ramme out of the flocke without blemishe also.

24 Offer them before the Lorde, and let the priestes cast salt therupon, and geue them so vnto the Lorde for a burnt offering.

25 Seuen dayes shalt thou prepare eue-ry day a goate bucke for sinne, a young bullocke and a ramme of the flocke, both without blemishe shall they prepare.

26 Seuen dayes shall they reconcile and cleanse the aulter, and (e) fill the place E thereof.

(e) Or, consecrate it.

27 When these dayes are expired, then vp-on the eight day & so forth, the priestes shall make your burnt offrings, and peace offrings vpon the aulter: so I wyll accept you, saith the Lorde God.

The .xliiij. Chapter.

1 He sheweth what doore of the temple is shut. 6 He is commaunded to vpbraide the people with their offence. 9 Who are to be admitted to the seruice of the temple, and who to be refused. 15 He sheweth what priestes he would haue admitted into the holy place, and also their office.

A 1 AFter this, he brought me againe to the outward gate of the sanctuarie on the east side, and that was shut.

2 Then saide the Lorde vnto me: This gate shalbe still (a) shut and not opened, neither shall any man go through it: for the Lorde God of Israel hath entred by it, and it shalbe shut.

(a) Meaning from the commune people, but not from the priestes, as chap. 46. b.

3 It is for the prince, the prince him selfe shal sit in it to eate bread before the lord:
he shal enter by the way of the porche of that gate, and shal go out by the way of the same.

4 Then brought he me toward the north gate before the house: and as I loked, beholde

beholde the glory of the Lorde filled the house of the Lorde, and I fell vpon my face.

5 So the Lorde spake vnto me: O thou sonne of man, set thyne heart, and beholde with thyne eyes, and heare with thyne eares al that I say vnto thee concerning all the ordinaunces of the house of the Lorde, and all the lawes thereof, and marke well the entring in of the house, with euery going forth of the sanctuarie.

6 And thou shalt say to the rebellious [euen] to the house of Israel, thus saith the Lorde God: O house of Israel, ye haue inough of al your abhominations.

B 7 Seeing ye haue brought into my sanctuary (b) straungers hauing vncircumcized heartes and vncircumcized flesh, to be in my sanctuarie to pollute my house, when ye offer my bread, fat, and blood, and they haue broken my couenaunt because of all your abhominations:

(b) For they had brought idolaters which were of other countreys, to teach them their idolatrie. Chap. 23. g.

(c) ye haue not obserued vnto me according to my lawe.

8 And ye haue not kept the (c) ordinaunces of my holy thinges, and ye haue set kepers to kepe my sanctuarie (d) for you.

(d) In your place.

9 Therefore thus saith the Lorde God: Of al the straungers that dwell among the children of Israel, no straunger vncircumcized in heart, nor vncircumcized in flesh, shall enter into my sanctuarie.

10 But the Leuites that went backe from me when Israel went astraye, which strayed from me after their idols, (e) shal beare their iniquitie:

(e) That is, the Leuites which had committed idolatrie, were put from their dignitie, and could not be receiued into the priestes place, although they had ben of the house of Aaron, but must serue in the inferior offices, as to watch and to kepe ye doores. 4. Reg. 23. b.

11 And they shalbe ministers in my sanctuary, and kepe the gates of the house, and minister in the house: they shall slay the burnt offeringes, and the sacrifice for the people, and they shal stand before them to serue them.

12 Because they serued before their idols, and caused the house of Israel to fall into iniquitie: therefore haue I lift vp my hande against them, saith the Lorde God, and they shal beare their iniquitie.

C 13 And they shall not come neare vnto me to do the office of a priest vnto me, neither shall they come neare vnto any of myne holy thinges in the most holy place: but they shall beare their owne shame and abhominations which they haue done.

14 And I wyll make them kepers of the watch of the house for all the seruice thereof, & for al that shalbe done therin.

15 But the priestes, the Leuites, the sonnes of Sadoc that (f) kept the charge of my sanctuarie when the children of Israel strayed from me, shal come to me to do me seruice, to stand before me, and to offer me the fat and the blood, saith the Lorde God.

(f) Which obserued the law of God, and fell not to idolatrie.

16 They shall go into my sanctuarie, and approche vnto my table to do me seruice, and they shall kepe my charge.

17 Now when they go in at the gates of the innermer court, they shal put on linnen clothes, so that no woollen come vpon them while they do seruice vnder the gates of the innermer court, and within.

18 They shall haue linnen bonnets vpon their heades, and linnen "breeches vpon their loynes: they shal not gird themselues in the "sweate.

"Sloppes.

"In the places of sweate, or els not ouer straite to make them to sweate.

19 And when they go forth into the vtter court [euen] to the vtter court of the people, they shall put of the clothes wherein they haue ministred, and laye them in the chamber of the sanctuarie, and put on other apparel, and they shal not sanctifie the people with their clothes.

D 20 They shall not (g) shaue their heades, nor suffer their here to growe long, but poule their heades onely.

(g) For that, as saint Jerom saith, was the maner of the Gentiles, and Infidels.

21 *Al the priestes that go into the inmost court shal drinke no wine.

Leui. x. b.

22 They shall mary no widowe, neither one that is put from her husband: but a maide of the seede of the house of Israel, or a widowe that hath had a priest before.

23 They shall shewe my people the difference betweene the holy and vnholy, and cause them to discerne betwixt the cleane and vncleane.

24 And in controuersie they shall stand to iudge, and geue sentence after my iudgementes: and my lawes and my statutes shal they kepe in al my solempne feastes, and halowe my Sabbathes.

Leui. 21. b.

25 *They shall come at no dead person to defile themselues: but with father or mother, sonne or daughter, brother or sister, that hath had yet no husband, (h) may they be defiled.

(h) They may be at their burial, which was termed a defiling.

26 And when he is cleansed, there shalbe reckened vnto him seuen dayes.

27 And when he goeth into the sanctuarie vnto the inner court to minister in the sanctuarie, he shal bring his sinne offring saith

saith the Lorde.

Num.18.d. 28 *There shalbe to them an inheritaūce, [euen] I their inheritaunce: but possessi-on shall ye geue them none in Israel, for I am their possession.

29 The meate offering, sinne offring, and trespasse offring shal they eate: & euery dedicate thing in Israel shalbe theirs.

Exo.22. Num.18.e. 30 *And all the first of all the first borne, and euery oblation, [euen] all of euery sort of your oblations shalbe the priestes: ye shall also geue vnto the priestes the first of your dough, that he may cause the blessing to rest in thyne house.

31 But the priestes shal eate nothing that *is dead [by it selfe] or torne of foule or of beaste. Exo 22.c. Leui.22.b.

¶ The .xlv. Chapter.

1 Out of all the lande of promise are there separated foure portions, of which the first is geuen to the priestes and to the temple, the seconde to the Leuites, the third to the citie, the fourth to the prince. 9 An exhortation to the heades of Israel. 10 Of iust waightes and measures. 13 Of the first fruites.

1 When ye deuide the land by the lot for inheri-taunce, ye shall offer an oblation to the Lorde, a holy (a) portion of the lande, twentie and fiue thousand canes long, and ten thousand broade: this shalbe holy in all the borders thereof rounde a-bout.

(a) Of all the lande of Israel the Lorde requireth one-ly this portiō, for the temple and for the priestes, for the cite & for the prince.

2 Of this part there shall belong vnto the sanctuarie fiue hundred cubites [in length] with fiue hundred [in breadth] square rounde about: and fiftie cubites rounde about for the suburbes.

3 And of this measure shalt thou mea-sure, [namely] of the length of twentie & fiue thousand, and the breadth of ten thousand: and in it shalbe the sanctuarie and the most holy place.

4 That holy portion of the lande shall parteyne vnto the priestes which do ser-uice in the sanctuarie, which come neare to serue the Lorde: and it shalbe vnto them a place for their houses, and a holy place for the sanctuarie.

5 And in the twentie and fiue thousand length, and ten thousand breadth, shall the Leuites that minister in the house haue their possession for twentie cham-bers.

6 Ye shal geue also vnto the citie a posses-sion of fiue thousand canes broade, and twentie and fiue thousand long, ouer a-gainst the oblation of the holy portion, that shalbe for the whole house of Is-23 rael.

7 And [a portion shalbe] for the prince on this side and on that side of the oblation of the holy portion, and of the possession of the citie, [euen] before the oblation of the holy portion, and before the possessi-on of the citie, from the west corner westwarde, & from the east corner east-warde: and the length shalbe by one of the portions, from the west border vnto the east border.

8 In this lande shalbe his possession in Israel: and my princes shall no more oppresse my people, and [the rest] of the lande shall they geue to the house of Is-rael according to their tribes.

9 Thus saith the Lorde God, (b) Let it suffise you O ye princes of Israel: leaue of crueltie and oppression, and execute iudgement and iustice: take away your exactions from my people, saith the lord God.

(b) The prophete sheweth that the heads must be first reformed, afore any good order can be stablished a-mong the people.

10 Ye shall haue a true Ballaunce, a true (c) Ephah, and a true Bath.

11 The Ephah and the Bath shalbe a-lyke: one Bath shall containe the tenth parte of an Homer, and an Ephah the tenth part of an Homer: the equalitie thereof shalbe after the Homer.

12 * The Sicle maketh twentie Gerrahs: & twentie Sicles, and (d) twentie & fiue, and fifteene Sicles make a Maneh.

13 This is the oblation that ye shall of-fer: the first part of an Ephah out of an Homer of Wheate, and the first part of an Ephah out of an Homer of barlye.

14 Concerning the ordinaunces of the oyle, [euen] of the Bath of oyle, [ye shall offer] the tenth part of a Bath out of the Cor: ten Bathes [shalbe] a Homer, be-cause ten Bathes [fill] a Homer.

15 And one lambe from two hundred sheepe out of the fat pastures of Israel, for a meate offring, burnt offring, and peace offring, to reconcile them, saith the Lorde God.

16 All the people of the lande shall geue this oblation for the prince in Israel.

(c) Ephah & Bath were both of one quantitie, for the Ephah contained in drye thinges, that as the Bath did in licour. Leui.v.b. Exo 30.c. Leui 27.d. Nume.v.g.

(d) That is, three score sicles make a weight cal-led Maneh for he tooketh these three parres to a Maneh.

17 Againe,

17 Againe, it shalbe the princes part to offer burnt offringes, meate offringes, and wine offringes, in the holy dayes, newe moones, Sabbathes, & in all the hie feastes of the house of Israel: he shal prepare the sinne offring, meate offring, burnt offring, and peace offring, to reconcile the house of Israel.

18 Thus saith the Lorde God: The first day of the first (c) moneth, thou shalt take a young bullocke without blemishe, and cleanse the sanctuarie.

(c) Which was Nisan, containing part of March and part of April.

19 So the priest shall take of the blood of the sinne offring, and put it vpon the postes of the house, & vpon the foure corners of the frame of the aulter, & vpon the postes of the gate of the inner court.

20 And thus shalt thou do also the seuenth day of the moneth for such as haue sinned of ignorannce, or being deceaued, to reconcile the house withall.

Exo.12.c. Leui xiii.a. Deu.xvi.a.

21 * Upon the fourteenth day of the first moneth, ye shall haue the passouer, a feast of seuen dayes, and ye shall eate vnleauened bread.

22 Upon the same day shal the prince prepare for him selfe and all the people of the lande a bullocke for a sinne offring.

23 And in the seuen dayes of the feast, he shall make a burnt offring to the Lord, [euen] of seuen bullockes & seuē rammes without blemishe dayly, for seuen dayes, and a hee goate dayly for a sinne offring.

24 And he shall prepare a meate offering of an Ephah for a bullocke, & an Ephah for a ramme, and a (f) Hin of oyle for an Ephah.

(f) Reade Exo.29.g.

25 In the seuenth [moneth] in the fifteenth day of the moneth on the feast, he shall do according vnto these for seuen dayes: according to the sinne offering, according to the burnt offring, and according to the meate offring, and according to the oyle.

The .xlvj. Chapter.

1 The sacrifice of the Sabbathes, and of the newe Moones, 8 Through which doores they must go in, or come out of the temple.

A 1 Thus saith the Lorde God: The gate of the inner court towarde the east shalbe shut the sixe working dayes: but in the Sabbath & in the day of the new moone it shalbe opened.

2 And the prince shall enter by the way of the porche of the gate without, and shall stande by the poste of the gate: and the priestes shal make his burnt offring, and his peace offringes, and he shall worship at the threshold of the gate, & go forth: and the gate shall not be shut till the euening.

3 On the same maner shall the people of the lande also do their worship before the Lorde, at the doore of this gate vpon the Sabbathes, and new moones.

4 The burnt offring that the prince shal bring vnto the lorde vpon the Sabbath, shalbe sixe lambes without blemish, and a ramme without blemishe.

5 And the meate offring shalbe an Ephah for a ramme, and the meate offring for the lambes a (a) gift of his hande, and a Hin of oyle to an Ephah.

(a) That is, as much as he will.

6 In the day of the new moneth, [it shalbe] a young bullocke without blemishe, and sixe lambes, and a ramme also without blemishe.

7 With the bullocke he shall geue an Ephah, & with the ramme an Ephah also for a meate offring: but to the lambes (b) according as his hande shal take, and a Hin of oyle to an Ephah. B

(b) According to his habilitie.

8 And when the prince shall enter, he shall go in by the way of the porche of that gate: he shall go forth by the way thereof.

9 But when the people of the lande come before the Lorde in the hie solempne feast, as many as come in by the north gate to do worship, shal go out againe at the south gate: and they that come in at the south gate, shall go forth againe at the north gate: there shall none returne by the gate where he came in, but shall go right forth ouer on the other side.

10 And the prince he shall go in the midst of them when they go in, and so come forth when they come forth.

11 Upon the solempne & hie feast dayes this shalbe the meate offring: an Ephah to a bullocke, & an Ephah to a ramme, and to the lambes the gift of his hande, and a Hin of oyle to an Ephah.

12 Nowe when the prince shall make a free burnt offring, or peace offringes freely freely vnto the Lord: one then shal open him the gate that turneth toward the east, and he shal make his burnt offeringes, and his peace offeringes, as he did on the Sabbath day: after he shall go forth, and when he is gone forth, one shall shut the gate.

€ 13 Thou shalt dayly make a burnt offering vnto the Lorde of a lambe of one yere without blemishe, thou shalt do it euery morning.

14 Thou shalt prepare a meate offering for it euery morning, the first part of an Ephah, and the third part of a Hin of oyle to mingle with the fine floure: this meate offering shalbe continually by a perpetuall ordinaunce vnto the Lorde.

15 Thus shal they prepare the lambe, the meate offering, & oyle, euery morning, for a continuall burnt offering.

16 Moreouer, thus saith the Lorde God: If the prince geue a gift vnto any of his sonnes, the inheritaunce thereof shalbe his sonnes: their possession shalbe by inheritaunce.

17 But if he geue a gift of his inheritaunce to one of his seruauntes, then it shalbe his to the (c) yere of libertie, and then returne to the prince: but the inheritaunce thereof is his sonnes and shalbe theirs.

(c) Which was at the yere of Iubile. Leui. 25.b.

18 The prince also (d) shall take none of the peoples inheritaunce, nor put them from their possession: but to his sonnes shall he geue his owne possession, that my people be not scattered abrode euery man from his possession.

(d) But be content with that portion that God hath assigned him. Ezec. 45.b.

19 And he brought me through the entraunce at the side of the gate, to the holy chambers of the priestes which stoode toward the north, & beholde, there was a place vpon the west side of them.

20 Then saide he vnto me: This is the place where the priestes shall seethe the trespasse and sinne offringes, and bake the meate offringes: that they neede not beare them into the outward court, and to (e) sanctifie the people. D

(e) To cause the people to thinke it is lawfull for them to eate them, and so fall into a vaine opinion of holines and sanctification.

21 So he brought me into the vtter court, & caused me to go by the foure corners of the court: and beholde, in euery corner of the court, there was a court.

22 In the foure corners of the court there were courtes ioyned, of fourtie cubites long, and thirtie broade: these foure corners were of one measure.

23 And there went a wall rounde about them, [euen] about those foure: and vnder the walles there were " kitchins made rounde about.

"Raneges.

24 Then saide he vnto me: These are the cookes houses, where the ministers of the house shall boyle the sacrifice of the people.

The .xlvij. Chapter.

1 The vision of the waters that came out of the temple. 13 The coastes of the lande of promise, and the deuision thereof by tribes.

A 1 AFterwarde he brought me againe vnto the doore of the house, and beholde there gushed out (a) waters from vnder the threshold of the house eastwarde: for the forefront of the house stoode toward the east: & the waters ran downe from vnder the right side of the house, which lyeth to the aulter southwarde.

(a) Whereby are ment the spirituall graces that should be geuen to the church vnder the kingdome of Christe, as Ioh. 4.c.

2 Then led he me out to the north gate, and led me about by the way without vnto the vtter gate, by the way that turneth eastward: and behold, there issued forth waters from the right side.

3 Now when the man that had the line in his hande went forth eastward, he measured a thousand cubites, and then he brought me through the waters, the waters were to the ancles.

4 So he measured yet a thousande, and brought me through ỹ waters, the waters were to the knees: yet measured he a thousand, and brought me through, the waters [were] to the loynes.

5 After this he measured a thousand againe, then was it such a (b) riuer that I might not wade through it, the waters was risen, & the waters did flowe as a riuer that might not be waded ouer.

(b) Signifying that the graces of god should neuer decrease, but euer abounde in his church.

6 And he saide vnto me: Hast thou seene this O thou sonne of man: and with that he brought me and caused me to returne to the riuer banke againe.

(c) Meaning, the multitude of them that should be refreshed by the spirituall waters.

7 Now when I returned, beholde at the bancke of the riuer were very many trees (c) on the one side and on the other.

8 Then saide he vnto me: These waters flowe out toward the east countrey, and B

runne

runne downe into the plaine, & come into the (a) sea: which when it commeth into the sea, the (c) waters shalbe holsome.

9 Yea, all that liue and moue, whereunto this riuer commeth, shall liue: and there shalbe a very great multitude of fishe, because these waters shal come thither, for they shalbe holsome: and euery thing shall liue whyther the riuer commeth.

10 By this riuer shall the (d) fishers stand, from En gaddi vnto (g) En Eglaim, and ther spreade out their nets: for their fishe shalbe according to their kindes as the fishe of the (b) maine sea, exceeding many.

11 But the (i) marishes thereof, and the pits thereof, shal not be made holsome, they shalbe made salt pits.

12 By this riuer vpon the bankes therof on this side and on that side shall growe all trees for meate, whose leaues shall not fade, neither shall the fruite thereof fall, but shall bring forth newe fruite according to his monethes, for the waters thereof run out of the sanctuarie: and the fruite thereof shalbe for meate, and the leaues thereof for "medicine.

13 Thus saith the Lorde God: Let this be the border whereby ye shall inherite the lande according to the twelue tribes of Israel,* Joseph shall haue two portions.

14 And* ye shall inherite it one aswell as an other, concerning the which I lift vp my hande to geue it vnto your fathers: and this lande shall fall vnto you for inheritaunce.

15 This is the border of the (k) lande vpon the north side, from the maine sea toward Hethlon, as men go to Zedada.

16 [Namely] Hamah, Berotha, Sabarim, which are betweene the borders of Damascus, and betweene the borders of Hamah, Hazar Hatichon, that lyeth vpon the coastes of Hauran.

17 Thus the borders from the sea forth shalbe Hazar Enan, the border of Damascus, and the north northwarde, and the borders of Hamah: this is the north part.

18 The east side shall ye measure from Hauran and Damascus, from Galead and the land of Israel by Jordane, and from the border vnto the east sea: & this is the east part.

19 The south side shalbe toward Teman, from Thamar to the waters of strife in Cades, and the riuer to the maine sea: and that is the south part towarde Teman.

20 The west part also shalbe the great sea, from the borders till a man come ouer against Hamah: this is the west part. D

21 This lande shall ye part among you according to the tribes of Israel,

22 And deuide it by lot to be an heritage for you, & for the straungers that dwell among you and beget children among you: for ye shall take them among the children of Israel lyke as though they were of your owne countrey, and they shall haue (l) heritage with you among the children of Israel.

23 And in what tribe the straunger dwelleth, in the same tribe shall ye geue him his heritage, saith the Lorde God.

(a) Shewing that the aboundance of these graces should be so great, that all the worlde should be full thereof, which is here ment by the Persian sea or Genezareth, and the sea called Mediterranean. Iac. 14. b

(c) The waters which of nature are salt & vnholsome, shalbe made sweete and comfortable.

(d) Signifieng that when God bestoweth his mercies in such aboundance, the ministers shall by their preaching win many.

(g) which were cities at the corners of the salt or dead sea.

(b) They shal be here of all sortes, and in as great aboundance as in the great Ocean where they are bred.

¶ The .xlviii. Chapter.

1 The lots of the seuen tribes. 9 The partes of the possession of the prestes and of the temple, of the Leuites, of the citie, and of the prince, are rehearsed. 23 The lots of the other tribes. 31 The gates of the citie.

A 1  These are ỳ names of the tribes: from the north side to the coast towarde Hethlon, till thou cõmest vnto Hamah and Hazar, Enan, the borders of Damascus northward, the coast of Hamah, Dan shall haue his portion from the east quarter vnto the west.

2 Upon the borders of Dan, from the east side vnto the west, shall Aser haue his portion.

3 Upon the borders of Aser, from the east part vnto the west, shall Nephthali haue his portion.

4 Upon the borders of Nephthali, from the east quarter vnto the west, shal Manasses haue his portion.

5 Upon the borders of Manasses, from eth the east side vnto the West, shall Ephraim haue his portion.

6 Upon the borders of Ephraim, from the east part vnto the West, shall Ruben haue his portion.

B 7 Upon the borders of Ruben, from the east quarter vnto the West, shall Juda haue his portion.

8 Upon the borders of Juda, from the east part vnto the West part, shalbe the (a) offering which they shall offer of fiue and twentie thousand [canes] brode, and of length as one of the partes, from the east side vnto the West side: and the sanctuarie shalbe in the midst of it.

(a) That is, the portion of the grounde, which they shall seperate and appoint to the Lorde, which shalbe deuided into three partes: for the priestes, for the prince, and for the rest.

9 The oblation that ye shall offer vnto the Lord, shalbe fiue and twentie thousand long, and ten thousand brode.

10 And for these [euen] for the priestes shalbe this holy oblation: toward the north fiue & twentie thousand [long] & toward the West ten thousand brode, toward the east ten thousand brode also, and toward the south fiue and twentie thousand long, & the sanctuarie of the Lorde shalbe in the midst thereof.

11 This sanctified portion shalbe the priestes that are of the children of * Sadoc, which haue kept my charge, which went not astray in the errour of the children of Israel like as the Leuites went astray.

Chap. 44. a.

12 Therefore this oblation of the lande that is offered, shalbe theirs as a thing most holy, hard vpon the borders of the Leuites.

C 13 And ouer against the border of the priestes, shall the Leuites haue fiue and twentie thousand long, & ten thousand brode: all the length shalbe fiue & twentie thousand, and the breadth ten thousand.

14 Of this portion they shall sell nothing, nor make any permutation thereof, nor alienate the first fruites of the lande: for it is holy vnto the Lorde.

15 And the fiue thousande that are left in the breadth ouer against the fiue and twentie thousand, shalbe a prophane place for the citie, for housing, & for suburbes: and the citie shalbe in the midst thereof.

16 And these shalbe the measures therof: the north part fiue hundred and foure thousand, and the south (b) part fiue hundred and foure thousand, and the east part fiue hundred and foure thousand, and the West part fiue hundred & foure thousand.

(b) Meaning, that it shoulde be square.

17 The suburbes of the citie shall haue toward the north two hundred and fiftie, toward the south two hundred and fiftie, toward the east two hundred and fiftie, toward the West also two hundred and fiftie.

18 And the residue in length ouer against the oblation of the holy portion, shalbe ten thousand toward the east, and ten thousand toward the West: and it shalbe ouer against the oblation of the holy portion: and the encrease thereof shalbe for their meate that serue the citie.

19 And they that serue the citie, they shal serue it out of all the tribes of Israel. D 20 All the oblation shalbe fiue and twentie thousand (c) with fiue and twentie thousand: ye shall offer this oblation foure square, for the sanctuarie, and for the possession of the citie.

(c) Euery way it shalbe fiue & twentie thousand.

21 And the residue shalbe for the prince, on the one side and on the other of the holy oblation, and of the possession of the citie ouer against the fiue and twentie thousand of the oblation toward the east border: and Westward ouer against the fiue and twentie thousand toward the West border, ouer against shalbe the portion for the prince: this shalbe the holy oblation, and the house of the sanctuarie shalbe in the midst thereof.

22 Moreouer, from the possession of the Leuites, and the cities possession, that which is in the midst shalbe the princes, betwixt the border of (d) Juda and the border of Beniamin shalbe the princes.

(d) So that Juda was on the north side of the princes and Leuites portions, and Beniamin on the south side.

23 Now of the other tribes: from the east part vnto the West, shall Beniamin haue his portion.

24 Upon the borders of Beniamin, from the east side vnto the West, shall Simeon haue his portion.

25 Upon the borders of Simeon, from the east side vnto the West, shal Issachar haue his portion.

26 Upon the borders of Issachar, from the east side vnto the West, shall Zabulon haue his portion.

27 Upon the borders of Zabulon, from the east part vnto the West, shall Gad haue his portion.

28 Upon the borders of Gad at the south side toward Temanah, the border shalbe from Thamar, vnto the waters of strife to Cades, and to the riuer [that runneth] neth into the maine sea.

29 This is the lande which ye shal deuide by lot for an inheritaũce vnto the tribes of Israel, and these be their portions saith the Lorde God.

30 These be the bondes of the citie, vpon the north part fiue hundred and foure thousand measures.

31 The gates of the citie shal haue the names of the tribes of Israel, three gates of the north side: one gate of Ruben, another of Juda, the third of Leui.

32 Upon the east side fiue hundred and foure thousand measures, with three gates: the one of Joseph, another of Beniamin, the third of Dan.

33 Upon the south side fiue hundred and foure thousand measures, with the three gates: the one of Simeon, another of Issachar, the third of Zabulon.

34 And vpon the west side, fiue hundred and fiue thousand measures, with their three gates also: the one of Gad, another of Aser, the third of Nephthali.

35 Thus shal it haue eighteene thousand measures rounde about: and the name of the citie from that time forth, shalbe, The Lorde is there.

The booke of the prophete Daniel.

The first Chapter.

1 The prophete sheweth the captiuitie of Jehoachim king of Juda, 4 Of the children that were in captiuitie, the king commaundeth to choose which of them should be taught the learning and language of the Chaldeans. 5 They are allowed the kinges feeding. 8 Daniel abstaineth from the meate of the king of Babylon.

A 1 IN the (a) third yere of the raigne of Jehoachim king of Juda, came Nabuchodonozor king of Babylon vnto Hierusalem, & besieged it.

2 And the Lord deliuered Jehoachim the king of Juda into his hande, with part of the vessels of the house of God, which he caried away into the lande of (b) Sennar to the house of his God, and he brought the vessels into his gods treasurie.

3 And the king spake vnto Aspheneaz the (c) chiefe chamberlaine, that he should bring him certaine of the children of

(a) Reade, 4. Reg. 24. a Iere. 25 a.

(b) which was a plaine by Babylon, where was the temple of the great god, and is here taken for Babylon.

(c) Or, maister of the Eunuches.

of Jſrael, of the kinges ſeede, and of the princes,

4 Springaldes without any blemiſhe, but well fauoured, ſtudious in al wiſdome, ſkilfull for knowledge, able to vtter knowledge, & ſuch as haue liuelineſſe in thē that they (a) may ſtand in the kinges palace: & whom they might teache the learning & the toung of the Chaldeans.

(a) Meete to ſerue at the tables as in honor offices.

5 Unto theſe the king appoynted a dayly prouiſion euery day, of a portion of the kinges meate, and of the wine which he dranke, ſo to noriſhe them three yeres, that afterwarde they might ſtande before the king.

6 Among theſe nowe were certayne of the children of Juda: [namely] Daniel, Ananias, Miſael, and Azarias.

7 Unto theſe the chiefe chamberlayne gaue (b) other names, and called Daniel, Baltaſſar: Ananias, Sidrach: Miſael, Miſach: and Azarias, Abednego.

(b) Either becauſe they ſhould declare their power, or antiquitie, to change the names of the children of the captiuitie, or elſe by reaſon of their learning.

8 But Daniel purpoſed in his heart that he woulde not defile hym ſelfe with the portion of the kinges meate, nor with the wyne which he dranke: therefore he required the chiefe chamberlayne that he might not defile him ſelfe.

9 (And God brought Daniel into fauour and tender loue with the chiefe chamberlayne.)

10 And the chiefe chamberlayne ſayde vnto Daniel, I am afrayde of my lord the king whiche hath appoynted you your meate and your drinke: Wherfore ſhould he ſee your faces worſe liking then the ſpringalds of your age, & ſo ye ſhal make me indaunger my head vnto the king.

11 Then Daniel ſayde vnto Melaſſar, whom the chiefe chamberlayne had ſet ouer Daniel, Ananias, Miſael, and Azarias:

12 O proue but ten dayes with thy ſeruauntes, and let vs haue pulſe to eate, and water to drinke.

13 Then let our countenaunces be loked vpon before thee, and the countenaunces of the children that eate of the portion of the kinges meate: and as thou ſeeſt, deale with thy ſeruauntes.

14 So he conſented to them in this matter, and proued them ten dayes. ℭ

15 And at the end of ten dayes, their countenaunces appeared fairer and (f) fatter in fleſhe then all the children which did eate the portion of the kinges meate.

(f) Or, better liking.

16 Thus Melaſſar toke away the portion of their meate, and the wyne that they ſhoulde drinke, and gaue them pulſe.

17 As for theſe foure children, God gaue them knowledge and vnderſtanding in (g) all learning & wyſdome: alſo he gaue Daniel vnderſtanding of all (h) viſions and dreames.

(g) Meaning liberall ſciences & naturall knowledge, which was vſed where they were conuerſaunt.

(h) So that he only was a prophete, and none of the other, for by dreames and viſions God appeared to his prophetes, Num. 12. a.

18 Nowe when the (i) time was expired, that the king had appoynted to bring them in, the chiefe chamberlayne brought them before Nabuchodonoſor.

(i) Of the three yeres aboue mentioned vers. 5.

19 And the king communed with them: but among them all were founde none ſuch as Daniel, Ananias, Miſael, and Azarias: therfore ſtoode they before the king.

20 In all matters of wyſdome and vnderſtanding that the king enquired of them, he founde them ten times better then all the wyſe men and ſoothſayers that were in all his realme.

21 And Daniel abode ſtill vnto the (k) firſt yere of king Cyrus.

(k) That is, he was eſteemed in Babylon as a prophete, and in auctoritie ſo long as the commō wealth ſtode.

The. ii. Chapter.

1 The dreame of Nabuchodonoſor, 2 he calleth vnto him ſoothſayers, and requireth of them both the dreame and the interpretation therof: 10 they aunſwere, they can not ſhew it. 13 The king commaundeth all the wiſe men of Babylon to be ſlayne. 16 Daniel requireth time to ſolute the queſtiō: 19 the Lord openeth the miſterie vnto Daniel. 24 Daniel is brought to the king, and ſheweth him his dreame and the interpretation therof. 44 Of the euerlaſting kingdome of Chriſt.

IN the (a) ſecond yere of the raigne of Nabuchodonoſor, had Nabuchodonoſor a dreame, wherthorowe his ſpirite was troubled & his ſleepe brake from him.

2 Then the king commaunded to cal the wiſe men, and ſoothſayers, & ſorcerers, and the (b) Chaldees, for to ſhew the king his dreame: So they came, & ſtoode before the king.

3 And the king ſayde vnto them: I haue dreamed a dreame, and my ſpirite was troubled to knowe the dreame.

4 Upon this the Chaldees aunſwered the king in the (c) Syrians ſpeache, O king, God ſaue thy life for euer: Shewe thy ſeruauntes the dreame, and we ſhal ſhewe the interpretation.

(a) Whether this were the ſecond yere after he had ouercome Joachim, or after he had beſieged Jeruſalem, or after he had taken Jeconias, it is not certayne.

(b) Under the name of Chaldees are comprehended all ſciences. It appeareth by the nature of the worde which ſignifieth as deuils, that they wrought their wonders by the power of the deuill.

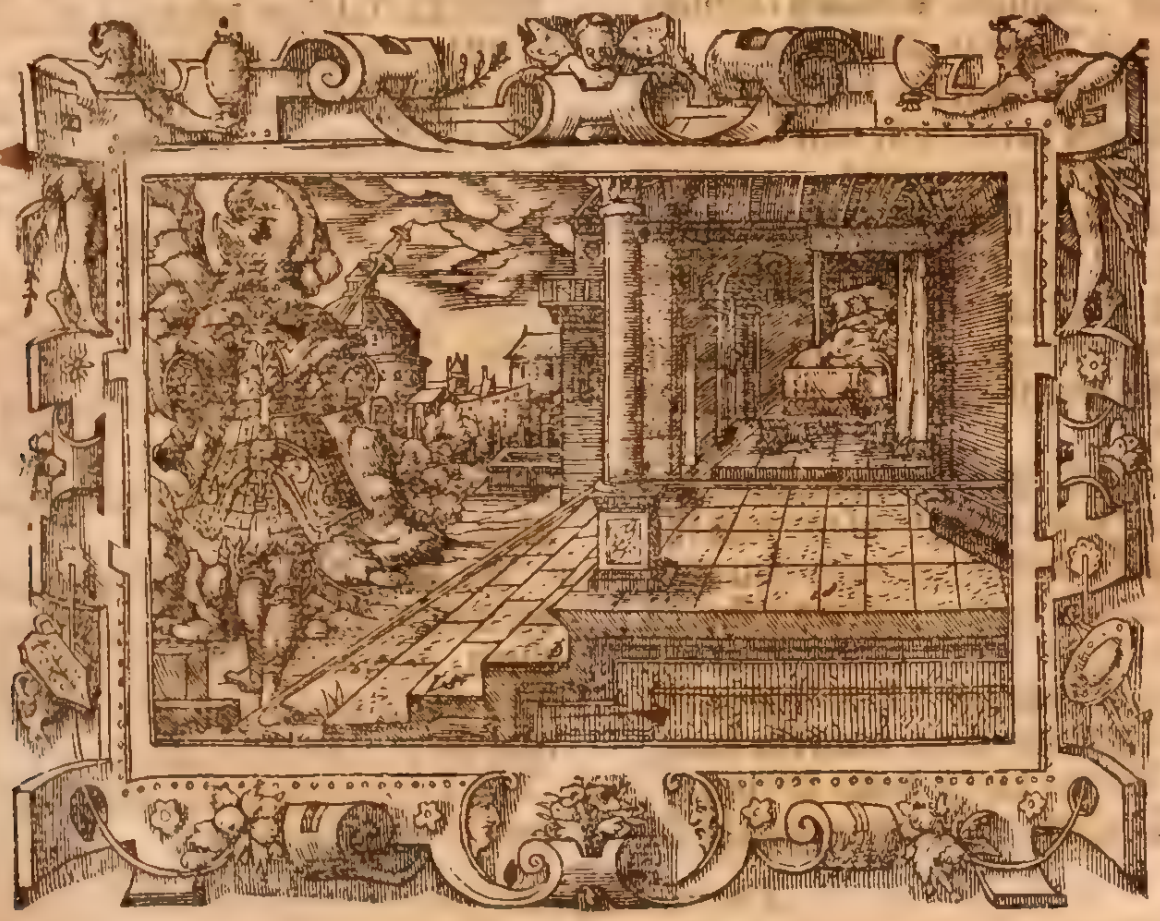
(c) That is, the Chaldeās tongue, which the prophete mencioned here, becauſe he mynded to write his viſions, not in the Hebrue tongue, but in the Chaldeās, which was familiar and knowen in many nations

5 The king aunſwered and ſayde to the Chaldeans, The thing is gone fro me: If ye will not make me vnderſtand the dreame with the interpretation therof, ye ſhall be drawne in peeces, & your houſes made a iakes.

6 But if ye tell me the dreame and the interpretation therof, ye ſhall receaue of me giftes, rewardes, and great honour, therefore ſhewe me the dreame and the interpretation therof.

B 7 They aunſwered againe, and ſaid: The king muſt ſhewe his ſeruauntes the dreame, and ſo ſhal we declare the interpretation therof.

8 Then the king aunſwered, ſaying: I perceaue of a trueth that ye would (b) redeeme the time, for ſo much as ye ſee the thing is gone fro me.



(b) Ye ſeke occaſion of delayes, vntil ſome other aſſures might happen, and make me forget the matter

9 Therfore if ye wil not tel me the dreame, this is your only purpoſe, ye haue prepared lying & corrupt wordes to ſpeake before me, til the time be chaunged: therfore tell me the dreame, that I may knowe that ye can declare me the interpretation therof.

10 Upon this the Chaldees gaue aunſwere before the king, and ſayde: There is no man vpon earth that can tell the thing which the king ſpeaketh of, yea there is neither king, prince, nor lorde, that euer aſked ſuch thinges at a wyſe man, ſoothſayer, or Chaldean.

11 For it is a rare matter that the king requireth, neither is there any that can certifie the king therof, except the gods whoſe dwelling is not with fleſhe.

12 For the which cauſe the king was wroth with great indignation, & commaunded to deſtroy al the wiſe men at Babylon.

13 So the decree went forth, and the wiſe men were ſlayne: they ſought alſo to ſlay Daniel, with his companions.

C 14 Then Daniel ſtayed the counſell and decree with Arioch the captayne of the kinges garde, who was gone forth to put to death the wiſe men of Babylon.

15 He aunſwered and ſayde vnto Arioch the kinges captayne: Why is the ſentence ſo haſte from the king? Then Arioch tolde Daniel the matter.

16 Upon this went Daniel, and deſired the king that he would geue him leyſure, and that he would ſhewe the king the interpretation.

17 Then Daniel went to his houſe, and ſhewed the thing to Ananias, Miſael, and Azarias, his companions:

18 That they ſhoulde beſeche the God of heauen for grace in this ſecrete, that Daniel and his felowes, with other ſuch as were wyſe in Babylon, periſhed not.

19 Then was the ſecrete reuealed vnto Daniel in a viſion by night: then Daniel prayſed the God of heauen.

20 Daniel alſo aunſwered, and ſaid: *The name of God be prayſed for euer & euer: for wyſdome and ſtrength are his. Pſal. 112.

21 He chaungeth the times and ſeaſons, he he taketh away kinges, he setteth vp kinges: he geueth wysdome vnto the wyse, and vnderstanding to those that vnderstande.

22 He reuealeth the deepe & secrete thinges, he knoweth the thing that lieth in darknesse, for the light dwelleth with him.

23 I thanke thee and prayse thee O thou God of my fathers, that thou hast geuen me wisdome and strength, and hast shewed me now the thing that we desired of thee: for thou hast declared the kinges matter vnto vs.

24 Vpon this went Daniel in vnto Arioch, whom the king had ordeined to destroy the wise men at Babylon: he went and sayde thus vnto him, Destroy not the wyse men of Babylon, but bring me before the king, and I shall shewe the king the interpretation.

25 Then Arioch brought Daniel before the king in all the haste, and sayde thus vnto him: I haue founde a man among the children of Juda that were brought captiues, that will declare vnto the king the interpretation.

26 Then aunswered the king and sayd vnto Daniel, whose name was Baltassar: Art thou able to shewe me the dreame which I haue seene, and the interpretation therof?

27 Daniel aunswered in the presence of the king, and sayd: As for this secrete for the whiche the king maketh inquisition, there can neither the men of vnderstanding, nor soothsayers, nor the wyse men, nor readers of destinies declare it vnto the king:

(o) Thereby he meaneth the true God with a reuerent feare and reuerence of God that he might be the more apt to receaue the true religion that should be reuealed.

28 But there is a (o) God in heauen that reuealeth secretes, & sheweth the king Nabuchodonozor what is for to come in the latter dayes. Thy dreame and that whiche thou hast seene in thyne head vpon thy bed, is this.

29 O king, when thou wast in thy bed, thoughtes came into thy mynde what should come hereafter: so he that is the opener of misteries, telleth thee what is for to come.

30 As for me, this secrete is not shewed me for any wysdome that I haue more then any other liuing: but onely that I might shewe the king the interpretation, and that thou mightest knowe the thoughtes of thyne owne heart.

To this purpose: as before.

31 Thou king sawest, and beholde, there [was] a great image: this great (c) image whose brightnesse was excellent, stoode before thee, and the fourme therof was terrible.

32 This images (c) head was of fine gold, his brest and armes of siluer, his belly and his thighes of brasse.

(c) By golde, siluer, brasse, and iron, are mēt the Chaldean, Persian, Macedonian, & Romane kingdome, which shoulde successiuely rule the world till Christ (which is here called the stone) come hym selfe and destroy the last.

33 His legges were of iron, his feete were part of iron and part of clay.

34 Thou beheldest it till a stone was cut without handes, which smote the image vpon his feete that were of iron & clay, and brake them to peeces.

35 Then was the iron, the clay, the brasse, the siluer and gold broken al together, & became like ỹ chaffe of sommer floores, and the winde caryed them away, that no place was found for them: & the stone that smote the image became a great mountayne, and filled the whole earth.

36 This is the dreame: and now will we shew before the king what it meaneth.

37 O king, thou art a king of kinges: for the God of heauē hath geuen vnto thee a kingdome, power, strength, & glorie.

38 And in all places whersoeuer the children of men dwell, the beastes of the fielde, and the foules of the aire hath he geuen into thy hande, and hath made thee ruler in them all: thou art this (g) head of golde.

(g) The first monarchie of the Chaldeās

39 After thee shall arise (h) another kingdome inferior to thee, & another (i) third kingdome shalbe of brasse, whiche shall beare rule ouer all the earth.

(h) The second of the Persians.
(i) That is, of the Macedonians.

40 The (k) fourth kingdome shalbe strong as iron: for as iron breaketh in peeces and subdueth all thinges, and as iron bruiseth all these thinges, [so] shall it breake in peeces and bruise [all].

(k) That is, of the Romanes

41 Where as thou sawest the feete & toes, parte of potters clay & part of iron, the kingdome shalbe (l) deuided, but there shalbe in it of the strength of the iron, for so much as thou sawest the iron mixt with the clay and earth.

42 And [as] the toes of the feete [were] part of iron and part of clay: [so] shal the kingdome be part strong and part broken.

43 And wheras thou sawest iron mixt with clay and earth, they shall mingle them selues with the (m) seede of men, and yet not ioyne one with another, as iron will not be mixt with clay.

(l) That is, either by ciuil warres and discordes, or els into two sortes of people: the one shoulde be warlike, and therfore compared to iron, the other factious and seditious, and therefore compared to clay & earth.
(m) They shal thinke to make them selues strong by mariages & affinities: yet shall they neuer be ioyned in hearte.

44 And in the dayes of these kinges, shall the God of heauen set vp a (n) kingdome, which shall neuer be destroyed, and this kingdome shall not be geuen ouer to another people: but it shall breake and destroy al these kingdomes, and it (o) shal stand for euer.

(n) Meaning the kingdome of Christ.

(o) It shalbe eternal, for the spirite that is in the church, is life eternall Rom. 8 b. (p) That is, that the kingdome of Christ should be set vp by god, not by men.

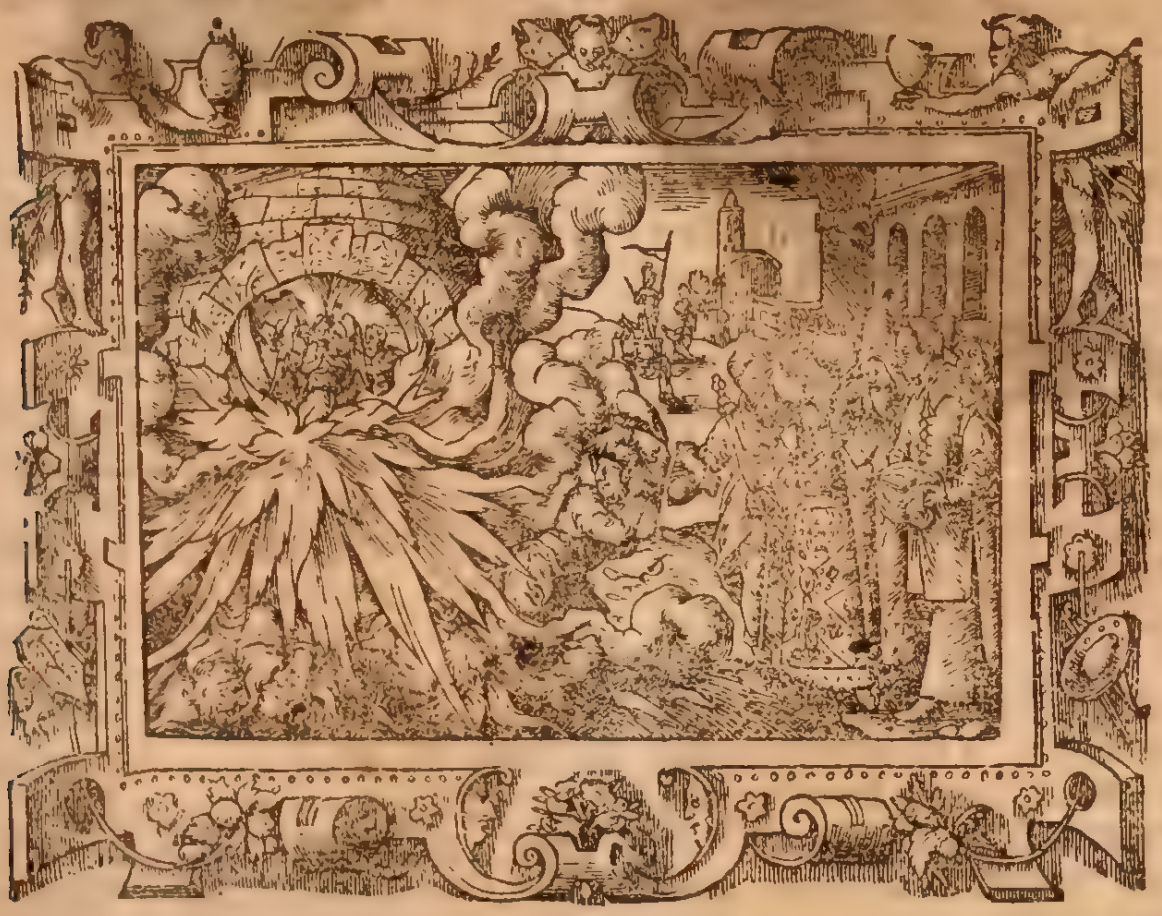
45 Like as thou sawest that (p) without any handes there was cut out of the mount a stone, Whiche brake the iron, the brasse, the clay, the siluer and gold in peeces: so the great God hath shewed the king What shall come to passe after this: This is a true dreame, & the interpretation of it is sure.

46 Then the king Nabuchodonozor fell downe vpon his face, and bowed hym selfe vnto Daniel, and commaunded to ordeine (q) rewardes and sweete odours for hym.

(q) To performe his promesse made to him that should interpete his dreame, as verse 6.

47 The king answered Daniel, & sayde: Of a trueth (r) your God is a God of gods, and the Lorde of kinges, and a reuealer of secretes, seing thou couldest reueale this secrete.

(r) This confession was but sodaine motion, as it was alsoin Pharao. Exo. 9.1. but his heart was not touched, as appeared soone afterwarde.



48 So the king made Daniel a great man, and gaue him many & great giftes: he made hym ruler of all the countreys of Babylon, and the chiefe of the rulers aboue all the wyse men of Babylon.

49 Then Daniel (s) made request to the king, and he set Sidrach, Misach, and Abednego ouer the charge of the prouince of Babylon: but Daniel [sate] (t) in the kinges gate.

(s) This he did, not for ambition or priuate profite, but for the benefite of his brethre, which before were sore afflicted, & now by these officers eased and releued. (t) Remained in the court as one of the kinges chief counsellours.

The. iii. Chapter.

1 The king setteth vp a golden image, which he commaundeth to be worshipped. 8 Sidrach, Misach, and Abednego are accused, because they despised the kinges commaundement. 13 They are brought vnto the king, & commaunded to worship the image, 16 they refuse to do it, and are put into a burning ouen. 25 By beleefe in God they are deliuered from the fire. 28 Nabuchodonozor confesseth the power of God, after the sight of the miracle.

1 Nabuchodonozor ỳ king made an image of gold, Whiche was threescore cubites hie, and sixe cubites thicke: he set it vp in the plaine of Dura, in the prouince of Babylon.

(a) Seeing that the idol is not knowne for an idol so long as it is with ỳ workeman: but whē the ceremonies and customes are rested and vsed, and the consent of the people is there, then of a sodaine they thinke they haue made a god.

2 Then Nabuchodonozor the king sent foorth to gather together the dukes, lordes, and nobles, the iudges and officers, the deputies, and sherifes, with all the rulers of the prouinces, that they might come to the (a) dedication of the image Whiche Nabuchodonozor the (b) king had set vp.

(b) This was sufficient with the wicked at all times to approue their religion, if the kinges authorritie were alleaged for the establishment therof, not considering in the meane time what gods word vpo determe.

3 So the dukes, lordes, and nobles, the iudges, & officers, deputies, & sherifes, With all the rulers of the prouince, gathered them together vnto the dedicating of the image that Nabuchodonozor the king had set vp, & they stoode before the image Whiche Nabuchodonozor had set vp.

4 Then an herald cryed a loude: To you it is commaunded O (c) people, nations, and languages,

(c) The two dangerous weapons wherwith Satan assaileth the children of God, is the consent of the multitude, and the crueltie of the punishements.

5 That whē ye heare the noyse of the cornet,

net, trumpet, harpe, shawme, psaltries, dulcimer, and al maner of instrumentes of musicke, ye fall downe and worship that golden image that Nabuchodonozor the king hath set vp.

6 Whoso then falleth not downe & worshippeth, shall euen the same houre be cast into the mids of a hot firie fornace.

7 Therfore when all the folke heard the noyse of the cornet, trumpet, harpe, 8 shawme, psaltries, and al instrumentes of musicke, then all the people, nations, and languages fell downe and worshipped the golden image that Nabuchodonozor the king had set vp.

8 Nowe were there certayne men of the Chaldees, that went euen then, and (d) cried out an accusation of the Iewes.

(d) That is, moued the Iewes with malice.

9 They spake, and sayde vnto the king Nabuchodonozor: O king, liue for euer.

10 Thou O king, hast made a decree, that euery man that shall heare the sound of the cornet, trumpet, harpe, shawme, psaltries, dulcimer, & all instrumentes of musicke, shall fall downe and worship the golden image:

11 And who so then fel not downe, & worshipped not, that he shoulde be cast into the mids of an hot firie fornace.

12 Now are there certayne Iewes, whom thou hast set ouer the charge of the prouince of Babylon: [namely] (e) Sidrach, Misach, and Abednego: these men, O king, regarded not thy commaundement: yea they will not serue thy gods, nor worship the golden image that thou hast set vp.

(e) It seemeth that they named not Daniel because he was greatly in the kinges fauour, thinking if these three had ben destroyed then might haue better occasion to accuse Daniel after: and also declareth the vnpiteous policie of erecting this image, moued vnkindly by the malitious flatterers which sought not the destruction of the Iewes, whom they accused of rebellion and disobedience.

13 Then Nabuchodonozor in his anger and wrath commaunded that Sidrach, Misach, & Abednego should be brought vnto hym: so these men were brought before the king.

14 Then Nabuchodonozor spake vnto them, and sayde: Is it true, O Sidrach, Misach, & Abednego, will not you serue my gods, nor worship the golden image that I haue set vp?

15 Nowe therfore be redy when ye heare the sound of the cornet, trumpet, harpe, shawme, psaltries, dulcimers, and al instrumentes of musicke, to fal downe and worship the image whiche I haue made: for if ye worship it not, ye shalbe cast immediatly into the mids of a hot firie fornace: for who is that God that can deliuer you out of my handes?

16 Sidrach, Misach, and Abednego answered the king, and sayd: O Nabuchodonozor, we are not (f) carefull to answere thee in this matter:

(f) They shoulde haue done iniurie to God, if they should haue doubted in this holy cause, and therfore they say that they are resolued to die for gods cause.

17 Beholde, our God whom we serue, is (g) able to deliuer vs from the hot firie fornace: and he will deliuer vs out of thy hande O king.

(g) They ground on two poyntes: first on the power & prouidēce of God ouer thē: secondly on their cause, which was gods glorie, and the testifying of his true religion with their blood, and so make open confession, that they will not so much as outwardly consent to idolatrie.

18 And though he will not, yet shalt thou knowe O king, that we will not serue thy gods, nor worship the golden image which thou hast set vp.

19 Then was Nabuchodonozor full of indignation, so that the countenaunce of his face chaunged vpon Sidrach, Misach, and Abednego: therefore he charged and commaunded that they should heate the fornace, one seuen times more then it was wont to be heat.

20 And he charged the most valiaunt men of warre that were in his armie, to bind Sidrach, Misach, and Abednego, and to cast them into the hot firie fornace.

21 So these men were bounde in their coates, hosen, head attire, with their other garmentes, and cast into the mids of the hot firie fornace. D

22 Therefore, because the kinges commaundement was straite, & the fornace was exceeding hot, the men that put in Sidrach, Misach, and Abednego, the flamble of the fire destroyed them.

23 And these three men Sidrach, Misach, and Abednego, fel downe in the mids of the hot firie fornace bounde.

24 Then Nabuchodonozor the king was astonied, & rose vp in all haste: he spake vnto his counsel, and sayd, Dyd not we cast three men bounde into the mids of the fire? They answered and sayde vnto the king: It is true, O king.

25 He answered & sayde: Lo, I see foure men loose, walking in the mids of ẏ fire, and they haue no hurt: and the fourme of the fourth is like the (h) sonne of God.

(h) That is, an angel of God, as verse 28.

26 Upon this went Nabuchodonozor vnto the mouth of the hot firie fornace, he spake also, and sayd: O Sidrach, Misach, and Abednego, ye seruauntes of the hye God, go forth, and come hyther. And so Sidrach, Misach, & Abednego came forth of the mids of the fire.

27 Then the dukes, lordes, and nobles, and the kinges counsel, came together to see these men, vpon whom the fire had no maner of power in their bodies: in so much that the very heere of their head was not burnt, and their clothes vnchaunged, yea there was no smell of fire felt vpon them.

28 Then spake Nabuchodonozor, and sayde: Blessed be the God of Sidrach, Misach, and Abednego, which hath sent his angel, and deliuered his seruauntes that put their trust in him, and haue altered the kinges commaundement, and ieoparded their bodies, rather then they would serue or worship any God, except their owne God onely.

29 Therfore I make a decree, that euery people, nation, & language, which speake any blasphemie against the God of Sidrach, Misach, and Abednego, shalbe drawen in peces, and their houses shalbe made a takes: because there is no God that can deliuer after this sort.

30 So the king promoted Sidrach, Misach, and Abednego, in the prouince of Babylon.

The. iiii. Chapter.

4 Nabuchodonozor dreameth againe. 8 Daniel interpreth it. 29 Nabuchodonozor is put out of his realme, and eateth with beastes. 34 He confesseth the power of God, and is restored vnto his kingdome.

A 1 Abuchodonozor king, vnto all people, nations, and languages that dwel vpon the (a) whole earth, peace be multiplied among you.

(a) Meaning so farre as his dominion extended.

2 I thought it good to shewe the signes & marueylous workes that the hie God hath wrought vpō me.

3 O how great are his signes, and howe mightie are his wonders: his kingdome is an (b) euerlasting kingdome, & his dominion is frō generation to generation.

(b) Reade chap. 2. f.

4 I Nabuchodonozor beyng at rest in my house, and flourishing in my palace,

(c) This was another dreame, beside that which he saw of the foure empires

5 Sawe a (c) dreame, Whiche made me afrayde, and the thoughtes vpon my bed, with the visiōs of my head, troubled me.

6 Therfore made I a decree, that they shoulde bring all the wyse men of Babylon before me, that they might declare vnto me the interpretatiō of the dreame.

B 7 So came the wyse men, the soothsayers, the Chaldeans, and Wisardes: to whom I tolde the dreame, but they coulde not shewe me the interpretation therof.

8 Till at the last Daniel came before me (Whose name was Baltassar, according to the name of my God) Which hath the spirite of the holy gods in him, & before him I tolde the dreame, saying:

9 O Baltassar, thou prince of wyse men, forsomuch as I knowe that thou hast the spirite of the holy gods, & no secrete troubleth thee: tell me therefore the visions of my dreame that I haue seene, and the interpretation therof.

10 Thus were the visions of my head vpon my bed: And behold, I sawe a tree in the mids of the earth, and the heyght therof was great,

11 A great tree and strong, and the heyght therof reached vnto the heauen, and the sight thereof to the endes of all the earth.

12 The leaues therof were fayre, and the fruite therof much, and in it was meate for all: the beastes of the fielde had shadowes vnder it, and the fowles of the aire dwelt in the bowes therof: al flesh fed of it.

13 I sawe in the visions of my head vpon my bed, and beholde a (d) Watcher and a holy one came downe from heauen,

(d) Which was an angel of God.

14 And cryed mightily, saying thus: Hew downe the tree, breake of his braunches, shake of his leaues, & scatter his fruite abroade: that the beastes may get them away from vnder hym, and the foules from his braunches.

C 15 Neuertheless, leaue the stumpe of his rootes still in the earth, and with a band of iron and brasse [binde it] among the grasse of the fielde, & let it be wet with the dewe of heauen, and let his portion be with the beastes among the grasse of the fielde.

16 Let his heart be (e) chaunged from mans [nature] and let a beastes heart be geued vnto hym, and let seuen times be passed ouer hym.

(e) That is, let him be depriued of natural reason and mans vnderstanding.

17 This sentence [is] according to the (f) decree of the watchers, and the request according to the word of the holy ones: because liuing men should knowe that the hyghest hath power ouer the kingdome of men, and geueth it to whom it liketh hym, and setteth vp ouer it the baasest among men.

(f) This was the decree of God him selfe as appeareth in the 24. verse following, but it is called the decree of the watchmen or angels, because they brought it and reuealed it: Which the holy ones desire to come to passe, so consenting to the decree of god, that the proude might be brought downe, & the humble exalted.

18 This is the dreame that I king Nabuchodonozor haue seene: therfore thou, O Baltassar, declare the interpretation therof, forsomuch as al the wyse men of my kingdome are not able to shewe me What it meaneth: but thou canst do it, for the spirite of the holy gods is in thee.

19 Then

19 Then Daniel, whose name was Baltassar, held his peace by the space of one houre, and his thoughtes (g)troubled him. So the king spake, and sayde, O Baltassar, let neither the dreame nor the interpretation thereof trouble thee. Baltassar aunswered, saying: O my Lord, this dreame be to them that hate thee, & the interpretation therof to thyne aduersaries.

(g) Worthy considering the great iudgementes of God in the horrible punishement of this great prince: is partly moued with pitie of his case, whom God had commaunded the Iewes to wishe well to, and pray for as Ier. 29. b.

20 As for the tree that thou sawest, which was great and mightie, whose heyght reached vnto the heauen, and the sight therof through all the world,

D 21 Whose leaues were fayre, and the fruite therof much, and in it was meate for all: vnder the which the beastes of the fielde had their habitation, and vpon whose braunches the foules of the aire did sit:

22 It is thou, O king, whiche art great and mightie, for thy greatnesse increaseth, & reacheth vnto the heauen, so doth thy dominion to the endes of the earth.

23 But wheras the king saw a watcher, and a holy one that came downe from heauen, and sayd, Hewe downe the tree, & destroy it, yet leaue the stumpe of the rootes therof in the earth, and with a band of iron & brasse binde it among the grasse of the fielde, & let it be wet with the dewe of the heauen, and let his portion be with the beastes of the fielde, till (h)seuen times passe ouer him:

(h) whereby he meaneth a long space, as seuen yeres or seuen quarters of a yeare, or seuen monthes: for the interpretation is theirs.

24 This O king is the interpretation, yea it is ý very decree of hym that is highest of al, and it toucheth my lord the king.

25 Thou shalt be cast out from men, and thy dwelling shalbe with the beastes of the fielde: with grasse shalt thou be fed like (i)oxen, thou must be wet with the deawe of the heauen, yea seuē times shall passe ouer thee, till thou (k)knowe that the highest hath power ouer the kingdome of men, & geueth it to whom he list.

(i) Not that his shape or fourme was chaunged into a beastes: but that he was either striken mad, and so wandred mong companie: or els was cast out by his meanes, and so wandred among the beastes and ate hearbes and grasse.

(k) Daniel setteth the cause why God thus punished him. ¶ Cease frō prouoking god to anger any longer by thy sinnes: and where thou hast cruelly oppressed the poore, be now merciful vnto them in righteousnesse, so shall the errours of thy former life be repented.

26 Moreouer, where as it was sayd, that the stumpe of the roote of the tree should be left still: it betokeneth, that thy kingdome shall remayne whole vnto thee, after thou hast learned to knowe that the power commeth from heauen.

27 Wherfore, O king, let my counsel be acceptable vnto thee, and (l)breake of thy sinnes by righteousnesse, and thyne iniquities by mercie towarde the poore: lo, let there be a healing of thyne errour.

28 All these thinges touche the king Nabuchodonozor.

29 So after (m)twelue monethes, the king walked in the palace of the kingdome of Babylon.

(m) After that Daniel had declared this vision: this his pryde declared in the next verse, sheweth that it is not in mā to conuert to God, except his spirite moue him, seyng that these terrible threatninges could not moue him to repent.

30 And the king spake, & sayd: Is not this great Babylon that I haue buylt for the house of the kingdome by the might of my power, and for the honour of my maiestie?

31 Whyle these wordes were yet in the kinges mouth, there fell a voyce from heauen, saying: O king Nabuchodonozor, to thee be it spoken, Thy kingdome is departed from thee, 32 And thou shalt be cast out of mens companie, thy dwelling shalbe with the beastes of the fielde: so that thou shalt eate grasse like oxen, and seuen times shal passe ouer thee, vntil thou knowest that the highest hath power vpon the kingdome of men, and geueth it vnto whom it pleaseth hym.

33 The very same houre was this matter fulfilled vpon Nabuchodonozor, so that he was cast out of mens companie, & did eate grasse like oxen, and his body was wet with the dewe of heauen, till his heeres were growen as Egles [feathers] and his nayles like byrdes clawes. E

34 When this (n)time was past, I Nabuchodonozor lift vp myne eyes vnto heauen, and mine vnderstanding was restored vnto me: then gaue I thankes vnto the highest, I magnified & prayse hym that liueth for euermore, whose power is an euerlasting power, and his kingdome is from one generatiō to another.

(n) That is, the seuen times or yeres mencioned in the verse. 16. and 23. & 25.

35 And all they that dwel vpon the earth, are to be reputed as nothing, and according to his will he worketh in the armie of heauen, among the inhabitours of the earth: and there is none that may resist his hand, or say vnto him, What doest thou?

36 At the same time was myne vnderstanding geuen me againe, and I was [restored] to the honour of my kingdome, my glorie and my beautie was restored vnto me, & my counsellers and (o)princes sought vnto me, and I was established in my kingdome, & my glorie was augmented towarde me.

(o) By whom it seemeth he was put from his kingdome before.

37 Now therfore I (p) Nabuchodonozor prayse, and extol, & magnifie the king of heauen, whose workes are all trueth, & his wayes iudgement, and those that walke in pryde he is able to abase.

(p) He doth not onely prayse God for his deliuerance, but also confesseth his fault, that God only may haue the glorie, and man the shame, and that he may be exalted and man cast downe.

The. v. Chapter.

1 Balthasar king of Babylon, abusing the vessels of the temple, seeth an hande wryting in the wal. 8 The soothsayers called of the king, can not expounde the wryting. 13 Daniel is called, which readeth it, and interpreteth also. 30 Balthasar beyng slaine, Darius succedeth in his roome.

A (a) Daniel reciteth this historie of king Balthasar Evil Merodachs sonne, to shew gods iudgementes against the wicked, for the deliuerance of his church, and how the prophecie of Jeremi was true that they should be deliuered after seuentie yeres.

(b) That is, not alone, as commonly he was wont, but in a solemne banket, whereunto he receaued all his nobles to accompanie him.

(c) Meaning his graundfather.

1 KIng (a) Balthasar made a great feast to a thousand of his princes, and dranke wine (b) before the thousande.

2 And Balthasar when he had tasted the wine, commaunded to bring hym the golden and siluer vessels, whiche his (c) father Nabuchodonozor had brought from the temple in Hierusalem, that the king and his princes, and his wyues, and his concubines, might drinke therin.

3 So were brought the golde vessels that they had taken out of the temple of the Lordes house at Hierusalem: and the king, and his princes, his wyues, and his concubines dronke in them.

4 They dronke wine, & praysed the gods of golde, siluer, brasse, iron, wood, and stone.

5 In the very same houre there appeared fingers of a mans hande wryting right ouer (d) against the candlesticke vpon the plaster of the wall of the kinges palace, and the king sawe the knockles of the hande that wrote.

(d) That it might the better be seene.

6 Then chaunged the king his countenaunce, & his thoughtes troubled hym, so that the ioyntes of his loynes were loosed, and his (e) knees smote one against the other.

(e) So he that before condemned God, was moued by this sight to tremble for feare of gods iudgementes.

7 Wherfore the king cryed mightyly, that they should bring the soothsayers, Chaldees, & Wysardes: the king spake also to the Wise men of Babylon, & said, who so can reade this Wryting, & shewe me the interpretation thereof, shalbe clothed with purple, and haue a cheyne of golde about his necke, and shalbe the third ruler in the kingdome.

8 Upon this came al the kinges wise men, but they coulde neither reade the wryting, nor shewe the king the interpretation.

(f) This some thinke was his mother, other, his graundmother: of al likelyhod a woman of great age, that could remember the actes of Daniel.

9 Then was king Balthasar greatly troubled, and his countenaunce was chaunged in him, and his princes were astonied.

10 Now the (f) queene by reason of the talke of the king & his princes, came into the banket house: and the queene spake, and sayde, O king, lyue for euer: let not thy thoughtes trouble thee, and let not thy countenaunce be chaunged.

11 There is a man in thy kingdome that hath the spirite of the holy Gods within him: & in the dayes of thy father, light, and vnderstanding, & wysdome, like the wysedome of the gods, was founde in hym, whom the king Nabuchodonozor thy father, the king [I say] thy father made chiefe of the (g) wyse men, soothsayers, Chaldeans, and wysardes.

(g) In the chap. 4. b. and this declareth, both that this name was odious vnto him, and also that he did not vse these vile practises, because he was not among them when all were called.

12 Because that such an aboundaunt spirite, knowledge, and vnderstanding, to expound dreames, to open secretes, & to declare harde doubtes, was founde in him, yea euen in Daniel, whom the king named Baltassar: let Daniel be called, and he shal declare the interpretation.

13 Then was Daniel brought before the king: so the king spake vnto Daniel, and sayde, Art thou that Daniel, whiche art of the children of the captiuitie of Juda, whom my father the king brought out of Jurie?

14 I haue heard of thee, that thou hast the spirite of the holy gods, & that light and vnderstanding, and excellent wysdome is founde in thee.

15 Now haue there ben brought before me wyse men and soothsayers to reade this wryting, and to shewe me the interpretation therof: but they could not declare the interpretation of the thing.

16 Then heard I of thee that thou couldest shewe interpretations, and dissolue doubtes: nowe if thou canst reade his writting, & shew me the meaning therof, thou shalt be clothed with purple, and haue a cheyne of gold about thy necke, & be the thirde ruler in the kingdome.

17 Then Daniel aunswered, and sayd before the king, As for thy rewardes, kepe them to thy selfe, and geue thy giftes to another: yet I wil reade the writing vnto the king, and shewe him the interpretation.

(h) Whyle he read the writing, he declareth to the king his great ingratitude toward God, who could not be moued to geue him the glorie, considering his wonderfull workes toward his grandfather: and so forward that he sinneth, not of ignorance, but of malice.

18 O thou king, the most high god gaue vnto (h) Nabuchodonozor thy father a kingdome, and maiestie, and honour, & glorie.

19 And for the maiestie that he gaue him, al people, nations, and languages trembled and and feared before him: he slue whom he would, he smote whom it pleased him: againe, whom he would he set vp, and whom he list he put downe.

20 But because his heart was loftie, and his minde strengthened in pride, he was deposed from his kingly throne, and they toke his glory from him.

21 He was driuen out from the sonnes of men, his heart was made lyke the beastes, and his dwelling was with the wilde Asses, they fed him with grasse lyke Oxen, and his body was wet with the deawe of the heauen, till he knewe that the most hie God bare rule ouer the kingdome of men, and that he appointeth ouer it whom so euer he pleaseth.

22 And thou his sonne, O Balthasar, hast not submitted thyne heart, though thou knewest all these thinges:

23 But hast lift vp thy selfe against the Lorde of heauen, so that the vessels of his house were brought before thee, that thou and thy princes, with thy wyues and concubines, might drinke wine thereout: and thou hast praysed the gods of siluer and golde, of brasse and iron, of wood and stone, which neither see, heare, nor vnderstand: As for the God in whose hande consisteth thy breath and all thy wayes, thou hast not glorified him. D

24 (i) Then was the knockles of the hand sent from him, and hath written this writing.

25 And this the writing that he hath written: MENE (k) MENE, THECEL, VPHARSIN.

26 Now the interpretation of the thing is this: MENE, God hath numbred thy kingdome, and brought it to an ende.

27 THECEL, thou art wayed in the balaūce, and art founde wanting.

28 PHERES, thy kingdome is deuided, and geuen to the Medes, and Perses.

29 Then commaunded Balthasar, and they clothed Daniel with purple, and a chayne of golde about is necke, and made a proclamation concerning him, that he should be the third ruler in the kingdome.

30 The very same night was Balthasar the king of the Chaldees slaine.

31 And (l) Darius of the Medes toke the kingdome, being threescore & two yeres of age.

(i) After that God had so long time differred his anger, & patiently wayted for thyne amendement.

(k) This worde is doubled, not onely to exaggerate the certaintie of the matter, but also as some thinke, the one to signifie the ende of the king, the other the ende of the kingdome.

(l) Cyrus his sonne in lawe gaue him this title of honour, although Cyrus in effect had the dominion.

¶ The .vi. Chapter.

1 Daniel is made ruler ouer the lordes. 5 The imagination of an act against Daniel, 7 The proclamation of the act whereof Daniel is accused vnto the king as a transgressour. 16 He is put into a denne of lions by the commaundement of the king. 23 He is deliuered by faith in God. 24 Daniels accusers are put vnto the lions to be torne asunder. 26 Darius by the proclamation of a decree, magnified the God of Daniel.

A1 IT pleased Darius to set ouer his kingdome a hundred and twentie gouernours, which should be ouer the whole kingdome.

2 Aboue these he set three princes, of whom Daniel was one, that the gouernours might geue accomptes vnto them, and the king shoulde haue no damage.

3 Nowe this Daniel was preferred aboue the princes and gouerners, for the spirite of God was plenteous in him: so that the king was minded to set him ouer the whole realme.

4 Wherfore the rulers and gouernours (a) sought an occasion against Daniel concerning the kingdome, but they coulde finde none occasion nor fault: for he was so faithfull, that there was no blame nor fault founde in him.

5 Then saide these men, We shall finde none occasion against this Daniel, except we finde it against him concerning the lawe of his God.

6 Upon this went the princes and lordes together vnto the king, and saide this vnto him: King Darius, liue for euer.

7 All the rulers of thy kingdome, the officers and gouernours, the counsellers and dukes, haue consulted together to make a decree for the king, & to establish a statute, That who so desireth any petition either of any god or man within these thirtie dayes, except of thee O B king,

(a) Thus the wicked can not abide the graces of god in others, but seeke by al occasions to deface them, therefore against such assaultes there is no better remedie then to walke vprightly in the feare of God, and to haue good conscience.

king, he shalbe cast into the lions denne.
8 Now O king confirme the decree, and seale the writing, that it be not chaunged according to the lawe of the Medes and Persians, which altereth not.
9 Wherefore king Darius sealed the writing and decree.
10 Now when Daniel vnderstoode that he had sealed the writing, he went into his house, and the (b) windowes of his chamber towarde Hierusalem stoode open, there kneeled he downe vpon his knees three times a day, he made his petition, and prayed his God, as he dyd afore time.
11 Then these men assembled and found Daniel making his petition, and praying vnto his God.
12 So they came to the king, & spake before him concerning his cõmaundement, saying: O king, hast thou not sealed the decree, that within thirtie dayes whoso requireth his petition of any God or man, but onely of thy selfe O king, he shalbe cast into the denne of lions? The king aunswered and said, Yea it is true, according to the lawe of the Medes and Perses that altereth not.
13 Then aunswered they, and saide vnto the king: This Daniel which is of the children of the captiuitie of Juda, O king, regardeth neither thee, nor thy decree that thou hast sealed: but maketh his petition three times a day.
14 When the king heard these wordes, he was sore displeased with him selfe, and set his heart on Daniel to deliuer him, and he laboured till the sonne went downe, to deliuer him.
15 Then these men assembled vnto the king, and said vnto him: Knowe this O king, that the lawe of the Medes & Perses [is] that the commaundement & statute which the king maketh, may not be (c) altered.
16 Then the king commaunded, and they brought Daniel, and they cast him into the lions denne. Nowe the king spake vnto Daniel, & saide: Thy God whom thou alway seruest, euen he wyll deliuer thee.
17 And there was brought a stone, & laide vpon ẏ mouth of the denne, this the king sealed with his owne ring and with the signet of his princes, that the purpose concerning Daniel should not be chaunged.
18 So the king went into his palace, and remayned fasting, neither was there any instrumentes of musicke brought in before him, & his sleepe went from him.
19 But betimes in the morning at the breake of the day, the king arose, & went in all haste vnto the denne of the lions.
20 Now as he came nye vnto the denne, he cryed with a pitious voyce vnto Daniel, yea the king spake and saide vnto Daniel: O Daniel, thou seruaũt of the liuing God, is not thy God whom thou seruest alway, able to deliuer thee from ẏ lions?
21 Then

(b) Because he wouldo not by his silence shew that he consented to this wicked decree, he set open his windowes toward Hierusalem when he praied, both to stirre vp him selfe with the remembraunce of gods promises to his people, when they should pray toward that temple: & also that others might see, that he wouldo neuer consent in heart nor deede, for these fewe dayes, to any thing contrary to gods glory.

(c) Thus the wicked maintaine yᵉ lawes by constance & auctoritie, which is oftimes cyther lightnes or stubbernes, when as the innocentes thereby perishe: and therfore gouernours ought neither to feare, nor be ashamed to breake such.

21 Then Daniel saide vnto the king: O king, liue for euer.

22 My God hath sent his angel, which hath shut the lions mouthes, so that they might not hurt me, for myne (d) vngiltinesse is founde out before him: and as for thee O king, I neuer (e) offended thee.

23 Then was the king exceeding glad for him, & commaunded to take Daniel out of the denne: So Daniel was brought out of ỹ denne, & no maner of hurt was founde vpon him, for he (f) put his trust in his God.

24 And as for those men which had accused Daniel, the king commaunded to bring them, & to (g) cast them into the lions denne, them, their children, & their wyues: so the lions had the maistrie of them, and brake all their bones asunder or euer they came at the grounde of the denne.

25 After this, wrote king Darius vnto al people, nations, & tongues that dwelt in all landes: Peace be multiplied vnto you.

26 My commaundement is in all my dominion and kingdome, that men feare and stand in awe of Daniels God: for he is the liuing God which abideth euer, his kingdome shall not fayle, and his power is euerlasting.

27 It is he that deliuereth and saueth, he doth wonders and marueylous workes in heauen and in earth, he hath preserued Daniel from the power of the lions.

28 So this Daniel prospered in the raigne of Darius, and in the raigne of Cyrus of Persia.

The .vij. Chapter.

1 A vision of foure beastes is shewed vnto Daniel. The vision is interpreted of foure kingdomes of the worlde. 27 Of the euerlasting kingdome of Christe.

IN the first yere of Balthasar king of Babylon, sawe Daniel a dreame, & there were visions in his head vpon his bead: which (a) dreame he wrote, & declared the summe of the matter,

2 Daniel spake and saide: I sawe in my vision by night, and beholde, the foure (b) windes of heauen stroue vpon the great sea,

3 And foure great beastes came vp from the sea, one diuers from an other.

4 The first was as a (c) lion, and had Egles winges: I beheld till his winges were pluckt from him, and he lifted vp from the earth, & set vpon his feete like a man, & there was geuen him a mans heart.

5 Behold an other beast, [which was] the second, was lyke a (d) beare, and stoode vpon the one side: betwixt his teeth in his mouth he had three ribbes, and it was saide vnto him thus: Arise, eate vp much flesshe.

6 Then

d) Yone vprightnesse in this thing wherein I was charged, was approued of God.
e) For he did disobey the kings wicked commaundement to obey God, and so did no iniurie to ỹ king, who ought to commaunde nothing wherby god should be dishonoured.
f) Because he committed himselfe wholy vnto God, whose cause he did defend: he was assured that nothing but good could come vnto him, wherein we see the power of faith, as Heb. xi e.
g) A terrible example against all that contrary to their consciences make cruel lawes to destroy gods children: as also admonisheth princes how to punish such, when their wickednes is come to light though not in euery point, or with like circumstances, yet to reprate true wise.

a) Which signified that there should be horrible troubles and afflictions in the worlde in diuers quarters.

a) Whereas the people of Israel looked for a continuall quietnes after these seuenty yeres, as Jeremie had declared: he sheweth that this rest should not be a deliuerance from all troubles, but a beginning: and therefore moued them to looke for a continuall affliction, til ỹ Messias be brought & reuealed by whom they shoulde haue a spirituall deliuerance, and all the promises fulfilled. Wherefore they should haue a certaine token of the destruction of the babylonicall kingdome.

b) Which signified that there should be horrible troubles and afflictions in the worlde in diuers quarters.

c) The beastes are kingdomes, or monarchies: By the lion, the kingdome of Babylon is vnderstanded, which speedily vanquished the nations adioyning: but after his winges were pluckt and his kingdome taken away, he returned to the condition of a man, and no lion.

d) The second monarchie of the Persians and Medes.

6 Then I loked, and beholde, there was an other lyke vnto a (e) leopard, this had wynges as a foule, euen (f) foure vpon the backe: this beast had foure heads, and there was power geuen him.

7 After this I saw in a vision by night, & beholde, the fourth beast was grimme and horrible, and marueylous strong: it had great iron teeth, it deuoured & destroyed, & stamped the residue vnder his feete, it was vnlike ỹ other beastes that were before it, for it had (g) ten hornes.

8 As I considered the hornes, beholde, there came vp among them another litle horne, before whom there were three of the first hornes pluckt away: and behold, this horne had eyes lyke the eyes of a man, & a mouth speaking presumptuous thinges.

9 I beheld till the thrones were set vp, & the (h) auncient of dayes did sit: whose garment was white as snowe, and the heeres of his head lyke the pure wooll: his throne was like the firie flambe, and his (i) wheeles as burning fire.

10 There issued foorth a firie streame, and went out from before him: a thousand thousandes ministred vnto him, and ten thousand thousandes stoode before him: the iudgement was set, & the (k) bookes opened.

11 Then toke I heede therunto, because of the voyce of the proude words which the horne spake: I beheld till the beast was slaine, and his body destroyed, and geuen to be brent in the fire.

12 As concerning the other beastes, they had their dominion taken away, but their liues were prolonged for a certaine time and season.

13 I saw in visions by night, and behold there came (l) one in the cloudes of heauen, lyke the sonne of man: which went vnto the aũcient of dayes, before whom they brought him.

14 And he gaue him dominion & honour, and a kingdome, that al people, nations, and languages should serue him: his dominion is an euerlasting dominion which shall neuer be taken away, and his kingdome shall neuer be destroyed.

15 I Daniel was troubled in my spirite in the midst of my body, and the visions of my head made me afrayde.

16 I gate me vnto (m) one of them that stoode by, and asked him the trueth concerning all these thinges: so he tolde me, and made me vnderstand the interpretation of these thinges.

17 These great beastes which are foure, are foure kinges which shall arise out of the earth:

18 But the (n) high saintes shall receaue a kingdome, and possesse a kingdome for euer, euen for euer and euer.

19 After this, I required to knowe the trueth concerning ỹ fourth beast, which was so vnlyke the other beastes, and so horrible, whose teeth were of iron, and his nayles of brasse, which deuoured and destroyed, and stamped the residue vnder his feete:

20 [I desired] also [to knowe the trueth] as touching the ten hornes that he had vpon his head, and this other which came vp afterwarde, before whose face there fell downe three, which horne had eyes and a mouth that spake presumptuous thinges, and loked with a grimmer visage then his (o) felowes.

21 I beheld, and the same horne made battaile against the sainctes, yea & preuayled against them.

22 Until the auncient of dayes came that the iudgement was geuen to the high sainctes, and till the time came that the sainctes had the kingdome in possession.

23 He gaue me this aunswer: That fourth beast, shalbe the fourth kingdome vpon earth, it shalbe vnlike to all the kingdomes: it shall deuour, treade downe, and destroy all other landes.

24 The ten hornes, are ten kinges that shall arise out of that kingdome: after whom there shall stande vp another, which shalbe vnlike to the first, and he shall subdue three kinges:

25 And he shall speake wordes against the highest of all, he shall destroy the high sainctes, and thinke that he may chaunge times and lawes: they shalbe geuen into his hande vntill a time, and times, and the deuiding of a time.

26 But the iudgement shall sit, and they shall take away his dominion, to consume and destroy it vnto the ende.

27 And the kingdome and dominion, & the greatnes of the kingdome vnder the whole heauẽ, shalbe geuen to the (p) people of high sainctes, whose kingdome is an euerlasting kingdome, and all powers shal serue and obey it.

28 Hitherto the ende of the wordes: I Daniel had many cogitations [which] troubled me, & my coũtenaũce chaunged in me: but the wordes I kept still in my heart.

(e) The third monarchie of the Macedonians.
(f) That is, his foure chiefe captaines, which had the empire after his death deuided among them.
(g) That is, the Romane empire, which was as a mõster, & could not be compared to any beast, because the nature of none was able to expresse it.
(g) which signifie ten kinges, as verse. 24.
(h) That is, God, which was before all times.
(i) So was the maner in olde time of princes chrones, to be made so, that they might be moued and remoued the easelier.
(k) This is ment of the first comming of Christe, when as the will of God was plainly reuealed by his gospell.
(l) which is mẽt of Christ who had not yet taken vpon him mans nature, neither was the sonne of Dauid according to the flesh, as he was afterwarde, but appeared then a figure, and that in the cloudes.
(m) Meaning, of the angels, as verse. 2.
(n) That is, Gods elect people, which shall haue a kingdome and church to continue in for euer.
(o) That is, the three other empires.
(p) That is, to the church.

¶ The

¶ The .viii. Chapter.

1 A vision of a strife betweene a ramme and a hee goate. 20 The vnderstanding of the vision is, of the battaile betweene the king of Persia, and the king of the Grecians.

IN the third yere of the raigne of king Balthasar, there appeared a vision vnto me [euen] vnto me Daniel, (a) after that which I had seene in the beginning.

2 I saw in a vision (and when I saw it, I was in the palace of Susis, which is in the prouince of (b) Elam) and in the vision me thought I was by the riuer of Ulai.

3 Then I loked vp and saw, & beholde, there stoode before the riuer a (c) ramme which had two hornes: and these two hornes were hye, but (d) one was hyer then the other, & the hyest came vp last.

4 I saw that this ramme pushed with his hornes against the west, against the north, and against the south: so that no (e) beastes might stand before him, nor defend them from his power, but he did as him listed, and became great.

5 And as I considered, beholde there came a hee (f) goate from the west, ouer the whole earth, and touched not the grounde: and this goate had a (g) horne appeared betwixt his eyes.

6 And he came vnto the ramme that had the two hornes (whom I had seene standing by the riuer) and ranne fiercely vpon him with his might.

7 And I sawe him drawe nye vnto the ramme, being very fierce vpon him; yea he (h) smote the ramme and brake his two hornes, neither had the ramme so much strength as to stande before him: but he cast him downe to the grounde, trode him vnder his feete, & there was none able to deliuer the ramme out of his power.

8 Therefore the goate waxed exceeding great, & when he was at the strongest, his great (i) horne was broken: Then grew there other (k) foure notable ones in the steade of it, towarde the foure windes of the heauen.

9 And out of one of them came forth a litle (l) horne, which waxed very great toward the (m) south, toward the (n) east, and toward the (o) pleasaunt lande.

10 (p) It grewe vp vnto the hoast of heauen, whereof it did cast some downe to the grounde, and of the starres also, and trode them vnder foote.

11 Yea, it grewe vp against the (q) prince of the hoast, from whom the (r) dayly [sacrifice] was taken away, and the places of his sanctuarie caste downe.

12 And power was geuen vnto it ouer the dayly [sacrifice] for the iniquitie, and it shall (s) cast downe the trueth to the grounde: and thus shall it do, and prosper.

13 Vpon this, I heard one of the sainctes speaking, and one of the (t) sainctes spake vnto (u) Palmoni, saying: how long shal the vision of the dayly [sacrifice] and of the iniquitie of desolation [endure,] to geue both the sanctuarie and the power to be troden vnder foote?

14 And he aunswered me: Vnto the (x) euening and the morning, two thousand and three hundred: then shal the sanctuarie be cleansed.

15 Now when I Daniel had seene this vision, and sought for the vnderstanding of it: beholde, there stoode before me (y) like the similitude of a man.

16 And I heard a mans voyce (z) betweene Ulai, which cryed, and saide: O Gabriel (aa) make this man vnderstande the vision.

17 So he came and stoode by me: but I was afraide at his comming, and fell downe vpō my face: Then said he vnto me, Vnderstand O thou sonne of man: for at the (b) time of the ende this vision [shalbe.]

18 Now as he was speaking vnto me, I fell in a slumber vpon my face to the grounde: but he touched me, and set me vp in my place.

19 And he saide, Beholde, I wyll shewe thee what shalbe in the last wrath: for in the time appoynted it shalbe fulfilled.

20 The ramme which thou sawest hauing two hornes, is the king of the Medes and Perses, 21 And the goate, is the king of Grecia: and the great horne that is betwixt his eyes, that is the first king.

22 But where as it brake, & foure other rose vp in the steade: [it signifieth,] that out of this people shall stande vp foure kingdomes, but not so mightie as it.

23 And

(a) After the Caldean visions he cōmeth to extreme particular visions, as touching the destruction of the monarchie of the Persians and Medes, and the kingdome of the Grecians, and Antichrist. Also the last instrument is spoken vnto.

(b) Elam is Persis.

(c) That is, the kingdome of the Persians and Medes conioyned together.

(d) Meaning Cyrus, who after grewe greater in power then Darius his vncle and father in lawe.

(e) No kinges nor nations.

(f) Meaning, Alexander, that came with great expedition.

(g) Though he were in the name of all Grecia, yet he bare the title and dignitie of the generall captaine, so that the kingdome was attributed to him: which is vnderstood by this horne.

(h) Alexander ouercame Darius in two battailes, and so tooke the kingdomes of the Medes & Persians.

(i) Alexanders great power was spoken: for when he had ouercome all the east, he thought to returne toward Grecia, to subdue them that after had rebelled, and so ended vp the warre.

(k) For Cassander had Macedonia, Seleucus Babylon, Antigonus Asia the lesse, and Ptolemeus Egypt.

Antiochus Epiphanes.

(l) Toward Egypt.

(m) Iudea.

(n) Antiochus also waged warre against the host of God.

(o) That is, Iudea.

(p) That is, Antiochus.

(q) That is, God.

(r) He laboured to abolishe gods religion, and to cast downe his seruice.

(s) This horne shal abolishe for a time the true doctrine, and so corrupt gods seruice.

(t) One of the angels.

(u) That is, a secrete one, or a marueylous one, whereby is vnderstanded Christe the reuealer of all secretes.

(y) That is, Christe.

(z) That is, betweene the banckes of the riuer Ulai.

(b) That is, the vision shalbe fulfilled hereafter in time conuenient.

23 And in the ende of their kingdome, when the wicked are come to the full, a king of a (c) fierce countenaunce, and vnderstanding harde sentences, shall stand vp.

(c) That is, Antiochus, who should be impudent, shameles, subtill and craftie.

24 His power shalbe mightie, but not in (d) his strength, & he shall destroy wonderfully, he shall prosper & practise, and destroy the (e) mightie and the holy people.

(d) That is, not like Alexanders strength.
(e) Both the Gentiles that dwell about him, and the Iewes.

25 And through his policie also he shall cause craft to prosper in his handes, he shall extoll him selfe in his heart, and in prosperitie he shall destroy many, & many one shalbe put to death in his wealthinesse: he shall stande vp against the (f) prince of princes, but he shalbe destroyed without (g) hande.

(f) Meaning, against God.
(g) God would destroy him with a notable plague. 2. Mach. 9.b.

26 And the vision of the (h) euening and the morning, which is declared, is true: therfore seale thou vp the vision, for it shalbe after many dayes.

(h) Reade Gen. 1.4.

27 Upon this was I Daniel feeble, so that I lay sicke [certaine] dayes: but when I rose vp, I went about ỹ kinges busines, and was astonied at the vision, neuertheles, no man vnderstoode it.

The .ix. Chapter.

1 Daniel desireth to haue that prefourmed of God, which he hath promised concerning the returne of the people from their banishment in Babylon. 15 A true confession. 20 Daniels prayer is harde. 21 Gabriel the angel expounded vnto him the vision of the threescore and ten weekes. 24 The annoynting of Christe. 25 The building againe of Hierusalem vnder Nehemia. 26 The death of Christe.

A 1 (a) Otherwyse called Astiages.

N the first yere of Darius the sonne of (a) Ahasuerus, which was of the seede of the Medes, & was made king ouer the (b) realme of the Chaldees,

(b) For Cyrus led with ambition, went about warres in other countreys, & therfore Darius had the title, though Cyrus were king in effect.

2 Euen in the first yere of his raigne, I Daniel vnderstoode by (c) bookes the number of the yeres, wherof the Lorde spake vnto Jeremie the prophete, that he woulde accomplishe seuentie yeres in the desolation of Hierusalem.

(c) Though he were an excellent prophete, yet he daily encreased in knowledge by reading the scriptures.

3 And I turned my face vnto the Lord God, and sought by prayer and supplication, With fasting, sackcloth, and asshes.

4 I prayed vnto the Lorde my God, & made my confession, saying: O Lorde God, great and fearefull, Which kepeth couenaunt and mercie With them that loue "him and kepe his commaundementes:

" thee.

5 We haue sinned and haue committed iniquitie, and haue done wickedly, yea we haue rebelled, & haue departed from thy preceptes, & from thy iudgementes.

6 We woulde not obey thy seruauntes the prophetes, that spake in thy name to our kinges and princes, to our forefathers, and to all the people of the lande.

7 O Lorde, righteousnesse belongeth vnto thee, vnto vs open shame, as is come to passe this day vnto euery man of Juda, and to them that dwel at Hierusalem, yea vnto all Israel, whether they be farre or nye throughout all the landes whither thou hast driuen them, because of their offences that they haue done against thee.

B

8 Yea O Lorde, vnto vs, to our kinges & princes, to our forefathers that haue offended thee, belongeth open shame.

9 Unto the Lorde our God pertayneth compassion and forgeuenesse, though we haue rebelled against him.

10 And we haue not obeyed the (d) voyce of the Lorde our God, to walke in his lawes which he layde before vs, by the hande of his seruauntes the prophetes.

(d) He sheweth that they rebell against God, which serue him not according to his commaundement and worde.

11 Yea all Israel haue transgressed and gone backe from thy lawe, so that they haue not hearkened vnto thy voyce: Wherefore the (e) curse and oth that is written in the lawe of Moyses the seruaunt of God, against whom we haue offended, is poured vpon vs.

(e) As Deute. 27, c. of the curse confirmed by an oth.

12 And he hath confirmed his wordes, which he spake against vs and against our iudges that iudged vs, to bring vpon vs such a great plague as neuer was vnder heauen, lyke as it is now come to passe in Hierusalem.

13 Yea, all this plague as it is written in the lawe of Moyses, is come vpon vs: yet made we not our prayers before the Lorde our God, that we might turne againe from our wickednes, and vnderstand thy trueth. C

14 Therfore hath the Lord watched vpon the plague, and brought it vpon vs: for for the Lorde our God is righteous in all his workes which he doth: for we would not hearken vnto his voyce.

15 And now O Lord our God, thou that with a mightie hande hast brought thy people out of the lande of Egypt to get thy selfe a name, which remayneth this day, we haue sinned, we haue done wickedly.

(f) That is, according to all the merciefull promises, and the performance thereof.

16 O Lorde, according to all thy (f) righteousnes, I beseche thee let thyne anger and thy wrath be turned away from thy citie of Hierusalem, thy holy hill: for because of our sinnes, and for the wickednesse of our fathers, Hierusalem and thy people are a reproche to all them that are about vs.

17 Now therefore O our God heare the prayer of thy seruaunt, and his intercession: O let thy face (g) shine ouer thy sanctuarie that lyeth waste, for the (h) Lordes sake.

(g) Shew thy selfe fauorable.

(h) That is, for thy Christes sake, in whom thou hast accept all our prayers.

18 O my God, encline thyne eare & hearken, open thyne eyes, beholde howe we be desolated, yea and the citie also which is called after thy name: for we do not present our prayers before thee in our (i) owne righteousnes, but in thy great mercies.

(i) Declaring that the godly flee only vnto gods mercies, and renounce their owne workes, when they seeke for remission of their sinnes.

19 O Lorde heare, O forgeue Lorde, O Lorde (k) consider and do it, defer not, for thyne owne sake O my God: because thy name is called vpon thy citie, & vpon thy people.

(k) Thus he would not constreine him selfe to any determinate of wordes, when he was so led with a feruent zeale, considering gods promise made to be gyuen in respect of the Church, & for the auancement of gods glory.

20 As I was yet a speaking at my prayers, knowledging myne owne sinnes & the sinnes of my people Israel, presenting so myne intercession before the Lord my God for the holy hill of my God:

21 Yea, while I was yet speaking in my prayer, the man Gabriel (whom I had seene afore in the vision) came fleeing, & touched me about the time of the euening oblation:

(l) He alludeth to Jeremies prophecie, whereby he declared there should be seuentie yeres of the Jewes captiuitie for the execution of gods iudgemẽt: but now gods mercie should seuen folde exceede his iudgemẽt, in geuing thẽ seuentie times seuen yeres of a happier state though not altogether voide of affliction: which amounteth to foure hundreth & ninetie yeres, euen to the comming of Christe, & so then it should continue for euer.

22 And he enfourmed me, & talked with me, and saide: O Daniel, I am nowe come foorth to geue thee knowledge & vnderstanding.

23 At the beginning of thy supplications, the commaundement came foorth, and I am come to shewe thee, for thou art greatly beloued: therefore vnderstande the matter and consider the vision.

24 (l) Seuẽtie weekes are determined ouer thy people, & ouer thy holy citie, to finish the wickednes, and to seale vp ẏ sinnes, and to reconcile the iniquitie, & to bring in euerlasting righteousnes, to seale vp the vision and prophecie, & to annoynt the most holy.

25 Knowe therfore and vnderstand, that (m) from the going foorth of the commaũdement, to bring againe the [people] and to builde Hierusalem, vnto Messiah the prince, there shalbe seuen (n) weekes and threescore and two weekes: and the streete shalbe built againe, and the wall, [euen] in the (o) straitnes of time.

(m) From the time that Cyrus gaue the leaue to depart.

(n) And these seuen weekes make fourtie nine yeres, whereof three are referred to the time of ẏ laying of the foundation of the temple, & 46 to ẏ building of it, as John. 2. D.

(o) That is, in a troublous time.

26 After these (p) threescore & two weekes shall Messiah be slaine, & (q) not for him selfe: and the people of the (r) prince that shal come, shall destroy the citie and the sanctuarie, and the ende thereof shalbe with a fludde, and vnto the ende of the battel it shalbe destroyed by desolatiõs.

(p) Counting from the first yere of Dertius, who gaue the seconde commaundement for the building of ẏ temple, are 62. weekes, which make 434. yeres: which time passed and the temple repaired, the Iewes had the libertie of building of the temple to the battaile of Cypsile. In the last weeke of the seuẽtie, shall Christe preach, shew miracles, and suffer.

27 He shall (s) confirme the couenaunt with many for one weeke, and in the midst of the weeke he shall cause the sacrifice and the oblation to (t) ceasse, and for the (u) ouerspreading of the abhominations, he shal make it desolate, [euen] vntil the consummation determined shalbe powred vpon the desolate.

(q) That is, not for any his owne desertes or offences, as Esai. 53. b.

(r) Meaning Titus Vespasianus sonne, who should come & destroy both the temple and the people without all hope of recouery.

(s) By preaching the gospell, he confirmed his promise: first to ẏ Jewes, & after to ẏ Gentiles.

(t) That is, by Christes sacrifice vpon the crosse all ceremonies of the lawe were fulfilled, full remission of sinnes purchased, so that there remayned no more oblation or offering for sinnes, as Hebr. 10. c.

¶ The .x. Chapter.

1 There appeareth vnto Daniel a man clothed in linnen. 11 Which sheweth him wherfore he was sent.

(a) He noteth this third yere, because it was the building of the temple began to be hindred by Cambises Cyrus sonne, when the father made warre in Asia minor against the Scythians, which was a discouraging to the godly, and a great feare to Daniel.

IN the (a) third yere of Cyrus king of Persia, there was shewed vnto Daniel, otherwyse called Baltassar, a matter, yea a true matter, but it is yet a long time vnto it: he vnderstoode the matter, and perceaued what the vision was.

2 At the same time, I Daniel mourned for the space of three weekes of dayes.

3 I ate no pleasaunt bread, as for flesh and wine there came none within my mouth: no, I did not once annoynt my selfe till the whole three weekes of dayes were fulfilled.

4 Upon the foure & twentith day of the first moneth, I was by the side of that great riuer, [euen] Hiddekel.

5 I lift vp myne eyes, and loked: and beholde a man clothed in linnen, whose loynes were girded vp with fine golde of Uphaz.

6 His body was lyke the thurkis stone, his

(u) Meaning that Hierusalem and the sanctuarie should be vtterly destroyed for their rebellion against God. Or some reade, that the plagues shalbe so great, that they shall all be astonished at them.

his face to loke vpon was lyke lightening, his eyes as lampes of fire, his armes and feete were lyke in colour to puilished brasse, and the voyce of his wordes was lyke the voyce of a multitude.

7 And I Daniel alone sawe this vision, for the men that were with me saw not the vision: but a great fearefulnes fell vpon them, so that they fled away and hid them selues.

8 Therefore I was left alone, and saw this great vision, and there remayned no strength in me: for my colour was turned in me into corruption, and I reteyned no strength.

9 Yet heard I the voyce of his wordes: and when I heard the voyce of his words, I fell astonied vpon my face and my face toward the earth.

10 And beholde a hande touched me, which set me vp vpon my knees, and vpon the paulmes of my handes.

11 And he saide vnto me: O Daniel, thou welbeloued man, take good heede to the wordes that I say vnto thee, and stand in thy place: for vnto thee am I nowe sent. And when he had said these wordes vnto me, I stoode vp trembling.

12 Then saide he vnto me, Feare not Daniel: for since the first day that thou didst set thyne heart to vnderstand, and to chasten thy selfe before thy God, thy wordes were heard, and I am come for thy wordes.

13 But the (b) prince of the kingdome of Persia withstoode me one and twentie dayes: but lo, Michael one of the chiefe princes came to helpe me, & I remained there by the kinges of Persia.

14 And I am come to shew thee what shall come vnto thy people in the latter dayes: for it wyll be long yet or the vision be fulfilled.

15 Now whē he had spoken these words vnto me, I cast downe my head to the grounde, and held my tongue.

16 And beholde, there touched my lippes one very lyke vnto a man: then opened I my mouth and spake, and saide vnto him that stoode before me, O my lorde, by the vision my ioyntes are turned out of [their] place, and I haue reteyned no strength.

17 For howe can the seruaunt of this my Lorde, talke with my Lorde [being] such a one? And as for me, straight way there remayned no strength in me, neither is there breath left in me.

18 Then there came againe and touched me one lyke the appearaunce of a man, and he strengthened me:

19 And saide, O man greatly beloued feare not, peace be vnto thee, be strong and of good courage. So when he had spoken vnto me, I was strengthened and saide, Speake on my Lorde: for thou hast strengthened me.

20 Thus saide he: Knowest thou wherefore I am come vnto thee? now wyll I returne to fight with the prince of the Perses: assoone as I go forth, lo, the (c) prince of Greke lande shall come.

21 Neuertheless, I wyll shew thee that that is noted in the scripture of trueth: and there is none that helpeth me in these thinges, but (b) Michael your prince.

(b) Meaning Cambises, who raigned in his fathers absence, did not onely hinder thus long the building of the temple, but would haue further raged, if God had not sent me to resist him: and therfore haue I prayed for the profite of the Churche

(c) Meaning, that he would not onely trouble the rage of Cambises, but also the other kinges of Persia, by Alexander the king of Macedonia.

(b) For this angel was appointed for the defence of the Churche, vnder Christ, who is the head therof.

¶ The .xj. Chapter.

1 I prophecie of the kinges of Persia. 3 Of the kingdome of Grece. 5 Of the kingdome of Egypt, and of the bonde thereof. 15 Of the battaile with the kingdome of Syria.

1  Nd in the first yere of Darius of Media (a) I stoode to comfort him and to strength him.

(a) The angel assureth Daniel, that god hath geuen him power to performe these thinges, seeing he appointed him to assist Darius when he ouercame the Chaldeans.

2 And nowe wyll I shewe thee the trueth: Behold, there shall stand vp yet (b) three kinges in Persia, but the fourth shalbe farre richer then they all: and by his strength & by his richesse he shall stirre vp (c) all against the realme of Greke lande

(b) Whereof Cyrus was the first, the second Cambises & third Darius Histaspis, the fourth Xerxes.

3 Then shall there arise yet a (d) mighty king, that shal rule with great dominion, and do what him list.

(c) For he raysed vp all the east countreys to fight against the Grecians: and albeit he had in his armie nine hundred thousand men, yet in foure battailes he was discomfited and fled away with shame. (d) That is, Alexander the great.

4 And when he shal stand vp, his kingdome shalbe (e) broken, & shalbe deuided toward the foure windes of the heauen, and not toward his posteritie, nor according to his dominion which he ruled: for his kingdome shalbe pluckt vp, euen for others besides these.

(e) Reade. Chap. 8. b.

5 And the (f) king of the south shalbe mightie, and (g) [one] of his princes, and he shall preuayle against him, and beare rule: his dominion shalbe a great dominion.

(f) To wit, Ptolemeus king of Egypt.

(g) That is, Antiochus sonne of Seleucus & one of Alexanders princes shalbe more mightie, for he shall haue both Asia and Syria.

6 And

6 And in the ende of yeres, they shalbe ioyned together, & the kinges (h) daughter of the south shall come to the kyng of the north for to make an agreement, but she shall not retayne the power of the (i) arme, neither shall he continue nor his arme: but she shalbe deliuered [to death] and they that brought her, and he that begat her, and he that comforted her in these times.

7 But out of the bud of her (k) rootes, shal one stande vp in his steede, whiche shall (l) come with an armie, and shall enter into the fortresse of the kyng of the north, and do with them [as he list] and shall preuayle.

8 And shall also cary captiues into Egypt their gods, with their molten images, with their pretious vessels of siluer and of gold, and he shall continue more yeres then the kyng of the north.

9 So the kyng of the south shall come into his kyngdome, and shall returne into his owne lande.

10 Wherfore his sonnes shalbe styrred (m) vp, and shall gather together a mightie great hoast of people, & (n) one shal come and ouerflowe and passe through: then shall he turne agayne and be (o) stirred vp at his fortresse.

11 Then ỹ king of the south shalbe angry, and shal come forth to fight with him [euen] with the king of the north, for he shall set forth a great multitude, & the multitude shalbe geuen into his hande.

12 Then the multitude shalbe proude, and their heartes shalbe lifted vp, for he shall cast downe thousandes: but he shall not still preuayle.

13 For the (p) kyng of the north shall returne, and shal set forth a greater multitude then afore, and shall come forth (after certayne yeres) with a mightie armie and great riches.

14 And at the same time there shal (q) many stande vp against the kyng of the south, so that the (r) seditious children of thy people also shall exalt themselues to establishe the vision, but they shal fal.

15 So the kyng of the north shal come & cast vp amount, & take the strong cities: and the (s) armes of the south shall not resist, neither his chosen people, neither shal there be any strength to withstand.

16 And when he commeth, he shall handle him as he list, and no man shal stand against him: he shall stande in the pleasaunt (t) lande, whiche by his hande shalbe consumed.

17 Agayne, he shall set his face to enter with the power of his whole kyngdome, and his confederates with hym, thus shall he do: and he shall geue hym the (u) daughter of women to destroy her, but she shall not stande [on his side] neither before hym.

18 After this shall he turne his face vnto the (x) iles, and shall take many: but a (y) prince shall cause his shame to light vpon him, beside that, he shall cause his owne shame to turne vpon himselfe.

19 For he shal turne his face toward the fortes of his owne lande: but he shalbe (z) ouerthrowen and fall, and be no more founde.

20 Then shall (aa) stande vp in his place a rayser of taxes [in] the glory of the kingdome, & after a fewe dayes he shalbe destroyed, neither in wrath nor in battel.

21 In his steede there shal stande vp a (bb) vyle person, to whom they shal not geue the honour of the kingdome: but he shall come in peaceably and obtaine the kingdome with flatteries.

22 And the (cc) armes shalbe ouerflowed with a flud before hym, and shalbe broken, & also the prince of the couenaunt.

23 And after the (dd) leage made with him, he shall worke deceiptfully: for he shall come vp, and ouercome with a (ee) small people.
